Boyle To Remain Suburbophile

Hell Stay In Ivory Tower

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (UPI)—Reflections of a pavement poet: Early in life I was frightened by a suburb, and I can't quite get over it.

Now and then, when I varied momentarily of the city, I do consider taking a step. But all ways at the last moment some thing stops me. I don't know what it could be — unless it's common sense.

BUT THIS TIME it was a sociologist who came to my rescue, just when I was about to join my old friend, Ronald Haffner, and say "I'm staying." I was in a new development called Miamia Heights. The sociologist was Dr. Ernest R. Mowrer of Northwestern University, who has just completed a clinical study of suburban living. He says that the suburbs are a "myth," a "myth" that has destroyed several myths about the joys of dwelling in the suburbs. One of the myths is how neighborly everybody is. That may be true at the start, when the suburb is new and everyone has the same problems — how to fight crabs, how to pay for the new school, and how to keep the central

Tea Honors Gilman

80th Birthday

GILMAN (JNS) — Mrs. E. S. Herron Sr. was the guest of honor at a tea given by her daughters, Mrs. Edwin S. Herron and Julia, Saturday afternoon on the occasion of her 80th birthday. The event was held at the Edwin S. Herron home.

The more than 100 guests were entertained in the living room which was arrayed with several bouquets of flowers sent by friends and relatives. Guests were served by Mrs. G. Nightingale and Mrs. L. M. Walker who presided at the tea table. The program consisted of songs, recitations and a play. The tea table was appointed in shades of silver, pink, and lavender with lighted tapers and vases being centered on both the table and the nearby buffet.

Outline Work Of Advance Gifts Group

Work to be done by the special division of the Community Chest's advance gifts group was outlined by Paul Branch, section chairman, during a meeting Tuesday.

This is the division which contacts retired persons, farmers and persons who work out of the city. Branch pointed out that these residents have always actively supported the Red Feather agencies and he said that this year they will be asked for their share of the 10 per cent higher goal totaling $143,011.

Branch's group will make their contacts before the Community Chest drive, Oct. 2-12. He pointed out that his committee will have to call on persons in a wide area. There is no general house-to-house solicitation in the Chest drive, most persons donating through their places of employment. Branch emphasized that three new agencies are included in the increased budget—the Young People's Club of Bourbonnais, the Parents Group for Mentally Retarded Children and the National Recreation Association.

The last group is a national organization which assists local recreation agencies and has been called to assist Kankakee groups some 20 times.

Adlai, Eastern Democrats Plot Strategy

NEW YORK (UP)—Adlai E. Stevenson bunched with eastern Democratic leaders today to get their advice on a campaign strategy.

IT WAS the last in a series of eight regional parleys that Stevenson and his running mate, Sen. Estes Kefauver, have held around the country in an air tour of almost 12,000 miles in two weeks.

OF THE SIX STATES represented here today, only West Virginia and Pennsylvania are in the Democratic column. Stevenson's lieutenants have been busy in the last few days, particularly in Pennsylvania.

Stevenson will make an off-the-record talk here tonight at a fundraising dinner, and then take a plane to Harrisburg, Pa., where he will deliver his official campaign "kickoff" speech, Thursday night.

Stevenson got a rousing reception at the Liberty Party convention here, which nominated him and Kefauver to head its ticket too.

Harry Bellamy, 85, Former Kankakee Businessman, Dies

HARRY E. BELLAMY, 85, former Kankakee businessman, died last Thursday in Denver, Colo., following a heart attack.

Mr. Bellamy was born in Kankakee and was formerly in business with T. C. Munsey here. They operated the Munsey and Bellamy Book Store on Court street in the vicinity where the Woodworth Store is now located.

Funeral services were held Saturday at St. John's Cathedral in Denver and burial was in a cemetery there.

About 10 years ago he retired as vice president of the Kendrick-Bellamy Stationery Co. in Denver. He is survived by his wife, the former Frederica LeFevre; a daughter, Mrs. George A. Lincoln of West Point, N. Y., and four grandchildren.

THE FRIDAY EVENING service at the church will begin at 7:30 o'clock with a talk by Theodore J. Jensen, president of Trinity Seminary, Dubuque, Iowa. He will speak on the combined work of Trinity Seminary and Wartburg Seminary also located in Dubuque. Also speaking will be the Rev. N. B. Hansen of Poy Sippi, Wis., chairman of the church's board of foreign missions.

Saturday's schedule calls for business sessions during the morning and afternoon, and an evangelistic service at 8 p.m. The convention will conclude with the Sunday morning worship service at the Clifton church with the Rev. Mr. Anderson speaking on "What God Says About Eternity."

Special music during the evening meetings will be by the youth and choir of the Clifton church directed by Mrs. Edward Johnson.

New Guinea, with an area of 347,450, is the second largest island in the world. Greenland is the largest.

Guard Company Has Inspection

The training and instructors of Kankakee's Co. A of the National Guard 129th Infantry were inspected Tuesday night by Maj. Maurice Girard was named the best instructor.

The inspection was made by M. Sgt. Bender, 5th Army advisor. Donald G. Ignatowicz, 172 S. Fulton Ave., Bradley, and Daryl F. McGinnis, 384 S. Fraser Ave., joined the company Tuesday night.

The group now has 88 enlisted men and four officers, an increase of 12 since Aug. 1. It needs 163 enlisted men and six officers by the next summer encampment. There will be a non-commissioned officers meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at the army.

Campus-Emington JWC Opens Fall, Winter Season

SAUNEMIN (JNS)—The Campus-Emington Junior Women's Club opened its season Thursday evening when it met at the home of Mrs. Ruth Masching, 1713 N. 1st St., with 13 members and three guests. Mrs. Lois Breen, Mrs. Robert Speers, and Mrs. Mary Masching, all of the club, were present. Mrs. Masching presided. Roll call was answered by naming a favorite magazine.

A report on the progress of the club birthday calendar was given by Mrs. Janet Roche, chairman of the project.

MRS. DOROTHY Ulrich was elected vice president to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Mrs. Lucile Locke.

Mrs. Robert Speers presented a travelogue of her recent trip to Florida. Mrs. Speers illustrated her talk with colored slides.

During the social hour, euchre was played with prizes won by Mrs. Delores Crouch, Mrs. Violet Nelson and Dorothy Roche.

MRS. JANET Roche will be hostess at the October meeting.

A demonstration of small electrical appliances will be given by Miss Marilyn Miller of the Public Service.

A gain of eight new members was reported making a total membership of 20.

Annual Church Convention At Clifton

CLIFTON — Pastors, delegates and members of 13 United Evangelical Lutheran Churches in Illinois, Michigan and Missouri met at the Clifton church today for the four day annual convention of the Illinois district of the church. In the group will be about 50 official delegates and pastors.

The convention will begin with a service at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Clifton church with the main speaker being the Rev. Axel M. Anderson of Webster Groves, Mo., president of the Illinois district. He is survived by his wife, the former Frederica LeFevre; a daughter, Mrs. George A. Lincoln of West Point, N. Y., and four grandchildren.

THE FRIDAY EVENING service at the church will begin at 7:30 o'clock with a talk by Theodore J. Jensen, president of Trinity Seminary, Dubuque, Iowa. Man's Body Found In Iroquois River

MOROCCO IND. (JNS) — Newton County authorities tentatively have identified the body of a drowned man found late Monday in the Iroquois River four miles north of Kendall and a quarter mile east of Route 41.

Officials said the man is believed to be Edward Hawkins, about 50, of Gary. They said he apparently was fishing and fell into the water.

The primary mission of the U.S. Army band organized six days before the start of World War II, is extensive cooperation in the building of troop morale and army representation in public event and military ceremonies.

Boys 10, 9, 7 Admit Killing Their Father

NORWALK, Calif.—Three brothers — 10, 9 and 7 — showed no remorse when admitted to police that they had killed their father last night.

Thug, Freed By Error, Caught After A Year

CHICAGO (U)—A county jail prisoner who was mistakenly released more than one year ago has been seized by police in Omaha, Neb., Chicago authorities learned Tuesday night.

The fugitive, Andrew Fullilove, 35, was released Aug. 22, 1955, after "good" time for a crime named A. J. Fullilove.

Andrew Fullilove was charged in Chicago with assault to commit robbery. His bond was set at $20,000. A. J. Fullilove, held on $500 bond on a charge of stealing a cow, later was acquitted.

A FRIEND posted bond for A. J. and in a mixup over the similarity in names, Andrew Fullilove was freed.

Andrew was serving a 15-day sentence for vagrancy in Omaha when his status as a fugitive became known to Nebraska authorities.

Andrew was sentenced for vagrancy two weeks ago in Decatur, Ill., but had been released before word reached Decatur police he was wanted in Chicago. Chicago police said Fullilove will be extradited from Nebraska.

Illinois Student Hurt By Blast In Cornell Experiment

ITHACA, N. Y.—One Illinois student suffered eye injuries and another escaped unhurt when a blast rocked a chemistry laboratory at Cornell University Tuesday.

A Cornell physician said it was undetermined if William R. Champion, 28, of Byron, Ill., would lose the sight of his right eye. Champion also suffered cuts on an arm and about the face.

Another graduate student in the room, Allen D. Jones, of Harrisburg, Ill., was uninjured. Champion was injured while working on an experiment on his own as part of his work toward a doctorate degree, a university spokesman said. He was holding a heavy flask of liquid which exploded, the official said, shattering windows in his laboratory and breaking other glasses in the room.

TAXI AGE LIMIT

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Taxis over 14 years old must be retired from public service here. The city traffic department says such cars are no longer considered safe or fit for the public and it will not renew licenses for them.

COLLEGIAN WEDS GREEK COED DESPITE MOM'S LEGAL PROTESTS

CHAMPAIGN (U)—Although a young college student's mother had her son jailed last before his marriage, he has hurried the legal barrier with a lawyer's help.

Mrs. C. W. John, of Chicago Heights, had her son, Richard, 21, arrested Friday night as he attempted a wedding rehearsal in a Quincey Episcopal church. He was whisked away from his future bride, Frances Marie, 19, of Adams, Illinois, a student at MacMurray College, Jacksonville.

But THE BOY'S LAWYER appeared in court alone and explained that John had left to marry Miss Paris. They had planned to marry Saturday in Quincy.

Sheriff Everett J. Hedrick, who brought John from Quincy on Mrs. John's complaint, said that after a night in jail the boy posted $2,500 bail.

Attorney Earl Wagner got a two-week postponement of the hearing on the complaint. He explained to Justice of the Peace J. M. Griffith that the groom needed time to complete his honeymoon. Wagner told Griffith that the mother's complaint was designed to halt the marriage.

