More than 500 elementary school pupils formed a massed choir Thursday morning in St. Rose Church, Kankakee, to sing a high mass. Shown here is a portion of the students who came from 11 schools in the Joliet Catholic Diocese to participate. Director of the choir was the Rev. Salvatore Giusti of St. Peter. The event was sponsored by the National Catholic Music Educators Association of the Kankakee area. (Journal photo)

Senate Expected To Back House Appropriation Cuts

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Commerce department money bill today. Prospects were a 23 percent cut already made in it would be sustained.

As approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee, the bill carries $27,626,118 less in new funds than the $27,913,000 requested by President Eisenhower to run the department during the fiscal year starting July 1. The Senate committee total was $9,100,770 less than allowed by the House.

BUT this apparent reduction below the House figure was achieved through a bookkeeping transaction. Supporters of the bill conceded the Senate version actually would permit 25 million more in spending than the House approved.

The Senate so far has acted on two appropriations bills, Treasury-Post Office and State-Justice, for the fiscal year. Both houses Thursday completed action on the Treasury-Post Office bill and sent it to the White House. It was the first of the regular fiscal year appropriations bills to clear Congress.

In acting on that measure and the State-Justice bill, the Senate reduced them $714,500 below the House amounts and $182,528,500 below Eisenhower's requests. However, these are cuts in the President's $72,300,000,000 request for new appropriations, and do not necessarily reflect savings in his $71,500,000,000 spending budget. Much of the spending in fiscal 1958 will be out of appropriations made in past years.

The BIGGEST cut made in the Commerce Department bill by the House was in trucking out $115 million dollars of the 942 million asked by Eisenhower for ship construction subsidies. The Senate Appropriations Committee concurred in this. The House allowed 100 of the million in new funds for the item. But if this 65 millions were left out of account, the Senate measure would show a 25 million increase over the House bill.

The Senate committee voted $25,538,538 more than the House allowed for an always modernization program, started by the Civil Aeronautics Administration. It also upped allowances for the Business and Defense Services Administration in the Commerce Department, the National Bureau of Standards, the Weather Bureau, the Panama Canal Zone and some other agencies.

But it cut five millions of the 30 millions voted by the House for grants to cities for airports, in addition to eliminating some of the House funds for forest highways and for subsidies to airlines.

HIPPOCAMPUS MILWAUKEE (UP)—The state of Wisconsin has postponed indefinitely its plan to recharge a deep well, because of two hippopotamuses.

Plans were going ahead to pump water into the well at Washington Park near the city zoo when zoo officials realized this would mean the well would have to be shut down. The zoo would have to use city water for a while, and this is something Tony and Cio, the hippopotamuses, couldn't stand. City water is too cold.

So the state decided to call off its experiment.

Blame Arsonists For Church Fire

AURORA (UP)—Authorities today said arsonists touched off a $100,000 fire that damaged the main altar and two side altars at the Sacred Heart Church here.

Fire Marshal Carl Mumrich said he found four "touch off" points near the altars. A number of matches were strewn around the church floor and authorities said it was possible the fire was set by children.

Jens Christensen, retiring janitor, was presented a gift from the children, faculty and PTA. New officers were installed by Rev. Ferdinand Hensel, a past president. Refreshments were served by fifth grade mothers.

Fear For Life Of Boy Trapped In Well Shaft

Last rites of the Catholic Church were administered after noon today for 7-year-old Benny Hooper, trapped for 16½ hours in a 21-foot well shaft on the family property near Manorville, N. Y. The map at left shows the area—Manorville—and the diagram of the right depicts scene as rescuers dug tunnel through sand to an effort to reach the youth. Two workers at a time bored through the sand, trying to link an emergency crater with the narrow shaft into which the youngster fell. Other rescuers fanned out along the shaft hoping to keep the boy alive. (Unites)

Adopt New Memorial Day Observance

The Kankakee Veterans Council adopted a new plan for the city's observance of Memorial Day during a meeting Thursday night.

This year the council will sponsor a single service at the Kankakee County Courthouse in contrast to the separate services staged in other years.

Protestant, Catholic and Jewish clergymen will take part in the service which will be held immediately after a parade beginning at 9:30 a.m. in Alpin Park.

Thomas R. Houde has been named parade marshal and general chairman of the Memorial Day observance. Henry Taylor, a member of the United Spanish War Veterans, will be honorary grand marshal of the parade.

Houde said the parade will have three divisions: Boy Scouts, Civil Air Patrol squadrons and other groups wishing to take part in the parade as well as contact House since no invitations will be mailed out.

The Disabled American Veterans will meet May 24 to map the final parade lineup. The DAV is in charge of the parade this year under a rotating leadership plan worked out by the Veterans Council.

The council, composed of representatives of patriotic and veterans organizations, was formed when the United Spanish War Veterans asked to be relieved of sole sponsorship of Memorial Day events.

Donley, a senior at Kankakee High School, will study government foreign service at George Washington University, Washington, D.C. The scholarship is sponsored by a motor car manufacturer.

Donley's award is one of 30 in the U.S., and the only one of its kind at George Washington University.

The scholarship covers all college expenses, including laundry and two round trips between home and school each year.

Donley, who hopes to enter the foreign service, applied for the scholarship through the university, where he will enroll this fall.

At Kankakee High School he is a member of the student council, National Honor Society, Quill and Scroll and has competed in athletics on the baseball, basketball and football teams.

Challenge To The Saturday Evening Post: Print The Truth About Gov. Len Small

The letter reproduced below was sent this week by its signatories, Len H. and Burrell L. Small, to the Saturday Evening Post, a national weekly magazine, as a protest.

It calls the attention of the magazine's editor to untrue statements about former Gov. Len Small of Illinois, which were made in a magazine story about former State Auditor Orville Hodge.

The Post does not anticipate that a dead man will be the target for libel and does not permit its family to sue for libel, as could be done were the libeled person alive. It is presumed, rather, that a man in his grave shall be safe from such attack. This presumption that a civilized society will not act with such flagrant and cynically violated in this instance.

Mr. Ben Hibbs, Editor
The Saturday Evening Post
Independence Square
Philadelphia 5, Pa.

Dear Mr. Hibbs:

In your Orville Hodge articles you have needlessly libeled the name and memory of a dead man, former Governor Len Small, who was our grandfather.

In all decency and honesty you and the author, Robert M. Yoder, should have taken the trouble to check the facts before linking his name with Orville Hodge. Hodge was found guilty and went to prison. Len Small was acquitted. That he went on to become one of our best Governors is an opinion shared by thousands of Illinois citizens still living who remember that in spite of tremendous odds he kept his promise to "pull Illinois out of the mud" by building nearly 8,000 miles of hard roads, a time when other states were still flourishing. It is a matter of record that he built more hard roads better, and more economically, than was done in any state during a comparable period before or since.

Under his administration the Illinois waterway became a reality, linking the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, and great progress was made in the treatment of the mentally ill and other wards of the state. These and many other things were accomplished in Illinois without federal aid and with a balanced budget, while he was Governor from 1921 to 1929.

A whole new generation has grown up since a generation whose acquaintance with their state government during this period is all too often limited to lurid references to the "roaring twenties" and casual clanders such as is contained in your Hodge article published May 11 in which you state "They (the reporters) caught a governor, Len Small, pocketing $600,000."

