Red Science Not Up To Claims, Teachers Told

An American who spent 10 years in Russian prison camps described Soviet barbarism here today and said that Soviet science and technology are not as advanced as the Russians claim.

John H. Noble, who addressed Congress and wrote a book about his experiences when he was freed in 1955, addressed more than 1,000 teachers at an Illinois Education meeting today at Kankakee High School.

"If America were truly a Christian nation, we wouldn't have to fear," said Noble, who spoke with a Russian accent, "would pose a deep religious question."

"Pray for all of those who are asking for 1 per cent of the freedom that you enjoy every day," said Noble.

THE RUSSIAN EARTH satellite, he declared, is the product of German scientists working for the Russians.

In 1945, said Noble, there were 2,000 scientists working for the Russians. Five hundred offered their services to the United States but their offer was refused, he said.

The Russians, he said, accepted their offer and forced the other 1,500 scientists to serve them.

Russian production figures, said Noble, should be divided by three. In a true picture.

He said he still is "not 100 per cent convinced" that the Soviet Union has the atomic bomb. Prisoners coming to his camp from the first three Soviet atomic blasts reported that it was the laboratories, not the bomb, that exploded. Noble said.

Railroads To Appeal $250 Million Suit

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Attorneys for more than 25 eastern railroads today planned appeals of a federal judge's ruling granting $250 million in damages to the trucking industry.

The truckers and the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association had accused the railroads of waging a "campaign of vilification and slander against the trucking industry."

The suit was filed more than three years ago.

U.S. District Court Judge Thomas J. Clary Thursday awarded the truckers nominal damages of 18 cents.

He ruled that the PMTA would receive other damages later.

JUDGE CLARY also dismissed a $120-million-dollar counter-suit by the railroads.

In Chicago, Edward Goggin, vice president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said the decision was a "signal victory" for the trucking industry.

"We hope that as a result, the two great arms of American transportation will be able to work together," he said.

David I. Mackie, chairman of the Eastern Railroad President's Conference, said the conference "and the other defendants" thoroughly disagree with Judge Clary's opinion.

Appeals will be pressed promptly.

AIR STEWARDESSES GARGLE TO GUARD QUEEN AGAINST FLU BUG

LONDON (U-P)—The stewardesses who'll serve Queen Elizabeth on her Atlantic flight are taking extra precautions against catching Asian flu.

"We are gargling morning, noon and night," said Faith Stiman, British Overseas Airways Corp.'s senior stewardess.

"And we are running away from people who even show signs of a sniffle," added Velma Brown.

"What," asked Velma Stiman, "could be worse than catching the flu before Saturday?"

"GIVING IT TO THE QUEEN or Prince Philip," added Miss Brown.

The two veteran BOAC employees agreed they will take on the most important jobs of their lives when Elizabeth flies Saturday to Canada.

"Nervous?" said Miss Stiman in reply to a question. "Of course."

U. S. Super Highway, Slum Clearance Programs Clash

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Construction of the multimillion dollar interstate highway program has unearthed a problem in the battle against juvenile delinquency.

Plans for the super road system are colliding head-on with slum redevelopment projects. And they threaten to run into others as work on new highways progresses.

CONFLICTS BETWEEN slum clearance projects and highway routes delay or, in some cases, could even stop the important job of rehabilitating rundown neighborhoods which are breeding grounds for juvenile crime.

U. S. Housing Chief Albert M. Cole and Federal Highway Administrator Llewellyn Tamm have been holding a series of meetings to discuss a way to coordinate the two programs without interfering with each other. Housing officials say that both men agree that something must be done about the problem.

Emphasis has been placed on finding a quick solution through flexible use of funds already appropriated.

The proposed plan for the proposed interstate highway which will cross through a slum redevelopment program. So far the study to solve the situation has cost more than $14,000. And housing is nowhere in sight.

HOPES FOR A redevelopment program in Los Angeles are starting to dim. The land in question is bordered on one side by a railroad. A highway is planned to cross the tracks, the land between will be worthless for construction purposes.

And a completed slum redevelopment program in Baltimore is now threatened with complete destruction by part of the new highway program.

HEAVY THINGING is being done in the housing and highway fields, also call for speed in solving the problem. The Housing and Home Administration has helped finance or is now reviewing plans for more than 400 projects. Of this number, 100 are now under construction.

At the same time highway engineers are trying to finish their job as fast and with as little expense as possible.

If the two agencies can come up with a workable system to coordinate their efforts, it is estimated that costs could run into the billions of dollars.

Three men were appointed to check on the cost of the shirts. They are Chief Jerry Wall, George Gochen and Melvin Lavoie. Results will be reported at the next meeting.

A committee was appointed by the fire chief to set up bylaws for the department. Included are Robert Brulat, Melvin Lavoie and George Gochen.

An election of officers will be held at the next meeting. Now is the time.

