U.S. May Get Headache From Cotton Move

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK — Cotton threat today to give Uncle Sam an other headache in his role as a world leader.
The fiber is deep in politics in this country. It seems about to set off an international squabble if not a price war.
Uncle Sam wants to sell his surplus cotton abroad at the world price. At first glance that would seem fair enough, since this country in recent years has lost most of its once dominant position in the world market because its price became higher than the world price. The United States could get back in the market by selling at what the others get.
The rub comes in this: Much of the world market was lost while our cotton was being priced above world prices was won by some of our friends, and particularly by some we now strenuously woo.

JUST AS THE American cotton farmer would be horrified if Washington announced it would dump its huge surplus of government-owned cotton on the domestic market, so our friends are protesting at the proposal to offer this surplus on the world market at prices lower than those supported by government policy at home.
Uncle Sam's problem is real enough. He has stacked up in his warehouses some 11 million bales of cotton. He expects that to rise to 14 million by next August, the time Agriculture Secretary Benson has set for his drive to double U. S. cotton exports.
Cotton is the big drag on farm exports now. From July to January this country shipped abroad 60 per cent less cotton than in the same seven month period in the previous fiscal year.

THE FIBER is one of the big items that has pushed the government's investment in price support farm surpluses to a record high of nearly nine billion dollars—six billion actually owned by the government and three billion pledged as collateral on outstanding price support loans.
Benson hopes to sell five million bales abroad by lowering the price to that of the market. He is feeling this would be almost double what we shipped last year but still only about half what we exported in the heyday of our cotton exporting history.

Other nations with cotton to sell won't welcome this five million bale campaign. Even more they'll fear the 11 or 12 million bales we could dump if we wished. And success in selling surplus cotton might lead us to eye world market for our huge grain surpluses.
Right now our foreign policy is entangled with the troubled Middle East. In that area cotton exporting countries include Egypt, Pakistan, Syria and Turkey all of whom we'd like on our side. Also, we woo Latin America—and Mexico, Brazil and Peru export cotton.

Joint Will Filed For Probate

A joint will made by Oscar Paquette of Kankakee, who died Jan. 3, and his surviving wife has been filed for probate in Kankakee County Court.
His estate is estimated at $60,000 in real estate and $15,000 in personal property.
The will leaves the estate to the survivor for life, and on the survivor's death the bulk of the property will go to a son, Virgil, of Otis Township, and daughters, Lorraine Benoit, St. George, and Doris Statton, Lafayette, Ind.
The estate of a 6-year-old Kankakee school boy who drowned Jan. 31 was admitted to probate. The youth was Robert Bissailon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bissailon, 160 N. Entrance Ave. Also surviving are two sisters and two brothers.

OLD TOWN THREATENED
FT. RIPLEY, Minn. (U) — This town of 125 population proudly named after an old Mississippi River Indian outpost has been threatened with an ignominious end.
Minnesota highway engineers, bent on four-laning the trunk route between the northern lake states and the state's southern section, have announced plans to condemn a strip of additional right-of-way that would wipe out the town's elongated business district and several homes.

Floods Awaited In Ohio Valley

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Allegheny River flood waters lapped the fringes of Pittsburgh's Golden Triangle today and poured a flood crest into the Ohio River toward West Virginia and Ohio Riverside communities.

River forecasters said the Allegheny, finally receding from its flood rampage upstream in northwestern Pennsylvania and western New York, today would hit a high of 37 feet, 2 feet over flood stage.

BUT ONLY SLIGHT damage was expected and residents of this steel-rich metropolis's e.g. v. d. e. d. their flooding rivers more a curiosity than a threat.

The Allegheny had boistered its banks for more than 200 miles along its upper reaches in New York and Pennsylvania, leaving 2 persons dead and driving some 3,000 persons from their homes.

Warren, Pa., near the New York state line, and Salamanca, N.Y., were hardest hit by the flood waters before the crest passed down stream.

At Warren, where water swirled six feet deep through half the town and forced 2,000 persons to abandon their homes Thursday, the Allegheny and Conewango Creek floodwaters dropped a foot this morning. But only one main highway remained completely open into the virtually marooned town of 15,000 residents, experiencing their worst flood in history.

