THE YEAR OF THE CHURCH

Welcome

WE ARE PLEASED to welcome each of you to the 1995 President's Dinner for Faculty and Staff. This evening gives us the opportunity to meet the new members of the Olivet Family and to record the accomplishments and milestones of our colleagues.

In keeping with the centennial celebration of the beginning of the Church of the Nazarene, this year has been designated as "The Year of the Church" at Olivet. This will give us the opportunity to take special note of this vital part of our heritage and continuing mission. Our relationship to the church is a defining characteristic of who we are and what we do.

May the blessings of the Lord rest upon us all this evening and throughout our work together this year.

ALMA MATER	DR. HARLOW HOPKINS Chairman, Division of Fine Arts
BENEDICTION	REV. SAMUEL O. CLEARE Pastor, Wildwood Church of the Nazarene

ALMA MATER, OLIVET

Byron M. Carmony

To Alma Mater, Olivet, We lift our voice in praise
For noble standards which we'll hold till ending of our days.
The time we spent within these halls will ne'er forgotten be,
For here we learned to know of truth, and truth will make us free.
My Olivet, Our Olivet! Though life may lead us far apart,
I'll still revere you in my heart.
My Olivet, Our Olivet. I'll love the Christ you gave first part,
And you, old Olivet.

YEAR OF THE CHURCH

Celebrating our Heritage

Olivet Nazarene University's origins can be traced to the first decade of the twentieth century and to the resolve of several east central Illinois families who were committed to providing a Christian education for their children. In 1907, classes were begun in a home in the community of Georgetown, Illinois, and a year later the founders acquired several acres of land in the nearby village called Olivet. Here they raised a modest building and added the secondary level of instruction. A College of Liberal Arts followed in 1909, along with the first name for this fledgling, but ambitious, institution—Illinois Holiness University.

The 1909 catalog of Illinois Holiness University states:

“God is raising up schools that will be true to him and the Bible and holiness ... Illinois Holiness University is one of them. This school has been founded at the call of God. It is a child of faith and prayer” (p. 6).

It was within that atmosphere and with that attitude that Olivet was established.

By 1912, the founders and trustees were aware of the school's need for a wider constituency and offered to give their educational work to the Church of the Nazarene. The young denomination accepted the school with a pledge to support and promote its ministry of Christian higher education. That early commitment is still being perpetuated by the more than 800 Nazarene congregations throughout the 11 districts of the church in the four states of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin.

This year, in addition to sending hundreds of students to Olivet, the districts provided the following financial support:

Chicago Central District	$ 214,269
Illinois District	211,678
Northwestern Illinois District	173,443
Indianapolis District	259,620
Northeastern Indiana District	297,995
Northwest Indiana District	148,005
Southwest Indiana District	233,744
Eastern Michigan District	317,487
Michigan District	258,921
Northern Michigan District	32,502
Wisconsin District	47,296
Total	$2,194,960

The University was renamed Olivet College in 1919. Then in the summer of 1940, following a devastating fire which destroyed much of the campus, the school moved to its present location in Bourbonnais, Illinois. “Nazarene” was added to the college's name that same year.

Olivet flourished in its new location. The campus site has expanded to 170 acres, with 33 major buildings. The academic program has matured to include 24 departments offering majors, minors and concentrations in 60 fields of study. An aggressive graduate and adult studies program has developed with offerings in religion, nursing, education, and business. The Board of Trustees voted in 1986 to change Olivet's name to Olivet Nazarene University.

Throughout its history, Olivet Nazarene University has sought to be a place where the best in learning is fully integrated with the best of faith. Our mission is as follows:

Olivet Nazarene University, a denominational university in the Wesleyan tradition, exists to provide a liberal arts "Education With a Christian Purpose." Our mission is to provide high quality academic instruction for the purpose of personal development, career and professional readiness, and the preparation of individuals for lives of service to God and humanity. "We seek the strongest scholarship and the deepest piety, knowing that they are thoroughly compatible [and] ... a Christian environment ... where not only knowledge but character is sought." (University Catalog, 1915)

During the 1995–96 academic year we will be celebrating our church heritage, a heritage rooted firmly in the Church of the Nazarene, but extending to Christians of many denominations and congregations.

FACULTY MEMBER OF THE YEAR

DR. HENRY L. SMITH

Dr. Henry L. Smith, Dean of Olivet's School of Graduate and Adult Studies, has just completed his seventh year at Olivet. He has shown himself to be an adept leader eager for new challenge.

As a minister's son, Henry early felt a call to a life of service. Henry studied for the ministry at God's Bible College, in Cincinnati, Ohio, but by his senior year determined that his call was to the classroom rather than the pulpit.

Knowing that his newly awarded degree would be of limited use in his chosen academic field, Henry enrolled in the University of Cincinnati earning a second bachelor's in 1977 and a master's in 1978. Later, while pursuing his doctorate at The Ohio State University, his Nazarene pastor encouraged him to look into teaching opportunities at Mt. Vernon Nazarene College.

