OLIVET NAZARENE COLLEGE

Just a Moment!

. . . you men and women of Olivet. In the way of a forward, don't look around too long for some definite theme. Throughout these pages, if there is a theme, it is you. We have tried, in this edition, to personalize; tried to put in its permanence suggestions that will bring . . .

. . . again keen memories of fun-filled as well as serious moments that have characterized your life here together. This is your biography, you who have worked and played through these college months of forty-two and forty-three.

To

Grace McCullough

She has taught us that the study of literature is not essentially different from the reading of literature, that study intensifies and enriches the experience of reading, and the greatest profit of a literature course is in helping students to find more often this enjoyment.

OUR TRIBUTE

WE GIVE tribute to you who have left your alma mater, left these college ways, left to take the torch flung from the hand of those who sleep in Flander's field; those who have put within your eyes that gleam of freedom's right to champion all.

Your belief in life is strong, yet, because that which you have counted above life is at stake, you face the shock and shell of war; and for this high cause you shall not be afraid to die.

And we, who shall remain within the shadow of these friendly walls, pledge ourselves to help to mold again a shattered world of dreams into a reconstructed better age. Be it ours to point the way to the long-sought shore of peace. Be it ours to raise high the banner of the Prince of Peace till He, Himself, shall some day lead the throng.

COLLEGE

Education with a

Christian Purpose

THESE are dark, difficult, but decisive days; days that try our souls, test our mettle, but prove our character; days that may make us or break us. The world is in the throes of the most gigantic, brutal, and destructive war that civilization has ever known; a global and total war; a war that touches every nation, institution and individual in the entire world; and it is being waged on the land, from the air, and on the sea.

What shall be our reaction to these tragic times? We must not try to laugh it off nor cast it aside and refuse responsibility. This would be fatal. Nor will we give up and say that it is a hopeless struggle, that we cannot succeed; therefore we shall not try. This attitude would likewise be disastrous. The only alternative left is for us to gird ourselves like men and fight, to come to grips with those influences that would defeat our high and holy purpose in life. We can win if we attack, and attack, and attack.

This is the purpose of the administration for your alma mater in these trying times. We have climbed over the smouldering ruins of the past to heights undreamed of, and we shall use these times as stepping stones to a better and greater Olivet Nazarene College. We shall strengthen our stakes and lengthen our cords, and when the present holocaust is over and brighter days have dawned for the world there shall still be coming from the halls of our beloved college, in ever increasing numbers, young men and young women trained in mind and filled with love and a passion to serve mankind and to point others to Him who said, "I am the way, the truth, and the life".

Yours Truly

A. H. Parrott

ADMINISTRATION

FACULTY

Administrative Officers

Dr. A. L. Parrott came to Olivet College in September of 1938. During the five years of his executive work thus far the college has progressed so rapidly in all of its aspects that only the highest commendation is in order. Besides the general supervision of the college, special oversight of the various departments of instruction and academic administration, Dr. Parrott's time is also devoted to church and civic affairs in which he is an active participant.

As public relations director Dr. Lawrence Howe has a position that is quite demanding. It is he who contacts all prospective students and informs them of their possibilities here. With his rare sense of solid thinking and a keen sense of refined humor he is in demand as a lecturer wherever he is known. His activities, however, during the past year have been markedly minimized because of an illness from which he is now recovering.

Always sympathetic and understanding with youth, Professor J. F. Leist, Treasurer and Business Manager of the college, might be characterized as vertically diminutive but virtually dynamic.

In his charge, besides having all the financial arrangements of the college go through his hands, are all student problems. Student financial problems are especially within his jurisdiction. Few are the days that his office does not have a waiting list.

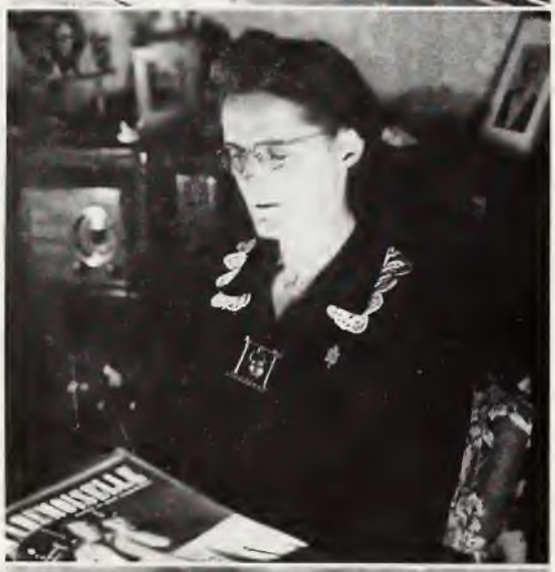
From a heavily-filed office of transcripts, grade slips, teacher applications and multitudinous data of student and alumni, Professor Linford A. Marquart acts as guide and final judge of all school registration.

Not only has he pushed into the maze and solved our problems successfully, but he has of late brought into effect a new system which decidedly facilitates more rapid and efficient registration.

Outside of his official field he functions as counselor, as a general board of information and as the school's critical informant of contemporary world polity.

DEANS



As Dean of the School of Liberal Arts, Carl S. McClain is the hub of the working machinery of the school. Some of his many duties include the coordination of student activity and administrative rulings, direction of all student employment, and sympathetic advising of Reserve men and Draftees.

While these duties constitute some of his activity, his main effort is in relation to the scholastic standing of the college as an institution.

As personal advisers to the men and women of the college, Deans Mildred E. Durigg and Ronald D. Jones are active in guiding the social life and solving the more intimate problems that arise.

It is a well-known fact that Dean Jones is never too busy to assist anyone who is seeking counsel. He is a man whose genial spirit and frankness has won for him the confidence of the entire student body.

Characterized by helpfulness and kindly understanding, Dean Durigg has one of the most difficult positions in the college in that she is responsible for the welfare of all the girls in the dormitory. Also she fills the important position of dining hall hostess.

Student Administration

With ear to the ground, the Student Council sincerely attempts to make the voice of Mr. John Q. Student Body clearly audible.

The primary concern of the Council this year was the formulation of a well-knit but elastic constitution for the benefit of the future's offerings.

Other innovations of major importance were the acquisition of new bleachers for the gymnasium, a tarpaulin for the gym floor and an official school Roll of Honor for the listing of the names of Olivet's service men.

In its direction of the group life of the campus, the Council, with the president presiding, holds one chapel service during each week; presents regular feature entertainment after dinner in the dining hall; and sponsors formal dinner affairs.

