of tax-cutting ideas added to the difficulty of agreeing on a bill that can be passed. 2. Do people want more, or less, federal spending? This was close, with the edge slightly for more. 3. ARE THE GRASS roots for or against foreign trade expansion, or is there indifference to the issue? There was plenty of indifference. But by a margin of about 2 1/2 to 1 members reported that sentiment among interested voters leaned toward increased trade. On the issues troubling constituents, the legislators put the recession and economic conditions in first place. Others included the farm question in its multiple phases; the international situation, including peace, foreign policy and testing of nuclear weapons; high price and living costs; inflation; foreign aid; national security, including unification of the armed forces; the social security program and reciprocal trade with other nations. The farm problem was mentioned most in the Midwest and South. The halting of nuclear weapons tests was a matter of concern chiefly in the Far West. Differences were widespread on the issue of a tax cut. A few legislators want no cut at all; a few more want any kind of cut. Like President Eisenhower, some want to wait and see how business gets along before making up their minds.

How many "vitamin pills" per bottle?

Some vitamin preparations seem like bargains. Lots of capsules per dollar. But that's not the way medications should be measured. The true measure is potency—how much active, beneficial ingredient per dollar. When you measure this way, you will find that the real "bargain" is in your registered pharmacy. Before you buy vitamin preparations from a nonprofessional source, check with your physician. It pays.

How many "vitamin pills" per bottle?

Some vitamin preparations seem like bargains. Lots of capsules per dollar. But that's not the way medications should be measured. The true measure is potency—how much active, beneficial ingredient per dollar. When you measure this way, you will find that the real "barg Watske's well-balanced track team relied on an easy victory in the St. Patrick and Paxton in a triangular meet on the Watske field, Monday evening. The Warriors won 97 of 100 points. St. Patrick Central and 6 for Paxton.

The Warriors displayed power in the sprints, hurdles and field events. Only in the distances did they fail to dominate the meet.

They won the 117 yard place ribbons while the Irish took the other three spots. The Warriors had a 100 yard hurdle relay but were disqualified when they failed to make a baton change in the prescribed time.

THREE OF THE Warriors, Mike Russell, Doug Peterson and Everett LuVelle, registered double wins.

Russell clipped off the 440-yard run in :58.2 and then came back to nip his teammate, Dick Cant, in the 220-yard dash in :23.4. Cant won the century in :10.6.

Harmon posted a fine :16.1 in winning the 120-yard high hurdles and then tied with his teammate, Dick Rhoades, for top honors in the high jump at 5 feet 7 3/4 inches.

Strong, the Warriors' sophomore volleyball boy, captured both weight events, tossing the discus 134 feet and the shot 42 feet 7 3/4 inches.

St. Pat's best showing came in the distance events where Jack Erikson won the 880 and Joe Schlent took the mile run. The mile was strictly between the Schlent twins, Joe and Tom, as they finished far out in front of the other competitors. Joe was clocked in 4:59.4 with his brother just a few steps back.

ERIKSEN Had the half mile run well in control and his only serious challenge came from Joe Schlent. Joe made his bid late in the race but was unable to overtake Erikson who won in 2:10.4.

St. Pat Coach Frank Chlofo found a broad jump during the day.

Chlofo's boys won the 100 yard jumping for the first time in a meet, hit 19 feet 6 inches, a two inch short of Charles Schlent's mark.

Chlofo's boys took the 100 yard hurdle med the high hurdles in :16.6 and finished third.

Ron Emmert of Watske turned in one of the top times of the day, running the high hurdles in :21.5.

Williams III As Red Sox

Close to bats

WASHINGTON — The Senators had Pedro Ramos, the Red Sox did not have Ted Williams — and there were three other players leading the American League.

Washington's tenacity in first place may be brief. The other clubs start playing today.

The Boston Red Sox opened their season last Monday in the opening game of 1988, attended by pitcher Dwight D. Eisenhower and large contingents of government dignitaries.

"The President was delighted at the chance to attend," said the home man. Ramos' brilliant five-hit pitching — after Eisenhower had thrown them the first pitch — earned the chief executive's record.

WASHINGTON NOW has a 3-3 mark for opening games launched by Eisenhower's righted leg.

Boston suffered without much consistently as he led the basket all winter. He relieved Johnson at the close of the fourth inning when the latter developed a sore arm.

The Kays had a 3-1 lead when they took the field in the fifth inning to get past the fourth unscathed despite a hit and even had two outs, but when the Red Sox came in, before his change, the final out would have been shelled for two trophies and a pair of doughnuts.

