Rocket Fuel Of Future May Find Its Way Into Your Car

Secret 'Exotic Fuel' Industry May Rival Petroleum

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (NEA) — A secret new industry has just moved out of its infancy stage with the potential of becoming as important as America's petroleum industry. A $3 million dollar plant which the Caltech Chemical Co. is starting here for the U. S. Navy lifts the security lid on a vast, military-industrial project whose birth and infancy have been kept secret for more than eight years. This plant will produce a revolutionary high-energy fuel with the trade name of Hical. It's made from ordinary California desert plants. Twenty "Hill" "Team Boreas."

Actually, Hical is the first of a wide range of so-called "exotic fuels" which, it is now revealed, have been brought to the production stage. Other high energy fuels being developed by the Air Force from a variety of substances, including powdered liquefied light metals, might be just as far along in development.

MILITARY INTEREST in exotic fuels is the great boost in performance they give planes and missiles. The first commercial use will come in jet airplanes. It's possible these fuels could be used in rocket-powered automobiles and trucks.

At the present stage of development Hical does not hold much promise for use in conventional automobile engines.

Secrets which will produce other types of exotic fuels will soon be springing up all over the U. S. Another plant, costing $3 million, is being built by the Olin-Matheson Chemical Co. at Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Several plants and testing facilities for engines which will use these fuels have been built. More are planned.

ONE OF THE GOALS is to develop engines to use conventional and exotic fuels interchangeably. Public fascination with rockets, propelled missiles is one reason why exotic fuels have been developed. But the military uses these fuels will have a bigger and more significant military role long before missiles make the combat airplane obsolete.

It has been reported that the military has led defense officials to look for power in the "chemical bomber" to new peaks of performance has led defense officials to look for power in the "chemical bomber" to new peaks of performance has led defense officials to look for power in the "chemical bomber" to new peaks of performance.

It's About Time, Too

Male Robe Gets A New Look

NEW YORK (NEA) — For one reason or another, the robe has been a laggard. While men's fashion has surged forward, the poor old robe has stayed pretty much the same since grandpa's day. So it is happy news that there's something new, at last, in the robe field.

Two new things, as a matter of fact. First is a new robe fabric. It's a blend of acetate and cotton which makes robes cooler and more comfortable for the coming hot weather. (It'll come, so rest easy.)

Second is a new robe design. The new robe, made of cotton, is a versatile garment—it easily doubles as a lounge robe in the home or a beach robe after a swim.

It isn't too early to think about Father's Day, and one of these new robes would please any father—his probably stuck in a medieval model.

FOR NEXT FALL and winter—the cold weather's sure to come, too—the men's fashion designers are cooking up something new. They're taking the short, comfortable, suburban coats and combining them with the old-fashioned bold lumberjack colors.

The result will be a suburban coat (call them car coats if you prefer) with big, colorful patterns—plaids, checks, stripes, and warm fleeces, orlon, various blends.

It's a good idea, once in a while.

THIS FATHER AND SON are robed out in matching robes of acetate and cotton.

to consider colors—what goes with what and what doesn't. The American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear, noticing that spring has sprung, has cooked up a chart which balls down to these sample outfits:

BLUE SUIT—shirt of white with blue dots; tie of light blue and navy; navy socks; smoke gray hat; black shoes; gray or navy blue topcoat; mocha gloves.

GRAY SUIT—gray and white striped shirt; silver and red tie; medium gray socks; medium gray hat; black shoes; blue-gray or dark gray topcoat; gray gloves.

BROWN SUIT—brown shirt; deep brown and green tie; brown socks; medium brown hat; cordovan shoes; covert, camel or medium brown topcoat; brown gloves.

GREEN SUIT—light blue shirt; green and blue tie; dark green socks; medium brown or green hat; medium brown shoes; green mixture or light tan topcoat; pigskin gloves.

GREEN BAY, Wis. — Brown County Sheriff-elect Arley Skene told the County Board he would like 10 new squad cars—a heavier type than those now in use.