Saunemin Man, 70, Hurt In Fall From Barn Loft

SAUNEMIN (U)—Percy Mason, about 70, sustained only a severe jolting when he fell Saturday while working in the loft of the barn at Le Roy, Kansas, his home. He slipped on a loose board and fell. He was taken to St. James Hospital, Ponca, and was released Tuesday.

State Asphalt Truck Burns

A state asphalt truck caught on fire about 2:30 p.m. Tuesday as workers were cleaning out the truck tanks with kerosene. The truck was about five miles north of Bourbonnais on Route 45 where repairs were being made on the highway. Bourbonnais firemen put out the flame with foam. One of the crew foremen said the fire was probably caused by a spark from the gasoline engine mounted on the rear of the truck. The engine was being used to circulate the kerosene through the asphalt tanks. (Journal photo)

SKILLET FRANKS AND KRAUT
 Ingredients: 1 can (14 ounces) sauerkraut, 2 tablespoons light brown sugar, 1/2 teaspoon caraway seeds, 4 frankfurters.
 Method: Empty sauerkraut, including any liquid in can, into 9- or 10-inch skillet. Mix well with brown sugar and caraway seeds. Heat gently but quickly, stirring a few times. Place frankfurters in bottom of skillet with some of sauerkraut over them; cover and simmer until very hot—10 minutes or longer. Turn frankfurters once midway through heating period. Serve with prepared mustard. Makes 2 servings—with lots of sauerkraut.

...but What's The Price of Beans?

Fair question! So, let us explain about "the price of beans."

The many improvements and exclusive features you enjoy at Rudy's are not frills, not luxuries, not "eyewash." Far from tending to increase prices, they are actually your assurance of continued rock-bottom prices on nationally-famous foods. Because each installment (such as our Courtesy Counter or our Pre-Packaged Produce Department) enables Rudy to SERVE MORE CUSTOMERS... MOVE MORE MERCHANDISE AT LOWER COST... TRIM OPERATING EXPENSES AND SAVE MORE MONEY FOR YOU.

You won't find so-called "leaders" or "specials" or gimmicks or stamps at Rudy's. BUT YOU WILL FIND KANKAKEELAND'S LOWEST PRICES SEVEN DAYS A WEEK! Shop and compare. You'll have convincing proof that Rudy can cut your cost of living!

It all boils down to this: THE GREATER VALUES YOU GET EVERY DAY AT RUDY'S ARE MADE POSSIBLE ENTIRELY BY THE MASS MOVEMENT OF MERCHANDISE AND PEOPLE. When more people buy more merchandise, the result is more savings "all around." This policy enables Rudy to buy for less — so YOU can buy for less. THE MORE YOU BUY AT RUDY'S, THE GREATER YOUR SAVINGS WILL BE.

THE STORE IS PRETTY, AND THE "PRICE OF BEANS" IS LOW!

Basilio Seeks Saxton's Title

When the 26-year-old New York fighter from his Summit, N.J., camp breathing fire.

"MAN, I'M LIKE a hungry dog guarding his bone," said the cocky champion. "If anyone tries to take it from him, I'll bite his hand. That's the way I feel about the title now that I've gotten it back. Man, he's in for a world of trouble."

Basilio, who finished up his training on his home grounds here, was grimmer and more anxious than ever to whip Saxton, the man who snatched the title away from him in a controversial decision in Chicago March 14.

"I'm going to win," he said confidently. "I don't know if it will be by points or a knockout, but I'm going to win. I'm out to give it to him good. I still say I deserved the decision in Chicago and I'm going to prove it."

AS THE fighters went into the ring, the odds may have swung in favor of Basilio. This would be surprising since a majority of the boxing critics and most of the fans who saw the telecast of the Chicago scrap thought Basilio, from near-Chillicothe, won handily.

Syracuse and nearby areas will be blacked out of the coast to coast telecast. The network also is broadcasting the fight.

Defeat Spoils New Contract For Haney

BROOKLYN (U.P.)—Fred Haney, the man who came to dinner and stayed, was more concerned about the nervous-pitching National League pennant race today than about his new contract.

Yes, he admitted, he was pleased with the contract, which calls for him to manage the Milwaukee Braves next year or lose this time around. Yes, it came was somewhat of a surprise because he hadn't discussed it either with President Lou Pini or General Manager John Quinn.

Actually, the 42 defeat which he suffered at the hands of the Brooklyn Dodgers Tuesday night took some of the edge off the new contract. The loss left the Braves dodgers defeated for the National League lead, each with a .501 percentage and 16 games to play.

"At least," he sighed, "no one is ahead of us."

BUT THIS IS the most serious trouble the Braves have been in since July 13 when they took over the lead.

"I've been playing them one at a time," Haney said. "We lost a ball game to Brooklyn, so we look ahead to the next one. I've been telling my players not to think about yesterday or tomorrow. Just think about today."

Nor was he too worried about Bob Bush, one of his top pitchers, who walked seven Dodgers in less than four innings. He had been labeled a Dodger-killer.

"Bob can beat anyone when he has his control," observed Haney. "He just didn't have it."

Haney took over the Braves from Charlie Grimm, who resigned, on June 16 and Perini handed him the bat. He was strictly a stopgap. He had little to recommend him as a winning pitcher. He never had gotten even into the first division while directing the old St. Louis Browns and Pittsburgh Pirates six years.

THE BRVES were wallowing in fifth place when he assumed command, but they ripped off an 11-game winning streak and have been rolling since.

Haney's new contract is for one year and he indicated that suits him fine.

"I certainly wouldn't want to stay around if they didn't like me," he operated or vice versa. "The 56-year-old, white-haired Haney observed, "I hadn't been worrying about it simply because I've never had to worry about a job before and I'm not going to start now."

Tebbetts 'Scares' Dodgers, Braves

NEW YORK (U.P.)—Manager Birdie Tebbetts of Cincinnati voiced a dire threat before he left to attend Tuesday night's Braves-Dodgers game in Brooklyn.

"If the Dodgers don't give me and my wife good seats," said Birdie, "I won't let 'em have any tickets to the World Series."

4th Place Now Periling White Sox

CHICAGO (U.P.)—The Chicago White Sox, hoping to finish second in the American League, had better be careful or they might end up in fourth place.

The Sox Tuesday night dropped a 5-3 decision to the Boston Red Sox and fell into third place while Cleveland beat Baltimore 3-1.

The loss dropped the Sox a full game behind Cleveland and left them only one-half game ahead of the fourth place Red Sox.

The Chicago Cubs, meanwhile, were pushed deeper into the National League cellar when they were edged by Pittsburgh 4-3.

THE WHITE SOX starter Bob Keegan proved no puzzle to Boston but not so in the case of Boston starter Willard Nixon and reliever Ivan Delock. Chicago got to Nixon for three singles and a run in the first inning and added two more in the third without the aid of a hit.

Nixon walked the bases full in the second and the Sox counted on force play and a sacrifice fly. Nixon didn't give the Sox another hit until the seventh when Delock came in and put out the fire with two on and none out.

The White Sox will send Jack Harshman (14-9) against Boston's Frank Sullivan (12-8) today.

THE CUBS went a 3-1 lead to Pittsburgh and lost the game in the ninth inning when Roberto Clemente singled home the winning run.

Ernie Banks, Walt Moryn and Pete Whisenant each had two hits but Chicago's first run was unearned and the other two were forced in because of walks.

Bob Rush started for the Cubs but Turk Lown suffered the loss giving him an 8-7 record.

The Cubs and Pirates met again tonight when Sam Jones (6-13) pitching against Vern Law (7-14).

Burdette Faces 'New' In Final Meeting Today

BY THE UNITED PRESS

All event! That's what the Dodgers and Braves were today after 138 games—except maybe Brooklyn has the edge because of that valiant old veteran, Sal Maglie, who comes right out and admits he told a lie.

The happy, peering Maglie let the lie out of his bag Tuesday night amid the tremendous jubilation that followed his 42 victory over the Milwaukee Braves. The triumph, Maglie's 10th since coming to the Dodgers from Cleveland last May 17th, boosted Brooklyn into a first place tie with Milwaukee—and well, the kidding, jubilant atmosphere was such that a guy could admit to a wopper.

"When I first came over here from Cleveland," Maglie said in between congratulatory handshakes, "I told young Jackson that all I wanted to do was win 10 games. But I was lying 'n' now I want more."

IN ADDITION to scattering eight hits and striking out six batters, the 30-year-old Maglie rapped a Dodger messiah Bob Bush for a two-run single in the fourth to put the Braves ahead for good.

Maglie was aided for Eddie Mathews' 35th homer in the second inning and Joe Adcock's 30th in the ninth but both homers came with bases empty. Gil Hodges homered for Brooklyn.

The victory, Brooklyn's first at the expense of Bush this season after he had beaten the Dodgers seven times, put them back in first place for the first time since April 28.

Milwaukee and Brooklyn met for the last time this year today with Bud Burdette opposing Don Newcombe.

Cincinnati ripped the Giants, 11-5, but only two games removed from first place. Ted Kluszewski, Ed Bailey and Frank Robinson all homered in the Redleg triumph, credited to reliever Art Fowler, and those three homers gave Cincy a total of 201 for the season.

ROBINSON'S HOMER was his 35th of the year and it tied the major league record for a rookie set by Wally Berger of the Boston Braves in 1930. Bailey's belt, a grand slam homer, was his 25th home run of the year and it made the Redlegs the first team in major league history with five players boasting 25 or more homers. Kluszewski has 35, Wally Post 29 and Gus Bell 25.

Homers by Ken Boyer and Bob Del Greco helped the Cardinals strengthen their grip on fourth place.

Lockport's Haller Could Be 9 Letter Winner At Illinois

CHAMPAIGN (Special)—Tom Haller, 19-year-old sophomore quarterback from Lockport, Ill., became the first nine-letterman at Illinois since Dike Edelman, in the opinion of Illini coaches.

"Haller is a great natural athlete," says Coach Ray Eliot, "and I believe he has the makings of a truly fine player."

Pitching Patter

Guy Bush Can Still Curve 'Em--Across Dinner Plate

By HERB JANNUSCH

As he faces the Philadelphia Phillies in old Baker Bowl in Philadelphia in quest of his ninth consecutive victory, Guy Bush, a pitcher who has been called the greatest ball player who ever lived, the 48-year-old public relations representative of a Chicago sporting goods firm was telling stories.

In between picking the Brooklyn Dodgers to beat out the Milwaukee Braves for the National League pennant and collecting Babe Ruth as the greatest ball player who ever lived, the 48-year-old public relations representative of a Chicago sporting goods firm was telling stories.

They lived the one about the time Guy was facing the Philadelphia Phillies in old Baker Bowl in Philadelphia in quest of his ninth consecutive victory.

August and the Phillies were a distant last in the National League standings while the Cubs were out in front and it looked like Bush was a cinch to make it nine in a row.

