Reapportionment Makes Cook County Sure Winner

90 To 100 Newcomers Expected To Take Seats In Illinois House

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Republicans and Democrats contend in the November 6 general election for control of the Illinois House of Representatives where a voting majority is a sure thing only for Cook County members, regardless of party.

The history-making county majority is mandatory under the first Illinois reapportionment of legislative districts in 50 years. Thirty house districts are in Cook County and 29 downstate. Downstate continues to dominate the Senate which has only 24 of its 58 districts laid out in Cook County.

THROUGH enlargement of the House from 51 to 59 districts, each with the usual three members, the House has 177 members. To control, either party needs 89 votes, compared to the old figure of 77. In 1955, the GOP had a 77-74 margin.

Under the system abandoned, from 40 to 50 new faces normally would appear each session among the general assemblymen.

Now 90 to 100 newcomers are expected, most of them in the House. It is in the House that the biggest increase in membership comes about. It is in the House that more of the incumbents were dissuaded from seeking reelection in new territories or against fellow House members in whose districts they found themselves.

The fact that 31 of the House districts have contests clouds the outcome of the party struggle for control. In addition, new outlines for some of these districts complicate the outlook for some incumbents seeking reelection. Seventeen of the Contested House districts are in Cook County and 14 downstate.

REPUBLICANS have a slight edge on the basis of assured results in the 28 House Districts without contests. The GOP is certain to elect 43 and the Democrats 41 representatives.

Illustrative of the new position of lawmakers seeking reelection is Speaker Warren L. Wood of Plainfield, a Republican. He formerly served in the 41st District containing Will and DuPage counties. Now he is in the 37th district, embracing Will County alone. Wood is still expected to be successful in his bid for an 11th term.

More to the point of the difficulties which reapportioned created for some former House members is the case of Reed Cutler, 69, Lewistown Republican, seeking reelection after defeat two years ago. He runs against three incumbents of the 1955 General Assembly in a new district.

In his 1952 campaign, Cutler was elected from the 43rd district which comprised Fulton and Knox counties. He lost in 1954 in that same district.

NOW IN THE new 46th district with Fulton, Cass, Mason and Taxewell counties, he faces a stiff race. In the 46th, the only unfamiliar campaign territory to his single Republican and two Democratic opponents is Fulton County. Cutler has three counties in which he must blaze electioneering trails.

Some incumbent House members, confronted with similar situations, chose instead to seek Senate seats.

One candidate for the House is a former senator whose Senate district was reapportioned in a fashion he considered unfavorable, William G. Clark, Chicago Democrat, entered the 16th District list for the House where he had served before entering the Senate. He is unopposed for reelection. Since Clark has two more years to serve in the Senate, his election creates a vacancy. It will probably be filled in a special election.

CANAL ZONE BOMBED BY BRITISH, FRENCH

The Goblins Will Get You!!!

Tonight's the night when the goblins, ghosts and ghouls walk the gloomy streets and scare the living bejeebers out of everyone in sight. Witches will wing their way over house tops riding rustic brooms and silly faced pumpkin heads will light up windows and wink at passers-by. For tonight is Halloween when the reins are dropped on a young child's imagination. Trick-or-treaters will be out by the score knocking on doors and struggling along the streets carrying their booty of fruits, nuts and candy. But beware! The black cat pictured above with his pumpkin head friend gives warning to all — the goblins will get you if you don't watch out. (Journal photo)

Ike To Tell Nation U. S. Mid East Stand

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will go on nationwide television and radio tonight to discuss the Middle East crisis.

This was announced shortly before noon today by the White House which also repeated that the United States is still standing by its pledgé to assist any victim of aggression in the Middle East.

Britain is reported to have informed the U. S. government that it considers the pledge defunct. The pledge bound the United States, Britain and France to work together in the Middle East to preserve peace.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower's talk tonight would be about 15 minutes—beginning at 6 p.m. (CST).

ALL MAJOR NETWORKS are expected to carry it.

Saying the talk would be "a non-political report," Hagerty added that the President would speak from his White House office and discuss "the developing situation in the Middle East."

Hagerty said further Eisenhower will "outline the American position" regarding the tense situation resulting from the Israeli thrust into Egypt on Monday.

Since that time Britain and France have announced plans to place troops in Egypt, and the two governments joined Tuesday in vetoing a U. S. resolution in the United Nations Security Council.

The U. S. resolution called for a cease-fire in Egypt, and for other U. N. member nations to refrain from any use of force in the area.

Hagerty said Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Anthony Eden have exchanged additional personal messages regarding the Middle East situation. The White House announced dispatch of one Eisenhower message to Eden Tuesday. In that one, also addressed to French Premier Guy Mollet, Eisenhower urged both the British and the French to refrain from use of force in the Middle East.

ASKED TODAY whether there was anything to a report that the President had talked to Eden by telephone, Hagerty said there had been no such phone calls.

But he went on to say that the President "has received and sent other personal messages" from and to Eden. Hagerty said some of those messages were exchanged before the one the White House announced Tuesday and some afterward.

Hagerty said Eisenhower has received no reply to the message he dispatched Tuesday to Mollet. He added he would have to check whether Eden had responded to that particular message.

The differences of viewpoint between London and Washington were emphasized by a statement Eden made today in the House of Commons.

He said Britain must protect her own vital interests in the Middle East with or without prior agreement of the United States.

President Plans Philadelphia Campaign Talk

Political Plans Now On Day-To-Day Basis Because Of Fighting

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower decided today to keep an engagement for a major campaign address in Philadelphia Thursday night.

His nationwide television-radio talk there will deal with the Middle East crisis and America's "goals of responsibility to the world."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower kept open the possibility today that he might resume his reelection campaign Thursday by making a scheduled speech in Philadelphia.

But indications were strong that the Middle East crisis, arising from Israel-Egypt fighting and a British-French decision to occupy key posts in the Suez Canal zone, would keep him at the White House.

Definitely canceled was a flying visit which had been scheduled today to Texas, Oklahoma and Tennessee.

THE WHITE HOUSE said he might try to make it some other day before next Tuesday's voting. But press secretary James C. Hagerty said all campaign plans now "are on a day-to-day basis."

The trip to Philadelphia, to address a rally which would be carried nationally by radio and television, would take Eisenhower away from Washington for about 24 hours, perhaps less.

While nobody at the White House would talk about it, the Middle East explosion was heavy with political implications. Peace has been one of Eisenhower's key issues, and Democratic presidential candidate Adlai E. Stevenson already is accusing Eisenhower of misleading the American people with too rosy a view of the Middle East situation.

No Mention Made Of Troops Landing

LONDON (AP)—Britain and France launched air and naval bombing against Egypt's Suez Canal zone today.

The French Defense Ministry in Paris made the announcement on receipt of word from Cyprus, the British island fortress where British and French paratroopers have been poised nearly three months while the Suez crisis simmered.

There was no mention of ground forces.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT said combined aerial and naval bombardments began at 6:40 p. m. Egyptian time (10:40 a. m. CST) against points in the Suez Canal area.

A British - French ultimatum, demanding that Egypt and Israel cease hostilities and that the fighting forces of both sides keep clear of a zone 10 miles on either side of the canal, expired 14 hours earlier. Egypt rejected the ultimatum. Israel accepted it on the condition that Egypt would agree.

The French and British contended fighting on the Sinai Peninsula endangered the canal because of aerial and paratroop activity in the area and thrusts by Israeli armored columns, reported by British Prime Minister Eden to be nearing the canal zone.

Eden told the House of Commons, during angry questioning today by Labor members, that Britain and France intended to carry out their purpose of occupying key canal zone points, including Suez, Port Said and Ismailia.

Despite the open disapproval of the United States of the action, Eden said:

"WE STAND BY what we said and we shall carry it out."

Eden said Britain had to protect her own vital interests in the Middle East with or without U.S. agreement.

Announcements from both Cairo and Tel Aviv, the Israeli army headquarters, indicated heavy

Adlai Critical Of GOP Policy In Middle East

Claims Troops Should Have Been Used To Guard Border Areas

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Adlai E. Stevenson Tuesday night took his Democratic presidential campaign toward New York City today after voicing criticism of the Republican policy in the Middle East here Tuesday night.

He recalled that on Armistice Day last year, he pointed to the "danger of all-out war" between Israel and Egypt in a speech he delivered at Charlottesville, Va.

Stevenson said in that 1955 speech that the only way to avoid bloodshed was to keep the troops of the two nations "apart." He suggested the United Nations achieve this by having guards patrol "the areas of tension and collision."

Stevenson's address over a statewide television hookup from a fieldhouse on the University of Pennsylvania campus capped a day in which he drew good crowds at Baltimore, Camden, N. J., and here.

He planned to take a train from Philadelphia today for New York City, where he was to speak at a midtown rally, a box lunch of Democratic ladies, and a meeting in Union Square. He will then fly to Pittsburgh for a statewide telecast tonight, his final Pennsylvania appearance.

Stevenson devoted most of his speech Tuesday night to an attack on the "phoneyness" of the Republican campaign, and on pres-

Russians Leaving Budapest, Free Cardinal Mindszenty

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — The Russian retreat from Budapest appeared in full swing today. Soviet tanks — leaving their dead and wounded — headed away under a shower of leaflets from Hungarian air force planes threatening to bomb them if they jarried.

Russian armored forces guarding the Danube River bridges withdrew at dawn. Others fell into the lines of retreat throughout the morning.

THE HUNGARIAN army, now completely on the side of the revolution, trucked in fresh platoons to relieve street patrols of the ragged insurgents. The army took over the citadel, a fortress commanding the entire city, and ringed it with antitank guns.

Rebel anger which had been directed against the Russians was channeled entirely for the moment against remnants of the equally detested AVH, the Red Hungarian secret police.

Vengeance hunts for the members of the AVH, which Premier Imre Nagy's government has ordered dissolved, developed all over the revolt-torn city.

Unofficial Hungarian sources said 130 secret policemen, captured Tuesday in a battle for Budapest's Communist party headquarters, were hanged by their heels and beaten to death. A precinct party headquarters was a prime target in the street fighting today.

Expunging of Soviet signs was accelerated with the government's announcement of its decision to end the one-party dictatorship and revive the multiparty governmental system that prevailed before the Reds took over in 1948.

THE RED ARMY memorial—a statue of a Russian infantryman —was toppled from its stand. Workmen chipped the stone hammer-and-sickle emblems from the Danube bridges. Giant metal Red stars ripped from the building fronts littered the streets.

The swirling events brought the liberation of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty by revolutionary troops. The Cardinal returned to the capital today and received a tumultuous welcome after he was spotted being driven through the streets.

Crowds poured out to hail the church leader.

The official Hungarian news agency had earlier announced the cardinal was freed Tuesday night from a jail at Felsopetheny and was en route to Budapest.

East Germans Nab 73 Anti-Reds; Hope To Block Rebellion

BERLIN (UP) — East Germany announced today the arrests of 73 anti-Communists in an apparent effort to prevent any Hungarian-type revolt from exploding against the Soviet-dominated Red German regime.

The Communists said the arrested Germans were "Western spies," the usual Red terminology for anti-Communists.

The arrests were believed designed to round up the potential leaders of a resistance movement and thus nip in the bud any plans for a revolt.

