International Flavor Spotlights Annual Christmas Party

Large globes suspended from the ceiling of Chalfant Hall will be one of the many highlights at this year's Christmas party, "Wonderful World of Christmas," which will be held Dec. 16 at 7 p.m.

An international flavor with the traditional yule-tide feast will be featured with beautiful scenery from Norway, Italy, London, Paris, and the United States. The most spectacular scenes will be from the U. S.

A madrigal group under the direction of Prof. Ovid Young will perform songs from the various countries represented. The group will consist of students from the campus.

A large stage with extended runway and another circular stage will be one of the unique features of this year's party. It will give the party a theatre in the round effect.

Other decorations besides the 12 ft. weather balloon globes are a bridge, a nature scene, large Christmas trees, and the fifty state flags. These will all be incorporated to add the international atmosphere.

The attire for the party will be semi-formal. Those couples wishing to announce their engagements should contact Diana Mason today.

Music Dept. To Present Christmas Concert

The annual Christmas concert presented by the Music Department, under the direction of Prof. Harlow Hopkins, will be given Monday evening, Dec. 18, at 8:30 in College church.

The concert is similar to last year's in that the audience will be surrounded with music. The three choirs, the Concert Band, the Brass Choir, and the Handbell Choir will all be participating.

The sacred concert will consist of traditional carols and other Christmas songs. The highlight of the program will be when all the members of Orpheus, Vikings, and Treble Clef each light a candle and line up completely around the church, forming a cross for their closing numbers.

MRA Open House Set

The evening of Friday, Dec. 15 will begin with an open house of the men's dorms at 7 p.m. sponsored by M. R. A. for M. R. A. and W. R. A.

Apart of the open house, from 7-9 p.m. will be a bake sale. Through the bake sale the fellows will be able to provide refreshments in their rooms for their visitors.

The climax of the evening will be the presentation of a Christmas film in Ludwig Center.

SCENE FROM SUNDAY AFTERNOON PRESENTATION OF MESSIAH

Messiah Concert Held at ONC

The 33rd annual performance of the "Messiah" under the direction of Mrs. Naomi Larsen was presented by Olivet Nazarene College Oratorio Chorus and Orchestra at College Church of the Nazarene on Dec. 8 and 10.

Student soloists—Linda Spaulding, Virginia Wasson, David Welch, and James Logston—sang for an audience of over a thousand on Friday evening.

An equal number gathered to hear the Sunday afternoon presentation which featured the professional soloists: Miss Teresa Orantes of Chicago; Helen Wooden of Indianapolis; Roger Havranek of Bloomington, Ind., and Irving Kranich of Kankakee.

A new innovation used this year in the production of the "Messiah" was the harpsichord. This instrument owned by Dr. Reinhold Schuller of Herscher, Illinois, was loaned to Olivet especially for the "Messiah." Prof. Harlow Hopkins, chairman of the Division of Fine Arts, said that in his view the harpsichord helped heighten audience interest.

According to Mrs. Larsen, using the orchestra on every number added much for continuity to the whole production.

Continuing Mrs. Larsen said that for many years she has been involved in producing the "Messiah," and yet it has not lost its original freshness. She has appreciated its message and inspiration more each year.

Both performances were attended very well. According to Mr. Howard Farmer, head usher, the audience included a bus load of fifty church members from as far away as Indianapolis, Ind.

SPIRITUAL OUTREACH IN ACTION

SCOPE Aiding In Area Service Projects

Area service projects are beginning to feel the impact of Olivet Nazarene College through the Students Concerned Over People Everywhere division of the Spiritual Outreach program. SCOPE, as the organization is commonly known to Olivetians, is moving ahead under the leadership of Carolyn Secrist.

Miss Secrist called a meeting of group directors Monday evening, Nov. 27, to discuss difficulties facing the various teams to make plans for further expansion of the program. Present at the meeting were Sandy Bidlack, Bill Snyder, Diana Mason, Sandy Reed, and Joe Wisehart, chairman of the Spiritual Outreach program.

Sandy Bidlack is director of a team beginning operations in February at the Kankakee State Mental Hospital. This team, consisting of about 27 people, will tutor patients in various areas and serve in whatever capacity they can.

The group designated to aid the Kankakee Cancer Society is under the direction of Bill Snyder. There are six people on this team and their main purpose will be to help in the Spring drive for funds. Their other activities take them to area clubs and organizations to show films on the prevention of cancer.