Police Use Plane To Curb Speeding

SPRINGFIELD (UPI)—State police are using an airplane in an experiment to curb speeding on Illinois highways.

An officer in a plane clocks the speed of a car with a stop watch and radios ahead to a squad car if the speed is excessive.

Thursday at a conference between Gov. Stratton and administration officials on the state's traffic safety program.

Stratton told the State Highway Division to put first priority on construction of grade separations at dangerous intersections.

Business Easing Off On Future Building Plans

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (UPI)—A 100 million dollar a day drop to business may get a little shaky next year. This is the amount business itself has been putting back into the economy each day of this year on average in its spending for plant and equipment.

Many company executives are saying they won't spend at that rate in 1958.

Contract awards for factory construction are declining. Corporate directors are appropriating far less money now for "new capital spending" than they were a year ago. These two trends won't show up in actual spending volume until some time in 1958.

SURVEY OF intentions shows an increasing number of companies expecting to trim such spending next year. One just made by the Research Institute of America in Chicago, the spending of new capital could drop seven billion dollars below this year's record 37 billion dollars.

Other surveys look for only a two billion dollar drop in annual rate in the early months of 1958.

Reasons given: uncertainty over the business outlook; the capacity to produce already in excess of demand for the time being; and the completion of big programs started some time back.

A survey by the Department of Commerce and the Securities and Exchange Commission shows the expansion boom leveling off now and dropping slightly by the end of the year.

The expected total this year of 37 billion dollars would be 6.5 per cent over the 35 billion last year, which was a whopping 25 per cent over spending in 1955.

Spending less this year than last year is a new trend. It has been auto, textile and steel, clay and glass product companies.

Woman Refuses Aid On Religious Grounds

HAVERTHILL, Mass. (UPI)—Doctors wanted today for a mother of six children to lapse into a coma so they can administer blood transfusions that may save her life.

Mrs. Elizabeth Denno, 43, whose two youngest children "cry for her every night" has refused to accept transfusions on religious grounds. She is a Jehovah's Witness, and said Biblical quotations opposing "treating the blood of a fellow man" keeps her from accepting the blood.

Doctors say the woman, suffering from a bleeding ulcer, is too weak to undergo surgery. Their only hope is that she will taper into a coma, probably within the next 24 to 48 hours, permitting the necessary transfusions and the operation to save her life. Two of her oldest sons are among those who have offered her their blood.

MRS. DENNO WAS pronounced "mentally competent" Thursday by Dr. Morris Yoshis, a prominent psychiatrist. Mrs. Denno's husband, a dentist, had sought a ruling on her competency after both District and Superior courts ruled against forcing the transfusions. The courts said forcing transfusions on Mrs. Denno while she was conscious would be technical assault.

Following that lesson, a series of two work shops on Christmas decorations will be presented. The Christmas class will host the Watseka class on Dec. 9. The out-of-town demonstration, "Meat Candy," will be given by the National Livestock Board of Chicago.

Mrs. Ellen Frump of the Central Illinois Public School District will conclude the December meetings with "Holiday Tips." The last session, given in January, will be given by Mrs. R. M. Mossman of Watseka. The topic will be sand-wiches.

Patients May Hit Comeback Trail Within 24 Hours

Science Breaking Grip Of Paralytic Stroke

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Medical science is beginning to break the iron grip of the paralytic stroke. The sudden, unexpected rupture or clotting of a blood vessel in the brain no longer means all elderly victims must spend the rest of their lives as helpless cripples. Now nine out of 10 of these patients can learn to walk again. And they will be able to build their lives.

This is the encouraging outlook offered to the two million U. S. victims of strokes and other diseases of the brain's blood vessels. They are revealed in a pamphlet recently released by the National Health Institute of the Public Health Service's National Institutes of Health.

Immediate, highly skilled medical treatment is the key to this story. Often within 24 hours after a stroke, doctors begin the painstaking massaging of the damaged limbs. If the patient's speech has been impaired, therapy is started almost at once.

These specialized treatments, combined with expert nursing care and an encouraging, optimistic attitude by the doctor and patient's family, have paid large dividends in rebuilding worthwhile lives for those who were once doomed to years of crippled idleness.

Recent stroke victims are not the only ones who are benefiting from modern therapy techniques. Successful treatment has been reported to the degree that some people who suffered strokes years ago can be helped.

National specialist declares, "There are very few of these patients who can't be helped a little bit. And some can be helped a great deal."

Special clinics have been established in hospitals throughout the nation to care for stroke patients whose cases are so serious that successful home treatment. And hospitals which don't have such therapy centers are starting to build them.

MANY DOCTORS are beginning to specialize in helping stroke patients and other disabled persons regain the use of their arms and legs. This type of physical medicine is becoming a standard course in U. S. medical schools. The result is that country doctors can give expert treatment to patients who can't afford the benefits of large medical centers.