Ramos' clutch hitting didn't help him either of those days.

THE KAYS FOUND Rich starter Carl Schultz no particular problem. He threw four innings of their runs and three hits before the Rockets brought in George Meredith. His moves won't be compared to the Maroon and Blues that eight of them struck out in the four innings he worked. He allowed one run and two hits.

Kankakee got a run in the first inning on singles by Jim Patchett and Gene Coleman and another off Rich tied it up in the second when Tom Patchett led off with a single.

But Bart Zeller, who had a perfect 3-for a two-hour home in the third, spectacular diving by Eddie Yost of Jensen's bases-out team in the first saved Ramos from being run out. Outfielder Pedro controlled the contest.

JIM LEMON slammed a solo homer for the Senators, but inept play by the Pirates' first baseman yielded all five Washington hits. Frank Howard was hit, but he was not ejected, but the last three were unearned. They came in the sixth, eighth and ninth. By shortstop Don Buddin, his first of two, and Gene Spink, Williams' sub, fitted in a double walk and single to Yost. Ramos personally knocked in the run that provided his winning margin.

CHICAGO (U)—A pair of veteran lineups bolstered by the American League's only 26-game winners prepared to kick off the 1958 baseball season, Chicago today set the White Sox to tangle with the Detroit Tigers.

The weatherman promised an ideal day, and a crowd of 25,000 was expected.

Set to take the mound for Detroit was right-hander Jim Bunning (20-8) who was 3-6 against the Sox last season. Chicago banked on left-hander Billy Martin (20-12) who has a 14-16 lifetime mark against the Tigers and a 10-10 record this season.

Not a single rookie was listed in either lineup although each team had its share of new faces.

BILLY MARTIN, obtained from Kansas City, was expected, to start at shortstop for the Tigers with Harvey Kuenn moving out to center field. Jim Hegan, formerly of Cleveland, was pegged for catching.

Three newcomers graced the Sox lineup. Billy Goodman and Tony Franco, traded out by Baltimore, were ready at third base and right field, respectively. Al Smith, picked up from Cleveland, was on tap in left field despite a leg injury.

DANVILLE (JNS)—A pair of 38s by John Haasemyer and Jim Farlander led the Kankakee High School golf team to a 14-1 victory over Danville in both teams' opening match at the Danville Country Club.

The five matches each went 14 holes. Kankakee gained three victories and one tie.

Haasemyer, playing No. 1, took a 34 decision over Danville's Terry Cole but Farlander, despite his 38, was edged by Bill Brandenburg of Danville 21.

REAL DETECTIVE WORK
... Being a librarian at the Kankakee Public Library,
Miss Dorothy Brown told members of the Exchange
Club the other day, is like being a panelist on a quiz show. ... Frequently, she said, patrons ask for a book but they have only a vague idea as to what its actual name is. ... Like the one who asked for "The Grimston Yacht. ... " That was a stickler but Miss Brown, after much interrogation and research, found the book the customer wanted. It was "The Rubyalst".

HAD TO DIGEST . . . A news item from Aroma Park last Sunday reported that the Stand-by Circle of the Moose Lodge No. 102 was to hold a potluck dinner April 16 to which "carpet racks will be invited." Well, every man to his own taste.

DON'T DISTURB . . . In pursuing his duties as Kansas Defense director for Kanakkee, Albernaz J. W. Wadleigh (Sevens) recently was talking to the pastor of a Kanakkee church who visited him and was designated as an emergency shelter in case of a catastrophe. "What is your church?" Wadleigh asked. "Well," the pastor replied, "I always remember that there are always refugees for those after school racks on the refrigerator with an insignificant amount of money." "Smooth-frozen Meadow Gold Ice cream." It's the favorite of most of the racks in Kanakkee and in Kanakkeind . . . "Buy Meadow Gold in the thrifty half-gallon size. It's the best for your freezing compartment or deep freeze."

CONSOLATION PRIZE . . . Kanakkeans who were disappointed over the failure of their favorite son to become Superintendant of the State last Tuesday may get some consolation out of the fact that the party's nominee for Superintendent of Public Instruction is practically a Kanakkee . . . It is John H. Schuyler, 38, 1185 E. Oak St., and Mrs. Fred Bremness, 283 N. Washington Ave.

Room Revitalized With Tiled Ceiling

It is not unusual to find that a home owner has planned the decor of his rooms meticulously and in excellent taste down to the last detail except for one thing—the ceiling.