Students from SCOPE will also be serving in whatever capacity they

Olivet Coed Is Injured By Sniper's Bullet

Miss Glenda Kisse, heading toward Hammond, Ind., Saturday night escaped fatal injury when her car was fired upon by two snipers. She was riding in a car driven by John Glisson, an Olivet sophomore. As the two were proceeding along the Peotone-Beecher road, their car was fired upon. The bullet grazed the head of Miss Kisse and shattered glass throughout the car. Glenda was taken to St. James hospital where she was reported in good condition.

The snipers fired into two other cars injuring six people, the only one of whom required hospitalization being Miss Kisse.

The police arrested David G. Sennholtz and Louis J. Uleiss, whom they charged with attempted murder. Both men are 21 years old.

ONC Professor Attends Convention In Hawaii

Miss Lottie Phillips, English professor at ONC, spent Thanksgiving week in Honolulu as a committee member and special consultant on the slow learner at the National Council of Teachers of English Convention.

The committee worked with invited consultants from secondary schools in the U. S. to prepare a portfolio, a booklet and a book on the English Education of the Slow Learner. This material will go to press in May 1968, and be available for purchase in August.

Miss Phillips' committee appointment was a partial result of her work as a director of a four year federal project on "The Preparation of the English Teacher for the Slow Learner." Olivet is one of 21 institutions in Illinois receiving federal funds to work on various projects concerning secondary English education. ONC's research will be completed in June, 1969. The project is also the basis of Miss Phillips' doctoral dissertation.

MERRY CHRISTMAS FOR WHOM?

Some people in the world are not as fortunate as most Olivetians. These people probably won't have a Christmas tree or presents or a turkey dinner. Christmas will be just like any other day for them—a cold room and an empty cupboard. Sadly enough, some of these people live right in our own area. If you personally would like to do a little something to discover for yourself the true meaning of Christmas, be prepared in the next few days to help some needy family enjoy at least one wonderful Christmas.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Disagreement—With Col. Minor

By R. J. Nichols

If I may be permitted, in all mock humility, to comment upon the appropriateness of my being asked to write a reaction to the recent visit of a high ranking military officer to the campus, I must say that there is undoubtedly no one at Olivet more capable than I to evaluate a military man. I say this not with a feeling of pride but with a certain amount of sadness that the three groups with which I have had the most contact in my life are military officers, business men, and politicians. No one who has not experienced it can imagine the lethargy which consumes an intelligent individual forced to listen to a military man talk about his war experiences, a business man about his millions, or a politician about his power. It is part of the priggishness of my nature to consider intellectual attainments as infinitely preferable to all other accomplishments so that I should prefer a conversation with Fordyce Bennett to one with J. Paul Getty, or one with Arthur Schlesinger to one with Bobby Kennedy, and most definitely one with Eric Sevareid to one with Gen. William C. Westmoreland.

Col. Minor feels that the Vietnam war is one which cannot go on much longer as the North will be unable to sustain any more punishment. This sounds plausible, considering that we have dropped more bombs in North Vietnam in less than two years than we did in Germany in all of World War II. However, I also heard military men in 1963 say that we would be out of Vietnam by 1965, and as everyone knows, we're still there.

Col. Minor also feels that our presence in Vietnam is justifiable and would hold, in part, to the so-called "Domino Theory." Here again, I must disagree. I agree with Arnold Toynbee that neither we nor the South Vietnamese government has shown to the world that our presence in Vietnam is wanted by the rank and file of the populace. Until such time as a free election is held in South Vietnam (in this I mean a universal free election, not one in which only the persons in those areas under our control are permitted to vote) our presence there is questionable at best.

I disagree vehemently with those people who may admit that our entry into Vietnam was unjustified, but that because American lives have been lost there, our presence there is justified. These people remind me of a passage in the book "Gone With The Wind" in which Rhett Butler, when asked by an Atlanta doctor if the cause for which their heroes had died was not sacred, replied: "If you were killed by a train, your death wouldn't sanctify the railroad company, would it?"

This country should not continue to throw more lives away, into what many feel is an unnecessary war. True, it would be difficult to pull out and admit that 15,000 Americans had been needlessly killed, but this is, in the absence of any such election as I mentioned, the only honorable thing to do.