That is not true.

What you have reference to is litigation growing out of charges that while Len Small was State Treasurer, two years before being elected Governor, the state received from a bank in which state funds were deposited less interest than the bank in turn received when it loaned the funds out to others. This was the standard procedure and had been and still is the practice of all Illinois treasurers. The facts are that the state received over 2 percent interest on these funds—more than the legal rate required—and more than twice as much as is being paid by Illinois banks on state monies at the present time.

After he was elected Governor, there was bitter opposition to his hard road program by certain sources whose desire for personal profit was vigorously denounced by him. When his first bid on the new constitution was as exorbitant he announced that unless bids were greatly reduced he would put the state in the contracting and cement business, if necessary.

His opponents were furious. He received numerous threats. Shortly thereafter the "interest suits" were started. He was indicted for withholding state funds—additional interest that they said he had collected from the bank. After a tumultuous trial the jury found him not guilty. This might his wife collapsed and died. That was his grief hour.

Despite his darkest hour he continued to press for action on his hard road program and got the bidding price down to $25,000 a mile (the first bids were $40,000 a mile, $45,000 a mile). In this way, one-third more roads were built, and he was able to keep his promise to "pull Illinois out of the mud."

His enemies vowed to get him and the interest suits were revived as civil actions. In a split decision in 1925 the Illinois Supreme Court held him responsible for all of the interest collected by the banks over and above that already paid the state (although the court record shows the state received more interest while he was State Treasurer than had been received from any two of his predecessors combined).

In this preliminary decree the liability was based on a constructive liability as to funds deposited in a private bank rather than in an incorporated bank. Although the latter type of banks held large deposits of state funds and paid no higher rate than the private banks, no question was ever raised as to the right of these banks to retain profits made by them.

To this decision holding him accountable for additional interest there were not one, but two, dissenting opinions made by Justices of the Illinois Supreme Court. They pointed out that the evidence showed that he had accounted for all the interest he had actually received.

At the conclusion of the case, it was stipulated by the state and embodied in the final decree of the court, that: "the evidence in this case fails to establish that the defendant, Len Small, received any sum or sums of money whatsoever as interest upon public funds for or during his term of office as State Treasurer, except such sums as he has already accounted for and paid into the State Treasury of this State, and that the liability of the said defendant, Len Small, in this cause is solely for interest received by the other defendants herein."

In 1933 an attempt was made by his enemies to set aside this final decree which held that there was no evidence that Len Small received any sums that he had not accounted for. This the Supreme Court refused to do. People vs. Small, 337 Ill. 389 (1933) is the record stands. In plain and simple language the court has finally said that there is no evidence that Len Small ever received any money for which he did not account. He did not "pocket $600,000" as you falsely state in your article.

Thirty-two years after the final decree was rendered, a new generation of Illinois citizens read in your publication that "They caught a governor, Len Small, pocketing $600,000, and you associate him by reference to a criminal, Orville Hodge. Again we say, this is simply not true.

The dead have no recourse in courts of law when they are libeled. Their case rests with the historical record they helped to make and by that they should be judged. I am sure you have no desire to rewrite this page of Illinois history, but that is what you are doing in this instance. In the interest of justice, please print this and let the facts speak for themselves.

Len H. Small
Burrell L. Small

Pertinent to the letter in the adjoining columns is a quotation from a testimony given by Edward F. Dunne, distinguished jurist, scholar and historian, who served as mayor of Chicago and Democratic governor of Illinois.

Regarding the Gov. Small interest suits, Judge Dunne wrote:

"Since before 1908 all state treasurers in Illinois accounted at the end of their two-year term to their successors in office by charging themselves with all public monies placed in their hands crediting themselves with all monies lawfully paid out and paying to him the balance with 2 or 3 per cent interest claimed by them to have been earned on money deposited in banks. Until Small's election as governor in 1929, when he was elected as the new treasurer, this practice was made to the various governors, the books and accounts audited by the state auditors, and no complaint was made to their correctness. They were never challenged in any way until Small was indicted. (Note: They have never been challenged to this day.)"

Treasurer Small reported more than twice the amount of interest that any of his predecessors reported during the eight years preceding his incumbency.

In criticizing the decision, Judge Dunne goes on to say:

"Charged with a conspiracy to defraud the state in the criminal court Small is found not guilty. Charged with a conspiracy to defraud the state in the civil court arising out of the same acts, he is found guilty and made to pay for his offense. Though the same civil decree declares he did not receive a dollar of the money of which the state was defrauded."

"How Small could have preserved his equanimity and administered his public duties, and attended to his private affairs during the seven years of his litigation is a mystery; and yet the record of his administration as governor shows considerable material accomplishments during his term of office."

Upon any indication of trouble, no matter how slight, anywhere from the gut to the rectum. The American Cancer Society advises that you be especially alert for any of the following symptoms:

- 1—A slight difficulty or sticking sensation upon swallowing food; a sensation of fullness or heaviness behind the chest bone.
- 2—Indigestion or a vague uneasiness in the stomach after eating a normal meal; distaste for certain foods, particularly meat; stomach ulcers, pain that do not clear up rapidly under a diet prescribed by your doctor. Onset of persistent indigestion after the age of 40 may be especially serious.
- 3—A vague feeling of lassitude, fatigue, or anemia which is marked by frequent urination, a burning sensation in the digestive tract caused nearly by a change in the evacuation of urine such as an obstruction to the urinary tract.

See your doctor at once if there is any change in the evacuation of urine such as an obstruction to the urinary tract, a burning sensation in the digestive tract caused nearly by a change in the evacuation of urine such as an obstruction to the urinary tract.

APATHY CANCER'S ALLY
HYPERNEPHROMA is the most usual form of kidney cancer. In adults and generally occurs between the ages of 40 and 50. Earliest and most common symptom is painless bleeding which shows up in the urine. The urine may contain small clots of blood, and then returns intermittently.

Other symptoms may include: back pain from blood clots in the ureter, an unexplained low grade fever or a dragging sensation or feeling of fullness in the flank.

Blood in the urine also is an early symptom of cancer of the bladder.

Now this blood does not always show up as bright red. If the urine contains only small quantities of blood, it may appear as a pink or "smoky" color. In this type of cancer, too, this symptom may occur intermittently.

Even a single appearance of blood in the urine means a quick visit to your doctor, although, of course, this is not always an indication of cancer.

SYMPTOMS of cancer of the prostate usually are extremely vague in the early stages. You have some slight symptoms which should be acted upon quickly.

See your doctor at once if there is any change in the evacuation of urine such as an obstruction to the urinary tract, a burning sensation in the digestive tract caused nearly by a change in the evacuation of urine such as an obstruction to the urinary tract.

Budget Cutting Doesn't Mean Tax Cut

WASHINGTON—If the federal budget were cut by $5.5 billion—about the amount of the deficit—there would be no tax cut. In fact, there would be a tax increase. The reason is simple: The federal government would have to raise more money to pay its bills.

If the budget cut is only half that sum—$2.75 billion—there would be a tax cut. The reason is simple: The federal government would have to raise less money to pay its bills.

Yet, what many persons now participating in the hullabaloo about the federal budget who really do not understand the situation, are saying is that budget-cutting will mean sizable reductions in taxes, both as to individual and corporate rates. The illusion is widespread.

