Olivet Lists
Extra Class Schedules

The schedule of early morning, late afternoon and early evening classes at Olivet Nazarene College for working people who want to take college courses has been announced by Dr. Willis Snowberger, dean of the college.

A total of 31 courses have been scheduled when they will be most available to public school teachers and business and professional people. Dr. Snowberger said.

From 7:30 to 8:20 a.m., 31 courses have been scheduled. Eight classes will be offered at 4:30 p.m., and 12 courses at 7 p.m.

The majority of the afternoon and evening classes meet once weekly on Monday or Thursday.

A variety of courses is planned for each period, the dean said. At the 7:30 a.m. courses are offered in education, psychology, music, foreign languages, English, speech, mathematics, Biblical literature, philosophy, social science, business, administration and economics.

Afternoon courses offer subjects in education, psychology, art, speech and sociology. In the evening, classes may be taken in psychology, library science, music, speech, theology, business, mathematics and home economics.

Early morning, late afternoon and evening classes have been popular with off-campus people, Dean Snowberger said. They have

The dean also pointed out that there is a growing number of housewives and persons employed on night shifts who enroll for late morning and early afternoon classes.

A list of early morning and evening classes has been prepared for mailing. It may be obtained by calling or writing the college registrar.

Plane Plunges Into Backyards; Four Killed
NAMES 4 AS REE SPIES

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UP) — A doomed pilot crashed his plane into the backyards of a housing development Saturday in a flame-spewing crash that killed all four crewmen but somehow left sleeping residents unharmed.

As the wreckage stopped in a boiling ball of orange flame, the two engines of the Air Force B25 hurtled into the corner of an enclosed porch where the two girls of M-Sgt. Robert Rothschild were sleeping. Their mother frantically dug them out of the debris that covered them and rushed them out of the house unscathed along with three other children.

THE TWIN-ENGINE plane, a North American B25 from Vance Air Force Base at Enid, Okla., crashed in a ball of flame about a quarter of a mile from West Palm Beach Air Force Base. The plane was bound here on a routine training flight.

After smacking into the ground, the bomber skidded down a narrow strip of backyards between rows of houses, severing to the left at the last second and clipping the corner off one house. Flames and flying debris damaged four other homes, but there were no injuries to residents.

Ike Maps Last-Ditch Fight For Aid Funds

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower is sending a team of three top officials for a last-ditch appeal to the Senate for an increase in foreign aid funds.

But unless all the signs are wrong, Secretary of State Dulles, Adm. Arthur W. Radford and John Hollister are likely to have little success.

Dulles is expected to ask the Senate Appropriations Committee at a closed-door session Monday to boost up to the legal ceiling of $2,387,000,000 the mutual security cash allowance shriveled to $2,534,000,000 by a House vote earlier in the week.

Hollister, the retiring director of the International Cooperation Administration, will back up this plea.

Radford, retiring chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, will argue for increases in military assistance and defense support.

With Sen. Knowland (R., Calif.) leading the fight, Senate Republicans will seek to wipe out some of the House cuts. But they have almost no hope of restoring the full amount sought by Eisenhower.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther Saturday disclosed the proposal in making public letters sent to General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp.

There was no immediate comment from the auto firms.

Reuther said the proposal was based on the unanimous action of the UAW International Executive Board. He said he was suggesting "a positive and practical proposal for making an effective beginning in stopping and reversing the inflationary trend."

He noted that President Eisenhower has asked management and labor to exercise restraint in price and wage policies.

The UAW's contracts with the big three run out next spring around June 1.

The union has announced that its top goal in new contract negotiations will be a shorter week and a substantial increase in take home pay.

Reuther said a $100 price cut in cars, at the wholesale level would mean about a $100 reduction at the retail level.

Reuther said "there is every reason to believe" that reduced prices would increase car sales substantially. A one-million car increase in the industry's sales, he said, "would leave profits that would still be at enviable levels for the standpoint of most industrialists."

Just as excitement over the resort community's noisy ghost began to abate there was the puzzle of the re-appearing cats.

Suspend Egypt
Oil Shipments

CAIRO, Egypt — Saudi Arabia has suspended oil shipments to Egypt effective Sept. 1, reliable informants said today.

To tide Egypt through foreign exchange difficulties, Saudi Arabia last fall agreed to supply Egypt with oil in exchange for Egyptian pounds. The Saudi government paid dollars for the oil to the Arab American Oil Co.

Reuther said "there is every reason to believe" that reduced prices would increase car sales substantially. A one-million car increase in the industry's sales, he said, "would leave profits that would still be at enviable levels for the standpoint of most industrialists."

Plane Plunges Into Backyards; Four Killed
NAMES 4 AS REE SPIES

WASHINGTON (UP) — Retired counter-spy Boris Morros has named Martha Dodd Stern, her husband, a secretary in the U. S. embassy in Prague and a U. S. Intelligence agent in Germany as Soviet spies, it was revealed Saturday.

Mrs. Stern is the daughter of a former American ambassador to Germany.

IN OTHER sensational testimony before congressional investigators, Morros said.

—Moscow officials once boasted they had established 55 business firms in the United States to serve as covers for espionage.

—His orders from the Soviet spy ring included planting an agent in the office of Francis Cardinal Spellman, Catholic prelate of New York, and getting "compromising information" on President Eisenhower, Gen. Lucius D. Clay, and other prominent Americans.

—A chairman of the former four-power Allied Control Commission in Vienna, a Soviet ambassador to Switzerland, and a secretary in the Soviet embassy in Washington were his superiors at various times during 12 years of cloak and dagger work as a U. S. government agent.

—Morros said he had mentioned some extra trimmings to form its prize winning entry.

Other winners in the three divisions were as follows:

Floral division: B. L. Talbot and Son, second; Thierien Chevrolet Agency, third.

Commercial division: Parish Bank, second; Businessmen No. 1, third.

Youth division: Cub Scout Pack 81, Moline, second; L'Etoile Square Dancers, third.

The Friday evening parade had a little extra activity when the pony pulling the Thierien float decided it didn't want to make the route. The pony balked several times before the reviewing stand. Dancers finally determined the pony was shy of the public address system being manned by past festival president Harry Henning.

Along the fire's north rim and threatened to carry them into a valuable stand of ponderosa pine. But so far, officials reported fire lines ringing the blaze were holding.

The wind had died down, but the Weather Bureau put out a special forecast of strong winds for later.

"It doesn't look good," said George Lea, fire control officer of the Bureau of Land Management. "There's an awful lot of fire line to maintain, and anything can happen."

The fire spotter flying over the area in a plane kept the fire on the ground alerted to new flare-ups, so he could send men where they were needed.

Lea said two ranches near the Malheur reservoir appeared safe. Flames earlier had threatened to engulf the ranches.

The army said no sabotage was involved.

The army said "several hundred" heavy bombs have been dropped in close support of ground units operating against the rebels in the Sierra Maestra mountains of eastern Cuba's Oriente Province. The reports could not be confirmed officially.

Other reports, quoting informed sources in Santiago, rebel-held capital of Oriente Province, said a "private army" of between 100 and 200 men has been put in uniform and sent to reinforce the regular army forces in the hills.

The army said to have been organized by Sen. Rolando Masferrer, who recently conferred with President Fulbright in Havana and then dropped from public view.

An army communique reported another shooting in Oriente Province.

A train collision was reported without further detail at Estrada Palma, also in Oriente, but the army said no sabotage was involved.

MOSCOW (UP) — The attorney general of the remote Soviet Republic of Kazakhstan is cracking down on traffic violators—especially drunk drivers. They get shot.

An issue of Kazakhstan Pravda reaching Moscow Saturday indicated the modern problem of highway fatalities has reached even remote Kazakhstan.

It reported that one drunken driver, the republic's No. 1 traffic offender was sentenced to execution by firing squad after his car ran through a crowd of pedestrians, killing one and injuring several.

The paper quoted the attorney general as saying drunken driving republic has been by animal.

All's Normal Again At Momen
As Gladiolus Festival Closes

MOMENCE — Life in Momen, "Glad capital of the world," was getting back to normal today.

The 26th annual Momen Gladiolus Festival was in the history books and the festival grounds west of town were jammed with several thousand Saturday night to witness the colorful three-hour drum and bugle corps competition.

Friday evening's street parade, staged at 6:30 p.m. for the first time in festival history, drew a favorable attendance in spite of rain. Estimates of the crowd ranged from 15,000 to 25,000.

The contest among floats Friday found winners in the various classes being the Munyon and Intels, Carter and Mackin entry in the floral class; the Momen Chamber of Commerce float in the commercial class; and the Momen Junior Rifle Club in the youth division.

The Munyon-Hibbs, Carter-Mackin float depicted a "glad" beauty in the midst of formal gardens. The Momen Chamber float west to the future as it featured a rocket ship and the theme, "Tomorrow's Rocket." The Junior Rifle Club combined the miniature Han and Gretel Gingerbread float that was judged most beautiful of the Thursday Kids Parade with some extra trimmings to form its prize winning entry.

Dies Of Injuries

BLOOMINGTON (UP) — Mrs. Milfred Pile, 32, of Freeport, Ill., died in a hospital today of injuries suffered in an automobile accident a week ago. The accident, a two-car collision, occurred on Route 31 near Heyworth. Ray Tantis of Deatur was killed in the crash.

Now Cats Cause Commotion At Rest Haven

Rest Haven had a new mystery Saturday.

As to excitement over the resort community's noisy ghost began to abate there was the puzzle of the re-appearing cats.

The cats—Mike and Blondie—are the latest in a chain of weird goings-on in the households of Mr. and Mrs. James Mikulecky and Mrs. Mae Vlasak.

First it was the Mikuleckys. They played unwilling hosts for almost a week to a ghostly guest who they said haunted them with strange rappings, bed shakings and whistlings. He even tossed vegetables and other objects around to prove he wasn't kidding.

Deciding to flee the ghost, they moved in with Mrs. Vlasak, who lives nearby. The ghost followed them.

Bingo! They're Coming Through The Doors

At 8:33 p.m. firemen received two calls. One was to give one tank of oxygen to Cecil Thompson, 59, of 346 S. Fourth Ave., who was having difficulty breathing.

The other was to 864 N. Schuyler Ave. where a 3-year-old Wanda Hendrix had swallowed an insect. Firemen examined her and found she did not require hospitalization.

Mrs. Vlasak said a little detective work disclosed that the cats were not coming through the door, but up basement stairs that adjoin the rear door.

The mystery was, she said, that all the basement doors and windows were locked.

Mrs. Vlasak said she was not going to try to figure this one out. She left for the day, not taking the cats.

Firemen Have Busy Half-Hour

Kankakee firemen answered three emergency calls inside of a half-hour Saturday night.

The first was at 8:30 p.m. when the inhalant squad was sent to administer 95 tanks of oxygen to Ethel Weaver, 68, of 894 S. Myrtle Ave., after she experienced difficulty breathing. She was taken to St. Mary's Hospital by ambulance.

500 Flower Show Entries

MOMENCE—More than 500 entries are on exhibit at the Momence Woman's Club annual flower show being held in the high school in conjunction with the 26th annual Momence Gladiolus Festival.

Judges rated the show as highly giving it three green ribbons for outstanding staging. Especially gaining the praise of visitors is the junior show, considered the largest show of exhibits by youngsters in the history of the festival.

The Woman's Club show is divided into four sections with each in a different room. Carrying out the general theme of "Round and Round with Flowers" are the junior show, horticulture, arrangements and table settings.

