Fritz Kreisler is generally regarded as one of the greatest violinists of all time. Born in Austria in 1875, his career flourished at a young age. His first American tour occurred at the young age of 13. After a failed audition for the Vienna Philharmonic, Kreisler left the violin and studied medicine for a period of time. Fortunately he returned and went to a prolific performing and composing career that would influence violin playing for generations to come. Interestingly enough, Kreisler lacked confidence in his compositional skill. He falsely attributed a large number of his works to other prominent composers, claiming that he had found these compositions which had been previously lost to history. Now knowing the true origin of these compositions, we can say that his more than 40 works for violin (mostly with piano) form a cornerstone of the modern violin repertoire. His Praeludium and Allegro, which was attributed to Italian composer Gaetano Pugnani, begins with dramatic violin passages which set the stage for a flurry of intensity in the Allegro. This composition’s unique dichotomy of expressive qualities in the Praeludium and virtuosic qualities in the Allegro make it one of the most frequently programmed works in Kreisler’s opus.

Images, Book I (1905)
1. Reflets dans l’eau
2. Hommage à Rameau
3. Mouvement

Dr. Anderson

In the Images, we hear the emerging qualities of Debussy’s distinct mature style: the experimentation with tonality, uses of modes, along with, pentatonic and whole-tone scales, flourishes of harmonic color, and continuous organic development as opposed to set formal structures.

Reflets dans l’eau is an experience of color and light, with a sweeping kaleidoscope of Lisztian pianism. Structurally, the piece grows from a three note motive presented at the beginning: \( A^b, F, E^b \), minor third down, whole step down. As the music progresses, a melody appears that gives an inverted retrograde version of the same interval sequence, but with a whole step up, followed by a major third up. This theme, then, is in the whole tone scale, with its shimmering color. The interaction of these two ideas is the source of musical development for the entire piece.
Hommage à Rameau pays tribute to the great 18th century French composer Jean-Phillippe Rameau, in the same way that German composers revere Bach, English composers Purcell. The piece is written in the slow triple meter of a Sarabande, a Baroque instrumental dance familiar to Rameau. It refuses to imitate Rameau, but rather imagines what he might have written in 1905, rather than 1705.

While the first piece of the set reflects nature, the second humanity, the third portrays the perpetual motion of a machine. A triplet figure runs throughout at a steady, non-rubato tempo. Shifting tonality from C to F⁷ produces a variety of color, with constant motion.

Sonata #9 for Violin and Piano, in A Major, op. 47 (Kreutzer)
L. van Beethoven

Adagio sostenuto-Presto
Andante con Variazioni
Finale-Presto

Ms. Jacklin/Dr. Anderson

Along with the “Eroica” Symphony, op. 55, the “Kreutzer“ violin/piano sonata marks Beethoven’s emergence into his second style period, featuring works that define him as the creative genius and musical innovator we know him to be. The music is characterized by intense expression cast in expansive formal architecture.

This period follows a tragic night of the soul in Beethoven’s life. His encroaching deafness proved to be untreatable, especially frustrating to a composer. From his now-famous “Heiligenstadt Testament” of 1802, a personal outpouring of dark emotions threatening suicide as a result of his condition, we can trace Beethoven’s path from near-death to a life that sprang forth with determination and vitality.

The Sonata is comprised of three movements, the outer two being in sonata form, with the middle movement a theme and four variations. A slow introduction opens the first movement, revealing the chief musical elements to be found throughout the work: tonal ambiguity, crescendo with subito piano dynamic, sforzando, and the use of chorale texture, which becomes a source of contrast with the stormy, passionate music that typifies the sonata as a whole.

In the” Kreutzer“, the violin and piano are equal partners, both technically and thematically. Sometimes the two instruments are in unison, sometimes in imitation, sometimes in opposition. Beethoven marked on the score “almost like a concerto”. Is it a violin concerto or a piano concerto? Yes.

NOTES

During the Romantic period, poets and composers were preoccupied with nature and emotions—particularly love. Among Franz Schubert's more than 600 songs, we find a variety of text subjects. As it happens, the songs on this evening's program all make references to nature, and Rastlöse Liebe compares restless love to the restless movement of the wind, rain and snow.

Ganymed

How you glow all around me in the morning splendor Spring, beloved!
With thousandfold joy of love [itself] to my heart urges the sacred feeling of your eternal warmth, unending beauty!
That I may hold you in my arm!
Ah, at your bosom I lie and languish,
and your flowers, your grass urge themselves to my heart.
You cool the burning thirst of my bosom, lovely morning-breeze, into which the nightingale calls lovingly for me from the misty valley.
I come! I come! Ah! Where to?
It draws upward!
The clouds glide down, the clouds descend to the longing love.
To me! In your lap upward! Embracing embrace!
Upward to your bosom, all-loving Father!

Im Abendrot (In the evening glow)

Oh, how beautiful is Thy world, Father when it shines golden!
When Thy splendour descends and paints the dust with glitter, when the red, that in the cloud glows, in my quiet window sinks!
Could I complain, could I hesitate? Doubtful be in Thee and me?
No, I will in the bosom carry Thy heaven already here.
And this heart, before it collapses, still drinks glow and sips light.

Rastlöse Liebe (Restless love)

Breasting the snow, the rain, the wind in steaming gorges, through haze of mists, always onward! without pause and rest!
I would rather struggle my way through sorrows than bear so much joy in life. All the inclinations from heart to heart, how it engenders its own suffering! What then? Shall I flee? Take to the forests? All would be in vain! Crown of life, happiness without rest, art thou, oh love!
De' miei bollenti spiriti
La Traviata is based on Alexandre Dumas’ 1852 play La Dame aux Camélias (The Fallen Woman). In Verdi’s setting the young Alfredo meets the beautiful courtesan Violetta. He renounces his place in society, and convinces Violetta to leave the comforts of city life for a home in the countryside. At the opening of Act II, Alfredo celebrates his love for Violetta.

Far from her there is no joy for me!
Three months have already flown by since my Violetta abandoned for me luxuries, riches, loves and the ostentatious parties where, accustomed to compliments, she saw everyone a slave of her beauty.
And now, content in these pleasant surroundings,
She forgets it all for me.
Here with her I feel myself reborn;
And, revitalized by the breath of love
I forget, in its joys, all the past.
She tempered the youthful ardor of my burning spirits with her calm smile of love!
Since the day that she said,
“I want to live faithful to you – yes,”
Unconscious of the universe,
I live almost in paradise. Ah yes!

Otello duet:
Following closely Shakespeare’s tragic play Othello, Giuseppe Verdi’s opera tells the classic story of love, deception, and power. In this duet that ends Act Two the evil Iago slyly convinces Otello that his wife and been unfaithful to him, then stirs him up into a jealous rage.

NOTES

A studio recital typically features each of a teacher’s students performing a solo. This recital represents a slight twist on that model by offering songs that are all by the same composer and from the same original performance vehicle: Les Miserables, which the composer and lyricist deliberately created as a seamless combination of musical theater and opera. Tonight’s songs are presented without the dramatic aspects of costumes, sets, and acting, so that the music may be paramount. However, performing in the planetarium offers a unique opportunity to add the dimension of lighting effects and projected text to provide some context for the songs. In order to feature each of the 18 singers, some songs are presented in different voicings than in the original work.

Special thanks to Prof. Steve Case for lighting and projection design, and for operating the planetarium this evening. Thanks to Andrew Carr for serving as planetarium technician during rehearsals.

Thank you for turning off cell phones and for not using flash photography.

heart will freeze, that my love will extinguish. Open for me, my child! Extinguishes your love, let it extinguish then! Extinguishes it for good, go home to bed, to repose. Good night, my boy!

Gretchen am Spinnrade
My rest is gone, my heart is heavy; I find it never and nevermore. As I him not have, it is to me the grave, the whole world is to me embittered. My poor head is me confused, my poor mind is me shattered. My rest is gone, my heart is heavy; I find it never and nevermore. For him only look I from the window out, for him only go I out from the house. His proud bearing, his noble figure, his lips smile, his eye power, and his speech's magic flow, his handclasp, and ah! his kiss! My rest is gone, my heart is heavy; I find it never and nevermore. My bosom urges itself to him. Ah! could I touch and hold him! and kiss him, so as I wanted, oh, could I perish with his kisses, oh could I him kiss, so as I wanted, oh, could I perish with his kisses.

An die Geliebte
When, from the deep calm I feel at seeing your image, I mutely take delight in your high worth, then I properly hear the gentle breathing of the angel that is disguised within you. And an astounded, questioning smile springs to my lips, as I wonder: isn't it a deceiving dream, that now, in you, to my eternal pleasure, my boldest wish - my only wish - is fulfilled? To the depths then to the depths my senses fall; I hear in the nocturnal distance of divinity the melodious roaring of the stream of fate. Dazed, I turn my eyes then upwards, toward the heavens, and there all the stars are smiling; I kneel to listen to their song of light.

Bonne nuit!
The earth sleeps under a pure sky and the stars come down from the blue to watch over her. A garden is flowering, but the blossoms have folded their wings. Good night! There is a little roof alone in the garden under the linden tree, supporting a humble little tower. A tiny bird in its nest cheeps and keeps vigil. Good night! A child sleeps in the tower, dreaming of flowers as fresh as she is. Heaven guards her and shines through her lovely young soul. Good night!

Chanson d'amour
I love your eyes, I love your forehead, oh my rebellious and fierce one. I love your eyes, I love your mouth on which my kisses will tire themselves out. I love your voice, I love the strange gracefulness of everything you say, oh my rebellious one, my dear angel, my hell and my paradise! I love all that makes you beautiful, from your feet to your hair, you to whom my hopeful please ascend, oh my fierce and rebellious one!

En Priere
If the voice of a child can rise up to You, Oh my Father, Listen to Jesus, kneeling before You in prayer. If You have chosen me to teach your laws, on the earth, I shall know how to serve You, magnificent King of kings. Oh Light! On my lips, Lord, place the saving truth, so that he who doubts, may humbly pray to you. Do not abandon me, give me the grace necessary, to reduce suffering, to relieve the pain, and misery! Reveal Yourself to me, Lord in whom I believe, and hope. For You I want to suffer, and die on the cross, at Calvary!

Beau Soir
When the rivers are red at sunset, and a warm wind crosses the wheat fields, happiness seems to fill the air, and ascend toward the heart troubled. An invitation to taste the delights of being alive, while one is young and the evening is beautiful, for we go away, as goes away this river; it to the sea, we to the tomb.
Che farò senza Euridice?
Alas! Where have I passed? Where has a delirium of love thrust me? Bride! Euridice! Wife! Ah, she lies no more; I call her to no avail. Poor me - She's gone, Now and for always! Oh law! Oh death! Oh cruel recollection! I do not have aid; For me there is no counsel! I only (oh savage sight) The Mournful appearance of my horrible state. Be satiated, cruel fate: I am desperate! What will I do without Euridice? Where will I go without my beloved? What will I do? Where will I go? What will I do without my beloved? Euridice! Oh God! Answer! I am still faithful to you. Ah, no more aid nor hope come to me From earth, or heaven!

Abendempfindung
It is evening, the sun is gone, And the moon sheds silver light; So pass life's loveliest hours, They fly by like a dance. Soon flees life's bright scenes and the curtain falls over is our play! And a friend's tears are already falling upon our grave. Soon perhaps (Like a gentle westwind comes a quiet premonition), I shall close this life's pilgrim journey and fly away to a land of rest. If you then weep beside my grave, gazing in mourning at my ashes, Then, my friends, I shall appear to you, and strew heaven over you. May you also grant me a little tear and pick a violet for my grave, and with your soulful gaze look down gently upon me. Consecrate for me a tear, and Ah! Do not feel shame, Oh, it will be in my diadem the most beautiful pearl.

Von ewiger Liebe
Dark, how dark in the forest and in the field. Evening already is it, now silences the world. Nowhere yet light, And nowhere yet smoke, yes, And the lark it silences now also. Comes from the village the lad, gives escort to the beloved till home, guides her past the pasture hedges, talks so much and so many a thing: "suffer you shame and sadden you yourself, suffer you shame by others about me, be the love dissolved as fast, fast as we earlier united were. Separate with rain and separate with wind, fast as we earlier were." Speaks the maiden, maiden speaks: "Our love, dissolves not! firm is the steel and the iron very much, our love is firmer still. Iron and steel, one forges them, our love, who changes it? Iron and steel, they can decay, Our love must eternally, eternally exist."

Offrande
Her are fruits, flowers, leaves and branches and her too is my heart that beats only for you. Do not tear it with your white hands and may this humble gift be sweet to your eyes. I arrive covered with the dew that the morning wind iced on my brow. Let my fatigue, Resting her at your feet, dram of the lovely moments That will refresh it. On your young breast let me rest my head still ringing with your last kisses, let it be stilled after the sweet tempest and let me sleep a little while you rest.

Si mes vers avaient des ailes
My verses would fly, fragile and gentle, to your beautiful garden, if my verses had wings like a bird! They would fly like sparks to you cheery hearth, if my verses had wings like my spirit. Pure and faithful, to your side they would hasten night and day if my verses had wings like love.

Se nel ben sempre incostante
If times are good, fortune wanders, always changing, it’s not accustomed to remaining stable, yet bad times are changeable too. If it's not possible, that sad eyes can break down cruel harsh planets nor change the heavens, it is no use to weep, nor to sigh.

Toglietemi la vita ancor
Take away from me my life cruel heavens if from me you wish to steal the heart. Deny to me the light of the day, severe stars, if you are happy over my sorrow.

Cruda Sorte... Gia so per pratica
Cruel fate! Tyrannical Cupid! Is this the reward for my constancy? No horror, terror or anguish exists compared to that which I now suffer. For you alone, my Lindoro, I find myself in such peril. From whom, oh God, can I hope for counsel? Who will give me comfort? Keeping cool is what’s wanted here, no more rages or terror: now is the time for courage; now they'll see who I am. From experience I already know the effect of a languishing look, of a slight sigh... I know what to do to tame men. Be they gentle or rough, cool or ardent, they’re all alike more or less... They all seek, they all long for, from a pretty woman happiness.

Vergebliches Standchen
Good evening, my jewel, good evening, my child! I come out of love to you, ah, open the door for me. My door is closed, I let you not in; Mother, she advised me wisely, were you in with pretext it would be the end of me! So cold is the night, so icy the wind, that my

NOTES

Sonata in A minor, Wq 128
Carl Philip Emanuel Bach, the second son of J.S. Bach, composed this piece for solo flute in 1747 though it was not published until 1763. It contains three movements, a dignified Poco adagio, a lively Allegro, and a second, virtuosic Allegro. The duet arrangement played tonight comes from the talented Gary Schocker, who created this duet by simply playing along with his students as they studied the sonata in lessons. At the time of this composition, CPE Bach was the harpsichordist for Frederick the Great, King of Prussia, who was a dedicated flutist.

Moreau de Concours
Gabriel Fauré's Moreau was written in 1898 as a test piece for the flutists at the Paris Conservatory. At the time of its composition, Fauré served as the director of the conservatory, and he was working to move the focus of the school from total virtuosity to one that displayed more thorough understanding and ability of musical expression. The short length of this piece, combined with the almost complete repetition of the melody gives testament to Fauré's fight for musical expression in his students' performances.

Concerto in D Major, K. 314, Rondeau
This piece has a unique history in that it is shared with another member of the woodwind family, the oboes. Initially composed for oboe in C major, Mozart, having run out of time and inclination to deliver a new flute concerto to a patron, transcribed his oboe concerto up a step into D for the flute. Naturally, flutists have run with it, claiming it as one of the primary works studied from the canon of flute repertoire. This energetic Rondeau contains charming melodies and two cadenzas, and is full of the Classical era's trend for lightness and varied melodies and rhythms.

