Rev. Eastman, elder in the Church of the Nazarene and member of Olivet’s board of trustees, died September 11, 1956. He lived a godly, consistent life, and contributed much to the growth of the Church of the Nazarene.

Mrs. Marvin, Olivet’s bookstore manager, died December 10, 1956. A member of College Church, her faith, sincere Christian life, and sweet disposition yielded great influence on Olivet’s campus.

Betty, a member of Olivet’s freshman class beginning second semester, died March 2, 1957. She lived a consistent Christian life daily, and with an unwavering faith she suffered greatly, yet silently.
Tom, a member of Olivet's 1956 class, died September 28, 1956. Always smiling, he was quiet, yet enthusiastic and was devoted to God, the church, the cause of holiness, his wife, infant son, parents, and sister.

Little Joey, precious thirteen-month-old son of Professor and Mrs. Harvey H. Humble, became one of God's little angels on December 17, 1956. His parents and the family hold many precious memories of their little one.

“Gib,” a former Olivet student, was drowned November 26, 1956, shortly before completing his plans to re-enter Olivet. He served Christ and the church. He was very devoted to his wife, two children, and other members of the family.
The Board of Trustees of Olivet Nazarene College has a four-fold purpose: to maintain Olivet as an institution giving an education with a Christian purpose, geared to the service of Christ and the Church of Nazarene on the college preparation level; to carry on a program to implement this purpose in relating the student to God, to himself, to any divine call or service in the lay field, and personally equipping and developing personality to fulfill life’s work and devotion; to provide faculty, administrative officers, and facilities to accomplish this; and to manage the business and property of the corporation in general outline.

The Board held its annual winter meeting on February 13, 1957, and will hold its annual spring meeting on May 29, 1957.

Recent actions which the Board has taken in striving for the betterment of the college include: the creation of the office of Assistant to the President for gift contacts with business groups and foundations; placing in the hands of the Institutional Planning Commission a further development of the Master Campus Plan and the preliminary steps toward a voluntary support for provision of a student center; preliminary steps taken toward the expansion of student housing and academic facilities; and the creation of a committee to plan for the celebrating of the Golden Anniversary of the College.
The history of Olivet's accreditation dates back to November 19, 1939, when fire destroyed the administration building at "Old Olivet." This catastrophe necessitated a change in location for the college. The eventual move to the more strategically centered Kankakee area is one of the factors which has led Olivet into full accreditation.

In 1943, upon examination, Olivet was granted full accreditation as a four-year teachers' college by the University of Illinois.

The college then began preparation for regional accreditation by joining the liberal arts study sponsored by one division of North Central. This division had nothing to do with accreditation, but it was undoubtedly good preparation for admission. Dr. C. S. McClain was the college's first representative in the liberal arts workshop.

In 1949, the pattern of a liberal arts workshop was again followed, and on the advice of Dr. Norman Burns, Secretary of the North Central Association, the college secured the services of Dr. Theodore Stephens as unofficial examiner. Dr. Stephens spent several days on Olivet's campus and gave a number of suggestions, an important one of which was that the college bring its auditing system into accord with standard procedures of other colleges and universities in the regional association. Of course, the faculty was weak in earned doctorates, the library was small, and the indebtedness was large. All of these were definitely adverse factors.

In the summer of 1951 the college prepared the first Self-Survey, an evaluation study of Olivet Nazarene College, and sent the study to the Secretary of the North Central Association with the request that Olivet be examined for membership. This examination was given in February, 1952. Out of the 24 colleges and universities which applied for membership at this time, only 3 or 4 were admitted. Olivet's case was referred back with an admonition to strengthen the faculty, increase salaries, and enlarge the library capacity, and with various other suggestions for improvement. All of these suggestions were given careful study and consideration and, as far as possible, were followed.

In the summer of 1954, the college prepared another Self-Survey and the examiners were again asked to determine the fitness of the college for membership in the association. The examination was given early in the year 1955, and members of the commission decided that the college was far enough advanced at this time that membership should not be refused, but there were some questions relative to strength of faculty, finance, and administration that they wished to study further. This meant another year of anxious waiting.

The following spring an examiner was sent to the campus at the expense of North Central, and the application for accreditation was voted on in April, 1956. The action this time was favorable and on April 12, 1956, notification was given to the President's Office that Olivet Nazarene College had been elected to full Membership into the North Central Association of Schools and Colleges.

The announcement was not made public, however, until the chapel service on Friday, April 13—the luckiest unlucky day Olivet ever had. The students waited anxiously for the telephone call which would confirm the good news. While tension mounted and spirits rose, accounts of the history of the college and of the process of accreditation were presented by Dr. Reed, Dr. McClain, and Dr. Snowbarger.

Upon receiving the long awaited news, a celebration was in order. Classes were dismissed for the remainder of the day, and the campus swarmed with happy students thrilled with the double portion of good luck in becoming accredited and in being dismissed from classes. The faculty joined in the spirit of the celebration by challenging the seniors to a baseball game. The Wagon Wheel was open and buzzed with business until 11:00 p.m.

Inasmuch as membership in one regional accrediting association automatically makes a college recognized by all other regional associations, membership in the North Central Accrediting Association gives Olivet Nazarene College membership in the five other regional associations. Olivet students, therefore, receive unquestioned standing in transferring to other colleges or graduate institutions throughout the United States.
Foreword

The 1956-1957 Aurora salutes Olivet Nazarene College on this her Golden Anniversary; today reminiscent of her struggling yet successful past, ever conscious of her present responsibility to each searching mind, and persistently striving for a greater tomorrow. This is the Olivet our book portrays to you.

Time is evasive, and the past has escaped us, never to be fully recaptured. The pages of Olivet's book of life, crowded with accounts of sacrifice, struggle, progress, and victory have yellowed with the passing of time and faded in the sunlight of the fruitful years. But some have sought and found something of that which went before and have recorded, in the beginning pages of this book, the essence of yesterday's Olivet.

We have lived the todays of Olivet. The memories of the people, the places, and the events of this Golden Anniversary year will linger in the minds and hearts of all those who have shared them. Day by day the present has unfolded before us, laying at our feet its treasures. It is the purpose and task of this book to reconstruct this present of Olivet in such a manner that it will live and move before your eyes, that it will breathe into your life its life, and that it will make you a part of it.

The future is so near it seems almost incredible. All that lies between the todays and the tomorrows is the thin curtain of the unforeseen. The curtain is never drawn until tomorrow dawns, but as we stand on the threshold of a new day, we detect the silhouetted form of things to come. Therefore, our book terminates with a glimpse at the hopes, dreams, and plans that carry us to the tomorrows of Olivet.

The Aurora proudly presents to you Olivet Nazarene College, YESTERDAY, TODAY, and TOMORROW.
On September 30, 1907, a cherished seven-year dream began to materialize in Georgetown, Illinois.

Through the ministry of Dr. E. F. Walker and "out of the conviction of a common need came the desire and prayer of a few of God's people in the state of Illinois for a school which would stand definitely and always for holiness of heart and life. This conviction was: That the religious element is necessary to education; that religious experience and ethical culture must come in the formative stages of one's life; that God can have His way with man only when man's spiritual development is at least equal to his intellectual development; and that the beginning and developing of the spiritual part must be undertaken in early life, and conducted from the first in a sane and safe manner, with the Bible as a textbook."

To this end a small holiness school was founded by Mr. Orla A. Nesbitt. A four room house was secured in the northwest part of town, and on September 30 twenty pupils taught by Mr. Nesbitt's sister, Mary, who is still living, began the first session of the school that is now Olivet Nazarene College. Their only equipment consisted of benches used as seats to recite from and write on. By the end of the year the enrollment had reached fifty-six.

Dedicated Men and Women

Fifty golden years was more than the story of fortunate circumstances. It was more than an age of educational inquiry. It was the story of great men and women who simply made a good beginning into a great Christian institution of higher learning. Scattered throughout the history of Olivet their names appear:

Orla A. Nesbitt spent his energy, prayers, and money to found a school where the Bible was upheld, God was honored, and Christian character built.

Seven men, along with O. A. Nesbitt, were largely responsible for a holiness school becoming a reality—Elvin Judd, William Richards, R. E. Richards, John F. McCoy, H. C. Wilson, Jos. B. Conaday, and A. N. Leneeve.

Miss Mary Nesbitt, because of her love and devotion toward God and in spite of meager funds, became the first teacher of the primary school which was the nucleus of Olivet.

A. M. Hills, Olivet's first president, was educated at Oberlin and Yale. Saved and sanctified, he was a scholar, author, preacher, and college president. There has been no greater teacher for young preachers than Dr. Hills.

E. F. Walker, in nineteen hundred, preached in Danville on the need of Christian education and gave the impetus that started Olivet. He was elected president when the school was taken over by the Church of the Nazarene.

N. W. Sanford made every effort possible to make our college strong in those difficult financial days and to keep it true to the Nazarene type of Christian education.

T. W. Willingham, one of Olivet’s greatest friends, through his faithful, earnest labor and sacrifice was largely responsible for the survival of our college in a financial crisis.

A. L. Parrott during his administration was able to realize three great accomplishments: the accreditation of the state university, the purchase of the new location, and the liquidation of the college’s debt.

Grover Van Duyn was a consecrated layman who took over the work of starting Olivet’s current building program.

Selden D. Kelley gave unreservedly to the interest of all, always zealous for the good of the college and the advancement of the Kingdom of God.

Harold W. Reed, through his wise planning, is not only bringing to realization the ambitions of the earlier presidents, but is launching a program which promises to make Olivet’s future progressively more glorious.
The following year, 1908, two farms were purchased by Mr. Nesbitt and Mr. F. E. Richards for the purpose of establishing a permanent school location. Forty-six acres were set aside for a campus, and the rest was divided off into lots to be sold, the proceeds being paid into the school.

A frame building consisting of three small rooms was used to house the grammar and academy departments. The Lincoln House, a large house across the road so named because Abraham Lincoln often stopped there, was used as a dormitory, library, and business office. A tent stretched upon the campground was used as a dining hall.

Continuing the aim of the school as a place where the Bible and holiness should be taught, the trustees added the College of Liberal Arts in 1909. A large three-story brick dormitory was erected. During this year Dr. A. M. Hills was chosen as the President. The enrollment was over fifty.

In 1910, Ezra T. Franklin was made president. A large brick administration building was erected at the cost of fifty thousand dollars. Also a camp meeting tabernacle, seating one thousand five hundred people was built near the campus.

By 1911, the campus included nearly sixty acres which subsumed a large maple grove and sugar camp.

The following year the student body kept growing. The needs of the college were many. The indebtedness of the college was increasing, and it was becoming more and more apparent to the trustees that they could not depend upon voluntary support from independent groups to meet their needs. So in 1912 "the Board of Trustees of Illinois Holiness University, after prayer and due consideration, believing it to be for the betterment of all concerned, tendered the Illinois Holiness University to the Chicago Central District of the Church of the Nazarene," who accepted this gift and assumed control. The church also assumed an indebtedness of between $80,000 and $100,000.

Dr. E. F. Walker, a general superintendent of the Church of the Nazarene, accepted the presidency in addition to his other duties. A graduate department was added, and school continued. At the Chicago Central District Assembly, a collection was taken amounting to $5,000 in cash and notes to apply on Dr. Walker’s proposition "to strive for 300 students and $150,000."
In 1914, the first yearbook, the Aurora, was published. It was put out by the high school junior class. At first the staff was a self-perpetuating organization.

In the year 1915, the college, the academy, the school of oratory, and the school of theology all merited praise; but in music, IHU made notable advance. In addition to regular work in piano, voice, and violin, there were several organizations worthy of mention, including the brass band, the orchestra, the Mandolin, the boys' and the girls' Glee Clubs, and the Miriam Quartet. Also in 1915, the name of the school, Illinois Holiness University, was changed to Olivet University.

The heating plant was built in 1916, costing $14,000.

The academy was accredited by the University of Illinois in 1917. Manual training and nurses' training were made a part of the curriculum.
The next several years were troubled times for the "university." The indebtedness continued to increase. A growing student body called for additional buildings and equipment. The difficulties of World War I years and of the post-war depression, together with many changes of administration, brought the school precariously near to ruin.

In the year 1923, the school's name was changed to Olivet College. In the same year the school filed bankruptcy. N. W. Sanford was elected president, and T. W. Willingham was elected treasurer of the college. Six seniors received the Bachelor of Arts degree, among whom was Carl S. McClain, our present registrar.

The next three years were ones of heroic struggle and unspeakable sacrifice. In spite of it all, the battle seemed lost. In the spring of 1926, it was announced that the school might not open in the fall. On June 10, 1926, the college was put up for auction. Heavy hearts witnessed the ordeal. Heaviness was changed to rejoicing, however, and tears of sorrow became tears of joy when Dr. Willingham's bid was accepted, and Olivet was saved. T. W. Willingham succeeded N. W. Sanford as president. The Board of Trustees was composed of twenty-three members.

In 1928, the dark financial picture began to brighten. Over $3,000 was appropriated for laboratory, library, and classroom equipment. Fifteen seniors were graduated this year.
The years following continued to be trying, but they were years of progress. Debts were retired, improvements made, and scholastic standards were raised. The next year Walter B. Larsen and Dwight J. Strickler became members of the faculty.

The Silver Anniversary of the college was celebrated in 1932. In that year, C. S. McClain was appointed academic dean.

The next year, Orpheus Choir was organized by Professor Larsen.

In 1936, Olivet's debate teams won distinction in intercollegiate forensics.

The following year, student enrollment increased to a new high of three hundred thirty-one. A. L. Parrott was elected president of the college. Also this year the construction of the gymnasium-auditorium was begun at an estimated cost of $27,000. The future looked bright. In the spring of 1939, the college was accredited by the University of Illinois and the Illinois State Department of Public Instruction. But in the midst of this brightening prospect, on November 19, 1939, disaster struck again.

A huge blaze was discovered in the administration building. Townsmen and collegians alike rallied to fight the fire, but their efforts came to naught. The people stood by helpless while the building went up in flames. In it were the chapel, the classrooms, the laboratories, the library, the offices—everything was lost except the college records, which were stored in a fire-proof safe. It seemed the end of Olivet College had finally come, but "God works in a mysterious way." Classes met wherever space could be found, and school continued.

Today's Olivet students using their spare time by playing checkers, eating popcorn and drinking pop.