What isn't generally realized is that the Congress of the United States, since 1938, has been probably following the pattern of giving to the low-income groups a larger share of the tax reduction. In fact, in a significant roll call in March of this year 34 senators—8 Republicans and 26 Democrats—demanded that the federal government should actually increase the rates for corporations earning above $100,000 a year in order to give a tax benefit to companies earning under that level.

WHEN THE POSSIBILITY of a tax reduction came up for consideration last year, a substantial number of members of Congress urged that the personal exemptions be raised so as to benefit the lower income groups.

This is the trend in Congress now. If more radicals are elected to Congress on the Democratic side, the chances are very good that the tax law will be passed which is designed to win the largest number of votes.

Hence, taxpayers in the middle or upper brackets are very likely to get much, if any, benefit from the present agitation. Yet if national and state and local taxes are reduced, the burden will be shifted by the budget cuts and an international crisis develops, there would not only be imposed higher and higher taxes on taxpayers in the middle and upper brackets as well as on corporations.

Assuming that big savings could be made in the federal budget, the logical thing to do is to use all of it to retire the national debt. It is already too high. As for the burden itself, there is every evidence that the country has absorbed it in a wave of prosperity. The tax take is a smaller proportion of the national income today than it was in 1924.

THE COMMERCE DEPARTMENT, which reports on personal income taxes each year, says that in April, it reached a record high of 3.39 percent of the national income. The gain from this March was 1/10 of a percent.

That half of that one-tenth rise represents increased government payments is because old-age benefits have increased. The department notes that farmers and others recently covered by social security are now becoming eligible in large numbers for benefit payments. Also, old-age payments to women is up because a change in the law permits women to retire at 62 instead of 65.

Wage and salary totals in April rose by 500 million dollars over March. While employment was off in some factories, it increased in other lines. And in some industries, wages were advanced, boosting the total. For example, 80 cents more a day for blumonium steel millers.

Although the output of coal fell in April, the total payroll went up. Farm income fell 100 million dollars in April. But various government payments to support farm income are expected to help keep farm income for this year as high or higher than last.

Britons Give Driving Tips

NEW YORK—If you plan to motor in Great Britain this summer, you will be glad to note one driving restriction from the Victorian past has been relaxed.

It is no longer necessary to hire a man with a red flag to walk before your car if you drive faster than two miles an hour.

Another thing you won't have to fear, police speed traps. As a matter of fact, on the open highway the only speed limit is that provided by common sense.

THEY HAVE ALL, this on the word of two men, escaped from the land of the Union Jack.

They are representatives of Britain's two automotive organizations—helping Leslie Hockaday of the Automobile Association and Inspector Roderick Gibbons of the Royal Automobile Club.

The two smartly uniformed inspectors are members of the 3,000-man corps of English "road scouts," hired by the two auto clubs to patrol British highways and help motorists in distress.

The road scouts give a stiff-armed military salute to all vehicles bearing their club insignia. Strangers on occasion mistake them for traffic cops.

Looking on can be further from the fact: When you and I were young, Maggie, that salute signified to the motorists there was no police speed trap ahead. But if it is not a salute, the wise motorist immediately slowed down and the road scout tipped him off about his hidden danger forward by turning traffic cop.

Since there no longer is a speed limit outside the towns, the old-time significance of the salute is gone.

"Now the highway police and road scouts assist each other," said Hockaday. "If we see a fire, we notify them, and if a member car has broken down they often help us fix it."

THEIR JOB CONSISTS largely of making emergency medical aid, giving route information, and providing first aid in accident cases.

"Yes," said Inspector Gibbons, who has a proud walrus mustache. "We also keep an eye out for stolen cars and small-grab men. A bit of questioning established that small-grab men are petty dastards who paste a piece of paper to a jeweler's window with the words 'Jewelry' and 'Watch' (typical), then break the glass noisily, grab the gems and run. Awful people. Non-English to the core."

The two inspectors, thoroughly British inside and outside the core, are ex-servicemen, as are most of the road scouts who patrol on motorcycles.

"Both agreed that American motorists behave well and observe the rules of the road. They noted that the American car involved in an accident in their country."

"Never," boomed Hockaday, loud and clear.

"Never!" came the dim echo through the mustache.

Other points of polite mutual agreement: (1) London traffic is denser than any of any American city they had seen, and (2) American women drivers are as able at the wheel as men.

SINCE THERE are certain language barriers to overcome, here is a guide they offer to handle the difference in motoring terminology in the two countries:

English: Near side of car, Off side of car, Fender, Windshield, Recirculated, Components, Defroster, Transmission, Idling, Hood, Dashboard, Wrench, Hoof, Crank, Gas.

One other difference: "I understand there is a saying over here that you can't fight City Hall," Hockaday, smiling. "Back home you can. Into court in a traffic offense case, get away with it."

"But if your story isn't really good they charge you even more."

The Bourbonnais village board took no action on appointment of village officials at its special meeting Thursday night after hearing opinion from the village attorney, Director Leslie Hockaday of the Automobile Association and Inspector Roderick Gibbons of the Royal Automobile Club.

The board asked an opinion from a village board president to make appointments was challenged by two newly elected members of the board.

Shapiro said that appointments were made by the trustees and president voting jointly, but that until new appointments are made, the old appointments are held over. In the case of officials who resign or die, Shapiro told the board that the president can make temporary appointments.

He said that the general practice is for the village board president and president voting jointly, but that until new appointments are made, the old appointments are held over. In the case of officials who resign or die, Shapiro told the board that the president can make temporary appointments.

House Gets Bill To Set Up U Of I Center To Aid Aged

SPRINGFIELD (UPI)—Illinois lawmakers last night for the week today to catch their breaths and compose their minds before tackling another four days of oratory, roll calls, committee meetings and the endless reading of bills.

Both the Senate and House, however, managed to accomplish some work Thursday before calling it a week. The Senate set out to launch another attack on the problem of the aged and aging in Illinois.

IT DID SO by passing a bill to begin a new program at the University of Illinois for the benefit of elderly people. The bill would create a gerontological committee at U of I to aid local communities with the problems of the aging, to set up training classes, to conduct research in the field, and to study the feasibility of establishing a permanent center at the university for long term work on the problems of aging.

The bill would appropriate $36,000 for the beginning program. Another bill, which would extend the life of a legislative study commission on problems of the aged and aging, was also passed. Both now go to the House.

The Senate similarly passed another bill increasing the salaries of county judges on a population scale according to the number of people in the county. The scale starts at counties with a population of less than 10,000, which salaries would be increased from $4,000 to $5,000. Other examples are 30,000 to 40,000 population counties, with an increase from $5,500 to $10,500; 40,000 to 50,000 population counties, an increase from $10,500 to $15,500. Salaries of county judges would be more than 125,000 would be the same as circuit judges.

Another bill passed would require the state to pay $120 as its share of the cost of a nursing home for the aged.

Break Ground Sunday For New Central Christian Church

Ground will be broken Sunday afternoon for the new addition and remodeling program of Central Christian Church of Kankakee.

The Rev. Harold Edds, pastor, announced today that the ceremony will be held at 3:30 p.m. at the site of the new addition, the vacant property to the east of the present structure. The Central Christian Church is located at 752 E. Oak St.