L'Oiseau blessé
Translated as The Injured Bird, Denis Gougeon composed this work for unaccompanied flute in 1987. The fun and challenge of preparing this piece comes from learning how to play all of the extended techniques included in the music, along with utilizing extreme ranges and technical abilities. Some of the techniques heard in tonight's performance are:

- pizzicato tonguing: air is propelled with a short, dry articulation with the tongue between the lips to obtain a percussive effect
- tongue ram: the tongue is interjected with force directly into the embouchure hole, completely closing it
- whistle tone: air is blown lightly across the embouchure plate held in an extremely open position
- microtones: alternate fingerings are used to create slightly sharper or flatter notes
- flutter tonguing: the tongue is raised to the top of the mouth to interfere with the breath, to create a deeply vibrating sound
- voice: the performer sings a separate line of music while simultaneously playing what is written for the flute
Concertino, Op. 107
One of the best loved works in the flute repertoire, Cécile Chaminade composed this piece in 1902 as an examination piece for the students at the Paris Conservatory. Chaminade was a unique composer and pianist, who in 1913, was one of the first women to earn the award of Légion d'Honneur. This piece is characterized with beautifully flowing melodies and virtuosic phrases, and it includes a lovely cadenza that concludes with the arrival of the broad, opening melody, followed by an exciting coda. The performance you will hear tonight is arranged for flute and piano, however, this work is also scored for flute and orchestra.

History of Messiah

In the Baroque era, the first works called “oratorios” were religious operas, complete with costumes and staging. By Handel's time, the scenery, costumes and actions had been abandoned, but the idea of drama was retained. Each soloist represented a specific character. Like opera, an oratorio was a work of considerable scope, requiring two or more hours to perform. It featured an accompanying orchestra and a chorus in addition to the soloists.

During the 1740s and 1750s, there flowed from Handel's pen a remarkable series of oratorios — Messiah, Samson, Semele, Joseph and his Brethren, Hercules, Belshazzar, Judas Maccabaeus, Joshua, Susanna, Solomon, Jeptha — more than 25 in all.

In spite of Handel's earlier successes with staging Italian Grand opera in England, by the 1740s this style was out of vogue. In 1741, Handel poured most of his money into the revival of his two Italian operas, Imeneo and Deidamia, and had met with failure. Rather than brood his time away, Handel set about writing the oratorio Messiah, working on it with consuming intensity. He must have labored constantly, and it is known that he paid little attention to the food his servant left at his door. After the completion of the “Hallelujah Chorus,” a servant found him with tears in his eyes exclaiming, “I did think I saw Heaven before me, and the great God himself!”

Handel accepted an invitation to give a series of benefit concerts in Dublin, Ireland. He thought the change from London to Dublin might do him some good as well as revitalize his finances. Also, he was a philanthropist who was sensitive to needy causes. The Dublin benefit was for the Society for Relieving Prisoners, The Charitable Infirmary and Mercer’s Hospital. By the end of 1741, Handel had traveled to Dublin and led a series of concerts. He kept Messiah “up his sleeve” until March of 1742. An open rehearsal of the work a month before its premier helped stimulate public interest so that hundreds of people had to be turned away from the first performance on April 13. An extract from the Dublin newspaper of April 10, 1742, concerning this public rehearsal reads:

“Yesterday Morning, at The Musick hall there was a public Rehearsal of the Messiah, Mr. Handel's new sacred Oratorio, which in the opinion of the best judges, far surpasses anything of that Nature, which has been performed in this or any other Kingdom. The Elegant Entertainment was conducted in the most regular Manner, and to the entire satisfaction of the most crowed and polite assembly.”
More than 700 people squeezed into the hall for the first performance, even though advertisements asked the ladies not to wear hoops that made their dresses billow out and the men to leave their swords at home. The performance was a tremendous success.

The Dublin Journal of April 17 contained this report:

"On Tuesday last Mr. Handel's Sacred Grand Oratorio, the MESSIAH, was performed at the New Musick-Hall in Fishamble-street; The best Judges allowed it to be the most finished piece of Musick. Words are wanting to express the exquisite Delight it afforded to the admiring crowded Audience. The Sublime, the Grand, and the Tender, adapted to the most elevated, majestic, and moving Words, conspired to transport and charm the ravished Heart and Ear."

The oratorio Messiah differs from other oratorios chiefly in that its text is entirely scriptural, and it has no part for a narrator, who describes the events of a story through song. Further, certain of Handel’s oratorios are mythological (as in Semele) while others are allegorical (as in Alexander’s Feast). Messiah is a contemplation on the Christian faith, starting with a section on prophecy and Christ’s birth, followed by a vivid evocation of His suffering and death, and concluding with the triumph of the Resurrection and Redemption for all mankind. Like his other oratorios, Messiah was written to be performed in the concert hall during the Lenten season, during which time the performance of opera was forbidden.

The text, solely scripture, is drawn from seven Old Testament and five New Testament books. Although close to the original narrative, the text was rewritten in recitatives (sometimes prose, sometimes rhymed verse), arias and choruses. Strangely, there is some conjecture as to who arranged the Bible verses for the oratorio. It is known who sent the text to Handel: a Charles Jennens, who is described by Dr. Samuel Johnson’s cutting tongue as “a pompous, conceited, wealthy fop who imagined himself to be a literary genius.” Despite this controversy, the masterly skill exhibited in the integration of text and music is unequivocally Handelian.

One well-known tradition has developed regarding Messiah. At the first performance in London on March 23, 1743, King George II was reportedly so awed by the “Hallelujah Chorus” that he rose and stood at his seat. In that era, when the monarch stood, everyone stood. So the King’s spontaneous action became a tradition that is often followed today.
PROGRAM
Welcome and Invocation
Part One

Overture

Recitative
Mr. Lowery
Comfort ye, My people, saith your God. Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem, and cry to her that her warfare is accomplished, that her iniquity is pardoned. The voice of him that crieth in the wilderness. Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make straight in the desert a highway for our God. (Isaiah 40:1-3)

Aria
Mr. Lowery
Every valley shall be exalted, and every mountain and hill made low; the crooked straight, and the rough places plain. (Isaiah 40:4)

Chorus

And the glory of the Lord shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together, for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it. (Isaiah 40:5)

Recitative
Mr. Rice
Thus saith the Lord, the Lord of Hosts: Yet once, it is a little while, and I will shake the heavens and the earth, the sea and the dry land; and the desire of all nations shall come. The Lord, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to His temple, even the messenger of the covenant, whom ye delight in; behold, he shall come, saith the Lord of Hosts. (Haggai 2:6, 7; Malachi 3:1)

Aria
Mr. Rice
But who may abide the day of His coming? And who shall stand when He appeareth? For He is like a refiner's fire. (Malachi 3:2)

Recitative
Miss Frame
Behold, a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call his name Emmanuel: God with us. (Isaiah 7:14; Matthew 2:23)

Aria with Chorus
Miss Frame
O thou that tellest good tidings to Zion, get thee up into the high mountain! O thou that tellest good tidings to Jerusalem, lift up thy voice with strength! Lift it up, be not afraid! Say unto the cities of Judah, Behold your God! O thou that tellest good tidings to Zion, arise, shine, for thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee! (Isaiah 40:9)
Recitative

For, behold, darkness shall cover the earth, and gross darkness the people; but the Lord shall arise upon thee, and His glory shall be seen upon thee, and the Gentiles shall come to thy light, and kings to the brightness of thy rising. (Isaiah 60:2, 3)

Aria

The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light: and they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined. (Isaiah 9:2)

Chorus

For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given; and the government shall be upon His shoulder; and His name shall be called Wonderful, Counselor, The Mighty God, The Everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace. (Isaiah 9:6)

Pastoral Symphony

Recitative

There were shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And lo! The angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them, and they were sore afraid. (Luke 2:8-9)

Recitative

And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day, in the city of David, a Savior, which is Christ the Lord. (Luke 2:10-11)

Recitative

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host, praising God and saying: (Luke 2:13)

Chorus

Glory to God in the highest, and peace on earth, good will toward men. (Luke 2:14)

Aria

Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion; Shout, O daughter of Jerusalem: behold, thy king cometh unto thee. He is the righteous Saviour, and He shall speak peace unto the heathen. (Zechariah 9:9-10)
Recitative

Then shall the eyes of the blind be opened, and the ears of the deaf unstopped. Then shall the lame man leap as an hart, and the tongue of the dumb shall sing. (Isaiah 35:5-6)

Aria

He shall feed His flock like a shepherd, and He shall gather the lambs with His arm, and carry them in His bosom, and gently lead those that are with young. (Isaiah 40:11)

Aria

Come unto Him all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and He will give you rest. Take His yoke upon you, and learn of Him, for He is meek and lowly of heart, and ye shall find rest unto your souls. (Matthew 11:28-29)

Part Two

Aria

He was despised and rejected of men, a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief. (Isaiah 53:3)

Chorus

Surely He hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows; He was wounded for our transgressions; He was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon Him. (Isaiah 53:4-5)

Recitative

Thy rebuke hath broken His heart; He is full of heaviness; He looked for some to have pity on Him, but there was no man, neither found He any to comfort Him. (Psalm 69:20)

Aria

Behold and see if there be any sorrow like unto His sorrow. (Lamentations 1:12)

Recitative

He was cut off out of the land of the living; for the transgression of Thy people was He stricken. (Isaiah 53:8)

Aria

But Thou didst not leave His soul in hell; nor didst Thou suffer Thy Holy One to see corruption. (Psalm 16:10)
Chorus

Hallelujah! For the Lord God Omnipotent reigneth. The kingdom of the world is become the kingdom of our Lord and of His Christ; and He shall reign for ever and ever, King of Kings, and Lord of Lords, Hallelujah! (Revelation 19:6; 21:15; 19:16)

Part Three

Aria Miss Raffauf

I know that my Redeemer liveth, and that He shall stand at the latter day upon the earth. And though worms destroy this body, yet in my flesh shall I see God. For now is Christ risen from the dead, the first fruits of them that sleep. (Job 19:25-26)

Recitative Mr. Rice

Behold, I tell you a mystery; we shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet. (1 Corinthians 15:51-52)

Aria Mr. Rice

The trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed. (1 Corinthians 15:52-53)

Chorus

Worthy is the Lamb that was slain, and hath redeemed us to God by His blood, to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing. Blessing and honour, glory and power, be unto Him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb, for ever and ever. Amen. (Revelation 5:12-13)

Concerto for Oboe
Strauss, a German composer, is well known for his operas and orchestral works. He was a very influential composer during the late-Romantic and early 20th century eras. This piece was composed near the end of his life in 1945. This work is a three-movement work. Following World War II Strauss was living in Garmisch, Bavaria, a town that American soldiers had secured after the war. Before the war one of these soldiers, John de Lancie, had been the principal oboist with the Pittsburgh Orchestra. He and Strauss became friends, and one day de Lancie asked if Strauss had considered writing an oboe concerto. Strauss simply replied, “No.” The idea grew on Strauss and he wrote this concerto. It was premiered in Zurich in 1946. Strauss’s friend de Lancie was shocked that he had written the concerto and Strauss even gave him the rights for the American premiere. The first movement is written in D major but does not stay there very long.

Concerto in C Major K. 314
Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart was one of the most prolific and influential composers of the classical era. He began composing early in his life and continued until the very end of his life. This three movement concerto was written during 1777. While this concerto was first written for the oboe, Mozart later reworked it into a flute concerto. Both of the works are well known and are played often by oboe and flute players. The second movement of the concerto, which is more lyrical and passionate, is written in F major.

Concerto in C minor
Alessandro Marcello was given a lot of time to pursue his musical interests as he was the son of a senator in Venice. He was a Baroque composer whose works are not often played today. His most famous work is his oboe concerto in C minor which is often mistakenly contributed to his brother, Benedetto. The oboe concerto was originally written for oboe, strings, and harpsichord. Piano is now played to replace the harpsichord. There are versions of this concerto written in D minor, but it has been discovered that the C minor version is the original. This concerto was written with only 2 flats in the key signature suggesting that the key is actually C Dorian and not C minor. However, it was also common practice in the Baroque era to write minor key signatures with one flat less than the key states.

NOTES

Toujour, by Gabriel Fauré (1845-1924), is based on a poem entitled Poème d’un Jour by Charles Grandmougin (1850-1930). The passion behind this piece can be heard in the driving accompaniment as well as the melody.

Translation:
You ask me to be silent, to flee far from you forever, and depart in solitude without remembering the one I loved! Rather ask the start to fall into the infinite, the night to lose its veils, the day to lose its brightness! Ask the boundless ocean to drain its vast waves, and when the windless rage in madness, to still their mournful cries! But do not believe that my soul will free itself from its bitter sorrows, and cast off its fire, as spring casts off its flowers.

The delicate accompaniment in Nuit d’Etoiles, by Charles-Marie Jean Albert Widor (1844-1937), supports the text and melody with beautiful harp-like arpeggios.

Translation:
Starlit spaces, beneath you laces, where the perfumed night-winds sigh, as through swaying harp strings straying, here I dream of loves gone by. Over my heart sweet melancholy comes in tender gloom to brood, and I feel my loved one’s spirit hovering near in the slumbering wood. Through the dark and leafy shadows, when I sigh though scarce aloud. You return poor sleepless spirit, pale and warm and in the shroud.

Vergebliches Ständchen is a dialogue between a man and a woman. He is persistent, but she will not allow his advances, and she stands by her decision, telling him—poetically—to get lost.

Translation:
He: Good evening, my treasure, good evening, sweet girl! I come from love of you, Ah, open the door for me!

She: My door is locked, and I won't let you in: My mother has advised me well! If you came in, it would all be over for me!

He: The night is so cold, and the wind so icy that my heart will freeze, my love will be extinguished! Open for me, sweet girl!

She: If your love starts dying, then let it be extinguished! If it keeps dying, go home to bed, and rest! Good night, my boy!
Nur wer die sehnsucht kennt expresses the loneliness and sadness that one feels because of a broken heart. The only one who can understand the pain is someone who is experiencing the same sadness.

Translation:
None but the lonely heart can know my sadness, alone and parted far from joy and gladness. Heaven's boundless arch I see spread out above me! Oh, what a distance drear to one who loves me. My senses fail, a burning fire devours me. None but the lonely heart can know my sadness.

Ständchen, one of nearly 200 songs composed by Johannes Brahms (1833-1897), treats the theme of love in a mood that is quite cheerful.

Translation:
The moon hangs over the mountain, so fitting for love-struck people. In the garden trickles a fountain; otherwise, it is still far and wide. Near the wall, in shadows, there stand the students three: with flute and fiddle and zither, they sing and play there. The sounds waft up to the loveliest of women, gently entering her dreams. She gazes on her blond beloved and whispers: "Forget me not!"

Ludwig van Beethoven (1770-1827), undoubtedly one of history’s most famous composers, produced an incredible variety of musical compositions. The tempo of In Dieses Grabes Dunkel is lento (slowly) which is very fitting for the somber mood.

Translation:
In this dark tomb let me lie; you should have thought of me when I was alive, you ingrate. At least leave naked specters to enjoy their peace and do not bathe their ashes with futile venom.

Aubade

Translation:
The dawn is born, and your door is shut! My dear, why do you sleep? At the hour when the rose wakes are you not going to get up? O, my charming one, listen here, the lover who sings and weeps as well! All things knock at your blessed door. The dawn says: I am the day! The bird says: I am harmony! And my heart says: I am love! I adore you, my angel, and love you, my beloved. Only for you has God has completed me. He has made my love for your soul, and my glance for your beauty!
Bonjour Suzon!

Translation:
Good morning, Susie, my flower of the woods! Are you still the prettiest? I return to see you from a great journey to Italy, through paradise I have made a tour; I have made some verses and made love too. What's it to you? I pass before your house, open your door! Good morning, Suzanne! When I saw you in the time of lilacs, your heart was full of new found joy and you said, "I do not wish to be loved yet." What have you done since I left? He who leaves too soon, comes back too late; but what's it to me? I pass before your house; open your door! Good morning, Suzanne!

The aria Non lo dirò col labbro comes from Act I of the opera Tolomeo by G.F. Handel (1685-1759) when Alessandro first sees the Elisa and instantly falls in love with her.