On April 1, 1940, the negotiations were completed for the purchase of the historic St. Viator campus in Bourbonnais, Illinois. It was purchased for $200,000, and the college was moved to the new location. Commencement was held on the new campus in May. On July 4, open house was held with Uncle Bud Robinson as the principal speaker. Once more the name of the college was changed, this time to Olivet Nazarene College.

In 1941, the Ohio District Motorcade, under the direction of Dr. Gibson, brought twenty-seven tons of foodstuffs to the campus. Also the first number of the Aurora from Kankakee was published. The first campus newspaper was printed in 1941 and called Olivet News. Olivet had four pastors in this year: Dr. A. L. Parrott, Dr. L. H. Howe, Prof. J. F. Leist, and Dr. S. S. White.

The next year, a small village composed of house trailers, later known as Trailerville, became home to scores of married students.

By 1944, through an intensive debt-lifting campaign led by Dr. A. L. Parrott, the entire amount of indebtedness had been raised. For the first time in the history of the school, Olivet was debt free with a campus valued at $1,000,000. The University of Illinois reclassified Olivet as a Class-A college.

In 1945, Grover Van Duyn succeeded A. L. Parrott as president. The enrollment continued to increase, and student housing became a serious problem. Properties known as the White House, Goodwin Hall, and the D'Arcy Residence were purchased. An additional acreage south of the campus was bought, which brought the total size of the campus to one hundred acres.

With the return of service men, the G.I. enrollment exceeded four hundred. Twenty-four apartments, known as G.I.-ville, were constructed on south campus. The Elm Park housing area was started. A new heating plant was built at a cost of $110,000. Plans were begun for the erection of Williams Hall.

The next year a government building was put into use for additional classroom space, later named Flierman Hall.

In 1948, Selden D. Kelley was elected president, which office he filled until his death April 9, 1949. During this time the construction of Williams Hall made advance.
Troubled Time

Oh, sacred, hallowed trysting place
Where God and man did meet!
Today in ashes cold it lies—
The students’ safe retreat.

The altar burned—how can it be
That I no more shall kneel
On that blest spot with open heart,
God’s strength divine to feel!

Before it stood the white-veiled brides
When life was young and sweet,
And there the coffined saints have lain
Who went their God to greet.

Along this holy altar place
The sinful bowed with grief,
To find in Him who bled and died
New life and sweet relief.

Oh, wives of holy glory there
Have swept both young and old;
The beauty of those sacred days
By tongue can ne’er be told.

The brides, the babes, the saints, the seers
This holy place did pass;
And least of all, I worshipped there
An humble Ozark lass.

O conquering God of battles there,
Thy promise still is sure;
Lord, beauty for these ashes give
That ever shall endure.

In this year Harold W. Reed was made president. Williams Hall was furnished and made ready to house two hundred and twenty girls. The student enrollment exceeded one thousand.

The following year the college purchased additional property on Main Street to aid in faculty housing. The graduating class reached a new high of two hundred.

Williams Hall was completed and dedicated in 1951 at an estimated cost of $450,000. The Alumni presented to the college "Greer Greenhouse."

Olivet's faculty was being enlarged and strengthened necessitating a more adequate faculty housing program. Two homes were purchased for this purpose, and three National Homes were built on south campus.
In 1953, plans were launched for a new library building. Five more National Homes were constructed for faculty use. A new well was drilled at a cost of $10,000. Ten districts paid their educational budgets in full.

The ground on south campus was given to the College Church of the Nazarene in 1954, and they began erection of a beautiful sanctuary. Plans were also completed for a Memorial Library building.

Goodwin Hall is the music hall which is used for practice rooms and classrooms.
In 1955, a new housing development was opened, known as the Goodwin Addition. The Graveline property was purchased and the home remodeled to serve as a Home Management House.

In 1956, the Memorial Library was completed and dedicated at a total cost of $275,000. The college was also granted full membership in the North Central Accrediting Association. The Central Educational Zone reached a new high in educational budget giving. The amount received was $185,812. Four houses were built in Goodwin Addition to be used as senior girls' residences.
Golden Anniversary Dinner

On February 12, 1957, the members of the Board of Trustees and the college faculty and administration gathered in Miller Dining Hall for the Golden Anniversary Dinner.

During the dinner the huge Golden Anniversary cake was cut by Mrs. C. S. McClain and Mrs. W. E. Snowbarger, wives of the former and present deans of the college.

The guest of honor was Miss Mary Nesbitt, Olivet's first teacher. In 1907 she was the only teacher in the Georgetown Holiness Tabernacle grade school, which later expanded into Olivet College. Prof. D. J. Strickler introduced and paid tribute to Miss Nesbitt. An oil portrait of Miss Nesbitt was then unveiled by Marilyn Keeler and Frank Bowers, college students, and presented to the college.

Representatives of four groups, Dr. Donald Starr, for the alumni, Gene Foiles, for the student body, Dr. W. E. Snowbarger, for the faculty, and Dr. Paul Updike, for the trustees, paid tribute to the college for its fifty years of service.

Special recognition was paid to Dr. C. A. Gibson for his thirty-one years of service on the Board of Trustees and to Dr. C. S. McClain, who has been a faculty member for thirty-four years.

The program also included a dramatic reading of the college's fifty year history by Lauren Larsen and David Anderson, members of this year's senior class.

The Treble-tone Trio, composed of Linda Luttrell, Frances Richards, and Martha Reed, provided music for the program, and the dinner music was played by Nancy Davis.

The master of ceremonies was Dr. Harold W. Reed, president of the college. Dr. W. S. Purinton, treasurer of the Board of Trustees, gave the invocation; Dr. Gibson gave the benediction.

The student council served as hosts and hostesses at the banquet.

Our President, Dr. Harold W. Reed

This year we have studied and shall continue to study more about Olivet's illustrious history. We respect and honor the leaders of the past. They have built wisely and well. We share together as students, faculty, alumni, trustees, and constituency in the celebration of the Golden Anniversary of Olivet Nazarene College.

The congratulations and best wishes of our friends in Kankakee, including those of the Kankakee Daily Journal, were expressed in an editorial on February 13, 1957, which states:

Over the half century there have been many notable examples of courage, devotion, and sacrifice by those who operate and support the College. A school marked by these assets has been shaped to instill character into those it teaches.

During the years when Olivet Nazarene College was overcoming disaster and discouragement, many other small colleges, probably established with as much enthusiasm and enterprise, were falling by the wayside. The local school shows every evidence of becoming stronger, more influential, and of greater service.

Olivet Nazarene College has become an increasingly important part of the Kankakee area. As a force for culture, education, and religion, it stands established, appreciated, and—especially at this time—applauded.

In this Golden Anniversary year, we would pay tribute to our glorious historic past. We owe an eternal debt of gratitude to those who have built solidly on Christian foundations. We do not worship the past, but we are assured that those principles which have given greatness to our beloved college are both safe and sound guides to the future. We stand on the shoulders of the founding fathers, and we are appreciative of their blood, sweat, and tears which have given to us what we have and enjoy.

As we face the future we are desirous of building upon the solid foundations which have been laid. With warm hearts, with clear heads, with vision and courage, and with faith in our great God, we press on into the second fifty years of Olivet's history.

Each year the senior students of universities and colleges over the entire United States become candidates for membership in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Fourteen from Olivet are selected by ballot by the faculty and the upper classmen of the student council to represent the college in this nationally recognized honorary organization. The students are chosen on the basis of character, scholarship, extra-curricular activities, service to the school, and potentiality for future usefulness in business and society. Certificates of recognition are presented to the honored students who are privileged to wear a symbol of outstanding achievement in college—the official key.

The organization's publication, Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, includes a biography of each student-elect. This provides information for personnel managers who are seeking capable college graduates.

Olivet is proud of these students and congratulates them for their excellent accomplishments in their college careers.
GENE FOILES

Gene is the able and sincere young man who has been Olivet's student leader during this year. He is a music education major, interested in high school administration. Gene enjoys playing the piano and organ and singing in quartets. The latter interest has been expressed in his extensive quartet work during all four years of his college life. In the sports field he is especially fond of basketball and tennis. He also enjoys his Student Council activities.

The students at Olivet have shown their faith and confidence in Gene's abilities as a leader by electing him Student Body President, and he has certainly proved himself worthy. Other offices he has held include president of the English Guild (freshman year), business manager of the Sportons (sophomore and junior years), vice-president of his class (junior year).
JOHN HANSON

John is a little guy with big ambitions and abilities. He is a chemistry major and plans to do graduate work in chemistry following his graduation from Olivet. He is interested in the field of industrial chemistry. Among John's other aspirations is the ownership of a foreign-type sports car.

John has served the school in numerous capacities. His present position as the treasurer of the Associated Students is evidence of his responsible character. He has held other offices, including: Science Club treasurer (sophomore and junior years), class treasurer (junior year), Spartan head coach (sophomore year), softball coach (sophomore and junior years), baseball coach (junior year), and basketball coach (senior year), Spartan president (junior year), and Aurora sports editor (junior year). John has been awarded freshman mathematics achievement award and both junior and senior laboratory assistantships in chemistry.
John Payton

John is one of the most consistent and conscientious religious leaders on Olivet's campus. He is a theology major and plans, following graduation, to attend seminary at Kansas City. John has no preference as to the location of his pastorate; his concern is to serve God to the best of his ability. He is especially fond of music and traveling, and he combines these interests in his traveling with the trumpet trio. He enjoys eating all kinds of food! He also likes to enter into discussion and exploration of new ideas.

John's position as Student Prayer Band president this year is evidence of the faith and confidence of Olivet's students in his religious integrity. He has held several other positions on campus including band treasurer (senior year), M. D. A. vice-president (junior year), and orchestra chaplain.
Lauren is Olivet's young man with a "golden voice." He is a speech major with minors in biology and music. He plans upon graduation, to enroll in Northwestern University's Graduate School of Speech, and, after receiving the master's degree, to enter the field of radio and television announcing.

Lauren is especially interested in record collections, high fidelity sound, and the reading of poetry.

He has spent much of his time in the entertainment field. His part as one of the Framis Brothers has placed him before clubs, assemblies, banquets, teachers' institutes, P. T. A.'s and church groups. He has also MC'd several O. N. C. banquets and parties. In addition to these activities, Lauren has been Orpheus Choir librarian (sophomore year), Chi Sigma Rho president (junior year), Aurora assistant business manager (junior year), and Aurora co-business manager (senior year).
Louise is a young lady often recognized among her fellow classmates for her superior work and grades. She is a music education major and plans to teach music following her graduation. However, her even more immediate plan is marriage in August. She has several special interests among which are reading, sewing, and singing.

Louise has been awarded both junior and senior library assistantships. She has been recipient of a faculty scholarship, and as a result of her high point average has kept the Nazarene scholarship throughout her college work. Her high scholastic achievement gave her the honor of being queen of commencement exercises in her junior year. Louise has been a member of the W. R. A. Council (sophomore year) and secretary of the Honor Society (junior year), and she was given a solo part in the "Messiah" (senior year).
DAVE ANDERSON

Dove, a speech major, is one of the most versatile young men on Olivet's campus. He has no immediate plans, but his long range plans include work in the public relations field. He would also like to do extensive traveling. Dove's special interests include Hi-Fi, sports cars, all types of music, and several forms of literature.

Dove has spent much time in the entertainment field, and his part as one of the two Framis Brothers has placed him before numerous groups. He was the proxy Eisenhower in Olivet's mock political campaign, was class treasurer (freshman year), class vice-president (sophomore year), and class president (junior and senior years). He has also held the offices of Science Club chaplain (freshman year), Orpheus librarian, Glimmerglass assistant business manager (sophomore year), and Aurora assistant college editor (junior year).
Dave, a religion and philosophy major, is a highly respected person on Olivet's campus for his broad range of knowledge and his outstanding scholastic contribution. His aspirations for the future include graduation from seminary, pastoring a church, and, perhaps later, teaching in a Christian college. Dave likes to read, especially history, and he is continually exploring new ideas. He enjoys traveling. His concern for people has given him an interest in social work. Dave was awarded the Greene Scholarship in his sophomore year, and he will graduate with the highest point average in his class. His high scholastic achievement won him also the honor of being Commencement Marshall in his junior year. He was treasurer of the Student Missionary Bond (junior year).
Darlene is a person who dedicates herself to many jobs, but who always has time to help out in one more way. She is an elementary education major and plans to teach either third grade or junior high school. Darlene has little time for hobbies or special interests during the school year, but she does enjoy collecting pictures and other materials for future use in her teaching career. She is especially fond of music and gives much of her time to it. She also hopes to use her musical ability in religious work.

Darlene has held several positions of responsibility including class secretary (freshman and sophomore years), Glimmerglass fine arts editor (sophomore year), Student Council secretary (junior year), and Aurora editor (junior year). She was chosen as a member of the Tip-Off queen’s court in her junior year.
NANCIE DAVIS

Nancie is a very talented young lady with a charming personality. She is a music education major and plans to be a high school choral teacher. Through her extensive trio work she has given a great deal of service to Olivet. She would like to enter the field of radio and television and to have a music store of her own. Nancie enjoys reading novels, especially biographies, keeping scrapbooks, swimming, and traveling. She aspires to go abroad some day.

Nancie was a member of the Tip-Off queen’s court this year, a member of the lyceum committee, the food committee, and the calendar and activities committee. She has held the offices of fine arts editor of the school’s two publications—the Aurora (junior year) and the Glimmerglass (senior year).
Wayne is well-known on Olivet’s campus for his dynamic baritone voice. He is a music education major with applied concentration in voice. He plans to teach vocal music in the future. He is also interested in giving Christian service through church music. He is interested in all types of music.

Wayne has served as a student assistant instructor in the college during his sophomore, junior, and senior years. He was a member of the housing committee in his junior year and held offices in Orpheus Choir (senior year) and in band (senior year). He was president of the Olivetians in his sophomore year. Wayne completed his college work and graduated in January, 1957.
Lois is a busy young woman who has the responsibilities of a husband and a home, but who still has the time and energy to be an outstanding student. She is a music major, and although her plans for the future are not definite she would like after graduation to teach elementary vocal music. She would also like to take an active part in church work. Lois claims her housekeeping as her favorite pastime. Although her busy schedule leaves her very little extra time, she enjoys reading and sewing in what spare time she does have. She has a personal collection of books.

