Unchanged

yet widely appreciated, Davis said in an interview.

One possible attempt to guess future birth rates Davis pointed out some of the ways in which parents might be affected already by the growing up of babies already born:

"If you have a sharp increase in consumer demand starting in a few years, as postwar children grow up, they will have more, they spend more for clothes and entertainment. They buy used clothing and they buy used sports equipment. This increased demand will be a stimulus to economic growth."

The number of boys and girls reaching their 18th birthday—the number of people who are starting or starting to work—will climb rapidly in the 1960s. Competition for jobs will be intense. Jobs that offer a good beginning for a career, is likely to be in America, and that competition will be even harder than finding a job. Population projections indicate a doubling their capacity in the next 15 years if they are to handle the economic and political adjustments.

THEir DREAMS for marriage now more is slightly over 20. As economic conditions improve, children arrive at this threshold age, there will be a big jump in the annual rate of "household formations" for new married couples for the enter market for homes, furnishing and other goods. This kind of hold formations mean a rise in demand for housing and durable goods.

Some economists, such as Prof Joseph J. Spengler of Duke University, believe that rapid population growth could be a long-range threat to U. S. prosperity. They foresee growing rising costs of production as the pressure of demand forces the use of raw materials, and a general downward slide in the standard of living.

Davis does not share this pessimistic outlook. He believes that America's long-range increase in population will be about 3% a year, or about double the rate of population growth in the rest of the world. He also contends that scientific and technological advances will provide new sources of raw materials, as in the past.

He predicted that a growing population acts as a stimulus to business; there is more incentive to produce and sell more goods. You know the future market will be larger. And the fact that the number of consumers is growing, run, those industries which expand too rapidly through market saturation, and the growth of the population against serious depression.

U. S. and population growth is no automatic guarantee against short-run "adjustments" in the economy. It could be painful. No one can say with certainty, for example, that the growth of the population which lies ahead will create enough new jobs fast enough to absorb the new population. It is unable unemployment at some point in the expansion of the labor force. Davis, however, is optimistic. He says, "The growth of the population, Davis said, will be the least of our worries." U. S. agriculture, he says, will be able to feed the people despite stringent government controls on planting, is capable of producing more food than we can eat. "Some adjustments in diet," such as eating more fish and less beef, will be necessary, but there is no real danger of a food shortage in this country in the foreseeable future.

Elsewhere in the world, "It's different story." The population explosion is threatening to create serious disasters in some undeveloped nations.

Warns Of Shortage Of Engineers In U. S.

A growing shortage of engineering and scientific students is the most serious threat to the United States today. That warning was voiced here Wednesday by a Kankakee engineer who is chief of process engineering and development for the Ordnance Ammunition Command of the Army and chief of the U. S. group to NATO on propellants and explosives.

"I'm not a crane hanger, but I believe our survival depends on producing enough engineers and scientists," said J. T. Zeigler, former resident of Pittsburgh now living here at 1914 E. Pine St. He addressed the Kankakee Exchange Club, of which he is a member.

In four years Russia will be graduating twice as many engineers as the United States, Zeigler pointed out. For this reason it must depend on more effective use of manpower and superior fire power, he continued.

Zeigler said that many people in this field are worried about emphasis in daily American living on things that are really not important.

He urged his audience to use every opportunity to point out the importance of getting more people into engineering and the technical sciences.

Zeigler is in charge of developing processes for turning out more than 500 types of ammunition under the control of OAC. This covers all the Army's ammunition, missiles, rockets, etc.

His assignment to NATO has taken him to Paris during each of the last three years.

Zeigler said the United States has committed itself to support NATO with materials, financial aid and manpower. But this country hopes that the other NATO countries can be made increasingly self-sustaining in their defense efforts through U. S. assistance.

With other nations taking up the slack, the U. S. has been able to reduce its contributions during the past year, said Zeigler. Armaments are becoming increasingly costly because they are getting more complex and require highly-skilled technicians. Zeigler noted that such things as guided missiles and atomic warheads are very expensive, he pointed out.

But said this country must stay "one or two jumps" ahead of the Russians in both attack and defense.

The OAC, located near Joliet, is headquarters for all engineering, development, manufacturing and procurement of ammunition for Army ordnance. Zeigler pointed out. Under it are 22 plants in this country and several overseas. In addition it supervises production and contracts with private firms.

Established two years ago, it represents the first central ammunition command in Army history.

The OAC is under the command of Brig. Gen. Joseph Conley, who has been assigned from the Frankfurt Arsenal to OAC effective May 1, replacing Maj. Gen. R. G. Butler, who has been given an assignment in Europe.

Zeigler was introduced by Harold Meents.

Ervin Jure of Elgin, district Exchange Club governor, was a visitor at the meeting as the club observed the 46th anniversary of ex-

Jaycees To Build Little League Stadium

The Little League stadium which the Junior Chamber of Commerce is planning will probably become a reality, it was announced at the group's meeting Wednesday evening, following completion of final details.

Jaycees have received the approval of the Board of Education to use a lot it owns just north of the present Little League field in Jackson Park for the stadium under certain conditions, according to Bud Dumlal, stadium chairman.

The board has said it will lease the land to the Kankakee Park District on condition it in turn lease the lot to the Jaycees for the stadium.

Whether the park board will approve of it is not yet known. Two representatives of the Jaycees will attend the next meeting of the park board, April 8, to try and obtain its approval and make final arrangements, Dumlal said.

After all arrangements are complete, a 10-man committee of Jaycees will be set up to oversee construction and operation of the stadium.

SEVERAL MORE OFFERS to donate material to build the stadium have been received, Dumlal said.

Jaycees intend to operate a refreshment concession at the stadium, with proceeds going to year-round improvement of stadium and field. Other means of raising money for the stadium are also being considered.

Plans call for a full-size ball field with grassed infield, dugouts and permanent stands. Also, Jaycees plan a club house with lockers, shower rooms and recreation room for members of Little League teams.

The organization will sponsor a Little League team this year instead of four.

Terms of the lease for the school board property are not determined. A satisfactory response was reported on another project, to select the "Outstanding Junior Citizen" of Kankakee.

Donald Richard, chairman, said applications are being received, and that it has been necessary to have more printed.

Judges have been selected to choose the winner and two runners up. Their names will be announced near Kinkaid in April.

The Philadelpha group's own committee on Indian affairs said in connection with the report many Indians "suffer from neglect, greed and from the act of Congress of 1953 which generally deprived them of both government protection and of their reservation."

THE THREE TOP-PLACE winners will each receive a trophy. The first-place winner will receive a $1,000 scholarship. His or her expenses to the state contest will be paid for by the local Jaycee group.

The contest is open to all students 11 through 19 years of age. However, students must not have reached their 20th birthday by May 4, the date of the state Jaycee convention, when the state winner will be announced.

Local Jaycees will enter two teams in the state Jaycee bowling tournament at Joliet April 7.

Scouting Program On Display This Weekend

The scouting program of the Kankakee Trails District, Boy Scouts of America, will be on display here in the Cavalcade of Scouting Friday night and Saturday afternoon and night at the Armory.

The show will be a project demonstration with Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers displaying merit badges and elective requirements.

There will be 13 Boy Scout troops, nine Cub Scout packs and three Explorers. Scouts will be a booth for dissemination of camp information, one for distribution of general information on the scouting program for parents and prospective scouts, a booth showing scout equipment and one devoted to the Community Chest.

In addition there will be a booth by the Order of the Arrow to tell the story of the national brotherhood of scout honor campers.

THE CAVALCADE OF Scouting is only the second one ever held in Kankakee. The first one was held four years ago.

Proceeds from advance ticket sales are divided with the troop retaining 75 per cent of the proceeds. Remaining funds are turned over to the Rainbow Council to help defray expenses of sending a troop to the national jamboree and to improve the condition of Boy Scout reservations.

Through Wednesday night, approximately 4,200 tickets were reported sold. The council hopes to sell 5,000 tickets to the program.

General chairman is Earl Patton; Lloyd Wilkinson, physical arrangements chairman; Francis Gerth, ticket chairman; Robert Nichols, awards chairman; and Ed Pierson, booth chairman.

TROOPS PARTICIPATING in the Cavalcade of Scouting will be rated on having their booths ready for each show, having a minimum of two scouts in the booth at all times, scouts being active explaining or demonstrating their projects at all times, correct uniforms, individual neatness and cleanliness, placards stating requirements, proper development of requirements, attractiveness of exhibits, construction requirements, and courtesy. Streamers will be awarded on a point basis to participating troops.

Consider A Perplexing Problem

The failure of the U.S. Constitution to provide for a possible situation where a president of the United States is incapable of performing his duties is receiving the attention of President Eisenhower, Attorney General Herbert Brownell and the nation's lawmakers.

The senior Republican member of the House Judiciary Committee, Rep. Kenneth B. Keating of New York, is drafting specific legislation and hopes to present it for subcommittee consideration by next Monday. It is anticipated that Attorney General Brownell will recommend that a president, in the event of disability, may delegate his duties and powers to the vice president and reclaim them when he has recovered.

President Eisenhower, who has given the matter much thought, believes action is vital. This hectic, fast-moving action is a time of often sudden illness and sudden accident. The nation must be fully prepared for any stroke of misfortune if orderly, effective government is to be assured at all times.

The perplexing puzzle is "Who shall decide when a president is unable to perform his duties?" Brownell suggests that a president himself can declare his inability to serve. Many think that this is all right as far as it goes. What worries them is who decides when a president is too ill to do so.

President Wilson suffered a stroke in late September, 1919, and never again had his full physical or mental powers in the remaining 17 months of his term. President Garfield, felled by an assassin's bullet July 2, 1881, lingered between life and death until Sept. 19, most of the time in a coma. In all that time he signed one paper. In neither case did the vice president take over.

The Constitution says the vice president shall assume the chief executive's duties during the president's inability to perform his duties. But it fails to provide machinery for determining when such inability exists.

There have been numerous proposals. Critics say the vice president shouldn't decide on a president's inability because he is an interested party; that the cabinet couldn't give impartial judgment; that the Supreme Court shouldn't mix in politics; that the people won't accept the opinion of one person, even if he be Chief Justice and be advised by eminent doctors.

Support is growing for some sort of permanent commission composed of men from all three branches of government—the Executive (cabinet), Congress and the Supreme Court. Advocates of such a commission feel that a group thus balanced would tend to cancel out individual defects and prejudices and reach a fair verdict on any president's inability to serve. It would have medical guidance and decide for itself what constituted "inability" in any given case.