Translation:
I will not say it with my lips, which have not that courage; perhaps the sparks of my burning eyes, revealing my passion, will speak.

In Handel’s opera Alcina the lovely aria Verdi prati is sung when a young man realizes that he must leave the island on which he has landed, knowing that the island and the beautiful woman trying to seduce him are actually illusions, and their beauty will haunt him forever.

Translation:
Green meadow, lovely woods, you will lose your beauty. Pretty flowers, rapid brooks, your charm and beauty will soon change. The beautiful object has changed to the dismay of the first glance, then everything will return in you.

In Voi che Sapete, from the opera The Marriage of Figaro, the young boy Cheribuno sings about the idea of love and how the very thought of it causes many different feelings that are new to him.

Translation:
Ladies, you who know what love is, look to see if it is in my heart! Let me tell you how I feel, it’s so new to me; I don’t understand it. I feel so full of desire that sometimes it is a pleasure, then it is agony. I’m freezing cold, then on fire, then in a moment freeze again! I seek something beautiful outside myself; I don’t know who has it, I don’t know what it is. I sigh and I groan without control, I quiver and tremble. I cannot find any peace night or day, and yet, I like this strange new pain! You, ladies, who know what love is, look to see if it is in my heart!
In Voce di Donna, from the opera La Gioconda, La Cieca has been accused of witchcraft and sentenced to death. After Luke and Laura save her life, she recalls the tale dramatically, and she leaves a blessing for Laura.

Translation:

O voice of woman or angel who has freed me from my chains, my blindness forbids me the sight of your saintly face. Still you cannot leave me without a pious offering: I offer you this rosary, pray accept it. With my prayers added it will bring you blessing. May my benediction be on your head.

Carl Engel (1883-1944) was a pianist, musicologist, and publisher. In Sea Shell, the soloist sings about all the different sounds or “songs” that one might hear when putting sea shell to her ear.

Bryceson Trehame (1879-1948) wrote Corals in 1919. The flowing piano accompaniment mimics the sounds of the waters of the ocean as the soloist sings about a beautiful mermaid.

From the musical Peter Pan, written by Leonard Bernstein (1918-1990), Never-Land is sung by mermaids from the magical place that Peter Pan calls home. In this duet, mermaids sing about their wonderful, carefree life.

From the musical The Little Mermaid by Alan Menken (b. 1949) Beyond My Wildest Dreams occurs toward the beginning of Act II. Overwhelmed by the splendor around her (and the proximity to the object of her affection), Ariel finds a melody for her thoughts.

Jesus, Lover of my Soul and O, rest in the Lord were selected to summarize what my spiritual journey has been throughout my college career. I have experienced my fair share of storms, and my patience has been tested time and again. The one thing to get me past every obstacle was the Lord. He is my rock and my foundation, and these songs are an expression of my gratitude towards Him.
Love Changes Everything, from the musical Aspects of Love, lists all the different attributes of love. It can change your life in a moment and it can also break you just as fast. Once you experience true love, your life will never be the same.

TRANSLATIONS

Va per lo mare
The little boat, over wave after wave, sails on the sea which surrounds it, in like fashion, my heart, in the sea of love, now descends, now rises, as it is thrust about by the storm you create.

Dir chi’o t’amì
To say that I love you, o dear one, is not enough, for all my thoughts are of you, but if you think well of my love, you will know that it was inspired by your beauteous face.

Lieder eines fahrenden Gasellen (Songs of a Wayfarer)

2. Gieng heut Morgen ubers feld
The morning I went through the fields, dew still hung on the grasses, there said to me the gay finch: “Oh, you there! How is it? Good morning! How goes it? Will it not be a beautiful world? A beautiful world? Zink! Zink! Beautiful and brisk! How I do like the world!” Also the blue bell by the field has gaily, sprightly, with its little bells, kling, kling, kling, kling, rung out its morning greeting: "Will it not be a beautiful world? A beautiful world? Kling! Kling! Kling! Kling! A beautiful thing! How I do like the world!" High-ho! And there began in the sunshine right away the world to sparkle; everything, everything gained sound and color! In the sunshine! Flower and bird, large and small! Good day! Good day! Is it not a beautiful world? Oh, you! Isn’t it? Oh, you! Isn’t it? A beautiful world! "Now won’t my happiness begin too?! Now won’t my happiness begin too?! No! No! That which I seek, can never, never more blossom for me!

4. Die zwei blauen Augen
The two blue eyes of my sweetheart they have sent me into the wide world. Then I had to part from my best beloved place! Oh blue eyes why did you gaze at me!? Now I am forever in sorrow and pain! I have gone out in the silent night, in the silent night over the dark heath; nobody bid me farewell. Farewell! Farewell! Farewell! My comrade was love and sorrow! By the road stands a linden tree, there for the first time I rested in sleep! Under the linden tree! It snowed its blossoms over me then I did not know how life can hurt, everything, everything was well again! Oh, everything well again! Everything! Everything! Love and sorrow, and world, and dream!

Du meines Herzens Krönelein (You, Little Crown of my Heart)
You, little crown of my heart, you are of pure gold; you appear even lovelier. When others display their cleverness, you are so sweet and quiet, that every heart is given joy because of your charm, not your design. The others seek love and gain with thousands of false words; you, artless in speech and glance, prove your worthiness in every way. You are like the forest rose, which is not aware of its blossom's beauty, yet, to everyone who passes by, it gives delight and inspiration.

Ich trage meine Minne (I carry my Love)
I carry my love, mute with rapture, in my heart and my mind wherever I go. Yes, our encounter, dearest one, cheers through all the days’ allotted to me. Though skies are grim, and jet-black is the night, brightly shines my love's sun-like splendor. And though deceitful is the sinful world, and it grieves me, its wretchedness will be blinded by your snow-like innocence.

Ach, ich fühls (Ah, I feel)
Ah, I feel it, it has vanished, love's happiness has vanished! Never come you, hours of bliss, those hours of bliss will never return to my heart again. See, Tamino, these tears flow, beloved, for you alone. If you no longer feel the longing of love, then I will find rest in death.

Arietta all' antica (The Reproach)
In silence I will complain about my bitter fate but not to love you, dear, do not hope to obtain that from me. Cruel one, why do you still let me suffer like this? You are cruel! Do not wish it upon me.

Porgi, amor (Grant, love)
O Love, give me some remedy for my sorrow, for my sighs! Either give me back my darling or at least let me die.

Le Charme (Op. 2. No, 2)
When you surprised me with your smile, all my being thrilled with emotion; what it was unmanned me the while, I had not at first any notion. And when your glances fell on me, all my soul was melted with in me; what this sudden passion might be, 'twas beyond my pow'r to define me. But the charm that made me your slave is one that grief holds in its keeping: I did not know 'twas love I gave, till that day when I found you weeping.

Aurore (Op. 39. No.1)
From the gardens of the night the stars fly away, golden bees attracted by an unseen honey. And the dawn, in the distance, spreading the brightness of its canvas, weaves silver threads into the sky's blue mantle. From the garden of my heart, intoxicated by a languid dream, my desires fly away with the coming of the morn, like a light swarm to the coppery horizon, called by a plaintive song, eternal and far away. They fly to your feet, stars chased by the clouds, exiled from the golden sky where your beauty blossomed, and, seeking to come near you on uncharted paths, mingle their dying light with the dawning day.

Les Berceaux (Op. 23. No.1)
Along the quays, the large ships, rocked silently by the surge do not heed the cradles which the hands of the women rock, but the day of farewells will come, for the women are bound to weep, and the inquisitive men must dare the horizons that lure them! And on that day the large ships, pleing from the vanishing port, feel their bulk held back by the sound of the far away cradles.

Le Bestiaire
1. Le Dromadaire (The Dromedary)
Once, with his dromedaries four, did the gallant knight, Don Pedro, wander abroad, to see the world? If I had dromedaries, too, that is what I should like to do.
2. La Chevre du thibet (The Goat From Tibet)
Nay, goat, thy fleece prize not, nor yet that one, the fleece of gold, by Jason captured; for dearer far to me are the locks of my own true love.
3. La Sauterelle (The Grasshopper)
Grasshopper, merry little fellow! Food of the Holy Saint John, would that, like thee, my little verses all might have a charm of their own!
4. Le Dauphin (The Dolphin) everything well again! Everything! Everything! Love and sorrow, and world, and dream!
Dolphins, as ye dance in the sea, heed ye not how false it be? Ever so, in brief hours of gladness, I forget life and all its sadness.
5. L'Eerevisse (The Crab)
Oh! Earthly joys, unsure are ye! Like the crabs on the wild seashore, so you and I walk backwards, too. So you and I, walk backwards, too.
6. Le Carpe (The Carp)
Within your tranquil, shining pools, Carp, what a long life is yours! Can it be that death pass'd you by, oh! Carp with melancholy eye?

TRANSLATIONS

Hochgetürmte Rimaflut
High and towering river Rima, thou art so drear, On thy shore I mourn aloud for thee, my dear! Waves are fleeing, waves are streaming, rolling o'er the shore afar to me; on the riverbank of Rima let me weep for her eternally!

Wißt ihr, wann mein Kindchen
Know ye, when my loved one is fairest of all this? If her sweet mouth rosy, jest and laugh and kiss. Maiden heart, mine thou art. Tenderly I kiss thee. Thee a loving heaven hath created just for me! Know ye, when my lover dearest is to me? When in his fond arms, he enfolds me lovingly. Dear sweetheart, mine thou art. Tenderly I kiss thee. Thee a loving heaven hath created just for me!

Lieber Gott, du weißt
Dear God, Thou know'st how oft I've rued this: that I gave my lover once a little kiss. Heart's command I kiss him, how dismiss? And long as I live I'll think of that first kiss. Dear God, Thou know'st how oft in still of night, how in joy and pain on him my thoughts delight. Love is sweet, though bitter oft to rue; my poor heart is his and ever, ever true.

Rote Abendwolken ziehn
Rosy evening clouds hang in the firmament, longing-filled for thee, my love, my heart is rent; heaven glows with splendrous light and I dream by day and night but of thee, of the sweetheart dear to me.

Charmant Papillon
Charming butterfly, whose golden wing fills space like a flower! Why can’t I fly away behind you like a sister? Charming butterfly, whose golden wing traverses space like a flower! I would like to fly with you like a sister! You barely alight on the tender rose leaf in the space you flit through. Oh, how brief your good days! Charming butterfly, whose golden wing fills space like a flower! I want to fly with you like a sister!
Regret
When I see the summer sky, mild and stilled, you come into my mind, as if you were a dream, and my true ache for you loves and draws out the hours when I was dearly loved. The stars will shine in deepest night; the sun will shine in the clear day, a part of you floats in the air and penetrates my memory. Something of you that once was mine: since I possessed all your thoughts, It is my soul, betrayed, forlorn, that still belongs to you, just you.

Vieille Chanson
The besotted Myrtill has caught in the woods the dainty warbler; you, my lovely bird, he told him: are meant to be a present for my shepherdess if I offer you for a present she will show her gratitude with kisses, if my Lucette usually gives me two for a bouquet for such a present it will be ten for sure for the warbler. The warbler however had his mate in the valley and as soon as possible wriggled free and dashed away on clapping wings. Och! Thought the despairing shepherd, no more kisses from my Lucette! All my hopes flew away on the wings of the warbler! Sadly Myrtill returned to the close wood mourning his loss. But there, be it mere luck, be it destiny was his Lucette. Well aware of his good intentions she left her hideaway and said: rest assured, you only lost the warbler.

Non So Piu Cosa Son
I no longer know what I am, what I do; now I'm all fire, now all ice; every woman changes my temperature, every woman makes my heart beat faster. The very mention of love, of delight, disturbs me, changes my heart, and speaking of love, forces on me a desire I cannot restrain! I no longer know what I am, etc. I speak of love while I'm awake, I speak of love while I'm sleeping, to rivers, to the shadows, to mountains, to flowers, to the grass, to fountains, to echoes, to the air, to winds, until they carry away the sound of my useless words. I speak of love when I'm awake, etc. And if no one is near to hear me I speak of love to myself.

Dille Ch'il Viver Mio
Tell her I shall end my days with her lovely name upon my lips, and thereafter send her piteous kisses from the mournful shadow.

Vieni, Vieni O Mio Diletto
Come, my beloved. My affectionate heart waits impatiently for you, forever calling your name.

La Pastorella Sul Primo Albore
A shepherdess at the first light of dawn sings of love while her flock grazes nearby. She is not jealous because her shepherd also is held by the bonds of love.

DAY OF PERCUSSION

featuring

Casey Cangelosi
Ricardo Flores
Jane Boxall
Kevin Nichols
ONU Percussion Ensemble and Faculty
ONU Drumline and Pit

8:30 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.
Friday, February 8, 2013
Larsen Fine Arts Center
Thank you for visiting the campus of Olivet Nazarene University. We are glad you are participating in our second annual Day of Percussion Festival. We hope that you find today exciting and inspiring.

In the percussion department we are honored to host this festival using the facilities of our own Larsen Fine Arts Center. Today’s artists will use our brand new inventory of percussion instruments including an Adams 5 octave Rosewood Artists Classic Marimba, a set of 5 Adams Hand Hammered Copper Bowl Timpani, 2 Pearl Philharmonic Snare Drums, a large selection of Sabian Hand Hammered Cymbals, a full set of Pearl Mahogany Concert Toms, and much more.

The ONU bands and orchestras frequently perform throughout the Midwest. The Olivet percussion department has given feature performances at the 2010 Illinois PAS Day of Percussion and the 2009 Nazarene General Assembly and Conventions.

I hope you will take a moment to visit our booths that are set up in the lobby today. Here you will find students and professors that can answer questions about all of the ensembles and majors we offer here in the Music Department at Olivet including Drumline and Percussion Ensemble. You will also find a large amount of materials that you can feel free to take home with you including recordings of the ONU percussion department, copies of our ONU percussion studies handbook, and copies of the sheet music to our drumline warm-ups and our most recent field show from last year’s marching season.

We hope you will consider joining us for future performances including the Percussion Ensemble concert on February 27th. Enjoy your day here at Olivet Nazarene University.

Thank you for coming,

Dr. Matt Jacklin

|       |               | The Art of Drumset: A Solo Voice is a musical presentation that takes the instrument out of its own musical “box.” Reflecting the drum set and its evolution, this recital is an eclectic compilation of works composed to highlight the melodic side of the instrument. Works by John Cage and Frank Zappa demonstrate the range of compositional interest voiced by numerous renowned composers. David Schmalenberger and Janis Mercer, conveying the language of world and contemporary art music, express a “united nations” of instrumental components and cultural influences, in compositions. Finally, paying homage to the 100 years of the instrument’s existence, portions of the recital will represent the embedded Jazz heritage with works by Warren “Baby” Dodds and Max Roach. |

Composer, educator, and award winning percussionist, Casey Cangelosi is a “Voice of the new generation” -Fernando Meza, 2010 International Marimba Festival. His composition style and boundary-pushing virtuosity has nicknamed Cangelosi “The Paganini of Percussion” among his peers and “a marimbist of magisterial power and insight” by the Classical Marimba League.

Cangelosi has performed at some of today’s most recognized festivals including the PiteD Percussion Repertoire Festival in PiteD, Sweden; the 2010 International Marimba Festival in Minneapolis, Minnesota; the 2011 Zeltsman Marimba Festival in Appleton, Wisconsin; PASIC 2011 in Indianapolis, Indiana; and the Zivkovich International Marimba and Percussion Summer Academy in Engers, Germany. In the 2011-2012 academic year alone, Cangelosi appeared as an invited guest-artist/clinician to over 30 universities, high schools, and middle schools including the University of Alaska FairBanks, University of Texas at El Paso, Middle Tennessee State University, University of Delaware, University of North Florida, Juan Diego High School, and the Toledo Center for the Arts.

Cangelosi has received numerous composition awards from the Massachusetts Percussive Arts Society, Sam Houston State University, and the Classical Marimba League. Since 2011, he has been commissioned for over 20 compositions by many performing institutions, universities, companies, ensembles, and individual soloists.