The Rev. Morris Pullin of Bloomington, general secretary of Illinois Disciples of Christ Churches, and Dr. Joseph J. VanDusen, executive secretary of the Disciples of Christ Churches of the Chicago area, will be among the speakers.

The building program, not including furnishings, will cost about $240,000. The congregation voted to initiate a building program on March 1, 1963 and started a building fund the next year. A building fund drive was held in the spring of 1966. Since the summer of 1963 the church has been working on plans with the architect firm of Atkins, Barrow and Associates of Urbana.

The improvement will include construction of a new building which will include the sanctuary; construction of a link to connect the new structure with the present building; and extensive remodeling of the present structure to convert it into an educational unit.

DR. EDWARD GATES DEDICATE

Members who spoke briefly during each visit.

The new classrooms, shops and multipurpose rooms were financed with a $225,000 bond issue approved by a two-to-one margin on Feb. 4, 1965.

The bonds were sold on a competitive bid for a net interest rate of slightly under 4 1/2 per cent.

The entire program totals $3,414,184, the difference being paid out of regular yearly school funds.

Approximately $45,000 was paid into school funds from government securities in which the bond issue money was invested until the actual opening for construction.

The NAMES FOR the three new grade schools were selected from those of famous Americans submitted by residents of the district. They are: William Howard Taft School, 1115 W. Hawkins St., southeast of the school; Thomas A. Edison School, 1991 E. Maple St. in the Sunnyside area; and Mark Twain School, 2220 E. Court St., south of the Baker School building in the east part of Kankakee.

The remodeling of the present building will include the leveling of the first floor and the addition of a second floor. As a result the educational unit will have a basement and two floors.

Entrance to the completed unit will be on Oak street.

The Rev. Mr. Edds said that first part of the construction program will be the building of the new classroom building.

He said that the second part of the program is the remodeling of the present building.

Stassen is expected to meet later with President Eisenhower and perhaps with the National Security Council which recommends top American security policies.

GETTING READY TO "talk up" this year's Christmas seal sale are these officers of the Kankakee County Tuberculosis Association, and Dean Lankusky, Dean, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lankusky, was one of the winners in the Junior Chamber of Commerce contest to promote the sale of seals. Other winner was Julie Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Palmer. Dean was a guest at the annual meeting of the association Thursday evening. Complacency Biggest Hindrance To Control, TB Association Told

"Complacency toward tuberculosis nowadays may postpone indefinitely the time when the disease is completely under control," Edward Gross, assistant executive director of the Illinois Tuberculosis Association, said Thursday night. Gross addressed the annual meeting of the Kankakee County Tuberculosis Association.

"Many people think because we know the cause and cure of tuberculosis that the disease is whipped and under control. This is certainly not true," the speaker said.

About 18,000 people die annually from tuberculosis, he says, and many more thousands are suffering the ravages of the disease. The job of the association is to find the cause and cure of the disease and see that they get proper treatment so the illness will not spread.

In addition to those who die from tuberculosis and known active cases, there are still others who do not even know they have it, Gross said. This is why our education and x-ray programs are so important.

COMPLACENCY TODAY is fostered because some tuberculosis hospitals have been closed, he said. They were not closed because of lack of patients. But rather, patients were transferred to hospitals with better facilities. We still have 400,000 hospitalized tuberculosis patients, the speaker noted, and if those afflicted were known there would be many more.

"Because of the generosity of those who have contributed through our Christmas seal sales, research and education programs have made much headway, but there is still much to be done," Gross told the group.

In 1946, the death rate for each 100,000 population was 41. Ten years later it was 16. Thanks to better facilities and new drugs the death rate today is down to 8.7.

Tuberculosis is being treated today with six drugs. "Unfortunately, 1,646 students in Kankakee County were given the tuberculin skin test. About 161 of these showed a positive reaction, and were given X-rays. None were found to have active tuberculosis. However, these students will be watched closely so that should the tuberculosis bacillus become active they can be given quick treatment.

Following the business meeting and presentation of awards, Burrell Small presented an illustrated talk on a number of Asian countries, through which he toured while making a trip around the world with the U. S. Society of Editors and Commentators.

He showed color slides of scenes in Formosa, Hong Kong, Viet Nam, Singapore, Thailand, Burma, India, Pakistan and Rome. He accompanied the slides with comments and information obtained from his trip.

DURING THE BUSINESS meeting Henry J. Schoder was re-elected president of the county group. Stan Manner was elected first vice president; Kenneth Cote, second vice president; and Mrs. Harry Stocum, secretary.

Elected to the executive committee were Milton Lang, George Friday, Dr. L. G. Winer, Dr. Benjamin Lipnick, Dr. S. W. Lane and Robert Bell.

The following were elected to three-year terms on the board of directors: Russell Hendrickson of Manteno, Mrs. Frances McCue of Bradley, Dr. Lipnick of Ganeer Township, Roy Wilcox of Pilot Township, Mrs. Harry Franklin of St. Anne Township and Henry Schoder.

Special awards of appreciation were presented to the 1956 seal sale chairmen.

Pickup, Semi Collide At Effner Curve

SHELDON (JNS)—Two persons were injured early today when a pickup truck and a tractor-trailer, loaded with explosives, crashed on Route 24 at the curve near Effner. Reported in fair condition in Irroquois Hospital, Watseka, are William L. Taylor, 36, Sheldon, and Irvin Scott, 33, Rensselaer, Ind.

Taylor, who was driving the pickup, suffered leg injuries. His passenger, Scott, suffered a compound fracture of the right leg. Both had severe cuts and bruises.

According to Charles Struble, Watseka, state police officer, the accident involved the Taylor pickup and a tractor-trailer driven by Billy Harper, 31, West Virginia.

The mishap occurred at the westbound pickup skidded on the highway during a downpour and swerved into the path of the Harper truck, which had just started ahead after stopping at railroad tracks. Both men in the pickup were thrown to the pavement. Harper was not hurt.

Damage to the tractor-trailer was minor. The pickup was a total wreck.

Shah To Aid People In Communism Fight

TEHRAN (UP)—The Shah of Iran today announced a campaign to improve living conditions in Iran in a drive to wipe out communism.

He disclosed his intentions in an exclusive interview with United Press.

The better-living program will include the setting up of an opposition political party to give the Moslem nation's 20-million inhabitants a bigger voice in the government.

THE PEOPLE of this country have a right to a better existence and a decent way of life, and it is the responsibility of the government to see that it is achieved.

13,500 Hear Graham's New York Crusade

NEW YORK (UP)—Seldom has such a sound been heard around Broadway.

It's the spine-tingling vibrancy of thousands of voices blending in lyric gospel hymns.

This is an impressive feature of the Billy Graham crusade, which today rolls into its third day in the Dwight Methodist Church.

We heard that singing and decided to go in," explained one of the soldiers, Thursday night.

The soldiers were among 13,500 people that streamed into Madison Square Garden for the second night of Graham's six-week stand.

WHATEVER SPELL the music weaves, Graham adds to it a personal touch after he steps to the microphone.

On the night before, a count of interview cards today showed 704 had taken such a step, although the preliminary estimate was given as only 485. Even that was a record first night number for Graham's crusade.