Often this area is allowed to remain plain or even drab. In some cases it is neglected and permitted to deteriorate.

The ceiling can be a glaring sore spot in an otherwise attractive room. Conversely, a tastefully and smartly decorated ceiling can effect a striking change in a room.

A home owner or resident can attractively decorate his ceiling and at the same time defeat a problem indigenous to modern living—excessive noise.

The noise problem is increasing as everyday living becomes more involved with din-producing machines and gadgets. Detrimental effects of noise on people were first recognized in the commercial world and by administrators of hospitals, in schools and other multiple buildings. The noise problem is now being recognized in the home.

Decorative acoustical tiles have come a long way. There are twenty different designs now. For example, certain tiles have colored plastic surfaces, others look like veined marble or stone. Some even seem to change their pattern when lighting angles in the room are altered.

Lighting in small rooms should be decentralized. It should come from lamps, off-center units, window strips, any type of fixture which may diffuse an over-all glow and emphasize the periphery of a room, rather than the middle of it.

In a small room, use furniture that is the proper size. It must be scaled to the size of the room. Avoid clutter at all cost.

Simplest among the attractive job under discussion is that of adding height to the room.

Try vertical stripes for wall coverings or draperies, suggests a New York designer. Use all, narrow scaled furniture, for important pieces and do vertical picture arrangements that carry the eye upward. Add to the feeling of height by using low seats on couches and chairs and keeping occasional tables very low.

Thorough Drying Key To Good Replastering Job

Ordinary plaster walls may slump do-it-yourselfers just before a paint job.

The key to good recasting of plaster walls, experts suggest, is to allow freshly plastered or spackled walls to dry thoroughly. The longer these surfaces dry, the better the paint's lasting adherence.

Cost new plaster walls with an alkyl-type primer or one of the new self-priming paints. This will stop seeping, and any fine cracks and block any time action. Many builders now use quick drying plaster. This should be coated with a primer to facilitate further covering.

Cracks and breaks can be filled. You mix spackling plaster on a flat board or in a convenient container, adding enough water to give it the consistency of heavy cream. Force into cracks with a putty knife. The surface is smoothed by the knife dipped in water.

For a large crack chisel out the loose plaster and dust the edges upward toward the break. This will form a better hold for the new material and give you longer-lasting repair.

Wood Is Our Business — So Are the Plans and Ideas To Go With It. We Have A Lot Of Both!

WITH YOUNGSTERS home hopping to raucous tunes, parents appreciate a noise stopper. Many home planners also forget to look up when planning a room's decor. But the ceiling is an integral part of a home's atmosphere. It can be set off with acoustical tiles with colored plastic surfaces or others to look like veined marble. Some change pattern by different lighting.

Don't Overload Circuits

What's a watt? Families can better understand their electrical needs if they know the answer to questions like these:

A watt is the measure of how much electricity an appliance needs. By totaling the wattage of all appliances used on a circuit, it's possible to determine if the circuit is or will be overloaded.

Here are the average ratings for most appliances: 100 watts—most lamps, portable and exhaust fans, food mixer, radio.

150 watts—small three-way lamp vacuum cleaner.

300 watts—food waste disposer, refrigerator, television set, electric blanket, large three-way lamp.

500 watts—sun lamp, home freezer.

1,200 watts—hand iron.

1,500 watts—dishwasher, portable heater, food fryer, room air conditioner, toaster or automatic washer.

1,500 watts—broiler, built-in bath room heater, power tools.

Use simple cleaning procedures like sponging, washing or vacuuming. Follow the manufacturer's instructions which accompany the tiles.

A contractor can handle the installation of these tiles quickly or it can be a do-it-yourself project. The easiest and most popular method is cementing or pasting the tiles directly to the ceiling.

Use simple cleaning procedures like sponging, washing or vacuuming. Follow the manufacturer's instructions which accompany the tiles.

For an unusual decorating touch, try interspersing gay colored tiles with a white field in an asymmetrical pattern on the bathroom walls.

Plastic Tile Can Reshape Bathroom

Compositional materials, such as plastic wall tile, will be cheerful pastels of fixtures, shower curtains and towels make an attractive, color-coordinated bathroom possible.

Ceilings as well as walls can be improved by the installation of plastic wall tile. In a room with an unusually high ceiling, for example, a dark shade will tend to bring the ceiling down and give the room a more balanced visual effect. The hemmed-in feeling created in a low-ceiling room can be counter-balanced by white or light-colored plastic wall tile on the ceiling.