RIVER FORECASTERS had Ohio River communities alerted for high water for nearly 200 miles downstream from Pittsburgh.

Two were dead upstream. Both drowned near Ithaca, N.Y., when heavy rains sent the Allegheny and its tributaries spreading beyond its banks.

A dozen other communities along the Allegheny banks felt the effects of the flooding, but to a lesser degree.

Red Cross Must Raise $25,600 In 6 Days

Six days to raise $25,600. That's the task ahead of workers in the 1956 fund campaign of the Kankakee County chapter of the Red Cross.

Magnitude of the job was discovered Thursday night at the first report meeting of the two-week drive.

Reports of the workers showed that $17,111.61 has been collected to date toward goal of $42,822. In cold, bare statistical figures means that the first 57 per cent of the time has netted but 40.3 per cent of the goal.

"I can't believe that Kankakee County residents will let this campaign down," said drive chairman Edward P. Drole. "The county has established a magnificent record of generosity, a remarkable record of successful campaigns. I feel that the residents will want to maintain these achievements."

The campaign chairman pointed out the seriousness of the Red Cross not meeting its quota.

"There are no two ways about it," he asserted. "If the drive doesn't reach its goal the very important blue program will have to be curtailed. The Red Cross will be seriously hampered in preparing for the disasters that are bound to come, and many other phases of the busy program will have to be decreased."

DROLE CALLED upon the workers throughout the campaign. He stressed to them to emphasize the story of Red Cross and especially of how curtailment of the organization's help to the needy in disasters if RC goals are not reached.

"I am sure Kankakee County will win this campaign," he concluded.

According to divisions, the first report showed that the following have been contributed:

Advance gifts—$1,818; residential—$1,038.47; large business—$2,700. Total non-arm employment also was at a record high level for the month at $7,107,000, but down about 160,000 from January. Farm employment totaled 5,470,000, down about 164,000 from January.

Second U.S. Pilot Sought In Pacific

TOKYO (U) — A second U. S. Air Force pilot was sought today in the Pacific off Okinawa today.

The pilot, reported to be missing, was said to be missing from a crippled plane. Rescue boats and planes began combing the area.

The Air Force announced meanwhile the search had been stopped for a "Thunderbolt" pilot who disappeared off Okinawa Thursday.

Ray had previously testified at a hearing in County Court Thursday morning. Judge Irwin C. Taylor set May 5 as the date for an election asking the formation of a Kankakee County Hospital District.

Ray's remarks, mostly in answer to questions, concerned both the tax-supported district hospital which may be built if voters approve and the proposed 100-bed increase at St. Mary's Hospital.

Ray pointed out that the Kankakee area is considered to have a 207-bed hospital shortage, but this shortage would be 28 per cent met by the St. Mary's increase.

Until recommendations are sent to the U.S. Surgeon General June 28, Kankakee is still considered to have zero per cent of its needs met. Ray said, due to what he called the lack of fireproof or fire-resistant construction of the present St. Mary's Hospital.

Jobless Up But Record Still At Work

WASHINGTON (UP) — Employment dropped 314,000 last month, the government reported today.

But the number of persons with jobs in February—$2,577,000—still was at a record level for the month.

The total of unemployed rose only 28,000 over the January figure to 2,914,000. A sizeable number of persons withdrew, for the present, from the labor market, accounting for the difference between the drop in employment and the much smaller increase in unemployment.

The Commerce and Labor department said "sizeable" job layoffs in the automobile and related industries—resulting from auto production cutbacks—contributed to the employment decline. Seasonal job declines in agriculture, construction and retail trade also figured in the drop.

ABOUT 85,000 auto workers were laid off during February. There were "sizeable" layoffs at metals and rubber plants producing for the automobile industry.

But employment in the machinery industry rose more than usual. So total manufacturing employment was down only 60,000 from January. Total factory employment was 16,800,000 in February.

The total number of persons with jobs in February was 2,577,000, higher than in February, 1955, and about 1,500,000 higher than in February, 1953. The previous record for the month was 2,577,000 in February, 1953.

Total non-farm employment also was at a record high level for the month at $7,107,000, but down about 160,000 from January. Farm employment totaled 5,470,000, down about 164,000 from January.