Lois was awarded an assistantship in visual aids (junior year). She was elected by the student body to be Tip-Off Queen for the 1955 homecoming activities.
Gene is a congenial young man who has been a leader among his classmates throughout his college days. He is a religion major with a minor in mathematics. He plans to work for a while. Later he will attend seminary, and eventually take up a pastorate. Gene's main interests center in his wife and home, but he enjoys hunting and horseback riding, is interested in music, and has done a considerable amount of quartet work for the school. He likes sports, and while in college he has played football, basketball, and baseball, and has participated in track events.

He was elected president of his college class in his freshman and sophomore years. He also held a class office in his junior year. Gene lettered in football in his freshman, sophomore, and junior years.
Jack is a man with a purpose and a determination that will surely lead him to his goals. He is an elementary education major with a minor in the biological sciences. He plans, after finishing at Olivet, to return to Columbus, Ohio, to teach in the fifth or sixth grade. During his teaching career he plans to work on a master's degree at Ohio State University. Jack is especially interested in music, both vocal and instrumental, the latter interest being manifested in his participation in the Harmonories Trumpet Trio. He also enjoys reading and a variety of sports.

Jack has had responsibilities in extra-curricular activities. Having received two library assistantships, he is often found in the library. He has been vice-president of Orpheus Choir (senior year), and representative-at-large of the M. D. A. three years.
CAROLYN MILLER

Carolyn has numerous interests and abilities and has persistence in striving for her goals. She is an elementary education major and plans to teach on the third grade level for at least a year. Then she would like to take some work in religious education and correlate teaching with work in the church. Because of her interest in church work she hopes eventually to be affiliated with the Editorial Youth Department at the Nazarene Church's International Headquarters. She enjoys literature, music, and journalism. She thinks she may like to try her hand at Christian fiction writing sometime in the future.

Carolyn has served as secretary of the junior class, senior class, W. R. A. Council, and Student Council (senior year). She was representative-at-large of the Student Council during her junior year.
"The beginning of the end . . ." That is what these pictures connote to the students, to the parents, and to the instructors of this class—the beginning of the end of school life as these students have known it through four memorable years at Olivet.

And yet, these and other events depict only the gratifying results of an intensive search for truth, knowledge, and a well-rounded education. Through perseverance, sacrifice, hope, and faith, this class has finally reached that climatic point of achievement—graduation from college. It is at this time precious memories are recalled and hopes realized.
The long awaited time has finally arrived! At last we are beginning our last year of college. It gives a sense of accomplishment and joy, and yet there is a bit of sadness in our hearts as we prepare to leave "Our Olivet." We begin to sing our "Alma Mater" with more realization of the meaning of the line "The time we spent within these halls will ne'er forgotten be." We are determined that "we'll love the Christ you gave first part and you, old Olivet."

As we began this year's activities, our first planned event was a "going-away" breakfast for the juniors, on the morning of the junior retreat. We thought that we should let them benefit from our experience by giving them some advice before they left campus. Our later activities took a somewhat different course than in previous years. The main conversation among class members now included topics such as practice teaching, senior comprehensives, senior trip, and commencement.

We again participated in the class tourneys, placing first for the third consecutive year. After the class tourney, we found ourselves busily engaged in last minute activities—filling out job applications, sending commencement announcements, making last minute plans for the senior trip, taking final exams and finishing up our last semester’s work early. We are now working and planning towards our Golden Anniversary Commencement, which we hope will be the greatest Olivet has ever witnessed.

Our officers for this year were Dave Anderson, first semester president; Bob Wall, second semester president; Bud Polston, vice-president; Jack Clark, treasurer; Esther Johnson, Student Council representative. Prof. Daniel Liddell has been our faculty sponsor all four years.

JUNIOR CLASS

This We Remember . . .

It hardly seemed possible that we were finally upperclassmen!

Since our freshman year, we had been looking forward to Junior Retreat. Finally the day arrived. Imagine cutting classes with faculty approval! After they had provided us with a hearty breakfast, the seniors sent us off to Turkey Run State Park in everything from hot-rods to convertibles. When we arrived, we enjoyed a lunch in the informal dining room, while several members of the class took turns entertaining us with music at the piano. Then it was time for the real activity to begin. We separated into various groups and started across the numerous trails, enjoying the beauty of the park on this warm fall afternoon. We made it back with little trouble—a few bee stings, getting off the trail, and slipping into muddy places. After we had returned from our hike, some played ping pong. Others chose another trail to follow and a few even tried out the playground swings, slides, and merry-go-round. Most of us went horseback riding. This proved to be an exciting adventure, as well as a jolting experience! Afterwards we freshened up and sang familiar songs till we heard the call, "Dinner is served." We feasted in the lovely banquet room as Prof. Slagg, our sponsor, told of some of his exciting and humorous experiences on other such outings. A hayride followed the dinner, and with it came the end of a perfect day and the beginning of a busy and important year.

Our next activity was planning the entertainment for the All-School Halloween Party. Then at last the time had come for the Junior-Senior Banquet. This year it was a completely formal affair held in The Spinning Wheel at Hinsdale, Illinois. The banquet was followed by a moonlight cruise on beautiful Lake Michigan.

Our officers for the year were Jim Bedsworth, president; Don King, vice-president; Marilyn Bryant, secretary; George Garvin, treasurer; Dick Reiss, student council representative; and Zan Hawkins and Cliff Everett, social committee representatives.

Watch out, Marilyn, it's a long way down.

Seniors weep as Juniors depart for their Retreat.

A serene scene welcomes the Junior "Retreaters" to Turkey Run State Park.

Professor and Mrs. Slagg recover after some rough trails.

A few Juniors looked like this after an hour on horseback.
We returned to school this year quite pleased with the idea of no longer being “green freshmen.” We had successfully crossed the first hurdle of our college career, and at last we were sophomores. Our first activity of the year was a welcoming party for the new freshman. In this party we used both sophomore and freshman talent. It was our turn to plan for the sneak initiation attack to which we had looked forward with great anticipation. However, finding that there was much work to be done before the attack, we stayed up night after night making green beanies for the freshmen to wear, planning initiation tactics, and making last minute arrangements for the party honoring the initiated freshmen. After initiation, our next activity was planning and serving refreshments for the Halloween party.

I guess we must have “flunked” the freshmen orientation tests, since we had to take them over. Actually, these second tests were called “Sophomore Achievement Tests.” They were a series of tests in the fields of general culture, contemporary affairs, English, and general achievement. The results of these tests were used to guide us in our final choice of a major and in planning our upper division program.

We then planned the all-school party which the sophomores gave for the entire student body and faculty. On the night of the Junior-Senior Banquet we gave a party for the freshmen. This party, held in Birchard Gymnasium, helped to compensate for not being able to go to the banquet.

Our officers for this year were Jim Diehl, president; Dewain Johnson, vice-president; Joyce Mangum, secretary-treasurer; Carolyn Birchard, student council representative, and John Hursh and Marisue Card, social committee representatives. Prof. Elmore Vail was our faculty sponsor.

September of 1956 we, the green freshmen, arrived on Olivet's campus. Very excited, anxious, and ambitious, we rushed here and there—from dormitory to administration building, to the dining hall, trying to locate ourselves.

After the first hectic week of orientation tests and registration, we settled down to what we thought would be a relatively quiet life. How mistaken we were! One day in chapel we were all “awarded” neat little green beanies which had to be worn until initiation. Then it came! One morning at 4:30 we were awakened from our slumbers by the merciless sophomores blasting trumpets, pounding on doors, and screaming, “Three minutes to get dressed.” After the allotted “three minutes” we appeared on the ball field, with our cute little beanies on top of our green, lard-soaked hair. Our clothes were on wrong-side-out and backwards, and we were literally “scared spitless.” We worked up quite an appetite on the ball field and went to what we thought would be a well earned breakfast. Another surprise—instead of eating we served the sophomores breakfast, and afterwards we attempted to eat between interruptions by numerous “air raids.” These air raids were to continue throughout the day while we cleaned up the campus. In the evening the seemingly heartless sophomores grew kinder and gave us a “swell” party. Finally we were full-fledged college students.

After the initiation we settled down to participate in the activities of the college year. We gave an all-school party the first semester, and, at the beginning of the second semester, we gave a party to welcome the new freshmen enrolling in the second semester. We climaxed the semester with a party for the sophomores.

Our officers for the year were: Don Lytle, president; Jerry Ferree, vice-president; Lee Bolland, secretary; Kenny Swan, treasurer; Sarah Petrie and Marvin Johnson, representatives to the social committee; and Dave Galloway, student council representative. Our faculty sponsor was Dr. R. Wayne Gardner.

Olivet Orients a Freshman

Upperclassman, Shirley Watkins, welcomes new freshman, Geneene Haat, at Williams Hall Dormitory.

Geneene locates her room and meets her roommate, Daris Bingaman.
Along with the other new students, Geneene toils over orientation tests.

Geneene tries out for private piano lessons with Mrs. Lorsen.

At the end of her first week at Olivet, Geneene worships at College Church.
There are two special courses offered for ministers in the Division of Religion and Philosophy. The Theological Certificate Course is for those who qualify for college entrance but who wish to finish their course of study in three years. This course, consisting of ninety-six hours, places its main emphasis on subjects in Bible and theology. However, courses in English, psychology, speech, philosophy, music, and history are included.

The Ministerial Studies Program is the other course offered for ministerial candidates. This is an adult education program designed for those who do not meet college entrance requirements. This course is constructed to meet the requirements for a district preacher's license.

The two groups organize together for their social activities. The main activity of the year is the annual spring banquet. This year the banquet was held in the Mural Room with Rev. Forrest Nash as the guest speaker.

Officers for the year were Robert Scott, president; Harold Berkey, vice-president; Ray Schermerhorn, secretary; and Walter Williams, treasurer. Professor R. L. Lunsford is the faculty sponsor.
Once upon a time there was an innocent college student who thought campus life was thick textbooks, intellectual professors, stimulating lectures, and long hours of intense study and search after truth. But this student soon discovered that there is more to campus life than the intellectual pursuits. He now includes in his memoirs the groggy mornings after all-night cram or jam sessions, the long lines which characterize college from registration day to commencement exercises, the mixed emotions when grades come out, and the familiar buzz of the alarm clock.

"Get up roommate, you're late for class."
"Take out a slip of paper for a pop-quiz."
Yes, classes are indispensable, but the pros are absent-minded, surprisingly human, and like tennis as well as the students do.

"Let's go to the Universe for a cup of coffee." There are the short breaks in the middle of the day's work, the little groups chatting together here and there on the campus, in fact all the little things that make the passing days complete.

"Say, you're going to the game tonight, aren't you?" "If you don't have other plans I'd like to take you to the concert Friday night." Of course, campus life must include the planned social events—ball games, lyceums, banquets, and parties. These offer opportunities for fellowship with friends, and the social contact no campus lacks—dating. All this and more is Olivet campus life.

When spring fever hits, the books are laid aside.
Foiles steers through to victory.

Three parties, the Progressive, Practical, and Independent, presented their platforms and candidates last spring and set off a round of furious campaigning for the positions of president and treasurer of the Associated Students. On the progressive ticket Gene Phillips ran for president with John Hanson running for treasurer. Darrel Trotter was the Progressive party's campaign manager. Gene Foiles was the Practical party's choice for president, with Paul Bassett as his running partner. Their campaign manager was Jim Bedsworth. The Independent party's candidate for president was David Anderson. Lauren Larsen acted as his campaign manager.

We're all fixed up for Foiles.

Anderson vows "to serve with honor."
Vote-getting gimmicks of all types were used during the campaign. Posters everywhere — including the ceiling of the foyer in the Administration building! Bombardments of party literature, fire trucks, cars of ancient models, bands, and cars with loud speakers are examples of the many ways the parties publicized their candidates. A spectacular parade, including all three parties, climaxed the campaigning the night before the election. After the group arrived back on campus, each party had a closing pep rally.

The election returns resulted in a split ticket with Gene Foiles as the students' choice for student body president and John Hanson as treasurer.

Student Body Election
Saturday, October 27, was the date, and Birchard Gymnasium was the setting for one of the year's outstanding social events—the annual Halloween party.

The mood for a suspense-packed evening was set by a trip through the fearful Hall of the Vampire, where the visitors saw such horrible spectacles as a head without a body, a bloody intestinal operation, and other gory scenes.

An unforgettable event of the evening was the intrusion of a huge gorilla. The crowd was terrified when he hurled a girl from the balcony to her bloody death below.

Eegor, the blood-thirsty laboratory assistant, kept everyone in suspense as he wandered through the audience pouncing on prospects to give blood for the Vampire King. The climax of the program was the mystical crowning of the Vampire who reigned through the remainder of the party.

Another feature of the party was a faculty masquerade. A magician's act, readings, and musical numbers completed the program, and the party was brought to a conclusion with refreshments served in the Wagon Wheel.
Dr. Pooq says, "One heart, two hearts, three hearts, a liver; all for embalming school, stand up and quiver."

Halloween Party

Dig that crazy Dr. Bowers!

Look, no body!
"Join our club and be happy and successful your entire college career." Sounds like a radio commercial? No, it's just the motto of every club on Olivet's Campus on the annual Club Day. This year the drive for club members was held during the chapel hour on September 24.

Anything goes when the organizations on campus vie for prospective members among the student body, and everything went that morning from peanuts to racial prejudices. The peanut disappeared when John Hanson swallowed it to prove, as a Science Club demonstration, that he had something that had never been seen before and would never be seen again; and the racial prejudices took flight after the effective skits by the Sociology Club and the Missionary Band. In the presence of all assembled the Home Economics girls made a FABulous cake that was very tempting to all those in the audience with iron stomachs. The honored presence of three groups of celebrities was shared by the student body when the F.T.A. presented "Our Miss Brooks" (in the person of Donna Lanman), the "O" Club brought the All-American Football Team Almost, and the Spartan Society presented the ventriloquist Ingrid (Dove Anderson) Bergman and his dummy, Joe (Lauren Larsen) McCarthy. Some clubs exerted considerable effort to bring such attractions as the Trojan Horse for the Trojan Society, the Indian family of Chief Big Bull, and an ancient dummy for the Psychology Club research. Other presentations were an organ lesson by the Organ Guild, a business conference by the Commerce Club, and an impressive religious meditation with the aid of an illuminated cross by the Ministerial Fellowship.
"Our Miss Brooks" has another headache for Mr. Conklin.