"AH FELT GREAT in wading up," drawled the graying Mississippi, "and Ah didn't see how they could get a hit off me. My control was great and my fast ball hoppin'. Well, you remember that right field wall in Baker Bowl. The fast man up banded one off it oh a double on the first pitch. The second one tripled. And the third one was three doubles and a triple."

"That brought out Managajee McCarthy. He grabbed Guy by the hat and said, 'Gob, why the matter with that guy? What's he got his stuff to do?'"

Gaby pulled off his mask and snarled, "How in hell should I know. I ain't even caught a ball yet." Bush confessed that he was a lot better hitter than the newspapers ever credited him with being.

"AH NEVER HIT a home run in 17½ years of major league ball," he admitted, "but it wasn't my fault. Ah coulda had one inside the corner one day but Charlie Grimm, the Cubs manjush, then, held me up at that."

Ah coulda made it home, Ah complained to Charlie. "Why'd you wave me down?"

Whataya talkin' about, Guy? said Grimm. It took you 15 years to get this far."

Not many pitchers recan with pride a home run ball they wanted to do was win 10 games. But I was lying 'n' now I want more."

IN ADDITION to scattering eight hits and striking out six batters, the 30-year-old Maglie rapped a Dodger messiah Bob Bush for a two-run single in the fourth to put the Braves ahead for good.

Ward Says He'll Get Tougher In U.S. Amateur

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (U.P.)—Harve Ward opines that if he can stay out of a divorce case, he can stay out of a fight.

That is the understatement of the week from the defending champion, who is a rather brutal 5 and 4 licking Tuesday in his opening match.

These other players still figure to be around for the double-knockout round Thursday.

Ex-amateur Eddie Marlice, Cos and Willie Turnesa, Canadian open champion Doug Sanders and professional Willie Turner, had narrow escapes but only a couple joined first-round loser Joe Conrad on the upset mourner's bench.

Ward's opponent in the second round, Buster, the 20-year-old USA junior title in 1953, shot Knott's front nine in 31 and stayed under par to the finish when he won by a 2 and 1.

Some of the favorites, notably Cherry and Turnesa, had narrow escapes but only a couple joined first-round loser Joe Conrad on the upset mourner's bench.

Boardman After Lightweight Title

BOSTON (U.P.)—Confident Larry Boardman, who gained national acclaim as a stand-in for the late, lost, and found, said today that he was going to fight for the lightweight title.

New Herscher Coach Sees Good Prospects

HERSCHER (JNS)—Herscher High School's football gladiators are preparing for their 1956 grid cruise under a new coach, Dale Engelhorn, who thinks the prospects for the new season are bright.

Engelhorn coached at Princetonville last year. He will be assisted by Ben Peterson and Emmet Jeffries.

The new mentor has about 30 freshmen sophomores team. "I think that the prospects look very good," Engelhorn said, "and we should have a fine team. Of course, I do not know the caliber of competition in this area."

"THE BOYS HAVE fine spirit and are ready to go," he continued.

The biggest problem facing the mentor has been finding linemen to plug the holes caused by graduation. Engelhorn said that his backfield is well staffed with let.

At the present time the backfield includes Dale Johnson, quarterback, Mickey Cross and Rich and Ray Johnson, halfbacks, and Dale Johnson, fullback. The backfield, the coach said, will have "fair speed."

The Tigers will have plenty of experience as the top 15 men on the squad are juniors and seniors. The Varsity roster shows 14 seniors, 12 juniors and four sophomores at home against Gardner.

HERSCHER'S FIRST experience this season will be in a conference game Friday night and will start the campaign at home Friday against St. Anne. Herscher's schedule calls for three straight home games to open the season, then four games on the road. The Tigers will finish the season at home against Gardner.

Home Ownership Jumps 20 Per Cent In 15 Years

Census Bureau reports on home ownership highlight a tremendous change that has taken place in American living and the American family in the last decade and a half, says N. H. Rogge, economist, National Association of Home Builders. In that time, the Bureau reports, home ownership has increased two and a half times. The number of home owners grew from about 11 million families to about 27 million. Thus home ownership has increased from 40 per cent in 1940 to nearly 60 per cent at the time of National Home Week, 1956.

"Home ownership has not only kept pace with the growth in our economy, but has far outdistanced it," he continues in a statement. "This is perhaps the most important and single social and economic fact on the domestic horizon in these post-war years."

"Our people are now better housed than ever before, and probably better housed than any nation in the world. The obvious meaning is that the American people have spread out into the suburbs, and this has brought a multitude of accompanying problems, not the least of which is the shift now going on in the relationships between central city and suburban areas. They are faced with the increasing problems in the area of community facilities, in schools, sewer and water, recreation and the related problems of sound zoning and planning and subdivision regulation.

"In most European countries today, in most areas of the world, the tide still runs strongly against home ownership. Only in this country have we managed to develop a building economy that leans so strongly in favor of the individual and his right to a home he can own. 'What made possible this vast change to home ownership? It required a complete and little understood change in mortgage financing to bring about this increase in home ownership. Without the development of low down payment, low interest, long-term level payment amortized mortgages as exemplified by FHA and VA, and some conventional lenders, this would have been impossible. Its development required not only a recognition of the inherent desire of most people for a 'home of their own,' but the devising of machinery by cooperation of Government and industry to make this possible. Starting with the Federal Home Loan Bank Act in 1932, and the FHA in 1934, the past 23 years have seen the evolution of legislation laying the basis for such long range improvement in our home financing. The housing should be of a rental type since most Americans could not afford to own their own homes."

"Compare today's mortgage financing pattern with the high interest, short-term unsecured loans of the 1920's, requiring payment in full after a few years, and it is easy to see, not only why 1920's loans were more unstable, and in themselves a major contribution to the depression of the thirties, but also why home ownership was beyond the reach of most Americans. 'What of the future? Well, home ownership seems bound to continue to increase. Today, 90 per cent of our housing production is for single family homes for sale, only 10 per cent for rent. The market still seems strong. In most places, and in the decade ahead will get even stronger as the post-war baby crop matures, marriages, has children and begins then to seek homes of their own to live the kind of life that makes sense as we move into the second half of this exciting century."

Cooling Move

In addition to the comfort and convenience offered by the forced air heating system, the installation of itself amounts to half a central air conditioning system. In fact, many new heating systems are ready for air conditioning. Wiring and refrigerant coils have been installed along with an empty cabinet to receive the evaporator section of the air conditioner at a later date. When the home owner decides to install air conditioning, the evaporator unit is slipped into the cabinet and the air-cooled condenser is set up outside the house.

Here's A Test On Your Building Vocabulary

While home builders have their own technical jargon—mullion, joint, lintel, header, and the like—a number of other words and expressions are now being used in specialized fields of operations of the building industry, and the public is being asked to test its knowledge of these terms.

COMMUNITY FACILITIES: Essentially, these are the facilities needed for modern living and generally regarded as a responsibility of the entire community. They include such services as water, sewers, good schools, roads, recreational areas — in short, all those items that are needed for the development of sound and healthy community living.

REDEVELOPMENT: In urban renewal, when projects call for total clearance, that is, demolition of all buildings in the area, the label for the job is redevelopment. The total land area is cleared and redeveloped.

PACKAGE MORTGAGE: This is a type of financing which not only covers the cost of the property, but that of such items as ranges, refrigerators, washing machines and other major appliances. The advantage of this type of mortgage is that the home buyer does not have to engage in a number of separate financial transactions to equip his house.

OPEN-END MORTGAGE: This type of mortgage may be illustrated by the following example: Suppose a home owner has a $15,000 mortgage on which he has paid $3,000; he wishes to make improvements on his house costing $2,000. Instead of having to arrange for separate financing — which usually requires a new title search and other expenses — under an open-end mortgage he can, "if the lender agrees to his plans," add the $2,000 to the amount still due on the original loan. Thus, instead of $12,000 to pay off, he would have $14,000, with payments for the remaining life of the mortgage adjusted regularly.

URBAN RENEWAL: This is the program conceived by President Eisenhower's Housing Advisory Committee in late 1953 as a comprehensive approach to the removal of slums and the rebuilding of our cities. It became law in the Housing Act of '54 and is currently being administered by the Housing and Home Finance Agency. It has been the impetus for constructive action in many cities to tackle their slum and growth problems on a broad front rather than in the pie-meal fashion that characterized former programs.

REHABILITATION: An urban renewal project that retains and improves most of the structures in a neighborhood is essentially a rehabilitation job. This is accurate even where a number of units are demolished either because they are unsalvageable or because the property is used for public improvements.

Care Of Carpets Emphasized

With proper care, wall to wall carpets can stay beautiful for years.

The right daily and weekly care, immediate and correct attention to spots, and a periodic cleaning by responsible professionals add years to the life of your carpet.

Gradually over the months, carpet colors lose some of their freshness. This dulling is due to "atmospheric soil" and in time requires professional cleaning. But to do a superficial, stand-by job of brightening the surface, try sponging the carpet every six months with an approved synthetic cleanser. To help solve the spot-removal problem, home kits providing home-

Here's An Easy Method To Call The Children

Getting a little tired of chasing all over the neighborhood tracking down those little Jani Boone's and Annie Oakley's to call them to dinner? Just this week-end at the Kankakee Fair, we have a new method to call the children.

One type converts into a record player, another into a microphone. Simply plug the microphone into the input jack on the top of the machine with the control knob in stop position and turn the record listen knob to record. Set the machine near an open window or on the porch.

Then speak into the microphone on the other days to go over the lips. Whether the children are down the block, in the backyard across the street or cruising up and down on bicycles, they'll hear you.

Use quantities of cleaners and spot-removers usually available only to professional cleaners are now on the market.

Convenient Living Promised By This Home

Convenient living in a modern manner is the promise from this home. Located at 1639 S. Fifth Ave., it is a three-bedroom house.

Increased Emphasis On Space In Home Construction Noted

Builders are emphasizing space as never before. Average floor area in 1954 was 1,140 feet; in 1955, it was 1,170 feet. This year, when the new BLS survey is published, it may be well over 1,200 feet.

Each year, builders have been striving for more space within the price brackets that families can afford. Their judgment was confirmed earlier this year, when women from all over the country meeting at the Women's Congress on Housing in Washington put space first on their "what we want" list. They gave 1,200 feet as the minimum desirable floor area.

Housewives' desires for more living, storage and utility space point up one reason for the continuing popularity of frame houses, aside from their traditional appeal in terms of durability and beauty. If a 28x40 foot house has wood-frame, wood-sided walls, it gives 40 square feet more floor area than a house of the same dimensions with typical masonry walls. This is enough space for a bathroom, powder room, or several large closets.

THUS, wood construction can mean the difference in providing or not providing two other items the housewives asked for: an extra bath or half-bath, and five feet of closet space for each member of the family.