Consideration of this matter could occasion some trying moments for conscientious lawmakers. But the role that this nation plays in world affairs is such that the issue can no longer be left in the shadowy world of doubt.

Handicapped Need Your Help

The privilege of doing something voluntarily for others is cherished as an individual freedom by most Americans. The satisfaction which comes through meeting a need is among the richest rewards that a person can enjoy.

An organization which is dedicated to serving children and adults regardless of race, creed or cause of crippling, the Kankakee County Association for the Crippled, is now busy with the annual Easter Seal campaign. Support of the campaign will help this organization in its efforts to make useful, happy citizens of those who are crippled.

One of the most evident projects sponsored by the Kankakee County organization is the therapy center in West Kankakee. Establishment of the center, made possible by contributions received in previous years, has given the association an opportunity to give direct treatment to crippled children of our community.

It is hoped that this year's Easter

Seal drive will help finance the employment of a full-time occupational therapist and permit the purchase of additional equipment for the center. Possibly the best way the public will have to learn of the work the association is doing is by visiting the therapy center when a public open house is held Sunday, March 31.

It should be noted that only an estimated 10 per cent of the $10,000 campaign goal will leave the community for support of the national and state organizations for the crippled. Besides underwriting the therapy center the county organization also has sent crippled children to summer camps.

The advances of science bring new hope to the handicapped. All of us can help these efforts to meet a need right here in the Kankakeeand community by sending in our donations for the Easter Seals. Let our hearts go to our hands. By giving to Easter Seals, we can't go wrong.

Beck Has Obligation To Tell Facts

WASHINGTON — Dave Beck, head of the Teamsters Union, has a legal right to avoid giving testimony that could be used against him in a future trial, but in the court of public opinion he is bound by a moral obligation to tell the full disclosure of what he has done with the funds entrusted to him by his labor union members.

The question of whether the fifth amendment implies guilt and whether, since it is a constitutional right, anyone should be condemned for invoking it has stirred up a lot of controversy in recent years, largely because so many Communists or persons suspected of Communist affiliations have refused to testify before Congress about such matters. They pleaded the fifth amendment because it gives them the privilege of remaining silent lest what they say be used against them in some future court proceedings.

The so-called "liberals" have been consistently defending the use of the fifth amendment as something that should be invoked when it is invoked. Their argument is that a man might or might not be guilty of the things which are suspected. He may plead the fifth amendment, for instance, because he is really guilty or he may plead it because he doesn't want to be hauled into court and forced to expose himself to the adverse publicity of a trial.

WHAT SEEMS TO HAVE been overlooked in the Communist cases is that an American citizen owes an obligation to help his fellow men deal with the menace of subversion and espionage involving the safety of the republic. If he puts his own convenience above the welfare of the country itself and refuses to tell about other persons who are guilty—even though he himself isn't—he is not fulfilling the highest purposes of his citizenship.

There is, of course, no question here involving communism. In the case before the Senate committee investigating labor-union racketeers, Dave Beck has long occupied a position of trust in his union. He has been allowed to handle many hundreds of thousands of dollars of the funds of his members, checked off their wages each week. When he insists that there is adequate machinery inside his own union to render judgment on what he has done with various sums, about which the senators asked him, he is passing the buck to fellow union officers who are under his control or influence.

A LABOR UNION IS a quasi-public institution. It acts for many citizens who have a right to expect the most scrupulous care in handling their money. Many union members who recognize this principle are executive boards of the AFL-CIO, of which Beck is a member, now will suspend him from that post as long as he refuses to answer completely the public queries that have been directed at him about the funds placed in his care. Dave Beck, as an individual, of course, will find considerable comfort in a book about the fifth amendment written in 1955 by Dean

E. N. Griswold of the Harvard Law School and widely expounded by "liberals." Dear Griswold, says "A person may fear and honestly fear the risk of prosecution even though he has committed no crime. The country itself and the welfare of the privilege in such a case, and an inference that he has committed a crime is simply wrong."

"IT MAY WELL BE, AS has been said by high authority, that the fifth amendment protects against prosecution for crime, but it cannot protect against the obvious inference which would be taken by any thinking person. It would like to suggest again that many circumstances that inference is not wholly warranted. A person who thinks a little further about the matter may find that there are many factors in some of these situations which must be taken into account before he reaches any conclusion about the inference he should take."

Most union leaders feel that Dave Beck has given the whole labor movement a bad name, and they naturally resent his secretiveness. The fifth amendment may protect him from prosecution for crime, but it cannot protect him from adverse criticism of wrongdoing and who take seriously the trust bestowed upon them. To argue merely that wrongdoing practices have also occurred in some corporations is to condone the situation that has been uncovered in one of the biggest labor unions in the country. Two wrongs can't make a single right.

Foreign Aid Backers Demand Billions

Foreign aid advocates who think Uncle Sam should underwrite the economic development of "backward" areas all over the globe no matter what it costs are becoming progressively more fantastic in their recommendations.

In testimony before a Special Senate Committee investigating foreign aid, Max F. Millikan on March 29 argued that the United States should spend between 10 and 15 billion dollars in helping "underdeveloped areas during the next decade."

Millikan, who is director of the Center for International Studies at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, declared this astronomical sum should be expended regardless of whether they were on our side or neutral in the cold war between communism and capitalism.

More fantastic sounding than Millikan's latest proposals are those advanced some months ago by the Swedish economist, Gunnar Myrdal, director of the United Nations' Economic Commission for Europe.

MYRDAL AND HIS United Nations' staff agree that the underdeveloped areas of the world require 10 billion dollars a year in economic aid. If they are to raise their per capita income by a modest 2 per cent per year.

Myrdal's Internationalist planners also agree that most of the money should come from Uncle Sam but Uncle Sam should have little or no control over how the money should be spent. A special United Nations organization should be created to handle the spending of the billions to be furnished by the United States.

The most sensible and thoughtful, provoking paper I have yet read on the foreign aid problem is that written by J. Anthony Panch, which appears in the current March-April issue of the Harvard Business Review under the title "A Businessman's Philosophy for Foreign Affairs."

Panch is convinced that the problem of providing capital for underdeveloped areas should be neither the exclusive responsibility of governments nor of private investment groups but that a partnership between the two is required for the best results.

The Fashions Change

When we were all young, it was fashionable to have appendicitis and many died of it. Then they changed its name to an appendectomy and blamed it all on castor oil. Now not so many die of it. Instead now one has various forms of heart ailments, not the romantic kind that comes from unrequited love but the physical kind that comes from eating the wrong kind of foods.

Back when I was young, politicians smoked cigars, generally the size that marked a man off as having moved two for a quarter kind, and the most common people, nowadays, even the most advanced gentlemen in public life smoke cigarettes, the ordinary size or king size, but according to the doctors cigarettes could give you cancer. It used to be that cigarettes stunted the growth. A youth who smoked "cotton balls," as they were called, was not supposed to grow to be tall and to have hair on his chest.

WOMEN DID NOT SMOKE — certainly not in public. Of course, there were always the wrong kinds of women who should have been ashamed of themselves. They were the trade mark of an unmentionable profession that every boy learned about from other boys and contact with which was a sure cure for pimples and blackheads. If a girl became one of those, she was not called a celebrity but was sure to meet a fate worse than death.

It was a very good era that worshipped robustness. A woman who had lost on her frame than Jayne Mansfield was regarded as enlightened national self-interest. It was a time when the unsafe to marry lest she be susceptible to tuberculosis which was sicknesses, they charged more to cure them. Consumption was something to be feared, as many got it and it was one of the great revolutions in medicine when it was discovered that fresh air, eggs and milk were the best cure.

NOBODY HAD YET DISCOVERED orange juice. In fact, oranges were a fruit that showed up around Christmas time. They were small, their skin was pitted, and one ate them gingerly lest their juice squirt into the eye. There were no grapefruit. When orange juice was invented, squeezers came on the market. Nobody knew anything about vitamins. People drank orange juice because it tasted good. Before that, they ate stewed prunes and apple-sauce. In fact, in some parts of the country, apple-pie was eaten for breakfast. Nobody was afraid of getting a cold. Nobody was a doctor, yet discovered that measles was a disease, although glutinous was a sin.

Ice cream was bought in a candy store. Nobody bought ice cream in a drugstore. Candy stores were generally run by Italian immigrants earning a living except in some places where used to be prejudices against the Irish, of whom it was said that they made the best household servants. Prejudices were regarded as normal among human beings who were accepted as imperfect and were not expected to be gods on earth.

IN FACT, THE MOST AMUSING humor was the dialect story and such really great actors as Joe Weber, Lou Fields, David Warfield and others of that generation built their careers on dialect. The most popular being the German, the Jewish and the Irish. Today the dialect is more or less dead, having been killed by Hitler-scarec small minds who are so lacking in a sense of humor that they can no longer laugh at themselves. Nevertheless, the dialect is so natural an expression of human fun that when Menasha Skulnik plays on Broadway in a broad-sounding sing-songy English, it is hard to get tickets at any price. Of course, dialects change and one hears nowadays, either authentic Brooklyn or third generation Bronx, is very different from the curious language of my childhood called English.

One can think of those good, unburied old days with some nostalgic sentimentality — particularly when one recalls a world without real hate in it. Who expected a Syrian peddler to sell an authentic Oriental carpet? Did we have to hate him because he tried to make a dishonest buck?

Comeback Actress Charts New Course

NEW YORK (U-P) — At 46 Lillian Roth, who made one of the great comeback in the history of show business, is saying good-bye to the night club world. Roth isn't retiring, she says, but she simply wants to branch out into two new careers — as a lecturer and newspaper columnist.

This is a dark-eyed movie and musical comedy star, who became a top entertainer again after a losing 18-year bout with the bottle, said a three-week engagement next month at the Sahara in Las Vegas would be her last in the night club field.

Over 35? Watch Teeth

All of you, I'm sure, are familiar with the age-old phrase, "See your dentist at least twice a year." After you reach the age of 35 this advice becomes more important than ever. For it's during middle age that more teeth are lost from periodontal diseases—pyorrhea and gingivitis—than from any other cause.

These diseases strike both men and women, although men are likely to be affected at an earlier age than women. One study indicates that close to half of all the nation's men are afflicted with some form of periodontal disease by the time they reach 45. Some have lost all their teeth as a result of it.