Attendance Thursday night fell slightly from the opening night, when 18,500 filled the Garden, but Graham said the 13,000 surpassed any other night of the crusade.

"The first 10 days of a crusade are always the most difficult," he said. "There is not quite the spirit in the early days that develops as we go along."

PREACHING ON the subject "What's Wrong with New York?" Graham said: "Jesus puts his finger on the trouble with New York when he says we are morally sick."

Every individual needs a physician, and Christ is the great physician," he said. "So many people in New York are searching for peace, their souls are crying out for God."

Illinois Woman Dies In Accident

TRENTON, Mo. (UP)—A woman, 32, identified as Mrs. Helen Dennis Jacob, 32, Columbia, Ill., was killed and five others injured in an auto-truck collision Thursday.

Injured were Walter Jacob, 31, Mrs. Jacob's husband, 18, daughter, Wanda Sue, 14; S. Sgt. Thomas Jacob, 34, a brother, Mrs. Mattie Mae Jacob, mother of the Jacobs brothers, and Robert Wiggins, 18.

Police said a truck driven by Wiggins and the Jacob car collided at an intersection near Trenton.

Propeller Bent On Aircraft Carrier

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UP)—The aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt was to leave today for Norfolk, Va., and a thorough investigation in drydock of damage from a mysterious underwater collision.

It appears the only damage was a bent propeller, the Navy said Thursday, but the 31,000-ton ship will go to drydock for a complete check and repairs.

The Navy said planes, a blimp and a destroyer searched the area 30 miles off in the Atlantic from the time of the collision Wednesday morning through Thursday without a clue as to what the carrier hit.

Reports that it could have been a submarine were pretty well discounted by the Navy.

India Missionary To Speak Sunday In Watseka Church

WATSEKA (JNS) — Kenneth L. Pote, Christian missionary to India, will be the guest speaker in the First Christian Church on Sunday.

Mrs. Pote will be guests at the Christian Church parsonage from Saturday through Wednesday. During their stay in Watseka, they will address as many groups in the church and the community as time permits. Pote will be the guest speaker for the Watseka Kiwanis Club on Monday.

Kenneth Pote is secretary-treasurer of the entire mission of American Disciples of Christ in India. His headquarters are at Jabalpur in Madhya Pradesh. With his wife, he arrived in the United States last spring for a year's furlough.

Pote, with his wife, first went to India in 1921. He claims Montana as home and graduated from Cornell College at Lincoln, Neb. He also earned a master of arts degree at the College of Missions in Indianapolis before sailing for India. During his first furlough, he obtained a bachelor of divinity degree from Yale University, New Haven, Conn. He married a classmate at the College of Missions and now lives in India with two daughters and a son, all born in India.

Pote began his services in India as an educator. His first assignment was to be principal of a Christian high school for boys at Harda. Later he was named superintendent of the mission in India. Residing in Pendra Road, he also helped establish the Pendra Road agricultural fair.

For 14 years, Mr. Pote has been the administrative secretary-treasurer of the mission in India, which consists of 58 missionaries and nine mission districts.

Illinoisian Among 3 Killed In Germany

FRANKFURT, Germany (UP) — Pfc. Robert E. Bolt, Champaign, Ill., was identified today by the U.S. Army as one of three American soldiers killed in an automobile accident near here.

The three soldiers were killed when their car failed to make a curve while traveling at high speed in the nearby village of Dorheim.

The Army's northern area command identified the others as Pfc. Louis H. Cauffman, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Pfc. James Wood, Newton, Tex.

Crescent Mothers Of Sophomores Attend Breakfast

CRESCENT CITY (JNS) — Mothers of the sophomores girls in Crescent-Iroquois High School gathered for an informal social coffee hour with their daughters on Wednesday.

The purpose of the meeting was to view garments completed in the home economics class.

Mrs. Elbe Wilken, instructor, explained the garments as each girl appeared. A discussion of class problems was held.

Fire Razes Huts, 1,252 Homeless

HONG KONG (AP) — A 40-minute fire in a squatters' area of Hong Kong's mainland Kowloon area last night destroyed 68 huts and left 1,252 people homeless — approximately 50 per hut.

TOKYO (AP) — American officials said today they had no other legal course but to agree to the trial in a Japanese court of a U. S. soldier accused of the shooting of a Japanese woman on a military firing range.

After arguments with the Japanese proved futile, the U. S. Far East Command Thursday agreed to the trial of Pfc. William S. Girard, 22, of Ottawa-LaSalle, Ill., would be tried on a Japanese charge of accidental manslaughter.

It is the first time in Japan—and so far as can be determined the first time anywhere—that a U. S. serviceman is to be tried for an offense the United States claims occurred while he was on duty.

REAR ADM. Miles H. Hubbard and other U. S. officials said the United States had no other choice because, in cases where the soldier's duty status is questioned, Japan has the ultimate say on all criminal cases within its borders.

The U. S. agreement with Japan and other countries where American servicemen are stationed give foreign courts jurisdiction of offenses committed while they are on duty and off their base. Military courts try offenses committed on U. S. bases or while in the performance of duty.

But Japan contended the fatal shooting of Mrs. Naka Sakai on a U. S. firing range last Jan. 30 did not involve "performance of official duty," the exact words in the U. S.-Japan status of forces agreement. The Japanese claimed that he was razing.

MRS. SAKAI was one of a number of Japanese trying to salvage scrap metal from the range. She was killed by an empty rifle cartridge case propelled from a grenade launcher after the Japanese scrap collector had been warned to leave the range. The case provoked a wave of anti-American feeling.

"We still say he was on duty," a Far East Command spokesman said.

Girard will be represented in court by lawyers provided by the Army. The charges carried a penalty on conviction of up to 15 years imprisonment. If convicted, Girard could appeal to higher Japanese courts up to the Supreme Court. U. S. courts would be unable to review the sentence.

Building Scattered Throughout County

The reduced tempo of new home construction which is being reported in all parts of the country is also evident in the Kankakee area. However, while the figures on which these reports are based are accurate in themselves, they are somewhat deceptive.

Much of the new home building in the Kankakee area, as in many other parts of the country, is being done outside the corporate limits of the municipality.

There is no accurate record of such building because building permits are not generally required for construction outside the corporate limits. If and when the county board adopts a county building ordinance, requiring building permits, an accurate record of construction outside cities and villages should become available.

FIGURED ON the basis of construction only within the city limits, Kankakee has 21 per cent of new homes in new subdivisions, compared to a nationwide 13 per cent drop. The higher percentage in Kankakee is understandable in consideration of the relative scarcity of lots available inside the city.

In the city area, 48 permits were issued during the first quarter of this year for new homes, with total estimated construction costs of $583,000.

All other construction, repairs, remodeling and additions, is down approximately 11 per cent, according to the same figures, obtained from the office of Richard Tycox, city building inspector.

New home construction is up 66 per cent in Bourbonnais this quarter, over what it was during the same period last year. During January, February and March 1956, six permits for new homes were issued. During the same period this year, 10 permits were issued.

It is not possible to determine whether home building in Bradley is increasing or decreasing because there are no accurate records available for 1956. During the first quarter of this year 15 permits were issued for new homes. Five other permits were issued for garages and remodeling.