Installing tile in a diagonal pattern is a popular ceiling treatment in kitchens and bathrooms.

For an unusual decorating touch, try interspersing gay colored tiles with a white field in an asymmetrical pattern on the bathroom walls.

House Style Determines Window Type

Whether building a new house, a summer place or remodeling or making an addition, families will find windows playing an important part in the design.

Prior to 1945, practically all windows used in home construction were made of wood and no small percentage of steel. In the last decade, use of aluminum windows has grown to an estimated 38 per cent of all homes being built, according to the Aluminum Window Manufacturers Association.

IF YOU ARE BUILDING OR REMODELING, though, what type of window should you choose? House types do take certain style windows.

For colonial, Cape Cod or traditional houses look for a double-hung window. This is probably the most familiar type consisting of an upper and lower section, each with a sash that slides up and down past the other. This window was used in the earliest American homes.

The casement window finds its origin in the Gothic, English or Tudor style home and is best for English-Tudor now. A casement window works by a crank-operated handle from inside. Screens are usually inside the window but need not be moved to open it. It is easily cleaned from the inside.

MANY CONTEMPORARY homes feature the awning type window which is a series of ventilating sections controlled from the inside by means of a crank. And then there are jalousies which open wide for full ventilation or close tight for warmth.

Advent of the contemporary house also popularized the projected window. These, because of their awning effect, also may remain open during a rainstorm, permitting ventilation. And the great picture window popularity has brought the horizontal sliding window to the forefront.

Heating Equipment Biggest Cost Item

In most homes, the most expensive single item of equipment is the heating system. It's important for families who buy, build or remodel a home to know the types of heating system available and how they work.

Two basic types of heating systems exist: wet and dry. The wet type includes hot water and steam heat. The dry type utilizes warm air as the heating medium. Either type may operate by gravity or have circulation forced by mechanical means.

ADVANTAGES OF A typical warm-air system are quick to warm and delivery of heat, filtered air which keeps the house clean and pollen free, humidity control, elimination of stagnant air and drafts, and relative simplicity of conversion to air conditioning.

Warm-air installations cost less to install than other types.

Of central warm-air systems available, the gravity system is the most economical. Air is allowed to circulate naturally without using a blower.

Except for several recent models of warm-air furnaces, one disadvantage is that no method exists to heat water. A separate gas, oil or electric heater is required. Despite this fact, warm air systems are used in three of four new homes built today.

Newer hot water systems offer higher efficiency, fast pick-up and radiator-connecting—units 40 per cent smaller. Smaller pipes are now used, as is flexible tubing, both items reducing overall cost. This system is used in three of four new homes built today.

Advent of the contemporary house also popularized the projected window. These, because of their awning effect, also may remain open during a rainstorm, permitting ventilation. And the great picture window popularity has brought the horizontal sliding window to the forefront.

WARDS

Homeowners Are Willing Painters

America's 55 million homeowners definitely are members of the do-it-yourself school when it comes to painting their homes.

A recent consumer survey by the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association reveals that when it comes to painting the outside of the house, only 32 per cent hire professional painters. That percentage shrinks to 18 per cent when interior painting is desired.

Why remains the overwhelming choice for exterior in all income groups, although in the more expensive dwellings grays and greens are showing? Modern gains. Most of this exterior is done by Dad, although 8 per cent of the work is done by wife and daughter teams. The ladies are pressing closer to the men when it comes to interior painting, however, with only the figure 7 per cent standing between them. No single color dominates the interior field, although the trend is away from deep tones and to pastel shades.

There are certain projects, however, best left to a professional painter. These would include exterior painting of old homes where surface preparation is difficult and time consuming, and projects involving safety factors.

