HYMN

Led by D. George Dunbar with Timothy Nelson, Organist and Concert Band

Lead On, O King Eternal

1. Lead on, O King Eternal. The day of March has come;
Henceforth in fields of conquest Thy tents shall be our home.
Through days of preparation Thy grace has made us strong;
And now, O King Eternal, we lift our battle song.
2. Lead on, O King Eternal, Till sin's fierce war shall cease,
And holiness shall whisper the sweet Amen of peace;
For not with swords' loud clashing, nor roll of stirring drums;
With deeds of love and mercy, the heavenly Kingdom comes.
3. Lead on, O King Eternal. We follow, not with fears;
For gladness breaks like morning where'er Thy face appears.
Thy cross is lifted o'er us; we journey in its light.
The crown awaits the conquest; lead on, O God of might.

SINGING OF THE ALMA MATER

Written by Byron Carmony, Class of 1939

Led by D. George Dunbar, D.M.A.[◇]

To Alma Mater, Olivet, We lift our voice in praise
For noble standards which we'll hold 'till ending of our days.
The time we spent within these halls will ne'er forgotten be,
For here we learned to know of truth, and truth will make us free.

My Olivet, Our Olivet! Though life may lead us far apart,
I'll still revere you in my heart.
My Olivet, Our Olivet. I'll love the Christ you gave first part,
and you, old Olivet!

ACADEMIC ORIGINS, TRADITIONS, AND REGALIA

The philosopher Plato established a school of philosophy in ancient Athens, called the Academy, named after a legendary Greek hero, Hecademus. The Academy continued in operation for several hundred years, and thus the terms academy, academe, and academic life have long been associated with teaching and learning.

The origin of the modern university can be traced to the twelfth century and to the two outstanding seats of learning in Europe: Bologna and Paris. At Bologna, the jurist, Irnerius, introduced the "corpus juris civilis," or study of law, to Europe, and in Paris a group of masters, with the blessing of the Church, occupied themselves with the liberal arts and theology.

The teachers in these two cities attracted audiences from across the continent, and both teachers and students began to form voluntary associations known as "studia" or schools of general repute.

The third great "studia" of the Middle Ages was at Oxford in England. As these great schools grew in size and scope, faculties were secured and officers appointed. Thus, the modern university was born.

During the thirteenth century, a system of degrees came into being at these three original universities which was accepted in more or less the same form by all universities subsequently founded. These three grades common to all were those of scholar, bachelor, and master (sometimes called doctor or professor). The scholar attended lectures and argued or set questions in the schools, the bachelor was a student/teacher who was seeking to obtain a license to teach in his own right. The mastership was the highest grade in any faculty and carried with it the obligation to lecture in the university.

Doctor, like master or professor, originally meant no more than teacher or learned one. All three terms were thus at first synonymous, but during the fourteenth century, the title doctor began to be used instead of master for the chief degree and position in the faculty. Various doctoral degrees were developed over time with the Doctor of Philosophy degree becoming the primary academic doctoral degree.

The pageantry and color of an academic procession come to us from the early Middle Ages when academic robes and regalia, having been adapted from Ecclesiastical garb, were worn daily in the European universities to lend academic rank and distinction to the wearer. They also lent warmth, an important feature since most halls of medieval buildings were damp and drafty with no heat.

American universities of the late nineteenth century developed a uniform scheme for academic garb based on the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge in England where the most colorful gowns in the world are still worn at official university functions. The regalia which you see today serve as a visible reminder of these antecedents of intellectual pursuits.

Most robes were black to symbolize the democracy of scholarship, since they covered any dress or rank of social standing worn beneath, and were designed to denote levels of academic achievement: bachelor, master, or doctor. Bachelor's gowns still are cut with long pointed sleeves, master's gowns feature closed slit sleeves, and doctor's gowns are full-cut with wide lapels and double-belled sleeves with three velvet chevrons in either black or colored like the lapels. Although gowns are normally black, some universities have designed their own bearing the color of that institution.

The hood, which drapes over the back of the gown, is the most symbolic part of the academic regalia. Its length, width, color of trim, and color or colors of lining denote the wearer's highest academic achievement. The master's hood is pointed; the doctor's hood is long and bell-shaped. The color of the border of the hood indicates the scholar's major field of study; the lining color or colors identify the institution that conferred the wearer's degree. Hoods were originally trimmed in fur, but now have satin borders for master's and velvet for doctor's.

The square cap, or mortarboard, dates back to the thirteenth century at the University of Paris. It came to England in Tudor times, was more rounded, and was sometimes called the Oxford cap. Those who possess a doctor's degree may wear an eight-sided tam provided the institution granting the degree is more than 100 years old. Tassels are worn to the left side of the cap and are usually black or, in recent years, match the border of the hood to indicate the field of study. Doctoral tassels are shorter than bachelor's or master's and are often gold metallic threads.

A medallion is usually worn by the university president as a symbol of office and of the authority and responsibility for the institution.

The following colors are associated with degrees frequently represented in academic processions:

- Arts, Letters, Humanities — White
- Dentistry — Lilac
- Education — Light Blue
- Fine Arts — Brown
- Law — Purple
- Medicine — Green
- Nursing — Apricot
- Philosophy — Dark Blue
- Science — Golden Yellow
- Theology — Scarlet
- Commerce, Business, Accountancy — Drab
- Economics — Copper
- Engineering — Orange
- Home Economics — Maroon
- Library Science — Lemon
- Music — Pink
- Speech — Silver Gray
- Physical Education — Sage Green
- Social Science — Cream

Graduates may also wear gold cords to indicate academic honors.

ACADEMIC HONORS

Students with a cumulative grade point average of 3.35 or higher are eligible for graduation with honors. To qualify, graduates must complete the last 60 hours at Olivet, or in Adult Studies programs must complete all required courses within the major at Olivet.

Cum Laude (with honors) requires a grade point average of 3.35.

Magna Cum Laude (with high honors) requires a grade point average of 3.60.

Summa Cum Laude (with highest honors) requires a grade point average of 3.85.

Graduation with Departmental Honors is granted to seniors who complete a specially approved project of high quality in the major field of study. To qualify for Departmental Honors, a student must have a 3.4 grade point average in the major and must pass a comprehensive examination in the major field, with special emphasis on the honors project.
