Youth At School

Watseka High Searches For 'Safest Drivers'

A campaign to find the four safest drivers in Watseka Community High School is underway with the school's Student Council and the community's Junior Women's Club as the sponsors. Plan of the sponsoring groups is to name a winner each Friday for four weeks. The winners will each receive $5 from the Women's Club.

Method of selection and elimination is being kept secret by the two organizations. Anyone in the Watseka student body who has a driver's license is eligible for one of the awards.

Tonight will be a busy one in many of the schools of the area as senior plays, music concerts, and the like take the spotlight. At Beecher High School "Hush from Many Lands" will be the theme of the annual spring dance concert. The concert will consist of selections depicting the life in various parts of the country. The cast includes Sally Dutton, Dennis Bagemann, Richard Whorral, Stephen Luster, Donna Wallace, Anjan Wierma, Joyce Eckhoff, Janet Lawrence, Shirley Schmidt, Ruthann Dexter and Janice Schroeder.

Paul Thomas is director of the play. Marilyn Grimes is in charge of make-up and Annette Elliott is promoter.

PTA Of Chatsworth Holds Officer Election

CHATSORTH (JNS)—The Parent Teacher Association met in the high school Tuesday evening with Mrs. Augusta Schlemmer, chairman of the nominating committee, announcing candidates for officers for the coming year.

The secretary was instructed to cast the ballot for Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Shaffer, as co-presidents; Mrs. Allen Diller, vice president; Mrs. Joe Hubby, secretary; and Mrs. Joe Conkner, treasurer.

Plans were made to pay expenses for the new presidents at the convention this week in Peoria. Mrs. Karl Weller reported dental x-rays were completed on Tuesday. Coach Herb Raab told of work with his boys in physical education. Raab called on several boys to illustrate types of exercises. Peter Freehill did push ups, Jim Costello, set ups, and Paul Frick, the back bend. John Monahan did a typical exercise.

Jack Cline demonstrated bicycling, Robert Kyburz, bridging exercise, and Bob Stadler, the rocking chair. Darwin Bayton illustrated a hurdling exercise and Jerry Edwards the leg lift.

Following the physical education demonstration, Mrs. Clarence Pool and her home economics girls presented a style show. Patty Elliott, Joyce Franey and Mrs. H. M. Trinkle played music during the modeling.

Those from the first year class modeling blouses and skirts were Pauline Tooley, Carol Clevor, and Leo J. Schlemmer modeled a two-piece dress she had made. Some girls had home projects in addition to their class projects. Leo J. Schlemmer and Judy Koehler each made another skirt and blouse as a home project and Betty Jane Irwin modeled a blouse and pinafore she had made.

Leon J. Schlemmer and Betty Jane Irwin modeled a blouse and pinafore she had made. Jean Branz showed a one-piece dress and Pauline Tooley showed a skirt they had made in their spare time. These items varied in price from $1.75 to $6.70.

From the home economics class, Patty Elliott modeled long pajamas and Evelyn Richard, a robe and pajamas. Carolyn Blasingam and Pat Elliott modeled dresses and Pat Herkert, a princess style jumper.

Pat Elliott received a prize for her dress.

A "Jam session" highlighted the weekly meeting of the Sodality of Our Lady of Good Council at St. Patrick's Academy, Monmouth. At this session the sodalists answered questions asked by the eighth grade girls on dating. Judy Sharpe and Ellie Kutach headed the planning committee for the event.

The eighth grade girls served refreshments. Dancing was held afterward in the assembly hall.

SHLEDON (JNS)—Mrs. Robert Risley presented a program of readings at a meeting of the Brownie Mothers and Daughters in the school gymnasium. Taking leads in the play are Jack Mece, Jeanette Beauchamp, Mary Lou Kocarek and Norman Rordan.

Following games and a song practice, refreshments were served by Kathy Wallace.

Would-Be Barbers Must Go To College, Serve Apprenticeships

The art of barbering is one of the oldest trades and it is one that has evolved with the times. Changes are still taking place in the profession, according to Stanley Kenney, secretary of the Kansas Barbers Local 686.