A West Berlin newspaper said the German Communists are purging the ranks of their secret police as a precautionary measure. Der Abend said a "wave of arrests" had been made and that "several leading officials" were among those seized.

The simmering unrest among East German students was pointed up today with disclosure of demands for an end to the compulsory study of Marxism in universities and attacks on communism.

Reds Disclose New Policy For Satellites

MOSCOW (AP)—In major policy shift, the Soviet Union says it wants all the Communist countries to be completely sovereign and is willing to talk about the disposition of Soviet troops in three of them.

An unusual declaration issued by the government Tuesday night was interpreted by diplomatic observers as indicating Moscow was seeking a graceful way out of an increasingly embarrassing situation within the Communist camp.

In conciliatory tones, it promised that the Soviet army will evacuate Budapest "as soon as this is considered necessary by the Hungarian government."

It also acknowledged that "the further presence of Soviet armed units in Hungary may cause even further aggravation of the situation."

The declaration said there are Soviet units in only three of the "peoples' democracies," Hungary, Romania and Poland.

IT WENT ON:

"With a view to insuring mutual security . . . the Soviet government is ready to examine with other Socialist countries participating in the Warsaw Treaty the question of Soviet troops stationed on the territory of the above-mentioned countries."

The Soviet troops in Poland, Hungary and Romania are there under terms of the Warsaw Pact, a Russian-commanded mutual defense alliance formed last year by the Soviet Union and her East European allies.

Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov told Western correspondents Tuesday night all the pact members would have to agree to the withdrawal of Soviet troops from Hungary, a major demand of the rebels there.

There was no mention in last night's declaration of Soviet troops in East Germany.

U.S. Weather Station Set Down At Pole

OVER THE SOUTH POLE (Delayed) (AP)—American airmen planted an automatic weather station at the South Pole today.

The device, a six-foot-long equipment-filled container nick-named "The Grasshopper," was dropped by parachute from an Air Force Globemaster in the first airdrop ever made at the pole.

Made of stainless steel, The Grasshopper has legs that automatically hoisted it upright after it touched the ice plateau. It will transmit weather data every six hours for the benefit of fliers participating in Operation Deepfreeze in Antarctica.

The Globemaster also dropped 18 barrels of fuel oil by parachute, the first of some 500 tons of supplies to be parachuted for a Navy expedition that will build the camp at the bottom of the world.

THE BARRELS ALSO will provide a radar target for other planes flying to the polar station.

Lt. Richard A. Bowers of Quonset, R. I., a young Navy engineer, will head a party of 24 men that will fly to the plateau in a smaller ski plane soon to build the base. He tried to pick out a landing spot during today's flight.

Catholic Property Restored By Poles

WARSAW (UP)—Poland's new "independent" Communist regime has reported preparing today a purge of high-ranking Soviet officers from the Polish armed forces and the restoration to the Catholic Church of all property confiscated by the old Red government.

Wladyslaw Gomulka announced the twin objectives Tuesday to a group of youth leaders.

The new Polish Communist leader said Soviet officers already have been weeded out from the nation's security forces and also will be relieved.

Illinois Blue Ballot Pros And Cons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

What is the blue ballot?

Why is it endorsed by many civic groups, and opposed strongly by the state's principal business groups, with labor and farm groups on both sides of the fence?

The blue ballot, itself, isn't an issue. But it is a handy name for the single proposal it contains—to change the revenue article of the Illinois state constitution.

THIS CHANGE will become law if two thirds of the Illinois voters who vote on it at the Nov. 6 election mark their X's in the "Yes" square of the blue ballot, or if more than half of all voters taking part in the general election vote yes on the blue ballot.

The amendment would remove the present constitutional provision for a uniform tax on personal property, and permit the Legislature to make changes in the state's tax system.

The amendment does not enact any new taxes and does not set tax rates. It does specifically prohibit the enactment of any graduated state income tax, such as the federal income tax. And it does give the Legislature authority to change provisions of the present personal property tax law.

Whether or not the blue ballot amendment is approved by the voters, the Legislature has and will continue to have the authority to pass new taxes. Without the constitutional change proposed in the referendum, however, the General Assembly could not levy any tax on such products of earnings from real estate as come from natural gas, oil, coal, or lumber cut from Illinois woodlots.

THE PROPOSED new tax article deals with these so-called separation taxes by specifying that they may be adopted if the Legislature wants to pass on them. A part of the revised article would exempt woodlots from taxation during the period in which they were used for the growing of timber, and until trees were cut on them. However, the cut timber could be taxed.

Proponents of the constitutional change say that its greatest value would lie in the new authority it would give the Legislature to make the property tax realistic.

The tax is now applied inadequately to some types of property, especially holdings of stocks and bonds, and to bank accounts. Theoretically, taxes are collected at a single rate from these intangible properties on the same valuation assessment as is used for real estate and automobiles.

A piano, or a valuable antique, neither of which may be an earning asset for the owner, is taxed at the same rate as an industrial tool of the same value, which may earn several times its own value in a year.

THE AMENDMENT would let the Legislature establish classes of property, and tax each class in a different way. For example, backers of the amendment say, antiques and jewelry could be taxed at a low rate; bank accounts could be taxed on a percentage of the interest they earn, if any. They say these things are not taxed now, and would bring in new revenue, enabling lower rates to be set on real estate, which now bears the brunt of the tax burden.

Opponents of the amendment say that intangibles have never proven good tax income sources, and taxes on them can't be applied effectively.

Two persons were taken to St. Mary's Hospital Wednesday evening by the Kankakee fire department inhalator squad.

James Hartline, 33, suffered a back injury when he fell down the basement stairs in the Church of the Nazarene, 495 Fairmount Ave. He was reported in good condition.

Clara Haggard, 47, of 416½ S. Schuyler Ave., was taken to the hospital in the emergency truck after being administered one tank of oxygen for respiratory difficulty.

Pleads Innocent To Driving After License Revoked

A plea of innocent to driving a car after his license was revoked was entered here this morning on behalf of Lee Bell, 46, RR 1, Chebanse.

His attorney entered the plea before County Judge Irwin C. Taylor. Taylor set the case for Nov. 23. Bell is accused of driving after his license was revoked last June for operating a car while under the influence of liquor.

Arends To Address Fourth Ward Men Thursday

Fourth Ward men will be guests at a smoker and meeting at which Congressman Leslie C. Arends will speak at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Moonlight Garden restaurant, 756 W. Jeffery St.

The Fourth Ward event, held before each major election the past number of years, has grown into a traditional "windup" of the election campaign for Republican candidates in this area.

Committeemen of the Fourth Ward's three precincts are sponsors of the meeting. They are Sen. Victor McBroom of the first precinct, W. A. Yates of the second precinct, and Clyde Schierholz of the third precinct. They are assisted by the junior committeemen of the ward, Edward McBroom, Morris Yates and Harold Einfeldt.

"All men voters of the Fourth Ward precincts are invited to the meeting," Sen. McBroom said today. Actually, he pointed out, the Fourth Ward precincts take in more than the actual ward boundaries, extending on the south and west to the township line.

In addition to Congressman Arends and Sen. McBroom, GOP candidates who will be introduced at the meeting are: Louis E. Beckman for representative; Frank W. Curran for state's attorney, Herbert Hess for Circuit Court clerk, William Maitland for county recorder of deeds, and William Spillane for coroner.

Refreshments will be served after the candidates are introduced.

Bostonians, and tourists, always enjoy luncheon and dinner at the unusually attractive Country Fare, located at Queen Ann's Corner in Hingham, Mass. One of their specialties is "Country Fare Chicken," served with spoon bread. Here is their unique recipe, and you've never tasted chicken prepared as crisp, tender and juicy as this:

For each serving, roll ½ broiler chicken in flour and place in baking pan of glass or china oven ware. Pour ½ cup salad oil over each ½ broiler; sprinkle with a teaspoon of paprika, 1 teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon chopped onions. Let chicken stand for 24 hours in this mixture. Keep under refrigeration until a couple of hours before using. Bake for 45 minutes, or until brown, in 400 F. oven.

Seek Way To Cut Cost Of New Bradley School

The Bradley grade school board will meet Nov. 9 to try to squeeze the cost of the new West Bradley School down to the amount of money available from the district's building bond issue.

Bids were opened Tuesday night on the new school and on remodeling the old grade school gymnasium.

The low proposal was a combination bid of $427,209 submitted by Tudor Construction Co. of Rockland. This covered general construction, and electrical, plumbing and heating work on both projects.

The bid was $5,215 lower than the total of the lowest bids by contractors bidding separately on the four items.

Deducting the amount of the gym remodeling and all alternates on the new school brings the construction cost of the new building to $371,126, according to architect Arthur Hennighausen.

Equipment of about $20,000 and the 6 per cent architect's fees would bring the total cost to $413,336, Hennighausen told the board.

THE DISTRICT has $375,000 set up in its bond issue for the new school and $25,000 for remodeling the old gymnasium. The bond issue was approved last spring.

The board instructed Hennighausen to meet with Tudor to discuss additional ways to reduce the cost without reducing the basic quality of the structure.

Hennighausen said he will prepare a list of possible alternates the board can decide which ones it wants to take.

School Treasurer Omer Tetrault said the district may have about $10,000 more available because of interest drawn by money received from the school bonds. The money has been invested in U. S. government securities until it is actually expended for construction, Tetrault reported.

Tudor Construction Co. was the contractor on the East Bradley school and currently is completing three grade schools for Kankakee District 111. The West building will be similar to that in East Bradley.

THE LETTING WAS the second on the construction program, all bids opened Oct. 2 having been rejected as too high.

Hennighausen said there would be no further point in holding another letting. He said construction costs have risen since the estimates for the bond issue were made. Some bids received Tuesday night were higher than the ones received Oct. 2, according to school board members.

IHC To Close District Sales Office Here

International Harvester will discontinue operation of its Kankakee farm equipment district sales office here Thursday. The announcement was made by J. C. Christensen of Chicago, the company's farm equipment central regional sales manager.

Harvester employs 53 people at the local district. Christensen said most of them will be offered an opportunity to transfer to other Harvester operations, but added that it is possible some will not want to leave Kankakee.

"The company will be glad to help these employes find new jobs and will be happy to talk to other Kankakee employers about them at any time," he said.

The territory served by the district office here will be consolidated with the Broadview, Peoria and Springfield, Ill., and Indianapolis, Ind., farm equipment district offices. Most of the territory will be transferred to Broadview where Harvester operates a multimillion dollar product distribution center.

CLOSING OF THE district office here will not affect operation of Harvester's International motor truck sales and service branch at Route 54 and Grinnell Rd., Christensen said. The branch, under the management of Granger Barron, will continue to handle the sale and service of International motor trucks throughout the Kankakee area.

Christensen explained that the consolidation of this territory with adjoining ones is part of a product distribution modernization program developed by Harvester following the end of World War II. He said larger product inventories are now being carried at fewer but larger distribution facilities.

HARVESTER WILL continue to use its district office facility here as a machine warehouse and transfer for some time, Christensen added. A number of district office employes will remain in Kankakee to operate the warehouse.

Christensen concluded, "We want to emphasize that the decision to discontinue our Kankakee district operations should in no way reflect upon Kankakee as a city or as a business center.

"We hope Harvester and its people to be a fine place in which to do business and a wonderful city in which to live.

We hope Harvester and its people have been able to make some contribution to the welfare of such a fine city during past years."