Even dental decay doesn't cause as much trouble during the years after 35. In fact, in many diseases, the onset of the condition is gradual. Very often it progresses to the point where there is some bone destruction before the victim even aware that something is wrong.

Unlike many diseases, however, one attack of pyorrhea or gingivitis does not mean immunity from future attacks. In fact, once you have had either disease, you've got to be especially alert for any recurrence.

In these diseases, the gums become inflamed. If not treated properly, they will start to recede. Eventually, perfectly sound teeth may be lost.

IN ADDITION to seeing your dentist semi-annually, you've got to brush your teeth not only regularly each day, but properly, and believe it or not, one method of brushing teeth may be better for you than another.

500 Women Attend Republican Meeting

More than 500 local women seated in the Wedgewood Room and on the mezzanine at the Hotel Kankakee heard facts and figures concerning, not spring fashions, but city and township government on Wednesday afternoon. They also met Republican candidates for office in the forthcoming city, township and judicial elections.

Mayor Ed P. Madison reviewed his past four years in office and the accomplishments of the city administration during that time. He pointed out that two years ago the city had a budget deficit of $10,000. The Legislature passed a half cent sales tax which was the financial "salvation" of our city and many other cities in Illinois. The mayor explained that at the same time, in return for what was received in sales tax, the wheel tax was eliminated in Kankakee, as well as the cigarette tax. With the sales tax money, personnel was increased in the police and fire departments," said Mayor Madison.

HE MENTIONED such advances as the completion last summer of the surfacing of unpaved streets in Kankakee, the removal of dead trees on city terraces and the beginning of a clean-up project for the drainage ditch running through the First, Fifth and Seventh Wards.

Future plans were also outlined by the mayor, including the continuation of the drainage ditch project, the purchase of badly needed aerial equipment for the city fire department and the building of two more fire stations, and the fact that the administration is ready to let a contract for new street signs in the city.

Mayor Madison introduced other Republican candidates on the city election ticket and the township and judicial elections.

It was called "big business" by Donald Gray, assistant supervisor for the township, who followed Conway on the speaker's platform.

Presiding over the meeting was Mrs. C. D. Henry, Republican women's county chairman, who introduced a special guest, Sen. Victor McBroom, county chairman for the Republican party. He spoke of Kankakee, as a city where prejudices and unfair practices are discouraged. As he remarked on the growth of the city since his youth, the senator revealed a few plans for future years, including improvements at the Kankakee River State Park and the Kankakee State Hospital kitchen.

AMONG THOSE who received special introduction by Mrs. Henry was Mrs. Louis E. Beckman, whose husband, as state representative, Mrs. Henry stressed that dates of forthcoming elections be remembered: April 2, township elections, park district election in Kankakee and Aroma Townships; April 13—school elections; April 16—city and village elections; and June 3—election of circuit judges.

WHEN THE Americans' ammunition ran out, the bandits charged in, killing Carroll, Wilson, and two Iranian men in the party. No trace was left of Mrs. Carroll.
The bodies of the two Americans and two Iranians, stripped of valuables and papers, were found by police on a remote patrol and taken to Zahedan, 80 miles from the ambush scene and some 700 miles southeast of Tehran.
Authorities said the bandit leader in the desert area is a notorious 60-year-old character named Daud, regarded by some as Iran's public enemy No. 1. He and about two dozen followers have been supporting themselves by occasional holdups in the little traveled border country and by camel breeding.
The officials thought it was unlikely that the bandits knew when they attacked that their intended victims included Americans.
In Portland, Ore., Mrs. Taj Wilson, 29-year-old Iranian widow of the slain ICA official, received the word of her husband's death at the home of her mother-in-law, Mrs. B. Wilson. He also pointed out that the community will have an obligation to help the company as much as possible so that good transportation service can continue here.

high schools which have driver training.
Stratton's proposal on speed limits, which failed at the 1955 legislative session, provides that motorists exceeding the fixed limit automatically would be guilty of speeding.

A RIVAL BILL in the Senate, which may be modified to conform to Stratton's version, contains a "prima facie" clause allowing a motorist to escape penalties if he could prove his speed was reasonable and proper for the existing conditions.
The governor's speed measure would permit the State Highway Division to set passenger limits up to 10 miles an hour on local roads, such as route 66, and the expressways. The Toll Road Commission would be authorized to fix limits on the turnpikes.

Heavy trucks traveling on the regular state road network would be restricted to 50 miles an hour day and night, and light trucks to 55 miles an hour. Bus speeds would be the same as for passenger cars.
The bills also would permit minimum speed limits based on conditions. The State Highway Division or local authorities also could zone below the 65-55 limit, if it was deemed necessary.

BECK, exasperated at the two-week delay, expressed his opinion of the committee took a 20-minute breather, before for Seattle today and the palatial home which plays a big part in his troubles with the Internal Revenue Service and the racketeers committee.

He said Beck had shown "arrogant contempt for the million and a half members of honest laboring people in the Teamsters' union," and utter contempt for the union and for "the progress of the United States and for his government."

The chairman sent a copy of Beck's testimony to the Justice Department—and said the Internal Revenue Service could have one too if it was interested.
Beck faced yet another hearing. The AFL-CIO official, received the word of her husband's death at the home of her mother-in-law, Mrs. B. Wilson. When news men interviewed her, she had grieved her face with her fingers in the traditional display of grief by her countrywomen.

The younger Mrs. Wilson met her husband in Tehran. She has a 9½-month-old son and is expecting another child in July.

Beck's place at the head of the 1,500-member union, however, is strictly up to the Teamsters themselves. Their next convention is in September. Beck has declared he will put his case in his membership hands by standing for reelection.

Rep. Stewart L. Udall (D-Ariz.) urged members of Beck's union to elect a spokesman to represent the union before the House subcommittee on the committee's hearing.

Udall said the committee had no place as a union leader. Walter P. Reuther, a 3-man in the AFL-CIO and a council member, has indicated he will demand Beck's removal as a union member and AFL-CIO vice president.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO (UP)—Grain futures took the downward path again on the Board of Trade today after two days of higher prices.

Wheat, corn and soybeans were off more than a cent a bushel at times. May contracts, which had shown a steady price advance, showed the biggest losses during most of the session.

Much of the selling appeared to be profit-taking, brokers said. There also was some hedge selling, particularly in corn.
Estimated carlot receipts at Chicago: corn 214, oats 2, barley 22, soybeans 2.

Wheat closed 1/2 to 1 1/2 lower. Cites Volunteers For Aid In Promoting Recent Airport Vote Appreciation for volunteer workers who donated much of their time in a successful promotion for the recent Kankakee Valley Airport Authority election was expressed Wednesday by Chamber of Commerce President E. Roy Erickson.

During a board of directors meeting Erickson praised the work of Walter J. Charlton and other members of the Chamber's aviation committee.

This is the group which promoted the airport project, circulated petitions and furnished all of the legal work necessary to the election.

Seventeen committee members also donated $15,000 for the purchase of 100 acres of land adjacent to the present Kankakee Airport. The contract for the site will be turned over at cost to the Kankakee Valley Airport Authority for construction of surfaced runway.

ERICKSON also told board members that the land which the Chamber now owns adjacent to the Kankakee River State Park will soon be purchased by the state for park development.

Announcement of this action followed a conference between Gov. William Stratton, Sen. Victor M. Brown and Rep. Louis Beckman. The land previously purchased by the Chamber will also be turned over to the state at cost of about $17,000.

Robert Nicholson, chairman of the education committee, announced that 61 speakers had been obtained for Career Day Tuesday at Kankakee High School.

Projects of the agriculture committee will include assistance in promotion of use of milk. Flying Farmers day during the Kankakee County Fair, rodeo assistance in the fair association this fall and plant tours for farmers, agriculture committee chairman H. J. Schoder told the group.

Jerry Van Ormer, assistant Chamber manager, said that Richard E. Verner of Chicago, manager of the fire prevention department of the Western Airway Bureau, will speak here during Fire Inspection Day, April 10.

SIXTY INVESTIGATORS from insurance companies will inspect downtown Kankakee business places, churches and schools on April 18. Verner will speak at Kankakee and St. Patrick Central high schools and during a noon luncheon at Hotel Kankakee, Van Ormer said.

John Meenan, legislative representative for the U. S. Chamber of Commerce in this area, urged a greater interest by businessmen in state and national legislation. Van Ormer told the group that 17 merchants will stage a show at the Civic Auditorium-Friday from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Van Ormer reported that the newly-formed Chamber membership group, the Ambassador's Club, has obtained five new members and collected seven delinquent accounts in the past three weeks.

There were no reports of border incidents today. In Haifa military authorities ended a 24-hour air raid precaution drill today during which mock bombing, a theoretically brought to a standstill the electric and water supplies of Israel's main port.

Lester B. Pearson, Canadian minister of external affairs, gave the Israel position his support in a statement in Commons Wednesday in Ottawa. He insisted the canal must be freely open to ships of all nations, including Israel.

PEARSON ALSO NOTED that a U. N. resolution provided for deployment of UNEF on "both sides of the demarcation line," although Israel has stated flatly it would oppose such a move.

Israel itself was expressing concern over the slowness of the United States in resuming aid to Israel and in lifting a travel ban. Government sources expressed fear the United States might use this to "pressure" Israel into accepting UNEF troops.

Jerusalem dispatches also expressed concern at what officials described as apparent inaction on the part of the United States in helping Israel hold secret talks. Government officials and the Jerusalem Post, which often reflects government thinking, complained that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles defended Israel's position that Egypt has no right to continue its state of belligerency but had done nothing about it.

The Post also suggested that American "pussy-footing" on Mid-east problems meant the United States would prefer sending the Suez Canal case to the International Court at the Hague rather than see Israel try to send a test case.

All employees of the Defense Department and the military services were directed to report suspicious of leaks or misbanding of classified documents to the department security officer and to notify the Pentagon's security review office whenever any published news item appears to contain classified information.

Wilson's actions was sent to the congressional group which is headed by Rep. Moss (D-Calif.).

WILSON ISSUED a directive that will authorize one single official to downgrade and declassify the veritable mountain of classified material in the Pentagon's files. The directive will, however, be appointed later, will concentrate on periodic reviews of the information held secret by military and act to reduce the "accumulation" of classified information.

