Doubt Discount Cut To Cause Business Spurt

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—How much and how soon will the cut in the Federal Reserve discount rate help business in general?
Some see the board's action as merely confirming a business downturn already well under way. They doubt if slightly easier credit will have much effect on industrial production for some time to come.
Less costly money in itself doesn't mean more money unless they're selling now to build new plants. If already have more capacity, new orders per to build or inventors when most in the money market.

The stock and bond markets took a different tack. Traders seemed to feel that the cut in the rate from 3 1/2 per cent to 3 per cent is but the first of several steps that Washington will take to halt the incipient recession.

THE STOCK MARKET'S reaction was psychological, built on the belief that pump-priming is just around the corner for many industries as well as those making mistakes.

Bond buyers, forecasting a further drop in interest rates, a rise in bond prices and a consequent lowering of yields, jumped in quickly to grab up bargains while they lasted.

Whether the commercial banks will follow the Federal Reserve's lead and lower their charge for loans is the subject of much dispute.

Some eastern bankers say that demand for loans, although slipping, is still high enough to sustain present high interest charges and they plan no action.
Others say that the money market has already been easing and if the trend continues interest rates must drop in time.

Bankers point out that the drop in the discount rate is less effective in easing the money supply than other steps the Federal Reserve could have taken: such as giving the banks more money to lend by entering the government securities market, or by lowering the reserve requirements of member banks.

ALL AGREE THAT the evident reason for the Federal Reserve action was the indicated downturn in the economy which soured the board's fear of inflation.
Both industrial output and personal incomes are on the downward slide. The industrial production index is at its lowest point in 15 months. Recent factory shutdowns have increased the total of unemployed in manufacturing industries.

Some of the more optimistic businessmen, particularly those selling consumer goods, look for a pickup eventually as a result of the board's action. They argue that all interest rates will soon fall and that it will be easier for the public to buy on time to sales of slow moving appliances and the like will start up again.

A Russian Expert's View On Inner Turmoil Khrushchev Expected To Be Purged In 6 Months

LEON DENNEN
NEW YORK (AP)—A symbolic portrait of Nikita Khrushchev would show him perched alone on top of the Kremlin, surrounded by wolves.

Speculation as to when these wolves will close in for the kill is one of the most intriguing items on the agenda of U. S. intelligence sources. It may have followed Russian events closely since 1932 and would be greatly surprised if Nikita is ruler of Russia in six months.

For all his apparent successes, the hard-drinking Communist boss is not the dictator at 63 that Stalin was at 50. Russian experts here point out that Stalin became steadily stronger as a result of 10 years of power. Khrushchev, however, is still weak, steadily more isolated by each successive purge.

His view, steadily more isolated by each successive purge. His view, steadily more isolated by each successive purge.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government is planning a major expansion of its helium production capacity to meet expanding needs in the missiles and other defense programs, it was learned today.

High-level planning also was reported under way to develop a comprehensive, long-range program aimed at future extraction of all possible helium from natural gas before it is used for fuel, with consequent waste forever of the helium content.

These developments were reported by Interior Department officials, who also said that recent printed editions of the Russian dog-eared Spunkin showed that it contained a helium carrier.

They said this may be an indication the Soviet Union is now producing helium in some quantity.

The Bureau of Mines operates this government's four helium plants at Exell and Amarillo, Tex., Shiprock, N. M., and Oil, Kan. These produce virtually all the helium available to the free world.

THE MISSILES program is a major user of helium. The inert, non-explosive gas is also used in atomic energy work, in titanium and zirconium production, in electronics and in loss of refrigeration and air conditioning systems.

The Interior Department reports the plans to ask Congress next year for about 14 million dollars for a new helium production plant.

This complements a plant which would make possible production of about 140 million cubic feet of helium annually.

Current production is at a rate of about 85 million cubic feet per year, with plants operating at total capacity.

Demand is expected to total 245 million cubic feet in the year ending next June 30, and to increase to 300 million by 1965.

For security purposes, the new plant would not be located in close proximity to the existing plants.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Canada have agreed to cooperate in the search for the location of the secret radar stations providing warning of possible attack across the top of the world.

U. S. defense officials said however the net result will be more, rather than less, security for the two countries.

The two governments have just made public the names and exact locations of 21 main airfields serving the radar sites comprising the distant early warning line across the top of the North America.

THE AIR STRIPS were identified when the two governments established a new polar defense zone through which no airplane may fly without following a prescribed flight plan and without being positively identified.

The new zone runs roughly along a band marked by the 68th and 70th parallels of latitude.

Similar identification zones run across the United States-Canadian border, and around Alaska.

Airplanes flying through the zones must file advance flight plans. They need the en route navigation facilities and radio communications of the zones to establish their courses.

Johnson Vows To Keep Politics Out Of Coming Missile Probe

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson said today the fact—and not any political considerations—will determine the course of a senatorial inquiry into the nation's missile program.

The Senate Armed Services Preparedness subcommittee will begin a series of hearings next week. Johnson said he does not believe the committee will be swayed by the political debate touched off by the Russian Sputnik launches.

"The committee has operated under Democratic presidents and Republican presidents, and we have always conducted it as we saw them," Johnson said. "Sen. Bridges (R-NH) was one of the first to demand the kind of an investigation we are undertaking. Bridges is senior Republican in Congress of voting to cut missile expenditures."

Johnson, who heads the Preparedness subcommittee, made it clear in a telephone interview from his home in Johnson City, N.D., that he would keep politics out of the probe.

Secretary of Defense McNamara, returning to Washington after a conference with President Eisenhower, said that "certainly before mid-1959" this country will be "intermediate ballistic missiles to Britain."