MRS. ROY HESS, Mrs. Virgil Langhorst and Mrs. Joseph Sandecka were the top winners of the show. A niche depicting the magazine, "Holiday," entered by Mrs. Hess was judged the best of the show. The entry was in the niche division which featured impressions from publications.

Mrs. Hess was also a blue ribbon winner with a table setting and with a shadow box, as well as winning three other first places in the horticulture division.

Show results are as follows: ARRANGEMENTS—Round the world with flowers. Round the old world with flowers. Round the new world with flowers.

Members of the organization committee of the Kankakee County Mental Health Association met Friday evening in Kankakee Hotel to make plans for formalizing their organization and to begin mapping a membership drive.

They decided to have the membership drive during the month of September. Present dues-paying members total almost 50, according to Mrs. Gertrude Hodgson, chairman of the organization committee.

The meeting to formalize the association will be Oct. 11. At that time a constitution will be adopted, by-laws approved, officers elected and a 20-member board of directors chosen.

JAMES Raymond, association field secretary from Cincinnati, will be in Kankakee several times between now and Oct. 11 to help organize the local unit. He spoke here Friday night.

William H. Morgan, Manteno, reported to the group on the meeting he attended in Chicago, on reorganizing the state organization. He was reappointed to represent the local unit at the state reorganization meetings.

Morgan is a member of the constitution and by-laws committee for the state reorganization committee. He will attend another meeting in Chicago, Sept. 2.

Pick-Up Truck, Auto Collide Near Clifton

WATSEKA—No one was injured in a car-truck mishap on Route 54 about two miles south of Clifton at 7:15 p.m. Friday. The accident involved a southbound pick-up truck driven by an Onarga man, Alfred Legan Jr., 46, and a northbound car driven by Harrison Remore, 62, of Marinette, Wis.

According to State Policeman Charles Struble who investigated, Legan apparently got off onto the shoulder on the west side of the road and in getting back on the road he headed toward the ditch on the east side. The right rear wheel of the truck was struck by Remore's car.

Seek Full Study In Post Polio Census

The census of post-polio patients now being taken in Kankakee County by the local chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis includes victims of so-called nonparalytic polio, as well as those severely crippled by the disease. This statement was made today by Dr. H. A. Hartman, chairman of the local group's Medical Advisory Committee.

"Medical research in recent years has demonstrated that some patients, originally listed as non-paralytic cases, may develop muscular weakness, curvature of the spine and limb deformities after a lapse of several years," Dr. Hartman said.

After the census of all post-polio patients is completed, an intensive study of their "current medical needs will be conducted. Both the census and evaluation programs are financed by the national foundation.

Members of the group, S. J. Hoff, man, Urban Baur and J. Hoff, said it would be necessary to help put up a medical clinic building, action of the committee appointed to look into the matter was reported.

The committee will be enlarged in the near future, including members outside the chapter to give the community representation.

As soon as legal matters are definitely established, a plan for raising the money to pay for the clinic will be decided.

As now planned, the clinic would forever be the property of the members or contributors to the corporation, would be controlled by a board of directors elected by the members, who would rent it to whatever doctor was practicing there.

Paul Honegger has been named to the board of directors of the chapter, the secretary, Art Martin, reported. Martin said that C. L. Watson new school superintendent, and Henry and Ed Vengler had signed up as new members.

The food committee for the next meeting will be Harry Swing, Roy Dates, Ed Alt, and G. L. Anderson.

WINNER OF the floral division of the Mokense Glad Festival parade was this entry of Munyon-Hibbs, Carter-Mackin. The float appeared in both the Friday and Saturday parades. Because of the flood damage to Kankakee County glad fields this year gladioli were somewhat at a premium for parade floats. Festival officials changed the regulations so that floral entries required only 40 per cent gladioli instead of the usual 50 per cent.

THE JUNIOR RIFLE CLUB of Mokense was first place winner in the youth division of the parade. The entry included the miniature Hanzel and Gretel gingerbread house that formed the float that was judged most beautiful of the Kids Parade Thursday.

PARADE-GOERS saw thousands of glads when they viewed this float of the Kankakee Glad Growers in the Friday and Saturday parades. The float was not in competition, as has been the practice of the glad growers at the festival.

Sam Goldwyn's Son Says— Movie Industry Must Wake Up

HOLLYWOOD —Sam Goldwyn Jr. is the son of a famous producer credited with observing that people who go to psychiatrists should have their heads examined.

Well, young Sam thinks it's about time the movie industry submitted to the same treatment.

Reason: new talent in the production end of movies is getting as scarce as man-eating flies, Sam says, and nobody seems to be doing much of anything about it.

Sam, a producer with two pictures behind him and a third, "The Proud Rebel," just ahead, is only 31 years old. He doesn't want to turn the industry into a nursery, a little alarmed about the shortage of people his age in the business.

"A lot of young production talent is coming up in TV," he said, "but in the movies—very little. I think we've made a mistake."

SAM HAS SEVERAL explanations for the scarcity of new faces. All are over and above the simple fact that the industry just isn't shooting as many Indians—or as many feet of film—as it used to.

First, he says, the studios—or most of them—have failed to in-

Barnett said he reported the theft by telephone to Mordaunt-Smith who flew to the United States this week to attend the criminal libel trial of Confidential in Los Angeles.

TV Top Interest For Bradley Resident, 90

There is a big difference in the way of life between Sweden in 1857 and enjoying television as a favorite pastime today. This is the span which a 90-year-old Bradley woman has covered during her lifetime.

She is Mrs. Josephine Book who will celebrate her 90th birthday Tuesday. Mrs. Book came to the United States from Sweden as a 19-year-old girl, settling in Chicago. She was married there Sept. 12, 1897 to Charles Book who died nine years ago.

She was quite active until last November when she fell and broke her hip. She gets around Bradley in 1958 where Mrs. Book was employed by the David Bradley Manufacturing Co. Mrs. Book has been a member of the Bradley church since 1897.

Bees Crash Car

CLOVER, S. C. — When the bees got under 59-year-old Lee Henry Minnow's shirt, he tried to take it off. The trouble was, Minnow was driving a two-ton truck loaded with oats and while he was disrobing, the truck crashed. Minnow was uninjured but damage was estimated at $1,500. The bees escaped.

418 N. Prairie Ave., with whom Mrs. Book lives.

Mr. and Mrs. Kinneman have lived with her parents for the past 30 years. Mrs. Kinneman is the only surviving child of Mrs. Book. A son, Theodore, was killed in an automobile accident last December. She also is survived by two step-children, Mrs. Julia Book of Chicago and Arthur Book of Bedford, Iowa.

Today Mrs. Book spends most of her time watching television since her activity is somewhat confined. Her hearing has failed the past few years which sometimes makes it hard visiting with her. However, she is still in good health and around the house every day.

'They Help Make Better Equipment For Us'

Army Doesn't Figure Electronics Experts Lured By Private Industry As Total Loss

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The greener pastures of private industry are luring away many of the electronics experts in the Army's multibillion-dollar missile program.

"Proselyting of Army-trained missilemen costs the taxpayer a terrific amount of money," observes Col. Daniel A. Ranney, commanding Nike batteries and other antiaircraft defenses ringing the San Francisco Bay area.

"A man comes into the service. We spend a lot of money, perhaps as much as $25,000, training him. This training is of value to the Army for a year, maybe two, if he doesn't stay in.

"PRIVATE INDUSTRY, with its promise of big pay, is a powerful attraction."

The missilemen leaving the service after two or three years are not going into industry as competitors to the college-trained scientists, who bring with them the theory needed for research and development. But they are extremely useful in such phases as testing and maintenance.

THE DIFFICULTY of holding trained technicians at Nike installations in the San Francisco area is typical of that in any of the 19 metropolitan and industrial centers around the country, as well as in those Strategic Air Command bases now guarded from hostile air attack by the Nike-Ajax missile and gun batteries.

With the much longer ranged, harder hitting Nike Hercules missiles now in production and scheduled in the near future to reinforce the Ajax batteries, the demand for skilled missilemen is increasing by leaps and bounds.

The Army is meeting the critical need by enlarging its already extensive school system at the antiaircraft artillery and guided missile center, Ft. Bliss, Tex. Thousands of hand-picked soldiers are in training there the year around.

Dictionary For The A' B' C's Of Fall Fashions

Add a page to your dictionary—a page of new terms for fall fashions. Local merchants have followed fashion dictates and are showing new styles with new names. What to ask for?

SUPPLE: That's THE word for the new silhouette for fall. It means easy and relaxed and applies to gracefully slender coats, semi-fitted suits, soft "fluid" dresses.

BARRELED: It means a softly rounded width at top that tapers at hemlines of jackets and coats. It is also called "almond" or "cocoon" or "oval."

OVERBLOUSE: Significant in two-piece dresses is the new look with supple "midway" or belted overblouse.

DOME, BUBBLE, HAREM: These are the new words for new skirt shapes in cocktail and evening dresses. The new skirts can be (1) rounded but not flaring, (2) rounded at hips and tapering to hem, (3) rounded into harem hemlines.

SHORTER-THAN-LONG: It's a new and apt term to describe ¾ and ¾ coats, stunning for fall.

COSTUME: Many of the new dresses have their own jackets and coats, thus costume dresses. There are also suits with their own blouses, and suits with coordinated topsuits.

NATTE: The newest texture term is pronounced "natay." It is a French word for raised, twisted or braided weaves like needlepoint, petitpoint, frieze, boucle and the knit look.

VELVET: There is a new trend to wools with a rich pile and "bloom," lush wool velvets, plush, bolivia, velours and duvetyne.

TWEED: You can't talk about fall fashions without the word tweed. There are tweeds with new dimension and texture, looped, knotted and rubbed. The tweeds are very colorful.

PATTERN: There is a trend for patterns in all fabrics, fabrics of all sizes, checks, herringbones, stripes and new winter prints.

SHEPHERD: It is correctly used only for genuine imported Shetland yarns, but a major fashion idea as the "Shetland influence" in "hairy" wools and "shaggy" knits.

BIAS-CUT: There is a bias shaping for the new supple draped effects.

BELTED: There are many belted suits and dresses have a new look with wide leather and self-fabric belts.

COWLS: They give a flattering neckline draping, soft and fluid.

DOUBLE-SKIRT: It is a Dior name for a new way to slim skirt ease; "split" kick-pleats revealing fabric underlay.

FUR: There are fur trims, fur linings and fur accessories on many of the new in fashions for fall, 1957.

You'll also hear words like colorful and elegant as descriptive of the new fashions. And they are!

ABOVE: A wrap-around dress trimmed with velvet is modeled here by Mrs. Ross Holder of 10 Erie Lane. Slim skirt ease is achieved in several ways for fall, including the wrap-around effect and the double skirt, with split kick-pleats revealing fabric underlay.

RIGHT: Miss Jo Ann Quigley of 1374 E. Court St. wears this belted suit open to reveal a black jersey blouse matching the black knit collar. The smart suit is tweed, a fashion word which looms into importance for fall. Her hat is a soft beret style.