Here, too, many builders seem to have anticipated the preferences of women. They built a larger proportion of houses with

Regular Roof Inspection Suggested

Many a home-owner who has put off replacing a weathered old roof has had sincere cause to regret it. The interior damage caused by leaks can be more costly than a new roof.

The time to prevent interior damage from leaks is before leaks show up, and the best method is to have the roof inspected periodically by a reliable roofing contractor.

The National Bureau of Standards says that patching an old roof seldom pays. Research has shown that a roof wears out uniformly — not in one or two places but all over. If a weathered roof starts to leak in one place, chances are it soon will leak in other spots.

Time and labor costs of removing the old roof can be saved by installing long-wearing asphalt shingles over the old roof covering. This retains the insulating value of the old roof.

THE WOMAN'S Society of Christian Service will meet at the Methodist Church Thursday. On the program committee are Mrs. Art Donley, Mrs. Fred Sancken and Mrs. Carol Haag. In charge of the Birthday Table are Mrs. Don Settleingham. Serving lunch are Mrs. R. J. Ottmiller, Mrs. Ray Frantz Jr., Mrs. Roy Hack and Mrs. Orville Allen.

on color, inside and out. Homeowners planning to reroof will find that asphalt shingles come in a wide range of solid and blended colors suitable for any setting or type of architecture.

Asphalt shingles are available in many shapes that form distinctive designs on the roof. These include the designs offered by the three-tab square butt strip shingle, the two or three-tab hexagonal strip shingle, the individual hexagonal shingle, the giant individual shingle, and the lock-down shingle.

Thermostat Helps Command Indoor Weather

about home comfort, but few people do anything about it—or even know much about it.

But the situation is changing, says a leading U. S. firm that deals every day in devices that make people's homes more comfortable.

A few years ago studies by this company showed that few people knew much about furnaces or their hot-water counterparts, home air conditioning plants. An even smaller number understood the thermostat and the other control devices that automatically control comfort in a house.

AT THE TIME of National Home Week this year, more than two thirds of all new homes built in the United States have automatic control devices to provide "zoning" of heating and cooling for maximum comfort.

And, say the company engineers, designed to help you control your home's temperature. They need two or more thermostats and other automatic control devices to provide "zoning" of heating and cooling for maximum comfort.

So, let's look at the brain-like little device that is "doing something about the weather" indoors any way. Basically, it's akin to the controls that cause your toast to pop-up when it becomes golden brown, that keep you from being roasted inside your electric blanket, or furnish hot water for your shower every morning.

The heating thermostat feels the temperature in the house and orders more heat from the furnace. When the desired temperature is reached, it turns things off. Connected to an air conditioning unit, it orders cooling instead.

In most homes the element that "feels" the temperature is a strip of metal that bends when things get hot (or cold). This closes an electrical circuit to the furnace or air conditioner. In the past decade Honeywell engineers also developed an electronic thermostat that detects temperature as a change in the flow of electricity through a coil of extremely fine wire.

Signals from the thermostat activate other equipment—motors of valves on the furnace or air conditioner to provide exactly the amount of heating or cooling needed to keep the thermostat happy and the home-owner comfortable.

REALIZING THAT outside weather conditions affect what's happening indoors, the engineers added to their electronic control system an outdoor thermostat and an electronic "brain" that computes the amount of heating needed according to thermostats both inside and outside the house.

Another means of offsetting outdoor effects is by "zoning" the house. This requires the use of two or more thermostats which provide for independent adjustment of temperatures in each zone. Thus if the sun is adding heat on one side but not the other, the thermostat in the cold zone can be advanced to meet the need without affecting conditions in the warmer area.

In a zoned air conditioning system, the amount of cooling to the

Thus if the sun is adding heat on one side but not the other, the thermostat in the cold zone can be advanced to meet the need without affecting conditions in the warmer area.

In a zoned air conditioning system, the amount of cooling to the hot zone would be increased, the cooler areas left alone.

Equally important is the use of multi-zone controls to adjust temperatures according to a given activity. If you are sleeping, you may want cooler temperatures, so a sleeping zone thermostat is provided. The baby's room, in the other hand, might need a higher thermostat setting. Again, the same principles apply with air conditioning.

THE ENGINEERS HAVE also come up with some special purpose thermostats such as electric and semi-automatic clock types which automatically reduce the temperature setting at a certain time, boost it back up a certain number of hours later. These types can be adapted, of course to either the electronic or electric systems, can be used in any or all zones, and work for air conditioning plants as well as heating.

A control system, the engineers point out, represents less than one per cent of the total cost of your home. Yet with it, you can literally control your indoor weather. And, the better system you have, the more comfortable your home can be.

Today's 'Gas Age' Fathered By Bunsen 100 Years Ago

A simple experiment by a German scientist 100 years ago is one of the main reasons why you live so conveniently and comfortably today.

The scientist was Robert Wilhelm Bunsen and his successful experiment was the making of air with gas in a home-made, tube-like burner. This became the Bunsen burner, and it was the first of the gas age.

From this simple but effective harnessing of gas as a source of heat has come the modern automatic range, the gas furnace, hot-water heaters and other appliances.

And new uses for the versatile fuel are being discovered all the time. For example, this newspaper you're holding, the very clothes you're wearing, even the electric light by which you read—all of these things and more have been made better products with the direct help of gas, either as a fuel or in the form of an actual ingredient.

THAT'S THE REASON gas is the nation's sixth largest industry and still is growing at an incredible rate. At this moment there are more than a thousand utility companies annually selling nearly two billion dollars worth of gas and this wholly new industry is supported by an estimated nine billion dollars in private capital.

Though this gas age has been just about 100 years in the making in the United States, it's roots go back to antiquity. As much as 39 centuries ago, the Chinese had discovered natural gas and drilled wells as deep as 6,000 feet, using bamboo drill pipe and hand-forged native wrought iron for drill heads. They used the gas to evaporate brine to produce salt.

In the United States gas springs were discovered before the revolution, adjacent to what is today Charleston, W. Va. George Washington, in dedicating a tract of land in that region in 1755 for a national park, commented on the "burning spring" existing there.

An exhibition of manufactured lighting: Boston in 1822, New York in 1823 and the nation's capital in 1847 when Congress adopted the new system for illuminating the Capitol building and grounds.

Data vary as to when the first gas lighting was introduced into the country, but it is known that the first gas lighting was introduced into the country in 1817.

ITS FIRST successful public use, however, was in 1896 when Baltimore became the first city in the country to be lighted by the new fuel. Its obvious advantages over candles and smelly whale oil caused other cities to switch to gas lighting in a home.

Today gas is used for cooking, heating, and lighting in more than 33 million homes in the United States!

Our Ancestors Had Heating Problems, Too

The Parade of Homes, says one authority with a sense of humor, offers an opportunity to look back and see how our ancestors solved the problem of keeping warm.

With the modern equipment on display in Parade of Homes, human comfort has been a prime problem ever since the Neanderthal man wrapped his hairy form in the hide of a mammoth and kept a fire going in the mouth of his cave.

In the centuries since, man has run the gamut from witchcraft to scientifically-controlled laboratory experiments in his effort to learn about—and do something about—his comfort problems.

Historians relate, for example, that an early tribe used to light fires under wax images in hopes it would chase away the chills. Their idea of air conditioning was to pray over the grave of one who had been burned to death on the theory that the victim—through his intimate and disastrous experience with such discomfort—would intercede with the appropriate weather gods.

Greatly advanced was the comfort-seeking Calpho of Babylon who in the eighth century had his palace surrounded with snow which his slaves carried down from the mountains and distributed to his guests.

"MODERN" HEATING goes back about 100 years. The first radiators were a series of pipes through which hot water or steam was circulated. There was no way for the air to escape so these devices produced deafening noises along with their heat output.

The Victorian influence hit comfort equipment hard. Parlor jumbos of grandma's day were decorated with cast-iron cupids and nymphs. Pastoral scenes were often painted on the dingy glazes of pot-bellied parlor stoves.

At that they did a good job of warming the subject—on one side anyway.

The most effective cooling of the era was a fancy fan. When the user's arm grew tired he could read the advertisements—frequently furnished by a local funeral parlor—on the fan itself.

The arrival of the electricity brought junior-sized airplane propellers into the house. These did a fair job of circulating air—and most everything else that wasn't securely fastened down—throughout the room.

An early approach to automatic heating was a thermostatic device developed in the 1870's which automatically opened and closed fur-

PREPARING A "back-of-the-whistle" for the whole family is a simple matter on a multiple-use fifth burner such as featured on this modern gas range. Burner is thermostatically controlled—flame automatically adjusts to maintain the set temperature.

At last . . . modern man makes gains. But, the engineers add, tomorrow's comfort system may make the present ones seem almost as primitive as the cavemen's fire and shaggy robe. Atomic or solar energy may provide fuel and power; barometric pressure, odors, noise, dust, even the ionization of the air may be automatically controlled.

And, if the homeowner desires, he may be able to enjoy the temperature, sound, odor and all of the other characteristics of any climate in the world simply by flicking a switch. To top it off, he'll be able to project the sea-shore, mountain-top or pastoral scene of his choice.

Homeowners Have Ease In Making Color Selections

Color harmony in interior decoration provides the final, gracious touch for the family that's settling into a new home. And never before have homeowners had it so good as today, just the right shade of color is available.

In recent years major paint makers have perfected a simplified paint-coloring system that makes available as many as 1,322 hues. One merely selects the precise color desired by use of color chip charts and adds the specified amount of colorants, squeezed from metal tubes, into a white or neutral base paint.

Scientists in the paint laboratories also have devised mixtures that eliminate the old nuisances of application, dripping, drying and odor. The so-called latex or emulsion paints have little or no odor. Since they are water-thinned and need no special solvent, cleaning up can be done with plain water. They also dry quickly and can be washed or scrubbed. And there's a new jelled paint that's said to eliminate settling, dripping and mixing woes. Other new lines include a "polka dot" paint, one that gives a childlike effect and still another that simulates water glass.

With all these new aids for the home painter, it appears certain that many more homeowners soon will be joining the hundreds of thousands already doing their own paint jobs.

Gilman Rebekahs Honor Vice Grand and Guest Grands
GILMAN (JNS)—At the meeting of Gilman Rebekah Lodge Wednesday evening at the 100th hall its vice grand was honored and also vice grands present from other lodges in district 15.

Mrs. Henry Smith of Gilman, Mrs. Carl Keene of Watseka and Mrs. Anton Hansen of Mokena were the honored guests. They were introduced by Mrs. Francis Tholen and welcomed by Mrs. Alvin Ritzma, noble grand. She presented each one with a gift and guests were seated at her left.