This may be lese majesty, but I would have no apprehension about a unified Vietnam under Ho Chi Minh and would, in fact, prefer it to the present situation. Ho has fought for years to get the Chinese out of his country, and now we are forcing him right back into their laps. Indeed, we, not Ho are giving the Chinese a foothold which they would not otherwise have in the East. I feel that a communistic Vietnam under Ho would give us no more to fear than does communistic Yugoslavia under Tito.

Col. Minor Present Paper On Vietnam

On Dec. 1, Colonel Thane Minor of the United States Air Force presented a paper entitled "The Common Denominator and the Stakes in Vietnam" to a good-sized audience gathered in Reed Lecture hall.

Col. Minor pointed out that the "common denominator" in Vietnam is conflict, meaning that we must respond when challenged by militant communists or stand to lose all of Southeast Asia to them. He also stated that the Vietnam War is important though unpopular.

A two-hour question and answer session concerning the Vietnam issue followed the presentation of the paper.

Col. Minor, who is a graduate of Bethany Nazarene College, is presently serving on the faculty of the Industrial College of the Armed Forces at Ft. McNair, Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Selden Kelly Is Chapel Speaker

Mrs. Selden Kelly, wife of the president of the Alumni Association, spoke to students in Chapel at Olivet Nazarene College on Dec. 6. Speaking from John 17:17-26, Mrs. Kelly pointed out the Christian's duty to tell the world of Christ.

In apostolic times 11 disciples were confronted with the seemingly impossible task of convincing an unbelieving world that Christ had risen. Mrs. Kelly continuing said that God has always been in the business of doing the impossible.

Just as these disciples were confronted with a job, likewise Christians today must convince an unbelieving world of the reality of Christ. According to Mrs. Kelly only when man comes to the end of himself, realizing his inability to do the job and God's strengthening power to do it, can God begin to work. She said not by talent, training, power, or might but by the Spirit can Christians fulfill this commission.

Thus with God's Spirit, Mrs. Kelly challenged Christian students to have the dying love for others that Christ illustrated. She said that we cannot love to the fullest measure until we love without reservation. Mrs. Kelly's challenge was for Christians who can give without measure to direct a starving world to Christ.

Mrs. Kelly, daughter of General Superintendent Powers, dared students to aim high and to set as their example Christ who gave to others unsparingly.

giving the Great Society a second chance.

But Americans have still another tradition, that is to oust the administration and the "war party" from power, after peace is restored. Unfortunately, historical "pre-vision" is self-defeating.

L.B.J. Will Be Elected... Unless

Compared to Great Britain our country has relatively few long-standing traditions. However, in our 190 years, we have, at least developed two. These are 1. Presidents who have run for a second or even third term, in the twentieth century, have been re-elected, with the exception of 1912 and 1932. (In 1912 there were three parties two of which had former or incumbent presidents as candidates). and 2. War-time presidents, if constitutionally eligible, have been re-elected, throughout our history. Not only is the President aware of these two political facts of life but he also knows that Vietnam is our fourth largest war we have ever fought, thus making him a "war-time" president.

During the election years 1916, 1940, 1952, 1960 and 1964, foreign policy provided the Outs much political shot to be leveled at the Administration in office. This election in 1968 however, will not involve Messrs. Wilson, Roosevelt, Eisenhower, Nixon (? well, maybe) or unfortunately John Kennedy, but rather, the Honorable Lyndon B. Johnson and the Republican's Candidate, Mr. X. Mr. Johnson is not the above named men, nor does he pretend to be, but rather a politician who is firmly entrenched in "consensus politics."

Basically, consensus politics involves a critical analysis of the political cross-winds and major currents, and a positioning of one's self to gain maximal advantage. Whether or not the maximum advantage is passed legislation or re-election is immaterial, the principal is the same. Mr. Johnson's position, therefore the country's, on foreign policy can be best summarized in the word "consensus."

In the President's merry world of doves, hawks, dissenting Democrats, A. D. A.ers, Republicans, Birchers and still other groups, he finds himself the target of their wrath often. But rarely are these attacks completely congruent, they seem to take turns. The President is a smart politician, so he takes turns appeasing various groups in his policy of consensus. Sometimes he stops the bombing in the North, sometimes he escalates, sometimes he holds to the status quo (whatever that is), but he has been getting the desired political results so far, that is keeping a few people dissatisfied with his war policy at any one time, keeping a majority of (November '68) voters on his side.

To win the 1968 election, the GOP must get cross-overs from the Democrats in sufficient numbers to off-set any loss of their votes to George Wallace. To do this the top man on the GOP ticket must be at least as "liberal" or "moderate" as George Romney or Nelson Rockefeller. Such a nomination would be difficult to get in '68. But besides getting the nomination for such a candidate, that person must break those two American presidential traditions mentioned in the first paragraph.