Additional facts on operation of district hospitals were given to some 35 Kankakee area residents by Jerome V. Ray, chief of the Illinois Bureau of Hospitals, during a luncheon meeting here Thursday morning. Judge Irwin C. Taylor set May 5 as the date for an election asking the formation of a Kankakee County Hospital District.

Ray's remarks, mostly in answer to questions, concerned both the tax-supported district hospital which may be built if voters approve and the proposed 100-bed increase at St. Mary's Hospital.

Senate Votes Corn Acreage Boost For '56

Decision Next Year Left Up To Farmers After 8 Million Hike

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Senate today voted to increase corn acreage from 43 million to 51 million acres this year.

The amount of the acreage was a compromise reached after eight hours of involved, complicated debate which started late Thursday.

Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) introduced an amendment calling for an increase in the corn acreage to 56 million acres. But he accepted the compromise when prospects for Senate approval of the larger acreage dimmed.

"I hope we can live with it," Hickenlooper told the Senate.

Under the compromise, corn raised on the increased acreage this year would be eligible for price support loans at 81 per cent of parity, $1.40 cents a bushel.

BEFORE NEXT YEAR, a referendum will be taken to determine if corn farmers want to continue with the increased acreage, but with price supports left to the discretion of the secretary of agriculture.

In the referendum, corn farmers will also be given the alternative of returning to the reduced acreage allotments with a guarantee of a minimum price support of 75 per cent of parity.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson hailed the Senate vote against high rigid supports as a major triumph for the administration's flexible support program.

He said the victory margin of 13 votes was even greater than he expected.

The Senate voted 54-1 Thursday to knock out the Democratic plan to restore 90 per cent supports on cotton, corn, peanuts and rice.

Forty-one Republicans and 13 Democrats defied the provision for a referendum on the plan.

Simultaneously, a 60-30 split in farm belt Republicans voted for it.

VICTORY-FLUSHED administration forces predicted they will cap the triumph with a 60-30 split in farm belt Republicans.

The White House said Mr. Eisenhower was "delighted" with defeat of rigid supports.

Republicans and Democrats set the stage for the fall campaign with acid exchanges as they prepared to vote. The enemy membership of the Senate was present.

Syrian Premier Urges Jordan To Accept Arab Aid

AMMAN, Jordan (U) — Syrian Premier said Ghazi arrived by plane today to press Jordan to accept an Arab Big Three offer of a subsidy to replace the 30 million dollars a year Britain has been paying to support the Arab Legion.

Ghazi flew here from the Cairo conference of the chiefs of state of Syria, Saudi Arabia and Egypt. He went into an immediate hostile with Jordan's King Hussein and was due to hasten back to the Egyptian capital this afternoon.

Informal sources said the Premier came to Amman to strengthen the offer of Jordan's aid to the Arab Legion.

Arab leaders made reportedly Thursday through Jordan's minister to Egypt.

The Big Three-Saudi Arabia's King Saud, Syria's President-Shukri al-Kuwatli and Egypt's Premier Nasser—are trying to give Jordan the equivalent of the money she now gets from Britain to support the Arab Legion.

The three nations said in January they would take over financial support of the Arab Legion if the British commander Lt. Gen. John Bagot Glubb, was dismissed. Glubb was ousted a week ago.

Makarios Recognized Leader In Move To Give Island To Greece

NICOSIA, Cyprus (U) — Britain today deplored Archbishop Makarios, leader of the Cypriot union-with-Greece movement, "in the interest of promoting peace, order and good government."

An official statement on the expulsion said the archbishop "now in so far committed to the use of violence for political ends that he either cannot or will not abandon it."

He has already left with three other leaders of the Enosis — or Greek union — movement. All four deportations were ordered under emergency regulations instituted after this British colony was torn by violence—bombings and shootings.

AN OFFICIAL announcement said the four departed "under escort for a destination which will be announced later."

Makarios, archbishop of the Greek Orthodox Church, had "disappeared" earlier while waiting for an airplane to take him to Athens.

He had planned to confer there with the Greek government.

Deported with the archbishop were Bishop Kyriakides of Kyrenia, the Rev. Pappas Pappas, a member of the Enosis movement, and Nikita Kharchev, secretary of the Kyrenia bishopric.

The archbishop is the recognized leader of the Enosis movement, which wants this British Mediterranean island colony united with Greece.