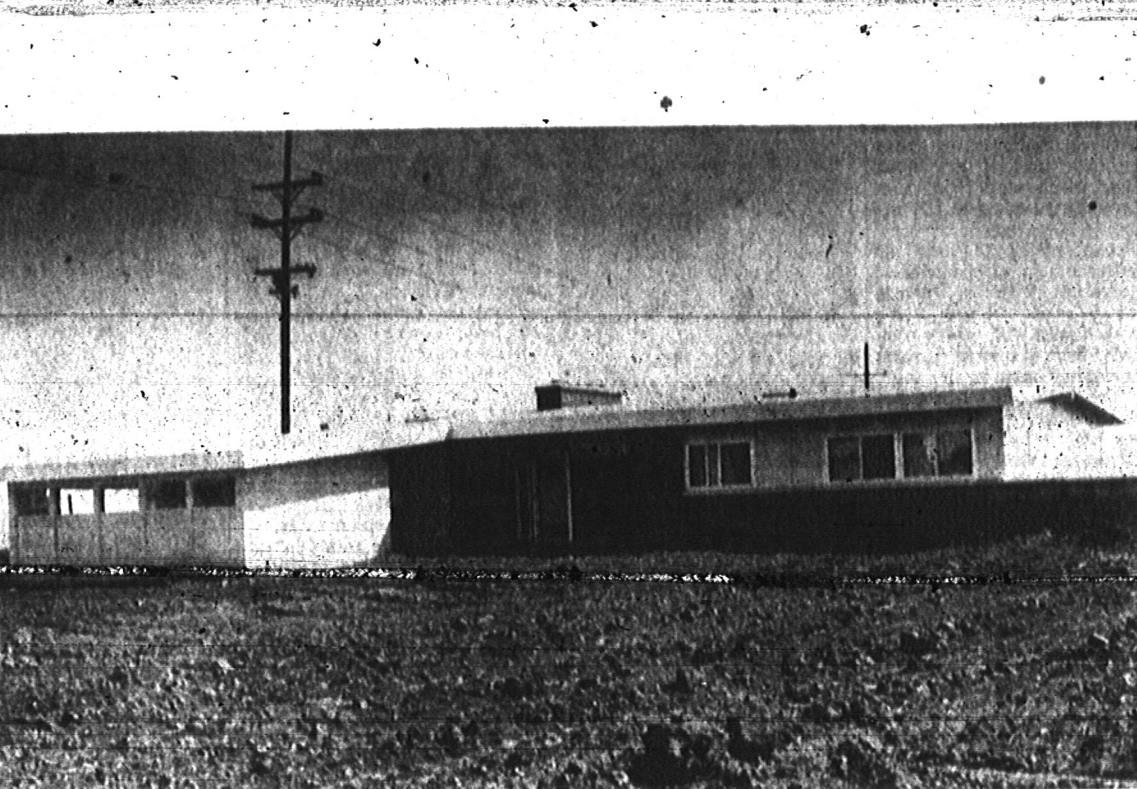

The noble grand appointed Mrs. Henry Smith to have charge of securing subscriptions to the "International Rebekah" during September.

Mrs. Clinton Hartley reported on the meeting of District 2 at Peoria Aug. 25, which she and several members attended.

After lodge meeting members and guests were entertained in lodge dining room. Refreshments were served by committee. Guests were present from Mokena and Watseka.

The business meeting followed. The surface of the Dead Sea is 1,286 feet below the level of the Mediterranean Sea.

Power Companies In 10-Years Plan To Meet Increased Needs

To keep abreast with the fast pace of home building and industrial expansion, the nation's electric companies today are planning new generating facilities to increase power output by 122 per cent in the next 10 years.

Projections of new generating units by the electric power industry are based on expectations that the population will expand from its current 163,000,000 to at least 233,000,000 by 1965, and possibly as high as 258,500,000 by 1973. Along with the increase in population is expected to come a continuing high pace of new home building, which since 1948 has been averaging more than 1,000,000 a year.

Adequate wiring to meet all needs is the aim of the nation's investor-owned electric companies. "To keep pace with what's coming, you have to keep running fast to merely stay in the same place," said one electric company planning engineer.

"Look what's happened in the past 10 years. In 1946 there were virtually no television sets, electric refrigerators, electric blenders, electric toasters, electric coffee makers, electric mixers, electric waffle combination grills, steam iron, food freezers, electric blankets or heaters in existence. Today 33,300,000 homes have television sets, over 17,000,000 have waffle combinations, over 13,000,000 have steam irons, and over 7,000,000 have freezers, around 5,000,000 have electric bed covers, and over 5,000,000 have electric broilers.

Home Exterior Cracks Should Get Attention

The cool fall days coming up should be a reminder that Old Man Winter isn't far behind. So the wise homeowner is already turning a critical eye on the exterior of his house in the interest of comfort and economy.

This is an opportune time for owners of new homes and those on the verge of taking title of one to consider one of the most important yet frequently neglected aspects of home maintenance.

Every new house, no matter how well built, is quite likely to develop a variety of cracks and crevices at the construction joints over a period of time. Failure to fill these cracks can be costly in the long run. Yet the caulking job itself can be done easily and inexpensively by the average homeowner using one of the compounds that come in handy tubes.

Exterior crevices result in substantial money loss in two ways. Moisture seeping in through the cracks causes rotting, making eventual repair bills a certainty. Also heat will escape through the cracks, increasing fuel costs. In addition, unsealed cracks are an open invitation for dirt and insects.

Fortunately, caulking compounds deal efficiently with the problem in return for a little time and the expense of buying a caulking gun, and they also have an angled nozzle that simplifies application. Here are the main danger points about the house to check for cracks: ends of siding and lap joints of siding; window frames, both wood and metal; and storm sash; wood door and window frames where they meet masonry; openings for outside water faucets

Cullom Friendship Circle Plans Social Gathering

CULLOM (JNS)—The Friendship Circle of Cullom Methodist Church will meet at the church Sept. 18, at 7:30 p.m. for a "social get-together". The committee in charge includes Mrs. Fae Jean Haag, Mrs. Betty Cox, Mrs. Hazel Magee and Mrs. Flora Telford.

GLENN TAYLOR and Donald Read attended the Methodist Laymen's Retreat at East Bay Camp at Bloomington Saturday and Sunday. They will be at 8:00 p.m., Sept. 19.

Colorful Home Promotes Better Family Life

Color plays an important role in promoting efficiency and a feeling of well-being in the family circle.

The value of interior color was demonstrated in a study of 2,500 Baltimore school children. After a year in attractively color-styled classrooms, the pupils boosted their average grades 9 per cent and their attendance 13 per cent above the previous year spent in drab classrooms.

HOME-OWNERS can brighten the lives of their families in much the same way by following these four guides for interior color styling:

1. Two or three bright colors in one room can make it cheerful and pleasant. But limit bright colors to three.

2. Warmly patterned windows and paneling add appeal to the walls of any room. For an especially attractive effect in a large room, ponderosa pine doors and windows can be painted in hues which subtly contrast with the wall color. Small rooms, however should have doors and windows painted to match the walls. Wood windows are the only exception.

3. Dark colors make a ceiling seem lower, while light colors give the room height.

4. Any room seems to shrink in size the moment dark colors are applied, but light colors make it appear to expand.

Electrical Facts, Figures Emphasized

Here are some reminders about electrical facts and figures in your home.

—A year's house is over 10 years old.

—If the lights dim or flicker when the automatic toaster is turned on, and if the bread in the toaster pops up only half-browned, it's probable the wiring is overloaded.

The reason for the overload in 20,000,000 homes is simple—there are more appliances in use today than there were a decade ago.

Such things as television sets were virtually non-existent in 1946—today there are 33,300,000 of them in use.

AT LAST COUNT, there were around 47,500,000 radios throughout the country—ten years ago there were only 30,500,000.

Most homes today have at a minimum eight kinds of appliances—a radio set, a television set, a refrigerator, an iron, an electric clock, a washer, a toaster and a vacuum cleaner.

Put too many of these on one circuit and the results are obvious.

Many American homes are chugging along with only 30 or 60 amperes service. Electricians say 100 amperes are hardly ample.

A 30-ampere entrance service is one in which 30 amperes of electricity at 110 to 120 volts of pressure are delivered to the house. Stated another way, such a setup makes a maximum of 3,600 watts available in the house at any one time.

THE WATTAGE rating of an automatic toaster is 1,100 watts; hand iron 1,000 watts; coffee maker 1,000 watts; television set 300 watts; a broiler 1,450 watts; a roaster 1,650 watts; and a refrigerator 300 watts.

Turn most of these on all at once, also a washing machine with 1,200 watts and an automatic iron with 1,550 watts, and you may blow another fuse.

Electricians say each electric circuit in a house should have a 20 per cent spare capacity, over and above the probable maximum load.

The cost of rewiring, they say, is "surprisingly small." A check on wiring adequacy is suggested if there is any question in the BUILT-INS OWE THEIR popularity to the manner in which they lend themselves to arrangement for greatest convenience. They can be installed at comfort-levels best suited to the height of the homemaker.

Air Conditioning Only Scratching Surface

It has been predicted that about 200,000 central air conditioning systems will be installed in residences during the current year, as against 125,000 systems during 1955.

Despite the impressive gain this can be considered only scratching the surface. It is estimated that by 1960 central air conditioning will be installed in well over 500,000 homes annually.

In 1956, less than a decade hence, this figure will zoom to at least 1,150,000 homes a year—equivalent to the number of furnaces installed this year.

The spectacular gains in complete air conditioning are bringing profound changes in residential heating, reports say.

The key phrase for home owners in the next few years will be "easy convertibility" to year-round comfort, with heating becoming simply a phase of all-season air conditioning, authorities feel.

AS AN EXAMPLE, a company has recently introduced a completely new line of "air conditioning design" forced warm air heating units developed specifically to permit easy economical addition of cooling.

A single thermostat to handle both summer and winter temperature regulation is provided as standard equipment with the furnace. Installation practices recommended by dealers call for ducts and filters engineered to handle the complete air conditioning job.

As a result of such developments, it can be anticipated that even where year-round air conditioning is not provided, a substantial number of the heating systems will be carefully laid out to permit addition of summer cooling at minimum cost.

POTENTIAL BUYERS will want to protect their air conditioning future by asking these questions:

Forrest Methodist Church Plans Family Fellowship

FORREST (JNS)—The families of the Forrest Methodist Church will meet Sunday at the church for the first meeting of the fall season of the Family Fellowship. The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. with a potluck supper.

The guest speaker will be Chaplain Johnson of the Methodist Hospital in Peoria. A group of nurses will accompany him and will present musical selections.

The committee for the evening will be Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Metz, Mr. and Mrs. Victor King, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jacobs, and the Rev. and Mrs. Island Wells.