On the matter of "leaks," another directive authorizes the Defense Department's general counsel to be a watchdog over the military services to prevent leaks and pursue investigations leading to the identification and punishment of officials responsible for disclosing classified information. The military services were warned in this directive that it is their primary responsibility to keep classified information from leaking.

Gets 6 Months On Bad Check Charge

A Bradley man who admitted writing a fraudulent check received a six-month sentence to the penitentiary this morning from Kankakee County Judge Irwin C. Taylor.

Wayne A. Trobaugh, 37, 147 S. Clinton Ave., pleaded guilty to issuing the $10 fraudulent check to the Big Bear Food Mart, 241 E. Court St. He said he also has three other checks out for $5 apiece.

Trobaugh said he made a $40 check good last year at Watska. He testified that he has been laid off since the first of the year and has started to write a novel. The defendant said he surrendered voluntarily at the police station.

Bernard J. Schlosser, 45, Dundee, pleaded innocent to a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. His trial was set for April 11.

Israel officials also expressed displeasure today at the Burma conference suggestions for a pipeline across Turkey instead of through Israel as suggested earlier in Jerusalem.

200 Michigan High School Students To Tour Olivet Campus

Approximately 200 young people from western Michigan were to arrive on the Olivet Nazarene College campus this afternoon. They are first of six motorcades bringing in approximately 1,000 junior and senior high school students over the next seven weeks.

The series of two-day visits are part of the college's student recruitment program of bringing prospective students to the campus. The motorcade program is sponsored by the Nazarene Young People's Societies of the 14 districts served by Olivet Nazarene College in Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri and Illinois. Each year approximately half of the districts send prospective students who are juniors and seniors in high school.

The 200 high school students who were to arrive this afternoon, will be guests at a dinner given at the Olivet Nazarene College. They will receive a campus tour and be guests at an evening social event.

Also as part of the program, Dr. Ralph E. Perry will explain the procedure for enrolling in the college. They will leave Friday afternoon.

Ray Reglin, senior from Lansing, is chairman of the student recruitment committee for the western Michigan group. Prof. R. L. Lunford is the faculty sponsor. The sponsor for the trip is the Rev. Paul Moore of Three Rivers, Mich.

Other motorcades visiting the campus this year and their sponsors will be western Ohio, the Rev. Carl B. Clendens, Wapakoneta, Ohio, April 5-6; northwestern Indiana, the Rev. Robert Griffin, Crawfordville, Ind., April 26-27; Illinois, the Rev. Paul C. Snellenberg, Decatur, May 24; eastern Michigan, the Rev. Ray Williams, Garden City, Mich., May 3-4; and Iowa, the Rev. Forrest E. Whitlatch, Waterloo, May 16-17.

Illinois Legislators Laud Court, Reject Georgia Resolution

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—A House committee Wednesday threw out a Georgia resolution calling for the impeachment of Chief Justice Earl Warren of the U. S. Supreme Court, and instead approved another resolution endorsing the high court on its decision on racial segregation cases.

The House Executive Committee resolved a resolution from the Georgia Legislature, along with a colored reproduction of the Confederate flag, it called for the impeachment of Warren and other Supreme Court justices who supported the high court decision on integration cases.

Rep. Cornelia Davis (D-Chicago) submitted the resolution, and applauded the high court for its stand.

It Costs Twice As Much To Go To College Now

WASHINGTON (UP)—It costs about twice as much to send a boy or girl to college now as it did before World War II.

An Office of Education survey, made public Wednesday, showed that the expenses of an undergraduate student in private colleges average about $2,000 a year. In 1933-1940, the average annual cost was $1,023.

For students in public colleges, the average annual cost now totals $1,500 as compared with $747 in the 1933-1940 period.

The survey covers such expenses as tuition, books and supplies as well as room and board, clothing, travel and recreation.

Tobacco Products Taxes Doubled

WASHINGTON (UP)—The tax collector got nearly twice as much from tobacco products last year as he did the year before.

An Agriculture Department report on the tobacco situation said federal and state agencies collected $2,185,000,000 on cigarettes and other tobacco products in 1956. Farmers, on the other hand, got $1,151,000,000 for last year's tobacco crop.

The department said tax receipts were up 4 per cent last year but that farm returns from tobacco were down 6 per cent.

Blast Victim, 9, Asks $1½ Million In Utilities Suit

CHICAGO (UP)—A boy, 9, today sought $1,500,000 in accident injury damages from the Commonwealth Edison Co. and the Northern Illinois Gas Co.

The plaintiff, Michael Finn, lost parts of both legs in an explosion at a hardware store here. His brother, Robert, 12, was killed in the blast.

The suit, filed Wednesday in Superior Court here, charged that Edison Co. workers hit a gas main while digging a hole for a new utility pole. The gas firm was charged with failing to send experienced men to the scene to evacuate the store when the odor of gas was detected.

Shortage Of Shots Temporary But Apathy Lingers On

You Can't Escape Polio If You Don't Take Shots

NEW YORK (UP)—A shortage of Salk vaccine has developed in the United States on the eve of a new polio season.

Are frightened parents leaping to get their Johnny first into line? Are congressmen shouting for heads to roll?

There is barely a ripple of alarm.

Parents whose children have received Dr. Jonas Salk's cherry-colored creation feel secure. Millions of others who have not had shots for themselves or their children walk around blissfully and mistakenly—thinking that polio no longer is a menace. Officials, embarrassed at the shortage, dropped up during their nationwide vaccination drive, give assurances that the shortage is only temporary.

APATHY AND CONFUSION still blur the picture two years after the April 12, 1955, announcement: "The vaccine is safe and effective."

It has proved 90 per cent effective for persons taking the full course of three shots. Doctors say it "undoubtedly" contributed to the decline in polio last year. In proper dosage it appears to offer protection for years. Among the 11 million persons who have had three shots, only one has died of polio.

But Salk vaccine has not wiped out the disease and doctors say it probably never will. As Salk himself has warned, "Your neighbor's shot does not protect YOU."

SUCH OLD-HAND polio fighters as Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, say the current shortage is actually cause for "rejoicing."

The U. S. Public Health Service, admitting the situation is momentary, "adds," "We are pleased that available supplies are being used so rapidly."

What they mean is not so strange as it sounds. The shortage is proof to officials that—at long last—the vaccine is moving out of the lab where it is useless, and into the arms of children, teenagers and adults.

With five-sixths of the men and women between the ages of 20 and 40, and three-fourths of high school students still to receive even one shot—not to mention 23 million children and prepubescent women—there is a long way to go.

Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney told congressional investigators the shortage was "difficult if not impossible to forecast." Said plus 13.5 million shots produced this year, said the big publicity campaign paid off.

Last summer and fall the vaccine, which must be used within six months after manufacture, piled up on shelves unwanted. Some doctors have charged a "lack of coordination."

But Burney says the "crisis" will be over in two or three weeks, and O'Connor says that by July 1 everyone who wants a shot will have been able to get one.

What worries Burney and O'Connor—and the American Medical Association—is the vast number of "foot-draggers," citizens who do not want one.

The Question Is: Where Shall We Start?

Some Days You Can't Save A Cent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House was in the midst of a hot budget debate when Rep. Peter F. Mack Jr. (D-Ill.) walked into the corridor to meet a caller from his home state.

"I'm here with a group of businessmen to talk with you about cutting the budget," said Mack L. Rowe of Peoria, Ill.

"We feel there are a number of places where the budget should be cut. For instance, Adm. Radford (Joint Chiefs of Staff chairman) has said we could cut the armed forces by 500,000 men and still get good defense."

"He could do that right now," Mack replied. "If he says we can get along with less money, I have an idea the Congress might go along with him."

"IT SOUNDS TO ME as if the Congress was trying to pass the buck to the Pentagon," Rowe said.

"No, the Pentagon is trying to pass it to Congress," Mack said. "Rowe turned to public works. 'We feel no new starts on projects should be made.'"

"That's illogical," Mack said. "If they're unjustified, they shouldn't be in the budget at all. That's a meat axe tactic for cutting the budget."

Well, "We also think this $450 million proposed for school construction should be eliminated," Rowe said. "We feel it's a problem for the state and the communities. And with federal aid we'll get control."

Mack agreed that federal school construction aid "shouldn't be needed" in a state with the resources of Illinois.

"BUT IT'S OBVIOUS WE DO," he said. "I read last week a synopse in Chicago had turned over its classroom facilities to be used for public school classes."

Rowe went back to defense spending. He said his group found "some congressmen who seem to be afraid to touch the military budget."

"I don't believe everything the military tells me," Mack said. "They say they need a pay increase. I'm not for that. How do you feel about it?"

"I'm inclined to go along with that if we can save money by keeping trained men," Rowe said.

"See," Mack replied. "Here you've got a budget-cutter wanting to spend and a spender wanting to cut."

Minimum Wage Bill Action Postponed

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—A showdown was postponed on Gov. Stratton's 75 cent hourly minimum wage proposal Wednesday in the Illinois House Industry and Labor Relations Committee after strong opposition developed.

R. G. Soderstrom, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, said 200,000 workers in the state do not make as much as 75 cents an hour but that another 50,000 are covered by the 41 federal minimum because they are employed in industries engaged in interstate commerce. Soderstrom favored the bill.

ILLINOIS DOES NOT have a state-wide minimum wage. The present law permits a wage board in the Labor Department to set minimums by occupations and industries for women and minors.

Joseph Meek, president of the Illinois Federation of Retail Associations said the bill's enactment would work a hardship on small merchants and that many of them would have to eliminate part-time help.

The proposed act would not apply to persons employing fewer than four persons. It would also exclude domestic service and farm labor.

The House Motor Vehicles Committee killed a bill calling for county distribution of auto license plates. Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter, whose office distributes the plates now, said the county plan would cost a million dollars more than the present system.

Think Hoosier Killed Ohioan, Took Own Life

METZ, Ind. (UP)—The bodies of an elderly Montpelier, Ohio, woman and a Metz man were found riddled with bullets Wednesday night in an apparent murder and suicide.

Police said Roger H. Snyder, 60, a native of this small Stueben County town, apparently fired four shots from a .22 caliber rifle into Mrs. Pearl M. Shaffer, 73, and then took his own life.

Sheriff Harry Dirrim said he discovered the bodies while investigating a missing person report from Mrs. Shaffer's son, Clair, in Montpelier.

DIRRIM SAID the bodies were found in the kitchen of Snyder's home. He said she had been shot twice in the head and twice in the chest. Snyder was shot once in the head and again in the body, Dirrim said.