American-educated, he leads 400,000 Greek-speaking residents in their demands. The other 100,000 residents of the island, Turkish-descended, are opposed to Enosis.

SECRET negotiations to restore peace to the violence-torn island collapsed last Monday and Makarios defied British threats of armed might to crash disorders.

Official sources said Makarios' arch

Good Business Ethics Aid Free Enterprise

Good business ethics are the greatest safeguard of free enterprise, a speaker has told some 150 Rotary club delegates attending a vocational service conference here.

Richard Vernon, treasurer of Rotary International, spoke at the opening of the conference, which was to close this afternoon with an address by A. Z. Baker of Cleveland, Rotary International president.

The conference is held annually to discuss Rotary's concept of occupations as opportunities to serve society.

Good business practices are an embodiment of Christian ethics of world brotherhood, another speaker declared. He was John H. Brinker, manager of the Perma-plas Division of the A. O. Smith Corp. and a member of the Kankakee club.

Brinker, H. J. Schoder, Lester A. Ahron and F. J. Landenberger of the host club presented a panel discussion.

"We could enjoy our work much more if we just changed our mental attitude," declared Schoder, General Mills executive. He said

Foul Play Suspected In Fire Deaths Of 12

OXFORD, Pa. (AP)—Twelve members of one family were killed Thursday night in a fire that destroyed their two-room, tarpapered home in this rural southeastern Pennsylvania community. An investigator said today "it looks like it could be foul play."

Deputy Coroner Ernest Schneider of Chester County said a thorough investigation would be made in conjunction with state police and fire officials.

THE VICTIMS of the blaze were identified tentatively as the wife, children and grandchildren of John Twyman, a 36-year-old truck driver and a long-time resident of the "bottoms" section of Oxford. Twyman, police said, appeared at the scene of the blaze as the last of the bodies of the Negro family were being recovered from the 20 by 30 foot home. Patrol-

The advertiser's highest standard—

Every industry has a standard by which its products can be measured. The jeweler uses the symbol of a pure diamond. In flatware, the word "sterling"; and in dinnerware, the word "bone china"; represent high standards of quality and value.

For the advertiser, the symbol of the highest standard of circulation value is the emblem of the Audit Bureau of Circulations. This hallmark means that newspapers or periodicals so identified are measured according to the most highly regarded rules and standards in the advertising and publishing industry.

Westinghouse Strike Clouded By Uncertainty

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Westinghouse Electric Corp. strike driftd into its 145th day today with company union and government mediators apparently at uncertain of what peace move to try next.

Company negotiators returned to Pittsburgh Thursday night, saying they had no plans now for further bargaining.

A government-proposed peace plan submitted last Saturday was accepted without reservation by the company Tuesday but the union, refusing an outright yes or no reply, said it wanted somewhat better terms. The company called that a rejection.

OFFICIALS of the federal mediation service said they had not learned from James B. Carey, president of the striking International Union of Electrical Workers, precisely what further concessions he wants.

The settlement plan was drafted by a three-man federal mediation panel which has said it will stand pat on its recommendations as fair to both sides. The company termed its acceptance a "final offer."

Carey told reporters he wants 38 discharged strikers who are accused of strike violence restored to their jobs outright without recommended arbitration of the charges.

He also insisted on greater assurances from the company against pay or work opportunity losses for workers who may be transferred from an incentive, or piece rate pay basis, to a straight salary work pay system. The company said it needed certain latitude to shift its production methods from time to time.

APPARENTLY not in dispute are the panel's proposals for a five-year contract with various reopening provisions, annual pay increases ranging from 5 to more than 17 cents an hour, and improved pension and insurance provisions. Workers averaged $2.10 an hour before the strike began.

The walkout began last Oct. 17 and has run nearly five months, the longest major strike in two decades.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower said in a telephone message Thursday night that the company "has nothing more to give" in contract concessions and advised idle workers to return to their jobs.

Socialite Found Dead In Garage At Mother's Home

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Sally McKeldin Wright, 23, a socially prominent bride of three months, was found dead Thursday night in her mother's garage in suburban Winnetka. Police said she was a victim of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Her mother, Mrs. S. Bennett McKeldin, found the body lying on the garage floor at the rear of an automobile. Police said Mrs. McKeldin told them the car's ignition key was turned on, and its gasoline tank was empty.

