WE BEGIN AGAIN

OLIVET NAZARENE UNIVERSITY

OUR MISSION

Olivet Nazarene University, a denominational university in the Wesleyan tradition, exists to provide a university-level liberal arts “Education with a Christian Purpose.”

Our mission is to provide high-quality academic instruction for the purpose of personal development, career and professional readiness, and the preparation of individuals for lives of service to God and humanity.

“We seek the strongest scholarship and the deepest piety, knowing that they are compatible [and] ... a Christian environment ... where not only knowledge but character is sought.” (The quotation is taken from the Olivet Catalog, 1915.)

This mission provides the common ground for us as we blend our various gifts and interests together to impact each student. You will have many opportunities this year to live out this mission. Watch for those occasions, for they are moments of great possibility and reward. Through our mission, we transform lives for eternity.

WELCOME

Byron M. Carmony '39

To Alma Mater, Olivet, we lift our voice in praise
For noble standards which we'll hold
'til ending of our days.

The time we spent within these halls will ne'er forgotten be,
For here we learned to know of truth,
and truth will make us free.

My Olivet, Our Olivet! Tho' life may lead us far apart,
I'll still revere you in my heart.

My Olivet, Our Olivet. I'll love the Christ
you gave first part,
And you, old Olivet!

2014 FACULTY MEMBER OF THE YEAR

Glen Rewerts

*Chair of the Department of Business
School of Professional Studies*

As chair of Olivet's Department of Business since 1993, Glen is a strong advocate for the integration of the Christian faith into the curriculum, and strives to lead students in being part of the Great Commission. His master's degree in business administration and juris doctor degree from Southern Illinois University prepared him well to teach both undergraduate and graduate students in the areas of management, leadership, business law, and strategy and policy.

Under his leadership, the Department of Business has expanded to include seven areas of study plus an active and nationally recognized chapter of Enactus, a student business organization. The accelerated M.B.A. program, designed specifically for accounting majors, was launched in 2014.

In 2001, Dr. Rewerts was instrumental in the construction of Weber Center — which provided the business department with new offices, more classrooms, access to updated technology, as well as the Weber Leadership Center, a popular venue for meetings, seminars, ceremonies and banquets.

In 2012, under Dr. Rewerts' leadership, Olivet became a Certiport® Authorized Testing Center for certification of Microsoft® Office Specialists. In addition, Olivet qualified and registered with the Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards as an institution providing the courses needed for students to sit for the CFP exam. Olivet is also now part of the SAP University Alliance, offering an Enterprise Resource Planning program using the SAP resources.

Before joining Olivet's faculty, Glen was employed as an attorney with First of America Trust Company, and Craig and Craig, Attorneys at Law, in central Illinois. He maintains his license to practice law in Illinois, and is also active as a local businessman and real estate developer.

Glen is a member of the Christian Business Faculty Association, as well as an advisory member for the Leadership Center and Enactus. In addition, he has served on several community boards, including The Salvation Army, Rotary Club and Youth for Christ.

He and his wife, Tara, have three children: Cully, Hope and Gabriel. They are members of Calvary Bible Church in Bourbonnais, and occasionally Glen fills the pulpit for area churches.

One of his favorite Bible passages is: "I pray that out of his glorious riches he may strengthen you with power through his Spirit in your inner being, so that Christ may dwell in your hearts through faith. And I pray that you, being rooted and established in love, may have power, together with all the Lord's holy people, to grasp how wide and long and high and deep is the love of Christ, and to know this love that surpasses knowledge — that you may be filled to the measure of all the fullness of God" (Ephesians 3:16–19).

Glen, for your vision in preparing Olivet students to be successful in today's world and your untiring efforts in providing them with a quality education, we salute you as the 2014 Faculty Member of the Year. ■

2014 STAFF MEMBER OF THE YEAR

Marlin Wallace

Director of Student Accounts

“Olivet is a great place to work and a good fit for me,” Marlin says. “I’ve worked at many secular businesses where I was a contractor, an outsider, not part of the team. Here, I receive a lot of satisfaction, enjoyment and fulfillment from my work. This is a wonderful work environment, and I belong here.”

In 2000, Marlin and his family relocated to Bourbonnais from Rockford, Illinois, where he had worked in the automotive industry for 15 years. He and his wife of 32 years, Barbara (Hansche) ’80, are the parents of two children: Mathew ’11 and Nicole, a high school student.