Dirrim said the victim's son told him that Snyder picked up his mother at her home in Montpelier earlier Wednesday. Dirrim said the pair had been dead about eight hours when he found them.

MIAMI (UP) — A sad-eyed dachshund became a living hero's nest when a dog-been alighted on his back lay near death from thousands of stings today.

Veterinarian said the little sausage dog, Max, was still in a coma and had little chance to live.

Max, owned by the Fred Opea, was covered under an outdoor table when the queen bee alighted on his back. The queen bee, which was about 1/2 inch long, covered the helpless dog.

Neighbors in adjoining yards ran to his aid. One friend tried to get the queen bee off Max, but it only infuriated the queen bee to get rid of him, and he just got stung himself.

WHILE A CROWD GATHERED, the bees stung the weakened animal into a coma.

Finally, a nearby motel keeper who knew about bees finally came to the rescue. He took a small wooden keg and placed it near the limp form of the dog. Most of the bees swarmed onto the keg.

"When the bees were on Max, they looked like pebbles on a beach, but moving pebbles," one witness said.

Max was rushed to an animal clinic as soon as the bees flew away.

Gary Boy Killed

GARY, IND. (UP) — William Robinson, 87, was struck and killed by a Pennsylvania Railroad freight train as he ran across the train's path. Police said witnesses told them the Robinsosons were playing cards at their home in Gary Wednesday when he suddenly ran onto the tracks.

The railroad declined to comment until it could determine whether to regulate billboards within 500 feet of highways.

The shooting was witnessed by a customer and a carpenter, police said.

The carpenter, Adolph May, told police he was fixing locks on the shop's doors when Conover entered and fired point-blank at Mrs. Conover.

They rushed to the police station. Officers Lyle Brotherton and Tom Kelly raced to the beauty shop and said they saw Conover bolt from the house into an alley.

Conover was found in the alley, Conover shot himself in the head. He died later in the hospital.

Police said the Conovers were separated and Mrs. Conover had started divorce proceedings. Brotherton said the beauty shop had been closed for several weeks because police had received reports of threats against Mrs. Conover by her husband.

A 3-year-old son, Timmie, slept through the fracas.

Dr. Adams took her case.

Chief defense counsel Geoffrey Lawrence started his cross examination of the noted specialist by asking:

"It follows from what you said ... yesterday that murderous intention in your view was present in his (Adams) mind?"

"Yes," replied Dr. Douthwaite.

Lawrence then asked the prosecution expert whether the "field of condemnation that you are spreading from this witness box includes the doctor who treated Mrs. Morrell before Dr. Adams took the case."

"If that treatment was for the stroke, yes," replied Dr. Douthwaite.

MRS. MORRELL DIED IN November 1959, 2½ years after she suffered a stroke. Dr. Adams signed the death certificate recording cerebral thrombosis. Her body was cremated.

The defense then offered as evidence the notes received on the treatment Mrs. Morrell received when she first suffered a stroke in January 1946 before Dr. Adams took her case. They showed she had complained of pain and was given barbiturate and sleeping pills with "very little effect."

The prosecution had argued there was no indication Mrs. Morrell was ever in any great pain to justify injections of pain-killing drugs.

Lawrence emphasized that Mrs. Morrell was 79 when she suffered a stroke and asked:

"It would not have been unreasonable for a doctor, so far as you can see to form the view that after this stroke and at that age a prognosis in terms of expectation of life might reasonably be put at 6 to 12 months?"

"I agree," replied Dr. Douthwaite.

Over 100 Dead Or Hurt After Mexican Blasts

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Rescue workers dug through a wrecked block of rubble today seeking more victims of two explosions in a fireworks factory that left more than 100 Mexicans dead or injured. Police hunted the factory owner for questioning.

Eleven bodies — four of them firemen — had been recovered late Wednesday night. A hundred persons were hospitalized. Many were not expected to live.

Most of the casualties resulted from the second blast, which came as hundreds of curious onlookers watched firemen fighting the fire after the first explosion. Because it was late in the night, the factory in a poor residential district — apparently was empty.

POLICE SAID they wanted to question Agustin Rojas Chavez, owner of the factory. Officers said his adjoining warehouse was illegally filled with dynamite and other explosives.

The factory was less than a mile from Mexico City's International Airport and many windows in air port buildings were shattered.

The sound of the two explosions could be heard over the noise of the noonday traffic in the heart of the city five miles away.

Authorities gave this account: Nicolas Lome Munoz, a watchman, saw smoke curling from the factory, located on the Mexico City-Puebla highway which passes the airport, shortly before noon. He told his wife to call firemen and then tried to halt the spreading flames with buckets of water. The woman was unable to find a telephone.

THE FIRST explosion occurred at noon, leveling the plant and damaging nearby buildings. The blast killed the watchman, hurling his headless body 90 feet onto the highway.

Firemen from the airport rushed to the factory and sought to halt the racing flames. Hundreds of curious flocked to the scene and milled around watching the firemen.

Fifteen minutes later the warehouse exploded with a roar that could be heard for miles.

Four firemen, a policeman and five spectators were known to have died in the second blast. Ambulances and police converged on the area and began moving the injured to hospitals in relays.

The explosions left a crater nearly 100 feet long and 30 feet deep where the factory and warehouse had stood. Damage was estimated at $200,000.

Economizers Plan Slash In U.S. Budget

WASHINGTON (UP) — House economists promised to chop millions of dollars more out of the administration's record budget today despite a vigorous protest by President Eisenhower against piecemeal cuts.

At the same time, the Senate's economy drive collided with a $1.5 billion rivers and harbors bill authorizing many pet projects of senators.

Mr. Eisenhower suggested at a news conference Wednesday that if Congress really wants to scale down government spending, it might start with the "great number" of public works authorized for "political purposes."

The President stoutly defended his record peacetime $71.8 billion. He defied Congress to make substantial cuts without crippling "essential" programs.

HOUSE ECONOMIZERS planned to pick up this afternoon where they left off Wednesday—whittling down a money bill for running the Department of Labor and the Department of Health, Education & Welfare.

The House quit work on the $2.3 billion appropriations bill Wednesday with the budget-cutters firmly in control.

They knocked $14.8 million out of the Labor Department's budget, which already had been pared $20.3 million in committee.

President Eisenhower requested a total of $384 million for the department. Members promised more multi-million dollar cuts when they finish up on the labor budget and then swing their axe at the $2.4 billion bill requested for health, welfare and education.

SPRINGFIELD (UP) — A study commission report today recommended that the Illinois Legislature meet annually, with sessions in alternate years limited to budget matters.

The commission, which was set up in 1955 to study the question of annual sessions, filed its formal report with Gov. William G. Stratton and the Legislature Wednesday.

Stratton has recommended an annual meeting of the Legislature as part of his program for Hodge scandal reform. The annual session would permit organization of the state budget on a fiscal year basis, rather than on the current two-year basis.

EARLIER THE HOUSE passed the first major bill in Stratton's Hodge scandal reform program, with measures designed to create a new department of financial institutions.

The new department, to be headed by a director appointed by the governor, would regulate and examine banks and similar institutions now under the state auditor and the insurance department.

In addition to banks, the new department would have authority over savings and loan associations, small loan companies, cemetery associations, trust companies, currency exchanges, credit unions and pawn brokers.

The bills include provision that the regular session would continue to convene in January of each odd-numbered year. The added session would meet on the first Monday in February in even years.

The commission did not recommend any specific length for either year session, but said it anticipated "regular sessions would continue to adjourn by June 30, while the budget session in even-numbered years would ordinarily adjourn long before that date."

THE PROPOSED amendment would require normal legislative sessions every two years, in odd-numbered years, as now exist. The added sessions would meet in each even-numbered year, and would be limited to appropriation bills for the following fiscal year, and other budget matters.

department personnel are forbidden to have financial interests in the institutions which they examine or regulate. Former State Auditor Orville E. Hodge was found to have an interest in a bank which came under regulation by his office.

The measures, which were passed virtually without opposition, now go to the Senate.

The commission which recommended the constitutional amendment to permit annual sessions of the Legislature, headed by Rep. Peter C. Granata (R-Chicago), said it would introduce in the Legislature a joint resolution to provide such an amendment.

IF APPROVED, by the Legislature, the proposal would have to be submitted to a referendum in 1958.

CHICAGO (UP) — Members of the House Un-American Activities Committee returned to Washington today after hearing two more bawdy witnesses in an investigation of the midwestern foreign language press.

John Rosen, operator of a Chicago foreign language film theatre, and Otto Wangerlin, owner of a bookstore, claimed protection Wednesday against self-incrimination under the 5th amendment and their right to freedom of the press under the 1st amendment.

Rosen was asked by subcommittee counsel Richard Abrams to describe his activities but replied: "I'd like to say to the distinguished counsel that he can go straight to the . . . Constitution."

REP. CLYDE DOYLE (D-Calif.) countered by charging that Rosen was "intending to tell the counsel to go somewhere else by the hesitation and infection of his voice."

"You might be a theatre manager, but you won't make a fool out of this hearing," Doyle said. "You do that again and you'll be in contempt."

A total of 11 witnesses refused to answer the committee's questions.

Doyle said, however, that the subcommittee had made progress in establishing that Communists have penetrated foreign language newspapers in the major cities of the U. N.

It was actually a too-big car. At gas pumps, it drank like a fish. So he called it "Moby Dick."

It even had fins like a fish. Parking it was like trying to squeeze a whale into a golfish hole.

He thought about trading "Moby" for an economical little foreign car. It was too little for 5 kids.

So he bought Rambler, only car with room for six kids, plus European car economy, handling ease.

It was a Rambler "6" that set the N.A.S.C.A.R. cross country record of 32 miles per gallon with overdrive.

Rambler's 1st in trade-in value among all two-door cars, because it's the smartest buy, new or used.

The Summer and Herscher units tied for second place. Besides a flag the unit which placed first received a "travelling" roster which will be presented four times a year to the units with the largest increase in members.

Home Economist Speaks At H.B. Recognition Tea

"The American woman is a powerful force in our economic system today," Miss Beth Peterson, home economist from the extension division of E. J. DuPont Co. of Wilmington, Del., told members of the Kankakee County Home Bureau at their recognition tea Wednesday at the Civic Auditorium.

"As consumer and family purchasing agent, you are shaping the destiny of business," she said. "Research Inspires New Fashions in Living," she gave women much of the credit for our high standard of living today.