On the national level, it is estimated that 1,000,000 new homes will be built this year, about 180,000 less than in 1956 and 300,000 less than in 1955. These are the estimates of the nation's building supply material dealers, contractors and the National Association of Home Builders.

A breakdown of figures for the first quarter of 1956 and 1957 in Kankakee gives the following information:

There were 29 permits issued for new homes during this period in 1956, with total estimated construction costs of $157,000. Total permits issued during the first quarter was 20, with costs of $163,000.

In 1957, 15 new home permits were issued, with total estimated construction costs of $147,000. Total permits issued during the first quarter was 10, with costs of $148,000.

Ten new home permits were issued in Bourbonnais during this quarter, with estimated costs of $147,000, compared to six permits in the same period last year.

ALTHOUGH HOME CONSTRUCTION has declined in the Kankakee area, as it has nationwide, scenes like this are still not uncommon. Homes in various stages of completion can be seen in every quarter of the city and in the area.

37 Home Show Exhibits

When residents of the Kankakeeshow, Donald Johnson, president of the association, says, "Home owners and future home owners will be able to see under one roof almost everything needed for modern day living," he said, "and they will have the opportunity to compare prices and quality."

EXHIBITORS will demonstrate their wares as well as display them. Several new models of power lawn mowers will be demonstrated. The telephone company will have an apparatus in its booth, showing a service it will put into operation in the future. It is the self-service long distance call system, where subscribers will dial their own long distance numbers instead of through an operator.

"A good diversification of products and services is what we aimed for in arranging this 1957 show."

Real estate and insurance agents will have booths at the show to answer questions on how to put your house up for sale, and to give advice on the best type of insurance for your home.

All exhibitors booths for the show have been sold. It was originally planned to have 65 booths, but many exhibitors bought double and triple booth space, thus cutting the number of exhibitors to 35.

Hours for the show will be Friday and Monday from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m., and Saturday and Sunday from 1:30 to 10:30 p.m. Tickets can be purchased at the door. "Future home owners" up to 15 years old will be admitted free if accompanied by an adult.

Use Carpeting For Color Scheme Basis

Carpeting can be the basis of your decorating scheme. Recent technological advances—new dyes, man-made fibers, new ways of handling the favorite perennial wool—have opened the way to greater freedom in color and texture.

You can choose a carpet in almost any color of the rainbow and be sure that its beauty will last. Carpets can have the hand-loomed or home-spun look, and can be loosely or tightly constructed. They are as durable as what we have in mind for arranging this 1957 show."

PERSONS SEEKING a loan for construction or purchase of a home are usually required to have a down payment of about one-third the entire cost.

Officials of local financial institutions believe the money situation will improve for those seeking VA and FHA loans if and when the government increases the interest rate from 4 1/2 to 5 1/2 per cent. Lending institutions have not been eager to make VA or FHA loans for some time, and have in

Real Estate Agents Say Sales Slower This Year

Real estate sales in Kankakee are reported slower for the first quarter of this year, compared to the same period last year. Some local realtors say they expect things to pick up as we move further into 1957, while others are slightly pessimistic about sales until the money situation improves. Higher interest rates and requiring more equity on loans have made money more "scarce" than it had been, they say.

A few realtors already report increased business, while others report sales volume is still dragging. The selection of homes available has never been better, these men say. "You name it and we've got it," seems to be a standard comment.

A NUMBER OF REAL estate agents say they believe more money than usual is being tied up because so many people are buying homes with no money down. If all buyers could make down payments of about $5,000 there would be more money on hand to make more money on hand to make other loans, they say.

These no-money-down purchases also tie up money for greater periods of time. A smaller loan can usually be paid off quicker, thus releasing money for other borrowers.

Because there have been fewer starts on new homes in the past year, sales of home building materials are down slightly, a number of local dealers report. The building starts during the first quarter of this year are below what they were a year ago, they say.

According to building trades associations, there was a 10 per cent drop in new home starts in 1957. This is the second consecutive year when the number of new home starts has dropped. It is estimated that in 1956 there were 1,150,000 new homes built, and 1,300,000 in 1955.

The do-it-yourself idea is still popular among young people who want to save as many expenses as possible by doing some of the work on their new homes themselves. Some undertake to put out the finishing touches to their own homes, while others build the whole house, even to laying a cement-block foundation. If a poured concrete foundation is used, it is usually necessary to hire a contractor.

Most dealers report sales of $10-15,000 and more during the past year, but persons who put the finishing touches to their new homes. Most of this was for interior and exterior decorating.

Total building permits issued in Kankakee during this same period was 15, with estimated building costs of $152,000. In 1956 there were 10 permits, with costs of $85,500.

No great increase in home construction is predicted by builders and financial institutions at this time. It will be necessary for money to become less "expensive" and thus available to a larger number of potential new home buyers, before we will experience a considerable increase in the number of new homes built, they say.

A sign that local home builders do not too pessimistic about the future of the home building industry is the fact that four new subdivisions are planned in the Kankakee area. At the April 9 meeting, the county board of supervisors approved plans for Y. L. Acres, north of Bradley, Weaver subdivision near Kankakee and Forest Valley first addition and Moelckis subdivision first addition, both in Pembroke Township.

A considerable amount of home building is in progress in or around Meadowview, Bluffs, Hillcrest, Gracefield, Marycrest and Ray's subdivisions and additions. There is still some building in Knollwood and vicinity and in other areas around the city.

Even though home building is down, nationwide and locally, construction on a whole is reported up 11 per cent for the 1957 first quarter, compared to the same period last year, according to F. W. Dodge Corp., construction news and marketing specialists.

NATIONWIDE, TOTAL construction costs amounted to $3,077,997. In March 1957, this figure included two office buildings in Manhattan, totalling more than $100 million, a $75 million pipe line project in Texas and a $50 million water supply project in California.

Greatest increase in construction came in the heavy engineering category with a 14 per cent increase. Non-residential buildings were next with a 9 per cent increase. Contracts for hospitals were up 100 per cent over last year.

In home construction there was a 7 per cent drop in dollars spent and a 13 per cent drop in number of homes built. The Dodge company explains the difference in percentages by saying that homes are tending to become larger, and consequently have a high price tag.

A NUMBER OF REAL estate agents say they believe more money than usual is being tied up because so many people are buying homes with no money down. If all buyers could make down payments of about $5,000 there would be more money on hand to make more money on hand to make other loans, they say.

These no-money-down purchases also tie up money for greater periods of time. A smaller loan can usually be paid off quicker, thus releasing money for other borrowers.

According to building trades associations, there was a 10 per cent drop in new home starts in 1957. This is the second consecutive year when the number of new home starts has dropped. It is estimated that in 1956 there were 1,150,000 new homes built, and 1,300,000 in 1955.

The do-it-yourself idea is still popular among young people who want to save as many expenses as possible by doing some of the work on their new homes themselves. Some undertake to put out the finishing touches to their own homes, while others build the whole house, even to laying a cement-block foundation. If a poured concrete foundation is used, it is usually necessary to hire a contractor.

Most dealers report sales of $10-15,000 and more during the past year, but persons who put the finishing touches to their new homes. Most of this was for interior and exterior decorating.

Total building permits issued in Kankakee during this same period was 15, with estimated building costs of $152,000. In 1956 there were 10 permits, with costs of $85,500.