City Asks Court To Exclude Street From Petition

The city of Kankakee has asked the court to exclude Brookmont boulevard and Center street from the East Meadowview territory which has petitioned to be annexed to Bradley.

The city points out that the street was annexed to Kankakee on Nov. 4. Since it is along the outside of the land in the petition, excluding it will not destroy the contiguity of the territory being annexed to Bradley, the city points out.

DR. HAINES AND DR. PAUL HICKO, chief of the Welfare Department's medical service, said Tall had a paranoid type of schizophrenia and had not entirely and permanently recovered. They said this was evidenced by delusions, fixed ideas, lack of judgment and talk about dissociated topics.

Public Defender Richard Ackerman said it is not right for one examiner to be able to determine an inmate's fate. He pictured Tall as a forsaken man who had no one on the outside to help him get out.

Safety Clothing Firm To Open Branch In Bradley

Sager Glove Corp., a Chicago manufacturer of safety clothing and equipment, will open a branch plant in Bradley about Dec. 1.

S. N. Sager, president, says the firm has rented property at 444 S. Schuyler Ave., Bradley, and has an option to purchase the one-story building.

The firm will start production with about 15 employees and expects to reach capacity within a year, employing 40 persons.

Sager said that the staff will be 90 per cent women and that nearly all of them will be hired locally.

The Bradley plant will manufacture a general line of safety clothing, he said, concentrating at first on asbestos gloves.

Franklin Peet, manager of a Sager Glove Corp. branch in Gilman, will also manage the Bradley plant. The Gilman branch employs about 35 persons. It has been in operation there for nine years.

Sager Glove Corp. was established in 1925 and now operates a 25,000 square foot plant at 3721 N. Clarendon Ave., on Chicago's northwest side.

Sager says it is the nation's largest exclusive manufacturer of safety clothing and equipment. Included among the more than 1,000 items produced and sold by the firm are clear less goggles, welding goggles, leather and asbestos gloves, mittens, hand pads and other safety devices. The firm sells only to industry.

Sager said the reasons for locating a branch in Kankakee are that help is available here and that the firm will have the services of an experienced manager nearby.

George Tall Ruled Sane; Wins Freedom

George W. Tall has won a 12-year campaign to prove that he is sane and gain his freedom.

He went home with relatives after a jury decided Tuesday afternoon that he had not entirely and permanently recovered. The hearing which freed him resulted from a petition filed in 1945 in the same circuit court by a jury trying him for shooting and wounding the late Fred Spurlin.

The 48-year-old Kankakee, who left school at the sixth grade, spoke from the witness stand in cultured tones. Immaculately dressed, Tall spent 1½ hours on the stand to convince the jury from his actions that he is sane.

Dr. William Haines, while conceding that Tall had not recovered sufficiently for release, said Tall spent his time bettering himself while at Illinois Security Hospital.

TALL ALSO was instrumental in improving the literature that patients receive, said Dr. Haines, head of the behavior clinic of the Superior Court of Cook County.

"My recovery was just will power, I read, and I was working," Tall told the jury. He said he wanted to study law.

Tall has over $9,000 in the bank as a result of veterans compensation payments. The army discharged him in 1943 for nervous disability. Tall was employed in a defense plant when the 1945 shooting occurred.

During his attempt to gain his freedom, Tall petitioned the Randolph County Circuit Court five times. The U. S. District Court said in 1948 it had no jurisdiction in his case.

Satellites, Guns And Taxes

For some years now the leaders in both political parties have been holding out the hope of a fair-sized cut in personal income taxes.

A few months ago, the prospect of it seemed brighter than for some time past. The administration was looking ahead to surpluses, as good business — and hence tax revenue — offset the huge peace-time budget.

Perhaps the talk of a cut will still ebb and flow. The chance of its coming to pass, however, has been sharply reduced by the altered defense situation we find ourselves in.

Many wise heads, scientists among them, have flatly declared that we cannot catch up on the Russians in missiles and satellites by going on a spending spree. In some areas of effort we could hardly spend more than we are doing right now.

Yet it seems almost inevitable that defense spending will rise somewhat in the fiscal year for which the administration is now preparing its budget.

There is always the necessity of trying to get more than we are getting for each defense dollar. But when every dollar has been squeezed dry, this may not leave some of our additional requirements unfilled.

We cannot neglect our decisive nuclear experiments, and the resulting stockpile of weapons. We may need more jet bombers and fighters. We have to step up missile research and get effective missiles into production. We must continue to maintain a farflung defense establishment at many outposts around the world.

To imagine that, in the light of Russia's Sputniks and missiles, this will cost us less money next year than it does now to indulge in wishful fancy. All the signs point the other way.

Furthermore, the business outlook for 1958 may not be quite as cheerful as was thought some months back. If the economy tails off a little, tax revenues will not come up to original expectations and the prospect of having a federal surplus will diminish.

At worst the situation might call for a decision either to increase taxes or go in for some deficit financing which would boost the public debt. At best, it would seem to call for leaving taxes as they are, at least for another year or so.

The administration may not want to say so, but that appears to be the logic of its present position.

Girard Case Is Now History

Less than a year ago a Japanese woman was killed by a shellcase fired from a rifle held by William Girard, a U. S. Army soldier from Ottawa, Ill. Within a few months the death was the subject of a cause celebre that held all the angles of politics, emotionalism and, as described by the intellectuals, chauvinism.

The other day William Girard walked out of a Japanese courtroom, to all intents and purposes, a free man. It is possible that within two or three weeks he will be back in Ottawa, presenting his 29-year-old Japanese bride, Candy, to his family and friends.

There were many Americans who protested having Girard held to a Japanese court and they demanded that he be tried by Army court martial. It seemed that everyone had an opinion and some of the opinions were lacking in argument and knowledge of the facts. Eventually it was necessary for the U. S. Supreme Court to rule that there was no constitutional bar to having the Japanese try Girard.