In Grandpa's day the young man who wanted to be a barber started by working in a shop where he lathered the faces of customers for shaves and gradually learned by trial and error and at the expense of his customer's skin.

THINGS HAVE changed for the neophyte barber, says Kenney, as he describes the procedure for becoming a barber.

Today the beginner must obtain a student license and go to college. After nine months of schooling he takes a test conducted by the state which involves not only hair cutting and shaving but knowledge of human anatomy as well and the recognition of skin and scalp diseases.

If he passes the test he is given an apprentice license and goes to work in a shop under a full fledged barber. He is an apprentice for 2½ years and continues his schooling on his own during this time. After his apprenticeship time is served he takes another state exam and if he passes that becomes a registered barber.

Since the young barber must still make a living while serving his apprenticeship he is permitted to register with the union.

Kenney estimates there are about 10 apprentice barbers now working in Kansas, Bradley and Bourbons.

HE EXPRESSED the belief that at present there is a good balance between the number of barbers and the number of customers. While not a great number of men become apprentices there is apparently enough to meet the demand, Kenney asserted. He added that only about 10 per cent of the students who enter barber college complete the course.

Kenney has been a barber and has had his shop in Kansas for six years. Like many of the younger barbers he went to barber college on the educational provisions of the GI bill. He said it cost about $600 in tuition fees to enter barber college.

The length of the course has been increased from six to nine months since he had his schooling. Presently the Illinois law requires that a barber must have completed two years of high school before entering barber college but there is some discussion of increasing the requirement to four years.

Kenney explained. He added that in his opinion the union would welcome the passage of a city ordinance which would require periodic inspections of all barber shops, especially for sanitary reasons.

As far as talking to customers is concerned a barber must treat customers differently. One man may desire silence while his hair is clipped but another may look upon getting a hair cut as a good chance for a lively argument, Kenney explained.

Anatomy, skin disease, hygiene and bacteriology are some of the subjects covered during the nine months. A student barber studies the human body, Eisenga says, because he works on or near your skin.

"Listening to a student's conversation with a customer is part of the teacher's job," Eisenga said.

"A barber shouldn't slap a hot towel on someone's face unless he knows where the nerve endings are," he said.

Eisenga says the new "barber science" has been raising the caliber of barbers since 1930, but the definite touch of skillful conversation still counts.

"In the long run a successful barber is 25 per cent craftsman and 75 per cent personality," Eisenga says.

Margaret, Cliff Prepare For Marriage Saturday

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (U-P)—Life can change overnight. Margaret Truman, not too long ago said she was all for a television career. Yet she wouldn't rule out marriage "if I could have as happy a marriage as my father and mother."

"But that isn't easy to come by," the daughter of former President Harry S. Truman said then. This Saturday she is going to make a try for it. She is marrying Clifton Daniel Jr., assistant to the foreign editor of a New York newspaper. She is 32 and he is 41.

IT WILL BE a marriage of a man from a small town in North Carolina, Zebulon, and a woman from a small town in Missouri.

His father, who will be there for the wedding, is a druggist. Hers was county judge when she was born and the event raised three lines in the hometown newspaper.

Margaret and Clifton on their own have made good—she as a concert singer and radio-TV star and he as a war correspondent in World War II and then as foreign correspondent in London, Germany and Russia.

Margaret, when her father was president, met many of the world's most interesting men. Clifton, as a foreign correspondent, was a prize at a dinner party.

In fact, they met at a dinner party in New York last November at the home of George Backer, former president and editor of an Ohio New York newspaper. Backer will be one of the ushers Saturday.

Daniel has never been married. Margaret, a socialite, in her biography, now in its third and concluding installment in good keeping, that she had never really been in love.

SHE TOOK about two years to do this biography. After she got her copy in to meet the magazine's deadline, she met the man.

In one installment she related the one who will tell me what to do in no uncertain terms and see that I do it."

Not long afterward she went to that dinner party.

She recorded then—this was before she had met Clifton—"I had a faithful swain just hadn't swept me off my feet."