Mrs. McKeldin found a note in her home from her daughter and turned it over to police. They did not disclose its contents.

Mrs. Wright's marriage last Dec. 3 to George Wright, 32, an investment broker, was a social event. Wright is a son of Mrs. Irving C. Wright of Boston and grandson of the late George Wright, who organized the old Boston National League baseball team, now the Milwaukee Braves. The couple lived in suburban Evanston.

Mrs. Wright was a granddaughter of Judge and Mrs. William S. Bennett of Mount Vernon, Ill. Her father, Gordon, is divorced from Mrs. McKeldin.

You Can Learn Almost Anything In Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—Did you ever eat a boiled peanut? Can you name the American town that charges people $5 for making an after-dinner speech?

Do you know what the Irishman said to the recruiting sergeant?

No? Come to Congress, then. You'll learn all sorts of no-doubt fascinating facts—maybe even qualify for the $64,000 Question—without so much as leaving your seat.

In one session this week, as the Congressional Record dutifully reports, a House member who kept his ears open could have heard from a fellow member that:

Ravenwood, W. Va., tosses an annual fund-raising dinner "for which everyone pays $5 whether he comes to eat, to sing, to dance, to cook, to wash dishes, or if he is the honored speaker."

REP. BURNSIDE (D-WVa.) is the authority for this one. He says the accumulated $5 bills have bought the town all manner of things from baseball uniforms to football bleachers. Sen. Barkley (D-Ky.) is in Ravenwood's corner too. He commands upwards of $1,000 a speech on the lecture platform but he happily forked over $5 for the privilege of addressing Ravenwood.

This kind of money is not peanuts—a fact that may or may not have reminded Rep. Grant (D-Ala.) that this is National Peanut Week. Grant observed the occasion by asking his fellow lawmakers:

"Have you ever eaten boiled peanuts? If not, you have really missed something."

Grant didn't boil any peanuts to prove his point but another friend of the peanut, Rep. Abbott (D-Va.) did the next best thing. He placed a supply of roasted peanuts in the House cloakrooms for members to munch.

IT TOOK REP. YATES (D-Ill.), however, to unshuck the story about the Irishman.

Yates, though he's only 46, is concerned about discrimination against older people in employment.

"Men and women," he said, "are lying about their age today in legislating the farm bill that it had to take a break just to find out what it was doing."

Sen. Price (D-Tex) offered an amendment to support the prices of feed grains such as rice, oats, barley and grain sorghums. Sen. George D. Aiken, senior Republican on the Agriculture Committee, said he thought he was for Daniel's amendment but first he wanted to check on what it meant.

So the Senate had a quorum call while Aiken went out of the Senate chamber to check—obviously with Agriculture Department officials. Aiken returned about 15 minutes later to report that the Daniel amendment, as worded, is "rather ambiguous."

The Senate decided to recess until today and in the meanwhile try to work out more specific language.

Solons Confused In Legislating

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Thursday night got so involved in legislating the farm bill that it had to take a break just to find out what it was doing.

Bennett Cerf Interviews George Romney

Noted publisher, columnist and television personality gets inside story of revolutionary advance in car construction from the President of American Motors.

CERF: Mr. Romney, why do you offer a total of $25,000 insurance with each new Rambler, Nash, Hudson or Metropolitan?

ROMNEY: It backs our claim that our "single unit" construction makes the strongest, safest, most modern cars.

CERF: Is there really that much difference between yours and other cars?

ROMNEY: All the difference between yesterday's railway coach and today's streamlined. Other cars still use a principle originating with the oxcart: A flat frame bolted under a separate body. In our cars, frame and body are welded into one solid "single unit". It's the biggest stride since the all-steel body.

CERF: And this makes a safer car?

ROMNEY: Twice as safe. Instead of a flat frame underfoot, our frame is actually a steel, box-girder enclosure as big as the car itself. Box-girders follow the car's exterior, extend forward clear up to the top of fenders, almost out to the grille. It gives you "wrap-around" protection in front, rear, sides and top.

CERF: That sounds like real protection.