His career at Olivet began as a maintenance supervisor. In 2004, he completed his degree through Olivet’s continuing studies program and earned a bachelor’s degree in business administration. Soon, he accepted the position in which he serves today: Director of Student Accounts.

Marlin’s friends, family and co-workers often describe him as even-tempered, easygoing and successful at handling stress in his life.

“One of my greatest joys is working directly with Olivet students and their parents,” he says. “Being able to help them when they don’t see ways to make the financial part of higher education work is very rewarding for me.”

“Some students are especially appreciative of our help,” he adds. “I’ve had people I don’t even remember come into my office and tell me: ‘We couldn’t have made it without you.’”

Marlin is a member of College Church of the Nazarene and a commissioned Stephen Minister. The skill training he received to serve in that role as a Christian caregiver — listening, identifying feelings, maintaining boundaries — has also served him well in his job at Olivet.

One Bible passage that guides him in all that he does is: “Rejoice in the Lord always. I will say it again: ‘Rejoice! Let your gentleness be evident to all. The Lord is near. Do not be anxious about anything, but in every situation, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, present your requests to God. And the peace of God, which transcends all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus.’” (Philippians 4:4–7).

Marlin, for your patience, dedication and energetic assistance to Olivet students and their parents in helping to make “Education with a Christian Purpose” a reality for them, we salute you as the 2014 Staff Member of the Year. ■

REFLECTIONS OF 2014 TEACHING AND SCHOLARSHIP AWARD RECIPIENTS

*2014 Samuel L. Mayhugh Award
for Scholarly Excellence*

Why scholarship is important to me

Engaging in scholarly work is critically important for members of the academy. Scholarship increases the knowledge base in one's discipline, and this new knowledge can be used to enhance the quality of life for our fellow human beings. The results of scholarly endeavors also enable us to make the most effective use of the resources God has given us, and thus, enhance our ability to care for his creation. Finally, scholarship serves as a motivator. It keeps one excited about the content areas in his or her discipline, and this excitement spills over into the classroom, making one a more effective classroom teacher.

—RAY BOWER, 2014

2014 Richard M. Jones Faculty Award for Teaching Excellence

Why growth in teaching is important to me

As a professor at Olivet Nazarene University, I have had the opportunity to facilitate effective learning in nursing students. My challenge is to look at a class on the first day, acknowledge their divergent learning needs, and then actively seek out the strategies that will meet their learning needs. There is no greater reward for me as an educator than to witness our students applying knowledge effectively as they critically think through a problem in the clinical or academic setting. As an educator, I continue to grow, while expanding my knowledge of teaching and learning strategies. It is only through growth that I am able to meet the learning needs of our students.

As an educator who is a lifelong learner, I strive to empower my students to take control of their own learning and become lifelong learners. This allows these novice nurses, as they graduate, to continue to acquire the competencies they will need to care for their patients effectively in the complex health care environment.

I have found that by teaching at Olivet, I have the privilege of doing so much more than just facilitating students' academic and professional growth. I also have the privilege of mentoring students and praying with them as they struggle with life issues. Seeing our graduates at work in the hospitals — sharing God's love with their patients as they provide quality patient care — is a joy.

—ROSALIE TUTTLE, 2014

II.

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE AT OLIVET NAZARENE UNIVERSITY

Olivet's greatest resources are its people. Excellent faculty and staff, working with motivated students, produce outstanding alumni. ONU alumni live in 60 world areas, and accomplish much. They have: founded Ticketmaster, sung with Pavarotti on Broadway, written software for the CAT-scan, edited U.S. News & World Report, directed IRS field operations, lead policy teams for the Department of Homeland Security, operated on Nancy Reagan, controlled product logistics for Kraft Foods, managed chemistry research for Proctor & Gamble, presided over Sears & Roebuck, supervised databases for the Space Shuttle Program, performed economic diplomacy for the U.S. government in Moscow, consulted Fortune 500 CEOs, sold the largest deal in AT&T history, regulated finances for the U.S. Departments of Defense and Agriculture, won national photography and art competitions, held public office, and among others superintended the Church of the Nazarene.