What Life Deeply and Honestly Means

Holding the chair in the department of Philosophy and Theology is Dr. Stephen S. White. Dr. White's scholarship and deep insight into the more complex problems of his major field has commanded distinction in the Nazarene religious and educational thinking. Recently he published, upon request of the Nazarene Commission on Christian Service Training, a book entitled "Essential Christian Beliefs." During the summer of 1942, Professor White received official confirmation of his acceptance as a member of the American Philosophical Society, Western Division. In his relationship with the students Dr. White is sponsor of the Platonian Society and the Senior Class of the college.

His classes, characterized by his broad knowledge of his field of instruction and an original approach to the studying of the same, Dr. Lawrence H. Howe holds a unique place in the molding of the student picture of Religion. Church History, Biblical Literature and Practical Theology are his special fields of instruction.

Treasurer of the college and adviser of the upper divisional Bible School students, Professor J. F. Leist is characterized by his quick, active mind and his unceasing energy. Professor Leist is an instructor of Sociology in the college and of classes of Bible Literature in the Bible School.

Rev. W. C. Morris, pastor of the Olivet College Church, is a professor in the Bible College. Respected for his practical application of the Christian philosophy, Rev. Morris has made himself indispensable to the school through his wide understanding of people and their problems—a characteristic doubtlessly intensified by his experience as a missionary to India.

Search for Truth

Dr. Clinton J. Bushey is a veteran here. As Professor of Zoology, he began his instruction as far back as 1925. Professor Bushey is a graduate of Taylor University and the University of Michigan. His special field of research and instruction is Entomology.

This year, under the hand of Professor D. J. Strickler, the Department of Biology has shown a decided improvement. Not only has the department had a large enrollment, but the rooms have all been newly redecorated and many new instruments added. In keeping with the modern outlook, he uses to a marked degree visual aids in his teaching. Professor Strickler also holds the responsible position of faculty adviser of the Yearbook.

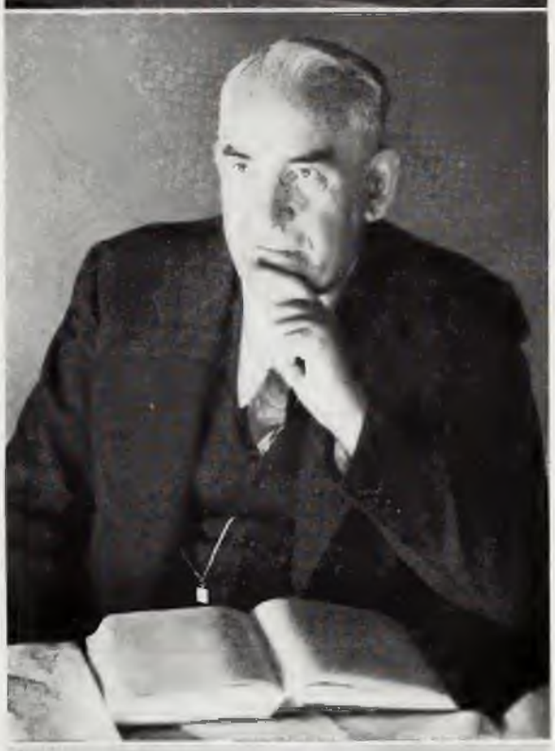
The chemistry laboratory has so advanced that the initiative, ingenuity and hard work that Professor Harold D'Arcy has exhibited cannot be praised too highly. As Professor of Chemistry, Mr. D'Arcy also teaches Physics and is responsible for the strong student interest in the field of photography.

Professor of Mathematics, David Rice is a graduate of Asbury College and the University of Illinois, and a veteran of the first World War. Professor Rice, besides teaching at the college, is an instructor in the Government Defense Program. His field of specialization is Electronics.

Mr. Keith St. John is an instructor of science in the Academy. This year he is teaching Biology and assisting in Chemistry.

Behind The Stage

A man with a broad knowledge of the fertile past and an eye keen to the understanding of contemporary events is Professor Linford A. Marquart, Head of the department of History and Social Sciences. Mr. Marquart came to Olivet in 1940 from Eastern Nazarene College. He is, within the denomination, regarded as the first authority on the history of the Holiness Movement. He holds a life membership in the National Education Association and is a national trustee of the "League of Evangelical Students."



Professor Greer has the distinguished position of holding the longest tenure of any teacher in any of the scattered Nazarene schools. His special field of study is Ancient and Medieval History. Since his hobby is gardening, you will find few victory gardens ahead of his.

This is Miss Kathryn Howe's first year with us. As an alumnus of the college, Miss Howe was salutatorian of her class. Upon completion of her work at the University of Illinois, she was one of two selected for a special graduate award in the Supervision of Education. She is a member of the American Association of University Women.

Also an alumnus, Miss Ruth Gilley is the School Librarian, and instructor of History in the Academy. Before coming to Olivet, Miss Gilley had wide teaching experience in Kentucky and Ohio. She too is a member of the American Association of University Women.

Unknown Tongues

After a year's leave of absence, Professor Leonard Goodwin, Chairman of the Department of Foreign Languages, has returned to take up again his old post. Mr. Goodwin has completed his residence work at the University of Illinois and is now working on the thesis necessary before taking a Doctor's Degree. Under his direction, Spanish is being offered in the curriculum for the first time.

Miss Marion Davidson is Professor of French. She is a member of the Graduate Society of Phi Delta Lambda. She took her Master's degree from the University of Illinois in 1940.

The languages of Greek and German are the teaching subjects of Professor Ruth Fess, although her special field of concentration is Latin. In addition to her work in foreign languages, Miss Fess also teaches English Composition. Her activities with student organizations include the sponsoring of the "Glimmerglass," and the holding of the position of Literary Critic on the Aurora staff. She too is a member of Phi Delta Lambda.

Miss Ruth Bump, formerly of Eastern Nazarene College, is instructor of English in the Academy. She also has the distinction of attaining membership in the Society of Phi Delta Lambda.

Belles Lettres

Head of the English Department, Dean C. S. McClain, an alumnus of both the academy and the College, has held either a teaching or administrative post in the school since 1923. Such narrow fields of concentration as Shakespeare and Creative Writing are characteristic of his offerings in the curriculum. Prior to this year he has been active in directing the debating forces of the school. Because of conflicting circumstances, this activity has been temporarily eliminated.