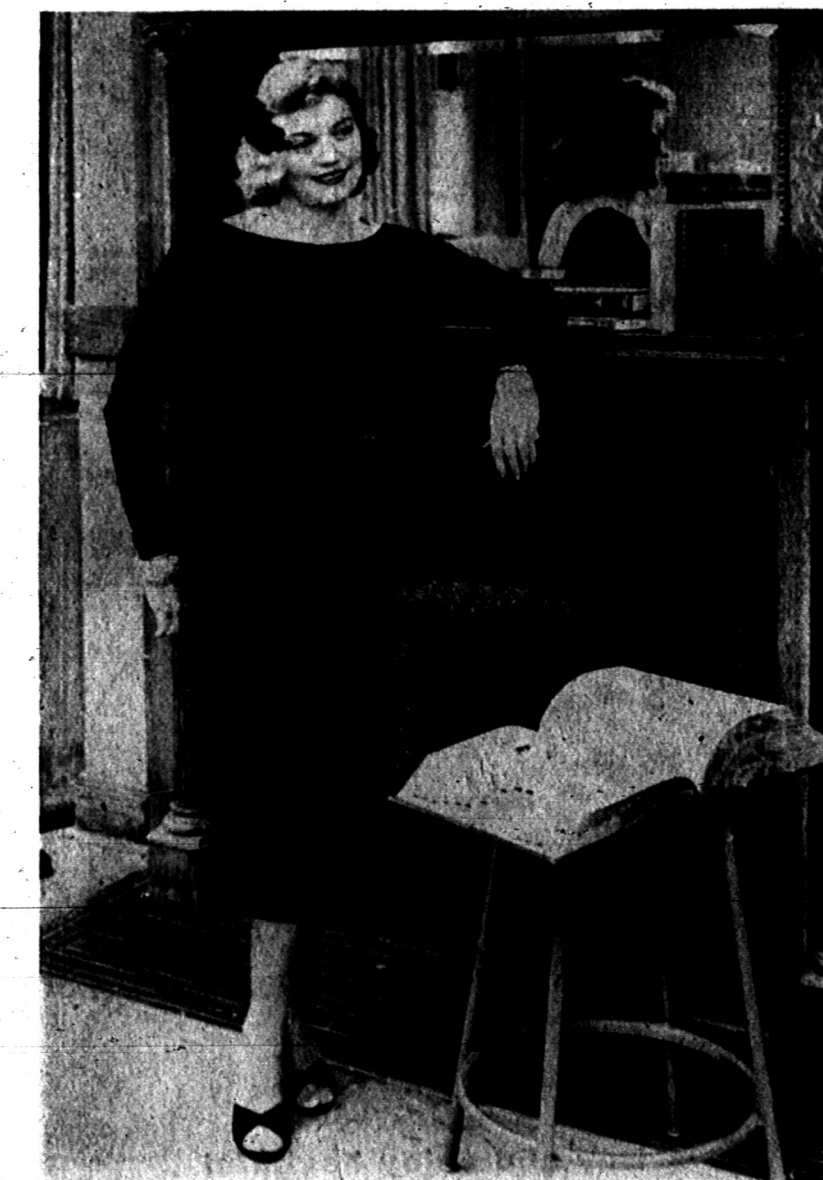

A shawl collar is featured in this new tweed coat worn by Mrs. R. M. Kerst of 708 S. Chicago Ave. The tweed itself is new, a white, orange and black combination with a stylish look. The coat has push-up sleeves and is fitted, with a full skirt. Mrs. Kerst wears a high crowned brimmed cloche hat in velvet. Her purse is a matching tweed.

On The Social Side

Section II — Kankakee Sunday Journal, Sunday, August 18, 1957 — Page 17
SOCIETY • HOME • FARM • CLASSIFIED

BELOW: Tweed and fur, two of the most important fashion words of the approaching season, are combined here for fashion elegance as shown by Mrs. Robert Snavely of Waldron Rd. The tweed suit with box jacket is belted at back and features a white mink collar which is detachable. The skirt is a sheath style. Mrs. Snavely's hat is a white profile cloche in beaver with a "pinched" front. It is typical of the new cloche styles, away from the face with hair showing. On the counter is a new novelty purse in bright red, a good color for fall. The penguin design is in beads and sequins.

The fashion word for this dress is bubble-shaped, rounded at the hipline and tapering to the hem. Some of the new skirt shapes in cocktail and evening dresses are: domed, bubble, harem. Modeling is Miss LaVerly Frerichs of Limestone Rd. Her dress features the low cut back: Miss Frerichs also wears a small black feather hat. "A hat for every occasion," is the milliner's by-word for fall, 1957.

The word costume in fashion means, in this case, a dress with its own jacket, or sweater. It is worn by Miss Judy Romary of 1130 S. Poplar Ave. The dress is a one-on-one ensemble, worn with a matching hat with feather. Supple is another word for the new fall silhouette. It means easy and relaxed, applying here to a "fluid" type dress.

For the throat is the "receptionist" to most of the bacteria that invade the human body. And when tonsillitis comes, it leaves the door open to invasion by polio if an epidemic is present at that very moment.

But we are growing more chary about performing surgery of all kinds. Except in acute cases like a bad appendix, we weigh the pros and cons very carefully.

But if his tonsils are removed, he may develop chest infections. This, the modern physician is more conservative in prescribing tonsillectomies.

"But" Lorna's tonsils are quite large. Well, that is rather typical of children. As they grow into adults, the tonsils tend to shrivel and shrink.

If, however, the frequency of tonsillitis causes a child to miss too much school, and if his ears are often involved so that it looks as if he might suffer some damage to his hearing, then we recommend that tonsils be removed.

"Our doctor says they may have to be removed."

"Dr. Crane, if that is so, then I wish he'd do it during vacation so Lorna will not miss any school."

"But he says to wait and see how she gets along. What a modern doctor thinks about tonsils!"

A generation ago, medical routine removed tonsils, figuring they had no significant value to the human body, anyway.

Indeed, we regarded them as much like the vermiform appendix, which has long been considered excess baggage, too.

But after children had undergone tonsillectomies, we then noticed an interesting fact. They became more susceptible to chest infections and pneumonia.

SO WE NOW regard the tonsils with far more respect. Apparently, they are the front line of defense against the many types of germs and viruses that invade the mouth.

If a child thus has tonsils, his infection may be confined to a case of tonsillitis.

Home Of The Week

A house plan that offered the most in "family" living was a must for Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Martin when they decided to build six years ago.

The spaciousness of floor plan, number and sizes of rooms, play areas—all were points given serious consideration before a plan was selected for the Martin family numbers eight and requires plenty of room to live in.

The long, low plan they finally decided upon is roomy and convenient and provides for easy, well-ordered living. A circular floor plan eliminates heavy traffic through the living and dining rooms and is a boon to the busy mother Mrs. Martin claims. Martin, who is a contractor, built the house himself.

Included in the plan are kitchen, utility room and office, dining room, living room, three large bedrooms, bath and attached garage. The home is situated on a shady, corner lot at 496 S. Prairie Ave., Bradley.

Buff brick is combined with yellow trim for the attractive exterior and gas heat is used.

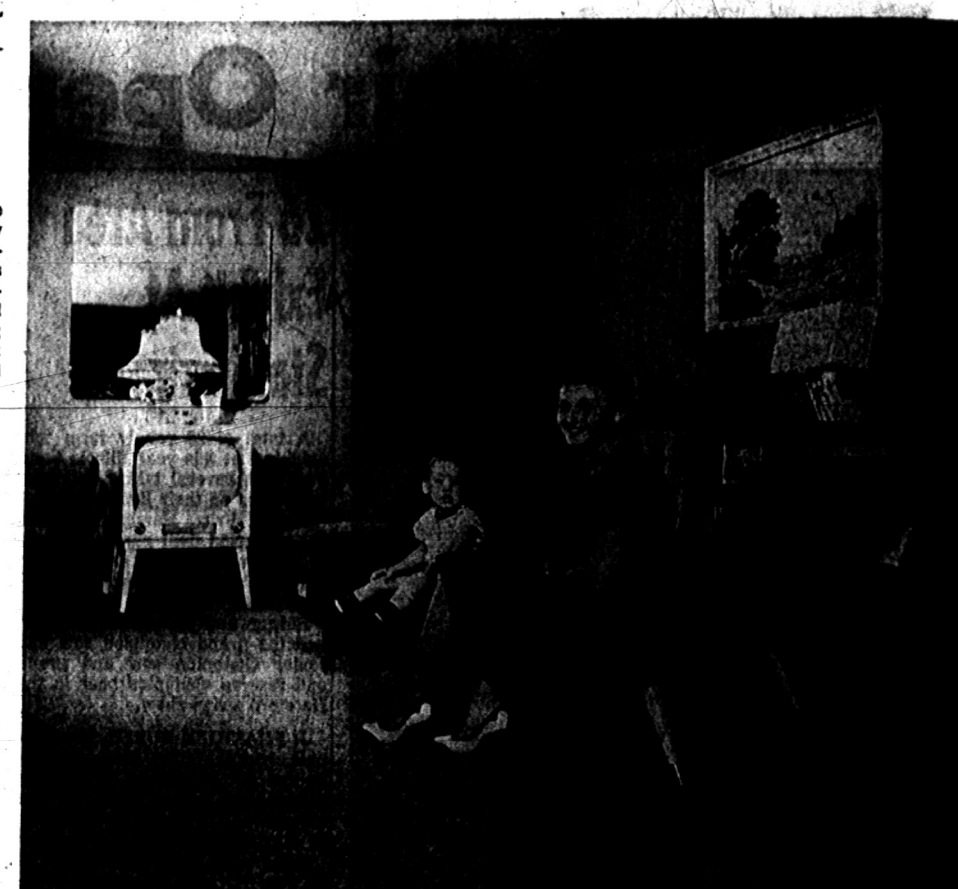

Mrs. Martin selected the interior color schemes concentrating on colors she personally finds easy to live with. Mr. and Mrs. Martin did a portion of the interior decorating themselves and had the remainder completed professionally.

The Martin "family" includes Diane, 14; Bryan, 12½; Nancy, 11; Marty, 7; Janet, 5; and Terry, 2.

Provide Built-In Basement Shelter

By ANDREW C. LANG

Worried about tornadoes? Or about atomic perils?

Then you are not the one to pass up without further study this attractive modern design.

In it the Detroit firm of Petersen & Ebert has created an attractively styled and spacious dwelling of unusual quality and charm, and one that has the distinction of offering old-fashioned "cyclone cellar" safety in a completely modern setting.

While it would be stretching the facts badly to call the storm cellar a bomb shelter, it would in fact provide better shelter against any disaster than a mere retreat to an ordinary cellar.

This specially designed shelter, opening off one corner of the basement, is situated beneath an outside terrace, rather than being placed under the house itself. And during ordinary times it won't just stand there waiting for trouble to catch up with it. Completely insulated, it can be used as a cold room. Two screened air vents provide ample ventilation.

BUT LET'S NOT over-emphasize what is a comparatively minor detail of a fine, functional home—one that has several custom features sometimes called "extras."

The living room is a typical example of the imaginative planning that makes Design HW-66 such an

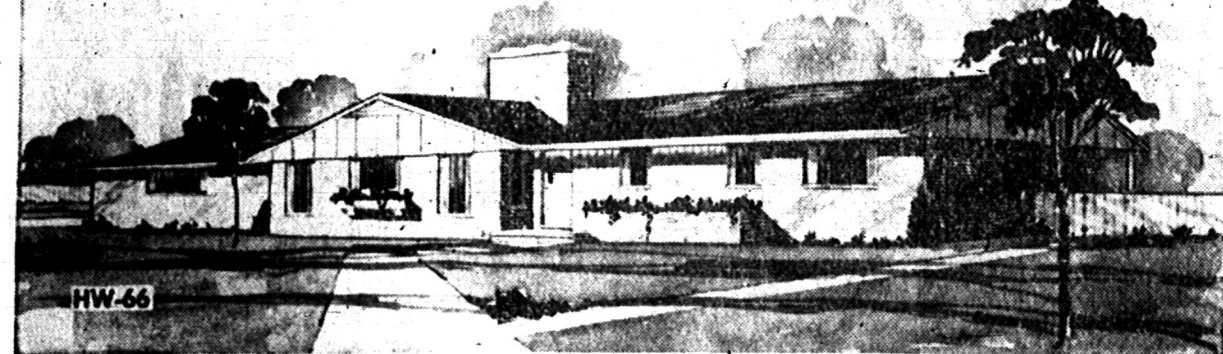

...not only their sleeping but study and hobby requirements.