"I believe that about 75 per cent of you board members were driving heavy-duty automobiles as you parked in the courthouse yard. I believe each of you is looking for economy."

Peters said he held no grudge against any of the council members.

Named as his successor was former Justice of the Peace J. O. Wright, 73.

Wright said he contemplated no change in the 15-man police force and was non-committal with reference to gambling.

Wright told the council that he was too old for the job.

"It's a young man's job, but I'll do my best," said Wright.

High team average went to Oliver's. High team game was rolled by Gall Plumbing. High team series was won by Oliver's. Yvonne Fritz rolled the 1000 point game while Emma Langhorst had the high individual series. Mrs. Langhorst also won the high average award.

Bowlers receiving weekly awards during the season for bowling the high game were Anna Marie Christensen, Mabel Osterle, Carol Graf, Dorothy Gooding, Mary Ellen Herb, Helen Conley, Carolyn Richle, Verna Thiede, Wainita Zeller, Yvonne Fritz, Evelyn Anderson, Betty Eskildsen, Norma Gall, Gwen Lawless and Vera Keller.

Braves Picked As National League Winners

NEW YORK (AP)—The strongest pitching staff in the National League, a well-balanced power attack and a burning desire to win for their first National League championship since 1914 are the reasons the Milwaukee Braves are picked to win the National League pennant.

It's not going to be easy. The Braves have weaknesses in second base, left field and in the bullpen. Position for position, they are not as strong as the Dodgers and Redlegs because:

1. There is a very good chance with New York for second base, but the Braves will miss retired Jackie Robinson.
2. Cincinnati hasn't been able to hold its weak pitching staff together.
3. The St. Louis Cardinals have a better chance to win the pennant than the Braves.

NO OTHER CLUB appears capable of offering any serious resistance. The St. Louis Cardinals have a better chance to win the pennant than the Braves. The Cardinals have a better chance to win the pennant than the Braves.

Baseball Tries Educating Its Women Fans

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball is pitching AT curves. Women were admitted to ball parks long before suffrage, but the people who run the national pastime figure not enough of us are fans.

So the office of Commissioner Ford Frick has published a "Baseball Made Plain" booklet. One of the primer's purposes is to educate us girls and lure more of us into the ball parks.

Just in time, too. The major league season opens April 16, giving exactly one week for all of us "underprivileged" minority (that's what the primer called women who can't tell a Mickey Mantle from the umpire) to brush up on the game.

THE 24-PAGE booklet leads the potential fan through a sprightly, elementary explanation of the game—from the fact that there are nine players on each team to reasons why a player can hit the ball and not make a hit.

It does not detail how you can drag hubby away from the TV set to now the lawn. It just assumes the smart woman desires, "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em."

Actually, many already have. The commissioner's office estimated that 17 to 18 per cent of the attendance each week during the season is made up of women, counting Ladies Day.

A couple of women fans actually are responsible for the primer, said its author, H. Wilson Lloyd, vice president of a Madison Avenue advertising and public relations firm.

LLOYD SAID THAT in 1939 when he and his wife were home hunting in Cincinnati (the couple now live in New York), a real estate agent was driving them around to look at various homes.

The agent's mother-in-law, who was along and kept up a running commentary on the then "new" Reds, now the Redlegs, "We shouldn't have sold so-and-so," she said. Or, "We should have pitched somebody else yesterday."

Her "no" spirit carried over to Mrs. Lloyd, who put her husband to work explaining the game. She became an ardent Redder.

"I forgot the incident until the commissioner hired our agency," said Lloyd. "Then it all came back, and I decided to reach a lot of people who were women, and a lot of these were women."

Piersall Story Gives Hope To Thousands

By JACK HANDED

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—"People bothered by a mental condition should remember one thing. If you don't sit back and let people lead you by the hand, you can't be helped."

Jimmy Piersall was thinking out loud as he thumbed through a stack of letters to his locker at Ponce de Leon Hotel and the Boston Red Sox were getting ready to break camp.