Keenly and comprehensively acquainted with the general field of English literature, Miss Grace McCullough carries a very full schedule of the general survey courses, and some work in the field of composition. A graduate of Grove City College, Miss McCullough has been with the college seven years.

A refreshing addition to the campus of Olivet this year has been Miss Louise McKinley as Head of the Speech Department. Her engaging personality and thorough knowledge of the art of rolling the r's have done much to make the department more prominent. Several recitals by individual students and three Chi Sigma Rho group recitals have been presented under her direction.

Desiderata

Ed Brodien—

Indispensably active—giver of heat and fixer of faucets, plus a hundred other things—Overseer of a snappy staff and titled caretaker of the college; this is he whom we familiarly know as Ed. Easy-going, accommodating and downright decent in every way.

Stewart Hager—

The "Chef" has the very difficult position of trying to satisfy the critical palates of approximately 150 connoisseurs of the table. Giving and "taking" it is "all in a day's work" for the capable Mr. Hager.

Mrs. Kampe—

Not so much "Nook Cook" as friendly counselor of girls—this mellowed mother whose duties involved culinary responsibilities at the Hotel Kankakee before her promotion to Olivet's "Jack and Jill" spot. Gracious, dependable and efficient—a Christian gentlewoman.

HIGH MOGULS

We are the senior class. It's ours to don the cap and gown. In a very marked sense we are joyous over the fact that the scroll will soon be ours; but our steps are a bit hesitant as reminiscing we push back the curtain for a rather solemn, somewhat regret-tinged survey of those years that were. There's something about the old Alma Mater that's going to stick.

This year has been an outstanding one for us. We can without hesitation say that within our ranks—here certainly Christian personality is expressing the teachings of the Master. Especially do we categorize our leaders thus. . . . Ronald Bishop as top man, Marvin Taylor as second in line, Wes Poole holding the Gold, and Olive Purinton smudgin' the page.

Solid enjoyment was the order of the year too as we remember the St. Louis Skip, the Junior-Senior Formal, and the Spring Frolic.

The Uppers of the Second Set

Advancing toward Senior Success as "the first successful Junior Class," these curators of the keys of learning may well count this year's moments golden. Having to their credit three unforgettable social events and four officers of like quality, they have gained the right to royal rest until Senior duties will again tap the resources of a class so rich in reputation.

Craig Blanchard fulfilled his official duties of President, as well perhaps as those of "the first Junior President to come into possession of a son and heir while in office." Ray Knighton, Vice-President, now of the Army! Vada McNutt and Virgil Sprunger were efficiently active as Secretary and Treasurer, respectively. Carrying out the colors of Orange and Black gave Ray Knighton the basis for directing one of the finest Halloween parties Olivet has ever quaked at. The Junior Sneak to Chicago was rivaled only in scope by the Junior-Senior Banquet, at which Canfield Cook was the chief speaker.

Pardon me as I say again—this is the "first successful Junior Class."

SOPHOS BIG-WIGS

Heads in the clouds —feet firmly planted —"in-betweens" of the campus—these, their leaders, are hereby presented: President Wilbur Beeson, "in the red" when it comes to wigs, but true blue and capable—V.-Pres. Forrest Whitlatch, outstanding "mail" who performs duties as though they were privileges—Sec'y Dorothy Knight—elected for any number of reasons—mainly, her wit, versatility and adaptability—Treasurer Paul Baker, to whom the mercenary aspects of class business offer a challenge. A composite of these would embrace a fusion of humor, brains, and ability—characteristics worthy of adoption by these Sophos of 1943.

FROSH FIGUREHEADS

A classy class of college kids, collaborating to elect the following: President Ray Hawkins, whose worth was also recognized by Uncle Sam . . V.-Pres. Dick Milton—another to carry the purple and gold to the red, white and blue . . acting V.-Pres. and Treas. Lois Gray—whose use of the gray-matter astounds us weaker wolves and wolverines . . Secretary Ruth Gilbert and successor Eva Kurtzweil, efficient and effervescent—leaders of the class of '46—worthy bearers of our torch of learning.

Bible College Leaders

Leadership with a definite emphasis on the spiritual, those to whom the call of Christian service is strong and challenging, those who are in an express way studying only that which will contribute immediately and directly to their preparation for religious leadership; these are the men and women of the Bible School.

ACADEMY TOPPERS

Riding the crest this year for the Academy Seniors were: June Measell, president; Robert Morris, vice-president; Juanita Cross, secretary-treasurer. Probably that which will be most outstanding in the memory of these high-mucks as next year they move into the college, is the banquet given by the undergraduates. The main attraction of the affair was the program given in the Gold Room of the Kankakee Hotel, where the students gathered in formal attire.

The front line generals for the undergraduates were Mrs. John Smith, Wm. Allen Rice, Helen Mewbuorne, and Irene Copelin.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC

With a total enrollment of approximately two hundred students, the School of Music has enjoyed its most profitable year. Under the Director of Music, Professor Walter B. Larsen, Associate Director, Mrs. Naomi Larsen, and the members of the music faculty; the voice, piano and violin students have made marked progress as indicated by talent displayed at programs and recitals of varying kinds.

At the close of the school year 1943, three of the music faculty will have their Master's degree, three will possess their B.Mus., and there will be four student instructors. Faculty enlargement is keeping pace with an increase in enrollment.

Easily the most important addition to the musical equipment this year is the $2500 Orgatron. Professor Larsen's ten students are not masters but have become reasonably proficient. Chapel organ music is now the order of the day, and its serene nobility is conducive to worship in church services.

The decoration of a choir room was another advance step. With paint, pianos, chairs, Venetian blinds, and plenty of hard work, a dingy backroom was transformed into an inspiring music studio and was fittingly christened Orpheus Hall. The scene of many music classes, it has heard the melodies of the Orpheus Chorus swell, witnessed several interesting recitals and seen Omicron Mu Kappa called to order.

Note must be taken of the music office workers. Efficiently they arrange practice periods, maintain a complete music library and supply the needs of the music students.

ORPHEUS

As typically Christmas as holly, as symbolic of the advent to modern thinking as the manger—is Joseph Handel's "Messiah." Its spirit is unchanging, its nobility undying, and the message in its presentation this year by the Orpheus Choir is particularly timely when loved ones may be spending Christmas in army camps or in far battle fields.

This is the seventh year that the Orpheus, under the direction of Prof. Walter B. Larsen, has presented this great oratorio. The first of the two concerts given this year was presented at the First Church of the Nazarene in Chicago on Wednesday, December 16th.