1. Is the house itself designed and insulated for maximum economy of cooling and heating?

2. Are the ducts and outlets properly laid out for cooling as well as heating?

3. Can cooling equipment be installed without modifying or cutting into the duct system?

4. Is adequate electrical wiring available for the cooling system?

5. Is the thermostat designed to regulate both cooling and heating?

Mona Freeman 'Miss National Home Week'

Mona Freeman, a Hollywood lovely who has made her mark in films and TV, has been named "Miss National Home Week" by the National Association of Home Builders. The big event takes place September 15-23.

Some 10,000 special exhibit homes will go on display during the week. The homes are built by the National Association of Home Builders. The big event takes place September 15-23.

Heating System 'Zoning' Seen As Big Advantage

If you are buying a new house this year, you'll enjoy "zoning" of your heating system (and cooling, too) if it is installed for maximum comfort, a leading temperature control authority says.

More ramblers, split-level and similarly-styled houses will be built this year than ever before, said H. O. Chamberlain, zone control authority for a leading company. Unlike compact box-type houses of the past, these homes will be designed around natural areas of activity—a bedroom zone, sleeping area, recreation or family room, and possibly other special-purpose zones—such as nurseries or rooms occupied by elderly people.

Each area has its own separate temperature problems, Chamberlain says.

Many will have larger roof areas, contain more glass, and have more wall space exposed to outside weather effects—hot sun in summer, cold winds in winter. In many of the so-called split-level and level types, part of the house is protected from outdoor influences by being underground, the rest being exposed to temperature conditions above ground.

"Also," says Chamberlain, "today's homeowners have adopted living habits that place greater emphasis than ever before on home comfort. The indoor climate is being tailored to this trend just as the design of the house and the furnishing inside it are."

CHAMBERLAIN points out that before World War II there were very few zoned homes. In fact, he says, most homeowners were lucky if they could automatically adjust the temperature in their homes at all. In 1944, for example, there were only 4,500 automatic heating systems in use and few, if any, central cooling plants. Today there are 16,973,306 automatic heating plants in use and nearly 400,000 central air-conditioning units.

Trend To Outdoor Living Boosts Yard, Garden Lighting

The great American migration to the suburbs has slowly but surely taken the family out of the house and centered its activities around the yard and the garden. Enthusiastic suburbanites, with hundreds of project hours behind them, are now lighting up their backyards so they can continue to work and play after dark.

They have found many advantages to lighting their gardens. For example, small "spots," carefully concealed and directed lighting graceful trees and attractive flower beds and give them a "new look" at night. Dimly lit lamp posts lend an air of romance and mystery as do lanterns placed near garden benches and at strategic points along garden paths.

And, for parties on summer evenings, these directed lights create a gay atmosphere of revelry for dances, games, and garden suppers.

Small floodlights offer safety advantages, too. Arranged for control from within the house, they stay reasonably warm—a big comfort factor that builders of Parade of Homes have included in these models.

Every Home Can Use A Chalkboard

Every home can use a chalkboard or two for writing memos and messages. A chalkboard of any size and shape can be made right at home at small expense. One for the youngsters and another for the kitchen are imperative in most homes.

Here's how to build a chalkboard: You'll need some pressed wood either 3/8 or 1/2-inch thick. A common size for a kitchen chalkboard is two feet wide and 18 inches high. One for the children could be two feet by three feet, or even larger.

First round off the corners with a file and lightly bevel the exposed edges in the same manner. In the upper corners, drill holes through which screws will fasten the board to the wall.

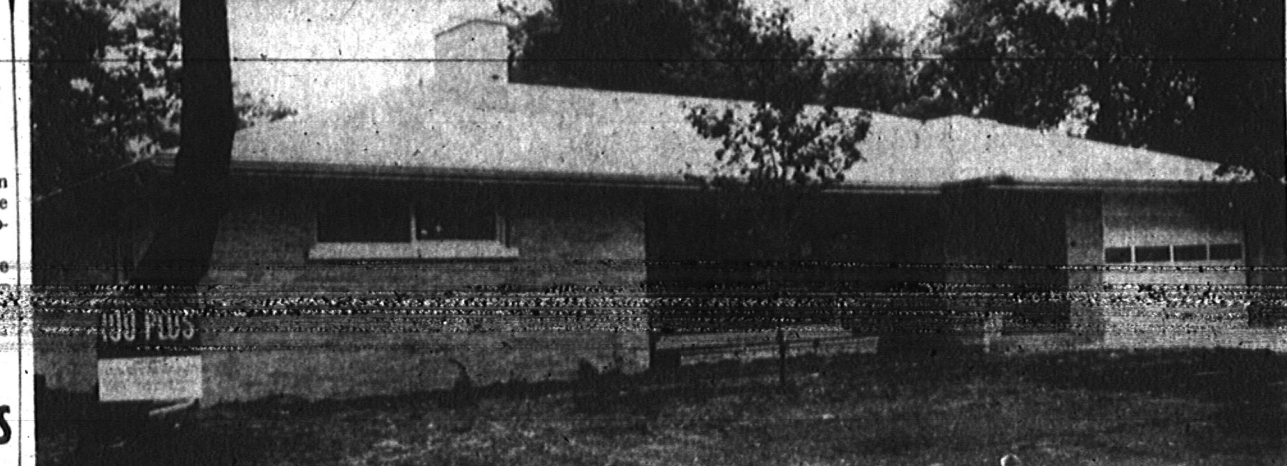

Prepare the wood by giving it two coats of a transparent pigment sealcoat. Now apply a heavy coat of state surfacing material, available at a paint store. This comes in gray or green. After it is completely dry, rub it down with dry rags and the board is ready for use.

If you want a chalk trough, obtain a piece of wood molding having a trough shape. Through holes drilled at the bottom of the chalkboard, apply screws from the back into the trough. Stain or varnish the molding.

On the board for children's use, you can fasten appropriate decalcomanias such as the letters of the alphabet or the arabic numerals. These are available at paint, hardware, hobby or dime stores.

Plan Comfort

Heating engineers know how to locate warm and return air registers so that with continuous air circulation, heat is evenly distributed at all times. There is no opportunity for cold air to build up on the floor, and ceiling and floor surfaces stay reasonably warm—a big comfort factor that builders of Parade of Homes have included in these models.

Tips Given On Care Of Floors

Floors are coming up in the world, decoratively speaking. With the number of attractive man-made materials on the market, prospective buyers would do well to know some of the flooring fundamentals which will help in their choice of material and assist in subsequent maintenance. Here is a round-up of types and tips for their care and preservation:

1. Linoleum is one of the most widely used floor coverings. It is easy to clean with either self-polishing or polishing wax.
2. Asphalt tile is hard, durable and inexpensive. It can be laid over wood or concrete and comes in many colors and patterns. Self-polishing wax is the only type to be used on asphalt tile.
3. Vinyl plastic, newest of the floor coverings, is tough with clear bright colors and great resistance to stains. Despite its durability, it becomes scratched and collects dirt unless waxed regularly with either polishing or self-polishing wax.
4. Rubber tile is a favorite because it is durable and resilient. It should be given regular protective coats of polishing or self-polishing wax.
5. Cork provides a resilient surface of exceptional quietness, comfort and beauty. Either type of wax, polishing or self-polishing, may be used with good results.
6. Marble, flagstone, brick, terrazzo and concrete make attractive additions to the flooring family. Such materials are extremely hard and do not require protection from ordinary wear, but a wax polish is desirable to enhance the colors and make cleaning easier. Wood, of course, is an old standby and waxed to a mellow polished finish. Dark stains are used mark of style and good taste in the home.
7. "Bird proofing" in the form of low-voltage, electric-pulsing wiring to discourage roosting birds was installed on New York City's renovated City Hall.

Careful Color Choice Aids Remodeling

Careful attention should be given the choice of color when redecorating or modernizing an old bathroom, says the Plumbing Fixture Manufacturers Association. Color can make a bathroom appear spacious or crowded, cluttered or neat, warm or cold.

Usually, the choice of fixture, accessory and wall colors will depend on whether the bathroom is large or small.

A small bath needs light colors to create the illusion of spaciousness and to make the ceiling seem higher. Use the same color on the walls, window trim, and doors.

A large bathroom will appear to shrink when dark colors are used. Dark shades also make a ceiling appear lower. The color of the door and window frames may contrast with the walls in a large bath.

Despite the size of the room, don't use more than three bright colors. Because plumbing fixtures come in soft pastel shades they can either match or blend with the main decorator color.

Fixtures are available in colors such as pink, deep red, green, blue, gray, suntan, yellow, ivory and white.

Pink is the most popular fixture color among home owners. Blue and green are close seconds and gray is next in popularity.

Papineau RNA Honors Mrs. Paul

PAPINEAU (JNS)—The Wednesday meeting of the Papineau Royal Neighbors was held with 16 members and four guests present. After the business meeting, Mrs. Bertha Paul was honored at a going-away party. Mrs. Paul entered the Benetown Home at Peotone Thursday evening. At the party games were played and honors were awarded to Mrs. Melissa Olick, Miss Bertha Schroeder, Mrs. Charles Ecklund and Mrs. William Spies. Mrs. Paul was presented with a gift from the lodge. Lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. William Henning and Mrs. Caroline Henning.

Wallpapers Favored In New Trends

Decorators have put added emphasis on walls in the homes on display this year during National Home Week, September 15 to 23. They've used new wallpapers that fit in perfectly with the general muted-tone-of-today's aesthetic.

Decorators are favoring the new non-directional patterns tend themselves ideally to this five-wall treatment.

In a class all by themselves are the mural-type scenes. Many of the 1956 scenes place emphasis on the wallpaper setting the scene, since the pictures are painted on the wallpaper itself.

Designs show greater strength in their simple but more striking lines. For example, there is a sense of freedom and openness in freely sketched drawings widely spaced on light backgrounds.

This same pattern informally is also noticeable in the increased flexibility of pattern. There is no such thing today as a typical

Enamel Repairs

An unusual cement, packaged in a half-ounce fold-up metal tube, simplifies the repair of chipped porcelain and enamel on ranges, refrigerators, sinks, bathtubs and plumbing fixtures. In most cases, one application will fill in the crack. The cement is waterproof and heat-resistant up to 400 degrees F.

ROSEVILLE, Calif. (The) The man deposited $110 for a call to check on the progress of the repair.

"Say buddy, you've been gabbing over an hour," the bored cop finally said.

"I only talked three minutes," the man replied. "My girl talked the rest of the time."

The cop had the last word. The toll, all $14.20, was rung up on the spot.

The first elephant to be exhibited in this country was named "Old Bet" and was shown by a New York farmer in 1815.

One-Family Home Building Set New Record

Construction of single-family homes set a new, all-time record last year by accounting for more than 90 per cent of the 1,329,000 housing starts. This is an 11 per cent increase in one-family units over 1955.