Home Economics girls mix up FABulous coke.

Tody announces the "All-American Football Team Almost."

The Trojan horse charges onto the scene.
Democrat

Adlai E. (William Winegar) Stevenson, candidate for President, and his running mate, Estes (James Bedsworth) Kefauver, carried on a relentless campaign against their Republican opponents in the mock political campaign. A "mule" rally was held in front of the Miller Dining Hall on Monday evening, October 21. The Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, Paul (Frank Bowers) Butler, had the privilege of introducing to those in attendance not only the honored candidates but also some special Democratic guests. The guests included Kenneth Cote, candidate for State Senator; Representative Sam Shapiro; Maynard Bissanette, nominee for State's Attorney; and Ed Larocoue, chairman of the Kankakee County Democratic Committee.

The results of the campaign were not as successful as had been desired. The Democratic candidates were defeated at the polls, receiving 83 of the 493 votes cast.

The entire mock campaign and election were sponsored by the Commerce Club.
CAMPAIGN

Republican

President Dwight D. (Dave Anderson) Eisenhower and Vice-President Richard (Lauren Larsen) Nixon coached a brilliant campaign against their Democratic opponents in the mock political campaign. The Republican candidates and their supporters held a rousing GOP rally at the Olivet tennis courts on Monday evening, October 21. The four hundred persons in attendance were honored not only by the presence of the two (proxy) candidates but also by several Republican Party representatives of the Kankakee area. Senator Victor McBroom was the main speaker. Other guests included Frank W. Curran, candidate for State's Attorney; Herbart J. Hess, nominee for Circuit Court; and William H. Maitland, candidate for Recorder of Deeds. The GOP National Chairman, Leonard (Don Duff) Hall, introduced the guests.

An indication of the trend in the national election was given when the President and Mr. Nixon won by an overwhelming majority at the polls on October 24, receiving 394 of the 493 votes cast.
Each year the Associated Students of Olivet undertake an all-school project. Last year the raising of funds for the improvement of lounging facilities on campus was chosen as the project. The goal set by the student council for student participation in raising funds was $2,000.

Various means were used for raising this sum. A coffee-and-doughnut hour was held in Burke Hall parlor from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., Monday through Friday for the week of the fund-raising campaign. The students could purchase a coffee-and-doughnut refresher for fifteen cents. A car wash was held on Saturday. It wasn't a two-minute wash job, for the autos came away really shining for only $1.50 from the owner. The cars were not the only things on campus being shined. Students could get a shoe shine for a quarter (35 cents for the two-tone type) in the foyer of Burke Hall on Tuesday and Wednesday of the week. There was a big auction held on the porch of the Administration Building, toward which various merchants in Kankakee donated new merchandise. Glimmerglasses were sold for additional revenue. Any amount from five cents up was accepted. A variety program was held in the Bradley High School gymnasium on Friday evening.
"Well it's about time! This is what we've been waiting for."

Olivetians have received much enjoyment from the facilities offered by the "Universe," the new student lounge. Located on the ground floor of Chapman Hall, the Universe was redecorated as part of the previous year's student project and has been in constant use since January 3 of this year.

The lounge, which consists of the bookstore, post office, browsing area, and restaurant, has become the center of much student activity. Almost any hour of the day you will find dozens of students enjoying the cozy, casual atmosphere. There are plenty of current magazines in the browsing areas, so that one may relax and read, or chat with his friends, or, if he prefers, study for the next day's exam.

The restaurant, which serves breakfast, luncheon specials, sandwiches, salads, and desserts, has been enjoyed by students and faculty alike for the delicious food as well as for the fellowship.
Whatever the student's field or interests may be, the library plays an outstanding role in each individual's educational pursuit. Primarily the library provides a comfortable and convenient place of study with an ample supply of readily accessible reference material.

At Olivet the new three story library building provides space, tables and chairs, easy chairs, and carrels for approximately 300 readers. Some of the facilities that the students especially appreciate are the microfilm machine, the music room, the typing room, and the current events area.
Arlene, Louise, and Martha entertain their dates in number three.

Four new houses built especially for the senior girls were erected this year. The young women moved in with a feeling of pioneering, for the homes were not quite finished, but eventually life settled to the normal routine. House number 3 is the main home and the one in which guests are entertained. Only two blocks from school, the addition has been labeled "The Farm."

SENIOR HOUSES

Arlene, Martha, Bette, and Lavanna prepare a midnight snack.

Senior girls enjoy a late "gob" session.
Lee plays the parlor piano while Ginny, Shirley, and Zan add the vocal touches.

11:15 p.m. and all is peaceful and quiet in Williams Hall except for a few suppressed giggles here and there and a light showing faintly under a door or two. Of course, in all probability these girls are boning up for that big 7:30 exam, or, just possibly, they’re having a gab session on such weighty topics as that big date, the handsome new male on campus, or what to wear to the next big party! And what could that faint odor be—surely not popcorn at this time of night?

Suddenly the faint jangling of keys is heard in the hall, and that can mean only one thing: Mother Hubbard is making her nightly round. Strangely, the whole floor is suddenly, completely still—certainly all of the girls are snug in their beds and far into the land of dreams.

This is a rather typical scene in the women’s residence hall. The girls enjoy the comforts and conveniences of the modern dormitory. Attractive, well furnished rooms provide a homey atmosphere for the coeds, and such additional facilities as a lovely parlor complete with television, a recreation room, a kitchen for preparing light snacks, and a handy canteen.

For the most part, the freshman girls occupy the first and fourth floors, with the sophomores living on third, and juniors on second. Mrs. Reeves is the efficient head resident counselor and Mrs. Hubbard the kindly housemother.
12:15 p.m. and the dust has settled somewhat after another bustling day in Chapman Hall, the residence of some 250 male Olivetians. All is peaceful except for a few parties dotted here and there throughout the dorm and the not too muffled radios and Hi-Fi sets that are so well-represented on each floor. Naturally the ever-popular bull session accompanies each mirthful assembly of men, with such absorbing conversational topics as the charming new coed on campus, who is dating whom, the latest in "hopped-up" cars, or the new LP record just out.

Per usual, all merry-making must come to an end sooner or later; and the monitor's room-check or a complaint about "all the racket" often makes it sooner. However, some daring souls continue far into the night with their spirited discussions and flowery proclamations, as sagging postures and nodding heads will testify, come the dawn. Individuals who develop the previously mentioned characteristics soon acquire the label of "sackrats," as the "morning after the night before" often finds them deep in prostrate slumber.

Perhaps the building containing these young men isn't the most modern, and perhaps its inhabitants don't enjoy all of the comforts and conveniences of home, but it must be stated that an inevitable good time will be had by all desiring to reside within its time-weathered walls.
During the first week of October some two hundred modern-day Sadie Hawkinses set out hot on the trail of available Olivet males. Twirp Week, annual tradition of "girls-ask-boys," was here again and many girls were determined to make the best possible use of their opportunities. Borrowing cars, securing loans, laying plans for the strategic attack, and building up "nerve" for that important phone call were all common tactics of the Sadies in Williams Hall; meanwhile, some unwilling males fought desperately to retain their freedom, while others sat anxiously by, making themselves easy targets for the approaching foe. The events of the week were climaxed by a gay party sponsored by the W.R.A.
Students gather for social contact and Christian fellowship; they discuss mutual fields of interest; they work together on some divisional or departmental project; they realize the fulfillment of their desires for recreation. Thus the clubs and organizations on Olivet's campus contribute richly to student life.
Student Council

Every student on Olivet's campus is a member of the organization known as the Associated Students of Olivet Nazarene College. This organization was created to secure a closer relationship between the students and the administration, to provide for the regulation and co-ordination of student activities, and to foster and perpetuate desirable practices and traditions among the students of the college.

The legislative powers of this organization are vested in the Student Council, which is composed of the president and the treasurer of the Associated Students, the president of the Student Prayer Band, the editors of the Aurora and Glimmerglass, the presidents of M.D.A. and W.R.A., the presidents of the four college classes, and a representative-at-large elected from each of the college classes. The Council functions as the chief organ of liaison between the students and the administration and faculty and has jurisdiction over all student activities, the elections of the Associated Students, and all subsidiary organizations.

The Student Council this year was one of the busiest in the history of Olivet. Besides dealing with all the legislative responsibilities, the Council endeavored to provide entertainment for the student body on each Friday and Saturday evening of the entire year. Some of the outstanding events were the all-school reception, freshman "get-acquainted" parties, the faculty reception, student "take-over" day, and a farewell party for Rev. Nees. The Social Committee was organized to handle the annual parties which included the Halloween party, Christmas party, and Valentine party.

The Council assumed great responsibility in its sponsorship of the Tip-Off parade and in helping to sponsor the lyceum series. Special projects throughout this year were the managing of the Wagon Wheel, helping with the student center renovation, repairing the Olivet road signs, decorating for Christmas, and working on the Golden Anniversary Student Council Project.

The officers were Gene Foiles, president; John Hanson, treasurer; Carolyn Miller, secretary; and Esther Johnson, social chairman. Dr. John Cotner was the faculty advisor.

Student Tribunal

The judicial authority of the Associated Students is vested in the Student Tribunal. The Student Tribunal is composed of 9 members chosen, with regard to their qualifications for adjudication, by the Student Council. The appointments by the Student Council last during the entire college career of each member. Although the Student Tribunal has always been existent, this is the first year it has been active.

The Student Tribunal construes the laws of the Associated Students and hears and decides all controversies between the members and the subsidiary organizations of the Associated Students, both as to fact and as to law.

This year the Tribunal has assisted the Student Council in considering delinquency problems. The Tribunal also took an active part in the Nees Farewell Party and served a Family Style dinner with the Student Council.

This year Marcia Schneider was chairman and Marisue Card was secretary of the Tribunal.

Burke Hall, room 308—that's where all the activity centers come February evenings, for the Aurora is due at the printers on the first of March. Actually, though, the staff sets to work on the Aurora on the very first day of freshman orientation. And the editor begins planning the book in the summer. In the 1957 Aurora we have tried to portray for you in pictures and story an accurate account of campus life at Olivet. We have also tried to provide for you excerpts from Olivet's past that we thought might interest you and something of her plans for the future.

We hope that you will enjoy the pictures and write-ups of our book and make it your book, too.

A photographer, two columnists, a feature writer, and the assistant editor all work diligently together.

News Editor Jeanette Ledyard, reporters, and feature writers consider an old copy.

The news from the four corners of Olivet’s campus comes to the student body via the Glimmerglass. Through this publication the Olivetian learns of the latest happenings around him. Concise and up-to-date coverage of the major events is planned with spiritual, academic, and social activities printed as they relate to the six divisions.

Reporters rush to and fro in search of stories for forthcoming issues. The deadline often nears with the typewriters pecking away into the early hours of the morning as the copy is put into form and rushed to the press.

While the reporters keep to their beat, the business staff makes its way to the professional areas to solicit ads and establish public relations. It’s all a part of the press.

The Glimmerglass has received a first class rating by the Associated Collegiate Press.
The Platonian Philosophical Society is composed of students who have had at least three hours of philosophy. This requirement is made in order that all in the club may be aware of the problems that are discussed. The goal of the club is to understand modern culture in the light of philosophy.

The first meeting of the year was as interesting as it was unusual. The members met in the Williams Hall parlor to watch a television program, sponsored by the Philosophy of Religion Division of the University of Chicago. A situation from daily life was portrayed, and afterwards the attitudes and actions displayed in the situation were discussed by panel members. At the end of the program the club members, under the direction of Dr. Barrett, discussed the various implications as they viewed them. At one of the most important meetings of the year Miss Evangeline Barrett, a world traveler and visitor to India, daughter of Dr. Barrett, gave a lecture on her travels. She discussed the philosophical traditions of India, emphasizing the need of tolerance in our dealings with other nations. She explained that the monasteries of India are an outgrowth of thought. She discussed the important men of India and explained why they are important in world affairs today.

Other activities have included a lecture to the club by Willard Taylor, a graduate of Olivet and now a student at Garret Biblical Institute at Evanston, Illinois, a field trip to Chicago in an effort to trace the effects of philosophy on architecture and art, and a meeting based on the implications of music in philosophy.

The officers for the year were Lyle Schoenwetter, president; Paul Bassett, vice-president; Don Ely, treasurer; Deloris Bryan, secretary. Professor Carl Bangs was the sponsor.
Sociology Club

One of the newer clubs on Olivet’s campus is the Sociology Club. The club is primarily for sociology majors and minors, but membership is open to any students interested in the field. The purpose of the Sociology Club is to destroy racial prejudices and to discover ways to help make any community a better place in which to live—a better place from the standpoint of both the professional social worker and the average citizen.

Under the sponsorship of Professor F. O. Parr, students who were interested in Sociology made several field trips. Among these were trips to Pontiac State Reformatory and to Chicago, where the groups visited the juvenile and family courts and detention home, Hull House, and the surrounding area. While on these field trips it was possible to interview professional social workers and thereby gain some insight into the field.

For all prospective social workers the club also sponsored a trip to Wheaton College to attend the Christian Social Worker’s Convention.

In addition to the field trips, the club secured Dr. C. R. Shaw from Chicago, an outstanding authority on community problems in juvenile delinquency, who gave the club a challenging lecture in Burke Recital Hall. People from Hopkins Park, the Chief of Police, citizens from Bradley, along with Mrs. McCorkel, juvenile officer, and other interested persons from Kankakee County attended this lecture.
Science Club

It happened one night at Science Club!

The Olivet Science Club is primarily for students majoring or minoring in the sciences but is open to any who are interested in the field of science. The membership of the club totaled approximately fifty this year.

The purpose of the organization is fourfold: to promote a greater interest and a greater appreciation of science in our college; to share scientific knowledge among ourselves and others on the campus; to stress the practical applications of the sciences; and to uphold the Christian ideals of the college.

Club meetings are held monthly. A Christmas party was given this year, featuring films on lubrication. At another of the meetings Dr. Grothaus, the sponsor, gave a demonstration of some of the puzzles from his extensive collection. The club takes several field trips and has picnics in the Kankakee and Chicago area. A field trip was taken to the Cook County Hospital in Chicago to watch an operation. The group plans to return to the Cook County Hospital for a field trip in the spring which will also include a visit to the Museum of Science and Industry.