Director Walter Burdick Larsen

"MESSIAH"

The second performance was at the Methodist Church in Kankakee, Monday, December 21st.

Professor Kenneth Wells, minister of music at First Church in Chicago, guest tenor soloist at both concerts, sang two arias. Orpheus members with solo parts were Mrs. Naomi Larsen, associate director of music; Kathryn Zook, Edith Mae Trout, and Ray Knighton. As narrator, Frank Watkin Jr. presented the scriptural continuity. Organ accompaniment was provided by Mr. Earl Mitchell, guest organist.

Crashing on the final intentional discord of their favorite number, "Circus Parade," or ripping blazingly through the Olivet Pep Song to a foot accompaniment, the Brass Sextette, in lieu of a complete band, played itself through a series of Friday night basketball games, a recital appearance in the Parish Hall, and a patriotic chapel performance.

Owing to the loss of Band Director Ray Moore, rather early in the season, the band proper was not as active as in previous years.

Charm in Tempo

This group is the proud descendant of an illustrious original Girls' Glee Club, organized in 1931, and representative of Olivet College in the annual Spring tour. At the birth of the Orpheus Choir, the group had to share the positon of Vice-Ensemble-Songsters with a a male Chorus, but this year, under the direction of Professor Gerald Greenlee, the girls did double duty.

Prof. Gerald Greenlee

The Song

Music: of a thousand moods, appealing to the fancy, soother of the savage breast —through it all, the song is the thing! . . . The playing of Esther Bauerle breezing through accompaniments, making one aware of the beauty of hymns, equally capable of producing pathos in "My Buddy" or mystery in "Three Fantastic Dances," at ease on the Solovox. . . . the melodies of Fran Bradley, with a voice distinctively mellow and soothingly smooth, singing "The Man I Love" or improvising on the organ, a la Moon River . . . the clowning yet outstanding capabilities of Perk Moore, clowning with his falsetto in "Oh No John," capable of doing operatic arias, now amusing himself doing guard duty, and probably still cracking feeble jokes . . . the qualified Olivet representatives "in the field" last summer, the Orpheus Quartet, JIM HORINE, carefree; DON GIBSON, convincing; WES POOLE, casual; and LES PARROTT, commanding . . . the harmonics of the AEOLIAN TRIO, also at work last summer to advance Olivet, the sisters, PAULINE and FONDA BEARINGER, both second-assistant pastors, of different personalities, united in song, and FRAN BRADLEY, simple and sincere, the go-between . . . the songs of RAY KNIGHTON, one of Olivet's finest musicians, a vigorous singer—"Strike Up the Band," arousing conductor of his choir at Harvey, a whole-hearted soldier—"You're in the Army Now" . . . the lyrics of EDITH TROUTT, she of the soaring voice, a temperamental artist, a lover of music, accomplished in "Messiah" arias and "Summertime," capable of causing spine chills.

The recitals, the programs have gone, but the melody lingers on . . THE SONG IS THE THING.

OUR TASK

TO ABANDON the struggle for private happiness, to expel all eagerness of temporary desire, to burn with passion for eternal things—this is emancipation, and this is real life.

Our task is now! As free men, today we shall work and achieve, but especially today, we shall be our brother's keeper. Our vision will ever be strong with us. It is the vision of our comrades, one by one, as they march breast-forward, eyes sunk fast in the future, moving off the stage, groping their way through the silent orders of omnipotent death. Very brief is the time in which we can help them—in which their happiness or misery is decided. Be it ours to shed sunshine on their path, to lighten their sorrows by the balm of sympathy, to give them the pure joy of a never-tiring affection, to strengthen failing courage, to instill faith in hours of despair. Let us not be blind to what virtue our comrades may possess. Many persons strive for high ideals, and everywhere life is full of heroism. Let us not weigh in grudging scales their merits and demerits, but let us think only of their need—of the sorrows, the difficulties, perhaps the blindnesses, that make the misery of their lives. Let us out of the darkness point them to the new and better way. And so, when their day is over, when their good and evil have become eternal by the immortality of the past, be it ours to feel that, where they failed, where they suffered, where they did not realize the demands of eternal values, no deed of ours was the cause; but wherever a spark of the divine fire kindled in their hearts, we were ready with encouragement, with sympathy, with brave words in which high courage glowed.

The Quarters Sleeping and Otherwise

MALE SLUMBERSPOTS

All lights out by 11:00—so says that funny fellow Garris—of course we do as he says—he's such a nice fellow. With "Bool" sessions in order, jangling telephone calls, and screeching radios, all a man who wants to study has to do, is go to his door, exercise his lungs to the tune of "shut up," then listen with resignation as a chorus echoes his sentiments. His last recourse (always the same) is to encase his head in wet towels and go to bed.

ACCENTS ON FEMININITY

Each room a bit of "heaven" in the earthiness of gray corridors—Each corridor a silent listener to every conversation, as is each femme within a three-room radius—Sub-conscious ejaculations to the effect that dorm life, a la ringing telephones, midnite tete-a-tetes, sneak-snacks and cram blues is—without doubt—best ever!

"forsake not the assembling of yourselves together"

The college church is without doubt the focal point of all the religious activities of the student body, and, under the leadership of the pastor, Rev. Walter C. Morris and wife, has been marked by a progressive, consistent spiritual tone. Rev. Morris has carried into his work as college minister and student counselor the same sincerity and love that characterized his missionary activities in India.

This year the church, in cooperation with the student body and the Music Department, purchased an Orgatron which greatly increased the beauty of worship throughout the year. Over one thousand dollars was raised during the year for the purchasing of a parsonage and over six thousand dollars toward the Olivet Debt Liquidation Fund. During the year sixty-five students acknowledged their calls into foreign field missionary service, and one hundred and ten students, their calls into definite Christian service.

The first of two outstanding revivals was conducted by J. W. Montgomery. Holland London was the speaker in the mid-semester series of meetings.

"Let no man despise thy youth"

The Nazarene Young People's Society this year has maintained a healthy and growing outlook as to Christian thinking and living. President Paul Miller declares that the purpose of the society is to teach and exhibit a religion of mind, hand, and heart; that is, doctrine, which will tell us the beliefs and standards of a true Christian; experience, the application of truth through Scripture reading and prayer; and practice, plus personal evangelism.