It is the desire for more comfortable family living. Additionally, such features as larger rooms, extra bathrooms with glamorous, colored fixtures, and backyard patios are attracting more families to home ownership.

Here's Help--If You Don't Know Your House Anatomy

It isn't necessary to know all the parts of your house, any more than you can know all the parts of the human body. But a little familiarity with its anatomy is helpful for the prospective remodeler.

This means the structural skeleton is built of lumber. The wood skeleton gives shape, strength and stability to the structure. The wood itself is strong and the various parts can be securely fastened together to give strength in all directions. This type of framework is also resilient under the loads imposed by severe winds or by the shock loads in earthquakes.

Remodeling of old bathroom or adding extra facilities are practical ways of increasing the comfort and value of older homes, says the Plumbing Fixture Manufacturers Association.

Usually, older homes are ideally suited for bathroom modernization. Either there is a large bath which can be compartmented or there is a spare pantry or closet which can be converted into an extra bath or powder room.

Compartmenting the bathroom provides greater utility and convenience since several members of the family may wash or groom at the same time in privacy. A compartmented bath is one in which the bathtub and toilet are enclosed in separate partitions. The lavatory is left out in the open or is replaced with a twin countertop lavatory with cabinet for added storage.

To accommodate a new bath or powder room, an unused pantry or closet should measure at least five feet square. For economy, locate the new bath or powder room as close as possible to the existing plumbing system. This reduces the amount of piping necessary to connect the new fixtures and lowers the cost of installation.

Most home owners know about window and door sills but the main sill in the house consists of pieces of lumber, two to four inches in thickness usually, that anchor the frame of the house to the foundation wall or slab. It is bolted down.

Joists are fastened to the sill. These are the horizontal wooden members that are laid on edge to support the floors. The wood framework in most houses carries more load than it will ever have to bear.

The small pieces of lumber crossing each other in an X pattern between the joists are called cross-bracing. They stiffen the floor and eliminate objectionable vibration.

STUDS ARE THE principal upright members of the house skeleton. They are usually 16 inches square as a strong under-covering

Intercom System Eases Tasks Of Homemakers

How about a kind word for the modern homemaker in these times of superconic living?

She has to be so many things to her family—wife, mother, nurse, cook, baker, laundress, dishwasher, maid, housekeeper, seamstress, butler, gardener, chauffeur, concierge, bookkeeper and companion.

Recognizing that women's chores are endless, builders have been adding more and more modern conveniences to homes to save steps and ease work. One of the newest is a simple intercommunication system that enables the homemaker to answer the front door from any place in the house.

Instead of springing like an Olympic track star every time the door bell rings, she merely flicks a switch to find out who is calling. These new units are built so that they fit between the studs and can easily be mounted flush with the wall of any room such as the kitchen, laundry, bathroom or any bed room. The front door unit is a simple, weatherproof two-way unit that connects with the bell.

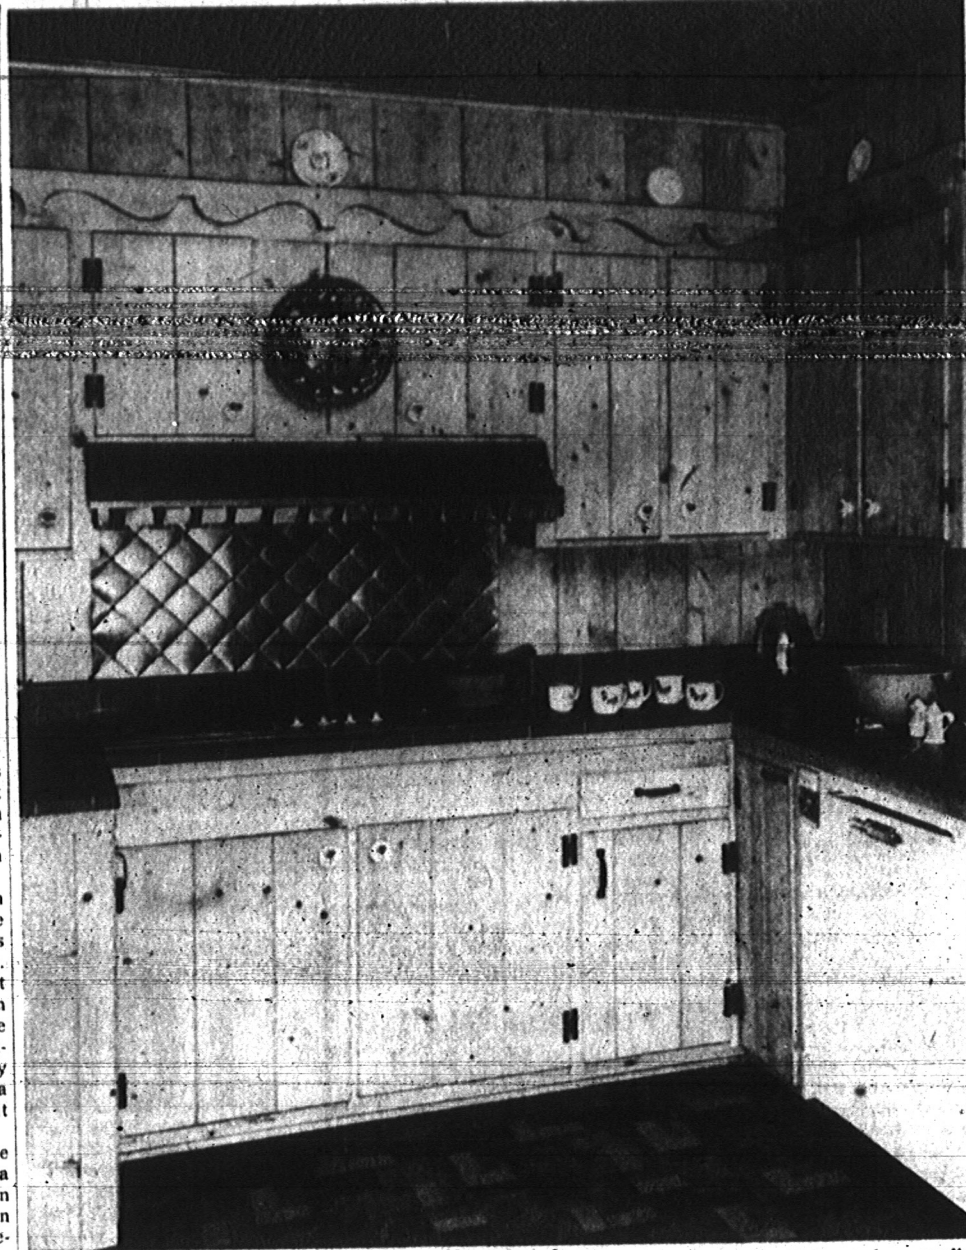

As many as 10 stations can be added for less than the price of a dishwasher so the homemaker can operate her house like the captain of a ship from the kitchen, basement or bedroom "bridge."

Strangely, as it sometimes seems to the breadwinner of the house in the evening, the homemaker gets tired, too, especially if she's been running up and down stairs to answer the door all day.

to which siding and shingles are applied. If the sheathing is applied diagonally, it gives extra strength to the walls.

FRAME CONSTRUCTION provides hollow walls. This hollow framework has several advantages. There is space within the walls for heating ducts or pipes, plumbing and wiring. The hollow spaces also give an area of dead air, which provides good insulation. Frame walls also provide space for maximum use of insulating material in extreme climates.

Wood sheathing is a layer of wood over the house skeleton which

HERE'S HOW new life is given the old kitchen. The natural warmth of western pine paneling banishes the cold look that went with the antiseptic white of the old kitchen; generous cabinet space and the latest in modern appliances assures maximum work-day convenience.

Enough Logs

Sawtimber (timber large enough for saw logs used in lumber manufacturing) amounts to 73 per cent of the nation's total timber supply.

There is enough sawtimber in our forests now to build a six-room house for every man, woman and child in the country—more than 167 million houses with a good deal left over. Annual sawtimber growth has increased 68 per cent since 1945.

Electricity Rates At New Low

The amount the household now pays per kilowatt hour for electricity is the lowest in history.

Back in 1929, residential electricity cost an average of 8.53 cents per kilowatt hour. By 1934 it had dropped to 4 cents.

The main reason the home owner hasn't noticed the decline is that today's home is consuming sharply increased amounts of electricity for many new uses.

Today's home contains new electrical appliances which weren't in general use in 1929—such things as television sets. Many homes today, in fact, have two television sets—one for the children and another for the grownups. Most homes have more than one radio.

THEN THERE ARE millions of homes which since 1929 have been equipped with new automatic washers and dryers, food freezers, larger refrigerators, broilers and electrically-operated oil and gas home heating units.

The all-electric kitchen today is standard equipment in many new houses.

Last year the average home consumed 2,751 kilowatt hours of electricity, or more than five times the 522 kilowatt hours used in 1929.

The increased use in electricity, in fact, has been largely responsible for the lower cost per kilowatt hour.

The average residential bill for electricity last year was $72.63, compared with $31.78 in 1929.

In other words, while household use of electricity has increased more than five-fold since 1929, the bill has less than two and one-half times for the same period.

Best proof of the lower kilowatt hour cost is a look at the electric bill.

Do You Reach For Aspirin In Picking Colors?

Color has more direct effect on human emotions than any other factor in the exterior home environment.

And that, says W. Shrevebury Pusey, Urbana, a nationally known color consultant, is why so many home builders reach for the aspirin when the time comes to select colors for the interior and exterior of a house.

Writing for the National Association of Home Builders Pusey observed:

"Colors, like musical notes, are most effective in combinations. A person cannot usually say that a certain color is his favorite any more than he can favor a specific note on the musical scale. Combinations of musical notes and of colors will please or offend him. This personal reaction to color makes it a builder's job to decide the type of house he will build and in thus shrinking he is admitting the power of color."

PUSEY POINTED out that "people subconsciously feel better when surrounded by colors that flatter them." Thus, he said, blondes prefer cool blue-green walls, brunettes like to be seen near yellows and deep tones, while gray-haired women look best against backgrounds of soft corals and lavenders.

While conceding that women are responsible for most of the color selections and spend more time in their homes than do their husbands, Pusey nevertheless cautioned the stuff side to include enough deep tones and masculine color notes in the decor "to keep the man of the house from feeling like he's in a powder room."

Any color plan, Pusey said, should be well balanced; cheap, garish color combinations should be avoided. Colors should range from cool hues (turquoise, gray, blue, cool green) to warm hues (coral, terracotta, yellow); from light values (ivory, sand beige) to dark tones (browns, apricot blues, deep grays), and should effect a visual balance.