"I guess the main trouble was that this nice and eligible and I think (at my advanced age of thirty-two) that the kind of man who will sweep me off my feet is the one who will tell me what to do in no uncertain terms and see that I do it."

Freighters Collide In Michigan River; Lookout Injured

ALGONAC, Mich. (U-P)—Two giant Great Lake freighters collided head-on in the St. Clair River Thursday night, sinking one and disabling the other.

Coast Guard officials could give no explanation for the crash which sank the heavily-laden 504-foot ore carrier A. M. Byers to its main deck in 17 minutes. The 406-foot cement boat E. M. Ford was knocked out of commission and tied up at nearby Russell Island.

The crash happened in river flats off Harson's Island about 30 miles northeast of Detroit. The sunken freighter blocked traffic on the river that links Lake Huron to the north with Lake St. Clair. The river is the boundary between St. Clair County, Mich., and the Canadian province of Ontario.

A lookout on the 6,000 ton up-bound Ford was the only casualty. Mike Wenta was hospitalized in nearby Mt. Clemens, Mich., with head, back and chest injuries. The 30-man crew of the Byers was transferred safely in lifeboats to the Ford.

SALINAS, Calif. (U-P)—Dr. and Mrs. John Wagner took their electric toaster to a hardware store for repairs. Max Jah quickly found the trouble—a two-foot dead gopher snake inside.

Thousands Watch Mom, Son's Rescue

CHICAGO (U-P)—Two men leaped into the Chicago River Thursday and rescued a mother and her 5-year-old son.

Clyde Coon and Jerome Murray told police they saw Mrs. Francis Wilson, 30, throw her son, Richard, into the river at the Michigan Avenue bridge and then leap in after him. The rescue was witnessed by thousands of office workers during the evening rush hour.

Keep In Trim Circulation Rousers Make Reducing Easier

By IDA JEAN KAIN

There is often considerable inertia toward starting reducing, particularly for overweight who are totting some 20, 30 or more excess pounds. Many of you inquire about the benefits of taking a course of passive exercise through the aid of mechanical machines; others ask about massages and gym classes.

After dealing with reluctant reducers for 10, these many years, I have come to the conclusion that any accessory to diet that induces an overweight to take action is an important step in the right direction. So let's see what the systems offer...

First, the mechanical devices which stimulate circulation, anything that rouses the circulation and brings a feeling of increased vigor is all to the good. The better systems of passive exercise re-align the posture and tone flabby muscles, making for slimmer measurements. Understand, however, there is no reducing "magic" in any system of this sort, for unless calories are cut below daily requirements, no weight can possibly be lost.

Swedish massage is beneficial, too, and wonderfully relaxing. The middle-aged person who is considerably above normal weight should not start active exercising until at least a part of the burden of fat has been removed. In these cases, either massage or passive exercise is valuable in keeping tissues firm and increasing the feeling of well-being. But any fat lost will be through diet restriction; so don't get the notion anything of this nature will do the reducing for you.

Business girls have asked if it helps to go to a gym and take a supervised exercise course. Yes, indeed! The beauty of regular exercise is that it is a relaxing, but important, exercise, the muscles that loaf on the job all day, you keep your zest for work and play.

However, if these accessories to slimming would be a strain on the budget, don't let that deter you from taking off the excess pounds threatening your health. No mechanical device, nothing any served.

Parents Yield To 'Social Pressures' In Letting Children Have Own Way

CHICAGO (U)—A father of six complained today that parents nowadays are "induced by social pressures" into letting their children have their way.

Frank E. O'Dowd, of suburban River Forest said "a lack of common sense between parents" is largely responsible for the wayward behavior of many adolescents.

"O'Dowd was a member of a panel at the concluding session of the two-day Governor's Conference on Youth and Community Service. "Perhaps the parents really object to sending Mary to a party at an unreasonable hour," O'Dowd said. "But Mary gets hysterical (tossing advice from so-called 'experts') and insists that everybody else in the crowd is going, so they end up by sending her to the party anyway."

"They (the experts) tell parents that a child's reactions ought to be at a certain age, and if the child does not live up to these specifications, the parents are frightened," Dr. Schoenbaum said. "They're so intimidated by the threats from the 'experts' that they're afraid to use their own common sense."