As it stands now, the Johnsonian consensus is slipping—46% of those polled recently, disapproved of the Presidents Vietnam policy. Therefore it is imperative that the consensus be bolstered before election day. How? Mr. Johnson even though he might be freed from Robert S. McNamara, will probably initiate another bombing pause coupled with offers for negotiations—pleasing all except a very few hawks. If past performances are repeated and the olive branch is turned away, I imagine that the eagle's "rockets" will call for escalation (i.e. "hot pursuit," the mining, or bombing of Haiphong harbor, more troop or bombing them "back into the Stone Age.") No doubt there will be some "logical reason" for escalating the war, even though prior escalations which promised victory in some form have not worked since 1946 when the French started to keep Indo-China French. However, should talks begin or be completed by election day, Johnson might become a "hero" in the voters eyes, Large Christmas trees will be placed in front of the Administration building and north of Ludwig Center. These are contributions of Mrs. Gladys De Young, who has previously contributed pine trees to Olivet's campus.

Dr. Mary Shaffer, chairman of the decoration committee reports that art classes are busily making large, decorative papier mache balloons that will be hung from the balcony in Ludwig Center. Some students will make papier mache elves and others will make stain glass windows for the south side of Ludwig.

On Thursday, Dec. 14, there will be a table in the foyer of Ludwig Centre with varied tempera paints and students who wish may print a Christmas expression of his own on a window.

can at St. Mary's hospital. The work begins in January following an extensive orientation program. Diana Mason, director of the group stated "We will do whatever we can to make the patients happy, even though it might only involve feeding them or writing a letter."

The Rehabilitation Center in Kankakee provides a workshop for the mentally retarded from 16 to 38 years of age. Sandy Reed is directing the SCOPE team that will be helping to supervise in this area. Reed commented that "Our team will be assisting whenever it is possible."

Other SCOPE directors and their places of service are: Pete Albertson, Illinois Youth Commission; Sharon Wallace, Kankakee Red Cross; Kathy Mork, area Girl Scouts; and Karen Enders, Kankakee Tuberculosis Association.

Miss Sechrist pointed out that although not all the groups are active at this time, they have begun their periods of orientation. She further mentioned that SCOPE is a program where Spiritual contact with people is not under an organized method such as in other Spiritual Outreach groups. "SCOPE is not evangelistic in nature but takes with it a Spiritual application that is now carrying and will continue to carry an impact for Christ to the community."

Mistakes Costly In Tigers' Setback

By JERR YHERTENSTEIN

There were times when it looked like Olivet Nazarene College might win its first season game in Birchard Fieldhouse against Greenville (Ill.) College last Saturday night, but jitters and other problems that kept popping up from time to time put the Tigers on the low end of a 104-91 score.

There was a little bit of everything in the game played before a lower than usual turnout of 1,100.

Olivet, starting a basically young, inexperienced club, fell behind early in the contest when it couldn't keep its passing game under control and appeared to be rattled by Greenville's full court press.

Greenville pushed out to a 10-0 lead before Olivet finally put its first two points on the board when Lon Williams, the game's top scorer with 36 points and the only letterman starter back from last season's first intercollegiate team, made a lay-up on a fast break with 16:45 left in the first half.

Olivet was battling a team that started three seniors and a junior and was fresh off a 76-73 Friday night win over Blackburn College of Carlinville. The Tigers gradually worked up to take the lead at 34-33 with 4:40 left before intermission.

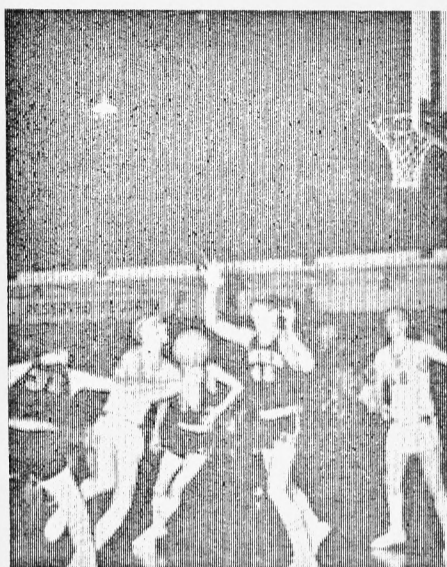

The Tigers, who brought the highly partisan fans to their feet several times in a four minute and 20 second wild scoring streak, counted 16 points to Greenville's eight in the stretch that lasted from 6:44 remaining in the first half to 2:36 left.