Germans Oppose Atomic Production

BONN, Germany — West Germaners are overwhelmingly opposed to producing atomic weapons and, many probably a majority, are opposed to testing American-made rockets at NATO bases on German soil.

This does not mean that the Germans do not want to do their share in the defense of the West against the Communist attack. It only means they do not feel that the interests of the West and of peace would be helped if they, the Germans, were to produce atomic weapons or guided missiles.

So far, since the end of the war, the Germans have been prohibited from producing modern armaments again by Allied decrees and by treaties into which western Germany has voluntarily entered.

When the Federal Republic signed the Paris Agreements in October, 1954, admitting it to the so-called Western European Union, it agreed not to produce ABC weapons or guided missiles.

The so-called ABC weapons refer to Atomic, Bacteriological and Chemical Weapons considered essential for engaging in modern warfare. By denying these types of weapons, as well as production of guided missiles to the Germans, Germany can never become a serious military threat to its neighbors.

Since the launching of the Russian Sputniks last month, however, there has been growing discussion in the western press and among western political leaders, whether the time has not come to remove the restrictions on German armaments production.

The argument is being stated in these terms: The recent rapid advance in atomic weapons and techniques require a higher level of achievement and cooperation among the members of the western NATO powers. To achieve better results it is essential that all members of NATO be treated alike, be equally well equipped and each member allowed to contribute all it can to the general defense. This means equal treatment for Germany. Since atomic weapons and missiles are required for the best defense of the West, at points where they can be instantly used if needed, such weapons must be available in Germany as well as in other NATO countries which may be subject to surprise attack.

MANY GERMANS, in strongly opposing the manufacture of atomic weapons and guided missiles in Germany, advance the following reasons for their position:

1. It would completely destroy the prospects of reuniting East and West Germany.

2. It would make impossible a summit meeting between Moscow and Washington, to work out a general East-West defense.

DEAD, OR JUST PLAYING POSSUM?

Why FRB Reduced Interest Rates

WASHINGTON — What really caused the Federal Reserve Board to turn around a few days ago and reduce its interest rates on loans to member banks?

The story is significant because the action may historically emerge as a step that possibly avoided a "depression" and, in actual fact, curbed a "recession."

For 2½ years the Federal Reserve System has been steadily increasing its discount rate and making it harder and more costly to borrow money. The purpose was to fight "inflation" and to arrest the "boom" which showed signs of a runaway character.

But the process was painful. Many businessmen complained that needed expansion was being prevented and that natural growth was being blocked. To this, the Federal Reserve spokesmen replied that postponement of expansion plans was unavoidable and that the country must be given time to "readjust." Adjustments came from the Federal Reserve Board early in the 2½-year period of rate-raising that, if the readjustment went too far or seemed to be getting out of hand, it would be reversed.

LAST WEEK the decision was reached that the "deflation" had gone far enough. Businessmen had been complaining not only that current 1957 figures had not improved, but that they could not see recovery ahead even in the latter part of 1958, and some have gone so far as to say it would be 1959. The indexes from reliable statistical sources lately have disclosed a decided change downward. The Federal Reserve Board's own figures on the course of industrial production showed an unfavorable downward swing for October.

It was at this juncture that the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, William McChesney Martin, who had all along been making statements indicating firm confidence in the general defense of the economy, announced that the Federal Reserve Board was "re-evaluating" its position.

With over 130 NATO bases ringing the Russians and strategically located in dozens of different countries and regions, I fail personally to understand why it would be necessary to equip the Germans with atomic weapons, or even store them at NATO bases in western Germany. Let us remember that the Germans have advanced far enough in guided missiles to invalidate the NATO strategy of "deterrence by massive, instantaneous atomic air retaliation" against any threatened attack from the East.

With over 130 NATO bases ringing the Russians and strategically located in dozens of different countries and regions, I fail personally to understand why it would be necessary to equip the Germans with atomic weapons, or even store them at NATO bases in western Germany. Let us remember that the Germans have advanced far enough in guided missiles to invalidate the NATO strategy of "deterrence by massive, instantaneous atomic air retaliation" against any threatened attack from the East.

If its action of last week is misinterpreted and another boom seems to be emerging that could be dangerously inflationary.

BUT THE FACTS BELIE such a prediction. Business has taken a severe wallop, and it is doubtful whether, even with the stimulus of the Federal Reserve Board's slight reduction in interest rates, a substantial recovery can be achieved in less than six or eight months.

Still, with many businessmen, it is important to be able at least to plan on somewhat lower interest rates, even though businessmen take advantage of such rates may not be made for several months hence.

One important fact to be borne in mind is that the decision of the Federal Reserve Board last week brought out some marked differences of opinion within the institution itself. Some felt that the time had not come to reverse the policy. Others believed it was better to take a moderate step downward in discount rates now than to wait until the situation had become desperate. This has been attributed to lack of sufficient savings at a time of unquestioned demand for money for long-term investment.

High money rates have discouraged borrowing, but this has also brought unemployment and depression. It has shown signs of doing serious damage to the economy, such as happens when businessmen begin to consult their fears and start to curtail their operations drastically. Incidentally, by misinterpreting the Federal Reserve Board move of last week as a signal to set in motion again the spiral of wage-price increases, labor-union leaders can undo all the good that has been done. The time has come for the President to make another appeal for restraint.

The Federal Reserve Board has acted wisely and opportunely. It has not given the green light to inflation, but it has said that deflation has gone far enough for the time being.

Watch Sore Throat

A sore throat may mean real danger. So don't just shrug it off. With children, a sore throat is a warning sign of a serious disease, such as rheumatic fever. In fact, most cases of rheumatic fever follow a sore throat, tonsillitis or perhaps scarlet fever.