Alumni have completed graduate degrees at the Naval Aerospace Institute, Harvard University, Boston University, Wharton Business School at Penn, law degrees at Stanford, Notre Dame, and Ohio State, and medical programs at the University of Illinois, University of Chicago, University of Michigan, Wayne State University, Loyola, and more.

ONU students, while preparing to take their place in the world, also perform extraordinarily well compared to their peers.

By various measures, ONU students do significantly more of the following than students at other private-non-religious or private-Christian universities:

- community volunteerism
- team-based coursework outside class
- foreign language preparation and international service (Missions in Action, Study Abroad participation, etc.)
- faith-integration (i.e., applying Christian values to profession, discussing personal beliefs). Eighty-nine percent say their religious beliefs are strengthened by the completion of their first year (compared with 53% at other religiously-affiliated schools). ■

III. SCHOLARSHIP PROJECTS

The next section recognizes sample scholarship projects by ONU faculty during the past year. The University congratulates faculty on this work! When done well, these projects intensify the effectiveness of the gospel. (Administrative faculty, department heads, and coaches are not required to perform such work, though many do so. Also, doctoral projects count as the scholarship agenda for faculty engaged in that work.)

Scholarship projects fulfill part of the ONU mission. As a denominational university in the Wesleyan tradition, the “strongest scholarship and deepest piety” are thoroughly compatible (Catalog 1915). Faculty serve that great cause through spiritual modeling, course instruction, service roles (e.g., committees, student advising, etc.), and when maintaining an agenda for professional growth. The three most common forms of professional growth among faculty include: (a) professional practice experiences (i.e., activities to stay current in one’s field, like reading, updating coursework, attending conferences, practicing the skills of the field), (b) professional leadership (i.e., giving direction to academic and industry organizations), and (c) scholarship projects (i.e., learning projects, put in public form — a presentation, artifact, publication, DVD, CD, etc. — then evaluated by those credentialed to judge its quality).

Scholarship projects are important to ONU for a variety of reasons:

Scholarship projects are teacher-friendly. As a teaching university, we believe scholarship projects inform instruction. Teaching and scholarship are not mutually exclusive, but interdependent. Students receive with confidence the methods, techniques, and ideas current scholarship affords.

Scholarship projects are integrated. As a Christian university, we believe faculty should illustrate and articulate the impact of The Faith on our work. While secular faculty exhibit virtuous behaviors (e.g., respect, kindness), we focus on faith-cultivating behaviors. This influences syllabi, instructional content, assessment procedures, out-of-classroom initiatives, and more.

Scholarship projects are a proportionate priority. As stewards of time, a call for scholarship projects is not a call to add workload, but reconfigure it around our identity as a Christian, teaching-focused institution. ONU faculty give a “tithe of time” in scholarship to sharpen the saw, hone understanding, and improve the academic field.

Scholarship projects are diverse. Quality and format standards for scholarship projects vary widely between and within academic fields. A scholar is not limited to publishing, but participates in any combination of five scholarship domains: faith integration, teaching and learning, application, interdisciplinary integration, or discovery. Flexibility in scholarship domains recognizes legitimate differences between disciplines and reflects the breadth of university life.

Scholarship projects are dynamic. Individual interests widen and deepen fluidly over time. One may wish to focus on one domain of scholarship during an early phase in their career, then change focus later. Trials in new areas ensure students receive multiple dimensions to their education.

Scholarship projects are rewarded. While all faculty perform similar kinds of work, particularly ambitious or effective scholars are recognized in a variety of ways: promotion in faculty rank, multi-year contracts, course releases, scholarship grants within the College/Schools, and an annual scholarship award alongside the annual teaching award. ■

A BRIEF HISTORY OF OLIVET

Olivet Nazarene University's origins can be traced to the first decade of the last century and to the resolve of several families in east central Illinois who were committed to providing a Christian education for their children. In 1907, classes began in a home in the community of Georgetown, Ill. A year later, the founders acquired several acres of land in the nearby village called Olivet. There, they raised a modest building and added the secondary level of instruction. A College of Liberal Arts followed in 1909, along with the first name for this fledgling, but ambitious, institution: "Illinois Holiness University."

By 1912, the founders and trustees were aware of the school's need for a wider constituency and offered to give their educational work to the Church of the Nazarene. This young denomination accepted the school with a pledge to support and promote its ministry of Christian higher education. That early church commitment is still being perpetuated by the more than 800 Nazarene congregations throughout Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin.