ROMNEY: That's not all. Flat frames are stiff, so they transmit most of the force of a collision throughout the car. In "single unit" construction, the big steel box-girders up front absorb most of the impact. They take the brunt of the punishment instead of passengers.

CERF: What about performance?

ROMNEY: That's a real plus. "Single unit" construction gives a better power-weight ratio. It's stronger and safer, but eliminates useless weight and bulk. Our cars have set many racing records.

CERF: And economy?

ROMNEY: They're tops. The Rambler holds the all-time gas mileage record in the Mobilgas Economy Run. Again, that's because our "hard-muscle" single unit avoids flabby, dead weight.

CERF: I like plenty of room and comfort.

ROMNEY: You can't match Nash and Hudson. They have more room inside than the highest-priced cars. And the Rambler has as much passenger space as medium-priced big cars. As for ride, the greater strength of our "single unit" lets us use larger springs, and much superior front suspension.

CERF: Isn't resale value important?

ROMNEY: You bet. Rambler has top resale value in the low price field. In addition to other advantages, with body and frame welded as a single unit, Rambler, Hudson and Nash last longer and make better used cars. There are no body-bolt, so there are practically no rattles, even when the car is old.

CERF: If all you say is true, why don't the Big Three make cars your way?

ROMNEY: That goes way back to 1940. You see, more "bigness" can be a handicap in advanced automobile engineering. Remember, one of the biggest of the Big Three was years behind others in adopting the all-steel body. The bigger you are, the more factories you have—the more it costs to change.

CERF: I can understand that.

ROMNEY: Beginning in 1940, we spent over $50,000,000 to develop "single unit" car construction. We got the jump on the rest. Today, it will cost the biggest companies billions of dollars to re-tool and rearrange their body and assembly lines.

CERF: Do you think they will follow you?

ROMNEY: No doubt about it. Our major competitors will probably make the change gradually—piece-meal—or one model at a time. But it will take years for them to catch up to where we are now. Frankly, we will be happy to see our "single unit" construction adopted, because it will mean better, safer cars on American highways.

CERF: Well, I'm about ready for another car. I'm going down to look at American Motors cars.

ROMNEY: All I ask anyone to do is see and drive our modern "single unit" cars at a Nash or Hudson dealer's. I'll leave the rest up to you.

4 Iowa Girls Get 30 Days In Kidnap Hoax

INDEPENDENCE, Kan. (UP)—Four bright-eyed Iowa girls were sentenced to 30 days in the county jail for sending 25 carloads of officers on a chase after two non-existent kidnapers.

When the girls admitted their wild story was a hoax, authorities were not amused. County Atty. Tom Crossman filed charges of disturbing the peace against all four. They pleaded guilty before City Judge Walter L. McVey and, in passing sentence, he remarked that "your parents should take a hair brush to you when you get home." The girls displayed no emotion.

Crossman said the girls "needed a lesson."

Sheriff Floyd Huggins, who directed the futile and short-lived hunt, said all four spent the night in jail.

THEY WERE IDENTIFIED as Gloria Jensen and Lois Davis, both 18, and Jeanene Fahney and Judy Damman, both 17. Huggins said the girls, all from Newton, Iowa, walked into his office and told him the two kidnapers abducted them in Newton and forced them to drive to a point near Independence, where they smashed up their car. The girls said the kidnapers then fled on foot and the teen-agers walked into town.

The Kansas Highway Patrol dispatched 12 cars to scour southeast Kansas for the men. Sixteen other carloads of officers also joined the search.

Thursday night the four young women changed their story. They told Highway Patrol Sgt. Clarence Shelton that the kidnapers never existed—outside of their active, teen-aged imaginations.

"WE ALL AGREED it was a foolish thing to do," said Gloria, a bespectacled lass who drove the car. "We just decided all of a sudden to take a ride. We hadn't thought of it before."

Midwest Hit By Crippling Snow Storm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A snow storm and cold wave, whistling in 11 days in advance of spring, nearly paralyzed highway travel in parts of the Midwest Saturday. The storm, which isolated scores of communities, caused at least one death. Mrs. Cornelius White, 30, Mission, S. D., died of exposure when she tried to walk eight miles through a blizzard Friday night. She was attempting to summon aid for nine persons stranded in an auto.