No great increase in home construction is predicted by builders and financial institutions at this time. It will be necessary for money to become less "expensive" and thus available to a larger number of potential new home buyers, before we will experience a considerable increase in the number of new homes built, they say.

A sign that local home builders do not too pessimistic about the future of the home building industry is the fact that four new subdivisions are planned in the Kankakee area. At the April 9 meeting, the county board of supervisors approved plans for Y. L. Acres, north of Bradley, Weaver subdivision near Kankakee and Forest Valley first addition and Moelckis subdivision first addition, both in Pembroke Township.

A considerable amount of home building is in progress in or around Meadowview, Bluffs, Hillcrest, Gracefield, Marycrest and Ray's subdivisions and additions. There is still some building in Knollwood and vicinity and in other areas around the city.

Even though home building is down, nationwide and locally, construction on a whole is reported up 11 per cent for the 1957 first quarter, compared to the same period last year, according to F. W. Dodge Corp., construction news and marketing specialists.

NATIONWIDE, TOTAL construction costs amounted to $3,077,997. In March 1957, this figure included two office buildings in Manhattan, totalling more than $100 million, a $75 million pipe line project in Texas and a $50 million water supply project in California.

Greatest increase in construction came in the heavy engineering category with a 14 per cent increase. Non-residential buildings were next with a 9 per cent increase. Contracts for hospitals were up 100 per cent over last year.

In home construction there was a 7 per cent drop in dollars spent and a 13 per cent drop in number of homes built. The Dodge company explains the difference in percentages by saying that homes are tending to become larger, and consequently have a high price tag.

A few realtors already report increased business, while others report sales volume is still dragging. The selection of homes available has never been better, these men say. "You name it and we've got it," seems to be a standard comment.

American Trend Is Again To Larger, More Spacious Homes

The days of larger, more spacious homes are again looming on the American home-building scene. Builders say they are receiving requests for more spacious homes, a trend which in some respects is contrary to home designs of a few years back.

Although the spacious homes of today do not equal the size of homes built in the 1890s, they are considerably larger than some of the "cracker boxes" of 10 or 15 years ago. And the desire to keep everything on one floor is still prominent. Only the split-level homes come close to the two-story houses of bygone years.

LARGER HOME designs are probably the result of complaints by wives. Bedrooms, where there is not enough room to walk around the bed to make it, mean that women have to crawl over the bed or on it to make the side pushed against a wall. Bedrooms too small to accommodate a modern size bedroom suite also make for convenience.

Kitchens in which there is not enough room to eat once the family has grown to four and five members also pose a problem. Sometimes it becomes necessary to use a portion of the living room for a dining area, providing the living room is large enough.

After talking to a number of young married women in Kankakee, the writer found that many are willing to sacrifice an extra large living room for decent size bedrooms and kitchens. A large living room is not as important nowadays, they say, because of the trend to basement recreation rooms. If there is no basement, wives do like a good-size living room, but would still sacrifice part of it to enlarge bedrooms and kitchens.

IN BASEMENTLESS homes, a deficiency of storage or work space area is often found to be a problem. The storage problem is solved by providing some built-in space for this purpose. A collapsible ladder attached to the inside of a "crawl" hole cover makes the attic readily accessible. Sub-flooring can be put on the part of the attic to be used for storage, thus preventing someone's foot from coming through the ceiling of the room below.

THE MORE ROOM you want, the higher the cost. If you want to stick to the middle price bracket, and still have a nice home, you can almost count on having either a garage or a basement for your money. If you want both, you should be prepared to pay from $800 to $1,500 more. Most basements run about $1,500. Conventional garages are available in the $800 to $1,000 area. Some prefabricated garages are less.

If all adds up to the age-old problem of money. The more you have or can get your hands on, the more home you can afford to buy.

Housepower Check Is Urged Before Adding Appliances

How's your housepower? It's an important question for all homeowners who plan to add new appliances to their homes.

You will probably require only the extension of one extra two-wire circuit for installation of a dishwasher, which is a 120-volt appliance. This would be a good time, however, to make the changes in your wiring system that may be necessary to handle any equipment you may intend to purchase in the future. Then you can be sure that you have enough power to carry any load you may require.

Sufficient power is provided by adequate wiring. And whether you're planning a complete kitchen remodeling, or just intend to put in a new appliance, you should have your home wiring system checked.

HOMEOWNERS and prospective home buyers no longer need a course in electrical engineering in order to evaluate their home wiring systems. By getting a "Housepower Rating," it is possible to determine at a glance exactly what electrical equipment can be used immediately, and what can be connected with minor wiring extensions.

The rating also provides the home owner with a clear picture of what electrical equipment can be used immediately, and what can be connected with minor wiring extensions.

MANY HOME OWNERS, confused by such technical terms as "amps," "volts," "watts," and "ohms," have hesitated to proceed with needed wiring improvements. Too often, an electrician's contractor's wiring recommendations, couched in his own technical terms, are misunderstood by the home owner.

Small Electric Drill Is A Handy Tool
The 1/4" portable electric drill has become the most popular tool in America and now more than ever before it is a handy tool.

The little portable drill weighs only about three and one-half pounds and concentrates power that does the work of the power drill. Today's attachments on the market for the 1/4" drill trim the hedge, cut holes (round or square), shear, hack, grind, drive screws, hone, sand, mortise, buff, file, nibble, and even cut the edges of the lawn straight.

ONE OF THE best buys is a drill kit containing accessories such as grinding wheel for sharpening knives and tools; discs and drums for all kinds of sanding jobs; a lamb's wool bonnet for polishing; these plus spare drill-bits that slip one-inch holes in wood or high-speed steel bits that cut the toughest metal, cost little.

Many kits include a power saw attachment, drill stand, and even a power screw driver attachment.

The best buy for safety's sake is a geared chuck type. Next best is the hexkey chuck which is tightened with a small Allen wrench. The hand-tightened chuck, however, is often difficult to tighten and may not center the bit properly. A pistol grip drill is more convenient than a toggle, button or slide type.

BEST FOR THE HOME HANDYMAN is a 1.9 to 2 amp. drill. The amperage is listed on the nameplate. Drills of less than 1.9 amp. while adequate for wood and occasional use on metal, do not have the power to drive most of the attachments.

When buying a drill, check the gears. Bronze and steel are satisfactory, but the steel gears last longer. Another pointer about them is if the gears are difficult to reach to lubricate, or in an awkward spot for inspection, it might be wise to buy another, better designed type of drill.

Panel Siding Fast Becoming Popular, Builders Report
Wide panel siding is growing in popularity, particularly in the West which frequently leads the national style in residential construction.

Low cost, quick construction, good appearance and durability are factors which are inducing builders to use panels, according to Masonite Corporation, leading producer of hardboards.

Storage Area Increased By Peg-Boards

In the Spring, 'tis time to rout out, clean up and reorganize the myriad of storage items ranging from toys to pots and pans, from garden tools to golf clubs.

Step No. 1, of course, is routing out unwanted things, which can be given to charitable institutions or sold at a junk dealer.

The second step is housecleaning. Modern appliances have lightened this chore. Step No. 3 is reorganizing your storage so that the annual throw-away exercise will be diminished.