The master bedroom has sliding glass doors to a private terrace, a large separate bath with stall shower and vanity unit, a large wardrobe closet and another storage closet just outside the bedroom door. The other full bath has a double vanity unit and a separate linen closet.

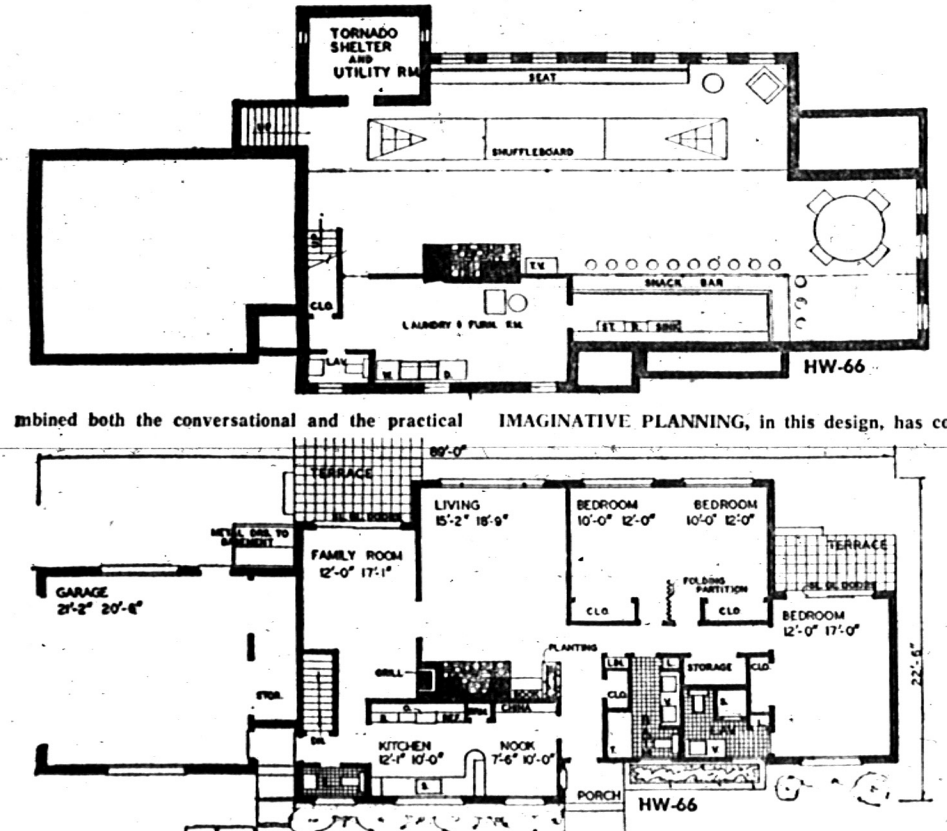

The area occupied by the separate 1,800 square feet exclusive of the garage. It's 22 feet 6 inches from front to rear and a little over 6 feet long. When the garage dimensions are included, the frontage is 84 feet.

The garage is attached to give an "all house" appearance, adding considerably to the wide, rambling lines of the structure. Also important is the ease of access to the garage from both the front and the rear of the house.

The basement has two entrances: one from inside the house, the other from the rear, just off the terrace. This extra entrance to the basement has many advantages, not the least of which is its convenience for children who can go up and down stairs without going into the house.

RED AND WHITE BRICK and vertical siding add charm and sturdiness to this spacious dwelling.

Combined both the conversational and the practical IMAGINATIVE PLANNING, in this design, has

THE SPECIAL SHELTER is outside the house and can be used as utility space.

KH Staff Members Attend Conference

Two Kankakee High School faculty members were among 40 coordinators from 35 Illinois communities who attended the 14th annual distributive education and office occupations training conference at the University of Illinois last week.

C. E. Pearson, DE coordinator, appeared on the program, explaining the work of the state advisory committee, of which he is chairman.

A paper prepared by Miss Vera Baker, office occupations coordinator at KHS, was read. It explained student club activities of office occupations classes.

The DE program works in cooperation with Kankakee retail and wholesale businesses by placing high school students 16 years of age or older in distributive occupations work for a minimum of 15 hours per week of supervised on-the-job training.

The office occupations program operates much like DE, with job placements being made in Kankakee offices. Employers cooperate with the school by providing supervised training in preparation for secretarial and general office careers.

The conference was in session Wednesday through Friday. It was sponsored by the State Board of Vocational Education in cooperation with the business education department of the university's College of Commerce and Business Administration.

"Brainstorming," an outstanding group conference technique, was demonstrated at one session.

Can An Old Mattress Hurt
Your Rest?

by Simmons Company,
World's Leading Authority on Rest

BY OFFICIAL count, more than 25 million over-age mattresses are being used in America tonight. Yet, most medical authorities agree that an old, lumpy, saggy mattress can hurt your rest. On this kind of mattress, it's harder to get to sleep. Your sleep isn't as deep as it should be. You're more likely to wake up feeling tired.

See what a difference a new mattress can make. Lie down on a new Beautyrest.* We guarantee you a head-to-toe, body-fitting rest that beats any other mattress old or new.

It happens that Simmons makes every kind of mattress you can name. Simmons knows which is best because Simmons knows all kinds of mattresses from the inside out. Here is why the best is Beautyrest.

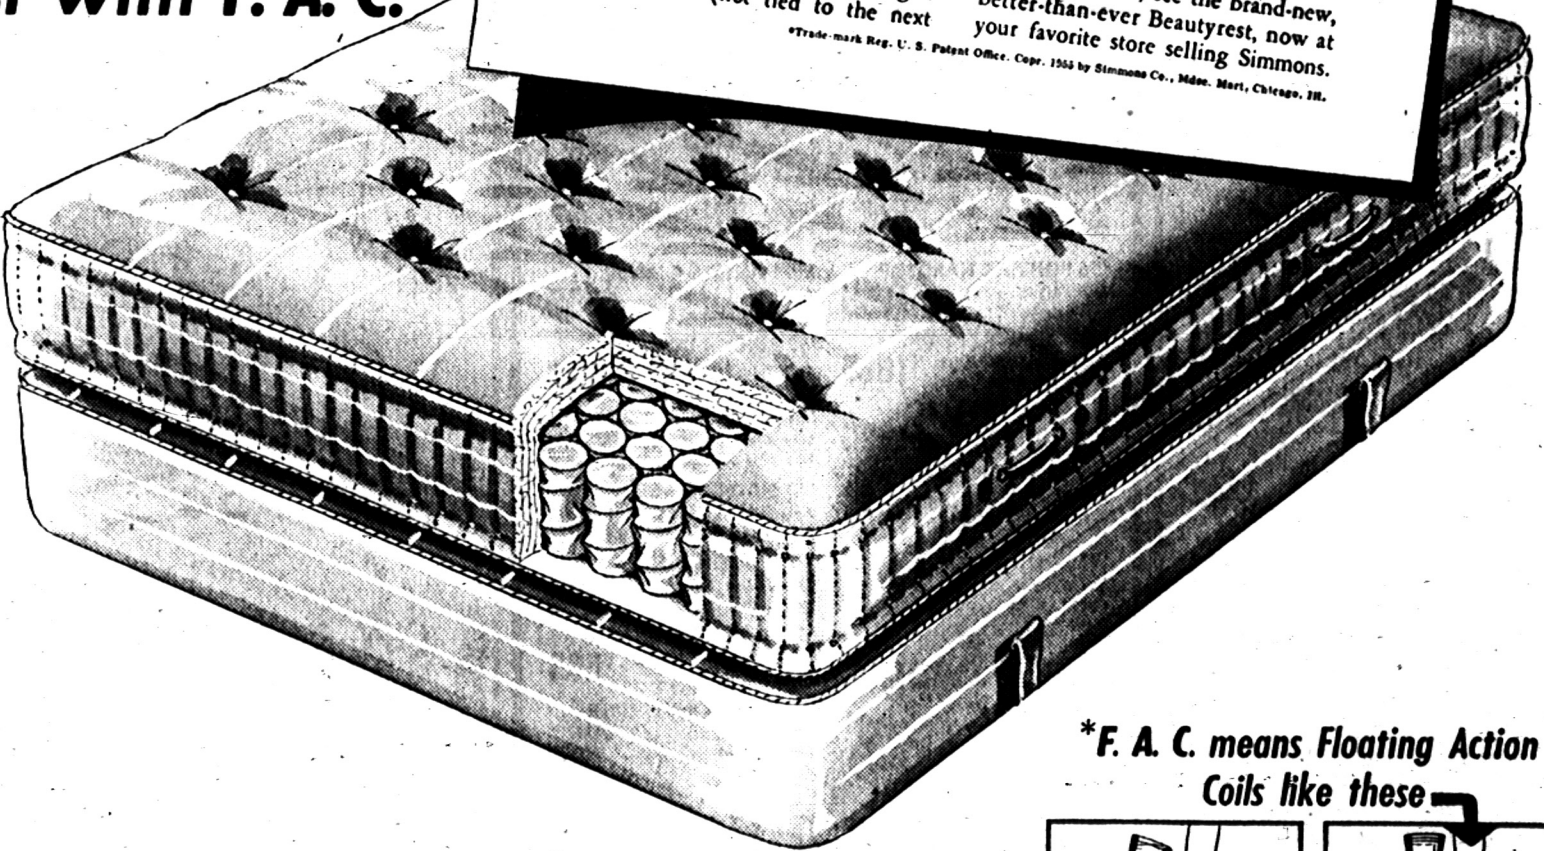

Inside Beautyrest, each spring is independent (not tied to the next spring). So, each part of your body gets support that is guaranteed sag-proof... and the most restful support you've ever known.

The unique spring action is the reason why Beautyrest is known as the best mattress. And, now, the best is better than ever. Simmons engineers have perfected a new invention. We call it F.A.C.—for Floating Action Coils. By scientific test, F.A.C. improves the spring action of Beautyrest by 196%!

Choose the Standard or Extra-Firm model Beautyrest. Either way you get firmness and comfort. Either way you get a mattress that usually far outlives the ten-year guarantee that brings the price of $79.50 down to less than 2¢ a night.

For better rest, see the brand-new, better-than-ever Beautyrest, now at your favorite store selling Simmons.

*F. A. C. means Floating Action
Coils like these

Ordinary mattress coils are wired together — press one and others sag. Beautyrest coils are individually pocketed — act separately, can't sag!

*F. A. C. gives you body fitting
Comfort from head to toe

On Beautyrest each part of your body gets its own proper support. Firm enough where you are heaviest, gentle enough where you are lightest.

A Car with Character

A FRIEND of mine had an ancient automobile which had served her well for years. She called it Peculiar because “it’s peculiar how little trouble it’s given me.” When she left town to make her home with a daughter, she was offered so little for Peculiar that she gave it to a friend.

That was several years ago. Peculiar has since served its new owner faithfully, and she drives her carless friends around, too. Seeing the pleasure Peculiar gave, friends of the new owner pitched in and made extensive repairs on the car. Because it’s now running better than ever, and because of its antique value, a car dealer offered to buy it for 10 times what the original owner was offered.