The moderator of the panel, Dr. Matthew H. Schoenbaum, dean of the school of social service administration at Loyola University, said Gov. Stratton spoke briefly to the delegates at a luncheon.

A South Bend, Ind., probate judge, John S. Gomas, said "the whole philosophy of the juvenile court is treatment not punishment."

He said that in interviewing children, a judge "must strike a balance, a sort of blend of confessor and physician."

Members of the Illinois police-law enforcement.

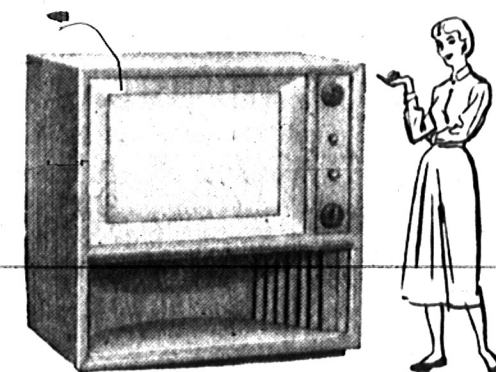

The 25th annual conference was attended by about 500 clergymen, educators, officials, jurists and community workers.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER appears rather stern as he makes a major foreign policy address Saturday night in Washington before the annual banquet of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Success Of Membership Drive Reported At C of C Session

There is no doubt that the Chamber of Commerce plan to double its operating budget will be accomplished in two years, Vernon Butz, president, said following a report meeting Friday evening.

The plan to double the Chamber membership and budget was originally proposed to be accomplished in five years. Rudy Jagersma, membership chairman, proposed that it could be accomplished in two years and because of the efforts of C of C salesmen it was almost completed in one year.

Probe Death Of Illinoisan On The Coast

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Sheldon J. Abrams, 28, a UCLA graduate student found dead in his room under mysterious circumstances, died as a result of carbon monoxide poisoning, an autopsy disclosed Saturday.

Police listed his death as a possible homicide pending further investigation. They said they were unable to determine how the lethal gas had been inhaled or possibly forced to be inhaled.

Abrams, who came here from Illinois, was found lying in bed in his room at Santa Monica, Calif., Friday by his landlord. Police estimated he had been dead from 12 to 24 hours. The room was littered with Marxist literature, police said.

Officers said they suspected foul play. If it was murder, they said, two methods may have been used: the gas was pumped into the room or Abrams may have died in an auto or outside his apartment and could have been carried home.

A toxicological analysis will be made to determine if the victim was drugged or intoxicated, police said.

Abrams' death was as mysterious as the deaths of two other UCLA students, Everett Hudson in 1945, and Robert Maltin in 1949, both of whom allegedly have been involved in Communist activities, according to police.

Hudson and Maltin were found dead from pulmonary ailments. Abrams had been studying sociology at UCLA since the fall of 1954. He is a graduate of Roosevelt University of Chicago. His mother, Mrs. Albert Abrams, lives in Northbrook, Ill.

Authorizing a program and providing money to operate it normally are handled in separate bills. The success of the maneuver to combine them appeared to depend on parliamentary developments and the willingness of the Democrats to cooperate.

The Rules Committee will meet Tuesday to consider the appropriation measure, which is expected to come up for a House vote on Wednesday.

THE Democratic majority of the House Appropriations Committee, which approved the money measure in a surprise move Thursday, said ample authority for the program already exists under a 1935 law.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson has insisted new legislation is needed. Otherwise, he contends, he cannot spend the money even if it is voted. He reiterated that contention Saturday after conferring with Eisenhower at the White House over a series of proposed administrative moves in price supports.

Hope, senior Republican on the House Agricultural Committee, said the combination move, if successful, would give Eisenhower everything he asked for in a so-called program, including authority and money to pay farmers this year for taking surplus crop land out of production.

The day was sunny and warm and light filtered through the church's stained glass windows. Eighteen-inch white tapers mounted in candleholders cast a soft glow as Margaret walked down the 45-foot aisle on her proof-father's arm.