"You can't know how nice those letters feel," Jimmy said. "Knowing that what I have been through has been able to help somebody else in their battle. They make me feel so darned good I almost want to cry."

THE PIERSTALL STORY is well on its way to becoming an American legend. Since Al Hirschberg teamed with Jimmy to write the frank life story, millions have read the magazine and book versions and watched the TV adaptation. Now it has been made into a movie called "Piersall's Story."

Far from being sensitive about his breakdown and the days and nights he spent strapped to a bed in the violent ward of a mental hospital, Piersall speaks with utter frankness of those dark days.

"From the time I went to the Red Sox rookie camp in 1957, where Lou Boudreau was going to make me out of an outfielder into a shortstop, until I got out of the hospital in September, I remember only one thing—the birth of my daughter, Doreen."

"THEY TELL ME I took a water pistol to the plate in Birmingham and got an umpire. They tell me I opened the season at shortstop for the Red Sox. I have read clip-photos where I had a fight with Billy Martin of the Yankees and a scuffle with Earl Paige. I don't remember a thing."

Piersall made a remarkable comeback in 1953, one year after his hospitalization, and has become a real star as Boston's centerfielder.

"Most of all I'd like to feel the ball players respect me for my playing ability. I'd like to hit 300, everybody wants that. I know the agent's mother and I know the pitcher, and I know the catcher."

"At first, some of the fans used to get on me on the road with the Red Sox. They'd say, 'You're in the white coat is coming.' But the more they get on me, the harder I play. I used to be afraid I couldn't make it. Now, when I hear those cracks, I know they fear me."

This truly is the story of an amazing young man, a story that can do the work of a thousand doctors, a story of three strikes on fear.

None Of 'Big 4' Yet Ready To Go Route

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manager Walter Alton of the Brooklyn Dodgers has been singing confident notes this spring, but the plight of his first-line pitchers could find him whistling the blues.

Not one of Alton's big four—Roger Craig, Don Newcombe, Sal Maglie, and Johnny Podres—has gone nine innings in a game this season.

Podres, released from the Navy because of a bad back, has managed to stick around for seven innings. Newcombe has gone six and three times, Maglie has gone six and Craig has gone six.

But the Dodgers skipper maintains "it's not necessary for any of these guys to go nine, and figures his twirlers will be ready for the season opener a week from today."

CRAIG was bounced in the second inning for a pinch hitter Monday after giving up five runs in the first at the Dodgers' bowled to the Milwaukee Braves 9-6.

It was the Braves' fourth consecutive success over the Dodgers and overall, gave them a 4-2 record against the defending National League champions.

Ken Lehman absorbed the rest of the Milwaukee pounding while Ray Crone and Bob Trowbridge brought the Braves spring record to 18-3 against major league clubs in the first 11 games of the season.

ELSEWHERE, Boston's Red Sox ended a six-game losing streak by defeating Pittsburgh 8-7 in 10th inning at Fort Myers, Fla., on Monday. The Sox shut out the White Sox at Charlotte, N.C., on Sunday. The Yankees won 10-0 over the New York Giants at New York City on Sunday.

LETHANDER Jack Harshman and reliever Dick Howell combined to limit the Cardinals to seven hits. Ed Bouchee led a 12-hit Philadelphia attack on Detroit pitchers Paul Foytack and Jack Crimian with a home run, single and double.

Dusty Rhodes got a two-run homer and Foster Coleman a solo for the Giants. Bob Bieman drove in five runs with a home run.

KEYS Call Off Ball Game, Track Meet; Bradley In Action

Both the baseball and track meet at the Hanks High School had scheduled for this afternoon were indefinitely postponed because of wet ground and cold weather, athletic director Bill Hughes announced this morning.

Bradley-Bourbonnais dual meet against Wilmington at Bradley, scheduled to be run off as scheduled, was to be run off as scheduled, was to be run off as scheduled.