McClellan To Head Lobby Quiz Committee

Bridges Named As Vice Chairman Of Group; Adopt Rules

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The special bipartisan Senate lobby investigating committee organized for business Saturday by electing Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) chairman and Sen. Bridges (R-NH) vice chairman.

The group also unanimously adopted a set of rules for proceeding with the broad-scale inquiry, thus ending a deadlock which had prevented it for more than two weeks from getting started.

McClellan indicated it still will be some time before actual investigating gets under way, saying "it is going to take us time to assemble the quality of staff we want."

The Arkansas senator had said earlier in the day that he would assume "this most disagreeable and difficult task" as committee chairman with great reluctance and "only out of a sense of duty to the Senate."

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn) originally had been expected to be named chairman of the eight-member bipartisan committee. But he and McClellan, speaking for the four Republicans, speaking for the four Democrats, agreed to the change.

Cypriots Protest Exile Of Archbishop With Strike

The full-blown storm buried South Dakota, southwestern Minnesota and northwestern Iowa under as much as one to two feet of snow and fanned eastward toward Wisconsin and southern Michigan. A surge of arctic cold rolled southward from the snow belt. Northerly winds reaching 35 to 45 miles an hour caused moderate to heavy snow drifting.

Find Arsenal At Makarios' House

NICOSIA, Cyprus (U.P.)—A general strike paralyzed Cyprus Saturday. The island's protest to the exile of Archbishop Makarios was further underscored by outbursts of violence at nightfall.

British paratroopers searched the residence and garden of Makarios, leader of the union - with - Greece movement, and reported they found a small arsenal.

They came away from the archbishop's residence with a gasoline bomb, 10 unfilled bombs and 15 rounds of pistol ammunition, British officials said.

Paratroopers hurling tear gas smashed small demonstrations at Limassol, Polis, Kyrenia and Famagusta. Bombs were thrown at two British houses at Limassol but there were no casualties.

ALL AIR FREIGHT shipments out of Nicosia were being held at the airport for 24 hours as a precaution against time bombs.

Workers, clerks, shopkeepers, and printers stopped work in protest of the British action in exiling Makarios.

British authorities warned that the general strike was a violation of emergency regulations. But Greeks stayed away from their jobs in droves. Only Turkish shops were open.

The Archbishop, official sources in London disclosed, was aboard a British warship on his way to the remote Seychelle Islands, 800 miles northeast of Madagascar in the Indian Ocean. There a small bungalow, 1,800 feet above the sea, was reported being readied for his enforced residence.

It is a delightful place — but a bit lonely, said Lady Addison, wife of Gov. Sir William Addison. The repercussions were violent in Greece, the mother country. Thousands of Greek students and demonstrators shouting "Death to the British," set fire to a British flag at Athens University, surged through Athens streets slashing tires of the British-owned bus company, breaking windows in the British European Airways building and two hotels with British names—the Great Britain and the New England—and attempting to storm the British Embassy.

GREEK military guards formed a cordon around not only the British but also the American Embassy. In Crete, too, Greek crowds ransacked the British consulate at Heraklion, tore down the British flag and raised the Greek flag here.

The Greek government called home its ambassador from London and ordered Greek Minister Christian X. Palamas, its representative at the U. N., to raise the question of Cyprus in the General Assembly when that body meets next fall. Greece has failed to get a question on the agenda at the last two sessions.

Greek civil service workers in Athens agreed to quit work Monday. Continued on Page 6, Column 2

CLAUD MARTIN'S stepson, Ronald C. Martin, 19 years Mrs. Martin's junior, is her present husband. He was treated at a U.S. Veterans Hospital at Biloxi, Miss., recently for an illness which had the symptoms of poisoning. When government doctors found he had been treated at Mobile a month previously for the same ailment they began making tests. Martin was found definitely to be suffering from arsenic poisoning and doctors turned their findings over to Alabama state officials.

For two months, the case has been under investigation. Exhumation of the bodies of Mrs. Martin's young daughters, her mother and another former husband, George W. Garrett, who died in 1928 at 33, is expected to begin next week. Garrett was the father of four of the dead girls. The children all died between the ages of 1 and 11.

Darel Grousehouse of Bradley was the only student of the 12 schools in this area to capture a first place. She won first in the serious play reading for her selection from "The Moon is Down" by Steinbeck.