The school grew slowly during the next decade. There were several acting and short-term presidents; the campus of 18 acres contained only a few small buildings; the first yearbook, the Aurora, was published in 1914; and a new school name followed in 1915: "Olivet University." In 1923, the name was changed to "Olivet College." As was the case with many small church colleges in the 1920s, Olivet's financial base eroded significantly, forcing the trustees to declare bankruptcy in 1926. Then-college treasurer, Dr. T.W. Willingham, bought the school back at a public auction, outlined a new plan for solvency, and was elected that night to serve as president.

A devastating fire destroyed the main campus building in November 1938, prompting the newly elected president, A.L. Parrott, and the trustees to consider locating a new campus as an alternative to rebuilding at their rural site. They found and purchased the present campus in Bourbonnais in 1939 and moved the college in the summer of 1940. "Nazarene" was added to the college's name that same year.

At the time of Olivet's move to Bourbonnais, the campus consisted of 42 acres, which had been the site of St. Viator's College from 1868 until it closed in 1938. Four of the buildings purchased then are still in use today.

Receiving formal recognition and accreditation by the University of Illinois in 1939 was a major academic milestone for Olivet. The college catalogs of the 1940s reflected a School of Liberal Arts, a School of Music, a School of Religion, and a high school Academy. In 1953, under the skillful leadership of Dr. Harold W. Reed, president, and Dr. Willis Snowbarger, newly appointed dean, all areas of study were grouped into curricular divisions.

Dr. Harold W. Reed, president from 1949–1975, led Olivet through a period of remarkable growth, including the construction of 20 major buildings to keep pace with swelling student enrollments.

Dr. Leslie Parrott continued this focus on campus expansion, development and beautification during his 16-year tenure with a specific interest in the elevation of Olivet to university status.

In 1986, the school's name was changed to "Olivet Nazarene University" to reflect the diversity of academic programs and graduate studies.

In 1991, Dr. John C. Bowling became president and has led the University in continued growth and effective ministry.

During the 1990s, Olivet expanded and strengthened both its undergraduate and graduate programs. The University established a formal development program, including planned giving and major gifts, an annual fund program known as Friends of Olivet, renewed grant writing, a comprehensive program of donor relations, and the “In Word and Deed” capital campaign. In 1994, a full-time chaplaincy program was established to give direction to chapel, student spiritual life activities, small-group ministries, missions and compassionate ministry experiences.

Additional successes in the 1990s included: Chalfant Hall was renovated; the Harlow E. Hopkins Alumni Center was established; Milby Clock Tower was reconstructed; Ludwig Dining Room, the Red Room, and the bookstore were renovated; the coffee shop, Common Grounds, was established; the Olivet computer, media, and communications network was created; the campus entrance was completed; and the Admissions Center was constructed.

In the following decade, the campus continued to undergo several changes. Between 2000 and 2009, the Weber Center was constructed; two parcels of land south of the Admissions Center were purchased; and the Larsen Fine Arts Center was renovated. Major renovations also took place in Burke Administration Building, Williams Hall, Chapman Hall, Common Grounds coffee shop and the Decker Quadrangle. Renovations to Benner Library and Resource Center included a new student hangout, Jazzman’s. The Hardy C. Powers President’s House was renovated to house the Center for Student Success, and a new residence for the president was established at Reedy House on Olde Oak Drive. Ludwig Dining Hall was expanded and remodeled. Olivet purchased the former Fortin Villa property from Provena Healthcare, including 25 acres of land along Main Street, just south and west of the main campus. Today that property is utilized for ROTC classes, as well as intramural activities.

Significant improvements to the athletic facilities were completed in the 2000s, including renovation of Birchard Gymnasium to include a new varsity weight room and a new fitness center for students, faculty and staff. In Snowbarger Athletic Park, additional seating and a new press box were installed at Larry Watson Baseball Field; tennis courts were resurfaced, and new nets and posts were installed; and electric service was improved. Ward Field was renovated to include a larger running track, a new entry building, fencing, refurbished bleachers, a larger press box, an enhanced facade, and lighting for night games and practices. In 2002, Olivet began a long partnership with the Chicago Bears as the ONU campus became home to their annual summer training camp.