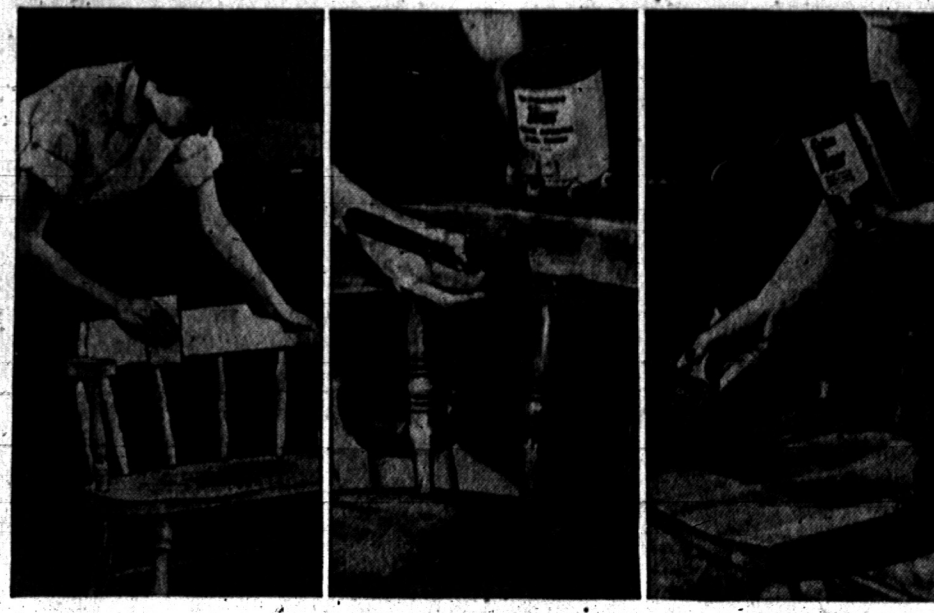

Conduct Meeting Of Ladies Aid Society, Herscher

CABERY (JNS)—The Ladies Aid Society met Thursday afternoon in the Presbyterian Church annex with 15 members and two children present.

Devotions were led by Mrs. Jack Clapp. Mrs. Clapp also presided during the business meeting due to the absence of the president, Mrs. Percy Hughes.

It was announced the Future Farmers will take care of the church grounds this summer. Four get well cards and two birthday cards were sent to members of the church.

The next meeting will take place April 24, with Mrs. Chester Jackson and Mrs. Lottie Bishop on the serving committee.

TOURING WITH THE IDEA OF painting the exterior of a house, only 32 per cent hire professional painters.

For more professional-looking job (left) with steel-wool. Flat varnish as finish coat may be applied to protect against usage or marring.

Leaky Roofs Admit 'Ghosts'

Is your attic haunted? It may be if the roof is old and weathered. The "haunts" in this case often are silent trickles of water, seeping slowly and as invisibly as a ghost into rafters, roof decking and down inside walls.

If this "haunting" goes on long enough, the "ghosts" lead to stained and weakened ceilings, warped decking and rotting rafters. Electrical circuits may be shorted, creating a fire hazard, and insulation can become soaked and useless. The result can mean an expensive repair job.

Fortunately, roof leaks aren't quite as hard to catch as a ghost, and can be eliminated with a new roof of asphalt shingles applied directly over the old roofing. Check annually in the attic for trouble spots.

Using a flashlight, look for discoloration marks on the underside of roof boards.

After a heavy rain look for moisture on the underside of the roof. This is probably caused by a leak, but can be the result of condensation.

On a bright, dry day block up windows and louvers in the attic. Look for pinholes of light. A light source is a potential leak. If the test is done after a series of wet days, the roof deck may be swollen, covering the pinholes.

If a roof is worn and old, a complete reroofing job is in order, the National Bureau of Standards says. A single leak means others are coming soon.

Additions Tax Available

Consider the dilemma of the man who added a new room to his house and then discovered it was too cold for comfort.

No heating plant has unlimited capacity and an extra room can stretch the heating ability of a furnace too far.

Supplementary heating equipment for the additional space is the usual solution. Supplementary heating units include wood or coal burners, built-in units gas or electrically operated, units with thermostatic controls and numerous portable units.

The gas-fired wall heater, for example, is recessed in the wall between studs. A dual-wall model opens on both sides of the wall, directing heat into two rooms.

Frequently a central heating plant is adequate to heat one or more extra rooms, but fails to do so because the house is inadequately insulated. Heat escapes.

When this is the case, insulation—at least three inches in walls and two inches in ceilings—helps heat inside the house. It makes supplementary heat unnecessary in added rooms.

Eight Cardinal Rules In Home Decorating

Some women seem to have a flair for style, in clothes or decorating the home. Maybe they are braver than the average woman. Or to put it more politely, perhaps they are freer in expressing what they, and their family, want.

So a decorator's comments may solve some decorating problems for you by bolstering your courage. William Pahlmann, a New York decorator and author, has this to say about approaching home decoration:

- 1—"Look before you decorate."
- 2—"The way you combine the elements of the past and present... that's the test of style."
- 3—"A home should be an instrument for happy living."
- 4—"Proper arrangement of furniture, good lighting and graceful styling make possible the decorative conquest of space in any home."
- 5—"Light is more important than color, design, pattern or the shape of a cocktail table."
- 6—"It is a long-standing joke that women have a passion for rearranging furniture. However, you can save your strength if you study the problem of furniture placement before you move it. The first thing to be considered is the traffic pattern."
- 7—"Modern... contemporary... traditional? ... Don't be frightened of big words. As in everything else, adapt the style to your nature and your way of life."
- 8—"There's nothing worse than being cornered in a room with a group of people due to the furniture arrangement."