Say Reds Killed 100 Stalinists In Rioting

Ike Urges Reds Undo Wrongs

WASHINGTON (U)—President Eisenhower challenged Russia's leaders Saturday night to abandon "the wrongs of Stalin" against other nations.

He said a Soviet government "genuinely devoted" to the legitimate interest of the Russian nation "can have friendly relations with the United States and the free world for the asking."

His words, delivered to the American Society of Newspaper Editors, read—as if written—also for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Communist Party boss Nikita Khrushchev, who are now visiting England and trumpeting their familiar peace line.

Eisenhower told them in effect that the "wrongs of Stalin," which they sought to undo, are the continued division of Germany, the "Soviet puppet" rule of Eastern Europe and the division of Korea as well as the uncertain outlook for peace in Asia.

"These knotty problems will yield to patient and sincere effort," the President said. "We stand ready to explore all avenues for their just settlement. We will not grow weary in our quest for peaceful remedies for the enslavement or wrongful division of once free nations."

But the President declared that the major international issue of the postwar world are still unsolved despite the switch from Stalinist to a "collective" dictatorship in Russia.

"More basic changes in Soviet policy must be prepared to do, which the nations can afford to relax their vigilance."

One of the things which the United States must be prepared to do, Eisenhower said, is maintain foreign aid "over a number of years."

Much of his address was an argument for his pending foreign aid proposals, including a request for congressional authorization to make long-term foreign aid commitments.

A PARALLEL theme which ran through the speech was that the United States understands and respects the ambitions for independence of countries which have recently revolted or are in process of revolting against colonial domination.

"One hundred and eighty years ago on April 19, 'Eisenhower' told the editors, 'our forefathers started a revolution that still goes on. The slave states in the Union to Universal Military Training."

U. S. May Ask Recall Of Red's U. N. Delegate

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States has been quietly investigating Arkady A. Sobolev, Russia's chief delegate to the United Nations, to decide whether his conduct warrants expelling him from this country.

Sworn testimony before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee has indicated that Sobolev may have been the key figure in luring five fugitive Russian sailors back to the Soviet Union two weeks ago.

It was learned that an investigation conducted by the Justice Department had failed to produce evidence that the five sailors were threatened by Russian officials or intimidated into returning to Russia.

VIKTOR SOLOVYEV, a 20-year-old Soviet sailor who refused to go home, told the Senate subcommittee that he rejected attempts by Russian agents to get him to visit Sobolev's headquarters. He said they threatened "reprisals" against his family in Russia if he did not return to Russia.

If the Russian agents were acting under orders from Sobolev, the Soviet U. N. chief would be guilty of acting improperly and subject to varying degrees of punishment.

According to reliable informants, however, events reached a climax on March 9, the third anniversary of Stalin's birthday, when the demonstrators tried to storm the post office. Some say they wanted to send an appeal to the United Nations. Others said they wanted to seize the hub of communications. The informants gave these details.

WHATSOEVER the reason, troops opened fire. For days afterward the city was like an armed camp. Tanks and troops patrolled the streets. A midnight curfew was clamped on the city.

Apparently it all started on March 5 with a peaceful demonstration to honor Stalin on the anniversary of his death. People poured into Tiflis from all parts of Georgia. In the face of official hesitation between the demands of the people and the orders from Moscow to permit no homage to Stalin, the crowds grew.

Rioting finally broke out March 9 when crowds attacked buses, seized cars and stopped traffic. Egged on by boldheads or by provocateurs, they were screaming to take over the city before they were through.

Georgians Slain During Program

TIFLIS, Soviet Georgia (U)—Reliable sources estimated Saturday that up to 100 Georgians may have been killed when troops opened fire on waves of pro-Stalin demonstrators who tried to seize the Tiflis post office on March 9. This estimate was made as this capital of Stalin's native Georgia unveiled a giant 60-foot statue to Lenin.

Some 4,000 soldiers and militia rigidly kept most of the late dictator's hot-tempered fellow-Georgians from the scene of the ceremonies.