Casey has won several performance awards from academic institutions as well as the Percussive Arts Society, and is an MTNA National Young Artist. Casey Cangelosi is proudly sponsored by ProMark, Majestic, Mapex, Remo, Beiner Bags, Grover Pro Percussion, and Zildjian.
Ricardo Flores

Artist, performer, and educator—Percussionist Ricardo Flores has been electrifying audiences for years playing classical percussion, drum set, and world percussion in orchestral, chamber, jazz, pop, Latin and many other musical settings. He joined the faculty at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign in 2000 where he holds the title of Associate Professor on the Percussion Faculty specializing in drum set and Latin percussion and directs the Steel Band / World Percussion Ensemble.

Flores has appeared with numerous groups and artists including the Cleveland Jazz Orchestra, the Jack Shantz Jazz Unit, the Akron Symphony, the Ohio Chamber Orchestra, the Cleveland Ballet and Opera Orchestras, Cleveland Pops Orchestra, the Naples Philharmonic, the Symphony of Southwest Florida, the Florida Orchestra, Luciano Pavarotti, Aretha Franklin, Diane Shuur, Tony Bennett, Alex Acuña, Hal Linden, Mitzi Gaynor, Louie Bellson, Terry Gibbs, the Four Freshmen, Jiggs Whigham, Victor Mendoza, John Riley, Howard Johnson, Vernon Reid, John Faddis and Peter Erskine.

Currently Principal Percussionist of the Champaign-Urbana Symphony and the Sinfonia da Camera, Ricardo also plays drums and Latin percussion with various jazz groups throughout the Midwest. He has presented concerts, clinics and master classes throughout the United States, Canada, Europe, China and South America at such venues as the Eastman School of Music, Northwestern University, The Florida State University, the Hartt School of Music, the 2005 Percussive Arts Society International Convention in Columbus, OH, the 2005 Tri-C Jazz Festival in Cleveland, the 2008 International Association of Jazz Educators Conference in Toronto, the Sichuan and the Wuhan Conservatories and the Second Dalian International Broadcasting Music Festival (China), the Sixth International Percussion Forum in Zagan, Poland, the 2nd International Congress of Percussion and the Crossdrumming Festival in Jelenia Gora and Warsaw, Poland and the Fourth Patagonian Percussion Festival in Argentina. In 2006 he performed on the Carnegie Hall stage as a soloist with the University of Illinois Wind Symphony.

Ricardo can be heard on recordings with performers such as Arturo Sandoval, Dan Wall, Kenny Anderson, Chip Stevens, the Jack Shantz Jazz Unit, the Cleveland Jazz Orchestra and Sinfonia da Camera. He is former President of the Illinois Chapter of The Percussive Arts Society and serves on the PAS Drum Set Committee.
Kevin Nichols

Kevin A. Nichols, Associate Professor of Music at Western Illinois University, teaches applied percussion and percussion methods course, coach jazz combos, and is the Drumline Instructor/Arranger for the Marching Leathernecks. Outside of WIU, he is active as a performer, director, clinician and adjudicator throughout the Midwest and Southwest.

Recently, he received a Doctor of Musical Arts degree from the University of Iowa. The focal point of his research focal point is compositions written for drum set as a multi-percussion instrument. Presentations of his research have been hosted by McKendree University, Kansas State University, Oklahoma City University, Bradley University, and Chicago State University. He holds two Master of Music degrees from Northwestern University, in Jazz Pedagogy and Percussion Performance, as well as a Bachelor of Music degree in Percussion Performance from Illinois Wesleyan University.

Active on the drum set, he is a member of the John Cooper Jazz Orchestra, Peoria Heritage Ensemble, Savoy Stompers, and the Matt Warnock Trio. His WIU performances include solo recitals, the Faculty Chamber Series, and Summer Music Theatre. Dr. Nichols is also a founding member of the resident faculty jazz combo, the Hopper Jazztet.

Mr. Nichols is a member of the PAS Drumset Committee and a former officer for the Illinois Chapter of PAS. He is a member of M.E.N.C., C.M.S., and Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia.

Mr. Nichols is an Educational Artist for the Avedis Zildjian Cymbal Company and Remo, Inc.
Matt Jacklin

Matt Jacklin is an engaging artist and educator. Currently, he is the Director of Percussion Studies at Olivet Nazarene University in Bourbonnais, IL where he teaches applied percussion lessons, arranges for and teaches the drumline and front ensemble for the marching band, directs the percussion ensemble, conducts the concert band, and co-directs the jazz band. He has been featured in concerto and solo recital appearances throughout the Midwest and Southwest. He is also active as an orchestral percussionist, performing most recently with the Kankakee Valley Symphony Orchestra, the Heartland Festival Orchestra, and the Sugar Creek Symphony and Song Opera Festival. In addition, Jacklin performs frequently on Steel Drums in local venues throughout central Illinois. In 2001, he presented a solo electronic percussion clinic and demonstration at the Percussive Arts Society International Convention. In 2011, Jacklin completed the Doctoral of Musical Arts degree from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

Jane Boxall

Percussionist Jane Boxall is an award-winning international concert artist. Born in the UK, Jane completed two degrees in music at the University of York before relocating to the United States in 2004. She studied with renowned percussionist William Moersch at the University of Illinois, earning a doctorate in percussion performance. Jane has performed and toured in the US, UK, Italy, Belgium, France and Ireland. Currently living in Vermont, Jane is an enthusiastic music educator, working with students from pre-school to University. Jane keeps a busy schedule as a solo marimbist, playing new music and vintage ragtime. She is one half of piano-marimba ensemble Ricochet Duo, one half of Snap-Drag drum duo, one third of Drumshtick percussion group, one third of riot-grrrl punk band Doll Fight! and an in-demand session drummer and percussionist. Jane plays and endorses Coe Percussion marimbas, District Drum Company snare drums and Vic Firth sticks and mallets.
Andy Miller

Andy Miller is a freelance percussionist currently teaching at Olivet Nazarene University where he teaches private lessons and co-directs the percussion ensemble. His undergraduate studies were in percussion performance at Wright State University and he went on to pursue a Masters degree made possible by the Swanson Family Percussion Fellowship at the University of Illinois. In 2010 he appeared twice as a concerto soloist with the University of Illinois Wind Symphony and Symphony Orchestra. Andy has performed with the Dayton Philharmonic Orchestra, the Champaign-Urbana Symphony Orchestra, has improvised dance accompaniment for Kirstie Simson and members of the Trisha Brown Dance Company, and recorded with the Afro-pop group Rhythm Manding. He was awarded a Fulbright fellowship to Colombia in 2011 where he studied contemporary percussion interpretation at the Pontificia Universidad Javeriana and organized the Contemporary Percussion Sound Exchange Project that culminated in a series of concerts given in Bogotá premiering new works for percussion by American and Colombian composers. Currently, Andy is working to develop a Pan-American approach to contemporary percussion repertoire and interpretation as well as exploring improvisation for percussion and dance.

NOTES

Romance No.1 and No.3
Robert Schumann, a German composer, was profoundly influenced by literature and an ongoing battle for the love of his life. His three romances are song-like and demonstrate how artistically-successful works do not need to be overly complex. Tonight you will hear the first romance, which features an expressive oboe theme and an inventive piano accompaniment, and the third romance, which inverts the approach of the preceding romance by being more rhythmically involved and stark.

The Five Sacred Trees: I and III
John Williams, a well-known American film score composer, created The Five Sacred Trees for Judith LeClair, the principal bassoonist of the New York Philharmonic in 1995 to honor the orchestra's 150th anniversary. The first movement of the concerto, Eó Mugna, is named after the oak tree. It opens with a long bassoon solo that lends solemnity to the piece. John William writes “Eó Mugna, the great oak, whose roots extend to Connia's Well in the 'otherworld,' stands guard over what is the source of the River Shannon and the font of all wisdom.” The third movement of the concerto, Eó Rossa, is named after the yew tree. It was believed that this tree had power over destruction and rebirth and it was referred to as "a mother's good" or "Diadem of the Angels".

Adagio
Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, an Austrian composer, is widely recognized as one of the greatest composers in the history of Western music. His Adagio has a melodic, expressive English horn line, however the accompaniment was never completed and many scholars believe that composing had become quite difficult for him toward the end of his life. The English horn melody can also be found in some of his choral works.

Suite for English Horn and Bassoon
Alan Hovhaness was an American composer of Armenian and Scottish ancestry. His music often evokes a mood of mystery or contemplation. The Boston Globe music critic Richard Buell wrote: "Although he has been stereotyped as a self-consciously Armenian composer, his output assimilates the music of many cultures". This work represents the early period of his output that is not well-known. The three movements of the suite are marked Adagio espressivo, Allegro grazioso, and Andante espressivo, and are purely melodic throughout. The middle movement is a gentle dance, while the outer movements have a quality of mystical contemplation that seems almost free form. This unfailingly calm and soothing music shows that Hovhaness had a gift for long, flowing melodies from the very beginning of his career.

Nancy
Nancy, by Emmanuel Séjourné, is a short work for solo marimba. Séjourné wrote this piece as a gift to his close friend, world-renowned marimbist, Robert Van Sice who had recently lost a family member to cancer. It is a very quiet work, which never gets louder than mezzo-forte. The piece also allows the performer to play with the tempo. This gorgeous piece of music by one of the well-known masters of marimba is a moderately-difficult work but requires some advanced techniques.

Swan of Tuonela
The Swan of Tuonela is an 1895 tone poem by the Finnish composer Jean Sibelius. This piece was originally composed as the prelude to The Building of the Boat, which recounts Lemminkäinen's travels at the edge of the underworld in Finnish mythology, Tuonela. Lemminkäinen is told he must kill a swan that swims in Tuonela's water in order to win a beautiful maiden's love. Sibelius decided that the melancholic timbre of the English horn fit the role of the swan perfectly. At the top of the score Sibelius wrote: “Tuonela, the land of death, the hell of Finnish mythology, is surrounded by a large river of black waters, and a rapid current, in which The Swan of Tuonela glides majestically, singing.”

THE SETTING

It is the early 1960s.
All action takes place in Skid Row and Mushnik’s Skid Row Florist Shop.
Taihla Eddins (Ronnette) is a sophomore criminal justice and psychology double major from Bloomington-Normal, Ill. She is currently a member of Orpheus choir and wind symphony. She would like to thank her family and friends for their support and hopes that everyone enjoys the show.

Alyssa Norden (Crystal) is a senior music education and a vocal performance major with a musical theatre minor. Her freshman year, she was in ONU’s productions of Little Women and Cotton Patch Gospel. She also recently played Tammy in KVTA’s production of Hairspray. Alyssa is a member of Concert Singers and wants to thank her friends and family for their support.

Ashley Sarver (Chiffon) is a sophomore journalism major with a political science minor from Urbana, Ohio. She previously appeared on Olivet’s stage in Once Upon a Mattress as Queen Aggravain. She would like to thank her family for their support.

Seth K. Lowery (Mushnik) is a junior from Kankakee, Ill., studying music performance. He has been featured as a soloist in Handel’s Messiah and Olivet’s Commencement Concert, and performed the role of the Jester in Olivet’s production of Once Upon a Mattress. He was also the music director of Green Room’s “Broadway Revue.” He is very pleased to take the ONU stage again with such a talented cast.

Lillian Guenseth (Audrey) is a junior vocal performance major with a minor in musical theatre from Galesburg, Ill. This will be her third musical at Olivet. A couple of her favorite roles include Robin from ONU’s production of Godspell and Miss Adelaide from Guys and Dolls. She is a member of Orpheus Choir, Concert Singers and Green Room.

Ben Geeding (Seymour Krelborn) is a junior from Manteno, Ill., majoring in music ministry and minoring in political science. This is Ben’s first production on the Olivet main stage. He is a member of The Olivetians, Orpheus Choir and Concert Singers. He also directed Olivet’s show choir, The Clefhangars, for a semester.
the Cast

Mark Bishop (Orin, Bernstein, Snip, Luce et al.) has been a professor of communication at Olivet for the past twelve years, teaching television, video production and film studies. For the past eight years, he’s also been the Saturday morning meteorologist at WLS-TV, ABC 7 in Chicago. He’s thrilled to be working with the students in Little Shop of Horrors, a show that he says has been on his “bucket list” for years.

Nicholas Allen (Derelict, Audrey II manipulation) is a sophomore at Olivet. He is majoring in multimedia studies with a double concentration in broadcast journalism and film studies. He first hit Olivet’s stage last school year when he appeared in the fall play production of These Shining Lives. Nick’s other stage credits at Olivet include Once Upon a Mattress, Metamorphoses, All I Really Need to Know I Learned in Kindergarten and just recently in God’s Favorite. He is so blessed to be a part of the theater program and to get another opportunity to work with a great director and cast. The Little Shop of Horrors happens to be Nick’s favorite musical of all time, and he is honored to be involved! He is also the chaplain of Green Room, the University drama club, and is incredibly excited to see what God has in store for this wonderful department.

Wesley James Taylor (Audrey II voice) is a senior marketing major. He has appeared previously in dozens of productions, most recently in Once Upon A Mattress and Godspell on Olivet’s stage, and in Hairspray with KVTA. Audrey II is one of his dream roles, and Wesley is very excited to bring this character to life. He’d like to thank his family for their support, and the directors and a wonderful cast for a fun ride!

Tessa Dattilo (Assistant to the director) This is the fifth production that Tessa has been involved with on Olivet’s main stage. You might have seen her in “Broadway Revue” in 2011 and 2012, as well as Once Upon A Mattress. She worked in the light booth for last year’s Metamorphoses and this year’s fall production, God’s Favorite.

Variations on a Theme of Robert Schumann was written on commission for the North Hills High School Band in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and was premiered by this excellent ensemble and their fine director, Warren Mercer, at the 1969 Eastern Region Music Educators National Conference in meeting in Washington, D.C. The theme is “The Happy Farmer,” and the variations evolve one from the other throughout the work using rhythmic, melodic and intervallic relationships for the basis of their variance. The basic structure is as follows: Theme, The Happy Farmer (also known as the “Red Wing Polka.”) Variation I, Theme is juxtaposed throughout “solo” voices in a Haydn-esque fashion Variation II, Flutes outline theme in scherzo-like style Variation III, Free variation on rhythmic values. Variation IV, Melodic and intervallic variation. Variation V, Distortion of melodic line in rhapsodic variation. Variation VI, Rhythmic variation of theme.

- Program note by the composer

Bernhard Heiden (1910-2000) was born in Frankfurt am Main and received his musical training at the Hochschule fur Musik in Berlin where he studied with Paul Hindemith from 1929 until 1933. In 1935 he came to the United States and settled in Detroit where he was active as a composer, arranger, and conductor. Diversion for Alto Saxophone and Band was composed while he served with the 445th Army Service Forces Band during WWII. He received his M.A. degree in Musicology from Cornell University in 1946 and in the same year joined the faculty of the Indiana University School of Music where he served as Professor of Music and longtime Chairman of the Composition Department until his retirement in 1981. Mr. Heiden is the recipient of numerous commissions and grants, including a Guggenheim Fellowship, grants from the Fromm Music Foundation, the National Endowment for the Arts, and “Meet the Composer”.

The blue hour is an oft-poeticized moment of the day - a lingering twilight that halos the sky after sundown but before complete darkness sets in. It is a time of day known for its romantic, spiritual, and ethereal connotations, and this magical moment has frequently inspired artists to attempt to capture its remarkable essence. This is the same essence that inhabits the sonic world of John Mackey’s Hymn to a Blue Hour.

Programmatic content aside, the title itself contains two strongly suggestive implications - first, the notion of hymnody, which implies a transcendent and perhaps even sacred tone; and second, the color blue, which has an inexorable tie to American music. Certainly Hymn to a Blue Hour is not directly influenced by the blues, per se, but there is frequently throughout the piece a sense of nostalgic remorse and longing - an overwhelming sadness that is the same as the typically morose jazz form. Blue also has a strong affiliation with nobility, authority, and calmness. All of these notions are woven into the fabric of the piece - perhaps a result of Mackey using what was, for him, an unconventional compositional method.

