Bryon M. Carmony

To Alma Mater, Olivet, We lift our voice in praise
For noble standards which we'll hold till ending of our days.

The time we spent within these halls will ne'er forgotten be,
For here we learned to know of truth, and truth will make us free.

My Olivet, Our Olivet! Though life may lead us far apart,
I'll still revere you in my heart.

My Olivet, Our Olivet. I'll love the Christ you gave first part,
And you, old Olivet.

STAFF MEMBER OF THE YEAR

DARRELL W. BELLOMY

True dedication runs deep, and is evidenced both in one's work and in one's private life. That kind of dedication is evident in the life of Darrell Wayne Bellomy. Darrell's commitment to Christ, and to Olivet's mission and ideals, is plainly seen in his work and life.

Darrell has helped keep the buildings and services of Olivet Nazarene University in top shape since 1979 when he began work on campus as a plumber's helper. His knowledge and dedication were quickly recognized and he was soon promoted to foreman of plumbing and heating. The electrical foreman's position opened in 1983, and Darrell was again identified as the right man for the job.

Darrell was born to Bennie and Louise Bellomy on October 27, 1948, the ninth of twelve children. He has seven brothers and four sisters who range in age from 39 to 63. Darrell's school years were spent in Asland, Kentucky, and Mansfield, Ohio. He graduated from Mansfield Senior High in 1967 with specialized studies in machine vocation. His plans were to go into tool and die work at the local General Motors Plant, however those plans were interrupted in March 1969 by a call from the US Army. The next two years were spent with the Army in the US and on a tour of duty as a infantry soldier in South Vietnam.

After receiving an honorable discharge from the Army, Darrell began studies at Circleville Bible College and received his bachelor's degree in Biblical Literature, with a music minor, in 1977. Through the years, his role in the life of the church has included work as a minister of music, minister of youth, organizer and director of a day care center, and director of a family life center. The congregations of four Nazarene churches have benefitted from his full-time, part-time or interim work. He is presently serving as minister of music at the Manteno Church of the Nazarene.

Darrell reaches beyond the day-to-day challenge of keeping the electrical service of Olivet's campus up and running to capture the importance of his work to the greater mission of the University. "The students here are special; they're the reason the rest of us are here," he said. "I have seen several classes of them come and go, and I hope they found out that we really do care for them."

Darrell married the former Lois Thacker of Mansfield, Ohio, on August 10, 1968. They have two children, Julie Hawes and Tony Bellomy. Both are graduates of Olivet, Julie with a degree in biology and Tony with a degree in music. In addition to his active life as churchman and father, Darrell's interests include golf, basketball, and music.

"God led me to Olivet in 1979 and has continued to be with me as I have tried to serve Him in the situations He has offered," Darrell said. "Olivet has become home to me."

Darrell, for your thorough work, your commitment to the mission and purpose of Olivet, and your transparent devotion to Christ, we salute you as the 1994 Staff Member of the Year.

FACULTY MEMBER OF THE YEAR

RANDAL D. JOHNSON

In his eight years at Olivet, Dr. Randal Johnson has helped students not only learn the facts of science, but come to a fuller understanding of God's creativity in our world, and our responsibility for stewardship of it.

Randy attended Trinity College from 1972-76, and found the atmosphere of Christian higher education uniquely invigorating. There he recognized the need for excellence in teaching the sciences, and developed his goal to teach in a Christian institution. "It became my desire to be as well prepared as possible so that I could turn students on to science," Randy said.

Randy worked for three years as a chemical laboratory technician, gaining practical experience that would serve him well and in 1979 entered Idaho State University in pursuit of a master's in zoology. He then learned of a unique program there, the doctor of arts, which gave broad training well suited to preparing an individual to teach. "Idaho State's doctor of arts program in biology is one of the best in the country, so it became clear why God had brought me there," Randy said.

After earning his degrees at Idaho State in 1983, Randy taught at Quincy College in Quincy, Illinois. When a position opened at Olivet in 1986, Randy joined the faculty as an assistant professor of biology, became an associate professor in 1988 and was promoted to professor in 1991. He was elected to tenure in 1993.

"As an ONU faculty member I want to be known for challenging students, showing concern for students, and for communicating well," Randy said. "I believe that I must treat every student as an individual on the same spiritual and scientific journey as I am," he explained. "By showing concern for students in the classroom as well as in more informal settings, I strive to live out my Christian faith."

It is also Randy's desire that all students understand their own environmental ethic. "Few students have taken the time to reconcile the issues of the environment and Christian stewardship in a personal sense," Randy said. "I believe we must help students do that as a part of their experience at Olivet."

Randy's recent activities outside the classroom include a tropical field studies trip with students to Costa Rica, interim sponsorship of Associated Student Council, offering workshops in environmental education for area teachers, as well as work in the area of wetlands delineation.

Randy and his wife Peggy have been married 18 years. They have three sons, Jeremy, 14, Matthew, 12, and Graham, 8. Besides teaching, Randy enjoys cross-country skiing, fly-fishing, hiking and what he calls "botanizing." "That's something my kids don't always enjoy, but they humor me," Randy said.

"For me at Olivet, it is most gratifying to see students shift from a faith grounded in the tradition of family or others, to a personal faith firmly grounded in Christ, maturing and developing spiritually," Randy said. "I'm also motivated by the success I see in my students and the support I feel from my colleagues."

Randy, for your commitment to the ideals and mission of Olivet, your dedication to the students, and consistent Christian life in the classroom and community, we salute you as the 1994 Faculty Member of the Year.