All roads leading to Lenin Plaza, the scene of the unveiling, were blocked off to prevent any repetition of last month's demonstrations.

THE unveiling itself was a result of a lesson learned by the collective leadership in Moscow from that incident. It appears to have been a policy of ignoring Stalin here, rather than vilifying him, of gradually replacing his Georgian likeness with that of Lenin.

After a week's travel and observation around Tiflis and Gori, Stalin's birthplace, an Associated Press correspondent has pieced together a startling picture of the dramatic events of last month.

Government officials either have refused to discuss those events or have denied that troops were called out or fired on the demonstrators. Other sources have given conflicting information as well as signing a military agreement.

THE communiqué said the trio discussed maintenance of peace in the Middle East and carried out the talks in an "atmosphere of friendliness."

The pact may herald a new era of international activity for Yemen, which until now has been one of the world's most isolated nations.

Some observers interpreted Nasser's sudden plunge into the Saudi Arabian desert as a sign he intends to join forces in a drive to push the British completely out of the Arab world.

Others said, however, he may have entered the three-power group to restrain the two partners from too hasty or too drastic action. They said he had played a

Russians Take Oxford Razzes With Smiles

WENDOVER, England (U)—Premier Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev began peace talks in an English country manor house Saturday night after 4,000 Oxford University students ragged them with chants of "Poor old Joe!"

The Kremlin leaders spent through the gates of Chequers, official country residence of Prime Minister Anthony Eden, as the sun set on a day of bruising activity.

The two visited the British secret war city of Harwell, then went on to Oxford—and one of the biggest razzes seen in the university since the war.

Crowds of students began their chant about the late Soviet dictator as the two Russians left Sheldonian Theater, and repeated it interminably.

Neither Bulganin nor Khrushchev understood English but they had plenty of interpreters with them.

BOTH Russians took it well. Khrushchev once raised his hands in grinning surrender when backed against a wall by autograph-hunting Oxford residents. Bulganin beamed.

The Oxford students, many in their 20s, were derisively good-natured and refused to take the two Russian dignitaries seriously. They roared the "Volga Boatmen" cheer, boisterously offered comment and at one point an impatient student called out in precise Oxonian:

"Come on, Bulgy, I want my tea."

After visiting Oxford the Russians hustled off to the 40-room Tudor country house which is the site to Universal Military Training.

Think Sobolev May Have Lured 5 Sailors Back To Russia

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States has been quietly investigating Arkady A. Sobolev, Russia's chief delegate to the United Nations, to decide whether his conduct warrants expelling him from this country.

Sworn testimony before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee has indicated that Sobolev may have been the key figure in luring five fugitive Russian sailors back to the Soviet Union two weeks ago.

It was learned that an investigation conducted by the Justice Department had failed to produce evidence that the five sailors were threatened by Russian officials or intimidated into returning to Russia.

VIKTOR SOLOVYEV, a 20-year-old Soviet sailor who refused to go home, told the Senate subcommittee that he rejected attempts by Russian agents to get him to visit Sobolev's headquarters. He said they threatened "reprisals" against his family in Russia if he did not return to Russia.

If the Russian agents were acting under orders from Sobolev, the Soviet U. N. chief would be guilty of acting improperly and subject to varying degrees of punishment.

According to reliable informants, however, events reached a climax on March 9, the third anniversary of Stalin's birthday, when the demonstrators tried to storm the post office. Some say they wanted to send an appeal to the United Nations. Others said they wanted to seize the hub of communications. The informants gave these details.

WHATSOEVER the reason, troops opened fire. For days afterward the city was like an armed camp. Tanks and troops patrolled the streets. A midnight curfew was clamped on the city.

Apparently it all started on March 5 with a peaceful demonstration to honor Stalin on the anniversary of his death. People poured into Tiflis from all parts of Georgia. In the face of official hesitation between the demands of the people and the orders from Moscow to permit no homage to Stalin, the crowds grew.

Rioting finally broke out March 9 when crowds attacked buses, seized cars and stopped traffic. Egged on by boldheads or by provocateurs, they were screaming to take over the city before they were through.