An Eye-Witness Remembers The Infamous Bataan Death March

(Editor's Note: April 9 is the 15th anniversary of the fall of Bataan. On that date in 1942, Walter G. Winslow, USN, was taken prisoner of the Japanese. He had been a member of the crew of the cruiser USS "Albatross" which was sunk during the battle of the Java Sea on the night of Feb. 28, 1942.)

He wasn't freed until after the war. But during his confinement he did something of importance against taking notes or keeping a diary, and from the notes he took he was able to write the following account of the infamous Bataan death march which followed, such as account from first-hand sources, put together while the events were fresh in everyone's mind, has never before been published.

Out of 5,000 prisoners taken at Bataan, close to 1,000 died during the march.

By CHAS. WALTER G. WINSLOW, USN
Written for NEA Service

The Japanese in the Command Post of the 5th Air Force gave a sharp, dirty jingle. It was exactly 6:00 on the morning of April 9, 1942. The major of the 5th Air Force, who had been in the sun-baked weary face revealed that something of monstrous proportions had happened.

He hung up and his eyes, white from months of fighting a war that from the beginning was destined for disaster, peered solemnly at the man facing him.

"Report," he said in a toneless voice, "the damn thing has ended. All of Bataan has surrendered."

Tears of frustration welled in his eyes. He knew the U. S. and Philippine troops had not been beaten by the Japanese. They had lost because of the lack of air support, dwindling supplies, starvation, sickness and complete physical exhaustion. The Japanese had taken them over our Command Post.

That was the end of the war for them, but the beginning of a venture into a despicable unknown. Some men had sworn that they would never be taken prisoner by the Japanese, but they would die by their own hand first. But these men were taken prisoner by the Japanese.

Next day we went out a patrol which got word to the Japanese that we had surrendered and their ing Jap soldier attempted to direct traffic.

A U. S. COLONEL tried to explain they had been ordered to take the road to a certain area, but the Jap, who was in the lead, cocked it and practically jammed it into the colonel's mouth. At that point the officers abandoned the truck and were started marching down the dusty road, seared by a blazing tropic sun.

At the end of the day this group of prisoners had walked 18 miles without food, water or rest. That night they were marched into a mosquito-infested rice paddy and ordered to sleep. Sleep was impossible.

Starting with the next day's march dates and times became confused to the prisoners. That morning a shouting mob of dirty Jap soldiers kicked the prisoners to their feet and slapped them into line. They searched the prisoners and grabbed anything that was of value.

Along the road during the subsequent days word parties would be cut out from among the marchers and be given chores to perform which required an almost superhuman effort on the part of sick, tired men.

THE TOWN OF Lubao was the first destination of the march that had become a hideous human experience within a few days. Mile after mile they shuffled, senses numbed by the heat, and bleak misery. Like the walking dead they continued, with the guards becoming more brutal, constantly slapping those who weakened and faltered.

Those who were too sick or exhausted that they could no longer continue, the Japs shot alongside the road where they fell, or they were ordered to death at a warning to all present that a failure would be taken prisoner by the Japs, that they would die by their own hand first. But these men were taken prisoner by the Japanese.

ON APRIL 20 the group was started walking towards San Fernando. On April 23 groups began to be cut out from among the marchers and be given chores to perform which required an almost superhuman effort on the part of sick, tired men.

Half Million See Queen Take Boat Ride Down Seine

PARIS (UP)—Queen Elizabeth got the third day of her state visit to France off to an early start when she boarded the royal yacht, the Bordeaux, for a boat ride down the Seine.

Nor did Tuesday night's spectacular river bank pageantry, fireworks and parties over the Seine, in the visiting British monarch's honor or keep the Parisians in bed this evening. The crowd in the city was out in force when the smiling queen and Prince Philip arrived 10 minutes ahead of schedule at the British Embassy for a tree planting ceremony.

Tuesday night's celebration, public highlight of the queen's visit, was one of Paris' party nights.