The student body of the college has been divided into six "churches," each under the direction of a leader or "pastor." The pastors are Jeanne Olson, Olive Purinton, Essie Frost, Orville Maish, Edmund Day and Harry Zurcher.

Each Sunday one of the pastors draws from his church some of his best talent and with their assistance presents the program of the evening. One service a month is devoted to missionary work and activities under the sponsorship of Ruth Hower.

"Becoming rich toward God"

To assist students in developing themselves in Christian thinking and in the preparation for fruitful Christian endeavor—this is the dual purpose of the Student Prayer League. It meets every evening between 6:15 P. M. and 7:00 P. M., when some student leads the group in an informal devotional period.

Under the leadership of President Fermin Andrews and Vice-President Ruth Anna Griffith, the league's activities have attracted a large following.

As a division of the Student Prayer League, the Christian Worker's Band has as its purpose the opening of doors which will provide practical experience where the student may use the equipment given in classroom and student association. Every Sunday three or four groups from this Band are active in holding services at such places as the Old People's Home, the County Farm or the County Jail. The leaders of this organization are Evangeline Hinz as president and Paul Miller as vice-president.

Hearers of the Macedonian call

Characterized by a deep sense of responsibility as they visualize "whitened harvest fields," these of the Mission Band are endeavoring by mutual fellowship to enlarge and deepen the spiritual outlook of one another in relation to their various calls.

This organization, twice as large this year as ever before, meets once every month, at which time one of the group speaks concerning some vital aspect of the missionary world.

Of special note this year is the appointment of two of the group's members to British Honduras upon graduation this spring. Ronald Bishop and Ruth Hower are engaged to be married June 12. Unless difficulties arise, they will fly by plane to their post sometime between September 15 and October 15.

Dr. and Mrs. Clinton J. Bushey are the sponsors of the group. Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Morris also have contributed decidedly to their welfare.

Junior-Senior Banquet

Orchids, camellias, flowing gowns, formalized men, the club lounge, cokes, brown eyes, sighs—all a part of that top social affair of the year, the annual Junior-Senior Banquet.

Staged at the Kankakee Country Club, whose interior was beautifully decorated by flowers of school colors, the affair was hailed by all goers as a great triumph for the producers.

Ray Knighton, as the humor man, sparkled a few chunks of wit here and there and in between such, presented the rhythmic harmonies of "Frances, Jeanne, and Edie," plus the rolling cadences of Perk Moore. The Junior Class prophecy by Les Parrott, and the Senior Class Will by Marvin Taylor, were ornately mulled over with due deliberation. Climaxing the evening's festivities was an interesting illustrated talk by Canfield Cook.

A string of dusk-hooded cars, with blaring horns snaked around the campus circle behind a police escort. This was the last the "first successful Junior Class?" saw of the mighty seniors as they began the first leg of their trek southward to St. Louis.

After riding many hours and feeling sort of disturbed epidermisly speaking and in general rather bedraggled, the first important stop was the Hotel. Service was excellent. They even had ice water available—in the city fountain outside the lobby.

Highlights of the all-too-few days were: the smiling faces of Mr. and Mrs. Bishop as Rev. Morris pronounced the benediction; the beautiful natural displays at world-famed Art Museum, St. Louis Cathedral, Lindbergh Trophy Room and the expansive zoo.

SENIOR SKIP

In the first chapel meeting after their return, the seniors graciously "gifted" the lovely juniors with one Missouri mill per.

Junior Sneak

Said sneak's ninety per cent effectiveness didn't dampen the delight of this "first successful Junior Class." Itinerary—and the fun that followed—shaped up according to the lines following.

Ten cars sneaking to Chicago and, finally, arriving—weary, but wide awake enough to affectionately acknowledge tire-deflater Bishop by way of a dump-off in Ryan's woods; then to First Church for breakfast and devotions; the Museum of Science and Industry for science-seeing; Tribune Tower for curiosity's sake; the Forum for luncheon, and Mickleberry's for dinner.

For "goodness" sake, Professor and Mrs. Jones, Rev. Morris, and of course Professor D'Arcy, class sponsor, were invited as caretakers. And the whole day—just for fun!

Pigtails and patched pants—hill-billy hoaxes—bare-footed Worley and Daisy Mae Hodges—a weddin' with marryin' Sam officiatin'—one witness of note: to-wit, one pig—Barrels of liquid apple, donuts, and the aftermath—games that must have had in view physical fitness—and finally (Harvey) as master of ceremonies—hilarious hum-drums rampant with "corn"—laughs and lots of S. P.'s—draggin' ourselves home—happy and laden with momentous memories—Past perfect!

Sadie Hawkin's Day

Committee: Davidson, Knight, Towne, Kendall

Witches' Holiday

Committee—Watkins, Sprunger, McNutt, Olsen, Maish, Knighton.

A timely "scare"-city, the Ghost-walk—producing: sewer-smells and slush and such—the resultant squeals and a few foresighted flashlite-equipped Frosh—costume capers—Snow kids Ruth and Ronnie—the dress parade. Skits of note by the classes, Knighton officiatin'—Salute to our service men, making us proud of Olivet and her "part"—Kauffman as orator, Frosh as arrivers to O. N. C. via bus—Senior's stress of "sacrifice", rendered by Kimes—the sextette, strictly from nothin'—the noted opulence of good-will, laughs, and lappin' of food—an evening "done up right"—Thanx, Juniors!

Aurora Presents:

Using the school's distinctive talent in music and interpretation, the Aurora presented in the early part of the school year an entertaining production which was heralded by many as the best Olivet has seen for quite a number of years.

Bernice Albea, pianist, wove a beautiful musical background for the entire program. As producer and Master of Ceremonies, Clarence Kimes presented such musical talent as Edith Troutt, Gerald Greenlee, Frances Bradley, "The Four Men About Town," and "The Melody Maids." Contributing interpretation were Frank Watkin, Ronald Bishop and Marvin Taylor. The master-drummer Davidson was on hand but was given considerable competition by "Monkey Horine."

A number of these people have appeared in subsequent public performances. Under the same direction, programs have been given before the Kankakee High School, the County Teachers' Institute, and the Rotary Club.

Alpha Tau Delta

"Every addition to true knowledge is an addition to human power."