Nixon Sees Adlai As Indecisive; Kefauver Assails Farm Program

By UNITED PRESS

Vice President Richard M. Nixon has accused Adlai E. Stevenson of playing politics with the Middle East crisis and challenged him to say how he would have prevented it.

Nixon was obviously nettled by Stevenson's criticism of the administration's Middle East policies.

Nixon said that the tense international situation created by Israel's attack on Egypt makes it more imperative that President Eisenhower be continued at the helm of government.

HE CHALLENGED Stevenson to tell the American people what he would have done — had he been in the White House — to prevent the Israeli-Egyptian crisis.

"I do not expect he will give a direct answer to these questions," Nixon said. "He is an indecisive 'how-not-to-do-it-man,' a pathetic Hamlet on the American political stage."

Nixon flew East today for his campaign windup. His bitter attack on the Democratic nominee in San Diego Tuesday night was his final bid for California's 32 electoral votes.

He scheduled one speech in Detroit and three in New York City today. He boards a campaign train tonight for a final whistle-stop tour of Pennsylvania and Ohio. His final campaign push will take him into four states that will cast almost one fourth of the total electoral votes in next Tuesday's election.

IN MICHIGAN, the Democratic vice presidential nominee's weary entourage began an intensive one-day drive for Michigan's 20 electoral votes. It was part of Sen Estes Kefauver's home stretch drive to help Democratic presidential nominee Adlai E. Stevenson when he's his particular talents pulled the most weight.

He cancelled a mid-morning press conference at Battle Creek, where he flew Tuesday night from Illinois, to further study latest reports from the troubled Middle East.

However, Kefauver did not let up his attack on the GOP. In a speech prepared for delivery to a Democratic rally at Battle Creek, he said confidently that "I am sure that farmers see through the recent Republican efforts to buy their votes and the complete political nature of yesterday's announcement of a federal pork purchasing program."

Halloween Event Has Religious Background

Halloween is the evening (the even or e'en) of All Saints Day, which falls on November 1. The word is a contraction of "Hallows Even" or the eve of the feast of Allhallow, which is the English way of saying All Saints.

All Saints Day is a part of our religious heritage since the occasion commemorates, in the churches which observe it, those persons who have been distinguished in personal Christian character down through the ages and who are not otherwise remembered during the church year.

Halloween is known today, however, more as a superstitious rather than as a religious occasion. This comes from the influence centuries ago of the great autumn celebration of the Druids, the priestly order of ancient Celtic peoples.

Among the ancient Celts of what is now known as England, Halloween was the last day of the year. It was then that Saman, the lord of death, summoned all the wicked whose souls had been condemned to inhabit the bodies of animals in the preceding year.

While great bonfires gave thanks to the sun god for the harvest and also warded off malevolent spirits, wrongs were brought up for settlement and criminals for judgment.

Fires now burn in jack o'lanterns and the old harvest rites are now symbolized in the ears of corn, the pumpkins, the apples on a stick. There is probably no one any more who uses the ancient Welsh litany, at Halloween, to be delivered "from ghoulies and ghosties, long-leggety beasties and Things that go bump in the night."

We might remember, however, that there will be many small children abroad at night, many of them on bicycles, and under the spell of a holiday they may be careless on the streets. That traffic hazard is today the real bogie of Halloween.

Ike Asks Election Of Those Who Support Him

JOLIET HERALD-NEWS

American voters will do much more on November 6 than select the men and women who will administer the affairs of the country. They will also select the principles which will guide this administration. And it is the political parties which provide the permanent means to express and advance these principles of government.

There is a wide, unbreachable gulf between the principles of the Republican Party and those of the Democratic Party.

A vivid demonstration of this was provided by Dwight D. Eisenhower. At the eve of his long military career, he had the chance to choose the political party whose principles and record he approved. Unhesitatingly he chose the Republican Party.

The GOP's basic philosophy was adopted at the party's first convention of July 6, 1854, when it dedicated itself to protect basic human rights, the principles of free enterprise and the essential dignity of man.

The Republican Party's basic principles were so sound that it elected its own president within six years of its founding. Also Abraham Lincoln was able to make many of his party's principles a reality because he had Republican support in Congress, in state houses and at the local level.

The nation is now prosperous and at peace. But it faces many challenges, internal and external. It has another great Republican president, a man of Lincoln's stature. Like Lincoln, President Eisenhower needs Republicans in elected offices to give him their support.

President Eisenhower has asked the voters to give him that Republican support.

Leaves Can Be Saved For Fertilizer Uses

Informed gardeners know that burning leaves, so common at this time of year, is a wasteful violation of the principles of conservation. Dead leaves are nature's way of replenishing the soil.

It is correct that the leaves will smother the lawn unless they are removed or pulverized by one of the gadgets now available for that purpose. Instead of being burned, however, they may be put in a compost bin and left to decay, which may be hurried by chemicals. The compost is excellent for gardens and flower beds.

Many thousands of dollars worth of valuable fertilizer is burned at this time of year. Some day the city may be able to provide a pickup service for leaves and pay for it, in part, by the sale of rich compost made from the leaves.

How Much Freedom For Hungarians

The popular demonstrations and revolts in Poland and Hungary have succeeded in getting Kremlin puppets ousted from the Communist governments in these two countries and in substituting Titoist-type Red leaders dedicated to national independence under regimes of national communism."

John B. Crane

This represents a clear gain for collective freedom from Russian colonial exploitation and means, if continued, that Russia must accept Poland and Hungary as nationally sovereign states to be treated as equals in the formulation of future policies affecting all of central and eastern Europe.

Even if this be granted, however, there is no assurance that the peoples of Poland and Hungary, as individuals, will succeed in achieving the foreseeable future any real democratic freedoms or civil liberties such as prevail in the West. For a national communist government can be as repressive and totlitarian as one which takes its orders from a foreign tyrant or a collective group of foreign tyrants.

IN FACT, IT IS possible for a "national communist" or national socialist regime to be even more ruthless over its subjects than if they were ruled by a foreign power, since people are more likely to give their allegiance to a domestic, than to a foreign, dictator. Nazi Germany was a striking example.

Yet in the case of Poland and Hungary it appears likely, in view of recent events, that peace and order can be fully restored only by the new national communist governments promising certain major domestic reforms which the preceding "Stalinist" regimes were too short-sighted to introduce in time to forestall the explosions which have taken place.

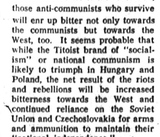
Recent events in Hungary suggest that there might have been a possibility of throwing off not only Russian domination but even the yoke of national communism, if the West had been prepared to come to the aid of the anti-communist rebels with arms and troops.

AS THIS IS WRITTEN, however, there appears slight hope of an anti-communist revolt succeeding in Hungary. For this small country is almost entirely surrounded by other, larger communist states and has a common boundary with Russia on the northeast. Only for a short distance on the west does it have a common boundary with Austria, which is non-communist and pledged to neutrality.

Under such circumstances, it is easy for other communist states to come to the aid of the national communist government in Hungary with both arms and troops. But how can non-communist nations get adequate arms and troops into Hungary? Only by crossing the territory of neighboring communist states, which would almost certainly result in a full-scale European war.

ALTHOUGH THE ATTEMPT at revolution by anti-communists in Hungary by some miracle may succeed, it appears to me almost certainly doomed to fail. For unarmed anti-communists can do little, while armed ones will soon run out of ammunition. Where can they get replacements to keep fighting if the West, as at present, refuses to come to their aid?

With the failure of the revolution, those anti-communists who survive will end up bitter not only towards the communists but towards the West, too. It seems probable that while the Titoist brand of "socialism" or national communism is likely to triumph in Hungary and Poland, the net result of the riots and rebellions will be increased bitterness towards the West and continued reliance on the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia for arms and ammunition to maintain their "national independence."



When you are going to serve a dessert topped with whipped cream, chill the bowl in which you will whip the cream first and the cream will whip more quickly.

FISHERMAN'S LUCK

Doubt Unshackled Satellites To Become Democracies

By UNITED PRESS

The countries of Eastern Europe seem to be heading toward a new period in their political evolution.

The revolts in Hungary and Poland against Soviet Russian domination have assumed historic significance.

It even appears quite possible that, within a few years, communism itself may well lose out in some of the countries which have been under Red rule since the end of World War II.

If that happens, a new question will arise: What sort of governments will replace the Communist dictatorships?

They would not necessarily all become real democracies.

It is a notable fact that in none of the countries concerned is there any deep background of democratic self-rule.

BEFORE WORLD WAR II, Albania, Bulgaria and Romania were monarchies. So was Yugoslavia, now under Communist rule though no longer a Russian satellite.

Hungary was a kingdom without a king, under the rule of Adm. Nicholas Horthy as regent. Its government became increasingly authoritarian along Fascist lines.

East Germany, after some years as part of the unstable Weimar Republic, became a part of Hitler's Nazi dictatorship.

Poland and Czechoslovakia were republics. Poland, however, became a virtual dictatorship. Czechoslovakia alone had a stable democratic government.

The lack of deep democratic background is emphasized when it is remembered that until the end of World War I every one of the countries concerned was a monarchy or part of a monarchy.

It is pretty certain that if some of the satellite countries freed themselves of Communist rule they would turn into dictatorships of one kind or another. Those which did not would be likely to follow the multi-party system of parliamentary government which has made politics so turbulent in France.

IT IS A CURIOUS PART of the European political picture that, aside from Switzerland, most of the countries which are really stable are monarchies—The Netherlands, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Belgium and Great Britain, which does not regard itself as part of Europe.

It is curious also that Americans, who regard themselves as citizens of a new country, seldom stop to think that politically the United States is an old one.

Of the great powers of Europe, Britain alone has a democratic constitutional system older than that of the United States. France's birth as a republic followed that of America. Until World War I, Russia and Germany were autocratic monarchies. Italy became a republic only after World War II.

The people of Eastern Europe have still to acquire, by experience, the political education which is necessary for democratic self-rule.

It is likely to take them a long time. But, at least, their freedom from the ugly pestilence of communism would be a gigantic step forward.

Let's Explore Your Mind

1. ARE MARRIED WOMEN MORE EMOTIONAL THAN SINGLE WOMEN? YES ☐ NO ☐

2. ARE PEOPLE SOMETIMES HUNGRY WITHOUT KNOWING IT? YES ☐ NO ☐

3. EVERYONE SHOULD PLAN TIME WHEN HE CAN BE ALONE. TRUE ☐ FALSE ☐

10-31

Answer to Question No. 1

Apparently yes. One psychologist, by technical methods, studied the "emotionally" of 1,400 persons—married and single, ages 15 to 75. Each answered 40 penetrating questions, such as being happy,. depressed, self-confident, etc. The married women were more emotional than the single at all ages except in the early sixties, where they were very much alike. The findings did not indicate whether emotional women tended more to attract husbands, or calmer women didn't want husbands, or whether married life made wives more emotional.

Answer to Question No. 2

Yes. Psychologist D. O. Hebb, Magill University (Canada), in his very important book for students, "Organization of Behavior," shows that if a person has been eating on a regular schedule, and circumstances force him to eat irregularly, he often develops a headache and becomes irritable. He is hungry without realizing it. Dr. Hebb showed that unbalanced diets and irregular food habits often cause restlessness and irritability without the person realizing the cause.