But Peculiar is not for sale. It is the source of too much pleasure for too many people.—F. A. J., West Palm Beach, Fla.

BY APPOINTMENT ONLY. My husband, a doctor, sometimes seems to have responsibilities to his patients more important than to his own family.

Quite frequently he would tell me, “You must have two thorough check-ups each year,” and I would always ask, “When can you take me?” He’d put me off every time, claiming he was too busy. Finally I called his secretary, asked her to keep my name a secret, and made an appointment to see him in his office.

... ON THE FIRST stool by the counter sat an old man with rheumy eyes and a faint aura of alcohol clinging like his aged jacket.

There were the middle-aged bride and groom, she with her withered corsage; he with the placid platter of beans floating in gravy.

And the hook-nosed girl praying pathetically for beauty, her offering the ring of flowers clutching her hair.

And the stocky boy in the Ivy League cap leafing through the automobile magazines beside the earring counter.

It was late. Beverly and I stirred our coffee. The man too old for the ducktail haircut yawned into his ringed hand. The counter sagged with spoons and ice-cream smears.

The tired teen-agers, disillusion already conceived, wandered in and out. The traveling man ogled the women.

I showed up on the appointed day, and when he buzzed for his “next patient,” I walked in. His jaw fell, then he laughed. And I got my check-up.—Mrs. D. N. Thompson, Elberton, Ga.

A LOW-COST, HIGH-FUN VACATION. My friend and I cannot afford to send our girls to camp during the Summer, but rather than let them miss out altogether, we found a solution. I take her girl for one week in June and she takes mine for a week in August. We let them choose their clothing and pack their own bags.

The whole experience gives them a sense of responsibility and a chance to get away from home and learn how other people live and play. When my girl returns she is a happier person for her new experience. She has many things to talk about—and something to look forward to during the Winter.

—Mrs. N. H. Cooke, Billerica, Mass.

What if the rat-faced woman in the short khaki pants had taken her private life and laid the pages there for us to see? “It might be dull,” Beverly suggested. She lifted the thick coffee to her lips. “What is there for her to say?”

Nothing? Oh, no. She and all of them, the old man, the boy, the girls, the old bride, all of them are pulsing with the privacy of themselves. Within them are disgust and dignity, horror and exultation. Each has lived and has known life. Having been so marked, they are transfigured.

Beverly and I paid for our coffee and walked into the night. But I could not resist one final glance.

They were all there, fixed like a painting in my sight. They have not left me. In a sense, they have become mine. The great American novel is still only a dream. But I saw it there.

THE REASON we don't summon a doctor to our home more often is that my nervous system can't stand it.

My wife regards all doctors as a kind of composite Louis Pasteur, Count of Monte Cristo, and Robert Taylor, and the knowledge that one of these demigods is about to set foot in our little igloo renders her speechless.

For about 15 seconds, that is. Then she regains her vocal powers and shouts: "Straighten the throw rugs! Pick up those newspapers! Bring me the vacuum! The doctor is coming!"

"Who is he, the surgeon-general?" I called out on just such an occasion recently, rushing about obeying her commands.

"He's coming over to look at Ann. She's running a temperature and has a sore throat. While you're at it, straighten the dining-room candles, turn on the porch light, and for heaven sake's put on a clean shirt and tie. I'll reverse the slipcover on the couch."

"There's a piece of old red carpet up in the attic," I said. "We can roll it out when he arrives and make an archway of raised thermometers in the vestibule. Maybe we can get the local radio station to play 'Pomp and Circumstance.'"

"He said he'd be over in a little while," she continued, ignoring me.

"Goody. That gives me time for a short nap and—"

"Don't touch that couch!" she shrieked, hastily re-plumping the pillows.

I caught myself in mid-air, displaying muscular control usually seen only on the vaudeville stage, and righted myself in the nick of time. For the next three hours I squatted on the edge of the living room's least comfortable chair, surrounded by spotless ashtrays and a plate of untouchable bonbons. Once in a while I'd mosey out to the kitchen for a smoke.

"The doctor will march straight back to Ann's bedroom, prescribe the pills, wash his hands in the bathroom, and leave," I tried to explain. "He isn't going to buy the house."

My wife gasped. "He can't wash his hands in the bathroom!"

"Much less messy than the back hall or the linen closet," I countered.

"I forgot to tidy up the bathroom!" she wailed. "I've got stockings hanging in there and—"

The doorbell rang. "Too late," I intoned. "His excellency is at the door. You want me to lock him in the pantry while you clean the bathroom?"

My wife raced to open the door while I took up a position of parade rest, ready to receive the emperor's outer vestments, crown, and scepter.

"Come in, Doctor," I heard my wife saying eagerly. "I'm extremely sorry we had to disturb you, but—"

"Bedside Bagley!" I exploded.

"Blubberwaist!" he responded.

"I haven't seen you since the night you boosted me up the Gamma Gamma Gamma rainspout!"

"Rocky-socky-tickey-boo! I'm from State and so are you!" he chorused. We danced each other around the living room and finally collapsed, laughing, on the davenport pillows.

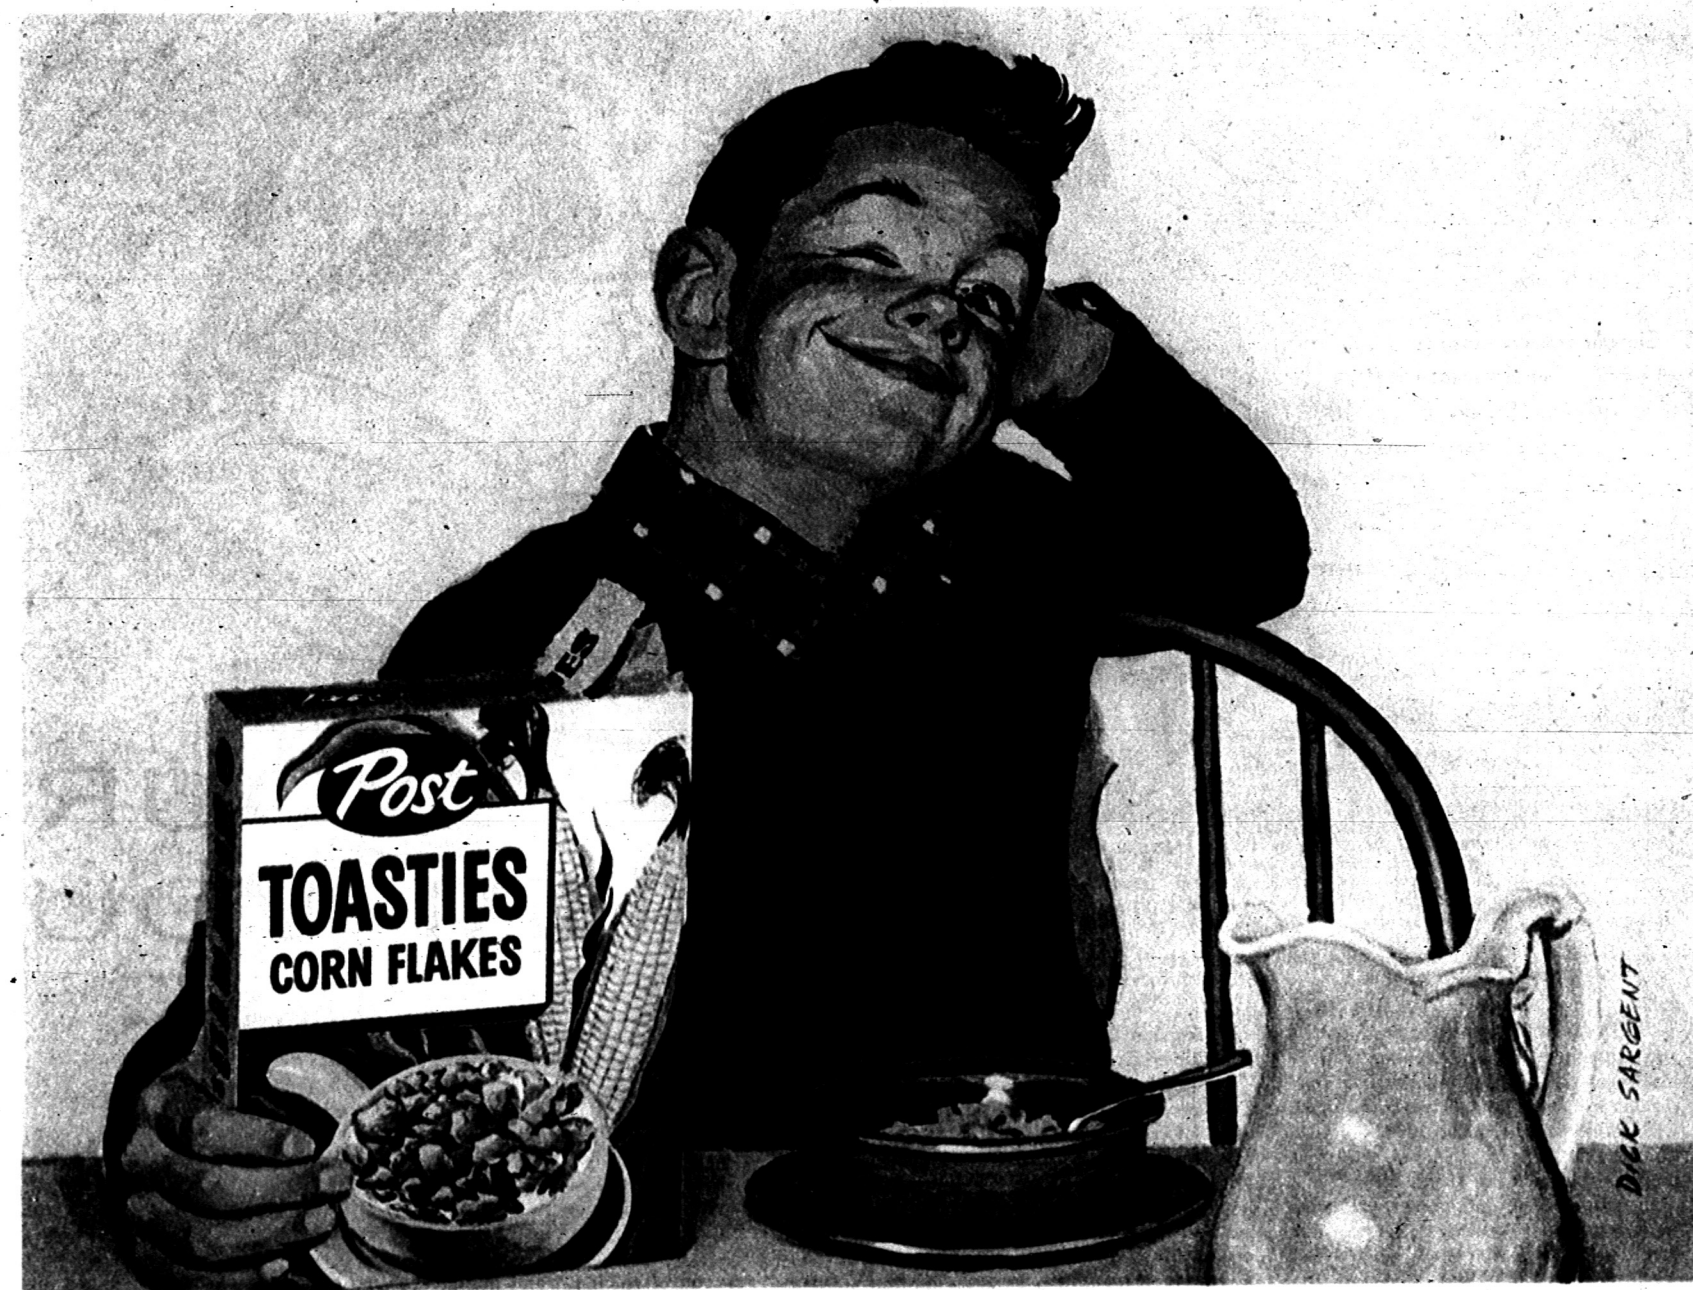

I introduced "Bedside" to my wife, who was leaning numbly in one corner, and then suggested he see Ann before we sat down to talk over old times.