In such instances, the youngster seems to recover from the sore throat all right and appears to be perfectly well in two or three days. However, if he is susceptible, symptoms of rheumatic fever may develop within two or three weeks.

American Policy

When we are called upon to spend billions of dollars for defense, as it is euphemistically called, we need to know what our policy is. What is the basic foreign policy of the United States? Is it to oppose the Soviet conquest of the world? Is it to oppose such conquest only in certain areas? Is it to oppose such conquest only before they are accomplished? And then to accept them as facts because that is what they are? Is it policy to finance the governments that have already been conquered by Soviet Russia on the assumption that if we support them, they may someday rebel against Russia? Do we have a program for our relations with the so-called satellite countries or do we deal with them opportunistically?

When we had an opportunity to support such rebellions in Hungary and Poland, we turned a deaf ear to the appeals of those peoples. Is it policy to stir up rebellions, directly or indirectly, and then to desert the peoples who trusted us? Prof. Hans J. Morgenthau, a brilliant student of American policy, has written:

"The United States, far from seeking out or creating opportunities for opening the door to liberation, has proven to be unwilling even to enter the door when a satellite nation kicked at its open."

IT WAS AFTER HUNGARY that the real trouble developed in the Middle East. It was after the so-called "uncommitted states" of the United States had another move, as we had lost in China in 1948 and in Korea in 1954, that neutralism developed into a menace to American policy. Prof. Hans Morgenthau defines American policy as follows:

"This policy not only recognizes the special interests of the Soviet Union east of the 1945 line of demarcation, but also pledges non-interference with that line. It is tantamount to a unilateral recognition of a Russian sphere of influence wherein the United States concedes, without receiving any concessions in return, what has been the Russian position since the Yalta, and what Winston Churchill urged us to concede only in the give and take of a negotiated settlement."

In a word, we have permitted ourselves to be tied down to Russian decisions. Soviet Russia is demanding a realistic destruction of NATO and the calling of another summit conference on Russia's terms, an expanded and flattened out summit conference.

The Whole Story?

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Behind the scenery there is considerable dispute here over whether President Eisenhower has told the whole story in his first two speeches on defense and security.

No one in the executive branch of government ever challenges the word of the President publicly. But behind the scenes, many maintain that the United States has not yet been told as much as it should be.

Part of this scarce story is simply beginning agitation for larger scientific and military procurement contracts and appropriations and bigger defense budgets for missile manufacturing. But their contentions are also based on sound interpretations of the military implications of Russia's launching two intercontinental ballistic missiles and two Sputniks. Getting a 150-pound satellite 500 miles in the air requires the equivalent of a bomb for sending a 3,500-pound bomb 3,000 miles to the earth's surface.

Getting a 1,100-pound satellite 10,000 miles in the air requires the bomb thrust for sending a 5,000-pound satellite 3,000 miles.

Therefore, by early 1959, the Russians will be able to launch a 1,100-pound satellite 10,000 miles in the air. This is the calculated minimum required to launch Sputnik I.

The U. S. satellite will weigh only 22 pounds. By next fall the U. S. may be able to launch a 500-pound satellite. Within 18 months the Russians can be readying their intercontinental ballistic missiles. The U. S. hopes to be able to launch the equivalent of the 1,100-pound Sputnik II.

PRINCIPAL REASON GIVEN for the Russian lead in satellite action is that the United States waited until lightweight atomic warheads were perfected before going to work in earnest on the line.

The Russians went ahead on development of heavier missiles, assuming that heavier atomic warheads would have to be carried. When the U. S. perfected its lightweight atomic warheads, they converted their heavy missiles to satellite launchings.

How Others Learn English Told To FTA

Members of the Future Teachers Association at Bradley-Bourbonnais High School heard a talk Tuesday by Mrs. Audrey Vilario during her appearance before the club to relate her teaching experiences in China. and she explained that the Chinese teachers got even less than she did to do some teaching in China. The Bradleyan said she found the Chinese people very poor and that they were handicapped by such things as being allowed the use of electricity only four nights a week, having little heat in the homes, having little water, and receiving no pay for their work.

SLEEPLESS Nights Due To Upset NERVES

One lady recently stated that for over a year she didn't get a good night's rest. She would lie down and roll about the bed, all night long, due to upset nerves. She got Dr. T. J. Smith's Sleepless Nights Due To Upset Nerves and after she started taking it she slept 8 to 10 hours. Now she is a happy, every night, and says she feels like a new woman.

EVERYONE BEHAVES

One of those rare things happened in Kankakee County Tuesday night. Everyone was so well behaved that it wouldn't have been necessary to have any deputy sheriffs on duty.

The sheriff's office log book on which all official business is entered is a complete blank from 11:30 p. m. Tuesday to 8:30 a. m. today. Not a single complaint was received.

Usually, the sheriff's office gets an average of 20 calls each night, according to William Barwegen, deputy sheriff who has the night shift of 8 p. m. to 8 a. m. today.

"These quiet nights are really scarce," Barwegen says. "Usually there's plenty to keep us busy. But tonight things may be quiet as usual and we will make up for it. We never know how the chips are going to fall."

Mental Health Officials To Confer In Chicago

Administrators of community mental health clinics and officials of the state welfare department will hold their first meeting in Chicago Thursday and Friday.

The meeting will stress continued improvement in services offered by the 23 state-supported community clinics. Dr. Otto J. Bettag, director of the Illinois Department of Public Welfare, will be the featured speaker Thursday.

He will trace the development of the clinic program in Illinois. State grants for the clinics for the current fiscal year total $625,770.