Throughout the 2000s, Information Technology expanded wireless access throughout the campus, including wired access to every classroom and residence hall room. In the academic realm, the radio station WONU-FM and broadcasting classes moved from the north wing of Benner Library to a former restaurant building next to the Admissions Center on Main Street. The Department of Communication and some art classes moved into the library space, including new television, graphic arts and photo studios. The Bourbonnais offices for the School of Graduate and Continuing Studies moved to 21 Heritage Drive, just north of the main campus.

In 2005, North Central Association granted ONU continued accreditation for the maximum of ten years without conditions. The academic departments were restructured into four Schools and one College: the College of Arts and Sciences, School of Education, School of Professional Studies, School of Theology and Christian Ministry, and School of Graduate and Continuing Studies.

The first two years of this new decade have, once again, brought many changes to the Olivet campus. During the summer of 2010, there was a major overhaul of the inner campus landscape and walkways, along with renovation of the Milby Clock Tower. Hills Hall was significantly upgraded, and the process of sprinkling system installation in residence halls continued. One of the most significant projects in the last century came to completion with the construction of the Betty and Kenneth Hawkins Centennial Chapel. The 3,000-plus seat chapel was dedicated on October 29, 2010. Since the spring of 2011, chapel services have been held there, allowing students, faculty and staff to worship together as one community.

Olivet's School of Graduate and Continuing Studies has experienced tremendous growth in recent years. In 2004, the School established a Chicago Regional Center in Rolling Meadows, Ill., and in 2011, a new office was opened in Oak Brook, Ill. Through a partnership with a university in that area, Olivet also offers a master's in professional counseling in Hong Kong.

For the past nine consecutive years, U.S. News and World Report has selected Olivet Nazarene University as a Top-Tier University-Master's in its report, "America's Best Colleges."

For nine consecutive years, the University has also been commended for the pursuit of excellence and ongoing Christian witness to the world by the Best Christian Workplaces Institute. Olivet Nazarene University qualified for certification as "A Best Christian Workplace" in the United States.

The new Student Life and Recreation Center was dedicated and opened to students at midnight on 12-12-12. This 160,000-square-foot facility boasts an eight-lane, 200-meter running track; two pools, including a 10-lane competition pool for men's and women's varsity swimming; a four-story rock climbing wall; four basketball courts; workout facilities; a large game area; a spacious central lounge; and several classrooms.

In 2014, the University continued to expand and improve facilities within the Department of Athletics. On Ward Field, Kiefer USA installed a new UBU Sports Speed S5-M synthetic turf game field. Tiger football, men's soccer and women's soccer will play their home games there beginning this fall. The durable playing surface will accommodate the safety and performance requirements for each sport. New entrances — south gateway and west gateway — to Snowbarger Park now welcome our many campus visitors. Brick columns with lighting and black iron fencing provide a more inviting appearance. The recent expansion and remodeling of Gibson-Ide men's locker room include 125 large lockers for the football team and an area appropriate for team meetings, as well as expanded storage areas. In addition, the baseball, men's soccer and men's tennis teams now have newly remodeled and separate locker rooms.

Construction of the 19,000-square-foot, three-story engineering addition to Reed Hall of Science is now a reality. Opening and move in was completed just in time for fall 2014 classes, which are scheduled in all of the classroom and lab spaces.

Plans for the 18,000-square-foot expansion of the building's south section will provide both new and updated facilities for the sciences. Included in the plans are new laboratory spaces and additional classrooms to accommodate the growth generated by the new School of Nursing and Health Sciences.

A spacious lobby area featuring a water sculpture and other environmentally friendly amenities will greet those who enter the building each day.

Responding to the growth of Olivet's nursing program and the worldwide demand for quality professionals in all health care fields, the new School of Nursing and Health Sciences offers both undergraduate and graduate programs. Dr. Linda Davison serves as dean. A 10,000-square-foot expansion of Wisner Hall of Nursing is part of Olivet's six-year plan for the main campus.

Recognizing the accomplishments and degree offerings of Olivet's music program, the new School of Music designation became a reality in July. Dr. Don Reddick has been appointed as dean. In 2013, the iLearn@Olivet initiative provided sheet music, textbooks and apps to all music students through the iPad. A building expansion of about 18,000 square feet is planned for the current Larsen Fine Arts Center. ■