At a breakfast near the close of the second semester, officers were elected for the following year: Frank Bowers was elected president; Rosella Scott, vice-president; Bruce Andrews, treasurer; Dorothy Estelle, secretary; and Wendell Miller, chaplain. The sponsor of the organization for the past four years has been Dr. Clarence Grothaus.
Commerce Club

The Commerce Club is one of the largest and most active clubs on Olivet's campus. Although this club is primarily for business majors and minors, any interested students may join. This year there were approximately sixty members. Its purpose is to help students prepare for the everyday business situations and problems that they will meet later in life.

The club holds regular monthly meetings, at which films, outside speakers, and other interesting and educational programs are presented.

The outstanding activity of the Commerce Club this year was sponsoring a mock political campaign and rally on campus. Both major national political parties were represented by proxy candidates. The campaign meetings were attended by many state and local officials and candidates. For the homecoming parade this year, the club chose a Miss Commerce Club. Delores Armstrong, elected by popular ballot, reigned as queen on the Club’s Tip-Off float and also acted as hostess for the Commerce Club Spring Banquet at the Kankakee Hotel on April 6. This year Professor H. Jeters introduced a vocational guidance testing program which the members could use to find the fields of work best suited to their abilities. A personnel manager talked to the club, explaining to them what personnel managers expect of applicants. The Club has taken definite steps toward joining a national organization of business clubs.

The club’s officers for this year were Don Duff, president; Charles Beatty, vice-president; Donna Lanman, secretary; and Charles Rundberg, treasurer. The faculty sponsors were Mrs. C. Roberts, Professor L. Anderson, and Professor E. Moore.
International Relations Club

The International Relations Club seeks to interest students of Olivet in politics, public affairs, and international relations. The club is sponsored mainly by the Social Science Department, and any interested student is eligible for membership.

The club holds monthly meetings. The programs for these meetings are presented by special speakers, panel discussions, and films. Shortly before the national elections the club presented in chapel a panel discussion on campaign issues and on the night of election sponsored an election-returns party in Williams Hall Parlor. The parlor was "packed" with students and faculty members. Dr. W. E. Snowbarger charted the returns on a large blackboard map. During the year the club, in a joint meeting with the Commerce Club, discussed job opportunities in Civil Service for the federal government and on another occasion held a banquet in the Mural Room.

The officers for this year were Lyle Krumrie, president; Charles Nash, vice-president; and Betty Bowman, secretary-treasurer. Professors Harvey N. Humble and Willis E. Snowbarger were co-sponsors for the club.
The constitutional purpose of the English Guild is to stimulate an interest in great literature, to encourage creative writing among its members, and to uphold the Christian ideals of the college. It attempts in various ways to foster good literary interest for its members and the student body. This year the guild sponsored a literary contest. Essays, short stories, and poetry entries were accepted. Cash prizes were awarded to the first, second, and third prize winning entries. The three-act play, "A Man Called Peter," was presented by the guild in cooperation with the Student Council. The play was a dramatization by John McGueney from the novel by Catherine Marshall. Each year the club provides flowers for the Tip-Off activities. The group sells large yellow mums for the evening game. The organization held its spring banquet in Chicago. After the meal, the members enjoyed a puppet performance of a famous opera.

The officers for this year were Charles Osborne, president; Marilyn Conrad, vice-president; Carol Root, secretary; Dorothy Estelle, treasurer. Miss Ruth Bump, Prof. C. S. McClain, and Mrs. W. Kell were co-sponsors.
"Just smell the delicious aroma! Those Home Ec. girls must be at it again."

The girls of the Home Economics Club have as their purpose "better living through service to others." The club's activities are geared to prepare the members for service in the home, school, and community.

The organization has had a very active year: it held monthly meetings to plan various money-making campaigns and numerous trips; sent several representatives to attend meetings of national, state, and regional home economics clubs; and took a field trip to Springfield, Illinois. Although the main purpose of the Springfield trip was to attend the state convention for college home economics clubs, the girls also visited several places of historical interest. The group has traveled to Chicago on a number of occasions to attend style shows, and has made a special tour of the Merchandise Mart to view furniture and styles of clothing. Numerous trips have been taken to neighboring towns to make comparisons of prices of yard goods and groceries. At Christmas time the girls baked cookies and made candy for special boxes for the Bethel Nursing Home, delivered the boxes personally, and sang carols for the patients. The club members baked twenty-five dozen donuts for a donut sale in the two dormitories. The proceeds from this project were used to provide a banquet for the senior members. It was the annual foreign foods banquet, specializing this year in Italian pizza.

The officers of the Home Ec. Club were Evelyn Gray, president; Carolyn Birchard, vice-president; Marie Redman, secretary; and Marlene Hiner, treasurer. Mrs. Eurela Brown was the faculty sponsor of the club.
The Phi Tau Omega Chapter of F. T. A. is one of the larger clubs on Olivet's campus. The membership of this club is comprised of students who are preparing for a career in the field of education, including future teachers at the elementary, secondary, and college levels, and future school administrators.

The purposes of F. T. A. are to develop among young people who are preparing to be teachers an organization which is an integral part of state and national education associations; to acquaint teachers in training with the history, ethics, and program of the organized teaching profession; to give teachers in training practical experience in working together in a democratic way on the problems of the profession and the community; to interest the best young men and women of the college in education as a lifelong career; and to seek, through higher standards of preparation, to bring the teacher supply and demand into a reasonable balance.

A variety of programs has been presented this year. The first program was a film showing the organization of the F. T. A. of Eastern Nazarene College at Wollaston, Massachusetts. The second meeting was caroling. At one session Prof. F. O. Parr entertained the group with slides of his recent tour of the Holy Land, and at another Dr. C. A. Gibson gave a timely address concerning the Christian's place in the field of education.

Officers of the club for this year were Marcia Schneider, president; Wendell Miller, vice-president; Rosalie Downs, secretary; Donna Huseman, treasurer; Carolyn Shrum, librarian; and Marilyn Conrad, historian. Dr. Vernon T. Groves and Prof. Paul Schwada were co-sponsors of the organization.
The Men's Dormitory Association is composed of all of the residents of Chapman Hall and the White House. Its purpose is to share with the administration problems of discipline in the dormitory, to strive to make the dormitory a more desirable place of residence, and to contribute its part to the social and spiritual life of dormitory students. The representative council and its president are elected by the entire constituency, with the exception of the floor counselors who are members of the council by virtue of their position. The officers for the year were Frank Bowers, president; Wendy Miller, vice-president; Bob Wall, secretary; and Dewain Johnson, treasurer. The association gives two parties each year. The first of these is for the members of the association, and the second is a joint party with the W. R. A. The association also sponsors nightly prayer meetings during revivals.
Women's Residence Association

The Women's Residence Association is composed of all residents of Williams Hall and of the Senior Houses. The aim of the W. R. A. is to strive to make the dormitories better places in which to live and to help each girl be a little more comfortable in her new home. The representative council and its president are elected each year by the members of the association to carry on the business of the group. The officers for the year were Marilyn Keeler, president; Pat Hecht, vice-president; Carolyn Miller, secretary; and Carolyn Birchard, treasurer.

This year the organization has sponsored a Backward Big-Little Sister party, the Twirp Week party, Christmas carol sing, and popcorn party. The organization also sponsors open house each year. During revival times, the association holds nightly prayer meetings. The W. R. A. will also serve the Investiture Day Tea.
The Student Social Committee, created this year by the Student Council, consists of two elected representatives from each class. It is this committee's responsibility to plan the major all-school parties designated for the Student Council sponsorship.

The first party the committee planned was the Student-Faculty Reception, which was a take-off from the television show, "What's My Line." The Social Committee served as a panel attempting to unveil faculty personalities. The second, the formal Christmas party, was held at Small's Auditorium. The theme was "Christmas Around the World." The decorations gave the auditorium the appearance of a ship; the script and the varied scenery arrangements presented six different countries at which the ship docked for six different Christmas festivities. The third, a Valentine Party, the theme of which was "Heart of My Heart," was carried out in a hilarious skit and mock trial.

These three major parties were highlights in the social life of the college.
Religious Life

In his room a student kneels in solitary prayer, his open Bible before him on his bed; in the classroom heads bow in unison as the instructor begins his class with prayer; in the chapel the entire college family gather for the devotional hour. With rhythmic footsteps the group follow one another to College Church for the regular services or the special revival. Thus religious life of Olivet from personal expression to collective worship helps to make possible the fulfillment of the motto, "Education with a Christian Purpose."
College Church Pastor

On unanimous call by the members, Rev. Forrest Nash became pastor of College Church January 5, 1957. The Nash family were pastoring the Church of the Nazarene in Boulder, Colorado, when called to serve at Olivet.

Rev. Nash is originally from Kansas, where he attended grade school and high school. As a college freshman he attended Southwestern College in Winfield, Kansas. His sophomore and junior years were spent at Bethany Nazarene College, after which he did special seminary work at Southern Baptist. He received his Th.B. degree from Bethany in 1938; his M.A. degree from Perkins School of Theology, Southern Methodist University, in 1939; and has done graduate work in history at the University of Colorado since that time.

Rev. Nash had pastored two Churches in Arkansas, one in Kansas, and one in Colorado previous to his call to Olivet College Church.

Rev. and Mrs. Nash have four children, Edmond Palmer, Beverly Grace, James Emerson, and David Wendell. Mrs. Nash, also a graduate of Bethany, had nurses's training in Friends University in Wichita, Kansas.
Congratulations to the Editor and staff for this auspicious Aurora. Within these pages you will find the road that leads to reminiscence. It is our earnest prayer that woven within your tapestry of memory there will be the golden thread of inspiration because of what College Church has meant to you. We want College Church to represent the best of what Holiness means in worship, teaching, evangelism, music, and fellowship. Inspired by the light of the past, let us in faith move forward into the future. Let us go forth in this age of atomic power with an affinity to Godliness which enables one to be in the world, yet beyond and above it.

Rev. Forrest W. Nash
Throughout the past four years, College Church has progressed under the able direction and ministry of Dr. L. Guy Nees. Dr. Nees, feeling a call for service in another direction, terminated his pastorate here in December, 1956. In January, 1957, Dr. Nees accepted the pastorate of Los Angeles First Church of the Nazarene. During the intervening weeks Dr. Nees did some evangelistic work.

In his ministry at Olivet, Dr. Nees led the church forward to numerous successes. Among his most outstanding accomplishments were the planning, supervision, and completion of the new College Church, which was dedicated in 1955. He also supervised the establishment of a greatly needed youth program in the church.
Another year and another Aurora! While it is not possible to capture all the exciting moments of a year at Olivet within the pages of a yearbook, yet it certainly helps to have such a publication. The value of such a book cannot be counted in dollars and cents. There are sentimental ties and memories that are priceless about such a place as this and this book will help us to relive these experiences again and again.

And while we are remembering, let us be sure to remember Olivet's first purpose and sure foundation. Let us remember the wonderful services, gracious revivals—times when the Lord met our hearts, for these things form a most abiding part of life at Olivet.

L. Guy Nees
Fall Revival

The annual Fall Revival of College Church was held from October 7 to 14. Rev. C. William Fisher of Kansas City, Missouri, was the evangelist. In addition to preaching in the morning chapel services and in the evening church services, Rev. Fisher presented his own ministry of music, special singing and instrumental work.

In the evening church services Rev. Fisher used a unique attendance-boosting technique in the form of special-recognition programs which kept attendance and interest at a high level. Among the groups included in the recognition programs were the church members and church board, Sunday School classes and teachers, and church school board members. Two of these evening services were dedicated to "Ladies' Night" and "Men's Night." On these nights members of the featured group did the ushering and provided the special music.

The revival was climaxd with a Sunday School rally with an attendance of 793. In this service Rev. Fisher played the only baritone solo of the revival.

Rev. Fisher has distinguished himself in other ways besides his preaching. He won first place in state competition in Oklahoma and second place in national competition in Chicago for solo work on the baritone horn. He has written several books which are typical of his dynamic preaching. Among these are Wake Up and Lift and The Time Is Now.

The revival was a success in terms of attendance and number of seekers at the altar, but the most lasting effects will be felt and expressed throughout the future in the lives of those who attended.
The annual five-day youth revival was held January 30 to February 3. The evangelist was Dr. V. H. Lewis of Kansas City. Services were held during the chapel hours at the College and at College Church each evening of the revival. The special music was arranged by Prof. Charles Hasselbring, a music instructor at Olivet. Various vocal and instrumental groups from the college presented special numbers throughout the services and Mr. Hasselbring sang a solo each evening.

Dr. Lewis outlined his purpose for revival in his first message. It was that the revival's influence reach the intermediates, the senior high group, the college students, and the families of the community. Dr. Lewis further stated that he intended that the revival should be a "mighty endeavor to see the richness of God's blessing upon us." Certainly Dr. Lewis must have felt at the close of the revival that his mission had been accomplished.
Ministerial Fellowship

It is Saturday morning and time for another of the Ministerial Fellowship Breakfast Hours in the Mural Room of Miller Dining Hall. These breakfasts, attended by students preparing for full-time Christian Service, their wives, and friends, have furnished the outstanding programs of the Fellowship during this year, highlighted by such notable speakers as Rev. C. Wm. Fisher, Dr. Paul Updike, Dr. L. Guy Nees, Rev. Mark R. Moore, Rev. Arthur C. Morgan, and Dr. Lyle Eckley.

Dr. Reed spearheaded the first formal meeting of the year in September with an evening of fellowship. One of the General Superintendents is expected for the closing gathering at the Ministerial Fellowship Banquet, May 18.

The purpose of the Ministerial Fellowship is found in the words of the organization's constitution: To promote understanding, acquaintanceship, and fellowship among members, to increase the general efficiency of each member in terms of Christian leadership, to provide our Ministers-in-training the opportunity to hear representative speakers from various departments of our church, to sponsor the establishment of home missions in co-operation with the different superintendents of our Olivet College Zones, and to secure through united prayer and effort the maximum of divine blessing upon the fellowship of the college, the church, and the world at large.

The attitude of the organization toward Christian brotherhood is exemplified by the Ministerial Fellowship project this year which has been to help the Gilman Church of the Nazarene pastored by Dick Steidel, Olivet graduate of 1956. This help includes assisting in the calling program and the dismantling of a two story building belonging to the church. The organization also plans to tithe its net profit and give the proceeds to a Nazarene church.