"I'll wash my hands first," he said.

"Sure thing," I said. "Hope you don't mind using the kitchen sink. I've been having a spot of plumbing trouble in the bathroom."

My wife threw me a look that was a mixture of gratitude and love. But it seemed to me love had the upper hand.

YOUR WHAT YOU

ALL OVER this great country, if you question any state-police superintendent or motor-vehicle commissioner and get him talking frankly, he will admit that in almost all the courts of the state there is an institution popularly known as "ticket fixing."

If you get a summons for a traffic violation, you take the ticket to your local political leader and he fixes it with the chief of police, the arresting officer, or even with the judge.

The result: all these ticket fixers have no further respect for our courts because they suspect—though it's not true—that all other courts are subject to similar fixing.

This fixing of tickets is a terrible, outrageous custom. Yet it can easily be wiped out by a simple rule of court, or by statute.

All your community need do is adopt a nonfixable traffic-violations ticket. The original goes to the court, one copy goes to the police chief, another copy to the police officer serving it, and a third to the defendant being served.

To fix this kind of ticket, you have to fix three public officials.

And it's hardly worthwhile, especially if the penalty is 30 days in jail for contempt of court!

In Newark, N. J., in the last quarter before New Jersey adopted this type of ticket, 14,529 people ignored summonses and had their tickets fixed. In the corresponding quarter of the following year, only 607 summonses were ignored—all of them by motorists from other states who did not intend coming back.

Think of the increased respect for law—created by the simple institution of a traffic ticket that can't be fixed! And law is what we all depend on to support our system of government.

Strangely, however, New Jersey is the only state that has such a nonfixable traffic ticket. Parts of certain other states have adopted it, but not another entire state. I often wonder why, and I don't like what seems to be the obvious answer.

As I was leaving the State House in Trenton one day after New Jersey's new ticket system had been in effect about three months, a man approached and introduced himself.

"You don't know me, but you've changed the entire course of my life," he said. "No longer do I have to go out night after night, and fix tickets for my constituents all over the county. My wife thinks you're the greatest man in the state, and when you decide to run for governor (which I'm not going to do), you'll get the backing of our entire family."

I asked this man: "Why did you fix tickets when you knew it was illegal?"

"Well," he replied, "I'm one of my party's leaders in Trenton, and if I didn't do it, my counterpart in the other party would—and he'd get those votes from me. You've taken away all necessity for that."

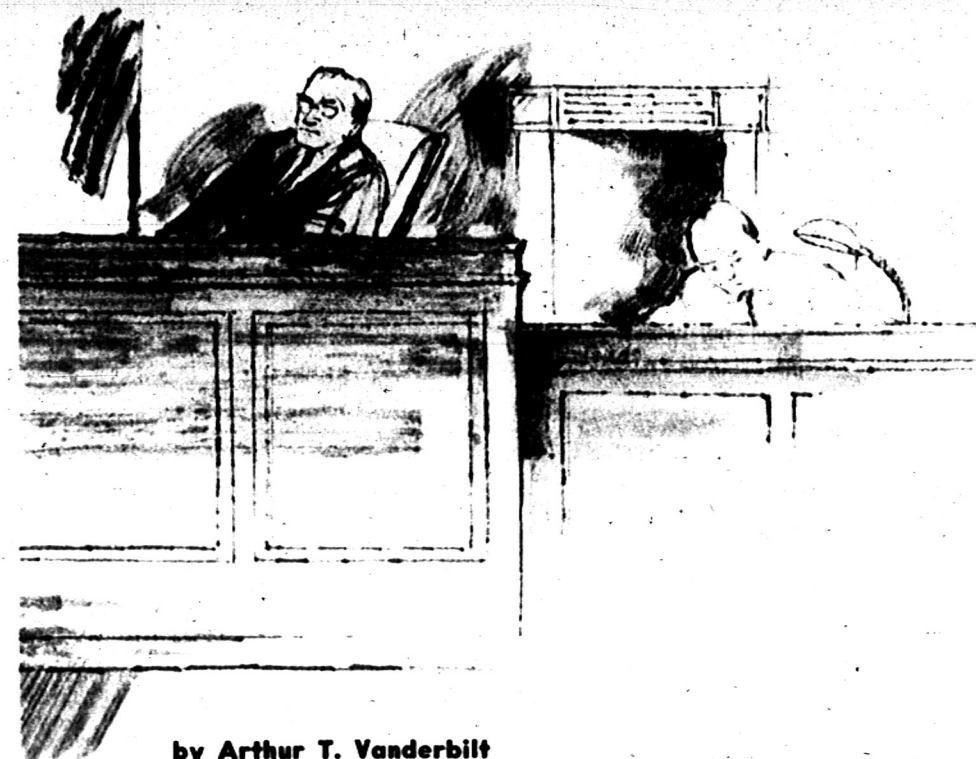

NOW LET'S take a look at what I regard as the most important court in the United States—your local criminal court. Whether your community calls it a justice of the peace court, police court, or municipal court, I believe this to be the most important court we have. Yet it is also the most neglected one!

It is what the American people see in these local courts that alarms me. In the first place, I don't see how we can have much respect for a court in which the judge's fees depend on the "take" from defendants. And in most justice of the peace courts, judges are paid directly out of defendants' fines. In other words, the judge—who is supposed to be impartial—has a personal stake in the outcome of each case! Yet this situation can easily be changed by simple statute.

Now how about enforcement of our criminal laws? I had relatively little experience myself as a criminal lawyer, and what I do know I have learned in my nine years as a judge. But when it comes to enforcement of criminal law, the state doesn't have a chance—and for easily curable reasons.

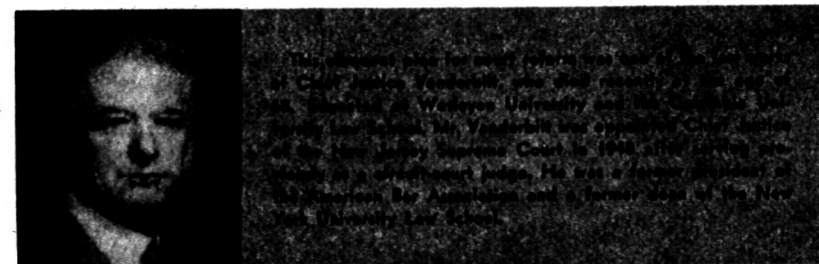

First of all, most of our prosecutors, district attorneys, or whatever your

by Arthur T. Vanderbilt

Late Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of New Jersey

COURTS ARE MAKE THEM!

community calls them, are part-time officers. They divide their time between prosecuting cases for the state and private law practice. But no man can serve two masters. Criminals work full-time. If the district attorney or prosecutor is on the job only part-time, the state is bound to lose!

The most efficient thing taxpayers could do—at least in larger cities—would be to recruit prosecutors, like judges, from the practice of law. I would also suggest that all district attorneys be part of a statewide system, cooperating with one another under some recognized official like the attorney general. I don't care if he is appointed by the governor or the state legislature, or elected by the people, just so all the prosecutors cooperate under his supervision.

Another thing we need is a training school for our police, detectives, and prosecutors' officers.

We hear a lot these days about deficiencies in the enforcement of civil justice, chiefly because of the law's delays. That is what irks the public more than anything else because sometimes civil dockets are years in arrears.

Unsurpassed at this Low Cost!

YOUR COURTS

This condition exists because we have never given adequate attention to developing a businesslike organization in the courts of most states. In not over five states, for example, are there provisions for transferring judges who are not busy to courts where there is an overflow of work.

Why shouldn't we have that system in every state? You'd have it in any business that hoped to prevent bankruptcy. Why not in the courts, one of our biggest state-wide businesses?

Today only a few states have modern trial methods. Let me illustrate:

A case is called for trial. The plaintiff's lawyer and the defendant's lawyer rush to the courthouse and on the way read the pleadings in the case to find out what it's all about.

But some states are using what is called a pre-trial conference to speed the administration of justice. Under this system, if the plaintiff's lawyer wants to know what the defendant's case is about, he serves him and his witnesses with a demand for depositions before trial.

Thus, both lawyers find out what the case is about. Then they appear before the judge at a pre-trial conference, where every effort is made to simplify the issues and reach a compromise.

The result is that three cases out of four are settled quickly. Those cases that do go to trial are better tried, in less time, and fewer cases are appealed.

It was our experience in New Jersey, where we had been three or four years behind, that with pre-trial conferences and sending judges where they were needed, within a year every case in the state was being tried within six months.

THESE CHANGES I suggested are not at all complicated. They can all be accomplished in about three months by any legislature or by any court with authority to do it. And when I say any state can make these changes, I speak from experience.

New Jersey is the most conservative state in the United States, and if these improvements could be made in New Jersey, they can be made in any state.

The average American really wants very little from his government. As regards the law, I suppose what he wants most is to know that his life and property are going to be reasonably safe through the enforcement of the criminal law, and that if he ever has to go to court, he will get a fair trial without undue delay.

That's not too much for the average citizen to expect—yet how often he fails to get it!

Of course, you citizens will have to help the judges and lawyers make these improvements. Some judges won't like the change at first; neither will some lawyers. But the public will love it!

Corn Pudding

Flecks of green pepper and scarlet pimiento give this golden corn pudding a piquant flavor and gay color that make it a star attraction.

Grease a 2-qt. casserole. Heat water for boiling water bath.*

6 or 7 fresh ears of corn
Carefully cut kernels of corn from cob. Chop finely enough corn to yield 2 cups. Set out

While corn is cooking, wash double-boiler top to remove scum; scald the remaining 1 3/4 cups milk. Add

1 tablespoon butter or margarine

While milk scalds, beat slightly

4 eggs

Blend eggs with the cooked corn and 2 tablespoons slivered pimiento

A $10 PRIZE-WINNING CAKE RECIPE from a FAMILY WEEKLY reader

Elizabeth Gable, 853 Wright St., Columbia, Pa.

Best Devils Food Cake

GOOD FOR FREEZING

A seven-minute or butter-type frosting is suggested by our prize-winner.

Grease bottoms only of three 8-in. round layer cake pans. Line with waxed paper cut to fit bottoms; grease waxed paper.

Melt over simmering water and set aside to cool

4 sq. (4 oz.) unsweetened chocolate

Sift together and set aside

2 cups sifted cake flour

1 teaspoon baking soda

1 teaspoon salt

Blend together

1/4 cup hydrogenated vegetable shortening or all-purpose shortening

2 teaspoons vanilla extract

Add gradually, creaming until fluffy after each addition

1 1/4 cups firmly packed dark brown sugar

Add in thirds, beating thoroughly after each addition

3 eggs, well beaten (until thick and piled softly)

Blend in the cooled chocolate.

Measure

1 cup water

Beating only until smooth after each addition, alternately add dry ingredients in fourths, water in thirds to creamed mixture. Finally, beat only until smooth (do not overbeat). Turn batter into prepared cake pans.