Water Drainage Discussed By Bourbonnais Board

The Bourbonnais village board discussed drainage of storm and surface water from the Collegeville Subdivision area Tuesday night with J. C. Reedy, representative of a subdividing firm which is developing the area.

Reedy appeared before the board to request that Blaine avenue be closed north of Monroe street. In a plat already accepted by the village, the subdivider had dedicated a place for Blaine to continue north as far as the subdivision had been accepted by the village. The matter was referred to the street and alley committee for study with the village engineer.

The board took the occasion of Reedy's appearance to discuss the drainage problem with him. It was pointed out that all surface and storm water from the subdivision will drain into a small drainage ditch which crosses Main avenue south of Olney street and then passes under a warehouse.

Donald Drummond, chairman of the water and sewer committee, commented, "We're faced with the ditch already was taxed to its capacity during several heavy rains this past summer."

Also pointed out was that last August a complaint was received from the College Church of the Nazarene that the full at the north end of Bresse avenue was damming up water causing flooding at the church.

Following the discussion, the matter was referred to the water and sewer committee to meet with Howard Schwarz, village engineer, to study the problem and report back at the next meeting, Dec. 3. Members of the committee in addition to Trustee Drummond are Don Cryer and Albert LaFine Jr.

It was also moved that the street and alley committee at its meeting with Schwarz prepare a list of streets in the village which have been repaved from the various subdivisions. Members of the street and alley committee are Cyril Dwyer, Albert and Cyer.

Samuel Shapiro, village attorney, reported that the assessment roll for the River street project should be in the hands of the village collector by the end of the month. He said notices would be sent out to the owners of the property in the village of $10.44. Also received were communications from the October motor-fuel tax receipts for the village as $1,246.25 and a balance of $3,464.88.

REPORTING ON THE sewage plant and water and sewer project, Shapiro said that the Ray J. Beall Construction Co., subcontractor for the sewage disposal plant, is ready to move equipment to the site as soon as a culvert over a creek is in place and the road to the site completed.

Shapiro said final arrangements with the Ray J. Beall Construction Co. were being made. He said the sewer interceptor sewer will pass, would be made sometime this week. He also said a permit had been requested from the county highway department to construct the water line along the Armour Road. Shapiro also said that the village engineer would be making a list of streets in the village which have been repaved from the various subdivisions. Members of the street and alley committee are Cyril Dwyer, Albert and Cyer.

Finnish Pancakes Delicious And Different Friday Fare

By GAYNOR MADDOX, NEA Food and Markets Editor

Six Finnish settlers in Washington State began growing cranberries in 1914. Although the first bogs were planted there as early as the 1880's, the Finnish influence is largely responsible for the growth of this northeastern cranberry industry. Part of the state is called "The Cape Cod of the West."

Washington also supplies about 20 per cent of the nation's salmon catch. So for those who prefer meatless meals on the Friday after Thanksgiving, salmon and Finnish pancakes with cranberries make the perfect dinner.

Washington State, Friday After-Thanksgiving Dinner: Creamy cottage cheese spread and crackers, broiled salmon, Washington style hot potato salad, pickled pears, squash rings with chopped nuts, cranberry bread, hot rolls, Finnish pancakes with cranberry topping, coffee, tea, milk.

Finnish Pancakes (Serves 4)
One cup sifted flour, 1 1/2 cups milk, 2 eggs, separated, 1/4 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 tablespoon melted butter, this slices of apple.

Mix flour and milk until very smooth. Let stand. Beat egg yolks, sugar, salt and cinnamon until thick and creamy. Add to flour mixture, together with the melted butter, and blend well. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. To make pancakes, melt a little butter in a skillet and when it is very hot drop in spoonfuls of the pancake mixture to make little cakes. Brown on both sides. Add additional butter to pan as needed. Place 1 or 2 slices apples on each cake.

Altar And Rosary Society, Crescent City, Plans Project

CRESCENT CITY (JNS)—Miss Pearl Calkin of Crescent City was hostess at a meeting Thursday evening in her home of the Altar and Rosary Society of St. Joseph's Catholic Church.

Donald Kroon, president, conducted the meeting and the Rev. Thomas O'Brien, pastor, led the rosary recitation. Six members were present. Mrs. Melvin Lavoie, secretary, read the minutes.

A clothing drive for Thanksgiving will be held. Clothes may be left at the rear of the church. Women of the Altar and Rosary Society will sort the items and take them to Watsota headquarters, where they will be shipped to needy homes.

The society voted to sponsor a "bake sale" for Dec. 7 right at home in Langley Cafe. A cash donation will be sent to the Catholic Charities from the proceeds. The Constitution and By-Laws were presented. The president will send for copies to all members.

Members voted to hold a pantry shower for sisters who teach catechism on Monday evenings. Members of the parish may bring food, canned goods, to the home of Mrs. Thomas La Bonty in Crescent City by Nov. 25. The Altar and Rosary Society will present these gifts to the sisters on Nov. 25 in the church.

The next society meeting will be held Dec. 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Bernell Gibson of Crescent City.

Entertainment was presented by the hostess. Games were played. Each guest received a favor. Refreshments were served by Miss Calkin.

Immigrant Dies Broke After Losing Fortune

CHICAGO (U.S.)—John Rakios, 80, a Greek immigrant who parlayed $4 into a chain of 30 restaurants and a fortune estimated at four million dollars, died Tuesday in Cook County Hospital. When he died, Rakios had little of his once huge fortune and few of the many friends he had before the depression wiped him out in 1937.

Rakios arrived in the United States in 1897 from Pograd, Greece, a 20-year-old man. He got a job, scrubbing floors and in 1905 opened his first business, a tiny luncheon.