Answer to Question No. 3

True, says the Rev. John Homer Miller. "People who do not take time to be alone," he says (paraphrased), "are shallow in their thinking and living. They are like the woman who chatters as though she were about to give way to hysteria and yet, saying nothing of importance." My doctor, L. B. MacKenzie, 'and his wife agreed before marriage that they would "allow each other their hours of solitude." An inspiring understanding of life and love!

Prisoners Of The Past

John Emmet Hughes, who writes speeches for President Eisenhower, wrote one for himself and delivered it at the Republican convention. A paragraph or two of that speech become particularly pertinent at this moment when it would seem, although we shall not know for sure until the votes are in, that while President Eisenhower is managing to elect himself, it does not appear that he can make over the Republican party in his image.

Hughes, in his speech, asked this question:

". . . which party seems less a prisoner of the past—and more a wise master of the future? . . ."

It is a very young question. Every young man and woman is a Marco Polo rediscovering what was always there. Youth attempts, in each generation, to disassociate itself from its past, only to find, as it grows into maturity, that the past is ever-present and cumulative. It is not so much a question of being a prisoner of the past, as needing to adjust oneself to the fact that at least four generations are currently alive in this country and that the elders grow more numerous as medicine and science keep them alive longer and that they have memories of a more comfortable era which their successors may never know.

G. Sokolsky

AND THEN THERE IS THE in-between generation those who experienced the flapper age, the great inflation, the great depression and finally the sight of their sons going off to war as they had done a generation ago. History does not understand that these two generations are no more prisoners of the past than he is, but they have lived through a whole set of different experiences than he has to date. Most of them, if they were in the Republican party in 1932, supported Robert A. Taft rather than Dwight D. Eisenhower, because they believed that Taft more closely represented traditional Republican liberalism than Eisenhower did. They interpreted liberalism in the 19th century sense as a recognition of an increasing right of the individual human being to form the pattern of his life without hinderance by government.

This element of the Republican party lost in 1932; its leader, Robert A. Taft, died. The conservative Republicans, as most of them prefer to be designated, accepted the Eisenhower victory as a fact and hoped for the best.

Hughes says:

". . . two decades or more ago, this Republican party seemed to us a great institution grown weary in spirit and weak in condition. Zeal and imagination flourished elsewhere. . . ."

WHAT HUGHES UNDOUBTEDLY means is that the New Deal was more spectacular; more exciting, more stimulating than conservative Republicanism prior to Eisenhower. If it was the spectacular, the exciting, the stimulating that one wanted in the 1930s up to 1945, to take a date, the Communist party offered even greater attractions, and the fact is that some of our brightest young men and women, some of our best trained minds moved in that direction.

But if one sought a continuity of American tradition, if one believed that the constitutional system could be adjusted to any circumstances of life, if one recognized that even the most hopeful revolution develops its own inadequacies, then conservative Republicanism offered a program which attracted the largest number of Republicans.

They were not enough to elect a president, but they maintained a strong voice in the United States Senate.

IT IS ALWAYS EXCITING to read the philosphy of the next generation, particularly of the impatient next generation whose hooves are beating on one's heels. My generation which reached its manhood during World War I sought liberty for all mankind; it sought for government by choice; it believed in all sorts of ideals from the mutual aid of Prince Kropotkin to the social service Christianity of the YMCA. It did not worship a man as a god. Neither Theodore Roosevelt nor Woodrow Wilson was what today is called leadership. They were Presidents. Later the word, leadership, appeared in Europe, in Italy and Germany, and in time everywhere and in a sense it is a bad word because it puts a man, an individual, a mortal person, above principles of life. However, each generation finds its own philosophy and its own follies. The word, precident, for an American, is more accurate than the word, leader, which can be translated into the German as fuehrer and into Italian as duce.

Is Boric Acid Safe?

By H. N. Bundesen, M.D.

There's been a lot of talk, from time to time, about the hazards of using boric acid. So let's set a few things straight right now.

Boric acid is a chemical known for more than 1,200 years. American doctors have been using it for about the last 75 years.

As infants, virtually all of you, I dare say, were dusted with boracid baby powder.

Boric acid is a powder. Boric acid ointments contain ten per cent and borated baby powders contain 5 per cent.

It has been widely used in American homes in one form or another for years. Generally, it's used as an eyewash, in a soak or wet dressing for treating skin inflammations and as a diaper rinse.

It's also used in foot powders to treate athlete's foot and in borated powders to neutralize alkaline products which might be caused by bacterial growth.

With such widespread use, some cases of poisoning, of course, have occurred. But they are relatively few.

In 1953 a survey disclosed that only 60 deaths were attributed to boric acid since 1880. And those figures are for the entire world, not merely the U.S.

In our country in the past 25 years, there have been eleven deaths by absorption of boric acid.

In a detailed report on the safety of boric acid, Dr. Russell S. Fisher points out in the American Medical Association's magazine, "Today's Health," that in 1952 alone aspirin and related compounds resulted in 113 deaths. Most of these happened, he says, because youngsters mistakenly took the medicine as candy.

The boric acid deaths, also, he observes, obviously were caused by misuse or carelessness.

Various surveys, he adds, have proven the safety of boric acid and borated powders. One of these was conducted by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

Of course, boric acid shouldn't be eaten or drunk. While you may consume a small amount when using the solution as an eyewash, it won't be enough to harm you.

As for external use, never apply full-strength boric acid to infant's skin. You've got to be careful when using it on adults, too.

The chemical might be absorbed through denuded areas if continuous dressings or ointments are applied over large sections of inflamed or broken skin.

If used properly, however, boric acid is perfectly safe.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

S.M.: Is it true that all people who have tetanus or lockjaw die?

Answer: With recent methods of treatment, in which the newer antispasmodics and antibiotics are used, the death rate has been greatly reduced.

V.G.: Is the dust from a broken fluorescent light bulb dangerous?

Answer: In the past, dust from a broken fluorescent bulb contained a metal known as beryllium. This beryllium can cause damage to the lungs and other organs of the body if it is inhaled.

However, since 1949, this metal has not been used in the manufacture of fluorescent light bulbs.

Investors Clubs Described To Lions Club

Investors clubs are "definitely a vital social force in the United States today," a representative of an investment firm asserted here Monday.

There are 10,000 of them in the nation, Hilbert Nickel of Kankakee, who is with Francis I. DuPont and Co., told Lions Club members.

Nickel also is a professor of corporate finance and investment at the Gary branch of Indiana University.

An investment club is a group of individuals who organize to learn about the stock market by actually investing in it.

Each member puts in a specified amount each month—usually ranging from $10 up to $100, depending on the club.

THE CLUB VOTES which stock or bonds it will purchase each month.

The voting is based on committee studies of the general stock market, specific industries, and promising individual stocks within an industry.

The club shouldn't be too large, possibly not over 20, Nickel said. A bridge club or any group with a common interest can serve as a nucleus.

Clubs, however, should select only members who will stick with the investment plan and can afford it, he cautioned.

Usually the dividends paid on securities held by the club are accumulated for five years or so before any division is made among the members.

Very few clubs invest in fixed income securities such as bonds because "there is no fun to it," according to Nickel.

Prospective buyers on the stock market should ask themselves "Why do I want to invest?" said Nickel, discussing the market in general: The usual answer of: "I want to make some money," leaves a lot to be desired, he declared.

THE INVESTOR MUST first decide what he wants his investment to do for him, and how much of a risk he wants to assume.

Nickel listed three general categories of investments:

1—U. S. Treasury bonds (3 per cent) and tax exempt municipal bonds for investors demanding only low returns with maximum security.

2—High grade stocks yielding 5 or 6 per cent.

3 "Growth" securities—common stocks—for those who want to speculate on their investment.

There is no such thing as an investment without any risk, Nickel asserted.

Those who buy investments paying a fixed return run "purchasing power risk," even on government bonds, he said. Over a number of years the purchasing power of the fixed return may decrease, he pointed out.

There is "very little" risk attached to the second category of high grade stocks, according to Nickel.

INVESTORS BUYING "growth" stocks must be prepared to assume "quite a little risk," according to Nickel. But he said the growth of some such stocks has been "little short of fantastic" in recent years. He listed some with growths ranging up to 282 per cent in the past three years.

These common stocks, said Nickel, are the only investment "that is available as protection against inflation." "Inflation is here to stay," he declared, regardless of which political power is in power.

Because of this, he said every investor's portfolio today should be balanced, with a "majority in good quality growth stocks."

Marvin Huot introduced the speaker.

Missionary Is Community Day Speaker

Miss Esther Salzman, missionary nurse, will be guest speaker at the United Brethren Church Women's World Community Day observance Friday.

Fifteen Protestant churches of the Kankakee area will take part in the program, starting at 9:30 a. m., in the Bourbonnais St. John's Evangelical and Reformed Church.

Miss Salzman

Miss Salzman, dean of the college of nursing, Central Philippine University, Iloilo, is home on a one-year furlough.

After graduating from Kankakee High School, Miss Salzman attended Wheaton College. She took her nurses training at Presbyterian Hospital, Chicago, subsequently teaching there for several years.

She was sent to Kenwa, Chekian Province, China, in 1940 to establish a Baptist nursing school. The war forced her to leave China in 1944 and, two years later, she ran a blockade to return. The Red invasion in 1949 again forced her to leave China.

Miss Salzman taught at St. Mary's School of Nursing the latter part of 1949 and part of 1950. Late in 1950, she was sent to the Philippines to establish the nursing college of which she is dean.

Mrs. Theophis Dortch, general chairman of World Community Day, invites all women in the county to attend the observance.

Burglar Returns Fire In Emington Manhunt

EMINGTON (JNS)—Livingston County authorities today are investigating a suspect arrested this morning in Dwight following an attempted burglary and shooting at the Wendell Lighty farm 1¼ miles southwest of here.

The man was taken into custody by Dwight police during an all-night search by state, county and village authorities with the help of neighbors in the Lighty area.

According to Livingston County Sheriff Willis Harms, identification of the suspect might prove difficult in that the burglary and shooting took place between 6 and 7 p.m. in the dark.

Harms said Mr. and Mrs. Lighty were in their farm home when Mrs. Lighty noticed a light go on and off in the barn.

As Wendell stepped inside, Royal shouted, "There he goes," having spotted a male figure running down the farm lane toward the attention to it. Before checking, he summoned his brother, Royal, 15, who resides with his parents 2¼ miles to the northwest.

When his brother arrived, they approached the barn. Royal remained outside while Wendell went in, according to the story given to Sheriff Harms.

JUST AS HE DROVE over a knoll, he spotted the man lying on the ground. In the glare of the search light, Royal got a look at the man, who got up, fired three shots at his pursuer and ran away.

Royal returned to the farm home where a search of the farm was organized. While authorities planned to check the area all night, the search was interrupted when it was reported the man, using a flashlight, flagged a car about 11 p.m. east of Odell. At 2 a.m., the searchers were notified of the arrest at Dwight.

They are reported in fair condition in Morris Hospital. Skaggs suffered chest injuries, Butry, a fractured right leg, and Newkirk, severe head injuries.

Both cars were total wrecks. The accident was investigated by William J. Hamilton and Thomas Sedlish, state police officers.

fighting continued in the Sinai Desert, the eastern approach to the canal.

Israel claimed its forces had taken up positions only 10 miles from the canal, the "ultimatum" line.