Olivet was behind when it started the streak and held its biggest lead in the game at 42-39 before Greenville came bouncing back.

Charles Rutherford, a 6-8 sophomore from Aurora starting his first game for the varsity, used his rebounding strength to good advantage in the streak and Williams, who missed few 30 footers from either side of the court, scored eight of his 24 first half points in the streak.

Guard Al Dicer, who entered the game with 16:59 left in the first half, and Carl Winderl, a 6-2 freshman who started at guard, were big aids with their feeds and starting the Tigers fast break in the streak.

But with 2:36 left, Williams was taken out of the game with three fouls. Dicer fouled Greenville's Tom Jackson with 2:22 left and the 5-10 senior guard made both of his free throws. The Panthers then stole the ball on a full court press and Bob Gordon, injured later in the game, counted a lay-up to give the Panthers a 43-42 lead they never relinquished.

The nearest Olivet could ever come again in the game was to two points when Greenville led 62-60 with 14 minutes left in the game.

The Tigers, helped by Larry Mulder, a 6-5 freshman from St. Anne who took up the scoring slack for Williams in the second half, stayed within range of the Panthers until the latter team enjoyed its own scoring streak in the final three minutes and 45 seconds.

Greenville, using its 2-1-2 wheel offense effectively in the early stages of those final minutes and helped in the last minutes when the Tigers were forced to foul, outscored Olivet in that streak, 13-4.

Williams' 36 markers and 17 of 24 field goal attempts were school scoring marks, breaking Carl Winderl's 34 points and 15 field goals recorded in a Nov. 23 game against Greenville which Olivet lost, 95-82.

Mulder had 23 points for Olivet, canning 20 markers after intermission.

Greenville showed a balanced attack with six players in double figures. Senior Gary Ellis topped Panthers scorers with 27 points and Roy Johnson, a 6-2 sophomore contributed 21 as the visitors evened their season mark at 4-4.

Olivet sank 34 of 66 field goal attempts for .500 per cent while Greenville made 39 of 85 for .433 per cent.

The Tigers hurt themselves in the turnover department where they made 31 mistakes to Greenville's 10. Olivet had 17 in the first half to the Panthers' six. ONC won the battle of the boards, 41-33. Mulder was top rebounder with 15 and Rutherford had 14 carooms.

Gordon, who scored 12 points for Greenville and had been elected to the Praire Conference all-tournament team along with Olivet's Williams, sustained a gash in his head when he hit the east wall of the gymnasium which is just 10 feet from the near edge of the court. He was treated and released at Riverside Hospital.

The loss was the fourth straight for Olivet in five games.

JUNIOR VARSITY ACTION

Large Olivet Turnout Expected For Game With Ft. Wayne Bible

Luckless in its last four games, Olivet's varsity basketball team tries for its first victory since a season opening 96-85 homecoming win over Bethel (Ind.) College when it travels to Ft. Wayne (Ind.) Tuesday night.

The Tigers will carry a 1-4 record to the Hoosier city where they meet Ft. Wayne Bible College in a 7 p.m. (central standard time) contest at Concordia Senior College. The encounter starts at 8 p.m. eastern standard time.

Tickets for the fray are available at the information desk in Ludwig Student Center for 50c.

The game is being played in Concordia's gymnasium to accommodate what is expected to be a large Olivet following. The Olivet Alumni Association in that area has rented the gymnasium so that an expected turnout of more than 800 Alumni from eastern Indiana and western Ohio may attend the tilt.

The gymnasium where the Ft. Wayne quintet plays most of its home games seats only 300.

The game will be covered on Olivet's Radio Station for those unable to attend.

Meanwhile, Olivet's junior varsity, which dropped a 76-59 decision to Greenville's JVs last Saturday night at Birchard Fieldhouse, plays Lincoln Christian College junior varsity Friday night. The game starts at 6 o'clock at Lincoln.

The junior Tigers will try to improve on their 1-2 record after the loss to Greenville, a Free Methodist school in southwest Illinois.

Roger Wrisberg, Greenville's 6-4 center, canned 18 points for the junior Panthers, who outscored Olivet in the second half 43-27 after holding a narrow 33-32 halftime advantage.