Olivet Chapter of Alpha Tau Delta is an honor society established for the purpose of encouragement and maintenance of scholarship and learning throughout the college career. Membership, determined solely upon scholastic achievement, is based on the maintenance of an average of 2. or B for the previous year. The following members compose this year's chapter: Bernice Albea, Drell Allen, Esther Bauerle, Bernice Bauhahn, Frances Bradley, Emily Bushey, Richard Bushey, Frederick Chaney, Hilas Custer, Marcella Eaton, Walter Eichenberger, Chester Fiedler, Essie Frost, Nelda Goldsmith, Eileen Greenlee, Joseph Grider, Virginia B. Grider, Clarence Kimes, Dorothy Knight, Joseph Raymond Knighton, William H. McGill, Anna Matilainen, Wesley Norton, Jeanne Olson, Paul Oman, Rosellen B. Oswalt, Marjorie Peel, Olive Purinton, Ruby Salzman, Robert Shepard, Virgil Sprunger, Donald Starr, Marvin Taylor, Lottie Tresner, David Vaughan, Frances Weaver, Inez Whalum, Forrest Whitlach, Dorothy Wilson, Mary Ellen Wilson, Harry Zurcher.

Upon graduation, fifteen per cent of those eligible are elected to the National Chapter of Phi Delta Lambda on the basis of seven semesters' work. The officers of the local Graduate Chapter are Dr. A. L. Parrott, president; Linford A. Marquart, vice-president, and Miss Marian Davidson, secretary-treasurer.

GEORGIA HARKNESS—America's leading woman Theologian and Philosopher.

DR. J. J. B. MORGAN—noted Northwestern Univ. Professor and author.

The Platonian Philosophical Society

This is a club of few mental lightweights. Probably few would question the pre-eminence of this organization as far as the upperclassmen of the campus are concerned. Under the faculty direction of Dr. S. S. White and student direction of the officers led by Marvin J. Taylor, this group has brought to the minds of those who wish to think about the serious problems of the meaning of life and its relationships, some very determining programs and lectures.

Meeting once a month, the club opens its doors only to those of junior or senior rank who are taking work in Philosophy or related fields.

At the first meeting, different members of the group presented a panel discussion of various views of Epistemology. It was decided that Bertrand Russell was a great man. At a later meeting Rev. Walter Morris gave a paper on the diverse types of Oriental Philosophy. Other programs of the year were distinguished by the appearance of such unusual persons as those noted above.

Forensic Society

"Furthering insight into their own motives and developing an appreciation of virtues that lie deeper than the histrionic"—these phrases capture the ideals of this group of expression and interpretation enthusiasts.

Officers elected the first semester were Frank Watkin, Jr., president; Ray Knighton, vice-president; and Vada McNutt, secretary. Bernie Albea and Clarence Kimes, Jr., as program chairmen for the first half of the year, presented programs which were given an appreciative reception. One of these was the characterization of such figures as Rupert Brooke, Edgar Allan Poe and Dorothy Parker dramatized respectively by R. Bishop, R. Hawkins and N. Phillips. At another meeting, the members drifted down that lazy stream "Moon River."

Taking over the wheel for the second semester were John Rogers, Normalee Phillips, and Phyllis Jolliff with Betty Towne as program chairman.

Miss Louise McKinley, professor of speech, acted in the capacity of sponsor for the year.

Call up the old adjectives—progressive, stimulating, purposeful, cultural,—and describe Olivet's Omicron Mu Kappa group.

Through the hardy ingenuity of the club's leaders—Prof. Larsen, faculty sponsor; Bernice Albea, president; Dick Bushey, vice-president; Kathryn Zook, secretary; George Snyder, treasurer, and Ray Knighton, program chairman—and the keen versatility of the club's half a hundred members, campus life for the undergraduate music student changed from a mere preparation for a music future into an actual progression into that career.

Student participation was the keynote of the club's programs. Student talent was also featured in the several recitals sponsored by the organization.

Topping the list of outside entertainers were Mrs. D. P. Scott of Kankakee, who lectured at one meeting on her personal experiences with great musicians, and Paul Glickman, thirteen-year-old violinist, who shocked all with his remarkable ability. One of the finest organizations on the campus, symbol and reality of music culture, is Omicron Mu Kappa.

Added to the already long and varied list of opportunities for outside activity in Olivet, has been an organization comparatively new in its field, Chi Sigma Rho. This is a group that meets every Tuesday evening in Room 34, seemingly to scare the library patrons, but in reality to practic Choric Speaking. Incidentally, to you who might not know, Choric Speaking is similar to choral music work if you eliminate the musical element. In simple language, it's a group of light, dark, and meduim voices reading poetry or prose in chorus fashion.

Three major public performances were given during the year. In Kankakee the group appeared before one of the leading women's organizations and were extremely well received. The other programs were the mid-semester and spring recitals.

Lensmen of Olivet

These are those who have gone beyond the "birdie" stage to think in terms of diaphragm, F stops, aberration, nodal points, latitude, fog, and a few hundred other technical words, phrases, or what have you.

Chief experts include Paul Moore, president; James Holden, holding the vice-chair; Don Starr, the man with the short-hand; and Keith St. John, on the side of construction.

This year marks the second for the Club's annual Salon. Last year the Salon aroused much interest, not only within the club itself, but among other students who viewed the display in the school library.

Club meetings this year were given added interest through the medium of illustrated slides and moving pictures from Eastman Kodak Company.

The Club is under the sponsorship of Professor Harold D'Arcy.

Giant's Club

Miniatures in miniature—all tipping the yardstick at five feet or under and apparently enjoying life from their lofty position as Olivet's group of giants.

It is rumored that some of the members will find it necessary to resign because the first three fetes held this year at the Leist's have increased their statures so much—vertically, we might add.

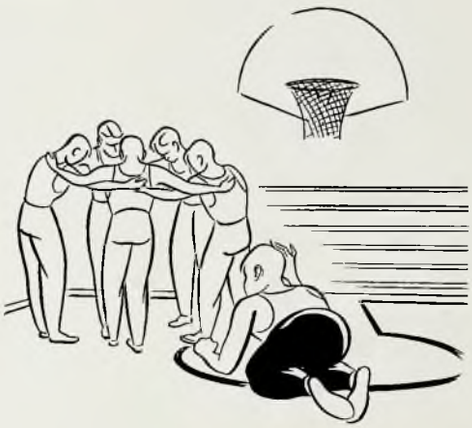
Reared in the ministry, examples of perfection, looked to as the carriers of Truth in a world of great evil, beamed upon and scowled upon, seated upon the front pew and rooted there for 18 odd years —more or less.