The evening's honored guest, Philip and President Rene Coty made an hour-long fairytale voyage on the Seine in a 100-foot motor launch. Five thousand searchlights turned the route into a brilliant path of color.

Unfaded before the water-borne guests was a display of French life down through history. In the background, the 900-foot Eiffel Tower, flying the British and French flags, was floodlighted.

Outwardly, at least, there was no indication in the news conference that Eisenhower was ready to come out fighting hard personally for his legislative program. Admittedly, he talks that course was reported to have been given him by GOP congressional leaders.

Eisenhower said today it is only natural that there might be a clash of opinion between him and some members of Congress over the legislative program.

Over 24,000 Corn Acreage Increase Bill Approval Seen

WASHINGTON (UP)—Supporters and opponents of a bill to increase corn acreage this year predicted today the Senate will approve it by a narrow margin.

A final Senate vote on it was expected today, after a 48-hour delay. The provisions of Senate passage indicated the measure had picked up support since last week, when its advocates were at a disadvantage.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), chief sponsor of the legislation, told newsmen, "I think we will pass it in the Senate." He also said he believes its chances for House approval are good.

SEN. GEORGE D. Aiken (R-Vt.), an opponent, conceded the Senate may pass it—but "without enthusiasm because it is unworkable." And, even if the House also goes along, "there is no chance of it becoming law," he said.

"The President could not sign a bill which directed the secretary of agriculture to do the impossible." The bill would increase this year's corn acreage in the so-called commercial area—the main corn belt—from about 37 million to 51 million acres. But farmers would have to put into the soil bank an acreage equal to 15 per cent of their corn allotments to be eligible for price supports.

Bill Would Advance City Election Date

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—Bills passed Tuesday by the Illinois House for Senate consideration included measures to advance city election dates several weeks.

Rep. Jack Blairmont (D-Waukegan) and Ben S. Rhodes (R-Normal) sponsored the bills to fix the general election for city officers for the first instance of the third Tuesday in April. They repeat authorization for alternate dates for city and state elections.

They also require that primary elections for mayor and commissioners be held on the second Tuesday of February instead of seven weeks before the general election.

REP. WILLIAM H. Robinson (R-Chicago) won passage of his bill to appropriate $30,000 for an interim legislative group to succeed the special legislative commission investigating public aid. The special commission will report to the General Assembly by the end of the year.

A bill to reimburse Sangamon County $7,323 for expenses incurred in connection with the prosecution of ex-auditor Criville E. Hodge, won advancement to the Senate. So did a measure allowing the public safety director to transfer any person to any state prison from Vandalia State Farm, as a means of helping to relieve overcrowding at the latter institution.

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower said today it is only natural that there might be a clash of opinion between him and some members of Congress over the legislative program.

Eisenhower told his news conference he accepts honest criticism and ignores personal criticism. He said criticism doesn't affect his health.

The President was asked if he was aware that Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) had characterized Eisenhower's $71,000,000 spending budget as a "betrayal of Republican trust."

SHELDON (UP)—Spraying started today on 3,000 acres of Iroquois County in a fight against the Japanese beetle.

Two light airplanes started distributing two pounds of insecticide per acre in a federal-state attack on the pest.

The Japanese beetle has made the county the largest isolated infested area outside of the federally regulated areas extending from the Atlantic Seaboard to Ohio.

It is unique in that it is confined to an agricultural area.

How the Japanese beetle started its rampage among corn and soybeans in Iroquois County remains a mystery.

Extend Japanese Beetle Quarantine

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—The Illinois Agriculture Department Wednesday ordered a Japanese beetle quarantine on Iroquois County, extending from the Atlantic Seaboard to Ohio.

In Iroquois County the new areas include Sheldon Township, Council Township, parts of Beaver and Belmont townships and parts of Milford.

The quarantine means that nursery stock, shrubs, grain, plant products or roots, earth, farm machinery or other crops and equipment in which the larvae of the Japanese beetle may be hidden cannot be moved out of the quarantined areas without approval of department inspectors.