"Your decisions to buy or not to buy register your preferences and suggestions for improvements. Without your patronage, no business can survive," Miss Peterson declared. "Your decisions are a powerful force in motivating industry to produce new and better things."

"AS HOMEMAKERS, business women, and leaders in community and national affairs, you have spurred industry to produce goods and services to meet the new demands of your more active life." She cited examples of the growth of self-service stores, the development of packaged meats, prepared foods and easy-to-care-for wardrobes.

to give the American family clothing that can meet the rigorous demands of modern living. She cited as examples machine washable clothing that requires little or no pressing and coats and blankets that are lightweight but warm.

"RESEARCH IN DYES is keeping abreast with fiber development," Miss Peterson said. "Consumers not only have a wide color choice, but industry can offer them fabrics with a high degree of colorfastness."

"She termed present day living an 'engineered age' because 'it is now possible to create products that are suitable for specific needs because research has created new basic materials.'"

"One of the recent examples in this field," she said, "is a modern cloth of gold." Miss Peterson displayed a fabric woven mostly of man-made metallic yarns.

"To get new things to the consumer requires the teamwork of many businesses, both large and small, each one doing the job it can perform best," Miss Peterson said. Big businesses can best create and produce the basic materials which require tremendous investment and large-scale production, while smaller businesses are best equipped to convert those materials into finished products and distribute them.

"It is the interdependence of industry—both large and small units geared together so that each performs its function efficiently—that makes it possible to provide goods and services at a price you can afford to pay," Miss Peterson concluded.

MORE THAN 300 HOME Bureau members and guests were present for the membership tea which was in charge of Mrs. William Paquette, county vice president and membership chairman, who presented the awards to the units with the largest increase in members since last June.

The total number of new members for the county Home Bureau in 72. The East Kankakee unit received first prize for obtaining the largest number of new members and the Herscher and Summer units tied for second place.

Mrs. Raymond Dickman, county president, gave the welcoming address. Music was in charge of Mrs. Roy Wilson. Units who had the smallest increase in new members were in charge of table arrangements, units included Bourbonnais, Limestone, Rockville, Cabery, Chebanse, Day, Court, Essex-Norton, Irwin, Reddick, St. Anne, Salina, Union Hill, West Kankakee and Wichita.

Tairop sandal of black patent leather makes news with clear vinyl vamp for evening wear.

This black patent leather Italian cut pump with closed toe and heel has an added interest... a detachable bow.

For that casual look try this gray buck with a covered heel and white attached trim on the vamp.

Women's Styles To Be Modeled At Shoe Fashion Show Friday

Mildred's "ten tiny toes" will receive tender treatment this spring from leading shoe designers which will be modeled at the Kankakee Shoe Retailers third annual shoe fashion show Friday.

The event is scheduled from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at the Civic Auditorium. One of the leading fashion parade notes in women's shoes for this spring is the shoe sheath which is an artfully designed pump, closed up front and back, with tapered toes for a slender look. It's crafted in every leather imaginable—smooth, suede, grain and patent. High-riding vamps with delicate trims are destined to be popular with ladies of fashion, as are the open back nudes, T-strap and the perennially popular pump styles.

As for the T-strap, this shoe shows up in every type of shoe, from low-heeled suit sandals to high-heeled dressy shoe. And, there is the cross-strap, resembling the tango pump of World War I era.

MEDIUM HEELS, TOO, are increasingly important on spring shoes. As a matter of fact, this heel has become a style "must" in every style wardrobe.

This spring again will see the triumphant return of the classic "spectator" for daytime wear. Some of these shoes bear dramatic new touches to make them "strictly 1957."

Shoe colors are light neutrals such as dove gray, sandbar and nougat beige, new pastels such as primrose yellow and bubble blue; or strong rich shades such as light blue, orange, turquoise and lavender.

Touches of white add a special freshness for the new spring shoe wardrobe. Vinyl is still important in gala occasion shoes, and, there are notes of glitter and sparkle in "mod" jewels, nail-head metals, metallics, and lustrous leathers and fabrics throughout the many shoe moods for spring.

In leather surfaces, patent leather is destined to sparkle through spring and summer. Smooth leathers and suedes, in combinations or solo-grained surfaces and textures, luxurious fabrics and exciting patterns are all due to step forth smartly on the spring scene.

CASUAL SHOES HAVE taken to wearing a lot of in-checkered, striped, swirled, floral and lace-like web designs of many colors brighter than the shoe itself.

Toes are pointed in many different manners. Flats may have a blunted point or a point like a wide "v." Most daytime shoes have moderately pointed toes of varying lengths, while late day and evening shoes come in a long, elegant, sharpened point.

Whatever the pattern, material and detailing, the new collection of shoe designs will be widely acclaimed for their simplicity and elegance.

Available at local stores, the shoes in the accompanying pictures will be on display at the fashion show Friday.

Teenagers, Like Their Elders, Are Thinking Of Security First

BY EUGENE GILBERT
President, Gilbert Youth Research Co.

Teenagers today want to play it safe. They'll take security, any day, over risky riches.

"It's better always to be sure of a little, rather than risking the lot," says Judy Laws of Brentwood, Mo.

This comment reflected the general attitude of the young people we surveyed across the country. An overwhelming percentage favored a job offering security and an assured—if modest—income over the job presenting some risks but leading perhaps to future riches.

"I would only prefer security," says a 16-year-old Brooklyn, N.Y., boy whose father is a foreman, "because my expectations are not so great as to demand my taking a risk."

Hitting a wagon to a star would seem to have gone out with the wagon. But some young people of course still have praise for ambition. William Glass of Yonkers, N.Y., says: "The worst thing wrong with America today is the complete reliance on security as the boon of civilization."

And Virginia Floyd of Little Rock says: "I think a person would get stale if he didn't care anything about advancing himself."

ONE REASON TEENAGERS are so and on security is that they don't think it possible to make much money anyway. They point to high taxes, increased cost of living and military service as hazards to making much of a fortune.

"It's impossible to start nowadays on a small salary and eventually become a millionaire," many say.

"Sure, guys like Ford and Carnegie could create fortunes out of thin air," says a 17-year-old football player. "But they weren't stuck with 70 and 80 per cent taxes."

Three-fourths of the youngsters polled believed it was easier to make a million in the last century than it is today.

"Oh, some small fellow will," says a Brooklyn boy. "He'll be one of the few though. It's pretty tough these days—not to make the money but to keep it."

Most teens say, though, that they're not dissatisfied. "Who needs money?" one girl asks. "We live better today than any emperor did centuries ago."

WITH TELEVISION, home appliances, automobiles and airplane travel accessible to the average American, youngsters say they don't see the need of being a millionaire.

On the other hand they have what seem to be fairly optimistic ideas about what they ought to earn.

The boys figure they should start at $75 a week on graduation from high school, $85 a week on graduation from college, $100 a week after age 30, and $145 a week after 45.

The girls think they should make $65 a week after graduating from high school, $70 a week after college, and $85 a week after age 30. Then, for age 45, their sights drop to $80 a week.

Girls, being potential homemakers, are somewhat more security-minded than boys. The percentages on the question about security or risk leading to possible riches broke down this way: girls 82 for security, 18 for risk; boys 78 for security, 22 for risk.

Most teens say, though, that they're not dissatisfied. "Who needs money?" one girl asks. "We live better today than any emperor did centuries ago."

What Do You Think About Your Future Financial Goals?

How much do you think you should earn after high school—after college and at age 45?

At what age do you think you should be able to retire?

If you were given the choice of a job that offered security and an assured but modest income, or taking a risky job with the prospect of becoming rich, which would you choose?

Would becoming a millionaire today be easier or harder than in the last century?

Do you think you can start nowadays on a small salary and become a millionaire?

One of the most optimistic of the ambitious group was Don Warnock of Springfield, Mo. "If I failed it could always start over," he says. "When do young people think they should retire?"

One of four thinks this should happen by 55 years of age, but more than 50 per cent think retirement ought to occur anywhere from 60 or older.

The large number in favor of retiring after 60 and 65 is surprising. But the teenagers say that older men and women are better fitted for the time they themselves are in.

Some of these age brackets, they figure, security will be healthier and more alter than ever.

The Journal Kitchenette 'Finish' A Meal With Good Dessert

By MARY JEAN HOUDÉ
"Always a dessert to finish a meal!" That's the feeling of Mrs. Charles Hansen of Jeffery street and many other homemakers.

Mrs. Hansen explains that her family expects dessert, to top off a meal and as an in-between snack. She has chosen several of her most successful dessert recipes for printing here, with emphasis on a GRAHAM CRACKER STRAWBERRY CREAM PIE and APPLE CRUNCH.

The desserts also come in handy when Mrs. Hansen takes her turn at entertaining fellow club members from such groups as the Limestone Yvonne Bureau unit, DCH Club, Limestone Social Club and the Limestone Neighborhood Club. She also belongs to the Woman's Club of Kankakee, bridge club and St. Martin of Tours Church.

The Hansen family has a son, Bernard, and four grandchildren, Richard, 9, Margaret, 7, Donna, 4, and Ronald, 2 months.

The following recipes are the kind that guests will not only praise but ask to copy:

Graham Cracker Strawberry Cream Pie
14 graham crackers
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup melted butter
Combine the above ingredients. Press on side and bottom of pie pan. Bake until light brown; let cool.

Cook 1 package vanilla pudding as directed. Place in pie shell. Let stand until cold. Use 1 package frozen strawberries. Using the juice, add water to make 2 cups boiling water. Pour over 1 package strawberry gelatin. Cool. Add strawberries when congealing. Add strawberry-gelatin mixture to top of pudding in pie shell. Sprinkle top with coconut. Let stand until set. Can be made the day before serving.

Apple Crunch
Prepare apples as for pie. Place on bottom of pan. Mix 1/2 cup sugar in apples. Sift together the following ingredients:

1 cup sugar
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
Beat 1 egg until light. Add to dry ingredients until it forms crumbs. Cover apples; sprinkle top with crumbs. Can be served plain or with whipped cream, hot or cold. This is the quickest apple dessert made (take the place of pie, says Mrs. Hansen. Makes 8 servings).

Cherry Cake
(With Topping)
Mix together the following ingredients:

1 cup flour
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup chopped nuts
2 cups drained cherries
1 tablespoon melted butter
1 egg, well beaten, added to dry ingredients
Bake in shallow pan, 8 x 12 inches, at 350 degrees F. for 45 minutes.