By the 1930's he was able to pay $70,000 for a 14-room house in Chicago's fashionable North Shore district. He threw huge parties, sometimes for as many as 200 guests. One guest was Crown Prince Paul of Greece. His daughter, Virginia, was christened with water brought to Chicago from the River Jordan.

"We had many friends," his wife, Mary Ann, 67, said, "but how quickly they disappeared."

Seek Ways To End Algerian Revolt

TUNIS (U.S.)—President Habib Bourguiba flew to Morocco today for talks with King Mohammed V on a possible new approach to ward settlement of the Algerian rebellion against France.

Bourguiba is expected to sound out Mohammed at a conference of Tunisian, Moroccan and Algerian rebel leaders to work up new proposals to France for settlement of the 3-year-old rebellion.

WHEN THE RAKIOS restaurant empire was thrown into bankruptcy in 1937, his assets, principally furniture, brought only $38,500.

Mrs. Rakios said that after the crash her husband tried almost everything to recoup.

"We worked at odd jobs here and there," she said. "They didn't amount to much. He couldn't get financial backing to start again." (an rebel leaders to work up new proposals to France for settlement of the 3-year-old rebellion)

Mother Recognizes Son After 17 Years

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (U.S.)—Mrs. Nellie Thomas, 58, glanced from her apartment and noticed a sailor huddle across the street on crutches.

"Hey, Vern, come here," she shouted. "That you, mother?"

Vern Baker, 45, a son by a previous marriage, hadn't seen his mother in 17 years but he said he would know that voice anywhere, any time.

"They last saw each other in Coos Bay, Ore., where Mrs. Thomas was working as a waitress and her son was a logger."

"I LEFT TOWN AND JOINED THE NAVY—I've been in and out ever since," Baker said. "What with the war and moving around a lot, we just never got together."

"Neither of us are much at letters," Mrs. Thomas said. "We just lost track of each other."

Baker is a Seabee and has been recuperating at the San Diego Naval Hospital since breaking a leg three weeks ago. He said he decided to take a bus ride and just happened to get off near his mother's apartment.

6 Children Die In Detroit Fire

DETROIT (U.S.)—Six little children died Tuesday in the smoke and flames of a fire that swept the second-story flat occupied by a family of 18.

About 15 minutes before the fire broke out, Mrs. Lucille Sanders, 32, mother of five of the children, went to a neighbor's house to use the phone. Other members of the family were away.

Returning to find her home ablaze, she screamed, "Oh my God! My babies!"

Prevented from entering the house, she collapsed and was treated for shock.

It Pays To Start Christmas Early

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

Christmas has a way of pouncing out of the fall. It always seems to come before you are ready. When you wake up to the fact that the big day is just around the corner there is a mad dash to get everything ready. Temperatures are likely to snap during mad dashes.

This year get going early and make some leisurely preparations with the children. When you start early you'll have time to talk to the children about what Christmas means. It's a wonderful season and children need to be part of it—not just receivers of gifts.

About the first of December begin to plan your Christmas decorations. It is of course too early to set up a tree, but you could plan a creche or nativity scene. Talk about the Christmas story and let the children make animals and figures, trees and houses to represent the nativity. As you work up a little scene your children begin to feel the spirit of Him whose birthday we celebrate.

Perhaps you want to buy a few figures, but don't buy too many. A home-made scene with figures moulded out of clay, with pine cones for trees, will mean more to the children. Your home-made Story of Christmas will be worked out and played for weeks before Christmas.

Plan some other decorations for the house and put them up as the children work on them. Try to add a few new items everyday or so.

Make a big batch of Christmas cookies. Cut them in interesting shapes and decorate them with bright colored sugar. These can be stored until needed, and make wonderful gifts for visiting children during Christmas week, or even before. Perhaps some of the children would like to send a fanciful decorated cookie as a Christmas card to a special friend.

Christmas cards can be planned well before Christmas. Perhaps you can get the children to make their own cards. If you have kept them busy with their work last year many of them will supply pictures which the children can cut out and paste on cards or colored paper.

When children buy their cards let them make their own selections, deciding which card goes to which person. Let them sign their own names and stamp the envelopes.

Aging Husband Builds His Ego

"I don't know whether my husband is deliberately trying to make me feel like a has-been or whether he just doesn't realize how deflating it is to a middle-aged woman's ego to have her husband always load in his admiration for every good-looking young thing on TV."

"I'm 51 and so is my husband, but his comments make me feel like I'm 60, married to a man who thinks if a woman doesn't have youth she doesn't have anything."

"It hurts and it makes me mad, but I don't know how to make him stop. Do you?"

If you really want to get back at him there are a few comments you might make which would bring home the idea that age doesn't leave men any less changed than it does women.

Next time he whistles in admiration when a pretty girl comes on the TV screen agree that she's a beauty. Then add wistfully: "And isn't that young man handsome, too. So tall, straight, broad-shouldered and slim-waisted."

OF COURSE, it is kind of a mean trick to remind a middle-aged man, even by unspoken inference, of his receding hairline, his stooping shoulders and his thickening waistline.

Maybe when you recall how he's carefully making you feel old hurts you, you won't want to be that callous.

Chances are your husband is feeling the same pangs you are at having left youth behind forever. And he loudly admits those pretty girls, not to make you feel like a has-been, but to try to convince himself he isn't one.

Looking at it with that attitude, it is a rather harmless way for him to build himself up.

So why not let him? You could even help him a little by telling him you think a man is never so handsome as when he begins to gray at the temples.

Famed New Orleans cuisine has been enjoyed at the St. Charles Hotel in that city since 1836. Shrimp Jambalaya, a creole rice dish, is so good that even the one-time popular song "Jambalaya" was written about it. There'll be no fishing for compliments around your house when you serve the family this inventive treat—Shrimp Jambalaya. This recipe serves 8 people generously.