- Jake Wallace

On an October night in 1926, George Gershwin, wound up from rehearsals of his Broadway-bound musical Oh! Kay, found himself unable to sleep. He turned to a popular new novel, Porgy, about African-American life in the Charleston ghetto written by a white South Carolinian named DuBose Heyward. The composer was enthralled and read until dawn. His savvy theatrical sense told him this was a story crying out for dramatic treatment, and he promptly fired off a letter to Heywood expressing his interest in using it for a future opera. But Gershwin admitted he didn’t have the technical knowledge yet to tackle such an ambitious project. It would be another nine years before Porgy and Bess had its premiere. At last in 1933, Gershwin felt ready to embark on his operatic project. The first major piece he composed was the enchanting "Summertime," sung at the beginning of the opera. The most intense period of work, however, came during the summer of 1934 when Gershwin rented a cottage near Heywood's summer home on Folly Island, off Charleston, and immersed himself in local Gullah and black culture. Gershwin was dazzled by the spirituals and the Gullah tradition of "shouting": accompanying spirituals with complicated rhythmic patterns beaten out by hands and feet. Back in New York, George's brother Ira joined the creative team to write many of the lyrics. Porgy and Bess opened at Broadway's Alvin Theater on October 10, 1935. The audience loved the show, but critics were more reserved. Especially they questioned what kind of work Porgy and Bess was: musical, operetta, or opera? Gershwin maintained it was an opera and had followed the operatic conventions of using continuous music with the dialogue largely in sung recitative. This version, for alto saxophone and wind band, was arranged by Ralph Hermann.

In 1992 I composed a concerto for traditional jazz band and orchestra, Playing With Fire, for the Jim Cullum Jazz Band and the San Antonio Symphony. That work was composed as a celebration of the traditional jazz music I heard so often while growing up near New Orleans. I experienced tremendous joy during the creation of Playing With Fire, and my love for early jazz is expressed in every bar of the concerto. However, after completing it I knew that the traditional jazz influences dominated the work, leaving little room for my own musical voice to come through. I felt a strong need to compose another work, one that would combine my love of early jazz with my own musical style. Four years, and several compositions later, I finally took the opportunity to realize that need by composing Blue Shades. As its title suggests, the work alludes to the Blues, and a jazz feeling is prevalent -- however, it is in not literally a Blues piece. There is not a single 12-bar blues progression to be found, and except for a few isolated sections, the eighth-note is not swung. The work, however, is heavily influenced by the Blues: "Blue notes" (flatted 3rds, 5ths, and 7ths) are used constantly; Blues harmonies, rhythms, and melodic idioms pervade the work; and many "shades of blue" are depicted, from bright blue, to dark, to dirty, to hot blue. At times, Blue Shades burlesques some of the clichés from the Big Band era, not as a mockery of those conventions, but as a tribute. A slow and quiet middle section recalls the atmosphere of a dark, smoky blues haunt. An extended clarinet solo played near the end recalls Benny Goodman's hot playing style, and ushers in a series of "wailing" brass chords recalling the train whistle effects commonly used during that era.

— Frank Ticheli
Eugene Rousseau has performed across North America and on five continents since his Carnegie Hall debut. The legendary saxophonist Marcel Mule described Rousseau as "a brilliant saxophonist and distinguished artist," and critics the world over have echoed Mule's praise.

Rousseau's artistry has inspired many "firsts." He gave the first solo saxophone recitals in Paris, Berlin, Vienna, London, and Amsterdam. He has given a yearly master course at the prestigious Mozarteum in Salzburg during 1991-2001, marking the first time that the saxophone was included at that institution. He has premiered numerous works written for him, including the Partita by Juan Orrego-Salas (with the Haydn Trio of Vienna), Jindřich Feld's Sonata for alto saxophone and piano, and Concerto for saxophones and orchestra, Bernhard Heiden's Fantasia Concertante for alto saxophone and winds, Hear Again in Memory, by Frederick Fox, Don Freund's Skyscrapings for alto saxophone and piano, and Concertos by Libby Larsen, Claude Baker, and David DeBoor Canfield.

Rousseau has appeared with the Minnesota Orchestra under Leonard Slatkin, the Pan-American Festival Orchestra under Lukas Foss, the Indianapolis Symphony under Raymond Leppard and Phillipe Entremont, the BBC Orchestra in London, the Janáček Philharmonic (Czech Republic), the Prague Symphony, the Kansai Philharmonic (Osaka), the Santiago Philharmonic (Chile), the recitals and master classes throughout the world on a variety of topics related to his instrument. His solo performances include appearances with the U.S. Army Band at Kennedy Center, the Budapest Strings in Hungary, and the Tokyo Bach Band, as well as the Hamamatsu International Wind Instrument Festival in Japan.

The Chicago-born Rousseau's service to the saxophone community is of long standing. Since 1972, he has been the Yamaha Corporation's chief consultant for saxophone research, contributing to the development of acoustic improvements in saxophones and mouthpieces. In 1985, he recorded a video program for Yamaha, Steps to Excellence. Rousseau co-founded the World Saxophone Congress in 1969 and has been President of both the North American Saxophone Alliance (1979-80) and the Comité International du Saxophone (1982-85). In May 1998, he was honored as a Distinguished Alumnus by the University of Iowa, at which institution he earned the Ph.D. degree, his principal teacher being Himie Voxman. He holds the title of Distinguished Professor of Music at Indiana University, having served on the IU faculty from 1964 to 2000. Dr. Rousseau joined the faculty of the University of Minnesota School of Music in fall 2000. In 1993, Eugene Rousseau was designated an honorary faculty member of the Prague Conservatory. In 2003, Rousseau and the University of Minnesota School of Music hosted the 13th World Saxophone Congress Convention.
Harlow Hopkins was born and educated in Flint, Michigan. He made his musical debut in the high school band and orchestra. In 1949, he began a music major at Olivet specializing in clarinet. He is noted as being the first student ever selected to direct Orpheus Choir in a piece while on tour. While a senior in ONC he was selected Who’s Who in American Colleges and Universities. Upon graduation, Dr. Walter Larsen offered him a position at Olivet, and so he taught part-time in '53 and began full-time in '54. Serving his country in the Army, the last 13 months of duty were spent traveling Europe with the Seventh Army Symphony which promoted goodwill between the US and European countries. During this time he also continued to work on his master's degree at America’s Conservatory of Music in Chicago. He received his master's degree in '56 after typing the thesis during Army leave.

Dr. Hopkins then returned to Olivet in 1957 and began his 39 year span as director of band. During '86-'70 he conducted the Kankakee Symphony and played first clarinet in the Kankakee Symphony Orchestra from 1972 - 2012.

In the 1973-74 academic year he was named “Outstanding Educator” and in '74 was an Olivet Alumni Layman “O” Award recipient. He also received his doctorate in 1974 from Indiana University.

Dr. Harlow Hopkins and his wife, Harriet ('53), fund the Hopkins Family Instrumental Scholarship, which is offered annually to an outstanding instrumental music major. Goodwin Hall was renamed in 1994 as the Hopkins Alumni House to honor Dr. Harlow E. Hopkins, professor of music from 1954-1996 and chair of the Division of Fine Arts from 1974-1996.

L. van Beethoven

Allegro con brio
Mr. LeFevre

Dr. Gerald Anderson, piano
Piano Sonata No. 2
Norman Dello Joio studied under Paul Hindemith in the early 1940’s. This sonata, composed in 1943, gives evidence of how Hindemith had a great influence on Dello Joio’s compositional ideas. It was Hindemith who told Dello Joio, "Your music is lyrical by nature, don’t ever forget that" (excerpt from a biography on the official Norman Dello Joio website). Music of this time period tended to be very systematic, but Hindemith encouraged Dello Joio to stay true to himself as a composer, and avoid staying attached to the “system”. Despite completing his first Sonata in only four days, Dello Joio spent a myriad of time on this work, making sure he took Hindemith’s advice to heart.

Variations sérieuses, Op. 54
In 1841 a monument was to be constructed in honor of the great Ludwig van Beethoven. In honor of this historic event Viennese publisher, Pietro Mechetti requested the greatest composers of the day to compose pieces for an anthology that would raise funds specifically to benefit the monument. Mendelssohn was reluctant to do so at first. He felt under-qualified to represent a composer as great as Beethoven. However, he eventually submitted the final draft of this, his Variations sérieuses (Variations on a theme in D minor).

Concerto for Piano No. 3 in C minor, Op. 37
This concerto is oddly reminiscent of the C minor concerto written by Mozart. It is said that Beethoven was greatly influenced by Mozart, and that he pays tribute to him in many other works as well. Despite the presence of these Mozartean ideas, Beethoven still manages to make the work his own through great lyricism in the themes he presents and the presence of unexpected or unique modulations. One of the similarities between the concerti is that in the first movement of each work, there is an extended orchestral tutti in which the pianist is expected to wait patiently for several minutes before he enters.

Mr. LeFevre presents this recital in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the Bachelor of Music degree with emphasis in piano performance. He is the student of Dr. Gerald Anderson.

Una voce poco fa
A voice has just echoes here into my heart. My heart is already wounded and it was Lindoro who shot. Yes, Lindoro will be mine. I’ve swore it, I’ll win. The tutor will refuse, I’ll sharpen my mind. Finally he’ll accept, and happy I’ll rest. Yes, Lindoro will be mine. I’ve swore it, I’ll win. I’m gentle, respectful, obedient, sweet, loving. I can be ruled and I can be led. But if I’m crossed with love, I can be a viper! And I’ll play a hundred tricks to get my way!

Questo amor
This shameful love of mine, I wish to forget; but by a horrible spell my emotions are enslaved. A thousand times to heaven I swore to flee from her! And to her I returned! She laughs at my tears of my indignation. She sneers and I, a coward, with a crushed heart at her feet I lay prostrate and of her alone I dream, I desire! Ah misfortune! I love her.

Che fiero costume
How cruel are the ways of that pitiless god to make us worship him by making us suffer! The treacherous deity compels me in my passion to idolize a pleasing appearance. O evil fate, that a sightless infant, his mouth still full of milk, can command my respect. Yet this false and barbarous tyrant has entered through my eyes to bring me grief.

Liebeslieder (Love Songs)
Rings die natur: Nature lies peaceful in slumber and dreaming, midnight hath locked her in loving embrace; far through the forest, light breezes are streaming, peace falls from heaven, a gentle grace. Flowers are sleeping, waves ever singing, murmuring shyly the old artless lay. Rapturous dreams over all lightly swinging. Care and unrest and all strife fly away. Radiant starlight of faith, and of promise. Heaven and earth are now blended in one; Once crowned with gladness, to joy responsive. Where is a heart now, so heavy as mine? Where is a heart now, so heavy as mine!

Du einzig teure: Thou only dear one, but for thee my heart shall glow forever; though dark fate should bid us sever, mine in spirit, art thou ever. Oh were I but a fair white swan! Afar I’d bear love, winging; to thee my heart, my last sweet song, Even dying, to thee bringing, even dying to thee bringing.

Ich grolle nicht
I bear no grudge, even though my heart may break, eternally lost love! I bear no grudge. However you may shine in the splendor of your diamonds, no ray of light falls in the darkness of your heart. I have long known this. I saw you in a dream, and saw the night within the void of your heart, and saw the serpent that is eating your heart- I saw, my love, how very miserable you are.

Das wandern
Wandering is the miller’s joy, wandering! He must be a miserable miller, who never likes to wander. Wandering! We’ve learned this from the water, from the water! It does not rest by day or night, it's always thinking of its journey, the water. We see this also with the wheels, with the wheels! They don't like to stand still, and turn all day without tiring. With the wheels. The stones themselves, heavy though they are, the stones! They join in cheerful dance, and want to go yet faster. The stones! Oh, wandering, wandering, my joy, oh, wandering! Oh, Master and Mistress, let me continue in peace, and wander!

Als die geliebte sich trennen wolte
The hope that once I cherished now is dead, for she I loved to other arms has fled; to thee o Death this heart I now resign, remembering the joy that once was mine. And yet I know this love will still enslave me, nor age, nor time, nor separation save me; for still I see, in all my wild despair, thine image, thine image, so sweet and so wondrous fair. O gentle Hope, if now I am forsaken, and if no more her love I can awaken, in all my dreams, in all my waking hours, I triumph, I triumph, in happy memories healing power. Then think not, love, that this fond heart lies bleeding, nor for thy faithless love will e'er be pleasing, thine image swells within this lonely heart, forget thee, forget thee? Not till life and light depart, not till life and light, till life depart.

Quatre Chansons de Jeunesse
Pantomime: Pierrot, who is nothing like Clitandre, empties a bottle without ado and ever practical, cuts into a pate. Cassandre, at the end of the avenue, sheds a concealed tear for his disinherited nephew. That impertinent Harlequin schemes the abduction of Columbine and whirls around four times. Columbine dreams, surprised at the feeling a heart in the breeze and at hearing voice in her heart. Pierrot: The good Pierrot, whom the crowd observes, having finished Harlequin's wedding, follows the boulevard du Temple in a dream. A little girl in a supple bodice teases him, in vain, with her roguish eye; and meanwhile, mysterious and smooth, making fun of her dearest delicacy, the pale moon with the bull's horns darts a glance with her eye into the wings to her friend Jean Gaspard Debureau.

Rose Cherie
Dear Rose so cherished, my lovely flower! Dear rose so cherished, come to my heart! See how it blossoms, this tender flower! Ah, flower divine, be always mine. Dear rose so cherished, dear rose so cherished, come to my heart. Dear rose so cherished. Come and gently die on my heart. Dear Rose so cherished, come and gently die on my heart, gently die on my heart!

Ah! forse e lui...Sempre libera
How strange it is... how strange! Those words are carved upon my heart! Would true love bring me misfortune? What do you think, o my troubled spirit? No man before kindled a flame like this. Oh, joy...I never knew...to love and be loved! Can I disdain this for a life of sterile pleasure? Was this the man my heart, alone in a crowd, delighted many times to paint in vague, mysterious colors? This man so watchful yet retiring, who haunted my sick-bed and turned my fever into a burning flame of love! That love, the pulse of the whole world, mysterious, unattainable, the torment and delight of my heart. It's madness. It's empty delirium! A poor, lonely woman abandoned. What can I hope? What should I do? Plunge into the vortex of pleasure and drown there! Enjoy myself! Free and aimless I must flutter from pleasure to pleasure, skimming the surface of life’s primrose path. As each day dawns, as each day dies, gaily I turn to new delights that make my spirit soar!

Tous les trois reunis
Here we are, all we three, you and I, you and he. I was never so glad, so excited. Is it you? Is it true? What a joy, once again! Once again reunited! I was never so glad and excited! Is it you? Is it true? What a joy. It’s too good to be true, we’re united again, it’s too good. I can hardly believe are together again. What a joy! Those were the days! We were so happy! I missed you so. You went away! The good old days are here again!

NOTES

In the Broadway musical Hello, Dolly! Cornelius confesses to Irene that he is not rich, but he loves her anyway, and he expresses this is the poignant It Only Takes a Moment.
Based on the novel Professor Fodorski, the show All American deals with the unlikely collision of science and sports. Once Upon a Time is the enduring love song from the show.

O Mio babbino caro (Translation)
Oh my Daddy dear, I like him, he is very handsome. I want to go to Porta Rossa to buy the ring! Yes, yes, I want to go there! And if my love were in vain, I would go to Ponte Vecchio and throw myself in the Arno! I am pining and I am tormented, oh God! I would want to die! Daddy, have pity, have pity! Daddy, have pity, have pity!

Vedrai, carino (Translation)
You will see, my dear if you'll be good the cure I have for you! It's natural It won't give you disgust though no apothecary can prescribe it. It's a certain balm I carry within me which I can give you, if you'll try it. You want to know where I keep it? Then feel it beating, put your hand here.