Bake at 350°F 25 to 30 min., or until cake tester or wooden pick comes out clean when inserted in center of layer, or until cake surface springs back when lightly touched at center.

Remove from oven. Cool 10 min. in pans on cooling racks. To loosen each layer from pan, run a spatula gently around sides. Cover with a cooling rack; invert cake and remove pan. Immediately peel off waxed paper and turn layer top side up. Cool completely.

Note: If desired, fill and frost only two layers; freeze the third layer for that future occasion.

3-DAY TREATMENT FOR CORNS

BLUE-JAY Plastic Corn Plasters with wonder drug PHENYLUM®. Guaranteed to relieve pain... and get rid of ordinary corns in three days.

Medical science has found a fast and effective way to relieve the pain of a corn, and get rid of it at the same time.

This treatment works by getting to the base of the problem. It actually gets rid of your corn by pushing it up from underneath.

The secret is a wonder drug from the Blue-Jay laboratories which took nine years to perfect. That wonder drug is called Phenylum (phenox-yethanoic acid).

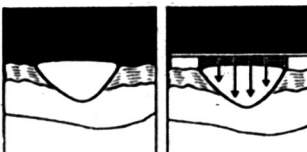

How BLUE-JAY Corn Plasters relieve pain, remove corn

The Blue-Jay plaster consists of a felt ring surrounding a pad with Phenylum. The felt relieves the pain of the corn by removing the pressure and friction which causes it.

Simultaneously, the Phenylum goes to work to remove the source of the pain—the corn itself. It penetrates through the tough, horny skin of the corn to its base, where it stimulates the growth of new cell tissue.

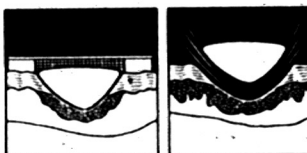

In most corns, by the end of the third day this new tissue has grown to the point where it pushes the corn loose so that it can be lifted out.

How Phenylum medication gets rid of corns from underneath

NEW CORN develops when skin grows tough and horny under constant pressure.

FIRST DAY—Blue-Jay relieves pressure, while Phenylum penetrates to base of corn.

SECOND DAY—Phenylum starts growth of new cell tissue underneath. This loosens corn, pushes it up.

THIRD DAY—Corn now lifts out easily. Stubborn, long-established corns may require second application.

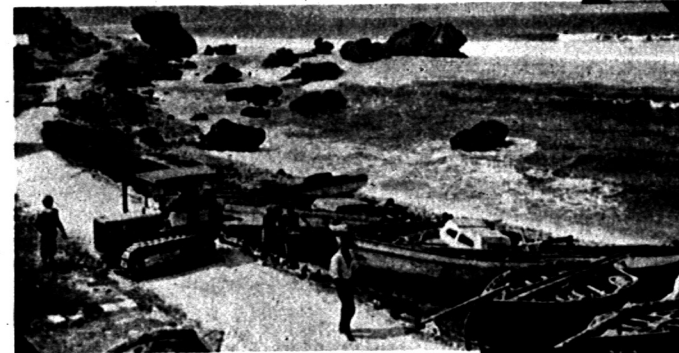

BLUE-JAY Guarantees. Follow directions, get relief from pain... get rid of ordinary corns in 3 days... or your money back from Blue-Jay, 309 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago 6.

Regular or ladies size. Callus plasters, too. Look for the new BLUE-JAY package.

Honeymoon in Barbados

ROMANCE is a very special ingredient of vacationing. It should include moon-splashed beaches and quiet gardens, as well as the usual daytime sports and nighttime gaiety. Only a few hours' flight from the United States is a palm-studded chain of islands that offers all these pleasures plus a year-round Summer climate with cooling trade winds and the colorful, relaxing life of the tropics. The British West Indies, once a favorite stamping ground for tough buccaneers, now is the prize of the American tourist. In these pictures, two young honeymooners explore the island of Barbados, B.W.I., deep in the land of calypso, steel bands, exotic beauty, and peaceful surroundings.

Best Bets for Stardom

Picking winners in the Hollywood

sweepstakes is tough, but here's how experts handicap

the current crop of screen hopefuls.

WHERE DO RACE track touts go when they're too old to outrace the cops at Santa Anita and Hialeah? Well, often they become publicity agents for Hollywood's young movie hopefuls!

"I got a sure one comin' up," they whisper in the ear of a Hollywood producer, director, or correspondent. "This filly—er, this starlet's got the looks of Liz Taylor, the sex appeal of those Italian dolls, and the talent of Bette Davis. And for an old friend like you, I got an exclusive deal..."

So you may read in your newspaper about Roxie Furburster, a girl going places. But when tomorrow arrives, the only place Roxie has gone is to the unemployment-compensation office. The tout, of course, has long since found a new "sure thing."

Yet it's not impossible to guess winners in the Hollywood sweepstakes. Just watch the stable owners—in this case, the studio bosses and independent producers. They are putting their money on a talented group of young people who accentuate "earthiness," realism, and personality rather than beauty; and for every male star-of-tomorrow there are two promising females.

Betting is heavy, for example, on the success of our cover girl, Gia Scala. She's impressive both in size—five feet, eight inches—and background. Born in Liverpool, England, of Irish-Italian parents, she was raised in Rome and scored in Universal-International's "Four Girls in Town" and Columbia's "The Garment Jungle." You can judge her possibilities for yourself in her coming MGM films, "Tip on a Dead Jockey" and "Don't Go Near the Water."

Italian beauty, Hollywood believes, can't be overstressed, so they've added still another hopeful, 19-year-old Giorgia Moll. You'll see her opposite Audie Murphy in "The Quiet American."

Other imports are England's Kay Kendall, one of MGM's "Les Girls," and Germany's Marianne Cook, soon to be seen in UI's "Interlude." Switzerland gets into the act with Maria Schell, who landed the role in "The Brothers Karamazov" that Marilyn Monroe wanted so dearly. At the moment, Inger Stevens is best known for her "romance" with Bing Crosby, but experts feel the public will make her a star after seeing her opposite Bing in the MGM release, "Man on Fire."

For the American girl with Hollywood dreams, modeling seems to be the "open sesame." Five of today's best bets are former models. Suzy Parker plays opposite Cary Grant in 20th Century-Fox's "Kiss Them for Me"; 15-year-old Sandra Dee appears in MGM's "Until They Sail"; Felicia Farr bows in Columbia's "3:10 to Yuma"; 18-year-old Susan Harrison has the top female role opposite Burt Lancaster and Tony Curtis in "Sweet Smell of Success"; and Dolores Michaels, impressive in "The Wayward Bus," plays opposite Richard Widmark in the forthcoming "Time Limit."

The most promising "new-comer," however, is a film veteran. Nineteen-year-old Natalie Wood debuted at age four when director Irving Pichel hired some townfolk in Santa Rosa, Calif., as bit players in "Happy Land." Now she's got the title role in "Marjorie Morningstar."

Male prospects are relatively few, but impressive. Outstanding is 19-year-old James MacArthur, son of Helen Hayes and the late Charles MacArthur. His sensitive performance in "The Young

Inger Stevens

Sandra Dee

Anthony Franciosa

Sal Mineo

John Saxon

Robert Evans

by Peer J. Oppenheimer

Mop-topped Andy Griffith, shown with William Fawcett, plays the earthy realism bit for laughs in "No Time for Sergeants."

Stranger" brought him offers from three major studios, but he settled for a nonexclusive, one-picture-a-year deal that allows him to continue studying at Harvard. His next film will be "Light in the Forest" for Walt Disney.

Andy Griffith and Anthony Franciosa also are of the ruffled-hair school of acting. Both Broadway stars, Franciosa repeats his stage triumph in "A Hatful of Rain" and plays opposite fiery Anna Magnani in Paramount's latest, "A Woman Obsessed."

Griffith scored on Broadway in "No Time for Sergeants" and then did the film version of this military farce. He also starred in Elia Kazan's "A Face in the Crowd."

Sal Mineo's wavy locks and fine features are more typical of Hollywood's usual matinee idols and have won him a big teen-age following. After a half-dozen low-budget pictures, Sal got a starring part in Allied Artists' "Dino."

Teen-agers also can claim credit for the rise of John Saxon. They liked him so much in UI's "The Unguarded Moment" and "Rock, Pretty Baby" that he was immediately rushed into top roles in "Summer Love" and "Teach Me How to Cry."

It used to be that no year was complete without a young star being discovered at a soda fountain, just as he was about to go home broke. Things are different in this age of inflation. Robert Evans, for example, was swimming at the swank Beverly Hills Hotel when Norma Shearer spotted him and decided he should portray her late husband, Irving Thalberg, in Universal's "Man of a Thousand Faces."

Six months later Darryl Zanuck "rediscovered" him in a New York nightclub and cast him opposite Ava Gardner in "The Sun Also Rises." Evans is a wealthy garment manufacturer! His riches-to-more-riches tale sums up Hollywood's new crop of maybe-stars. Whatever their future, you've got to admit they're different!

The Cat and Dog Game

Maude E. Hallmer

Your friends will have a hilarious time if you teach them this game. Divide the players into two teams, one called cats, the other dogs, and each team chooses a captain. Hide slips of paper in different places about the yard or the house with the word cat written on half of them and dog on the remainder. When the signal is given, all members of both groups—except the two captains—start hunting for the slips. When one is found, the player must either meow or bark depending on whether cat or dog is written on it. He waits till the captain reaches him and marks down a point for his find and adds it to the team's score. Then he goes on and hunts for another paper. A time limit is set and the high-scoring team wins. This is noisy, exciting, and fun!

A Rocket to the Moon

John Dukes McKee

Four rocket ships are trying to fly to the moon. Only one path will take them there. Each player selects a ship and plays in turn. Use a pencil and follow lightly along the black line that you think will take you to the moon. If your rocket reaches the moon, score one point for yourself. Following a wrong line that ends in a dot scores nothing. After each player has had a turn, switch ships and try again. The one with the most points wins—and it's almost as much fun to play alone!

Recordially Yours

by Norman Weiser

OF THE MANY LETTERS you have sent me on a variety of subjects, I'd like to pick one, from T. H. of Orlando, Fla., and answer it for all who asked a similar question.

"I've got a problem," writes T. H. "I'm 16, and go steady. My boy friend and I like to sit around and listen to rock 'n' roll, but my folks say either we play 'good' records, or there will be no more record sessions. My boy friend says when 'good' music comes in—he goes out. What do I do?"

Well, T. H., I'd suggest you take the b.f. to the nearest record shop and play some Frank Sinatra, Doris Day, or Pat Boone. And you might take the folks along, too, for if the course of true listening is to run smooth, there must be an understanding or a compromise on what constitutes "good" music in your house.

TOPS ON THE RECORD SHELVES: Not too many folks remember that Connie Boswell was one of the first of the swinging singers, but the girl proves she still has what it takes in her new RCA album, "Connie Boswell and the Original Memphis Five in Hi-Fi." Pay special attention to Connie on "When the Saints Go Marching In."

MUSIC FOR FAMILY LISTENING: Two fine movie sound tracks are now available. They are "A Face in the Crowd," from the Andy Griffith flicker, and "Saint Joan," both issued by Capitol. For a change of pace, try Atlantic's "The Songs of Bobby Short—Speaking of Love." Bobby is one of the bright new vocalists on the record scene.