In a large kettle, saute in fat (1 used 3 tablespoons butter), ½ cup chopped onions, ½ cup chopped green peppers, ½ cup chopped celery until well cooked. Shell 2 pounds shrimp and cut in half, then add to the vegetables and saute some more. Pour 2 No. 2 cans of tomatoes, and 1 quart of water over the above and boil briskly for 10 minutes. Fry 1 pound rice in 2 tablespoons bacon dripping until a golden brown, turning often. Add fried rice to boiling mixture. Add a teaspoon salt, a dash of pepper, a dash of tabasco, a pinch of bay leaf and a pinch of thyme. Let simmer on a very low fire for 25 minutes, or until the rice is cooked to your liking.

Weekend Widow Takes Beauty Along

The wife who shares her husband's enthusiasm for the outdoors is never faced with the prospect of a weekend alone while he hunts or fishes. This young wife (left) shares a fishing weekend with her husband but doesn't attempt to turn camp into a beauty salon. Instead, she makes the best (center) of such comforts as the camp offers and performs her beauty chores when her husband isn't around. A strong, but soft, permanent is a great help and so are creams that are absorbed quickly into the skin. She takes over simple cooking chores on the weekend but doesn't fuss unduly about equipment. Here, husband and wife take time out for a coffee break (right). Thermos produces welcome hot coffee that actually was made hours before. Both find the weekend relaxing and good fun.

By ALICIA HART
NIA Beauty Editor
The wife of a man who loves the great outdoors is probably well aware of what the weekend outdoors means.
Men who like to hunt and fish find the idea of inviting the ladies along as appealing as a rousing game of croquet. They have a horror of their overnight camp cluttered with cosmetics and curlers, and their freshly caught trout served up on lace doilies. So their wives spend Saturday and Sunday feeling alone and "left out."
To find out just how husbands and wives felt about it, the Therma Home Service conducted an investigation of this problem. And they discovered that with a little give and take on both sides, it wouldn't have to be a problem at all.
If your resentment isn't just due to being left alone, and you really want to be part of your man's weekend campaign, sit down and discuss it with him sensibly. Tell him that you would like to share in the exhilarating sense of a style that doesn't require pin curls. They don't go with sleep-overs. Explain that you would like to have equipment that is in good condition and help him from him to use it. If your approach shows intelligent interest on your part, you can bet that he'll agree to take you with him once, at least. After that, it's up to you.
Have your own practical clothes investigation of this problem. And tell him that you look like an attractive woman. Take cold cream for your face and lotion for your hands. Chapped skin is uncomfortable, and a complainer is no fun to have around. But be smart enough to use your cream and lotion in the evening. It's a good idea to use a vacuum bottle for a coffee break in the woods, you can rest without seeming like a washout. He'll enjoy it, too.
If on the first try you act like you're hunting or fishing. That's a good sport instead of a party wail. You'll probably be invited to join him hunting or fishing. That's a good sport instead of a party wail. You'll probably be invited to join him hunting or fishing.

USE A LIPBRUSH to apply lipstick neatly; advises Movie Actress Lori Nelson, who suggests a light lipstick shade for daytimes.

Lipstick An Accent; Applying It An Art

By JEANNE D'ARCY
The average woman hates to be seen without lipstick. It's a cosmetic essential, and most women apply it even though they may not use foundation, eye make-up or other beauty aids.
There's no getting away from the fact that lipstick brings life and color to the face. It's a bright accent and learning to apply it properly is truly an art.
For best results, learn to use a lipbrush. It will eliminate ragged edges, give the mouth pleasing curves. You may have to practice a bit before you grasp the technique. After that, there's nothing to it.
One tip is this: Work the brush well into the lipstick; be sure it's generously coated with color. Also be sure your lips are dry. You can close your mouth while brushing lipstick on, but you may—in the beginning—find it easier to keep your mouth open, but relaxed, and work toward center. Never use a sweeping side-to-side motion.
If your mouth is too large, curve both upper and lower lips a tiny bit less than your natural lip line. If your mouth is too small, curve upper and lower lips a bit more than the natural lip line. Build up, but do the job cleverly, so it won't be obvious.
Don't powder lips before using lipstick. The powder will make the application cakey.
Which lipstick to use? You have to make that decision yourself.
Experiment with a few different brands. Some are greasy, some are dry, try each one until you find the formula which suits you best.

IC Asks 55% Passenger Fare Boost

SPRINGFIELD—The Illinois Central Railroad has petitioned for an average 55 per cent boost in its suburban passenger fares.
The IC carries almost 20 million passengers annually in and out of Chicago.
The proposed fare increases range from 30 to 70 per cent with the greater boosts asked for commuters traveling the longest distances.
IN THE PETITION filed Tuesday with the Illinois Commerce Commission the IC said electric commuter lines have earned a profit, totaling $100,000 in only two years since 1947. Its losses in the other seven years totaled nearly four million dollars, the IC said. Losses in 1957 will be about $550,000, the road estimated.
"The Illinois Central cannot be expected to give riders suburban service for less than it costs to produce that service," the IC said. The line's last fare boost was a 15 per cent hike last March. There was a 25 per cent increase in June, 1955.

What U.S. Lacks

Basic Research Key To Survival

(Third in a Series.)
NEW YORK (U.P.)—We are being urged to spend more tax dollars on research to keep ahead of the Russians scientifically. Especially we must do more basic research, say President Eisenhower and leading scientists. Just what is it?
Dr. Albert Szent-gyorgyi, a Nobel Prize winner working at the Marine Biological Laboratory in Woods Hole, Mass., declares: "Research is four things. Brains with which to think. Eyes with which to see. Machines with which to measure. And fourth, money. It is brains and eyes which are most important."
Research can be either applied or basic.
APPLIED MEANS directed toward finding or developing a specific product, drug or other invention. It usually means applying existing knowledge in new ways.
Basic research feeds the well of knowledge from which great progress and inventions come. Without it, the well goes dry. Applied research then can only keep reworking old facts and ideas.
In basic research lie the keys to preventing heart attacks, and curing or preventing cancer and other diseases.