Die Forelle (Translation) The Trout
In a bright little brook there shot in merry haste a capricious trout: past it shot like an arrow. I stood upon the shore and watched in sweet peace the cheery fish's bath in the clear little brook. A fisher with his rod stood at the water-side, and watched with cold blood as the fish swam about. So long as the clearness of the water remained intact, I thought, he would not be able to capture the trout with his fishing rod. But finally the thief grew weary of waiting. He stirred up the brook and made it muddy, and before I realized it, his fishing rod was twitching: the fish was squirming there, and with raging blood I gazed at the betrayed fish.

An Die Nachtigall (Translation) To the Nightingale
He slumbers sweetly on my heart my guardian angel sang lullabies. Now I can happily and lightly - enjoy every flower and every leaf - and every petal... nightingale, ah! Nightingale, ah! Sing not my love awake.

Les Papillons (Translation) The Butterflies
The snow-white butterflies fly in swarms over the sea. Beautiful white butterflies, when can I travel the blue path of the air? Tell me, oh beauty of beauties my dancing-girl with the jet-black eyes-if they were to lend me their wings, tell me, do you know where I would fly? Not taking one kiss from the roses, I'd fly across valleys and forests to alight on your half-closed lips flower of my soul, and there I'd die.

Claire de Lune (Translation) Moonlight
Your soul is a select landscape where charming masqueraders and revelers go playing the lute and dancing and almost Sad beneath their fantastic disguises. All sing in a minor key of victorious love and the opportune life, they do not seem to believe in their happiness and their song mingles with the moonlight, with the still moonlight, sad and beautiful, that sets the birds dreaming in the trees and the fountains sobbing in ecstasy, the tall slender fountains among marble statues.

The beauty of God’s creation is explored in this set of French and German songs. Franz Schubert is best known for his contribution to the German lieder genre, for which he wrote over 600 songs. ‘Les Papillons’ and ‘Claire de lune’, while written by separate composers, are both part of larger song cycles. Each cycle encompasses different aspects of late romantic era Parisian life, including the search for love and descriptions of beauty.

Ich liebe dich (English Translation)
I love you, just as you love me, in the evening and in the morning; there was no day, where you and I didn’t share our sorrows. Shared by you and me they were easy to endure; you comforted in sorrow me, I cried in your laments, Therefore God’s blessing upon you, you, my life’s joy. God protect you, keep you for me, protect and keep us both!

Nur ver die sehnsucht kennt (Translation)
Only the longing knows, realizes, what I suffer! Alone and separated from all joy, look I to the firmament to where my beloved is. Ah! Who loves and knows me is in the distance. It stuns me, it burns my heart. Only the longing heart knows what I suffer!

Heidenröslein (Translation)
Saw a boy a little rose, little red rose on the heath, young and lovely like the morning. So he ran to have a close look at it, and gladly did. Little rose, little rose, little red rose on the heath. Said the boy: I will pick you, my red rose on the heath! Said the rose: I will prick you and I won't stand it, and you won't forget me. Little rose, little rose, little red rose on the heath. And the rough boy picked the rose, little red rose on the heath, and the red rose fought and pricked, yet she cried and sighed in vain, and had to let it happen. Little rose, little rose, little red rose on the heath.

En Prière (Translation)
If the voice of a child can reach you, o my Father, listen to the prayer of Jesus, on his knees before you! If you have chosen me to teach your laws on earth, I will know how to serve you, noble King of kings, O Light! On my lips, Lord, place the salutary truth, in order that he who doubts should with humility revere you! Do not abandon me; give me the necessary gentleness, to ease suffering, to relieve sorrow, the misery! Reveal yourself to me, Lord, in whom I believe and hope: for you I wish to suffer and to die on the cross, at Calvary!
Après un rêve (Translation)
In a sleep which your image charmed I dreamed happiness, ardent mirage; your eyes are softer, your voice pure and clear you radiated like a sky brightened by the dawn; you called me, and I left the ground to flee with you towards the light; the skies between us opened their clouds; unknown splendours, divine gleams... Alas, alas, sad awakening from dreams! I call you, o night, return to me your illusions; return, return radiance return, O night mysterious!

Stornello (Translation)
You say that you don't love me, so I don't love you. You say that you reject me, so I reject you. You'll have your fish-hook set for other fishes so I will pick new roses in other gardens. Let us agree about it, now, together: you behave as you like and I'll do as I please. I'll devote to myself, each one commands me, servant to everyone, but I won't serve anyone. A constant love affair is only madness. Inconstantly I live with pride and boldness. I won't be scared of you. If I will meet you I won't cry anymore if you shall leave me, just like a nightingale out of his cage all night and day long I'll rejoice and sing.

Luna d’estate (Translation) Summer Moon
Summer moon, I have a dream in my heart and I go on singing all night by the sea: I stopped at a flower-decked window because my soul has caught the fever of love. I stopped at a flower-decked window where there are two spellbinding eyes. And whoever sees them suffers from love and dreams with desire, summer moon! Summer moon, love is like the sea and my heart is a constantly moving wave: but it can only be stopped by her eyes and her rosy lips. And I go on singing all night by the sea because of two sleeping eyes. I have tears in my eyes and hope in my heart and I shine like you, summer moon!

Una donna quindici anni (Translation) A Woman of Fifteen Years
A woman of fifteen years must know all the good methods, where the devil keeps his tail, what's good and what's bad. She must know the little malices that enamor lovers: to feign laughter, to feign tears, and invent good reasons. She must pay attention to a hundred at a time speak through her eyes with a thousand give hope to all, be they handsome or ugly, know how to bewilder without getting confused and know how to lie without blushing. And this queen from her high throne can make them obey with, "I can," and "I want." (It seems they like this doctrine; long live Despina, who knows how to serve!) Three very different aspects of love are explored in this set of three Italian songs. 'Stornello', composed in 1869, describes a romantic who is coping with unrequited love by rejecting the lover she once sought. The melody is characterized by short, speech-like phrases that reflect the sauciness of the tune. 'Luna d’estate' is a Neapolitan art song composed in 1911. The longing of love is expressed not only in the lyrics written by Riccardo Mazzola, but in the rolling swells of the melody and the climactic ends of the verses. “Una donna quindici anni” is from the opera Cosi fan tutte and is sung by Despina, the maid of the two main female characters. In this aria, Despina tries to convince the two girls to flirt with other men while their beaus are away. Despina advises the girls on how to behave around men, and describes a flirtatious aspect of love.

Amarilli (Translation)

Amaryllis, my beautiful one, O my heart’s sweet desire, do you not believe, that you are my beloved? Believe it nevertheless, and if fear assails, to doubt it does not avail you. Open my heart, and you will see written upon it, Amaryllis, my love.

Deh Vieni Alla Finestra (Translation)

Ah, come to the window, O my treasure, ah, come to console my sorrow. If you deny to me to give some comfort, I’ll die before your eyes. You that have a mouth sweeter than honey, you whose heart is made of sugar, do not be cruel with me, let yourself at least be seen, my beautiful love.

I Hate Music – A Song Cycle

The music and lyrics for the song cycle, ‘I Hate Music’, were written by Leonard Bernstein and dedicated to Edys Merril, his friend and roommate for a time. It is said that as Bernstein would be composing or working with singers in their apartment, Edys would walk around with her hands over her ears, saying, “I hate music!” The song cycle consists of five songs that are written from the point of view of a ten year old girl named Barbara. Each song explores a different part of childhood: the curiosity of life’s mysteries, the pure excitement of a new idea, and the whimsicality of a joke.

Ici-bas (Translation)

Down here all the lilacs die, all the songs of the birds are short, I dream of summers that last forever! Down here the lips lightly touch without leaving any of their softness, I dream of kisses that last forever! Down here, all the men weep about their friendships or their loves, I dream of couples that last, that last forever!

Lydia (Translation)

Lydia on your pink cheeks and on your neck cool and so white, falls glittering the fluid gold that you loosen. The day that shines is the best, Let us forget the eternal tomb; let your kisses, your dove-like kisses sing on your blossoming lips. A hidden lily emits unceasingly a heavenly fragrance in your breast; pleasures in swarms exhale from you, young goddess I you love and die, oh my loves, my soul is carried off in kisses! Oh Lydia give back my life, that I may forever die!

The Song with the Violins and A Summer in Ohio

These contemporary songs consist of two light-hearted tunes that were both composed within the past 20 years. “The Song with the Violins” is described by the composer as a “light comedy song”, wherein Bucchino describes a slightly crazy person waiting for her date to arrive. Bucchino also makes a musical notation: “Lightly, with neurosis”. “A Summer in Ohio” is from the musical The Last Five Years, which outlines the relationship of Cathy and Jamie from the beginning of their romance to their divorce over the course of five years. This particular song is sung by Cathy as she writes Jamie a letter about her life in Ohio.

In Go the Distance, from the Disney film Hercules, the title character is looking to find his place among the Gods (his family), but he realizes his place among the mortals. This sentiment fits my journey in life, searching to find the path God has laid out for me.

I See the Light, from Tangled, demonstrates the singers’ love for Disney films and their personalities: the innocent princess and hopelessly romantic “wannabe” prince.

Thank you for turning off cell phones and for not using flash photography.
Ludwig van Beethoven’s piano Sonata No. 30 (Op. 109) was one of his last three compositions. Written in 1820, the piece leaves the more grandiose style of works and returns to a more intimate style. Although a quieter piece, Opus 109 is a very sophisticated work with intricate dynamic changes and melodic complexity. Enjoy the work as one of Beethoven’s last and most developed pieces.

A Minute of News
In 1987 Stuart Smith had a goal of publishing a volume of snare drum solos - to "elevate" the snare drum to the level of a solo concert instrument. He asked many leading composers if they would be interested in writing for snare drum, hoping there would be enough positive responses to make a book. The response was so enthusiastic and so immediate that there are 4 volumes of snare drum solos, each piece distinct and expressive. A Minute of News is just one of the many pieces from The Noble Snare series. In this piece a specific Latin rhythm (Clave) is used often throughout the piece. The performer is asked to use many different sounds from the instrument as well as different sticks.

Touches was written in 1980 by Leonard Bernstein for the 1981 Van Cliburn Piano Competition, an intense, three-week, annual competition for the top pianists of the world. The piece is structured as a theme and variations. The main idea, or theme, is presented at the start; after this, it is repeated again and again with different character and style. At the time of its composition, Bernstein’s favorite piece was Aaron Copland’s Piano Variations, and this is evident in its structural influence seen in Touches.

Ghanaia
Written by Mattias Schmitt as an homage to the rhythms of Ghana, Ghanaia has become a very popular solo for marimba. Schmitt’s use of African rhythms combined with his European musical experiences make this piece a joy to play. The piece uses some very important 4-mallet techniques such as Double Vertical and Single Vertical techniques.

Piano Concerto No. 2 in C minor is written for piano and orchestra. The second movement, which is being performed tonight, is in the key of E major. It was completed by Rachmaninoff in 1901, and quickly carried the composer to fame. This beautiful piece marked the composer’s recovery from a bout of depression and writer’s block that he suffered for three years after his first symphony had been ill-received by critics. A sense of deep peace and contentment pervades this work, as a testament to recovery and restoration.

Furioso and Valse
Dr. Earl Hatch was born in Greely, Colorado on August 24, 1906. His parents were both musical and he started his career as a snare drummer at six, and trap drummer with the Theater Orchestra at the age of ten. His first time playing marimba was with a pit orchestra in local theater. During that time there was an incident when his mallet head accidentally hit an audience member between her eyes at a play. When the local paper found out they did a story on the incident with the title: "Dead Eye, the Mallet Slinger". After that, his long music career continued until his death. Other jobs include Walt Disney percussion and music at other movie companies. His own designed bass marimba can be heard in the movies such as "Dr. Zhivago", "Sound of Music" and "The King and I". This piece is somewhat tongue-in-cheek as it dramatically switches back and forth from furious anger to a light-hearted blissful waltz.
The Drei Intermezzi (Op. 117) of Brahms were composed in the autumn months of 1892, only a few years before his death in 1897. These gentle pieces are a contrast to others that he wrote during the same time period, being of a more gentle and sensitive nature. He described them as "lullabies to my sorrows." The three pieces were inspired by a Scottish poem from Herder’s Volkslieder: (Translation: Sleep softly my child, sleep softly and well! It hurts my heart to see you weeping.)

Concerto for Timpani and Orchestra

William Kraft (b. 1923, Chicago) has had a long and active career as composer, conductor, percussionist, and teacher. In the summer of 2002, he retired as chairman of the composition department and holder of the Corwin Chair at the University of California, Santa Barbara. From 1981-1985, Mr. Kraft was the Los Angeles Philharmonic’s Composer-in-Residence. In 1984 he composed Concerto for Timpani and Orchestra for a concerto writing competition and took second place. This piece has three movements, the third being a very driving, fast, and very complicated movement.

Wind Symphony
Terra
Terra is inspired by earth and her complex features. Thus the music serves a reflection of organic impressions, colors, and personas rather than plot. The listener is taken on a walking tour, led to musical colors that reflect the wonder and complexity of nature.

Voice of Terra
Voice of Terra is a work for symphonic orchestra presented in six movements. The composer employs the unique voices of the Four Elements—Water, Earth, Fire, and Air—in order to embody the “song” that all creation sings. Each of these elements is represented through the use of a specific orchestral group.

I. Approaching Terra
The composition begins as delicate strings and subtle woodwinds present a field of stars through which the listener draws ever closer to a familiar blue and green planet: Terra, as it is named in Latin.

II. Water- The Mover
Water’s power, versatility, and soothing nature are characterized by strings. Perhaps its most majestic form is the ocean. From the clarity of a calm morning at sea to the fury of a storm, this movement reflects upon the element whose sheer force alters the face of land, and whose ceaseless call pulls at the heart of humanity.

III. Earth- The Giver
Encompassed by the element of Earth, land provides us with nutrients and a place to call home. Its solid essence is represented through the voices of brass. This movement is rhythmic and prestigious, but also melodious and joyful. From hills and mountains to deserts and plains, land takes various forms which here parade before the listener in a military-like march.

IV. Fire-The Destroyer
Fire is mysterious and bright. It is an essential part of our existence, but, at times, the allure of its power may offer a chance for fire to reveal its true nature: destruction. The percussion ensemble reflects this element’s duality. The hits of a triangle are the strikes of a match; fire is born. Its impish flames dance hypnotically and then spring out of control. The wall of flame spreads, but soon dies away. The surprising conclusion of the piece cautions those enticed by fire’s powers.

NOTES
Thank you for turning off cell phones and for not using flash photography.
V. Air-The Lifter
Air surrounds us in stillness, caresses us with the wind, and lifts us into the skies; the woodwinds represent this element. A puff of substance becomes a breeze, plays with the wildflowers, and then grows steadily, lifting the listener above a deep canyon. Air’s splendor is found both in its quiet persistence and in its power to propel us into the vast expanses beyond. Air is the lifter, the gateway to larger worlds.

VI. Terra’s Song
Finally, in “Terra’s Song,” creation speaks through human voices. The lyrics in this movement are based loosely off of two Bible verses: Romans 1:20 and Psalm 19:1. The choir’s proclamation lends words to the message creation continuously reveals. After the orchestra recaps each of the elements’ themes—Air, Earth, Fire, and Water—a more exotic presentation of Terra’s theme leads the work to its dynamic conclusion.

After viewing Terra through the lens of space and four different Earth elements, it is evident that our world sings a song that extends to the farthest reaches of the universe. Listen to the song that Terra sings and you will hear the powerful and loving call of our Creator God.

Etude Aire
Etude Aire is intended to be a technical study for the flute as well as an interpretive character piece. The title “Aire” is represented by the melody, which floats about as if being carried by a gentle breeze. The piece provides a challenge in the shaping of phrases as well as the configuration of the passagework.

Reunion
A myriad of feelings take hold of a person, both internally and externally, when he or she is in anticipation. "Reunion" is a reflection of those internal and external feelings that people have in anticipation of seeing an old friend or a loved one whom they have not seen for a period of time. Take notice of the cello and piano duets, and how they correlate with the heart and mind. As something changes in the heart, there is an effect in the mind, and likewise, the mind has a great impact on the heart. As the piece builds and changes, remember a loved one whom you miss greatly, and think forward to the day in which you will meet again.