Henry joined Mt. Vernon's faculty in 1979 and completed his doctorate in 1987. While there, he served as chairman of Mt. Vernon's Communication Department, and began the college's radio station, WNZR.

In 1988 Henry came to Olivet to serve as chairman of the Department of Speech Communication and as director of Olivet's radio station, then known as WKOC. Henry suggested WONU as a more appropriate call sign, but the Federal Communication Commission had already assigned WONU to a U.S. Navy ship. One well-written petition and a few months later, WKOC began operations as the new WONU.

The station entered a period of phenomenal growth under Henry's leadership, becoming self supporting within two years. "I enjoyed four wonderful years with the radio station," Henry said, "yet I was able to walk away knowing we'd placed it in good hands."

With the invitation to join the graduate school, Henry began a two-year transition period, shifting responsibilities among the School of Graduate and Adult Studies, the Department of Speech Communication, and WONU. He became the dean of the School in the summer of 1992.

"I love developing projects, like growing a radio station, or observing the blossoming of a new academic program," Henry said. "I enjoy most the opportunity to be involved in growing, innovative programs, where I can create and nurture."

Like WONU, Olivet's graduate school has seen phenomenal growth. Some 700 students are currently enrolled, and record numbers have graduated each year.

"It is my goal to ensure the integration of the School into the very fabric of Olivet," Henry said. He also ensures the highest quality. "The average Chicagoan is going to respect Olivet for the quality of our off-campus programs."

How the School fulfills Olivet's mission is a point of continual examination, Henry says, and a question of vital importance. "The central core of our mission does not change, just the mode of delivery and the age and needs of the student," Henry asserted.

"Olivet is making a difference in people's lives," Henry concluded, "whether they're the 20-year-old in our traditional program, or the 39-year-old in one of our graduate or adult studies programs facing one of life's transitions."

Henry and his wife, Teresa, have three children: Dale, David, and Derika. They reside in Bourbonnais.

Henry, for your commitment to the mission of Olivet, your dedication to the students, your able leadership, and your commitment to the Christian life at work and in the community, we salute you as the 1995 Faculty Member of the Year.

STAFF MEMBER OF THE YEAR

DAVID J. PICKERING

David J. Pickering, Olivet's director of student accounts, came to ONU as a student, earning his tuition money working nights and weekends at the local Jewel grocery store. He knows what it means to finance a college education, and it is that understanding that contributes to his serving approach to students.

David was born in Berwick, England, the oldest of four children. A job change brought the family to the United States in 1974, and they settled first in Saint Louis. The Pickerings moved to southern Illinois in 1976, and came to Bourbonnais in 1978.

In 1985 David graduated from Faith Baptist in Bourbonnais. He enrolled at Olivet the following year and graduated with a B.A. in finance in 1989. David also completed his M.B.A. at Olivet last year.

David met his wife, Emeline, at a Christian conference. He was a registered alien, and she was a Canadian citizen. Because a U.S. citizenship would greatly simplify their marriage plans, David began the process toward citizenship, ultimately taking the oath before a circuit judge in Danville, Illinois. David and Emeline were married in 1989.

David began work at Olivet as the current accounts coordinator in June of that year, assisting with the collection of student accounts, helping students make payment plans, and fulfilling other administrative duties. In February 1990, David was promoted to director of student accounts. His expanded responsibilities included the cashier operation, management of current and former student accounts, and oversight of Perkins Federal Loan Program collections.

One barometer of the University's health has improved dramatically under David's leadership. Outstanding student accounts have fallen 90.7% since David became director, a change he attributes to careful monitoring of student accounts.

It isn't all take and no give. David and his staff work hard to help good things happen for the students. "By monitoring, we're also helping the students, ensuring that they stay on schedule with payments, and are working closely with Financial Aid to complete their paperwork," David said. "We avoid the problem of students building up balances without taking advantage of the programs they're entitled to," he explained.

"The most exciting thing is to see someone who has struggled be able to graduate because of the assistance we've provided," David said.

In 1992 David began work as the conference coordinator for the University. In addition to the public relations benefits of opening the campus to responsible organizations, hosting conferences has proven to be a significant source of revenue for Olivet. Profits from hosting conferences have already financed significant capital improvement projects such as the renovation of Chalfant Hall and installation of air conditioning in Parrott Hall.

"Conferences were a largely untapped financial resource for Olivet," David explained, "and there is tremendous value in bringing individuals from the community and other church and religious organizations to campus. The exposure will reap benefits for Olivet for years to come."

David and Emeline make their home in Bourbonnais. They have five children: Nicholas, Christopher, Emilie Ann, Daniel, and Brian. David teaches Sunday school at Christian Assembly in Bourbonnais. He enjoys gardening, woodworking and doing things with the kids.

David, for your thorough work, your commitment to the mission and purpose of the University, and your steadfast dedication to Christ, we salute you as the 1995 Staff Member of the Year.