Egypt announced its Soviet-supplied Jet planes had been thrown into action.

The Egyptian high command announced that heavy fighting, which began Tuesday afternoon was continuing today in the El Auja-Abou Oguiela area just inside the Egyptian border and close to the base of the Egyptian - occupied Gaza Strip of Palestine.

Israeli broadcasts indicated the Israeli forces were attempting to reach the Gaza Strip.

EGYPTIAN military headquarters announced it had sent its Soviet-built MIGS into battle today and that they had knocked down 10 Israeli planes. The Egyptians admitted the loss of two of their own planes.

The Egyptians said bombers also had gone into action over Israel's territory and had destroyed and damaged Israeli airfields.

The Israelis announced the capture of an Egyptian 1,000-ton frigate, the Ibrahim Awal which bombarded Haifa port, and the surrender of its 250-man crew.

The Egyptians said the frigate was scuttled by its captain after "successfully completing its mission." The high command said said the Ibrahim Awal developed engine trouble during an attack by three Israeli warships and warplanes and the captain was forced to sink her.

Pupils at schools in the Kankakee area were holding parties and wearing costumes today like this young set at a local nursery school. From left are Terry, son of Dr. and Mrs. L. G. Gunning; Donald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Holger Jensen; and Caron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Saffell.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Grains spurted sharply on the Board of Trade today following news of a combined British-French bombardment of Egypt.

Prices opened strong, dipped and then rallied in fairly active dealings prior to news of the bombardment.

After the news came out, aggressive buying swept into all pits and prices went to new highs for the day. Wheat and rye futures scored new seasonal highs. Trading became extremely active.

Much of the buying came from traders who had been "short" on the market and were frightened by the possibility of the Middle East war spreading.

Wheat closed 2½-3¼ higher, December $2.37½-⅝, corn 1⅜-2⅛ higher, December $1.39¾-½, oats ¾-1¼ higher, December 80⅝-½, rye 2 to 3¼ higher, December $1.40¾, soybeans 3½-5¼ higher, November $2.49½-¾ and lard unchanged to 20 cents a hundred pounds higher, November $11.70.

In Memoriam

In Loving Memory of JOHN KENDZORECK who passed away 8 years ago, October 30, 1948

8 years have passed since that sad day,
The one we loved was called away.
God took him in, it was His will,
But in our hearts he is with us still.
We'll always remember this one whom we love,
And look to the time when we will meet him above.

Is Invasion 3-Way Plot To Wreck Nasser, Seize Control Of Canal?

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The missing link in the fighting in Egypt is this: Did the British, French and Israelis plan it together? It looks that way. All three stood to gain by what they did.

What the Israelis wanted was to help wreck Egyptian President Nasser, whom all three hated. He was the rallying point for Arabs against Israel. What the British and French wanted was to wreck Nasser and get back the Suez Canal.

BUT THE EFFECTS of what the British and French did went far beyond their move to seize the canal. They ignored the United Nations, although pledged to work with and uphold the world organization.

They made American leadership of the free world look as sick as a straw hat in the rain by telling Secretary of State Dulles nothing of their plans to go into the Suez area and then ignoring President Eisenhower's personal plea not to.

They made their move at a time when the West might have profited by the Russian killing of Hungarians in Budapest. Now world attention has been diverted.

The French and British had been angered and frustrated by Dulles ever since Nasser seized the canal last July. They wanted to take military action against Nasser to take back the canal.

DULLES PROPOSED a couple of plans—for negotiating peacefully with Nasser—which didn't work out but managed to forestall military action until now.

The British and French appar-ently made up their minds he wouldn't block them again. They shut him off from information for 10 days. American ambassadors for that time were not able to see the heads of the French and British governments.

On Monday — when the Israelis marched into Egypt — the British and French ambassadors were absent from Washington. But on that day the British Minister J. E. Coulson, told Dulles the American - British - French agreement of 1950 — to stop any aggression in the Middle East — was dead. Nevertheless, the White House said Monday night this country would honor that agreement.

TOO MUCH EMPHASIS should not be placed on the idea the Western alliance is wrecked. This country needs the British and French against Russia, just as they need the United States when this blows over.

Unless there is a world war or an unexpected development, they will almost certainly be in harness again, although probably from now on with a distrust of each other that didn't exist before.

From the moment that Israeli government announced its troops had gone into Egypt, it was clear they were headed in the direction of the Suez Canal. This gave the British and French an excuse to move in. They gave this explanation: they had to do it to protect the canal.

Tuesday the United States asked the U. N. Security Council to approve a resolution demanding a cease - fire in Egypt and calling upon all U.N. members—including the British and French—not to use force in the Israeli-Egyptian fighting.

The French and British, announcing they intend to move into the canal area, vetoed the U.S. proposal.

Will Dedicate New Church Unit In Iroquois Sunday

IROQUOIS — Members of the Methodist Church will dedicate a new educational unit to their church building on Sunday.

Sunday school will be held at 10 a. m. followed by a basket dinner at 12:30 p. m. and a dedication program at 2 p. m. Presentations will be made by Verle McCarty, chairman of the trustees, and Elmer Figg, local church lay leader.

The Rev. Fred Melvin, a former district superintendent, will give the address. Mrs. Mary Lou West and the local choir will provide special music. The pastor W. W. Harding, will perform the act of dedication.

This new unit is in use of Sunday school and social functions. It was built almost entirely by voluntary labor of men in the community.

The completion of this structure comes 80 years following the building of the main sanctuary. That part of the church dedicated in January, 1876. The Methodist society however was first organized sometime before 1854 in Iroquois. The meetings at that early time were held in homes and schoolhouses.

There is record of Methodist meetings being held in the home of Benjamin Fry as early as 1833, but the records at hand are indefinite about the society being organized.

Cullom Society To Collect Clothes

CULLOM (JNS) — The Women's Society of World Service of Charlotte Evangelical United Brethren Church will collect used clothing for Cumberland Mountain Mission in Kentucky.

Approve State Training In Psychiatry

Full approval of the Illinois Department of Public Welfare's program for training residents in psychiatry has been received from the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology and the American Medical Association, Gov. William G. Stratton has announced.

Dr. Otto L. Bettag, department director, said this means that physicians completing the training program qualify for examination by the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology for certification as specialists.

Developed by the department to combat a shortage of psychiatric personnel, the program is under the leadership of Dr. Percival Bailey, director of the Illinois State Psychopathic Institute.

Twenty-five physicians are now enrolled. An enrollment of 50 is expected by next year, and 100 when the Psychiatric Institute State Hospital is completed in approximately two years.

Depending on the physician's previous accredited training and experience, the program varies from one to five years. The basic program is the five-year plan providing three years of training plus two years of clinical service in state mental hospitals.

Cooperating in the program are Chicago, Elgin and Galesburg State Hospitals, the Institute for Juvenile Research and the mental health centers; all facilities of the Illinois Department of Public Welfare, the Municipal Court of Chicago; University of Illinois department of neurology and psychiatry; Michael Reese Hospital and the Northwestern University hospitals.

While in the training program, residents in psychiatry receive a salary of from $300 to $640 per month.

Vacation time and sick benefits will be provided, and residents in training become eligible for all benefits and protections of the state civil service law after one year of service.

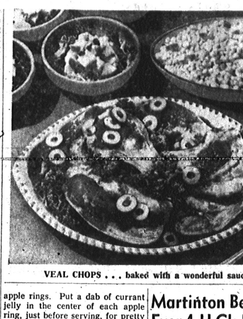
Veal Chops Make Super Dish



VEAL CHOPS . . . baked with a wonderful sauce.

Veal chops baked in a tomato-olive sauce, make a fine main course because—except for basting a few minutes — you can forget about them while they are getting sweetly tender. Another advantage of this recipe: if you arrange the chops in an attractive baking dish, they can go straight from oven to table.

Guests of ours enjoyed these chops when we served them with pasta dressed only with butter and grated cheese. We chose shells for the pasta, but you may want to use spaghetti, elbow macaroni or the cheese we used Romano, but you may substitute Parmesan, if you prefer, or even a good cheddar.

Serve a cooked vegetable with the chops and a salad—or omit the vegetable and offer only salad. The soft texture of the veal and the pasta takes to something crisp. We also served crisp French bread rolls so every last remnant of good sauce could be mopped up with snippets of them. A prune whip was our dessert and added an airy ending to a satisfying meal, but a souffle would be equally pleasant.

If a marinara-type tomato sauce is available, be sure to use it in this recipe. That combination of peeled plum tomatoes, olive oil and seasonings is just right with the veal. The olives in the dish add an unexpected and interesting flavor.

VEAL CHOPS WITH TOMATO OLIVE SAUCE

Ingredients: 6 veal rib, chops (about ½-inch thick), 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 can (8 ounces) meatless tomato sauce, 2 tablespoons cooking sherry, ½ cup sliced pimiento-stuffed green olives.

Method: Have meat man crack chop bones about 1 inch from ends. Brown chops on both sides rapidly in hot butter. Mix tomato sauce, sherry and about ½ cup of the olives. Turn tomato sauce mixture into baking dish—about 8 by 12 by 2 inches. Cut through ends of chops where bone has been cracked. Arrange chops, in one layer, over tomato sauce; tuck chop ends into small spaces. Bake, uncovered, in moderate (375 degrees) oven until chops are tender—about 45 minutes. Baste every 10 or 15 minutes. Sprinkle with reserved olives and serve at once. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Note: Iron skillets are excellent for browning meat. If you have a very large one (about 12 inches) you can brown the 6 veal chops called for in this recipe in it at one time. If not, the chops may be browned at one time in two smaller iron skillets. A 10-inch iron skillet will take four of the chops and 1½ tablespoons of the butter called for may be used in it; an 8-inch skillet will take the other two chops and the remaining ½ tablespoon of butter may be used in it.

OTHER WAYS WITH VEAL CHOPS

Kitchen Trick — When you are flouring veal chops before browning them, pour the seasoned flour into a sturdy brown paper bag that's a good size. Now put the chops in the bag and twist its top to close tightly. Shake the crops and flour together well in the bag. Easy and quick!

Good Partners — Breaded veal chops take to the company of fried apple rings. Put a dab of currant jelly in the center of each apple ring, just before serving, for pretty color.

Quick Sauce—Thicken a can of stewed tomatoes and add some sliced pimiento-stuffed olives. Serve with breaded veal chops. Save panwashing by making the sauce in the skillet in which the chops were cooked—after they are removed, and just before serving. Meanwhile keep the chops warm on a piece of aluminum foil the old-fashioned way—on the back of the stove.

Boston, Mass. (Special)—New promise of relief for women who suffer tortures of monthly cramps and nervous tension is found in an amazing new tablet . . developed especially to relieve this female discomfort. It offers greater relief than aspirin during that distressing period each month!

Doctors report remarkable results. For 3 out of 4 women tested, pain and cramps were stopped or strikingly relieved. Even on the first day, many had no nagging headaches, no backaches or other functionally-caused distress . . were also less jittery the trying week before their period!

The new tablet contains not just one or two ingredients but a unique combination of special medicines. That's why this new discovery offers more relief than plain aspirin! Unlike such "general-purpose" remedies, it acts on the cause of distress. Has amazing power to calm uterine contractions, also works through a woman's sympathetic nervous system.