Airlines Claim Fares Too Low For Profit

NEW YORK (U.P.)—The airlines say they are bucking heavy headwinds today that are cutting down their profit speed. Wall Street agrees and has marked their stocks down sharply.
This comes at an embarrassing time for the carriers who must find either new stockholders or new lenders to finance the big purchases of costly jet planes the lines want.
Without profits in sight you can't sell stock. Without profits it's hard to make investors believe you can repay your loans.
SO THE AIRLINES want to hike their fares and let the traveling public help finance the new jets. The staff of the Civil Aeronautics Board, on the other hand, denies that this is needed. A staff report holds the outlook much better than the lines paint it and calls their present troubles mostly temporary.

The airlines are putting their case before the board now and are stressing many other things in their plea for higher fares—defense needs, general rise in costs in industry, need to improve service, growing competition.
The 12 trunk lines have ordered or plan to order 337 jet and turboprop aircraft at a cost of two billion dollars.
JAMES P. MITCHELL, vice president of the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York, says it's probable that "a definite downward trend in earnings, increasing costs, poor dividend expectations and the tremendous capital programs have joined to discourage the investor from seeking opportunities in this industry."

To this Albert H. Gordon, senior partner in the investment firm of Kidder, Peabody & Co., adds that "the airlines are in a desperate financial position and are seeking securities on the basis of earning power—past, present and potential—and that in the regulated industries, prime attention is also focused on the regulatory climate."

He notes that the common stock of the 12 trunk lines now sell on average at 64 per cent of their book values while back in 1947 they were selling at 155 per cent of their asset values.
THE AIR TRANSPORT Association says that on the average airline passengers pay less per mile now than in 1935. It puts the average fare then at 5.22 cents per mile and today's average at 5.28 cents. It also says that mail pay, once a big subsidy of the infant lines, is far less important now. In 1935, it says, 37 per cent of domestic airline operating revenues came from mail pay, while last year less than 3 per cent did.
But the trend has been all the other way in costs of operation and equipment. Wages and supplies tend to keep on rising. The old airline cost less than one half million dollars. Some of the new jets may cost as much as six million dollars each.
The CAB's staff, however, thinks that figured on a passenger mile basis costs will tend to drop.

Royal Couple Observe 10th Anniversary

LONDON (U.P.)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip observed their 10th wedding anniversary today and enjoyed the luxury of staying home for a change.

The royal couple, usually on a hectic whirl of social, civic or diplomatic functions, reserved today just for themselves and possibly the family and a few friends.

There was no pre-arranged reception, no official salutes or flag-flying. Just a day at home in Buckingham Palace.
Palace sources said Princess Margaret and the Queen Mother might join the royal couple and Princess Anne for a family dinner party.

Winnie Kicks Off Marriage Party
LONDON (U.P.)—The younger members of the Churchill clan danced until after dawn today to celebrate the marriage of 22-year-old Sally Churchill.

But the greatest of the family—Sir Winston—contended that he didn't have the stamina for such a marathon party anymore. The elder statesman, 83 on Nov. 20, retired after seeing that the fun was well started. It lasted until 8 a.m.

Sally, great-niece of Sir Winston, was married to 34-year-old Colin Crew, an insurance broker, wife, or private source of income.

The pay and support are improving, and this is an optimistic trend.
Einstein nearly starved in his early years, but kept at his basic research. The goal now is to attract and keep more scientists engaged in basic research.
Benjamin Franklin had an answer when he was asked, "What good is basic research?" He replied: "What good is a baby?"

Car Leaps Bluff, Soars 75 Feet, 2 Slightly Injured
BENTON HARBOR, Mich. (U.P.)—Spectacular was one way to describe an auto accident, shortly after midnight on a darkened runway of Ross Field, the Benton Harbor airport.
John Bricker, 38, a vice president of the Whitcomb Corp., was showing his friend, Lawrence O'Neill, 30, Chicago, how his sports car operated.
Police said the car was traveling down the runway at better than 50 miles an hour when in rapid succession this happened:
The car shot off the runway and over a 40 foot bluff. It literally flew through the air "at least 75 feet" and hit a tree, shattering off limbs 20 feet above the ground.
The car nosedived to earth and somersaulted and over end. It finally came to rest on all four wheels—a total wreck.
"It was completely demolished," police said.
Bricker and O'Neill escaped without serious injury. Police said both men suffered cuts and bruises and were taken to a hospital and admitted for observation.

Turkey And Veal Used In Huntington Special Steak

I always appreciate dining in the beautiful, leisurely atmosphere of the Huntington Hotel in Pasadena, Calif., when a very popular dish called "Huntington Special Steak" is served. Both roast turkey and roast veal are used in this recipe. Turkey need never be considered as a leftover when it can be served in this delightful manner. This recipe makes 12 servings:
Put 2 pounds breast of turkey and 1 pound roast veal through a meat grinder several times to be sure it is ground fine. Add salt and pepper to taste to the above. Also add a pinch of nutmeg, and 3 beaten egg whites. Add enough whipped cream to the mixture to mold into balls, approximately 1/4 cup whipped cream. The patties should weigh about 5 or 6 ounces each. Fry patties in 3 tablespoons butter. Serve with creamed mushroom sauce. Put the sauce on the plate first, then the patty on top.