Sauce for Topping
1/2 cup cherry juice
1/2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour or cornstarch
2 tablespoons butter
Cook ingredients until it thickens. Serve on pieces of Cherry Cake, topped with whipped cream after a heavy meal.

Custer Park Club To Meet April 3 For Easter Show

BRAIDWOOD (JNS)—The Custer Park Community Consolidated School Club will meet April 3 in the school with Mrs. William Ruda in charge.

The title of the program scheduled is "Easter." Mrs. Mary O'Mara will demonstrate how to make Easter baskets from scrap materials and how to decorate eggs.

On the refreshment committee will be Mrs. Lawrence Underwood, Mrs. George Underwood, Mrs. Charles Shaw and Mrs. Curtis Simpson.

Mrs. John Sullivan, teacher of the first and second grade room, is ill in her home. During her illness, Mrs. James Barnett, is substituting.

SHOPPERS' GUIDE: The cheapest food on the table is still potatoes. They are an excellent buy for the budget-minded shopper.

Cooking vegetables are among the good buys. Cabbage is quite a bit cheaper than it was last week and price is low for carrots and celery. Asparagus has taken a drop in price and the good buys include green beans, cauliflower and broccoli.

Lettuce will be a trifle higher in price this week, also tomatoes, peppers and cucumbers. On the inexpensive side will be radishes, green onions and celery.

Bananas are featured among the fruits on the market. California oranges are still fairly reasonable and Florida grapefruit quality is still very good and not too expensive. The apple supply is coming from Washington. Only the best qualities are left and they bring premium prices.

New limes on the market include cantaloupe (high priced), watermelon (also expensive), and strawberries (quality just fair and very expensive).

Devil's Float
1 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
3/4 cup sugar
1/2 tablespoons cocoa
2 tablespoons melted butter
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup nut meats
1 teaspoon vanilla
Sift dry ingredients. Add butter, milk, nuts and vanilla. Mix thoroughly. Spread butter on bottom of pan 8 x 8.

Sauce For Devil's Float
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup white sugar
5 tablespoons cocoa
1 cup hot water
Mix all ingredients of sauce well. Pour over batter. Bake 30 minutes at 400 degrees F. Serve hot or cold with or without whipped cream. Will serve 10.

Gelatin Surprise
1 cup whipping cream
1 package apple gelatin
1 package strawberry gelatin
1 package orange gelatin (any 3 or 4 flavors can be used)
1 can crushed pineapple

Chickens Take Over As Top Menu Bargains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Shoppers who have grown accustomed to seeing beef featured at their favorite supermarket or neighborhood store will find a change in the meat supply situation this week with chickens taking over the most prominent position.

Fryers and roasters, any where from two to six cents a pound cheaper than a week ago, will be the special in many stores. This is unusual at this time of year, and the situation was brought about in part, meat men say, by the heavy snowstorms in the Midwest's lamb and beef-growing areas earlier this week.

LAMB, ANYWHERE from 2 to 12 cents higher in many areas, is featured in only scattered localities. Beef, too, is not nearly as popular as usual for the special feature treatment. This probably accounts for more numerous mentions of veal, pork and haggis, too.

Pork prices are expected to be higher this spring, since hog slaughter is running 15 per cent behind last year. Higher prices in the next few months will bring eventual relief, however, as farmers send more pigs to market because of prices that are attractive to them.

Record packs last year also mean lower prices for certain types of canned food such as sweet corn, peas, tomatoes, peaches and fruit cocktail.

Fresh vegetables, on the outstanding buy list in most areas this week, include storage potatoes, root crops like beets and rutabagas.

Pascal celery, beans, onions and such greens as kale, spinach and collard also are good buys.

Chicago Woman Hit-Run Victim
CHICAGO (UP)—Mrs. Marie Gorecki died Wednesday night in Norwegian American Hospital of injuries suffered when she was pinned against her car by a hit-run driver.

Authorities said Mrs. Gorecki, 45, stepped from her parked vehicle and was struck moments later.

Top Quality Protein Dish Made With Tuna, Macaroni

By GAYNOR MADDOX, NEA Food and Markets Editor
Remember eggs are plentiful, large, of fine quality and fairly priced. Use them in meatless dishes such as this meat-in-a-dish combination with tuna and macaroni. It has lots of top-quality protein plus delightful flavor.

Deviled Egg Macaroni and Tuna (4 servings)
One tablespoon salt, 3 quarts boiling water, 2 cups elbow macaroni (8 ounces), 7-ounce can solid pack tuna, drained; 3-minute package sauce, 4 hard-cooked eggs; 1 tablespoon mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon chili sauce, paprika.

Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Break tuna into pieces. Combine tuna, macaroni and 3-minute package sauce; mix well.

Heat to serving temperature, stirring occasionally. Meanwhile, cut eggs in half crosswise and remove yolks. Combine yolks, mayonnaise and chili sauce; blend. Fill egg whites with egg yolk mixture. Sprinkle with paprika. Turn tuna-macaroni mixture into serving dish. Top with eggs.

U.S. Drops Suit Against Scouts For Plane's Sale
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UP)—The U.S. government has dropped its $18,000 damage suit against a Boy Scout Council and other successive owners of a "B-29" bomber that crashed in 1947 with a $50,000 price tag.

The Piedmont Council of Boy Scouts at Gastonia, N.C., contended the government did not impose any restrictions on resale of the World War II B-29 Liberator sold to the Scouts in 1947 for $300.

The Scouts, after using the plane for non-flight instructional purposes, sold it in 1951 to two men for $1,000. The men sold it the same year for $3,000 to a Virginia group which sold it to three others for $12,000.

The plane was finally sold to a purchaser in Mexico for $50,000 and has since been reported flying in Central America.

FOR A FISH TREAT that's different, bake frozen fillets with a bread-crumbs stuffing seasoned with minced clams.

Stuffed Fish Fillets With Minced Clams

By GAYNOR MADDOX, NEA Food and Markets Editor
Here's an easy-to-do recipe for a delicious combination of frozen fillets—cod, haddock, ocean perch, flounder or sole—and minced clams. Odorless, boneless, different, this is the type of fish dish all the family, including the youngsters, will eat.

Fish Fillets With Clam Stuffing
(Makes 6-8 servings)
Two (1-pound) packages fish fillets (cod, haddock, ocean perch, flounder or sole), 2 (5-ounce) cans minced clams, 1/2 cup butter or margarine, 1/2 cup chopped onion, 1/4 cup chopped celery, 4 cups bread crumbs, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, salt and pepper.

Let fish fillets thaw on refrigerator shelf or at room temperature. Arrange half of fillets close together in buttered baking dish. Drain minced clams, reserving liquid. Melt butter or margarine in skillet. Pour off about half of butter and sauté onion and celery until tender. Stir in bread crumbs until butter is soaked up. Continue tossing crumbs until they are brown slightly. Stir in clams, lemon juice, and enough clam liquid to moisten. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Spoon stuffing over fillets. Cover with remaining fillets. Brush with reserved butter. Bake at 375 degrees F. (moderate oven) 20 minutes, or until fish flakes easily when tested with fork. Serve baking dish. With fried fillets, use lemon tartar sauce for extra enjoyment.

One cup mayonnaise, 1/4 teaspoon onion juice or 1 tablespoon chopped chives, 2 tablespoons chopped green relish or green pepper, fresh lemon juice.

Combine other ingredients, then thin to the desired consistency with lemon juice. For variation add chopped celery, chili sauce or Worcestershire sauce.

Try Scampi For Lenten Meal

Scampi is the name of the giant prawns of the Adriatic, and what each chef or cook does with them almost catalogues their skill and experience.

A short distance north of Pittsfield, Mass., at New Ashford, is "The Springs." This restaurant's food is superb—as witness this recipe for Scampi, a delightful shrimp dish.

Use 1 pound of fresh or frozen shrimp to serve two. Split down back, remove vein and peel to 1/2 inch of tail. Place in broiling pan—salt and brush with olive oil. Broil for 2 minutes.

Meanwhile, prepare sauce as follows: Melt 1/2 pound butter and let cook to a golden brown, add 1/2 cup olive oil, 3 cloves garlic, chopped finely, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon basil, 1/2 cup sherry and simmer for 5 minutes. Place this over broiled shrimp and broil while basting until golden brown.

Eat with French bread and dunk bread in sauce.

HOLLYWOOD in—Ingrid Bergman who exiled herself from the United States because of her scorn and scandal said today that she is "delighted and very happy" to be back in Hollywood and give her highest honor.

The 45-year-old Swedish star, who quit the United States in 1949, attended the 29th annual awards presentation Wednesday night. The gold award for best actress went to the Swedish actress for her role as the wildered prisoner princess in "Anastasia."

Yul Brynner, who topped "Around the World in 80 Days" was acclaimed the best picture of the year.

MISS BERGMAN, in Paris, could not at first be reached when the news that she had won the award was first reported in Hollywood. Later, she expressed her delight and said she was especially pleased to be honored in Hollywood.

After she received the award, she said, "We became very good friends when they came to me in Paris."

Winners of supporting-player awards were Dorothy Malone, as actress of the year in "Anastasia" on the Wind," and Anthony Quinn, as eccentric artist Gauguin in "Anastasia."

Ingrid was the wife of a Beverly Hills surgeon and the mother of two children. She was born in Sweden and became a citizen of the United States by Italian director Roberto Rossellini.

"Anastasia," which marked her return to American films, had a European flavor. It was directed by American Oscar costume Cary Grant to accept her Oscar case in case she

SHEN WON AN OSCAR in 1944 for her role in "The Song of Bernadette."

A top studio executive who asked not to be identified said today that he was "amazed" that Miss Bergman was years ago to cast Miss Bergman in a film, but "encountered so much opposition" that he had to drop the plan.

"Now that Hollywood has awarded her the Oscar, I am sure she will know that all is forgiven, that she will be welcomed back to Hollywood and to the industry," he said.

George Stevens received the best-director award for his picture of a Texas oil family in "Giant." He won the 1951 Oscar for his picture of a Texas oil family in "Giant."

"Around the World in 80 Days," his first picture, said today that he was "amazed" that he was named best picture because it's his first time at the top.

Thursday, March 28, 1957

QUINN TOLD reporters he was so surprised at his victory that:

"I feel just like Harry Truman."

Miss Malone said later she couldn't recall, she dedicated her award to her mother.