Sidewalk Scribbles
Sidewalk Scribbles tells the tale of a group of children drawing on the sidewalk with chalk. Each child has their own individual drawings, but they all come together to create one giant masterpiece.

Amnesia
Amnesia is based off of a pitch set using Ab, Bb, Cb, D, E, and Gb. The vibraphone is the melodic line using these pitches in various patterns. The bells mimic the vibraphone while changing the octave, doubling note lengths, or reversing patterns.

Matches Medley
This is a collection of 3 pieces from a musical called "Matches," which is very loosely based on the story of "The Little Match Girl" by Hans Christian Andersen. The story takes place in Depression era New York, and centers around Jane, the "little" match girl, and Kai, her best friend since childhood, with whom she falls in love.

"Opener (My Story)" : The show opens with Jane attempting to sell matches on the street. When no one will buy any, she sits down next to a wall and begins to tell her story to anyone who will listen.

"Mia Princesa": We return to Jane's childhood, where we witness an attempt by four of her wealthy family's servants to kidnap her and hold her for ransom. A plan which is ultimately foiled by the son of the ringleader.

"Paper Silhouettes": Ten years later, Jane's parents have passed away and she is living with her wealthy grandmother. Because of the depression, her grandmother is pushing her to marry someone within her own social stature, so she doesn't run any risk of losing money or reputation. This culminates in a grand ball thrown by her grandmother, where she meets and is forced to dance with dozens of men who are clearly there looking only for a trophy wife. Jane gets fed up with being treated like "nothing more than a paper silhouette on a stage."

Requiem in Bb Minor: 1. Requiem Aeternam
The Requiem is a funeral Mass for the Roman Catholic Church. The text for the Requiem is in Latin, and it vividly pronounces mankind's fear of death and God's power over death. Since the 18th century the Requiem is most known for being both a sacred and secular music genre for chorus and orchestra.

However, this Requiem in Bb Minor is not for a chorus or an orchestra. Instead, this is one of few Requiems written for wind symphony alone. Also this work is not commissioned in memory of a particular person, group or event. Similarly to Hector Berlioz's Symphonie Fantastique, this Requiem is meant to depict a horrifyingly fantastic story that matches the Requiem text in mood and message.

In this first movement there is a young man who is so afraid of death that it keeps him awake at night. Every night he tosses and turns in bed because he fears that he might not wake up. So there he lies in miserable agony, praying for daylight as he slowly fades in and out of consciousness. Finally after several hours he drifts off into a dream with the thought of death still lingering on his mind.
Danger
This tone poem in four parts is designed to sound similar to a score for a fantasy role-play video game. The first part represents a title screen overture. Within this title sequence the hero is introduced as well as the broad and expansive virtual world that the player is about to enjoy. The second part is a scene in a dungeon level. The dungeon is dark and mysterious, with shifting puzzles that baffle the heroic player. The third part is the final boss battle, where the hero must face his ultimate adversary. This driving section heightens the player's nervousness and adrenaline as the battle progresses. Finally the last part is the ending credits as the victorious hero defeats the villain and begins his journey to his peaceful home. This work is intended to bring the fun and excitement of playing a video game to the concert hall.

Genesis
Genesis is based on the idea of a rainstorm. Starting with a light sprinkle from the woodwinds, a simple melody emerges in the oboe and clarinet. The piece gradually builds as the brass enter and new themes emerge. Once the storm finally breaks through as the percussion enters, the simple melody returns but in mixed meters. After the thunderous downpour, the piece returns to the light sprinkle in the woodwinds, this time in 5/4. Similar themes from the beginning appear with different instrumentation as the piece drifts away the same way it began.

Translation
Grant them eternal rest, O Lord, and let perpetual light shine upon them. A hymn becomes you, O God, in Zion, and to you shall a vow be repaid in Jerusalem. Her my prayer; to you shall all flesh come. Eternal rest grant unto them, O Lord, and let perpetual light shine upon them.

Many heartfelt thanks to the faculty and students who participated in making this evening possible for our Olivet composers. We salute you.
Brad Kelley, a 1973 graduate of Olivet, has composing credits that include award-winning music for Universal Studios, Paramount Parks, McDonalds, Disney, IBM, Mazda, ESPN and Fox Television, as well as hundreds of commercials. He has 25 years of experience conducting orchestras in live and televised events throughout the United States and is the music director and conductor for "Disney on Classic," the Japan National Disney orchestra tour.

Since 1985, Brad has been recognized for his extensive work for location-based entertainment venues — including theme and amusement parks — in the U.S., Europe and Asia. He has composed and produced music for simulator rides, 4-D films, Dark Rides, and live theatrical and multimedia shows. In addition, he has a broad background in coordinating orchestral performance with multimedia such as projected image, laser and pyrotechnics.

Specializing in live concert and special-event music direction and conducting, Brad conducted the orchestra for the Grand Opening Celebration of Sea World of Texas; The 25th Anniversary Celebration at Sea World of California; the groundbreaking celebration and the 2001 Grand Opening Gala, attended by Michael Eisner and Roy Disney, for Tokyo Disney Sea.

His concert arrangements are performed regularly by pops orchestras nationwide. He is the author of numerous published collections for chorus, brass and winds, and has served as a clinician for the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences' "Grammy Sessions" program.

His busy recording schedule includes studios in Los Angeles, where he resides with his family, as well as London, Nashville, Tokyo, Dallas and Seattle. He is a member of ASCAP (The American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers), The American Federation of Musicians, the Conductors Guild and The Recording Academy (NARAS). He is also an artist-endorser for Mackie professional music products.

The Brad Kelley Scholarship is given each year by the ONU Music Department to an outstanding music composition student. Students studying composition compile their works throughout the year into a portfolio. The music faculty review the portfolios and determine a recipient. The most recent winners of the Brad Kelley Scholarship are Josh Ring in 2011 and Zachary Kohlmeier in 2012. We greatly appreciate Mr. Kelley for the insight he had in establishing this award and for his financial contribution that has made it possible.

Miniature Viennese March
Fritz Kriesler (1875-1962) was a very well-known violinist and composer from Austria. The Miniature Viennese March was written in 1925 when he was living in Berlin.

The Giving
After 18 years of songwriting, Michael W. Smith (b. 1957) decided to fulfill the dream he had from the beginning to create a fully instrumental album. “The Giving” is one of the pieces from that album, and it is written for orchestra with a prominent piano part. The piece is also arranged for piano solo by Smith. The version played at this recital is arranged for piano trio, keeping the string parts close to what is written in the orchestral version. This arrangement of “The Giving” was written as a gift to Desiree’s mother, who has been one of the main sources of encouragement in her piano study.

Sonata No. 9 in E Major, op. 14, no. 1
Ludwig van Beethoven (1770-1827) composed this piece in 1798-1799 as part of his early works. This was a very important year in Beethoven’s life. It was the year that he started losing his hearing, as well as the year before his very first symphony and his first set of string quartets. One of the first string quartets was actually a setting of this sonata, using many of the same ideas of the exposition, which was written much like a string quartet.

Piano Trio in D Minor, op. 49
Written in 1839, this was Felix Mendelssohn’s (1809-1847) first piano trio. It has been one of his most well-known pieces throughout time, even being performed at the White House for President Kennedy. The piece contains important parts for each instrument, giving the introduction to each new section to the piano. The melodies used in the second movement really contain the qualities of another of Mendelssohn’s most famous works, his Songs Without Words.

L’almanach aux images (The Picture Book)
Gabriel Grovlez (1879-1944) was a French composer, conductor, chamber musician, and music critic who was greatly influenced by composers such as Fauré and Debussy. L’almanach aux images is a collection of eight movements based on poems by Tristan Klingsor. “La Sarabande” is based on a poem that describes the dance known as the sarabande. “Le Pastour” describes a shepherd weeping for the loss of a shepherdess in the form of a melodious song. “Petites litanies de Jésus” contains a storyline of a prayer. It begins by portraying a beautiful picture of Jesus as seen in typical pictures, full of peace and portrayals of Mary and of angels. The middle section then contains a prayer, asking for Jesus’ comfort in frightening times. The end, which is a softer, more muted repetition of the beginning, portrays Jesus’ sacrifice, which offers hope. Roughly translated, the end reads: “Jesus of crossroads and of paths, hung like a dead bird on a wooden cross, with nails in His hands, Jesus of beggars and of kings, smile on me.”
Piano Trio No. I in G Major
Joseph Haydn (1732-1809) composed this work in 1795. Haydn had spent most of his life working for the courts of Esterhazy and Eisenstadt, which were both located near the plains of Hungary, where folk music, especially the music of the gypsies, thrived. This allowed for Haydn to have great familiarity with the style of music, which greatly influenced the third movement of this piano trio, which has been denoted as “Rondo in the gypsy style,” or, as it is known more commonly, the “Gypsy Trio.”

NOTES

Nancy by Emmanuel Sejoume is a short work for solo marimba. A very quiet work, Nancy never gets louder than mezzo-forte. The piece allows for a very liberal tempo. This is a gorgeous piece of music by one of the masters of marimba.

March for Two Pair of Kettle Drums
This march was first performed by the Philidor Brothers in 1685, in the court of King Louis XIV. It is a fine representation of Baroque military timpani/kettledrum composition. This piece was found in a collection of court music that was published by the Philidor Brother in 1705. These marches were written with a high standard of execution on the part of the players.

A Little Prayer is similar to a vocal chorale. This four mallet marimba piece is similar to that of a four part singing group.

Toccata in E Minor

The Italian word, toccata, means “touched.” It is distinct from the sonata, which is “sounded,” and the cantata, which is “sung.” A toccata in the Baroque period was designed to showcase the keyboard player’s touch and skill, typically containing brilliant and flowing sixteenth notes. Bach composed all of his toccatas before he reached the age of twenty-five. This particular toccata is sectionalized but does not contain individual movements. Bach creates thrilling contrast in the four sections of this toccata by alternating between free, improvisatory sections and polyphonic, fugal sections. In the improvisatory sections, the performer is to play as if there is no meter or bar lines; on the other hand, the performer must maintain a steady tempo in the fugal sections.

King of Denmark is an avant garde piece for multiple percussion and is one of the more important pieces for solo percussionist. One major element of this piece is the lack of rhythm. Also, instead of using the traditional staff notation, the composer decided to use a graph with a variety of symbols. There are a few instructions given at the beginning such as: each column equals a quarter note around 66-92 bpm, “R” means to roll, numbers are how many notes to play, and each horizontal line represents a range from high to low as the lines go from top to bottom.

Sonatine

This piece came to be as a result of a friend of Ravel, who encouraged him to write and enter the first movement in a competition for the Weekly Critical Review magazine. The prize was 100 Francs; however, Ravel turned out to be the only entry and was sadly disqualified because he did not fulfill the appropriate length requirements. Even though Ravel did not receive the prize, he ended up writing the second and third movements and published the piece in 1905.

The title, Sonatine, refers to an abbreviated sonata. However, just because this piece is concise in length does not mean that the music is simple. On the contrary—his Sonatine is quite complex and difficult in nature. For example, the third movement includes wild arpeggios, polyrhythms, rapid ostinati in awkward intervals, and hands conflicting with each other at great speed. In fact, when Ravel would perform this piece, he would often play the first two movements and leave out the third movement because it was so technically challenging.

Ostinato Pianissimo is one of the earlier percussion ensemble pieces, published in 1934. It has influences from world music such as gamelan and African drumming. Each member of the ensemble plays a repeated pattern (ostinato), at a very low volume (pianissimo). Each time the patterns repeat, a different set of accents is played. As the piece goes on, layers are added as each performer comes in. With the accents popping out from all the different players at different times, it creates a sort of bubbly texture that sets the feel for the piece.

Capriccio brillant

Mendelssohn wrote this charming piece on one of his visits to England. It functions much like a concerto, with the solo piano and orchestral accompaniment (piano in this case). Mendelssohn was a big fan of Bach’s music and revived several of Bach’s important works, including the famous St. Matthew’s Passion. Given this influence, Mendelssohn combines his passionate Romantic music with traces of Bach’s elegant Baroque style. This can be heard in Capriccio brillant, as the solo piano showcases octaves, chromatic runs, and dizzying arpeggios, all of which are to be played with steady confidence and ease, never pushing ahead but rather enjoying each note in its turn.
Monkey Chant is based on the story Ramayana, and is related to the Balinese performance art Monkey Chant or Kecak. Through percussion, the composer follows the narrative of Ramayana, with specific sounds representing the different characters. For instance, there are springs in the snare drum head that, when struck, represent the antagonist’s 2nd in command.

NOTES
In the opera Die Zauberflöte the high priest Zarastro sings O Isis und Osiris in the temple of the gods Isis and Osiris as a blessing over Papageno and Tamino.

Translation: The spirit of wisdom to the new pair. She who links to her the wanderer's steps, strengthens them with patience in danger. Let them see the fruits of the test but, if they should go to the grave then, the valiant course of virtue rewarded, receive them in your abode.

Widmung

Translation: You my soul, you my heart, you my delight, o you my pain, you my world in which i live, my heaven you, into which I soar, o you my grave in which I have buried forever my sorrows! You are rest, you are peace, you were given to me by heaven. Your love makes me feel worthy, your glance has transfigured me in my own eyes. You lift me lovingly above myself, my guardian spirit, my better self!

Rhapsody in G Minor, Op. 79, No. 2
German composer and pianist Brahms (1833 – 1897) dedicated this piece, written in 1880, to his friend and former student, Elisabeth von Herzogenberg. Based on sonata-allegro form, this piece has three separate themes that occur in the exposition. The first is powerful and majestic, the second beautifully lyrical, and the third dark and brooding. After the repeated exposition, the piece spins into a development based on the first theme in various keys followed by a development based on the third theme.

Sebben Crudele

Translation: Although, cruel love, you make me languish, I will always love you true. With the patience of my serving I will be able to tire out your pride.

Madrigal

Translation: No one had ever lovelier features, a whiter neck, more silken hair; no one had ever a nicer waist, no one besides my Lady of the gentle eyes! No one had ever lips more smiling, which smiling make the heart more glad, a chaster bosom under filmy bodice, no one besides my lady of the gentle eyes! No one had ever voice of sweeter meaning, white little teeth like shining pearls; no one was ever lovelier to the sight, no one besides my Lady of the gentle eyes!

L’Heure exquise

Translation: The forest glows with silver moon from each branch soft voices whisper beneath the leaves. Oh my love... The pool reflects like a deep mirror the silhouette of a black willow where the wind weeps. Let us dream! It is time... A boundless and tender calm seems to descend from the starry heavens. The moment is exquisite!

(La Roxelane) Air with Variations in C Minor
Haydn (1732 – 1809) was an Austrian composer of the Classical period who is now known as “Father of the Symphony” and “Father of the String Quartet.” This theme and variations is a transcription for solo piano from the second movement of his Symphony No. 63 (1777). The theme is in C minor, but the first, third, and fifth variations are in C major.

Thank you for turning off cell phones and for not using flash photography.
It is enough
The oratorio Elijah is a biblical narrative of the prophet Elijah's life. In this aria Elijah is praying for God to take his life rather than serve a rebellious Hebrew people.

Piano Sonata No. 7 in B Flat, Op. 83, “War Sonata #2”
Russian composer, pianist, and conductor Prokofiev (1891 – 1953) wrote a set of three sonatas during World War II. These three are numbered 6, 7, and 8, and are now known as the “War Sonatas.” These three sonatas contain some of Prokofiev’s most dissonant piano music. Written in 1942, this second War Sonata is known as Stalingrad.

The first movement barely resembles the key of Bb. The first theme is quite harsh and brittle, with many pounding cluster chords. The second theme is more flowing and lyrical, but almost in a mocking quality.

The second movement is much more lyrical than the first. On multiple occasions, a bell-toll emerges. Toward the end of the piece, the bell-toll remains for an extended period of time. The piece then fades away after a restatement of the opening theme.