Called "Lydia Pinkham's Tablets," the formula was developed by the world's largest manufacturer devoted exclusively to relief of women's ailments! Easy-to-take new Pinkham's Tablets are now available at all drug stores without a prescription.

So don't suffer needlessly. Take Pinkham's Tablets yourself. See if you don't feel worlds better this very month. See if you don't escape much of the irritability and discomfort—both before and during those "difficult days." (For liquid form . . . ask for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.)

Stratton Renews Charge—

Demo Candidate Controlled By Bosses; Austin Urges Clean-up

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gov. William G. Stratton has renewed his charge that Richard B. Austin, Democratic candidate for governor, and other opposition candidates are controlled by "bosses" in Chicago.

Stratton said in a statement Tuesday that Illinois will be a pawn in the hands of the "Chicago City Hall and their political bosses" if the Democratics win state offices in next week's election.

He said, "Cook County bosses pick their own candidates and operate and manipulate them as though they were puppets."

LISTING measures taken during his four-year administration, Stratton said the "proud record" included:

1. Enactment of legislative reapportionment.

2. Improvement of state welfare institutions.

3. Establishment of home-controlled sales tax providing Illinois cities with additional revenue.

4. Construction of safer highways.

Secretary of State Charles Carpentier backed the governor's safer highways claim in a Chicago speech Tuesday night. He said that under Stratton's administration "we were able to curb the insane highway death toll" by establishing an "effective" Illinois driver's license law.

IN CHICAGO, meanwhile, Richard B. Austin said Illinois needs "clean and decent state government."

The Democratic candidate for governor said that if elected he will "undertake the cleanup task that we can no longer ignore."

Austin told the Junior Chamber of Commerce in Chicago Tuesday that Republican Gov. William G. Stratton allowed "political expediency and political fence-mending" in the division of highways.

State highways, Austin said, under Stratton's administration, were built at a price indicating "extravagance beyond belief." He said construction was not based on need.

He said the GOP's running of the state insurance department has hurt the reputation of the state. Austin added that other needed changes were judicial reform and revision of the state's fiscal structure.

At a speech elsewhere in Chicago, Richard Stengel, Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate, charged his opponent Sen. Everett Dirksen, has impeded progress for six years by voting against the public interest. Stengel said Dirksen "has talked about everything except the issue which is his own record."

Homecomings Set For Gilman, Cullom Schools

Homecoming is scheduled at both Gilman and Cullom High Schools this weekend.

Thursday evening in Gilman students of the school will stage their traditional pep rally and snake dance on the city's main street. Friday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock the annual homecoming parade will be held and that evening Gilman will play host to Onarga on the gridiron. At halftime prizes for the winning floats in the parade will be presented.

One of the highlights of the homecoming dance to follow the game will be the crowning of the queen. Candidates are Judy Read, Joan Henrichs and Lois Rademacher. Marilynn Pence has been chosen freshman attendant. Elaine Kraft sophomore attendant and Denise Lloyd junior attendant.

Cullom's homecoming events will be on Friday. The Student Council is planning the annual parade for Friday afternoon at 1 o'Clock after which the Ramblers will meet Onarga Military School in football.

One of the highlights of the day will be the crowning of the king and queen at the homecoming dance that evening. The queen is Beverly Donley and the king Bill Ommen, both seniors. Senior attendants are Judith Halpin, Billie Mae Twichman, Dean Tharp and Ronnie Hack; junior attendants are Sharon Haag and James Hack and sophomore attendants are Bernice Donley and Stanley Ommen.

"Boy Appeal" is the title of the play members of the junior class of Grant Park High School will present at 8 p.m. Friday in the school gymnasium.

The study will be headed up by Joseph R. Williams, the district's new director of child study, and Earl Patton, supervisor of instruction.

Out of the study will come a list of children who need special attention.

Then the supervisors will talk to parents and map plans to give the children the special help they need.

THE GROUP THEN will spend a few of their school days getting this special help.

By the second semester it is hoped the study can be far enough along to have one group receiving special help part of the day. They will meet at the new Edison School.

Parents will be in on all the planning and decisions, Dr. Marinaccio emphasized.

The program will be paid by the state, as will Williams' salary to a large extent, once the program is underway.

The district has had difficulty locating special education teachers, and at the outset there will not be enough to give special help to every child who needs it, Marinaccio reported.

The special education program probably will start with a group of about 15 children, he said.

The program is for pupils who need extra help that is impossible when a teacher has 35 or 40 children in a classroom, the superintendent said.

The program is part of the district's effort to give added attention to slow, as well as fast learners, which also leaves more time for attention to the middle group.

AN ENGLISH experiment in the high school is still going on, with several classes giving special attention to fast and slow learners, with the middle group also benefiting accordingly, Dr. Marinaccio reported.

The reading experiment in the primary grades also has been broadened this year with additional classes using a system richer in phonics more than some other systems of teaching children to read.

The summer school program also was geared to help youngsters do a better job by taking additional work or work with which they have been having trouble in school, Marinaccio pointed out.

It's part of an intensified program to enrich the educational program through new methods and procedures, he indicated.

County Has Big Part In Election, Says Tolson

"We of Kankakee County have a tremendous stake in this election," said Joseph Tolson of Kankakee, 4th Fourth Ward women's meeting Tuesday afternoon at the residence of Sen. and Mrs. Victor McElroom, 983 S. Washington Ave.

Tolson, who is chief justice of the Court of Claims of the state of Illinois, went on to say that, "We have to protect our interests."

Referring to presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson as "a vacuum" while in office as governor of Illinois, Tolson compared the records of Stevenson and Gov. William G. Stratton. He emphasized local improvements like the bridge construction just finished and plans for the near future.

TOLSON WARNED that "if Richard B. Austin wins as governor, Cook county will control state policies. We must not be foolish. We must recognize the sinister machine in Cook County."

The overflow attendance of women from Kankakee's Fourth Ward and Ira Hazel Sen. McBroom, Rep. Louis E. Beckman and Republican County Women's chairman, Mrs. C. C. Henry Jr. spoke about issues in the forthcoming election.

"There are many reasons for the election of the Republican ticket, from top to bottom," said Sen. McBroom, emphasizing "the only two real issues—peace and prosperity." Rep. Beckman asked the women to consider what will confront their representatives in Springfield during the next session of the Legislature.

WHEN MRS. HENRY addressed the group, she said that "women have never been as interested in the outcome of the vote. They are working as they have never worked before."

"Everyone who is old enough to vote is involved in politics," said Mrs. Henry. "Women can help by talking over coffee cups . . . and by the back fence." Mrs. Henry concluded her remarks by saying that "Women Power for Eisenhower," a slogan used by President Eisenhower, "can generate more energy than the hydrogen bomb."

Greetings were given by Recorder of Deeds William Maitland, State's Attorney Frank Curran, both candidates for reelection, and William Spillane, candidate for county coroner. The women's group was entertained by an Olivet College quartet and welcomed by their hostess, Mrs. McBroom.

MRS. McBROOM shared the microphone with her husband and reminded, "I think it would be nice to have one of these in the house all of the time."

Personal contacts with governors in office were mentioned by Mrs. McBroom with favorable reports concerning Gov. and Mrs. Stratton. She mentioned the personal attention given to the governor's mansion during the past four years and the dignity of the present occupants.

Among those introduced during the meeting were Mrs. Walter Ranz and Mrs. Clyde Schierholz, precinct committeewomen; and Mrs. Donald Hastings, Mrs. Tom Maass and Mrs. Edward McBroom, junior committeewomen.

The musical group which entertained is called the Olivettians, composed of Charles Hasselbring, Wayne Gallup, Prof. Daniel Liddell and Lauren Larsen, and accompanied by Mrs. Martha Reed. Their selections ranged from "The Happy Wanderer" to the patriotic "Your Land and Mine."

Dodgers' Ebbets Field Sold To Real Estate Dealer

BROOKLYN (AP) —Ebbets Field, home of the Brooklyn Dodgers for 43 years, has been sold — but the new owner is a member-in-good - standing of the Flatbush faithful.

The Brooks will remain as tenants for the next three years and can continue through 1961 if circumstances dictate.

"However," said Marvin Kratter, a real estate tycoon, who said the purchase price ran into seven figures, "it would never prevent the Dodgers from staying after 1961 if it were necessary and would never stand in their way in any manner in keeping the franchise in Brooklyn.

The Dodgers are hopeful that a new stadium will be built for them by the Municipal Sports Authority by 1961. In fact, if it is finished before that year, the Brooks will move out of Ebbets Field as soon as it is ready.

Red Devils End Perfect Season With 7-0 Mark

Except for sports, West Jordan High was no match for undefeated East in the eighth renewal of the crosstown football rivalry Tuesday night at Alumni Field.

East won 27-0 to finish its season with a 7-0 record. West also completed a schedule in which it lost six games and tied one.

The victory evened the series at three victories apiece. Two of the games ended in deadlocks.

RON RIEKEN'S Red Devils, after being fought to a standstill by the fired up West Kankakeeans in the first quarter, scored three times in the second period and once in the third.

Jim Cureton, husky halfback, tallied twice, and halfback Bill Walters and quarterback Ron Sphrer once apiece. Sphrer's touchdown toglie was the longest of the four, covering 52 yards on a fake reverse for the final score.

Sphorer also hit Cureton with a 30 yard pass for the first touchdown. Walters ran 18 yards for the second and Cureton rammed over from the four for the third. Cureton also scored the first two extra points on line smashes and quarterback Ed Chipman sneaked for the point after the final six-pointer.

WEST THREATENED several times but the East defense always stiffened. The Blue Flames got a good scoring chance in the opening quarter when they recovered an East fumble on the enemy 13. Ron Stewart's charges moved close to the goal line twice in the late stages of the game against the East reserves, once to the seven yard stripe.

Standouts for West were little Gary Knorr, Jim Westerhoff, Mike Bedore and Dennis Lehnus.

Lopez, Bosses Lay Plans To Bolster Sox

CHICAGO (UP)—Al Lopez, new manager of the Chicago White Sox, began to find out today how complicated a task he faces in building the American League's third place team into a contender which can beat the world champion New York Yankees.

Lopez, who Tuesday signed a contract for one year for an estimated $40,000, began a series of conferences with Vice Presidents Charles Comiskey and John Rigney to find out exactly what his new team lacks.

THE NEW CHIEF planned also to confer with at least two of his new coaches, Ray Berres and Don Gutteridge, who were on the staff of the White Sox last season. His third coach, Tony Cuccinello, was with him at Cleveland, where he resigned as manager Sept. 28 after piloting the Indians to second place five times and to the pennant once in six seasons.

Lopez took over the Sox full of optimism because Chicago beat his Indians 15 times in 22 games last season. On the basis of this performance, he was unable to name any specific positions he wanted to improve.

HOWEVER, there were shortcomings in the White Sox at third base, first base, and on the bench, and Marty Marion, who quit as Sox manager a week ago, advised Lopez to "bring his pitchers with him," if he took the Sox job.

"I expect to learn what we might want to do from Chuck and John," Lopez said. "And Ray and Don will be able to help me a lot about what they think we ought to do."

Forfeited four victories.

Standings of the South Suburban Football League received a shaking up today with the announcement that Leyden Township High School of Franklin Park has forfeited all of its victories because of the discovery that one of its players is ineligible.