HERE ARE SOME other "color" points which Pusey suggested that home builders and buyers keep in mind:

1. Colors, like musical notes, do not go out of style. A good color design will always be good.

2. To preserve harmony, a house

MORE and MORE alert builders are recognizing the importance of installing quality wood flooring in homes. Of the woods, oak flooring is quite popular. Its mellow beauty lends itself to any type of home furnishings. It is one of the strongest of the heavy hardwoods and has great durability. Oak flooring also possesses considerable insulating value and is quite resilient. A factor of extreme importance to every housewife is that oak flooring is easy to take care of—only an occasional cleaning and waxing, and daily dusting with a dry mop preserves its beauty.

must be treated as a unit, with color schemes and planes of color moving throughout the house—not broken into color cells like dividers in an ice tray.

3. The color treatment of a room actually conveys a temperature message to the occupant. Because warm colors are associated with heat, a person will feel physically warmer in a room painted in coral, salmon or rose; cooler in rooms done in green, blues and grays.

4. Since colors affect emotions (bright, lively colors stimulate; cool colors refresh; subdued colors soothe; and harsh, cold colors depress), kitchens, bathrooms and utility areas should be stimulating; living rooms gracious; and bedrooms restful.

5. The interior scheme must not be insipid or wishy-washy. Contrasts in bold areas achieve interest and available for instant duty.

Did Something About That Cold Bathroom!

Someone has finally done something about "cold" bathrooms! The answer is Bob Schaff, free lance designer, who has developed a new type of bathroom that is warm and cozy, and that is the answer to the problem of cold bathrooms.

That deep freeze clinical look, the trademark of most bathrooms, is missing in the Schaff bathroom. Wood paneling, has defrosted the arctic atmosphere that's a product of the harsh, unfriendly materials characteristic of this room.

Schaff made his Southern pine paneling steam resistant by applying a water-repellent pigmented resin finish. Such treatment may open up a new market for wood in bathroom paneling, according to the National Manufacturers Association and the Southern Pine Association, which helped advise Schaff on the project.

PIGMENTED RESIN FINISHES are this, tinted varnishes in which the amount of coloring pigment has been reduced so that the finish is absorbed by, and becomes part of, the wood. No special priming or other preparation of the wood surface is necessary and the finishes do not obscure the natural beauty and texture of the wood.

For Schaff's purpose, their most important feature was that they seal the pores of the wood against moisture, so prevalent in bathrooms. This sealing permits paneling to throw off moisture without damage to the wood or finish.

To make sure that his bathroom paneling would be completely steam resistant—front and back—Schaff had the wood soaked in a pigmented finish for several hours before it was nailed up. As double insurance and for the pleasing effect, Schaff chose Southern pine that had been manufactured into bevel siding—the same kind you see on the exteriors of many homes.

BEVEL SIDING is nailed up so that each piece slightly overlaps the next. This is to prevent a space from developing between the boards should any expansion of the wood occur. The way in which bevel siding is cut and applied also protects against buckling of the boards if the wood expands.

In one of his bathrooms, Schaff had the bevel siding applied horizontally. In another bathroom, the siding was nailed vertically. The pigmented finishes used on the paneling—white in one room and wheat-tone in the other—bring out all the richness of the wood, highlighting every bit of warmth and color in the grain.

Complementing this is the line-and-draw effect of the bevel siding. The result is just what you'd expect. Schaff's bathrooms have the look of the cold-to-the-touch, cold-to-the-mind trappings of most bathrooms. Instead, they are warm and cozy, and warm colors almost sing out "welcome" to the bathroom caller.

A Cornell study of home buying showed that, in this case, as well as in numerous others, husbands and wives have little notion of what the other's basic housing desires are. "In what they want, from a house," Montgomery said.

Montgomery suggested husband and wife should be "more sensitive" to the different home needs on the question of having enough space so that parents could join the household if necessary, he reported. "In this case, as well as in numerous others, husbands and wives have little notion of what the other's basic housing desires are. "In what they want, from a house," Montgomery said.

Montgomery also said there is growing need for a housing counseling service staffed by personnel capable of helping husbands and wives gain insight into one another's wishes and expectations on the housing market.

Montgomery is a socialist at New York State College of Home Economics at Cornell.

As a result, we're well aware of what over-crowded slums do to family life," he said. "But we aren't as alert to the hazard of the suburban urban areas."

The decision-makers in the home building industry—designers, builders, prefabricators, merchant builders, government officials, and lenders—need to think more of housing in terms of men, women and children.

Metal Window Framing Grows In Popularity

Steel windows, designed and manufactured by the same company, are becoming more popular in new homes. The reason is that they are more durable, more attractive, and more practical than wood windows. They are also more fireproof and more resistant to rot and decay.

The major types of flooring in use today are linoleum, both in roll and tile form, with or without inlaid patterns; asphalt tile, the most popular material with "do-it-yourselfers"; vinyl plastic, in sheet or tile form, and rubber tile.

The proper care of floors has become increasingly important with the turn of the trend from heavy carpeted areas toward more wide-spread use of polished wood and polished tile.

There are three things concerning flooring that the housewife should know:

1. The material of which the flooring is made.

2. Which of the basic types of wax should be used for that material.

3. The best methods of day-to-day care between waxings.

INFORMATION ABOUT the correct wax to use and proper maintenance is available for home owners from every manufacturer. Here are some of the fundamentals outlined by one of the best-known companies for National Home Week.

THE MAINE election is not a trend, but a signal to Republicans to work hard during the next 60 days. Rep. Leslie C. Arends, GOP whip in the U. S. House of Representatives, told young Republicans here Monday night.

"We're going to win in November, of that I'm convinced," said Arends. "But he said 'the chips are down' in a battle to determine 'what philosophy of government we want.'"

"Some interests are trying to do the Republican party's bidding. They already have the bobbies on the Democratic party and then they will write the ticket like they did at Chicago," declared Arends.

"The Chicago reference was to the Democratic national convention. 'Under Republican there's a job today for almost any American who wants to work,' Arends asserted.

"AMERICANS ARE enjoying the kind of prosperity they've never even dreamed of; they're entitled to it; and I want to see them get more of it," continued Arends as he gave a preview of the GOP national campaign scheduled to get underway next week.

Arends contrasted President Eisenhower's administration to what he called "Adlai's frantic appeal for votes."

"And Estes, you can have him," declared Arends. "Not one of his fellow Democratic senators favored him for President," he declared. "I believe I could convince at least one of the most I work and live with," commented Arends.

The meeting was held to discuss plans for a public rally at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Civic Auditorium when a caravan headed by U. S. Sen. Everett McKinck Dirksen will be present. Arends accepted an invitation to serve as toastmaster.

Burns Asks End To Middle East Border Clashes

JERUSALEM (AP)—Maj. Gen. Ezer Weizman, U.S. army chief, has called on both Jordan and Israel to put an end to the series of border incidents that have exploded in the middle of the worsening Arab crisis.

Jordan military sources charged Wednesday that 1,000 Israelis in a fleet of trucks and armored cars blew up a fortified police post and killed 20 Jordanians during a two-hour battle.

THIS ATTACK, one of the most serious along the Jordan-Israeli border in months, was only three miles from where the Israelis claimed six of their soldiers were killed by a Jordan patrol Monday.

The raid was followed by an Israeli report Wednesday night that two Israeli guards near Jordan were killed by infiltrators from Jordan on the road between the Dead Sea and Red Sea. Another guard was missing.

Gen. Burns appealed to both sides to end the "tragic series of events." In a communique he declared that the raid appeared to be "an act of retaliation and has been repeatedly condemned by the Security Council."

However, they expected an FBI laboratory analysis of the child's vital organs and examination of several articles found with the body would definitely establish the time and cause of death. The FBI report was due Friday.

State Atty. Abraham S. Uhlman, heading the inquiry, said this information would complete the report of an autopsy performed about eight hours after the body was recovered.

Sgt. Peine's parachute didn't open. Busch saved him.

"I counted off my four seconds and looked up to see my canopy (parachute) 'chuck' that it wasn't opening. Then I saw Sgt. Peine. I recognized him as he hurtled by. Then his chute hit me in the face. By instinct I grabbed it."

They were part of a 200-man "drop of the 42nd Airborne Corps putting on a display for a personal Defense Department committee."

The two landed on a dirt road. Sgt. Peine, of Bellare, Tex., suffered a head injury. Busch, of Albuquerque, N. M., was uninjured.

The movement started Wednesday when all white children in the school (enrollment 500) walked out after the Gordon children entered classes under protection of 500 National Guardsmen and 60 state troopers. The escort slipped into the community before dawn under the command of Adj. Gen. J. J. B. Williams.

Carry Campaign To People, Ike Tells GOP Chiefs

Wants Large Vote; Nixon Asks Demos To Reject Truman

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower apparently intends to lay stress on his administration's hopes for the future while leaving Vice President Nixon any direct swings at the Democratic opposition.

That pattern for Republican campaigning was laid out here Wednesday at a clover pasture rally of about 500 GOP leaders in Eisenhower's farm estate.

Eisenhower, who said "I feel fine" and looked out the big picture window at the big picture of the future, said he was determined to get every body registered and to the polls on election day.

He feels so nonpartisan about it, he said, that even if the Republicans could convert all the new voters "I'd rather they voted against us than not at all."

Without a word of direct criticism of the Democrats, Eisenhower urged the GOP workers to campaign in every section of the country to make sure that "we stay on the straight road of prosperity, progress and peace."

HE URGED the GOP workers to "change" campaign into a crusade, and predicted November victory if there is enough hard work. "Don't let our people down by writing off as hopeless any contest, by conceding any area," he said. "This is the road to statehood, to make sure that we stay on the straight road of prosperity, progress and peace."

Nixon, in a preview of the 32-state campaign tour he will begin Tuesday, told the Republicans: "You don't win elections on a diet of dishwater and milk toasts."

Signal To Work, Says Rep. Arends

The Maine election is not a trend, but a signal to Republicans to work hard during the next 60 days. Rep. Leslie C. Arends, GOP whip in the U. S. House of Representatives, told young Republicans here Monday night.

"We're going to win in November, of that I'm convinced," said Arends. "But he said 'the chips are down' in a battle to determine 'what philosophy of government we want.'"

"Some interests are trying to do the Republican party's bidding. They already have the bobbies on the Democratic party and then they will write the ticket like they did at Chicago," declared Arends.

"The Chicago reference was to the Democratic national convention. 'Under Republican there's a job today for almost any American who wants to work,' Arends asserted.

"AMERICANS ARE enjoying the kind of prosperity they've never even dreamed of; they're entitled to it; and I want to see them get more of it," continued Arends as he gave a preview of the GOP national campaign scheduled to get underway next week.

Arends contrasted President Eisenhower's administration to what he called "Adlai's frantic appeal for votes."

"And Estes, you