Written in a rapid 7/8, the final movement begins with a pounding Bb triad. The opening theme occurs numerous times throughout the piece, with slight variation. After a highly expanded recapitulation of the opening theme, the piece ends in a furious explosion.

C’Est Moi
The young Lancelot du Lac has come to Camelot to convince King Arthur that he is a worthy addition to the knights of the round table.

Piano Concerto No. 3 in G Major, Op. 45
Rubinstein (1829 – 1894) was a Russian pianist, composer, and conductor who founded the Saint Petersburg Conservatory, the first Russian music school. It was also the school where Prokofiev later studied. This concerto was written in 1853-4. After the orchestra begins the piece with a simple motive, the piano interjects with a thunderous passage. Once this occurs again in a new tonal center, the piano explodes into a fury of technical passages. A beautiful, lyrical theme flows out this explosion, but the piano then proceeds to erupt once more. In the development a new motive is introduced with a highly chromatic accompaniment. After the lyrical theme returns once more, the piece proceeds to build towards the virtuosic ending.

Mandoline
Debussy was working as a musician for his patron, Madame von Meck, at the time of this composition. This piece was most likely written for Mme von Meck, as it is exactly the kind of poetry that would appeal to a wealthy courtier. It is an ode to the secret romantic tendencies of wealthy men for wealthy women.

(Translation) The givers of serenades and the beautiful, listening women exchange insipid words beneath the singing branches. This is Thyrsis and Amyntas, and there’s the eternal Clytander, and there’s Damis who, for many cruel women, wrote many tender verses. Their short, silk vests, their long dresses with trains, their elegance, their joy, and their soft, blue shadows, whirling in the ecstasy of a pink and grey moon, and the mandolin prattles among the shivers of the breeze.

Deux Poèmes de Louis Aragon
These poems were composed by Louis Aragon in the midst of resistance to Germany and the Nazi party during World War II. Poulenc then set these poems to music in 1942 and arranged for the songs to be anonymously published and disseminated. The contrast of these two pieces is clear in both the language used and the musical characteristics, but they are united by a common purpose. One draws attention to a destroyed France, while another is a parody of the ignorance of the aristocracy.

C (Translation)
I have crossed the bridges of Cé. It was there that it all began. A song of times past speaks of a wounded knight, of a rose upon the road and of a bodice unlaced. Of the castle of a mad duke and of the swans in the moats. Of the meadow where I will dance an eternal fiancée and like cold milk I drank the long lay of false glories. The Loire carries off my thoughts along with the overturned cars and the defused weapons and the tears not rubbed away. Oh my France, oh my abandoned one, I have crossed the bridges of Cé.
Fêtes Galantes (Translation)
One sees phony aristocrats on bicycles. One sees hustlers in kilts. One sees snotty children with veils. One sees firemen burning pompoms. One sees words tossed into the street. One sees words raised on the bulwark. One sees the feet of Mary's children. One sees the backs of fortune tellers. One sees cars run on gasoline. One also sees handcarts. One sees rascals hampered by their long noses. One sees coins of eighteen carats. One sees here what one sees elsewhere. One sees debauched young women. One sees young hoods, one sees Peeping Toms. One sees the drowned passing under the bridges. One sees a laid-off shoe salesman. One sees egg-candlers dying of boredom. One sees the decline of solid values. And life fleeting by very rapidly.

Adelaide
This lied was composed by Beethoven in his early twenties. He dedicated the song to the author, Matthisson, who appreciated it greatly. Matthisson was quoted saying, “Several composers have animated this little lyrical fantasy through music; I am firmly convinced however that none of them so threw the text into the shade with their melody as did the genius Ludwig van Beethoven in Vienna.”

(Translation) Your friend wanders alone in the garden of spring, gently bathed in lovely magical light, which shimmers through the swaying branches of flowers: Adelaide! In the reflection of the river, in the snows of the Alps, in the golden clouds of sinking day, in the fields of stars thy face beams forth, Adelaide! Evening breezes whisper through the tender leaves the silver bells at Maytime rustle in the grass, waves roar and nightingales sing, Adelaide! Someday, oh wonder! A flower will blossom, upon my grave from the ashes of my heart; and clearly on every violet petal will shine: Adelaide!

Quanto è bella
This aria is sung by Nemorino, declaring his love for Adina, a wealthy landowner. She ignores his advances, however earnest they may be. The character name “Nemorino” means “little nobody”, and that fits the character’s demeanor perfectly. This is the first of Nemorino’s arias, the latter being “Una furtiva lagrima”. For this reason many consider Nemorino to be a challenging role, as the performer must deliver “Una furtive” after an already-demanding first half.

(Translation) How beautiful she is, how dear she is. The more I see her, the more I like her. But in that heart I am incapable, I can inspire little dearness. She reads, studies, learns. I don't see that she ignores everything. I'm always an idiot. I don't know but to sigh.

Du meines Herzens Krönelein (Translation)
You, my heart’s crown - you are made of sheer gold. When others are beside you, then you are only more beautiful. The others like to be so clever, but you are so gentle and quiet: that you delight every heart is your good luck, not your active intent. The others search for love and good will with a thousand false words, but you, without an artful tongue or eye, are considered worthy in every place. You are like a rose in the forest: you know nothing of your own bloom, but everyone who passes by rejoices in his mind to see you.

At The Round Earth’s Imagined Corners
Britten composed this piece shortly after a tour of European concentration camps. The text was very fitting, as it tells of the end of times, in which all shall be resurrected and behold the glory of God.
Der Erlkönig
This lied was composed by Schubert from a poem by Goethe. This poem contains four characters: a narrator, the father, the son, and the Erlking. Some suggest that a fifth character, the horse, is represented by the “galloping” triplets in the piano. In this poem, the Erlking is a mythical creature that preys on children. Although “Erlkönig” translates literally as “Alder King”, some translate it as “Elf-King”, because it correlates with other Scandinavian legends about an elven king or his daughter.

(Translation) Who rides, so late, through night and wind? It is the father with his child. He has the boy well in his arm, he holds him safely, he keeps him warm. "My son, why do you hide your face so anxiously?" "Father, do you not see the Erlking? The Erlking with crown and tail? My son, it's a wisp of fog. You dear child, come, go with me! Very lovely games I'll play with you; some colourful flowers are on the beach, my mother has some golden robes. My father, my father, and don't you hear what the Erlking quietly promises me? Be calm, stay calm, my child; the wind is rustling through withered leaves. Do you want to come with me, pretty boy? My daughters shall wait on you finely; My daughters will lead the nightly dance, and rock and dance and sing you to sleep. My father, my father, and don't you see there the Erlking's daughters in the gloomy place? My son, my son, I see it clearly: there shimmer the old willows so grey. I love you, your beautiful form entices me; and if you're not willing, then I will use force. My father, my father, he's grabbing me now! The Erlking has done me harm!" It horrifies the father; he swiftly rides on, he holds the moaning child in his arms, reaches the farm with trouble and hardship; in his arms, the child was dead.

NOTES

Sonata, K. 381 for four hands
This delightful sonata was composed in 1772 by Mozart specifically for himself and his sister, Nannerl, to perform. Nannerl was also considered an accomplished pianist, and the two were featured in concert at an early age. According to Alfred Einstein, Mozart’s biographer, the three-movement work can best be described as a reduction of an Italian symphony with its clearly defined string and woodwind parts, and soli and tutti parts are clearly laid out.

Fantasy in F Minor, Op 103
The Fantasy in F Minor, written in 1828 by Franz Schubert, was dedicated to Countess Caroline Esterhazy. The piece is divided into four distinct sections which resemble four separate movements. In the first, Allegro molto moderato, two themes are evident, and both are passed from pianist to pianist, undergoing transformation and transposition. The second section, Largo, may be said to resemble a French overture with its noble dotted rhythms. Repeated fortissimo chords announce the beginning of the third section, Allegro vivace, which is a spirited scherzo-like movement with trio. The piece returns to the initial allegro theme heard at the beginning of the piece, and works its way into a fugue based on the second theme of the allegro. The Fantasy is a work of orchestral dimensions, and demonstrates Schubert’s thorough understanding of this genre.

Danses Andalouses, Ritmo
Manuel Infante, a native of Sevilla, Spain, is best known for his piano works. Trois Danses Andalouses is a three movement work, the first of which will be played this evening. Ritmo is a vivacious movement based on characteristic Spanish rhythms and the Andalusion cadance, which features a descending minor tetrachord. A lyrical melody is infused throughout, contrasted with rhythmic sections that are driving and energetic. The Ritmo is the most known and frequently performed of the three movements.

Thank you for turning off cell phones and for not using flash photography.
Suite No. 2, Op 17

Rachmaninoff composed the Suite No. 2 while working on his second piano concerto. It resembles the concerto in style and effect. The suite was composed after a period of severe doubt and depression concerning his compositional abilities, and with the help of a doctor and hypnosis, he returned to composition with great enthusiasm. This work for two pianos is a heavy weight in the piano repertoire with its momentum, rhythmic drive and technical tenacity. It begins with a march in chordal style, rich in its harmonic language and strongly rhythmic. The waltz is a virtuosic piece requiring controlled momentum. The middle section reveals the lyrical quality of Rachmaninoff’s beautiful melodies. The romance emphasizes beautifully shaped phrases that are closely related to the second and third movements of the Second Piano Concerto. The principle theme of the Tarantella is an Italian folk song. The two piano parts are orchestral in scope and stature. The suite is written with a full knowledge of the possibilities of this genre.

Miss Andrea Richardson is the piano student of Dr. Karen Ball. This recital is given in celebration of Andrea’s outstanding contribution to the Music Department, serving as accompanist for numerous students and performance groups. We say, ‘Thank You.’

THE HOPKINS SCHOLARSHIP

The Hopkins Family Instrumental Scholarship was established by Dr. and Mrs. Harlow Hopkins in memory of his parents. The scholarship is available to music majors whose applied instrument is in the area of winds, strings, or percussion, and it is awarded annually through a competitive audition.

Dr. Harlow Hopkins was a member of the ONU music faculty from 1953 until 1996. For most of those years he served as conductor of the Concert Band and from 1974 until his retirement in 1996, he served as Chairman of the Division of Fine Arts and the Department of Music.

THE HALE-WILDER VOICE SCHOLARSHIP
The scholarship is available to music majors with Voice as their applied area. Selection is made through a competitive audition in which participants sing four pieces, one each in English, Italian, French, and German.

THE BENEFACCTORS
ROBERT HALE, distinguished leading bass-baritone of NYC’s Metropolitan Opera- as well as nearly every major opera house on four continents- has enjoyed a singing career spanning more than five decades. The late DEAN WILDER was chairman of the voice departments of Westminster Choir College (Princeton, NJ) and William Jewell College (Liberty, MO).

Concurrent with their individual professional commitments, Messers Hale & Wilder collaborated in a joint singing career (1964-1984) which resulted in 15 albums of music and some 4,000 personal appearances throughout the world, most of them performed with pianist-conductor-arranger, Ovid Young. Several of those concerts took place on ONU’s campus.

THE NIELSON/YOUNG PIANO SCHOLARSHIP

Duo-pianists Stephen Nielson and Ovid Young are the benefactors that make possible this scholarship. They met while both faculty members of the Olivet Nazarene University Music Department, and they continue to maintain busy careers in performances throughout the world. Prof. Young has since returned to ONU as Artist-in-Residence.

The Scholarship is available to Music Majors whose applied instrument is piano, and it is awarded through a competitive audition where the pianists must play a fifteen-minute program including works from at least three style periods.

Thank you for turning off cellular phones and for refraining from the use of flash photography.

Lincolnshire Posy was commissioned by the American Bandmasters Association and premiered at their convention with the composer conducting. It is in six movements, all based on folk songs from Lincolnshire, England. Grainger's settings are not only true to the verse structure of the folk songs, but attempt to depict the singers from whom Grainger collected the songs. Since its premiere, it has been recognized as a cornerstone of the wind band repertoire. From the composer: "Lincolnshire Posy, as a whole work, was conceived and scored by me direct for wind band early in 1937. Five, out of the six, movements of which it is made up existed in no other finished form, though most of these movements (as is the case with almost all my compositions and settings, for whatever medium) were indebted, more or less, to unfinished sketches for a variety of mediums covering many years (in this case, the sketches date from 1905 to 1937). These indebtednesses are stated in the score. This bunch of "musical wildflowers" (hence the title) is based on folksongs collected in Lincolnshire, England (one notated by Miss Lucy E. Broadwood; the other five noted by me, mainly in the years 1905-1906, and with the help of the phonograph), and the work is dedicated to the old folksingers who sang so sweetly to me. Indeed, each number is intended to be a kind of musical portrait of the singer who sang its underlying melody - a musical portrait of the singer's personality no less than of his habits of song - his regular or irregular wonts of rhythm, his preference for gaunt or ornately arabesqued delivery, his contrasts of legato and staccato, his tendency towards breadth or delicacy of tone."
Symphony No. 4

From the composer: “The sources that give rise to a piece of music are many and deep. It is possible to describe the technical aspects of a work – its construction principles, its orchestration – but nearly impossible to write of its soul-nature except through hints and suggestions.

“The roots of Symphony No.4 are many. The central driving force is the spontaneous rise of the impulse to shout for the joy of life. I feel it is the powerful voice of the Earth that comes to me from my adopted western Montana, and the high plains and mountains of central Idaho. My personal experience of the voice is one of being helpless and torn open by the power of the thing that wants to be expressed - the welling-up shout that cannot be denied. I am set a quiver and am forced to shout and sing. The response in the voice of the Earth is the answering shout of thanksgiving, and the shout of praise. Out of this, the hymn tune “Old Hundred,” several other hymn tunes (the Bach chorales “Only Trust in God to Guide You” and “Christ Who Makes Us Holy”), and original melodies which are hymn-like in nature, form the backbone of Symphony No.4.

“To explain the presence of these hymns, at least in part, and to hint at the life of the Symphony, I must say something about my long-time fascination with Abraham Lincoln. Carl Sandburg’s monumental Abraham Lincoln offers a picture of Lincoln in death. Lincoln’s close friend, David R. Locke, saw him in his coffin. According to Locke, his face had an expression of absolute content, of relief at having thrown off an unimaginable burden. The same expression had crossed Lincoln’s face only a few times in life; when after a great calamity, he had come to a great victory. Sandburg goes on to describe a scene from Lincoln’s journey to final rest at Springfield, Illinois. On April 28, 1865, the coffin lay on a mound of green moss and white flowers in the rotunda of the capitol building in Columbus, Ohio. Thousands of people passed by each hour to view the body. At four in the afternoon, in the red- gold of a prairie sunset, accompanied by the boom of minute guns and a brass band playing “Old Hundred,” the coffin was removed to the waiting funeral train.

“For me, Lincoln’s life and death are as critical today as they were more than a century ago. He remains a model for this age. Lincoln maintained in his person the tremendous struggle of opposites raging in the country in his time. He was inwardly open to the boiling chaos, out of which he forged the framework of a new unifying idea. It wore him down and killed him, as it wore and killed the hundreds of thousands of soldiers in the Civil War, as it has continued to wear and kill by the millions up to the present day. Confirmed in the world by Lincoln was the unshakable idea of the unity of all the human race, and by extension the unity of all life, and by further extension, the unity of all life with all matter, with all energy, and with the silent and seemingly empty and unfathomable mystery of our origins.

“Out of chaos and the fierce joining of opposite comes new life and hope. From this impulse I used “Old Hundred,” known as the Doxology – a hymn of praise to God; Praise God from Whom all Blessings Flow, Gloria in excelsis Deo – the mid-sixteenth century setting of Psalm 100. Psalm 100 reads in part: Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands. Serve the Lord with gladness; come before His presence with singing... Enter into His gates with thanksgiving and into his courts with praise: be thankful unto Him, and bless His name. I have used Christian symbols because they are my cultural heritage, but I have tried to move through them to a depth of universal humanness, to an awareness that is not defined by religious label. My impulse through this music is to speak to the fundamental human issues of transformation and re-birth in this chaotic time.”