The officers of the year are J. Rex Eaton, president; Bill Lockard, first vice-president; Martin Arni, second vice-president; Gordon Dawes, Jr., secretary; Jack Harris, treasurer, Dr. Ottis Sayes, sponsor.
Missionary Band

Whether called to Africa, Japan, Hawaii, Mexico, the slums of New York, Chicago, or your own hometown, you are a missionary, and the Missionary Band is your club.

The Student Missionary Band is one of the largest and most active clubs on Olivet’s campus. The membership is not limited to called missionaries, but is open to all students who are interested in furthering the cause of missions in the United States, as well as in the rest of the world. The purpose of this organization is to unify the prospective missionaries of Olivet for fellowship and activities, and to promote the cause of missions by stimulating interest in and disseminating information concerning missions.

On the first Tuesday of every month the members meet for a variety of programs and socials. Slides of missionary work in Nicaragua and Mexico were featured in one meeting; in another Mrs. Etta Larsen was special speaker. The outstanding event is the missionary lecture series, presented this year by Rev. and Mrs. Carl Mischke, missionaries to Africa. The annual missionary breakfast climaxes the events with plenty of food, fellowship, and an outstanding speaker. The Annual Breakfast was held on May 11. At this gathering officers for the coming year were elected.

The 1956-57 missionary band tackled a challenging project—to build a parsonage for the Tampico Church of the Nazarene in Northern Mexico. The Tampico church is the largest in Mexico and averages between eight and nine hundred. The total cost of the project is $1,500, but with the help of the entire student body the goal is being reached.

The officers of the Missionary Band were Bob Collins, president; Neil Strait, vice-president; Gordon Dawes Jr., treasurer; Goldie Baker, secretary; Lora Tippey, librarian; Neil Strait, publicity manager; and David Hall, chaplain. The club’s sponsors were Professor Harvey Collins and Professor R. L. Lunsford.
"Let's hurry! We don't want to be late for Prayer Band."

One of the most effective organizations for keeping the spiritual tide high among Olivet's students is the Student Prayer Band. This devotional period, held from 6:15 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings, is designed to provide the students with the opportunity of personal and collective worship near the close of the day's activities. It features congregational singing, special music, testimonies, and prayer.

The Tuesday evening services are devoted almost entirely to special music. Many of Olivet's outstanding musical ensembles are featured regularly. It is in preparation for this Tuesday evening services that many regular ensembles have been originated. On Thursday evenings, prayer is especially stressed, and much time is allowed for prayer requests. A short devotional message is often presented to the students by the president, John Payton, or by other ministerial students. One of the outstanding programs of the year, the Christmas Cantata, under the direction of Lester Hart, was enjoyed by a large audience of students and faculty guests.

Each year the Student Prayer Band launches a project for the improvement of the Kelley Prayer Chapel in which they worship. Last year's project was the purchasing of a baby grand piano, and the payments on this were completed this year. This year the chapel draperies were cleaned and carpeting was laid on the platform.

Officers for this year's organization were John Payton, president; Bob Collins, vice-president; Jim Bedsworth, secretary-treasurer; Lester Hart and Wayne Gallup, music directors; and Della Anthony, publicity chairman. The faculty sponsor was Professor Elmore Vail.
Rev. Wesley Bentley is the Assistant Pastor of College Church. He is in charge of the youth work of the church and assists the pastor in calling and in the various church services. Prior to this appointment, Rev. Bentley served on the planning board and the church board. He is an Olivet graduate and while a student he was supervisor of the youth department.

Mrs. Bentley has the responsibility of secretary to both Rev. Nash and Rev. Bentley.

Congratulations to you of the 1957 Aurora staff for this, the Golden Anniversary issue of the Aurora. It has meant much time and effort on your part. I'm sure that those receiving it will treasure it and that the memories it holds will unfold with the years. As an alumnus of Olivet Nazarene College I can speak from personal experience.

As assistant pastor of College Church I pray that our ministry has been a blessing to the students of Olivet.

In the midst of the morning schedule of classes the faculty and the student body meet together in Howe Chapel for a half hour of devotion. The program features congregational and special music, scripture reading by the entire student body from the new Bibles made available this year, and a devotional message by a visiting or local speaker.
Much of the social life of Olivet throughout the year centers around the numerous lyceum programs. The purpose of the lyceum series is to bring outside entertainment to the campus that will be of a high level and not only entertaining but also cultural.

The lyceum committee is elected by the faculty each year to select the featured numbers. The committee consists of four faculty members and four students, with the student body president acting as secretary. The committee recommends a program to the secretary who in turn writes to the artist to ask concerning an appearance and the cost. When an agreement is reached, the program is scheduled.

One dollar per semester is allotted from each student's activity fee for the lyceum program. This year the entire expense was covered by this allotment, so no admission charge was made for students or community people.

“Christmas Around the World” was the theme for the annual yuletide party held in Small’s auditorium, December 12. The auditorium took on the appearance of a ship for the occasion and was lavishly decorated with wreaths as ring buoys, five beautiful Christmas trees, and, of course, the traditional mistletoe.

The passengers who had previously purchased their passports in a cleverly decorated booth in the foyer of the administration building, launched on their voyage from New York, leaving behind a scene of busy holiday shoppers hurrying through the snow of the city.

The first lap of the journey ended at Holland. Here tall, thin St. Nick was busy filling the children’s wooden shoes.

with gifts. In England the passengers saw the people "Deck the Halls with Boughs of Holly."

Germany was the next stop, and here the voyagers caught the true meaning of Christmas as they listened to the history and singing of the beautiful old carol, "Silent Night," presented in a lovely church scene. From Germany they traveled to France, where a dramatization of the song, "The Twelve Days of Christmas," was given. Next came Mexico, and here the tourists saw the breaking of the traditional pinata, followed by a mad scramble for the shower of gifts.

Home again at last. After Santa Claus put in his appearance, the party closed with the song, "There's No Place Like Home for the Holidays."
When it's mealtime at Olivet, it's Miller Dining Hall; The dining hall serves three cafeteria-style meals daily. A special part of the year's program has been the family-style dinners each Wednesday evening.

Birchard Gymnasium, cleverly decorated with cupid and hearts, was the setting for the Valentine Party which was held February 9.

After a girls' sextette sang, "Heart of My Heart," a hilarious skit was given. The scene was the Williams Hall parlor, the occasion a coed's first date. The coed's whole family was there from Louisiana to insure a good send-off for the big night. However, by the time the girl arrived from the eighteenth floor and the reception was completed, it was too late, and there was no "first date" after all.

Following the skit a jury consisting of twelve members tried several individuals from the audience for supposed offenses. Of course, they were all found guilty and as a penalty were required to give musical numbers in harmony with the heart theme.

At the close of the party the students enjoyed refreshments of nuts, punch, and heart-shaped cake.

Early one Friday morning, September 14, the Olivet faculty members journeyed to Shafer Lake, Indiana, where they were to spend the two days of their annual faculty retreat. While the professors enjoyed their vacation the students demonstrated how they would run the school if they had a chance. Even the professors had to admit,

Those who were in charge of the administrative offices for the day were: Gene Foiles, President; John Hanson, Business Manager; Dorothy Estelle, Dean of the College; Dick North, Dean of Students; Lauren Larsen, Registrar; Keith Owens, Director of Placement; Jack Hansher, Librarian; Dave Anderson, Counselor-at-large; Lester Hart, Field Secretary; and John Payton, College Pastor.

The monotonous rhythm and the repetitious tones of piano scales drift from a freshman practice room; a colorful harmony, flowing rhythm, and finesse of phrasing arrest the attention as the senior pianist performs. The beginning student of art makes a slow, uncertain stroke of the brush across an empty canvas; an accomplished artist conveys his message by skillful handling of brush on canvas. In the Division of Fine Arts the long road from the awkward beginner to the accomplished senior is an arduous but rewarding one.
The Apollo Choir has been one of the most active groups on campus this year. The year began with a picnic at Rock Creek Park. After everyone was well-smoked and had eaten raw hamburgers, the group sang familiar old songs accompanied by Ruth Swain playing the accordion, Art Headlee the guitar, and Dale Martin the harmonica.

The choir participated in half-time events at the Homecoming game. Apollo joined Orpheus and Community choirs in the presentation of the "Messiah." Besides providing the music for College Church at least one Sunday a month, the group gave several off-campus concerts. The tours were started by gathering for breakfast in the dining hall. The first off-campus concert was given at Kankakee First Church of the Nazarene, on Sunday, February 3. Besides presenting the entire morning service, the choir provided music for "The Good News Hour," broadcasted by station WKAN.

On February 17, the choir gave a morning concert in the Harvey Church of the Nazarene. On March 3, they gave a morning concert at Danville Church, and an evening concert in Hoopston, Illinois. During the concerts, special music was presented by the choir's quartet and sextet. Members of the quartet were Roger Manning, Gene Davidson, Dave Ingalls, and Chuck Millhuff. Members of the sextet are Alberta Fell, Virginia Handschy, Sarah Petrie, Jo Ann Coil, Lee Bolland, and Wanda Grooms.

The year was climaxed May 11 with a banquet at Tiebol's on the Indiana-Illinois border. After a chicken dinner a humorous reader from Chicago provided entertainment.

Mrs. Naomi Larsen is the choir's director, and Ruth Wilhoyte was the accompanist. Officers were Jack Harris, president; Bob Collins, vice-president; Shirley Stubblefield, secretary; Don Bryant, treasurer; Jim Ewers, librarian; Edna Roach, robe chairman; Cliff Everett, chaplain; and Lee Bolland and Phil Richardson, social committee representatives.
The Messiah

The Orpheus and Apollo Choirs combined with the Kankakee Community Church Choirs gave Olivet's 21st annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah" in three performances at the College Church, one on the evening of December 7 and two on December 9.

In this presentation of the "Messiah" student soloists were featured for the first time. On Friday evening the soloists were: Louise Fallis and Monagail Trotter, seniors, sopranos; Nancie Davis, senior, alto; Wayne Gallup, senior, bass; John Schreffler of Kankakee, tenor. Soloists for Sunday afternoon included: Beth Hatcher, freshman, soprano; Ruth McClain, graduate of Olivet and student at the University of Illinois School of Music, alto; Charles Hasselbring, Instructor of Voice and Theory, tenor; Bruce Foote, University of Illinois Voice Instructor, bass. The Sunday Evening performance featured: Linda Luttrell, sophomore, soprano; Mrs. Naomi Larsen, Professor of Piano and Voice, alto; Daniel Liddell, Chairman of the Voice Department, tenor; and Bruce Foote, bass.

The choirs together with a 22-piece orchestral ensemble were under the direction of Dr. Walter B. Larsen, Chairman of the Division of Fine Arts for the past seventeen years. At the organ was Professor Kenneth Bade, Chairman of the Organ Department, and organist for the "Messiah" for several years. His accurate interpretation of this famed oratorio has done much to make the performances a great success and a blessing to all who hear them.
The goal of every vocal music student of Olivet College is to become a member of Orpheus Choir. The purpose of Orpheus Choir is to allow participation of talented students in a choral organization for the presentation of both sacred and secular works. An emphasis is placed upon Christian growth through the medium of singing sacred selections. During twenty-six years the choir has presented hundreds of concerts, having toured our Central Educational Zone each year since its organization.

For the past twenty years, an annual presentation of the "Messiah" has been conducted by Dr. Larsen, the organizer of the choir. In addition to these special annual activities, the choir takes its place in the schedule of special music for College Church services. Each year an outstanding activity of the choir is the Orpheus banquet. Last year at the banquet, pins were awarded to students who had been in the choir for three years, and Dr. Larsen was presented with twenty-five silver dollars, representing the twenty-five years the choir has been in existence.

In 1956 Orpheus Choir was honored by being selected to sing for the quadrennial General Assembly of the Church of the Nazarene. They appeared in the opening general session in which the General Superintendents gave their quadrennial reports. They also sang before the Missionary Convention and the National N.Y.P.S. Convention.

This year the choir's activities were the annual presentation of the "Messiah," which was given in College Church and also was presented at Kankakee State Hospital. They also took part in the sacred concert which featured Gerald Moore as the guest soloist. Other activities included Tip-Off activities, a concert for the public held in Small Civic Auditorium, and a hymn festival. The Orpheus Choir also sang for the annual graduation exercises.

Each year the choir tours the Central Educational Zone. This year they toured Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, and Illinois.

The officers for this year were Jack Clark, president; Jack Hansher, vice-president; Monagail Trotter, second vice-president; and Jim Smith, treasurer. Dr. W. B. Larsen was the faculty sponsor.
Choir tour is one of the highlights of the year for an Orpheus Choir member. Into that 10-day tour is packed more fun, adventure, inspiration, and blessing than in any other experience in college.

The touring group of 50 persons loaded into three cars and a bus and started on their merry way. The 1956 tour included the states of Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa, and Missouri. The Students stayed in the homes of the church members, and were fed meals "fit for a king!"

The choir gave varied concerts each evening to satisfy all tastes in music—works of Bach, Negro spirituals, "The Creation," the choral and recitative numbers, and special arrangements of hymns such as "Amazing Grace." Several of the selections were accompanied by an orchestra composed of choir members.

The 1956 tour was one of the most outstanding in the history of Orpheus Choir. No member will ever forget the night in Iberia, Missouri, when the choir felt the blessing of God in a new and refreshing way. At the close of the concert the choir gathered in the basement of the church to vote on the time for leaving the next morning, but instead they turned the meeting into testimony and prayer—a wonderful time of blessing.
Baldwin, Hammond, or pipe—whatever you play, you’ll find it discussed in Gale Organ Guild.

The purposes of the Organ Guild is to bring its members into closer contact with worthy church music, and to provide an opportunity for the members to discuss professional topics, and to raise the standard of efficiency of organists in the college.

This year the Guild took a field trip to Chicago to attend an organ and carillon recital given by Flor Peters in Rockefeller Memorial Chapel on the campus of the University of Chicago.

The guild took an active part in presenting Fred Marriott in an organ recital at the College Church. Previous to the concert, Mr. Marriott demonstrated various techniques of organ playing to the members of the guild.

Prof. Carl Bangs gave a short lecture on the hymn books used in the British Churches of the Nazarene. He also showed slides of various churches that he visited while on his recent tour of Europe. He concluded his lecture with an explanation of organs in use in these churches.