Leyden, beaten only by Kankakee in its seven games played thus far, was tied with Bloom of Chicago Heights for second place with a 4-1 record.

League teams gaining victories by the forfeits are Argo, Lockport, Thornton Fractional and Blue Island. The Eagles, who of course are in last place, have Thornton and Bloom yet to play.

The automatic victories for Argo and Blue Island moved them ahead of Kankakee in the standings. The Kays, who were tied at 2-3 with Argo and Blue Island for fourth place, are dropped into a tie with Lockport for fifth.

The ineligible player is Bill Doss, a halfback, who had reached his 20th birthday last summer. The boy's true age was not discovered by Leyden authorities until Monday, and athletic director Sam England immediately notified all opponents of the discovery and forfeits.

Leyden's overall record was 5-1-1.

Cox 'Sells' Himself To Gopher Mates, Coaches

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) —Some call him chesty. Others say he has just the right kind of risky confidence to give Minnesota a psychological boot in the trousers when the Gophers need it most.

But no one who has watched quarterback Bobby Cox transform what looked once like a hesitant young football team into a bunch of eager title hunters could lowrate his impact.

The day Cox convinced Coach Murray Warmath he could make the Gophers go without fritteringaway a scoring chance by impulsive play was the day Minnesota started to roll.

For all his bubbling exuberance and dead-eye passing reputation built at Washington two years ago, Cox didn't exactly enthrall the Gophers when he first whisked in from the West Coast as a transfer student.

A NATURAL FREE-TALKER, he aroused some early skepticism. The team felt more comfortable and moved more smartly in spring practice with home-bred Dick Larson at the controls of the Gopher split T.

"Winning the first-team quarterback job meant plenty to me," Cox said. "When Murray picked Larson instead of me it meant I still had to prove myself. Well, that was all right. I made up my mind to do it."

Cox's teammates eventually warmed up to him. They were solid Cox fans on the first-game trip to Washington in September when Cox went back before Washington fans in an enemy uniform.

Kays Start Basketball Thursday

Basketball sneaks into the sports picture at Kankakee High School Thursday afternoon when coach Earl Jones opens practice for candidates not out for football.

Since Jones' only three lettermen, Dan VanMill, Kenny Palmateer and John Donley, are all members of the football squad, he won't have their services until after the final grid game Nov. 9.

Jones, who is also assistant sophomore football coach, will have to divide his attention between the two sports until his services are no longer required by head sophomore coach Don Henderson. Jones expects his initial basketball turnout to consist mainly of sophomores.

The Kays lost all of their five 1955-56 starters by graduation and this year's team will be one of the greenest and smallest seen at Kankakee in many years.

Nov. 1 is the earliest starting date for basketball practice permitted in the South Suburban League.

Iowa, Purdue Picked Over Wolves, Illini

CHICAGO (AP) — Trying to forget those lumps he took last week from Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota and Indiana, the Ol' Swami sips the deep trance. His record so far will be 16 in a row for Ohio State, establishing an all - time conference record.

Michigan State 20, Wisconsin 7— The Badgers must muster better ed and bruised forces after that 21-0 pounding by the Buckeyes. The Spartans, dropping from first to fourth in national rafkings, will be aroused. Even without their great back, Clarence Peaks, they shouldn't have too much trouble in this home engagement.

Minnesota 14, Pittsburgh 7 — The Gophers can't afford to be thinking about Iowa on Nov. 10 if they hope to salvage this one. The otice-beaten Panthers probably rate the east's best at the moment.

Navy 19, Notre Dame 14 — Seems a logical time for the Middies — Notre Dame's oldest continuous rivals — to claim their first victory in the series since their war-pecked team of 1944 won 32-13. The Irish will be trying to avert their fifth defeat of the season. The last time they lost as many as five was 1933.

Indiana 28, Marquette 0 — This looks like the nearest thing to a breather possible.

Illini Woodson Named Back Of Week By AP

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

His hurdle prowess, put to use in Illinois' stunning 20-13 upset of previously unbeaten Michigan State, today earned Abe Woodson the Associated Press Back of the Week designation.

Woodson, Big Ten hurdle champion and coholder of the 50-yard record indoors, scored all three Illini touchdowns, two coming on scoring sprints of 70 and 82 yards in the fourth quarter. The victory over the Spartans, the nation's No. 1 team at the time, went into the books as one of the biggest upsets in Big Ten history.

WITH THE SCORE tied at 13-13 and only five minutes remaining, Illinois quarterback Bill Offenbecher decided to "go for broke" with the ball on his own 18-yard line. Offenbecher faded to pass and lobbed a screen pass to the fleet Woodson. Abe took the pitch, avoided a Spartan tackler, streaked nearly horizontally across the field and proceeded toward the Spartan goal.

On the State 30, Art Johnson moved in on Woodson and prepared to make the game-saving tackle. But Woodson leaped, hurdled the defender and completed his TD run.

THE ILLINOIS SENIOR had scored earlier on a 2-yard plunge in the third quarter and a 70-yard dash earlier in the last period. In all he amassed 198 of the 386 yards the Illinois offense gained.

Jimmy Brown of Syracuse and Oklahoma's twin scoring threats of Tommy McDonald and Clendon Thomas were strong candidates for the award.

Braves Deny Deal For Schoendienst

MILWAUKEE (AP) — General Manager John Quinn of the Milwaukee Braves denies there's a deal afoot involving Bobby Thomson and the Giants' Red Schoendienst.

"I never mention any names," Quinn said today. "The writers inject the names on their own. It's always been my policy never to discuss names. The league office has sent out orders against it, you know."

Well, then, have you talked trade with the Giants?

"I talked with everybody at the World Series except Brooklyn and the Cubs," he said. "We talked in generalities, more or less like a sounding board, to see if anything can be worked out."

'Shoe' On Vacation; Gives Hartack Title

CAMDEN, N. J. (AP) — Jockey Willie Shoemaker is off on a seven week vacation that virtually assures the 1956 riding championship for Willie Hartack.

Hartack now leads Shoemaker by four wins, 317-314, in the annual battle and seems certain to repeat as the nation's winningest rider for the second year in a row.

Shoemaker plans to break his vacation only once — to ride in the $50,000 added Vineland Handicap at Garden State Park.

PORK CHOPS WITH PINEAPPLE AND GREEN PEPPER

Ingredients: 4 loin pork chops (about 1 inch thick), 1 chicken bouillon cube, ½ cup boiling water, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons soy sauce, 2 tablespoons tomato catchup, 1 large clove garlic (minced or crushed), 1 can (9 ounces) crushed pineapple, 4 teaspoons cornstarch, 2 tablespoons cold water, 1 medium-sized green pepper (cut into thin strips).

Method: Have chops trimmed of all but a thin layer of fat around edges. Brown chops on both sides in hot heavy skillet; transfer (without any fat in pan) to baking dish — 8 by 8 by 2 inches. Dissolve bouillon cube in boiling water; add sugar, soy sauce, catchup, garlic and pineapple, including pineapple syrup; stir until sugar dissolves. Pour around chops. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven until chops are cooked through — 40 to 60 minutes; a small slit near bone should show meat white. Remove chops and keep warm. Pour sauce from baking dish into measure or small bowl; spoon off fat on top; there should be about 1½ cups of sauce left. In saucepan (1 quart) stir cornstarch and cold water together until smooth; add sauce with green pepper. Cook and stir constantly over moderate heat until thickened and clear. Pour over chops; serve at once. (If sauce is thicker than you like, thin with a little boiling water.) Makes 4 servings.

Introducing one of Rudy's favorite customers . . . a pint-size blonde with a king-size reach.

She's Peggy Ann Hiller, age 2½, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hiller.

While mother (in the background) shrewdly selects a typical Rudy value, enthuisatic Peggy sticks out a chubby arm and grabs herself something that strikes her fancy.

So, when mother rolls daughter and cart into one of Rudy's fast check-out lanes, she has a couple of extra items she didn't figure on. But, take another look at that busy little shopper . . . who (especially mother) could resist such a sincere "little helper"?

LOVE THAT KID!

We at Rudy's love kids because once we were kids ourselves. We urge you parents to bring the kids along . . . put 'em in the cart for an exciting tour. There are bright-colored things on the shelves to fascinate kids . . . (Del Monte, Stokely's and other famous-brand merchandise.) And we're sure to intrique him, too, 'cause he's probably never seen the likes of us before.

Besides offering you savings, conveniences and friendly courtesies, we might even throw in a diaper-change or two . . . should Mom and Pop have both arms full of the best doggone foods at the lowest everyday prices in Kankakeeland.

Bring the pint-size shoppers to Rudy's . . . We love 'em all!

Apricot Fritters

On a 10-acre park in the heart of Roanoke, Va., is situated the Roanoke Hotel. Here in the atmosphere of an Old English Inn, you may be served not only Southern favorites like spoon bread and corn fritters, but you can also enjoy their apricot fritters with rum sauce. This is their recipe to serve six:

Mix 1 teaspoon sugar with 1¼ cups flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder and a pinch of salt. Beat 2 eggs well, add eggs, ½ cup milk and ½ tablespoon butter to the dry ingredients. Mix as a stiff batter. Remove seeds from apricots and cut into quarters. Dust with flour and dip each apricot into batter. Drop into hot fat 370 F. Fry until brown. Serve with rum sauce

Rum sauce: Mix 1 cup mixed fruit juice with ¾ cup granulated sugar, ¼ teaspoon red vegetable coloring and ¼ cup rum flavoring and cook for 1 hour. Stir occasionally.

3 Auto Accidents Reported To Police

Three accidents reported today by Kankakee police resulted in a minor personal injury and a $100 fine.

Eugene Thomas Jones, 19, of Gastonia, N. C., was fined by Police Magistrate Paul Davidson this morning for leaving the scene of an accident.

Patrolman Ralph Stone witnessed Jones' car turn from Water street south into Main street, go over the curb and strike a limited parking sign, pushing the sign into a parked car. The parked car was damaged in the mishap, which occurred at 12:15 a. m. today.

Officer Stone was on foot and unable to apprehend Jones. At 2:45 a. m., however, he saw Jones walking on Main street and questioned him. Jones said he had run out of gas five miles south of Kankakee on Route 45 and left his car there.

Kankakee County Sheriff's officers inspected the car and, confronted with damage evidence, Jones admitted being in the accident.

A 9-year-old girl was injured, apparently not seriously, in a crash at Court St. and Nelson Ave. about 4:45 p. m. Tuesday.

Kathy Moore was riding with her mother, Mrs. William Moore, 63, St. Anne, when their car headed east on Court, and another, driven by S. J. Johnson, 34, 340 S. Dearborn Ave., Bradley, collided.

The police report said Johnson was headed north on Nelson and turning onto Court when the crash occurred. Kathy suffered injuries to her mouth. She was treated at St. Mary's Hospital and released.

Two cars were damaged at 6:45 a. m. today at Fifth Ave. and Williams St. The autos were driven by Lloyd A. Eastman, 36, a driver for the Bradley Cab Co., and Bernard W. Clark, 27, 1354 Circle Dr. Both vehicles were headed south on Fifth avenue when they crashed.

Big 3 Splits In U. N. On Mid East Issue

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Britain and France used their vetos twice Tuesday night to tie the hands of the U. N. Security Codicil in the Israeli-Egyptian fighting while they rushed troops toward the Suez Canal zone.