HERE TOO, modern materials have come to the home owner's rescue. Among the world's foremost "organizers" is a panel of holes, popularly known as peg-board.

Prospective home buyers should ask for a "Housepower Rating" on any newly built home in which they are interested.

Furniture Design Will Be 'Cleaner,' Manufacturers Say
A look of detail and a look of craftsmanship in all lines of furniture, ranging from all price brackets, is beginning to be seen.

Furniture design will be "cleaner," they said, but details will not be sacrificed. The current trend toward using more than one wood in a piece will continue and design for craftsmen who work with hardwood is made of hard wood, when used in combination, can be beautiful and interesting in themselves.

In keeping with this trend is the use of finishes which are continually getting closer to the wood's natural beauty and richness of color.

New Look For Old Homes

Homes built in the 1920s can now be made to look as if they were erected only several months ago. A dark brick front can be faced with bright stucco.

Home Illumination Is Better In 1957

Spring 1957 will see the greatest display of well-lighted new homes and the greatest lighting improvement of older homes on record.

This was predicted by the American Home Lighting Institute, Chicago, trade association of fixture manufacturers, based on a check of industry trends toward living better electrically.

"AN OVERWHELMING majority of the one million new homes to be started this year will stress lighting for better living," the institute said. "In addition, unprecedented numbers of present home owners will increase the livability of their houses by lighting up with new fixtures."

This long awaited emergence of homes from the "Dark Ages" of poor lighting is credited by the institute to industry wide consumer education programs.

"As one result, this spring's home seekers will find not only more to see, but also to see by," the institute said. "Fixtures are back, and in greater profusion than ever before."

GREATEST lighting improvements that Mr. and Mrs. Home Buyer will notice are the return of fixtures to the bedrooms; greater use of off center ceiling fixtures in dining and living rooms; and liberal use of wall fixtures in kitchens and bathrooms.

But even with optimistic 1957 outlook for lighting, the institute cautions that most home lighting still has a long way to go to reach minimum standards.

These standards call for a total of 25 fixtures worth a retail price of $210 in the average home of 1,200 square feet. Today such a home has 18.9 fixtures worth $44, as compared to 1935, when it had nine fixtures worth $32.

THIS PUTS the burden on the home owner to check out his lighting. In some cases, the mosaic tiles are placed in a block at one side of a long table. A new line of furniture features odd-shaped, white tiles scattered along a table surface.

Interest has been shown, too, in the use of metal purely for decorative touches in their production.

More Practical Bedroom Sets For Juveniles

Sofa Pillows Allow For More Varied Color Schemes

The use of many pillows on a sofa has created many possibilities for bringing more color into your home. Striped or print or solid pillows may be used against a solid sofa.

"As one result, this spring's home seekers will find not only more to see, but also to see by," the institute said. "Fixtures are back, and in greater profusion than ever before."

GREATEST lighting improvements that Mr. and Mrs. Home Buyer will notice are the return of fixtures to the bedrooms; greater use of off center ceiling fixtures in dining and living rooms; and liberal use of wall fixtures in kitchens and bathrooms.

But even with optimistic 1957 outlook for lighting, the institute cautions that most home lighting still has a long way to go to reach minimum standards.

These standards call for a total of 25 fixtures worth a retail price of $210 in the average home of 1,200 square feet. Today such a home has 18.9 fixtures worth $44, as compared to 1935, when it had nine fixtures worth $32.

THIS PUTS the burden on the home owner to check out his lighting. In some cases, the mosaic tiles are placed in a block at one side of a long table. A new line of furniture features odd-shaped, white tiles scattered along a table surface.

Interest has been shown, too, in the use of metal purely for decorative touches in their production.

Wrought Iron Helps Beautify Modern Homes

The grace and richness of wrought iron railings and columns can do much to enhance the appearance and value of your home.

This was predicted by the American Home Lighting Institute, Chicago, trade association of fixture manufacturers, based on a check of industry trends toward living better electrically.

"AN OVERWHELMING majority of the one million new homes to be started this year will stress lighting for better living," the institute said. "In addition, unprecedented numbers of present home owners will increase the livability of their houses by lighting up with new fixtures."

This long awaited emergence of homes from the "Dark Ages" of poor lighting is credited by the institute to industry wide consumer education programs.

Easy To Find Things In New Drawer Trays

Watch Level Of Moisture In Your Home

A PLAN is the first step toward kitchen remodeling. You can draw a rough plan of your kitchen to scale on graph paper, 1/4" inch representing one foot.

Furniture Today Is Child-Proofed With New Finish

It's an easy task for a young homemaker to have almost child-proof furniture these days. And it is the scientist who has freed her from the worry of marks and scratches on her wood furniture and spills on upholstery.

This was predicted by the American Home Lighting Institute, Chicago, trade association of fixture manufacturers, based on a check of industry trends toward living better electrically.

The Worry Clinic

Use Positive Program In Curing Mistakes

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Scotty, about 3, is the son of a doctor. His mother attends my Bible class in Chicago. Recently I was discussing the positive program which Christ emphasized and urged parents to stress the successes which their children attain, instead of scolding them excessively about their failures.

Then I quoted our great plan, American psychology, namely, Dr. Henry H. Goddard, who warned parents that if a child brings home a spelling paper with 19 of 20 words misspelled, they should say, "Praise the child for that ONE word which he got right. For his mistakes have already seen his failures."

Then I quoted our great plan, American psychology, namely, Dr. Henry H. Goddard, who warned parents that if a child brings home a spelling paper with 19 of 20 words misspelled, they should say, "Praise the child for that ONE word which he got right. For his mistakes have already seen his failures."

"So build up his wounded ego by at least giving him a boost for his single success."

Well, after class that morning, Scotty's mother came up to report an incident from their home.

"Dr. Crane, we recently moved into a new apartment," she began. "And I had stacked a large pile of our phonograph records on a chair."

"SOON SCOTTY CAME into the kitchen, looking embarrassed, and said, 'I am very sorry, Mother, but I broke one of our records.'"

"Well, I told him I appreciated his telling me about it and it to be more careful next time."

"But later that same day, Scotty again came up to me and said, 'Mother, I am more sorry than ever, for I broke another record.'"

"I must have looked irritated, for he then spoke up eagerly and said, 'Mother, I am more sorry than ever, for I broke another record.'"

See September Meeting As First Step Toward Protestant Unity

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two pioneers of the Protestant ecumenical movement predicted today that American churches will take historic steps toward unity at a 43-denomination meeting at Oberlin, Ohio, late this summer.

Dr. Samuel McCrea Cavert and the Rt. Rev. Angus Dun said in separate interviews that the "North American Faith and Order Conference" on the campus of Oberlin College Sept. 3-10 will rank as one of the most important meetings in the reunion movement which churches call "ecumenism" (from the Greek word for "drawing together").

Dr. Cavert is U.S. executive secretary of the World Council of Churches. The Rev. Mr. Dun is Protestant Episcopal bishop of the Diocese of Ohio and will represent the Episcopal Church at the conference. He said the meeting will be a "first step" toward unity, but he said the churches are "moving definitely in that direction" because they recognize increasingly that their division is an affront to God's will.

There are more than 300 known Protestant bodies in the United States and Canada. The 43 which will meet at Oberlin represent the vast majority of the total membership.