Notable gains also are being made in the treatment of other cerebral vascular diseases. Such diseases often cause poor memory and other mental afflictions common to old people. Many times the symptoms become so acute that permanent hospitalization is required. Today, however, some of these patients are able to return home.

Although most of its victims survive attacks, cerebral vascular disease still causes enough deaths each year to rank as the number three disease killer. Last year it totaled 179,110 fatalities.

THAT'S WHY medical research teams are intensifying their efforts to prevent the disease from striking in the first place. So far they have found no exact cure. But progress has been made in preventing or treating heart conditions which often lead to cerebral vascular disease. Heart attacks, rheumatic conditions and infection of the heart help form blood clots which can be carried to the brain.

Successful efforts to eliminate or stop the formation of these clots have been made by use of surgery techniques, anti-clotting drugs and antibiotics. Drugs also have been invented to reduce high blood pressure which contributes to strokes. And important progress has been made in preventing the hardening of the arteries.

So far the research has paid off. A Heart Institute spokesman says these discoveries have prevented many strokes today that would have occurred several years ago.

Her Coming Trip To U. S. Spotlights High Cost Of Royalty

Liz: England's Expensive Visitor

LONDON (NEA)—If a cat can look at a Queen, a United States congressman can look at a Queen's dress bill.

Or so reasoned Congressman Harold R. Gross (R-Iowa) who dragged Queen Elizabeth II's dress bill into a congressional debate not long ago.

Specifically, the lawmaker wanted to know how much American aid to Britain was being diverted to pay for the two tons of clothing which, he alleged, the Queen took with her on her recent State visit to France.

With Elizabeth coming to America in October, the high cost of monarchs is bound to come up again. Is royalty too expensive? A costly bauble that the welfare state cannot afford? Should the royal family set the nation an example by pulling in its belt?

Certainly, the $1,300,000 a year voted by Parliament as the Queen's personal allowance (Civil List, it is called) is a whopping salary by any standard. When another three million dollars is added to this for the maintenance of the royal family, plus the palace, plus the royal yacht, the bill is enormous.

YET THE QUEEN'S defenders argue that Elizabeth's Civil List is only $14,000 more than that fixed for her great-grandfather, Edward VII, in 1900, while the cost of living has more than tripled since that time.

Far from spending his money on clothes, the Queen pays out $60,000 or nearly two-thirds of her allowance to run the royal household, including food, staff, wages, gas, lights and fuel, motor cars, laundry, telephone and telegraph service.

Also, Elizabeth is probably the world's biggest party-giver. As Britain's "hostess with the mostest," she entertains some 30,000 persons a year, which comes to an average of 100 guests a day.

Out of the Queen's purse come such miscellaneous expenses as a half-mile of carpeted corridor to be "palace ends," when sold at the vacuumed each day, 350 clocks, shops, fetched high prices to be wound, silver to be polished, William Fortnum, footman to the Queen, assured, "Ten men work Queen Anne's mantle room all year round just keeping it in shape."

Today, the candles are gone, blown out the candles and wench them from their chandeliers. Such quiring constant replacement.

As the income from Crown property runs to $3,500,000 a year, the taxpayer comes off well in the deal, some apologists maintain. Whenever British Socialists get out the donkey and see Buckingham Palace as a government's first victim, this 600-room palace, they argue, is a white elephant requiring an enormous staff of maids, footmen, gardeners, carpenters and electricians to run.

But the fact is that the palace staff belong to trade unions appears to be a fact. The Queen's staff who favor turning the palace into council flats.

As AGAINST its overhead costs, Buckingham Palace has sentimental value, however. It is the first place humble Britons turn to in time of trouble or jubilation. Some of the Queen's gold-embroidered standard flying from its flagpole is a sight to see.

Prayer Services Held In Little Rock Churches

Invoke Divine Aid To Solve Racial Problems

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP)—Prayer services were held in four churches here Saturday invoking Divine aid in solving this tensest of all racial problems.

The 84 participating churches were of Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths. More than a dozen Negro churches took part.

The churches of all faiths had joined in arranging the prayer services, they said, the purpose being to bring about the preservation of law and order, the casting out of racism and prejudice and resistance against unthinking agitators.

An unofficial estimate by the sponsors said 6,000 to 7,000 turned out in response to the sound of church bells in the clear crisp air.

But a reporter who was in one of the churches said that the normal secular pursuits.

THE DOWNTOWN business area, some establishments observed a minute of silent prayer at 11 a. m. the hour set for the service.

Many stores offered their employees time off to go to church.

On the streets outside, hundreds were walking, also without taking any apparent notice.

The idea of the prayer services had been endorsed by President Eisenhower, Gov. Orval Faubus and the Little Rock School Board.

ALL ARE DIRECTLY involved in the crisis growing out of the federal-enforced integration of nine Negro pupils in previously all-white Central High School.

DR. HAGEN said the prayer services were a good thing, but he said a few presidential remarks out in the White House rose again.

The President, who will be 67, has made no special plans for his own to observe the day, the White House said.