ATHLETIC DIRECTION

Athletics have found a place of decided importance in the life of every student of Olivet College. Under the guidance of Director Ronald D. Jones and Assistant Wilma Gibson, interest in Physical Education classes and the full sports program of the school has infected the entire student body. Professor Jones, in the required classes of physical education for men, has stressed special conditioning activities such as bar and ladder work, tumbling, calisthenics, tactics, indoor running and swimming. For those interested in leadership in the field of athletics, instruction is given in Minor Athletic Games and Theory of Basketball.



Under Miss Gibson's direction, the girls' program is quite similar, with special emphasis on minor athletic games and calisthenics.

During the sports year, Gouthey Jones acted as Referee for all the major activities.

THE SOCIETIES

Although as this book goes to press the results of baseball and women's softball are not as yet decided, the present point standings favor the Indians as victors.

Guiding the destiny of the Redmen this year, Ray "Blow - Head" Knighton proudly displays his chief assistants, Orville Maish, coach of men, and Mabel Grubb, leader of the women.

Marvin "Tailbone" Taylor was the presiding Jo of the Spartan society, with Kenny Foust and Marge Howe as directors.

As top man for the populace of Troy, Wes "Abner" Poole dictated orders to Coaches Jon Hieftje and Corky Kauffman.

MEN'S "O" CLUB

The College "O" Club! These are the boys who have proved their worth on the diamond, track, or cage floor, and received a coveted "O."

The Club looks back at a very successful year, beginning with the annual "O" Club "Tip-Off" and winding up with the traditional spring banquet.

One of the highlights in the Club's activities was the mysterious initiation which new-comers annually face. Veterans Snyder, Taylor, Carrier, Rice, Foust, Shaw, G. Jones, and Parrott took great delight in letting the new-comers, Martin, Maish, Nutt, Finley, Clendenen, Baugus, Hieftje, and Oman, know their places.

The boys pay tribute to three of their number—Pvt. Virgil Nutt, U. S. Army; Pvt. Leo Baugus, U. S. Army; and Apprentice Seaman Harvey Finley, U. S. Navy Reserve!

Marvin Taylor, as president, directed the club's activities. Prof. R. D. Jones, head of the athletic department, served as sponsor.

The "O" Club Tip-Off

Sharp-edged Tradition led back to the campus an alumni aggregation gathered from as many as five states of the Union. In a remarkable exhibition of hardwood skill, these former All-Stars under the direction of Coach Ed Harmon edged out a 30-25 thriller over the varsity men.

For seven years the Spartans held top position of Olivet's basketball competition, but under the leadership of Coach Orville Maish, the Indians have broken through to capture the coveted title.

In the opening encounter of the official basketball season, the final outcome was not so apparent as the Men of Troy took an early lead in the standings by defeating the Redmen. Trailing by a 10-2 count early in the first quarter, the victors put on the steam late in the second quarter to lead the Indians at the half by a one-point margin. Leading the Trojan attack on the offense, and a strong unit of their defensive set-up was Gordon Thorne, who scored high for the Troy-men with nine points. The Indians were led by Orville Maish, who scored a total of 12 points to become high point man of the evening.

Throughout the entire season the supremacy was never certain. With the teams almost evenly matched, the contests were nip-and-tuck, pleasing the fans and jangling the nerves of the coaches, especially John Hieftje, the woe-joy thermometer of the Trojan bench.

Jim Rice

Following a three-way tie after the completion of the third round, the Redmen had to go all out in an overtime period to register a 40-39 decision over the Men of Troy.

The Indians proved conclusively their championship caliber in the final game when they severely trounced the hapless Spartans by a 59-37 verdict. On the previous night, the Trojans had handed the Spartans a 50-42 reverse.

Leading the Indians' attack, as he did all season, was Virgil Nutt (not pictured), who counted twenty-eight points in the two matches, while Orville Maish was ringing up twenty and fifteen counters, respectively. Speedy Jesse Martin was the outstanding cager in the fourth-round Trojan drive, which netted them second place. He notched thirty-two points in his final two games. Oman, lanky Spartan forward, led the scoring for the vanquished as he countered eight field goals and ten foul shots for a twenty-six point total.

The second team basketball race ordinarily occasions little interest from the student body, but recognition is due those who support their societies whole-heartedly while putting on form for a first-string berth. Led by "Big Gun" Beeson, the Trojans this year took first honors with a record of seven wins and one defeat. Ted Chaney and Connie Clendenen sparkled with the Indians as they took second place with a 5-3 record. Roger Ward starred consistently for the Spartan cellar holders.

Ray Gardner

Lee Bates

With a six-game winning streak after having lost the season's opener to the Indians, the women of Sparta captured the girls' basketball title, which for the past several years has been held by the Trojans.

The outstanding playing of Coach Marge Howe and Forward Eva Kurtzweil with the valuable addition of Ida Koopman, and they of the defense—Dorothy Knight and Essie Frost—brought the crown to the Spartans.

Women of the Cage

Members of the team holding second place, and those who occupy the unpopular spot are also deserving of recognition. From the Indian line-up—Coach Mabel Grubb, competent scorers Virginia Parker and Esther Kendall, and Betty Jean Riddle, one of the outstandin guards in Olivet's history. The consistent playing of Betty Allen and the dash of Corrinne Kauffman cheered the Trojan cause.

Women's "O" Club

This athletic organization, with Wilma Gibson as sponsor, at the first meeting of the year chose the following officers: Esther Kendall, president; Mabel Grubb, vice-president: Marjorie Howe, secretary; Mary Ellen Wilson, treasurer.

Gleeful old members presided at an initiation where the members-elect wore everything from lampshades to black stockings and did everything from grand opera to kowtows in coal dust.

Since membership is limited to those who have earned letters in basketball, track ,or softball, the club is small, but it exerts a powerful influence upon the athletic activities of the campus.

The Plunge

Olivet is the possessor of one of the finest pools in northern Illinois. Under the supervision of James Shaw, instructor of men, and Ona Cadwallader, director of women, the swimming program has taken a decided step forward. Mondays and Wednesdays the pool is open to men students. On Tuesdays and Thursdays, it is taken over by the women. Thursday evenings find the faculty men taking their plunge. A special feature was introduced by Mr. Shaw for all Reserve men. Each Wednesday night these men met and received lessons designed to acquaint them with swimming requirements for special military service. On Tuesday evenings, Miss Cadwallader conducts an official Red Cross Class for all women interested in the art of life saving.