Their actions drove a deep wedge into their alliance with the United States.

The vetos were viewed as a hard blow to the 11-nation council's prestige, already lowered by 78 Soviet vetos in 11 years.

THE COUNCIL adjourned only 27 minutes before the 11:30 p.m. deadline set by Britain and France for Egyptian-Israeli agreement to their proposal to land troops along the waterway ultimated by tonight July 26.

The two Western powers gave Egypt and Israel 12 hours to stop fighting and draw back 10 miles from the 103-mile canal so that British and French forces could move "temporarily" into Port Said, Ismailia and Suez "to separate the belligerents and to guarantee freedom of transit through the canal." They said if Egypt and Israel did not consent, they would move in anyway. Israel agreed but Egypt refused.

Another council meeting was scheduled this afternoon to take up an Egyptian charge that Britain and France were committing aggression. Egypt said that until the council took "necessary measures, Egypt has no choice but to defend itself."

BRITAIN AND France had argued that the council could not act swiftly enough to halt the fighting and prevent interference with canal traffic. Accordingly both voted:

1. A U.S. resolution calling on Israel and Egypt immediately to cease fire, on Israel to withdraw its armed forces from Egypt and all U.N. members to avoid using force in the area or giving Israel military, economic or financial aid in her operation. (The vote was 7-2 with Australia and Belgium abstaining.)

2. A Soviet resolution that amounted to the U. S. proposal with its teeth pulled, calling only for a cease-fire and withdrawal of Israeli troops. (The vote was 7-2 with Belgium and the United States abstaining.)

U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. had asked and obtained an urgent council debate on the Israeli military action on instructions received from President Eisenhower Monday night after Israel moved into Egypt.

Lodge said if Israel complied with the U.S. demand, the basis for the British-French ultimatum would disappear. He rejected any implication "that the United States considered under any circumstances that the (British-French) ultimatum was justifiable."

SOVIET DELEGATE Arkady A. Sobolev said the Western vetos meant "a black day for the Security Council." He accused the British and French of using Israel as an instrument to justify seizure of the Suez Canal.

British Delegate Sir Pierson Dixon contended that British and France were acting in an urgent situation "on well-founded International grounds. . . to do what the world expects."

Louis de Guiranguad of France argued that Egyptian President Nasser must be stopped.

ELVIS GONE AT ROMEO SCHOOL

ROMEO, Mich. (AP)—The Elvis Presley look is gone, real gone, from Romeo Community High School.

Fifty-two male students who lately sported the long sideburns and ducktail haircut affected by the rock 'n' roll singer agreed to appear in class today with trimmed hair and clean shaven faces.

They had no choice. Any shaggy holdouts face quick expulsion.

School Supt. T. C. Filppula issued the new shave-and-haircut edict after teachers complained about the unshorn appearance of some of their pupils and the "defiant" attitude it fostered.

"They had sideburns and long hair that you would think any man would be ashamed of," Filppula said. "And blue jeans sliding off their hips."

Two Romeo barbers, learning of the ruling, offered a free trim for any of the 52 Presley types who could not afford to pay.

October's unemployment figure was 1,900,000—a rate, Mitchell said, [illegible]

Reserves Plea On Assault Charge With Weapon

A St. Anne resident of eight days reserved his plea this morning to charges of assault with a deadly weapon and aggravated assault.

Raymbd Owens, 21, is accused of slashing Jackie Houk, 17, of St. Anne. He was being held in the county jail in lieu of $1,500 bond after reserving his plea until Nov. 5 in County Court.

Sheriff James W. Laffey said Owens is accused of inflicting three cuts on Houk's hand, severing the tendons.

According to Laffey, the incident started as Houk was taking a girl home Tuesday night.

Owens and some others were in a car and they allegedly made some remark concerning Houk or the girl, according to Laffey.

When Houk started back after taking the girl home he reportedly was met up to the car. A scuffle ensued and Houk was cut, according to the sheriff.

Laffey said Owens moved to St. Anne eight days ago from Harlan, Ky.

Farms Still Suffer From Dry Conditions

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Illinois farmers still suffered from a shortage of soil moisture during the week ended Oct. 30 despite widespread showers last Thursday, the State-Federal Agriculture departments said Tuesday.

Ninety-eight per cent of crop correspondents reported soil moisture lack this week, compared to 28 per cent reporting moisture lack this time last year. Last week's rainfall did little more than "settle the dust" and ease corn picking by relieving dryness of stalks, the crop service said.

Almost 90 per cent of the corn crop has been harvested and the seeding of fall wheat has been completed in all but a few scattered fields.

State Honors Area Crop Reporters

A total of 68 farmers from the Kankakee agricultural area will be among the 1,500 voluntary crop reporters of Illinois honored for their outstanding service to agriculture and to all citizens, it was announced by Gov. William G. Stratton.

Certificates of appreciation are being awarded according to the length of service by decades. These men furnish the farm facts and figures on which official crop and livestock reports are based.

They are being honored by both state and federal governments. Through Illinois and U. S. Departments of Agriculture, Stratton said the state is grateful to these public-spirited citizens who month after month and year after year furnish essential information on Illinois agriculture voluntarily and without reward.

S. R. Newell, chairman of the U. S. Crop Reporting board in Washington, D. C., said the reports are "the intelligence service of agriculture." He said the reports of Illinois farmers together with those from reporters in other 47 states, make it possible for the U. S. Crop Reporting board in Washington to issue timely reports on the condition and size of the nation's crops and livestock.

This Motorist Can Never Forget

AP Newsfeatures

Don't read this if you have ever killed a child with your car.

You won't need it.

Otherwise, you had better read every word.

This is for any motorist, more for the careless than the careful. And it is for every parent of a child who might dart into the street after a rolling ball . . . and never get it . . . or run to meet a friend on the other side of the street . . . and never reach him.

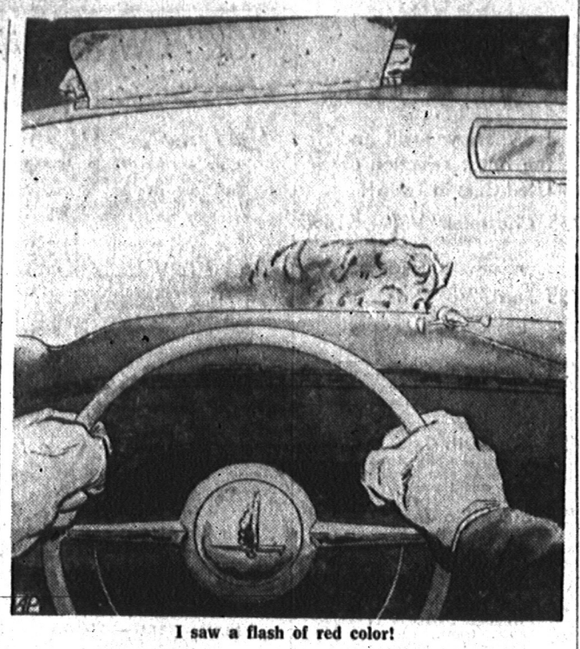
This is the story of a man whose car struck and killed a small child.

There is small comfort to the man because authorities called it "an accident." The little girl is dead.

The name of the driver isn't important. He suffered enough when the impersonal words in the newspaper spelled out what happened on that summer day two years ago.

It's enough to say he's a young business man nearing 30. He is married and has two children.

For the sake of anonymity he will be called Mr. Miller. This is the way he tells it.



I saw a flash of red color!

IT WAS A CLEAR, warm day. Miller usually left his office at the edge of town about 5 p.m. On this particular day he left early, shortly before 4 p.m.

(Since he has asked himself again and again . . . "Why, why did I have to leave early that day?" Just a minute or two, or a few seconds either way, and it wouldn't have happened . . .)

Miller was driving on a smooth country road. There was no posted speed limit. Later he estimated he was driving about 45 miles an hour.

"I wasn't going anywhere in a hurry," he says. "I'd left work early. There was no rush.

"I saw this car coming toward me slowly. A door swung open on the side opposite the driver. I saw quite a few people in the car.

"I never actually saw the girl.

"I remember seeing a flash of red color. I heard the car hit something, then I saw children near the rear of the car that had stopped.

"I knew I had hit someone. Maybe it was their dog. But I knew it wasn't."

"I was so stunned I let the car coast a ways."

HE FELT DETACHED from the event. He was there, but he wasn't.

Authorities pieced together the story. The man in the car that had stopped was bringing several youngsters home from school. The children got out of the car and apparently ran out from behind the car. A little girl was first. She ran in front of Miller's car.

"I ran back and saw her in the ditch. She was awfully close to the size of my own little girl."

The driver of the other car ran up. He carried a blanket. Miller put the little girl on the blanket and picked her up in his arms. Her eyes were closed. They started toward a hospital.

"All the time I tried to think that it was nothing more than a broken leg, nothing more. But I knew she was dead all the time. Either dead or she was going to die.

"It was such a lost feeling."

At the hospital they took the small girl from Miller's arms. He looked at the crook of the arm where he had pillowed her head. The arm was soaked with blood. He hadn't noticed before.

TWO OR THREE minutes later a doctor came out and said the girl was dead.

The "toughest moment" Miller ever has experienced came a few minutes later when the parents of the girl arrived at the hospital.

"I kept thinking. 'What if it had been my little girl.' "

That was two long years ago but the accident still lives with Miller.

"Even now when I drive down the street and see kids going across ahead of me . . . way ahead . . . the impact is almost as great as the day of the accident.

"I drive so cautiously today that sometimes I think I look ridiculous, but I don't care."

One great fear rides with Miller: "It could happen to me again . . . and I couldn't possibly go through it a second time."

He doesn't want to see a flash of red color again. And feel the cruel bump.

GALS BURN UP MOST ENERGY

CINCINNATI (AP)—Housewives burn up more energy than most hubbies do on their jobs, a Cleveland heart specialist says.

Dr. Herman K. Hellerstein of Western Reserve University's School of Medicine said the average housewife burns from three to five calories of energy per minute.

This, he said, is more than is burned up by men on most jobs, except such occupations as "foundry workers, farmers, jobs entailing manhandling of materials and dock workers."

Chatsworth Boy Scouts Take Swim

CHATSWORTH (JNS)—Boy Scout troop 85 went to Pontiac Thursday evening where they were guests at the Moose indoor swimming pool.

Fifteen scouts and Floyd Cole, Dave McKinley and Bud Herr, adult leaders, were present. The boys practiced the back stroke and the float.

During the winter months, the troop has the use of the pool each fourth Thursday evening.

Wounded Chicken Hawk Has Friend

D. G. Pruitt of RR 1, Custer Park, hopes to make a pet of this young chicken hawk. He found the bird with a broken wing lying beside Route 113S near the Warner Bridge Tuesday. Though the hawk's docility is due largely to his injury, he shows indications of being easily tamed. The bird rode beside Pruitt on the seat of his pick up truck all the way to the Kankakee Daily Journal where this picture was taken. Pruitt said the hawk is a "sly" bird and "played dead when I walked up to him. But when I reached for him, he bit and clawed right through my gloves." Pruitt said when he finds injured wild animals, he helps them mend and hopes they will become pets. (Journal photo)

The Intermediate Young Peoples group of the Baptist Church held a Halloween party Friday evening in the church basement. There were 25 present to enjoy the festivities.