BILL MALONE of Dallas. A lightning bolt killed him in 1954 on a golf course.

Bryner, 41, born on the Island of Sakhalin near Siberia of Mongolian descent, came to Hollywood with his Oscar in his second starring picture. The shaven-headed actor, who was named best picture, was named best picture of the year.

WINNERS of the 29th annual awards went to the following:

weeks old when her father last had seen her. And the mother died.

THE RESULT was a reunion at the Cleveland Airport two weeks ago and Inniskeep's marriage "to that old gal of mine," with the Rev. Paul Kerschner, of the First Congregational church rectifying the knot.

The ceremony was the third for both octogenarians. After the 1907 separation, Inniskeep stayed in Delavan and married another woman, now dead. His divorced wife went to New York, remarried, then moved to nearby Greenfield, Ohio, where her husband died 17 years ago.

At the apartment of their daughter, who will remain for a few weeks before moving back to Delavan, the bride said she didn't "want a honeymoon trip." She said she just wants to be with Inniskeep, again adding:

"We never had a cross word altercation in our lives. In divorce of the fact we were apologetic. Feuds between our families did that."

Our Foreign Service Officers Backbone Of U.S. State Dept.

WASHINGTON (UP)—Fred Sacksteder was vice consul of the United States at Lyon, France, in 1955.

Until Sept. 1 of that year, life had been fairly routine — visas, import-export licenses, looking after lost or wayward Yanks.

But on that day Sacksteder, now serving in Washington, had an opportunity to demonstrate the payoff of the State Department's careful selection of each Foreign Service Officer, this government's eyes, ears, right arm and backbone overseas.

LYON, A HEAVY industrial center, was subjected to a severe storm. Hailstones shattered nearly every skylight in town. Millions of dollars worth of machinery was exposed.

Sacksteder said in an interview, "The consul was out of town when I got a call from the French asking if we could protect our military and obtain canvas tenting for covers."

"We started an airlift of tents and tarpaulins. Then we hauled it in by truck. In all we provided about 800,000 square feet of canvas."

The consul and embassy staffs in Italy provided housing and cars for Americans evacuated from Egypt at the height of the Suez crisis, even supplying dinner out of their own pockets and often in their own homes.

ON NOV. 1, 1948, the Bamboo Curtain descended before the American consulate at Mukden, China, headed by Angus Wright. The staff was imprisoned, threatened, accused of being spies and finally deported.

Wright was beaten by a Chinese servant trying to curry favor with the Communist. Despite 28 days of intensive questioning, Red-style, none of the staff members cracked.

Charge Mayor Took Bribe, Perjured Self

PORTLAND, Ore. (UP)—Terry Schunk, mayor of this city, was charged today with taking a bribe and perjury.

Dist. Atty. William Langley, city police officer and a Portland gambler also indicted by the Multnomah County (Portland) grand jury, which has been investigating charges of vice and corruption.

Langley, chief legal officer of the county, was accused of corruption and malfeasance for not upholding the gambling law and conspiring to obstruct justice by permitting gambling, and of accepting a bribe from persons "unknown." He was released on $3,000 bail.

BOTH LANGLEY and Schunk were key witnesses recently at the Portland phase of the Senate labor racketeering hearings.

Langley cited the Fifth Amendment to protect himself from possible self-incrimination when he was asked about charges that he had conspired with certain Teamsters Union officials and others to expand vice activities in this city.

Schuck denied accusations that he had accepted a bribe and he refused to take the detector test. Later, however, he walked out on the test, conducted by the Secret Service, contending that the questions put to him were a "fishing expedition."

Star witnesses at the hearing was Portland gambler Big Jim Elkins. His grand jury testimony, corroborated by others, led to the charges against Schunk.

Patman Richard A. Sutter and gambler Clifford O. Bennett said at the hearing that Schunk had placed a $400 bribe in an envelope near the club in September 1955, when Schunk, who then was sheriff, was conducting a raid. He said, Schunk had picked up the envelope.

SUTTER and two other police officers said they had witnessed this. But later Sutter changed his story and said he could not be sure.

Brutality In Naval Brig Being Probed

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UP)—Evidence indicates that guards starved prisoners in the brig at the Jacksonville Naval Air Station, Capt. W. S. Harris, station commander, said Thursday in a report on an investigation of alleged mistreatment of prisoners.

The Navy said it is a "closed" inquiry and no names can be given before it is completed.

Harris said several days ago when the investigation to date of the Jacksonville brig, he revealed evidence indicating irregularities consisting of the striking of prisoners with fists and the exercise on several prisoners of certain guards.

"THE MAXIMUM" alleged injury was the testimony of one former prisoner that his eardrums were perforated by blows on the head. Examination by medical authorities indicate that such perforations do exist. However, as of this time, he said, he has no indication of permanent impairment of hearing exists and the man continues under treatment.

A Chicago businessman, Peter De Young, vice president of the Big Hollow Sand and Gravel Corp., has said his son Richard, 18, spent 22 days in the Jacksonville NAS brig and was struck by a Marine sergeant there.

The boy's eardrums were broken, his father said.

"I heard Richard testify that the sergeant slammed him hard over one ear and then the other with his hand," said De Young. "The sergeant then hit him in the stomach with his fist, then jabbing his fingers in the boy's eyes."

Blood Flows In To Help 2 Brothers

CHICAGO (UP)—A special shipment of blood plasma arrived Wednesday night and was on its way today to help John Stambo, 14, and his brother, James, 12, fight the dread blood deficiency, hemophilia.

Wednesday night's shipment of 20 pints came from Milwaukee. Today's was scheduled to arrive early from Oakland, Calif.

Meanwhile, the East Chicago, Ind., brothers lay side by side at South Shore Hospital, in danger because they are hemophiliacs—persons whose blood won't coagulate and, therefore, can't stop bleeding when cut or injured.

OLGA DUNER, director of nurses at the hospital, said the brothers act like "typical boys." She said one played in his bed with an airplane Wednesday night while the other scanned through comic books.

Doctors reported that bleeding has stopped in the kidney and bladder of James, and that John's bleeding, which began when he underwent an emergency operation at the hospital, has stopped.

State engineers said the project was delayed when the design had to be changed from structural steel to reinforced concrete because of a steel shortage.

New plans will be completed by April 5, Bartelsmeyer reported.

THE WORK WILL BE LET in one contract instead of two as would have been the case with a structural steel bridge.

Today's announcement followed a recent conference between Sen. McCormack and Rep. Louis E. Beckman and Bartelsmeyer concerning the bridge.

Carrying Route 17, it will give the area a four-lane river crossing to supplement the Station Street Bridge, now clogged with more than 13,500 vehicles a day.

Cost of the new structure is estimated at $11 million.

Completion of right-of-way negotiations was announced Feb. 15 by district engineers and the Kankakee Park District. The bridge will span the river from Alpiner Park on the east to the city of West.

The park district will receive approximately the land also allocated to develop Alpiner and Birks parks which the land was taken.

A. E. Keger Sr., park board president, said the board also obtained two important concessions—construction of a pedestrian underpass beneath the bridge and a parking lot at Alpiner Park and steps on the south side of the bridge at both ends for pedestrians to mount the bridge.

THE BRIDGE IS ONE of the projects recommended by the Lochner highway study of the Kankakee-Bradley Road, a 10-mile stretch in Alpiner Park and steps on the south side of the bridge at both ends for pedestrians to mount the bridge.

Route 45, entering the city from the north, will be relocated to the east at the east end of the new bridge. The new routing will pass under a railroad trestle on the east bank of the Kankakee River, eliminating the present railroad crossing.

The reinforced concrete construction will be similar to that of the Schuyler Avenue and Bell Route bridges.

Navy Reveals $150 Missile Capable Of Downing Plane

CHINA LAKE, Calif. (UP)—The Navy announced today a new rocket-propelled missile named Zuni, and said the $150 weapon can overtake a jet plane.

An economy model among high speed missiles, the Zuni can be used in air-to-air and air-to-ground attack, said the Bureau of Ordnance, which made these claims.

The folding fin, self-propelled rocket can knock down a $10-million solid missile concrete pillboxes and destroy tanks.

Its launching device, unfolding four rockets, develops ultra-high velocity. The launcher can be loaded and fired in a plane, easily jetted, thus increasing the plane's speed.

IT IS A NON-nuclear weapon. Aside from costing less, the 5-inch Zuni saves money on packing, saves loading space, saves personnel formerly necessary for loading and is safer because it requires less handling. It has been approved for operational use in the field.

Rear Adm. F. S. Wilmington, chief of the bureau, termed Zuni the "most important development in the history of the Zuni since it was first conceived."

Wilmington said Zuni is named for a Pueblo Indian tribe in western New Mexico who twice the velocity of the Zuni, which replaces an high performance aircraft.

State To Open Bids On Court St. Bridge May 17

Tentative plans to open bids for the Court Street Bridge on May 17 were announced today.

The information was received by State Sen. Victor McCormack from R. R. Bartelsmeyer, the state's chief highway engineer.

"Pending favorable action of the Federal Bureau of Public Roads, it is contemplated that this structure will be placed on the May 17, letting," Bartelsmeyer told Sen. McCormack.

State engineers said the project was delayed when the design had to be changed from structural steel to reinforced concrete because of a steel shortage.

New plans will be completed by April 5, Bartelsmeyer reported.

Britain, Greece Get Warning On Cypriot Violence

ANKARA, Turkey (UP)—Turkey warned Greece and Britain today that it will consider the situation "very grave" if Archbishop Makarios' release sparks new violence on the eastern Mediterranean island of Cyprus.

Turkish Premier Adnan Menderes conferred today early this morning with foreign ministry officials on the matter that the leader of the Greek Cypriot majority had been freed by Britain from his year-long exile in the Seychelles Islands.

A government statement broadcast by Ankara radio said violence by the EOKA (Union With Greece) movement would have to stop before Turkey would be ready to be a member for committing a traffic violation, so many for slashing a tire, so many for breaking off a car aerial, and so on.

Menderes' reaction contrasted with rejoicing in the streets of Athens and Nicosia and the optimistic tone in London.

Makarios was freed by Britain Thursday on the condition that he would not return to Cyprus from which he was expelled March 8, 1956. The British said he failed to condemn the EOKA terror tactics.

WASHINGTON (UP)—When a convertible drives by, who looks at her license plates?

Not the police in Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and most of Maryland.