Officers for this year were Bob Basham, president; Marilee Brown, vice-president; Shirley Hollinger, secretary; and Marilyn Keeler, treasurer. Dr. Ella L. Gale and Professor Kenneth Bade have served as faculty sponsors.
Senior Recitals

It is the general practice in music schools for qualified seniors to present senior recitals. In accordance with this practice the study of applied music at Olivet is undertaken with the objective of performances in mind, although such performance may take very different forms. It is the requirement and also the desire of students who are qualified for public recital work to share their musical experiences with others.

All of the recitals this school year were given in Burke Recital Hall, with the exception of the organ recital which was held in College Church.
Carolaires

The Carolaires Trio consists of Della Anthony, Nancie Davis, and Marilyn Johnson. These girls have traveled over the educational zone this year during week ends and have sung in two revivals. The girls would like to continue traveling full time after graduating.

Crusaders

The Crusaders Quartet consists of Carleton Wood, Ronald Angles, Gene Foiles, and Robert Wall. This group has traveled this year in Indiana and Illinois.

Melody-Aires

The Melody-Aires Trio consists of Darlene Baker, Sally Davis, and Betty Bowman. These girls have traveled extensively over the educational zone and have had engagements in Florida over Christmas vacation.
The Trebletones Trio consists of Frances Richards, Linda Luttrell, and Martha Reed. These girls have traveled widely throughout the school year and will represent the school during the summer in the same capacity.

Vikings

The Vikings trombone trio consists of David Culross, pianist; Ray Morrison, Jim Erwin, and Charles Millhuff. This group also doubles as a men's quartet. They will travel for the school this summer, covering many parts of our Educational Zone.
Brass Choir

M. Matson, Prof. C. Bangs, W. Speakman, M. Brown, R. Styles, J. Ewers.

The Brass Choir functions as an advanced seminar in literature for brass instruments. In this capacity it is an experimental group which reads newly published compositions for brass. Much of the music is imported from Europe, but the group also plays newly edited 16th and 17th century brass music and contemporary classics by American composers. This semester the group consisted of three trumpets, one trombone, one baritone, and one tuba. Directed by Professor Carl Bangs, who plays the French horn, the group appears in public recitals and supplies the more conventional types of music in chapel and College Church. The brass choir is planning a Sunday afternoon vesper recital with organ accompaniment later this semester. The group had no elected officers this year.
The Olivet Symphony Orchestra, directed by Kenneth Bade, has been very busy this year. The orchestra’s first appearance of the year was at the Kankakee Teachers Concert, where in cooperation with Orpheus Choir it gave its first concert. During the year the orchestra gave one concert in chapel and a midwinter concert at Small’s Auditorium in Kankakee, which was the largest concert of the year. The year’s work was climaxed with a spring banquet in Chicago.

The orchestra, with the Orpheus Choir, annually presents the commencement concert on the eve of graduation.

The officers for this year were Frank Hallum, president; Duane Askew, vice-president; Pat Hecht, secretary and treasurer; Marilyn Cassels, librarian; and Jeanette Ledyard, publicity chairman. Prof. Kenneth Bade was the director.
"Here come the girls! Yes, it's the six girls of Olivet's Drill Team."

These girls were chosen at the beginning of the school year by a committee including Prof. Bangs, another professor, the drum major, and the Drill Team members of the previous year, who are automatically placed in the new Drill Team. The girls were chosen primarily according to marching ability; however, height and weight were an important consideration. The list was approved by the Dean and posted. Then began the hours of strenuous practice before Tip-Off, which was to be the first appearance for the Drill Team. On Tip-Off day, along with the drum major, the girls led the marching band in the Tip-Off parade and performed again during the night game. Through the year the Drill Team performed at some of the basketball games. The routines were worked out by the girls and the drum major, with the aid of Prof. Bangs.

The girls wore white skirts and sweaters with letters spelling out OLIVET. For some of their appearances the team wore white blouses and skirts, colored cummerbunds and shoulder straps, short white gloves, and standard majorette boots.

The members of this year's Drill Team were Sharon Mace, Jewell Monroe, Pat Thornton, June Woods, and Jeanette Hanson. Jeanette has completed her second year as a member of the team.
The Olivet Marching Band, under the able directorship of Prof. Carl Bangs, had a very busy schedule this year. The first appearance, and one of the most important, of the band was at Tip-Off. It led the Tip-Off Parade and entertained at the evening games. A short time after Tip-Off the members of the band enjoyed a party and a hay-ride at the Fairview Riding Stables. The band gave several concerts during the year, among which were religious classical concerts at Chicago and Hammond, a chapel concert, and a spring concert at West Junior High Auditorium. Week end tours were made to various churches over the Central Educational Zone in which the Band gave classical religious concerts. The band also appeared at the basketball games on Friday nights during the year.

The officers this year were Frank Hallum, president; Wayne Gallup, vice-president; John Poyton, treasurer; Marilee Brown, secretary; and Randy Culver, librarian.
The Art Department of the Division of Fine Arts offers a variety of courses designed to develop appreciation for various art expressions and an understanding of art principles. Teaching minors in art are offered on both the Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science degrees. The crafts classes are planned with projects suitable to the classroom teacher. The scope of the course includes linoleum block cutting and printing, papier maché work, glass etching, china painting, and textile painting. The ceramics course offers the basic methods of coil and slab pottery making, wheel throwing, and glazing and fixing techniques. The present drawing class is concerned with figure drawing. The students are introduced to the basic fundamentals of perspective, composition, and basic anatomy. The group works with the media of pencil, charcoal, and chalk. The department also offers a course in oil painting in which the students deal with still-life, landscapes, and portraits.
Some future teachers try their skill in linoleum block printing.
SPORTS
Trojan History

In the fall of 1930 the high school girls of Olivet organized an athletic society, which they named Trojans. The principal activities of the society were hiking, basketball, tennis, and physical exercises.

From 1930 to 1939 the society had been strictly a high school girls' society, but in 1939 it became officially a society of the college for both men and women.

In their first year as a college society the Trojan men took second place in both softball and basketball, and the Trojan women pulled through with a first in both softball and basketball.

In 1941, their third year as a College society, the Trojans had almost 100 members to their credit and proved to be a really great society.

From 1941 to 1955, although their successes were not outstanding, Trojan men and women won their share of the trophies.

In 1955-56 the Trojan men enjoyed one of their best years, being undefeated in softball, football, and basketball. They were unscored upon in football, something never accomplished by any society before this time.

The Trojan society has high hopes for the future, for they are good sportsmen, and they will be out to win.
The Trojan baseball team moved into full swing this year with a spirited team. The team placed second with a three-win, three-loss record. Their hitting power was proved through their placing five Trojans on the list of ten best hitters. These were George Hofstra, 2nd place, .454; John Rose, 4th, .363; Jim Smith, 5th, .363; Miles Simmons, 7th, .333; Walt Murray, 10th, .300. The pitching department was well represented by Hofstra, Bierrer, and Sheffer. Hofstra had the most wins with two wins and no losses. The team was a very enthusiastic group the entire year. Fast base work, good team work, and consistent hitting seemed enough to win, but the "big blue" was weak in the clutch. Since many of the players were new this year at O.N.C., next year's team should be a group much improved and should have a strong bid for the championship.
The undefeated, unscored-upon Trojan champions of last year christened the opening of the "56" season by crushing this year's champion Indians by a decisive three touchdown win. The rest of the season was not as illustrious as this first contest due to a rather sizable list of injured.

After this win the mighty Trojan machine bogged down with one of its main wheels missing. Ronnie Thompson, one of last year’s highest scorers, twisted his knee in the second game of the season and was a loss to the team for the rest of the year. The "T" men tied this game, which was played against a spirited Spartan team. The remainder of the season was a series of defeats which were all lost by narrow margins.

Coach Bud Polston and Bill Lockard left the scene about midway through the season due to injuries. Chuck Millhuff pulled a tendon in the next to the last game and bid farewell to football for "56."

Paul Cunningham, with outstanding spirit and faultless centering, proved a solid bulwark weighing in at 205. Jerry Brown, Bill Lockard, and Larry "Barrel" Cox handled the tackle positions with solid and devastating power. Jerry at 200, Barrell at 220, and Bill at 180 gave the "T" men a heavy group to choose from. With Chuck Millhuff and Lavern Beckwith at the end positions the Trojan line was well rounded out. With Chuck at 175 and Lavern at 170 the line averaged out to an impressive 195 pounds. 180 pound Vern Fischer did a fine job as quarterback working with a great backfield which consisted of Ronnie Thompson, Dewain Johnson, George Finney, and Bud Bolston at the halfback positions. With fleet-footed Ronnie at 150, elusive Dewain at 180, dependable George at 190, and hustling Bud at 195, the Trojans had a swift and powerful backfield. Fullback Don "Brute" Fry, 205 pounds of dynamite, exploded continually through opponents to take top scoring honors in the league.

The history of the Trojan football team of 1956 can be summed up briefly: Better records, yes; but better spirit, never!
“Swish! It’s another two points for the Trojans!” That was a commonplace expression among the Trojans this year. Terrific cooperation and team wars shot the Trojans to a tie for first place in the 1956-1957 season. The team was paced by Jim Smith who continually split the cords for a 17.8 point average for the year. Elusive Tom Craig hit for a 15.2 average. Dewain Johnson with sure corner shots totaled 12.2. John Rose worked the score for a 10.8, and Vern Fischer for 10.6. This sums up to an impressive 66 points per game average.

The picture above shows both “A” and “B” team members. The “B” team consisted of the men that did not play in the “A” games.

Vern Fischer did a fine job of molding the team into a smooth working set-up. Good floor work and sure plays, made this team a sparkling group in both the offensive and defensive departments. When these boys took the floor, one could be sure of a night full of good basketball.
When one saw a group of girls, garbed in blue and white and wearing saddle shoes, coming on the ball field, he quickly realized that he was in for a good fast game. The Trojan women outdid themselves in softball this year with a five-win, one-loss record.

Dorothy Acord, Alberta Fell, Rosella Scott and Sarah Petrie all hit over the 500 average mark. The main attraction of this team was their surprising spirit and never ending hustle. This group of players really enjoyed the game they played.
Trojan Girls' Basketball

This group of girls had an impressive seven-win, one-loss record this year. Marilyn Trimble led the team with a 17.0 average. The other forwards were Sarah Petrie, Bobboe Hunter, and Alberta Fell. There was a strong trio controlling the boards, consisting of Dorothy Acord, Violet Neehouse, and Rosella Scott. In taking first place the girls doubled the score on their opponents. Everett Combs, their coach, had a right to be proud of this group of girls in the basketball season.

Indian History

Olivet's famous Indian Society grew out of the Cleo-Apollonian Literary Society, which was organized for literary and educational purposes, but later expanded to include athletics also. This society was better known by its abbreviation the "B's." The society won many honors and always "endeavored to create a deeper appreciation of literature, to develop talent and personality, to be foremost in regard to good sportsmanship, to increase intellectual growth," and to promote the joy of achieving. The Cleo-Apollonians then, as the Indians now, made themselves a real competitive threat to the other two societies.

The "B's" believed that a great source of help to their society was their faith in God, which inspired greater confidence in their teammates. The members of this distinguished organization were unexcelled in their cooperation and team spirit. The leaders of the Indian society have held up this fine tradition of respect for fellow society members and foes alike.

In 1932 the "B's" name was changed to its modern name: The Indians. This same year the Indians won the unique contest, the "Aurora" Contest. This bout was between the mighty "Indians" and the Cowboys. The Indians carried away scalps in the form of subscriptions, while the persistent Cowboys worked hard to solicit aid to uphold their part of the campaign.

"For ten days, skirmishes between the Indians and Cowboys were frequent. Wild war whoops, blood-curdling yells, Indian pow-wows, and general activities on both sides made anything that looked like sleep impossible. Scouting parties canvassed the neighboring towns and besieged the residents of the village, who willingly surrendered to the first party who arrived in order to save their scalps and skins. Besides these activities the two sides contended in basketball, baseball, and football, each side managing to hold its own." But the foe weakened before the tremendous onslaught and once again the Indians were victorious. Our society always has been great and victorious; let's keep it that way, fellow Indians!
Indian Baseball

Led by the fine hurling of Gene Davidson and the slugging of Fred Fortune and George Garvin, the "big reds" swept to the baseball championship on an outstanding five-win and one-loss record. The infield was comprised of Dick Regnier, third base; Gene Shea, shortstop; Jerry Wilson, second base; Ron Thill, first base. Fred Fortune did an outstanding job of catching as well as managing. The outfield, comprised of Don Lytle, Merwyn Matson, and George Garvin, was the best in the league. The pitching corps, composed of Max Matthews and Gene Davidson, did a tremendous job. The latter was unbeatable, winning four games in as many tries. Besides his hurling, Davidson also had a .333 batting average. The Indians also had two other batters in the top ten—George Garvin with .333 and Fred Fortune with .357.

The prospects for next year look very good, because the only loss through graduation will be Fred Fortune.
After losing their first game (first and last defeat of the season) to the Trojans, the Indians made a championship comeback.

Ray Reglin, the quarterback, handled the ball exceptionally well in the various "T" formations and reverse plays. He was well assisted by Don Ellis, Warren Wynn, and Harold Keech. Ellis and Keech slipped through the defense effectively on the reverse plays, while Wynn furnished the power over center. The Indians' opponents were hampered by the "pass-receiving techniques" of Speakman and Spence. Ken Millikan softened the left side of the line by his consistent defensive rushing.

Each game was hard fought with the championship in view. The line was kept strong by Payton and Collins, assisted by West, Hursh, Strong, and Bryant.

The Indians closed the season victoriously with one loss and five wins.
Indian "A" Basketball

The beginning of the basketball season found the "big reds" full of spirit, potentiality, and confidence ever ready to devour any opposing team. However, the first game proved quite a disillusionment with the Indians dropping it by a narrow margin as a result of an opponent's well placed jump-shot.

As the year progressed, the Indians, under the able direction of Don King and Ray Reglin, began to improve. Persistence finally brought a victory which marked a rebirth in the society. Paced by Gene Davidson (year average: 5.78), Don King (5.7), Don Lytle (17.9), Ray Reglin (5.33), Bob Wall (6.55), and Jerry West (11.25), and with the help of many like Dick Withrow and Fred Fortune, the Indians tallied up three consecutive wins, finally ending the season with a 3-7 record. With Wall and Lytle at forward, Davidson and King at guard, and West at pivot, the Indians proved to be a threat on many occasions. This fact can readily be seen by glancing at the score book. The Indians seemed to be well balanced in height and speed and maintained a "never die" attitude which characterizes the Indian Society.