In an instrumental vein, Percy Faith has a new Columbia etching, "Adventure in the Sun," which is excellent. Spike Jones has turned producer, and his first effort is Verve's "Hi-Fi Polka Party" featuring the Polka Dots and Ole Svenson. It's a lively, listenable session. And don't miss Mercury's "Swinging Guitar" starring Jorgen Ingman, who makes his U.S. record debut an auspicious one.

JAZZOMANIA: Stan Kenton is a true jazz giant, and even when he experiments, he is interesting and entertaining. As proof, spin "Kenton with Voices," a new Capitol package featuring Ann Richards and the Modern Men. The former is Mrs. Kenton in private life, the latter a new West Coast group discovered by Kenton. And for another fine husband and wife effort, spin "Mr. & Mrs. Jazz," a Bethlehem LP featuring Sue and Ralph Sharon. Contemporary's "Music to Listen to Barney Kessel By," offers one of jazzdom's greatest guitarists in a setting you will want to review over and over.

COVERING THE CLASSICS: From the fine Angel catalog come several new releases we're sure you will want to hear, including "Till Eulenspiegel," and "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," both composed by Richard Strauss and performed by the Orchestra National de la Radio-diffusion Francaise. And for Grieg enthusiasts, there is "Peer Gynt, Suites 1 and 2" and four Norwegian dances performed by the Philharmonia Orchestra, Walter Susskind conducting.

Syria Is In Clutches Of Pro-Soviet Clique

11th Hour Stand Made By Ike For Aid Bill

Dulles Leads Group To Restore Slashes Of 809 Millions

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower counter-attacked today in an 11th-hour effort to save the foreign aid program from what he considers crippling budget cuts. He held an unannounced breakfast conference with Sam Rayburn, speaker and Democratic leader of the House, and appealed for his help in restoring the 30 per cent economy cut made by the House last week.

At the same time he sent a task force of four top administration officials to Capitol Hill to plead with the Senate Appropriations Committee to put back the $809 million dollars cut by the House.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles led the delegation of witnesses. They warned that U. S. prestige and security are threatened by a budget slash so large that it would change the basic nature of the foreign aid program.

Arthur W. Radford, retired chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, delivered the bluntest warning.

The alternative to the size military aid program asked by the administration is for the United States to increase its own defense strength and draft more men so that "nearly every able-bodied man of military age would spend several years of his life in military service overseas."

"The cost would be staggering," he added.

Or, he said, "we could adopt a 'fortress America' concept."

DULLES said the House cuts are a "disaster" and that the free world would wonder whether it can count on the United States as a dependable friend.

Outgoing administrator John B. Hollister said the cuts made by the House in the development program were "a disaster."

Tot, Taken From Bradley Home, Recovered At Morocco

A couple snatched a 2-year-old baby from a foster home in Bradley this morning, but the pair and the child, were located in Indiana about noon.

The baby, 2-year-old Ruth Ann Ferguson, was made a ward of the Kankakee County Court last Jan. 28.

The court found that the young mother's parents, Jerron and Lois Ferguson, did not give her proper parental care. It said the parents were in frequent conflict with one another and engaged in seeing the child from one another.

The girl was placed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Bertrand, 228 N. Fulton Ave. The Bertrands said they plan to adopt the child.

Mrs. Bertrand said that Mrs. Ferguson came to the Bertrand home this morning before the family was up.

TOLD THAT the baby was not up yet, she waited on the steps outside. Later, according to Mrs. Bertrand, Mrs. Ferguson entered the house and took the child while no one was watching.

Bradley police said they had seen a cab with a man, reported to be Mrs. Ferguson's husband, Jerron, parked nearby.

The sheriff's office here learned that the cab took the couple and the baby to a bus station in Morocco, Ind.

Indiana state police at Keokuk were notified, and located the couple and the child about noon. They were being held at Kentland.

THE SHERIFF'S office said a warrant was being prepared so the couple could be returned here.

When the girl was made a ward of the court last January Ferguson was ordered to pay $12.50 a week to support the child.

On April 23 Judge Irwin C. Taylor sentenced Ferguson to 30 days in the county jail for contempt of court.

Israel Fears Soviet-Backed Invasion Now

Believe Russia Has Firm Toehold In Mediterranean

By UNITED PRESS
A communist-backed coup that placed Syria under iron control of a pro-Soviet military clique touched off a series of Anglo-American consultations today in London and raised fears in neighboring Israel of a Soviet-backed invasion.

United Press diplomatic correspondent K. C. Thaler reported in London that diplomats considered that the Red move in Syria had given Russia a firm toehold on the Mediterranean in the severest challenge yet to the Eisenhower Doctrine.

The West regarded the Syrian development as the worst setback for Western Mideast policy since Egypt seized the Suez Canal a year ago. There were indications other NATO powers might be called in to confer on the threat to Allied strategy involving NATO partner Turkey and the members of the Baghdad Pact.

ELIAV SIMON, United Press correspondent in Israel, said in a Jerusalem dispatch that Syrian always has been strongly anti-Western and that the new military rulers can be relied upon to seize the earliest opportunity to try and reverse their defeat in the Palestine war.

It was noted that Gen. Alif Buzi, the new pro-Communist Syrian leader, was one of the Syrian heroes of that war. Now he would be assured of Soviet support in event of hostilities—although the Eisenhower Doctrine provides U. S. support against Communist aggression.

ISRAELI POLITICAL circles said they were uncertain Russia would risk a world war by pushing Syria into attacking Israel with the possibility of American intervention. But they said Syria may take the risk and use its vast arms supply.

London dispatches said two long-term courses appeared open to the West—to strengthen the Eisenhower Doctrine and to reinforce the anti-Communist Baghdad Pact. In the meantime, Britain was reported urging the United States not to break off diplomatic relations with Syria despite Syrian charges of Soviet-backed aggression.

REPORTS FILTERING through heavy Syrian censorship said a major purge was being carried out of neutral or pro-Western military units.

Talking Parrot Home Again

Mum About 44-Day Holiday

Jackie the talking parrot was back home again today and keeping mum about his experiences during a 44-day sojourn that ended Saturday near Manteno.

"He doesn't say a word," said his owner, Mrs. Bertha Humble, 1355 E. Court St.

On other occasions Jackie has been more talkative.

He told Kankakee firemen to be "quiet" on July 2 as they tried to coax him from a tree when he first escaped from his cage.

SEVERAL WEEKS LATER Mrs. Humble spied the bird again in a tree near her home. It was a Sunday morning. She called to him to come down but Jackie shouted "Praise the Lord" and flew away.

"Nor he's not religious at all," says Mrs. Humble, "he just grows."

Jackie was returned Saturday by Eugene Boucher of Rockville Township.

Boucher said his 13-year-old daughter, Mary, saw the bird early Wednesday in a tree near their farm home.

Unable to get him down, Boucher's son, Arthur, shot the bird in the wing with a B-B gun. Jackie dropped to the ground—not hurt badly—but unable to fly. Boucher recalled Journal stories about the bird and returned him to Mrs. Humble.

Teamster Called To Tell About Phony Charters

WASHINGTON (UP)—Enmar O. Mohr, executive vice president of the Teamsters Union, was called for questioning today about testimony that he issued charters for phony locals in New York in a power plant engineered by James R. Hoffa.

Hoffa, Midwest boss of the Teamsters and their apparent to Dave Beck as president of the giant union, also is slated to testify before the Senate Rackets Committee Tuesday, or possibly later today.

The committee neared the end of its probe into charges that Hoffa teamed with racketeer Johnny Dio and other New York mobsters in an effort to extend his sway into the New York area.

Mohr, Beck's right-hand man in the union, balked at answering questions about other Teamster affairs when he appeared last winter before the regular Senate Investigations subcommittee.

HE CHALLENGED that group's jurisdiction. He was cited for contempt of Congress and now is awaiting trial.

However, Mohr told a newsman he would answer the Rackets Committee's question without involving any Fifth Amendment privileges against possible self-incrimination—a widespread practice.

Senate Approves Neil H. McElroy For Defense Post

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate confirmed by voice vote today President Eisenhower's nomination of Neil H. McElroy as the new secretary of defense.

McElroy is resigning the presidency of Procter and Gamble to replace Charles E. Wilson in the nation's top military policy post.

Wilson has told reporters he expects to remain on the job through September. When McElroy's nomination was announced two weeks ago, the White House said the new defense chief would work with Wilson for about a month before taking over.

Also confirmed by voice vote was the nomination of James H. Smith Jr., 47-year-old Colorado rancher, as new foreign aid chief.

Smith succeeds James B. Hollister of Cincinnati as director of the International Cooperation Administration.

Big Balloon Sighted North Of Kankakee

A large balloon was reported hovering in the north sky over Kankakee about 7 a.m. today.

A man who called Kankakee police said he watched it with binoculars.

A Bradley woman, called the Journal to report the object. She said it was "silvery and kept changing its shape."

The balloon apparently was the same one sighted near Chicago, Curious viewers flooded O'Hare and Midway airports on the west side.

Authorities said that in addition to their drills and other tools, the burglars also may have been equipped with gas masks.

The tear gas was ejected automatically when the hand drill drilled through a large walk-in safe.

House Democrats Seek Civil Rights Vote Soon

WASHINGTON (UP)—Confident House Democrats planned to take steps today to get their modified civil rights bill onto the floor for a vote.

Their strategy was to pry the measure out of the House Rules Committee, whose chairman, Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va.), an all-out opponent of any rights legislation, has refused to call a meeting to clear the Senate-passed bill for House action.

The Democrats predicted that once the bill reaches the floor it will be approved with only one major change—a limitation in the jury trial provision to voting rights cases. They were confident the Senate would agree to the change and that President Eisenhower would sign the measure.

BUT HOUSE REPUBLICANS served notice they intended to fight a vigorous fight, probably on the floor, to try to strengthen the measure.

Unless Smith schedules a meeting of his committee today, Democratic committee members prepared to make their own move for calling it by serving written notice on witnesses refusing to testify before congressional committees.

COLLEGE: Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-NJ) said he would introduce legislation for a 250-million-dollar program for the states to build and expand local two-year colleges. Case said the program would build facilities for 250,000 students "who might otherwise go without college training." He said the funds would be provided on a matching basis, with the states putting up one-half to two-thirds and the federal government the rest over a five-year period.

KNOWLAND: Senate GOP leader William F. Knowland promised to fight for Senate approval of President Eisenhower's open skies aerial disarmament inspection plan. He said the plan would be reached with the Soviets at the London disarmament conference.

Automobiles 'Fold' Umbrella Business

CINCINNATI (UP)—A New Jersey umbrella maker says the automobile is folding up the umbrella business.

Irving Hollander, president of P. Hollander & Son, Inc., told a reporter Sunday that American males now consider a car their umbrella.

"Whenever thinks about taking a walk nowadays? they jump in the car and go for a ride," Hollander said.

He said a woman in a grocery store with a little extra money and you can sell her almost anything if it looks good and the price is right."

Giants Board OKs Move

NEW YORK (UP)—The board of directors of the New York Giants baseball club voted today to transfer the team to San Francisco for the 1958 season.

Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.), committee vice chairman, said Sunday night the labor racket situation in New York—target of the current hearings—is "the most serious in the nation."

HE SAID HOFFA's plan to set up a nationwide transportation union would "completely paralyze the country" in case of a strike and Hoffa and his associates "have demonstrated that they are too irresponsible to be heading any such organization."

Ives, in an interview with Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.) over New York state TV stations, said he "wondered" if we aren't going to have some kind of legislation to be summoned back for another session next month before his own presidential election in late September.

Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.), committee vice chairman, said Sunday night the labor racket situation in New York—target of the current hearings—is "the most serious in the nation."
