CONGREGATIONAL HYMN

Words by William Williams
Music by John Hughes

Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah

1. Guide me, O Thou great Jehovah, Pilgrim thro' this barren land.
I am weak, but Thou art mighty; Hold me with Thy pow'rful hand.
Bread of Heaven, Bread of Heaven, Feed me till I want no more.
Feed me till I want no more.
2. Open now the crystal fountain Whence the healing stream doth flow.
Let the fire and cloudy pillar Lead me all my journey thro'.
Strong Deliv'rer, strong Deliv'rer, Be Thou still my Strength and Shield.
Be Thou still my Strength and Shield.
3. When I tread the verge of Jordan, Bid my anxious fears subside.
Death of death, and hell's destruction, Land me safe on Canaan's side.
Songs of praises, songs of praises I will ever give to Thee.
I will ever give to Thee.

ACADEMIC ORIGINS, TRADITIONS, AND REGALIA

The philosopher Plato established a school of philosophy in ancient Athens, called the Academy, named after a legendary Greek hero, Hecademus. The Academy continued in operation for several hundred years, and thus the terms academy, academe, and academic life have long been associated with teaching and learning.

The origin of the modern university can be traced to the twelfth century and to the two outstanding seats of learning in Europe: Bologna and Paris. At Bologna, the jurist, Irnerius, introduced the “corpus juris civilis,” or study of law, to Europe, and in Paris a group of masters, with the blessing of the Church, occupied themselves with the liberal arts and theology.

The teachers in these two cities attracted audiences from across the continent, and both teachers and students began to form voluntary associations known as “studia” or schools of general repute.

The third great “studia” of the Middle Ages was at Oxford in England. As these great schools grew in size and scope, faculties were secured and officers appointed. Thus, the modern university was born.

During the thirteenth century, a system of degrees came into being at these three original universities which was accepted in more or less the same form by all universities subsequently founded. These three grades common to all were those of scholar, bachelor, and master (sometimes called doctor or professor). The scholar attended lectures and argued or set questions in the schools; the bachelor was a student/teacher who was seeking to obtain a license to teach in his own right. The mastership was the highest grade in any faculty and carried with it the obligation to lecture in the university.

Doctor, like master or professor, originally meant no more than teacher or learned one. All three terms were thus at first synonymous, but during the fourteenth century, the title doctor began to be used instead of master for the chief degree and position in the faculty. Various doctoral degrees were developed over time with the Doctor of Philosophy degree becoming the primary academic doctoral degree.

The pageantry and color of an academic procession come to us from the early Middle Ages when academic robes and regalia, having been adapted from Ecclesiastical garb, were worn daily in the European universities to lend academic rank and distinction to the wearer. They also lent warmth, an important feature since most halls of medieval buildings were damp and drafty with no heat.

American universities of the late nineteenth century developed a uniform scheme for academic garb based on the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge in England where the most colorful gowns in the world are still worn at official university functions. The regalia which you see today serves as a visible reminder of these antecedents of intellectual pursuits.

Most robes were black to symbolize the democracy of scholarship, since they covered any dress or rank of social standing worn beneath, and were designed to denote levels of academic achievement: bachelor, master, or doctor. Bachelor's gowns still are cut with long pointed sleeves, master's gowns feature closed slit sleeves, and doctor's gowns are full-cut with wide lapels and double-belled sleeves with three velvet chevrons in either black or colored like the lapels. Although gowns are normally black, some universities have designed their own bearing the color of that institution.

The hood, which drapes over the back of the gown, is the most symbolic part of the academic regalia. Its length, width, color of trim, and color or colors of lining denote the wearer's highest academic achievement. The master's hood is pointed; the doctor's hood is long and bell-shaped. The color of the border of the hood indicates the scholar's major field of study; the lining color or colors identify the institution that conferred the wearer's degree. Hoods were originally trimmed in fur, but now have satin borders for master's and velvet for doctor's.

The square cap, or mortarboard, dates back to the thirteenth century at the University of Paris. It came to England in Tudor times, was more rounded, and was sometimes called the Oxford cap. Those who possess a doctor's degree may wear an eight-sided tam provided the institution granting the degree is more than 100 years old. Tassels are worn to the left side of the cap and are usually black or, in recent years, match the border of the hood to indicate the field of study. Doctoral tassels are shorter than bachelor's or master's and are often gold metallic threads.

A medallion is usually worn by the university president as a symbol of office and of the authority and responsibility for the institution.

The following colors are associated with degrees frequently represented in academic processions:

- Arts, Letters, Humanities – White
- Dentistry – Lilac
- Education – Light Blue
- Fine Arts – Brown
- Law – Purple
- Medicine – Green
- Nursing – Apricot
- Philosophy – Dark Blue
- Science – Golden Yellow
- Theology – Scarlet
- Commerce, Business, Accountancy – Drab
- Economics – Copper
- Engineering – Orange
- Family and Consumer Sciences – Maroon
- Library Science – Lemon
- Music – Pink
- Speech – Silver Gray
- Physical Education – Sage Green
- Social Science – Cream

Graduates may also wear gold cords to indicate academic honors.