The future of the 1957-1958 team should be much brighter with the loss of only one or two significant players.
Indian “B” Team

The Indian B Team had a winning year and consequently took the championship. Wayne Speakman led the league with a 15.4 point average for the year. Don King coached his men in the fundamentals and the team showed the results. This year’s team should be tomorrow’s champions if they contrive to keep pace with their team of 56-57.
Indian Girls' Basketball

This fast moving team was fast enough to land a second place berth for the 56-57 season. Their attack was spearheaded by Pat Hecht, who made the scoreboard flash at least 18.5 points a game for the year. The girls worked the other teams for a five-win, three-loss record. This Indian sextet played every minute of every game with all the vim they had. They were strong competition all through the year and made it rough going for all opponents. The girls were always full of spirit and spunk in victory and in defeat. For a bunch of red skins the girls' basketball team of 56-57 did all right.
Indian Girls' Softball

The girls in red and white came in second place after the dust had finally settled on the diamond. A spry team led by the timely hitting of Joy Pavy, Sandra Reichman and Pat Hecht, they proved good competition for all who opposed them.

Indian Cheerleaders

The "Spartan Literary Society" was organized in 1932. The Spartans chose to name themselves after the famous soldiers and intellectuals of the renowned city of Sparta, Greece. The Spartans adopted the colors blue and white, and the white daisy to symbolize their society. Their seal was selected to represent the three-fold purpose of the society. It consisted of three Greek letters: Alpha (athletics), Lambda (literary), and Mu (music).

Professor Dwight Strickler, first president of the Spartans, along with Miss Naomi Tripp, Mr. Carlton Birchard, Miss Nelda Holland, and Rev. Ross Lee, did most of the organizing of the first Spartan society. They had thirty-two members the first year, which was large for the size of the college then.

"The Spartan Literary Society, besides creating and keeping a wholesome spiritual atmosphere . . . endeavored to develop and cultivate athletes, musicians, and literary artists. Ball games, physical contests, readings, papers, vocal solos, instrumental numbers, and group songs were presented by the Spartans in an effort to compete with the Litolympians and Cleo-Apollonians." In 1932 the Spartans won the silver loving cup, a token of honor, presented by the faculty to the society that held the highest rating in all activities. They were active in organizing and presenting several literary programs and kept their entertainment on a high intellectual level.

The Spartans have a noble tradition to uphold. May we always fight with fervor and forever be recognized as a worthy opponent. But above all, we'll hold up the spirit of co-operation, and good sportsmanship we've striven to develop.
Spartan Baseball

The 1956 Spartan baseball team wound up the season with a 1-5 record. Although the standing may look bad, they had a very fine team scoring a total of 19 runs for the season.

Jim Brian led the Spartan ball club as the leading batter, and also led the league with an average of .642. Jim was at bat 14 times and connected with 9 hits. He scored 6 runs. Closely following Jim in the number three spot was John Hanson with an average of .400, six hits for 15 times at bat.

Wayne Hopewell led the Spartans in pitching with a 1-1 record.

The Spartan society may prove to be a real tough bid for the title next year. They have a young ball club and all have the will to win. Let's keep our eyes on them.
Spartan Football

The Spartans finished the season with 2 wins, 2 losses, and 2 ties. They had quite an improved season over last year and bid fair for the championship, but finally finished second in the league.

The Spartans' record was:

- Spartans 21 ...................... Trojans 21
- Spartans 0 ...................... Indians 0
- Spartans 13 ...................... Trojans 6
- Spartans 0 ...................... Indians 12
- Spartans 21 ...................... Trojans 14
- Spartans 0 ...................... Indians 13

The scoring was led by Paul Dishong and Dick Cornelius. Don Jones did a fine job in the backfield. The line play was led by Mel Darby and Gene Braun. Jay Henson also did a good job.

The Spartans had good cooperation and team spirit. They all worked hard and for just one thing—to win.

If all the ball club returns, they will really have a fine team next year. The coaching job was handled by Dave Knotts, assisted by Gene Braun. The only senior on the club was Dick Hawley. There were some promising freshmen that saw some action, which will really help them next year.
Spartan “A” Basketball

Although the Spartans were not favorites at the start of this year’s basketball season, they came up with a six-win, four-loss record which was good enough for a share in championship honors.

Coming up to the final two games, the Spartans had only a 4-4 record which, at the time, had them in second place. The Spartans were able to breeze past the Indians in the first of the final two games, winning by 20 points. However, in the “green’s” last game of the year, the well-balanced Trojan team took the lead early in the first quarter and stayed ahead until the final minute when they were overhauled by the “green wave.” The “green” won the game, going away 79-72.

Why were last year’s cellar-dwellers this year’s co-champions? What caused the rocket-like rise?

The answer to these two questions is the same; namely, freshman talent.

The 5 Spartan starters were: forwards, Jerry Snowden and Burley Smith; guards, Paul Dishong and John Hanson; and center, Wayne Hopewell. Only one of the starters was a freshman, but almost the whole “green” bench was made up of freshmen and the Spartan bench was undoubtedly better than either of the oppositions.

Balance among the first five was another leading factor in the Spartan drive for championship. Two of the fastest men on the Birchard Gymnasium floor this year were the Spartan “watch charm” guards, 5’ 6” Paul Dishong and 5’ 7” John Hanson. The two forwards, Smith and Snowden, both averaged 12 points per game while the season’s most proficient rebounder was the 6’ 8” Spartan center, Wayne Hopewell.

The “green” is graduating only one man from the entire squad this year and is looking forward to a great season in 57-58.
Spartan "B" Basketball

The Spartan "B" team proved to be a threat for the title all season. Although they ended with a 3-3 record, many of their games were so close they could have gone either way.

Harry Ketterman held the scoring record for the squad, a 10-point average per game. He placed second in intramural scoring.

Pretty sneaky, Kidd!!!
This year's Spartan girls' ball club played very fine ball, scoring 89 points for the 8-game season. Although they ended up with an 0-8 record they played some very fine games, pressing the other teams to the final periods of the games. They didn't win, but they never said die! They never gave up hope, or let down in spirits, but were always fired up and burning with the desire to win.

Norma Morse led the Spartan society for scoring honors with a total of 40 points in the seven games she played—an average of 5.71 points per game. Although she did not lead the league as the high scorer, she was in the top ten of the school.

With the desire to win, as the Spartans have, next season should be one to watch.

"O" Club

"O" Club is the hardest of all clubs to get into. There were about 25 members at the beginning of the year, and about 19 men and women were added this year. Each initiate was required to borrow a dress and hat of some woman he had never seen before. Each incoming member was required to have a heavy wooden paddle which he had to carry all day so that any member could paddle him the allowed ten strikes.

After being forced out of bed at 3:00 a.m. on a chilly Tuesday, the fun started—not fun for the new members. Orville Beemer had trouble getting out; in fact, Orville had trouble all day long. The fellows were sent out onto the football field to do a few calisthenics. After this everybody was sent for a walk—a five-mile hike to such local points of interests as the Florence Stove Company, Kankakee State Hospital, and local grave yards. After this stimulating exercise the fellows were sent to Miller Dining Hall for an onion and vinegar breakfast.

At seven o'clock all the hopefuls returned to Birchard gym, where they were put through "secret exercises by their former friends." Probably Bill Lockhard and Lefty Matson will remember the "exercises" longer than the rest. The eventful day ended with a wiener roast at Rock Creek where the fun continued, for the veteran members.

The girl candidates for membership are required to take approximately the same treatment from their sister members.

Janet Storer was elected Queen by the student body to reign over the 1956 Tip-Off festivities. A senior from Springfield, Ohio, Janet has been active in college affairs.

Serving as her attendants were Nancie Davis, a senior from Indianapolis, Indiana; Della Anthony, a senior from Columbus, Ohio; Carolyn Miller, a senior from Peoria, Illinois; and Marilyn Keeler, a junior from Columbus, Ohio.

Names of all upper division girls who were scholastically eligible were listed on the first ballot, and from the ten receiving the highest number of votes, the five members of the court were chosen. From these five the queen was elected on the basis of her Christian character, beauty, and her contributions to college activities.

The announcement of who had been elected queen and the members of her court was made during the Friday Tip-Off chapel program. The coronation ceremony took place in the recess between the women's and men's homecoming basketball games. Mrs. Lois Knox, last year's Tip-Off queen, crowned Janet, who, with her attendants, reigned during the rest of the evening. The queen and her court were also featured in one of the floats in the annual homecoming parade.

A colorful parade consisting of twenty cleverly decorated floats was a main event of this year's Tip-Off festivities. The parade formed on the college campus Saturday afternoon, November 17, and from there traveled through Bradley and the Kankakee downtown area.

The streets were lined with spectators as the parade, led by police escorts, proceeded down the main thoroughfare. The Missionary Band float received the award for being the most original in idea and construction. It depicted a scene from the African Mission field, complete with a jungle hut and a witch doctor. The award for the float that best welcomed the alumni was presented to the M.D.A.—W.R.A., main features of which were two horses, one representing the "O" Club and the other the Alumni. A beautiful horn of plenty, entered by the F.T.A., won the award for the best quality of workmanship. The grand prize in this year's homecoming parade went to the Speech Department float, the theme of which was an aquatic welcome to Olivet's returning alumni.

The Tip-Off game of 1956 between the "O" Club and the Alumni was one that will long be remembered. The Alumni were paced by the head-up basketball playing of Clem Parr who kept the board tied up and was a deadly scorer. Jim Mitchell was a real headache for the "O" men with his sure jump shooting.

The alumni were aware of a shorter member of the "O" club's squad, namely Jim Smith. Jim drove, rebounded, and shot from the line like a real star. Vern Fischer kept popping in two pointers to the dismay of the old timers. The whole game was one big moment of excitement. The lead changed hands many times and after the smoke finely cleared the "O" Club carried off a closely won victory by the score of 61 to 59.

Olympians

A group of active men, realizing the need of physical recreation, join together once each month to learn the fundamentals of wrestling, weight lifting, and tumbling. The purpose of the Olympian club is to cultivate and stimulate interest in these minor sports.

The Olympians, completing their second year as a club, reorganized during the second semester to fit the needs of its members. A constitution was drawn up making the club official. The club provides another avenue of expression for Olivet students. The officers are Cliff Everett, acting president; Gene Hartness, secretary; and Keith Johnson, treasurer. The club sponsor is Dr. Grothaus.

The club’s project is to obtain a trampoline for the combined use of the college and club.

Life Begins at Fifty

A Future More Glorious than the Past

A tremendous vision possessed the founders of Olivet Nazarene College. It was a vision of greatness.

They foresaw the day when Olivet would be “the greatest Holiness College on earth.”

That first campus was planned around this ideal.

Today’s leaders are still possessed of that dream.

At the half-century mark they have taken sight on the next twenty-five years. A campus plan has been drawn envisioning the foreseeable future.

Within the next ten years five needed buildings must be erected at a cost of some three million dollars. These include two dormitories, a science building, a student union, and a chapel-fine arts building. The campus would then be equipped to care for 1000 students.

As the student body grows to 1250, to 1500, and beyond, it is the steadfast purpose of those to whom God has given the leadership of the college to enlarge and improve the campus so that every qualified young person who wants “AN EDUCATION WITH A CHRISTIAN PURPOSE” may have it.

Institutional Objectives

Olivet Nazarene College is an institution of the Church of the Nazarene and recognizes as of paramount importance the fundamental beliefs, principles, and emphases sponsored by the Church which it represents. It seeks to provide a well-rounded education in an atmosphere of Christian culture. An effort is put forth to lead all who are not established in the Christian faith into the experience of full salvation and to foster in all students the development of Christian graces.

The objectives of the college may be summarized as follows:

I. To assist the student in developing a wholesome and well-integrated Christian personality, thus preparing him for intelligent Christian citizenship.

II. To provide a general training with a view to developing in the student:
   1. A knowledge of the Bible and an appreciation of it as the revealed Word of God and the foundation of Christian doctrine, experience, and life.
   2. A sense of moral and spiritual values that will produce conviction, self-confidence, poise, and discrimination in life's choices.
   3. Ideals of Christian democracy and an acquaintance with the institutions of modern society and the problems that face the world today.
   5. An understanding of the nature of science and its relation to Christian philosophy, and some ability in the use of the scientific method in the various fields of knowledge.
   6. Appreciation and participation in the aesthetic areas of literature, music, and art, which will enable the student to enjoy the finer aspects of our cultural heritage.
   7. Social poise, cooperativeness and the exercise of consideration and good taste in human relationships.
   8. Wholesome personal habits and an acquaintance with the laws of health and physical development, including a proper use of leisure and participation in a well-balanced recreational program.

III. To provide students with the opportunity of concentration in chosen fields of learning, including:
   1. Major work leading to graduate study.
   2. Pre-professional courses leading to further study in medicine, law, and engineering.
   3. Specialized training in certain vocational areas such as teaching, business administration, home economics, music, and social service.

IV. To provide fundamental training in the several areas of the Christian ministry and in lay religious leadership.

NOW, WASH WOOL WITHOUT SHRINKING
...without Fading...without Matting!

Use magic new Woolene Cold Water Fluff Soap

Imagine—right in cool water Woolene washes even your most precious wools and cashmeres sunshine-clean . . .
they rinse out as fragrant, as fresh and bright as a day in Spring! Woolene is wonderful for endless baby things . . .
for orlon and all synthetics, too!
Woolene makes a rich, fluffy foam that gently deep-cleanses, removes even stubborn dirt and stains. You just dip—gently squeeze out dirt—rinse, and let dry. No blocking necessary—so easy!
Mild and gentle Woolene care makes lovely fabrics last and last—stay lovely longer. And it actually saves you lots of money. For a fraction of the cost of sending out a knitted costume, for example, you can buy Woolene, wash that costume for pennies—and still have enough Woolene left over for all the family’s woolens, cashmeres and synthetics! Try Woolene right now—today! Terrific!

Use Woolene to wash Sweaters, Knitwear, Socks, Baby Things,
Blankets, of wool, Cashmere, Orilon and other synthetics