Netmen

Diminutive George Carrier displayed a consistent and sometimes spectacular game as he defeated Paul Oman in the Tournament Finals. In the Semi-Finals, Carrier nosed out Jim Rice in a close match by the score of 8-6, 6-4, and 10-8. Oman, in his semi-final match, took the measure of the Tourney favorite, "Les" Parrott, by the score of 6-1, 6-0.

With two fine cement courts and close supervision by the athletic department, Tennis is continuing to maintain its place of popularity among the students in general. Although the women of the school have not played in any form of competitive tournament, the sport has become almost as popular with them as with the men.

Ping Pong

The second week of March found ping-pong enthusiasts crowded about two tables in the middle of the gym floor, eagerly following paddles and a little white ball which seemed to take special delight in trying to spin off corners or drop lazily just over that huge barrier, the net.

After taking all available honors by defeating Wilma Gibson in the women's finals, then winning a close match with Orville Maish in the grand finals, Ruth Miller was crowned grand champion.

A new event, the mixed doubles, attracted eight entries. The finals found the combination of George Carrier and Corrinne Kauffman edged out by the keenly-coordinated playing of Art Payne and Ruth Miller.

Ping-pong, as a popular year-round recreation, probably holds as secure a place for the average student as any other sport. Almost any week-day afternoon or Friday evening some students will be found taking advantage of this minor athletic game.

On the Diamond

The men's softball picture this year showed the Spartans and the Indians in a tie for first place, with the Men of Troy dejectedly sitting in the cellar position. Throughout the season the Indian-Spartan contests aroused justified enthusiasm as two of the games were won by the one-run margin.

In the women's league, the Indians emerged as number one in the standings, with the Spartans second, and the women of Troy holding the lower berth.

WE HAVE begun our maturity in years when civilization is groaning in the pangs of new birth. Momentous are these contemporary days: challenging are these moving events that loom like dark spectres. As we stand on the threshold of this new age, we can but advance cautiously. How often has Right reared its head only to be submerged in ignorance, intolerance and selfishness? How often have good men fought desperately and valiantly only to find defeat as their prize?

Yet, though the finite needle constantly fluctuates, though the blackness might seem impenetrable, though good should seem destined for the heap, one great stabilizer will govern the rudder; one great light will illumine the way. This stabilizer is the creator of our courage; this light is the maker of our strength: this is the stronghold of our hope!

Yes, we will believe with James Russell Lowell when he passionately cried:

Truth forever on the scaffold,
Wrong forever on the throne;
Yet that Scaffold sways the future,
And behind the dim unknown
Standeth God within the Shadow,

What is this truth that sways the future? What is this stronghold of our hope? Our answer can only and always be one! It is the ever-contemporary Christ, the Son of Man and the Son of God! He is our Stabilizer; He is our Light! Though the forces of evil seem to be enthroned with incomparable might, yet somewhere beyond the finite view He leads His forces onward. "The mills of God grind slowly, but they grind exceedingly small."

This has been the lesson our teachers have taught us here. This is our heritage from our school. This is our victory cry! This is our life!

OUR HERITAGE

Faithful friends! It lies I know, pale and white and cold as snow;

I can see your falling tears, I can hear your sighs and prayers; yet I smile and whisper this:

"I am not the thing you kiss; cease your tears and let it lie;

It was mine—it is not I."

—Edwin Arnold.

Just A Last Word....

The thing is almost done up, and frankly we're almost done up too. In spots the grind has been rather stiff, but it hasn't been without a decided amount of enjoyment and satisfaction. We've played the game the best that we have known—our fingers are crossed, hoping that your thumbs aren't down.

As this last copy is shoved off and the dummy takes on its last few pages, reflecting a bit, automatically we say to you—thanks—thanks to everyone of you who have cooperated and a special thanks to you who have worked on the publication either on the inside or the outside. Your help has been invaluable.

The College Alumni Association is the body of supporters which keeps alive an interest in the minds of those who look back and call Olivet their Alma Mater.

This year Rev. Ralph Carter, of Racine, Wisconsin, is heading the organization, with Professor Marquart as executive secretary; Professor C. S. McClain, vice-president; Miss Ruth Gilley, treasurer; Miss Marion Davidson, group historian.

Meetings are held once a year when possible, and the executive committee meets whenever necessary for the conducting of business for the group.

This year the association plans to buy Venetian blinds for Professor Marquart's office and continue the sending of "The Collegian," containing alumni news, to all members of the association.

Three times daily, the Nook is restaurant and dining hall to two hundred Olivet students, but from nine P. M. on, it's the natural place for everyone to go. Manager Red Meadows and his cheerful and efficient crew please you, whether you're at the counter for a coke or in the blue booth for a hamburger - - please you because they give you what you want and because they're your friends.

The NOOK

The Fair Store—there is where we spend our allowance or hard-earned cash, employer of several students, good ground for wishful wandering, always a friend to students—it's the store just like your favorite at home.

Inside, Bernie Albea and Lora Lee Montgomery with Mrs. Fern Siedenetop look at handbags, a requisite of a smooth outfit.

Just to see how it feels, Bernie lets Mrs. Fortin slip on a luxurious fur coat. She's going to remember it next year too, because she knows that the Fair Store's variety and quality make buying fun and safe.

VANDERWATER'S

STORE FOR MEN

The Professor is gullible—it's Prof. David Rice listening to George Carrier's smooth line of talk, scorning the old headgear in his hand, showing just how and where the Prof, prospective customer, will benefit by the purchase of a Dobb's hat. Mr. Paul J. Diamond, manager, watches George's super-salesmanship, knowing that a description of Vanderwater's high quality men's clothes is not merely a "line".

We announce with pride the fact that Olivet Nazarene College is rushing to complete the debt liquidation campaign. On April 1st, 1943, President A. L. Parrott and Treasurer J. F. Leist erased $75,000 from the $175,000 indebtedness on the college. By the General Assembly in 1943 the constituency is striving to free the college of the entire debt.

Dear Brother Leist

Please find enclosed money order for one hundred dollars of God's money for Olivet College

We are praying for the success of Olivet

In His name.

Churches Go Over The Top

Dr. Parrott is out almost every Sunday in the interest of the debt. He comes back with glowing reports every Monday. These reports are enthusiastically received by the student body. He has visited the following churches in recent weeks and every one of them has subscribed its full amount of the Olivet Debt Budget. Many have oversubscribed and some have already paid the full amount

Indianapolis District has sent in over $1,400 to date on Debt Campaign.