Crescent Mission Society Holds Annual Banquet

CRESCENT CITY (JNS)—The annual mother-daughter banquet of the Mission Society of St. Peter's Lutheran Church was held Thursday evening in the church basement with approximately 100 attending.

The address of the evening was given by Richard Layman, Urbana, probation officer. Mrs. Robert Spenn acted as toastmistress.

The toast to the daughters was given by Mrs. John Post. The toast to the mothers was given by Ruth Post.

Mrs. Sena Slater received an award for being the oldest mother present. Other awards were given to Mrs. Fred J. Meyer, Mrs. Jack Rader and Mrs. Aldene Perzee.

The kitchen committee for the banquet consisted of Mrs. Elmer Rosenboom, Mrs. Fred Sterrenberg, Mrs. Reid Storm, Mrs. Donald Theesfeldt and Mrs. Harold Wall.

The program committee included Mrs. Harold Dion, Mrs. Robert Meyer, Mrs. Robert Rosellus, Mrs. Robert Spenn and Mrs. Frank Wilken. The men of the Brotherhood served as table waiters.

Wall Interest Increases With Murals And Fabrics

New dimensions in many homes come from the walls. As housewives learn to enlarge, diminish and camouflage wall mistakes with color, old rooms do look like new. Again this year murals are big in wall coverings. Outdoor scenes are being used to create an indoor-outdoor feeling in dining areas, especially for homes without the prerequisite patio. Foreign or American historical scenes set a room theme and many families will spend happy times together collecting items to carry it.

These wall treatments often give an otherwise uninteresting room a comfortable atmosphere for dining or just visiting with friends.

The color trend seems to be away from the dark, deep tones of browns, blacks and greens and more toward the softer pastels. Wallpaper and murals are being used in the bedrooms, but these are not the busy cabaret-and-ropes that no self-respecting family would be without years ago. Stripes are included, too, but they are less bold than previously.

A HIGHLY FUNCTIONAL and decorative wall covering is a fabric-covered material. It is particularly adaptable for use in remodeling old walls.

With a stiffer backing than conventional wall paper, this covering forms a tough skin on walls. It is said to strengthen the plaster against cracks due to vibration or expansion and contraction from temperature changes.

Important are the weaves of such a fabric, such as burlap and linen. Textured showing the Oriental fluence and designs inspired by trends in other countries give many wall coverings a cosmopolitan flavor and thus add a fillip to U.S. homes.

But, for the mother of several children, a big point in the favor of most wall coverings is its cleanliness.

Easy Steps Cut Inside Condensation

Steam-up windows serve as a radar-screen-for-the-home-owner. Unheeded, the warning means that sooner or later water will effect interior decorating. Blister paint or wallpaper, rot joists, warp floors and crack ceilings.

Engineers for a leading metal window producer offer these suggestions to reduce condensation in the home:

STEP-UP the circulation of air to permit the house to breathe, and thus reduce the relative humidity. Circulation of air will reduce the condensation of moisture on cold surfaces.

Keep a humidifier in the house. If relative humidity exceeds 30 to 35 percent, and excess moisture is present, it will provide more ventilation by opening windows farther.

When clothes are washed, and particularly when they are dried within the house, open a window so moisture escapes to the outside. A well-placed fan would also help. If washing clothes in the basement, keep basement door closed.

Moisture from cooking and boiling of foods should be vented to the outside, preferably by means of an exhaust fan. Keep kitchen doors closed. Cover pots and pans, especially when contents are boiling. Gas-burning appliances should be properly vented as combustion of gas liberates water.

Keep attic crawl space and basement vented or louvers open, and then several closed prevents this, close them partially and take extra precautions to minimize moisture in other ways.

LEAVE BATHROOM door closed after bathing and open window so that moisture is expelled to outside rather than circulating through the rest of the house.

Additional ventilation may be necessary periodically. Night is the best time as this prevents uncomfortable daytime drafts.

Storm windows will eliminate the formation of condensation on glass or window sections and keep the home warmer. However, storm windows will not reduce the relative humidity nor solve other problems caused by excessive moisture such as sticking doors, peeling paint and warping furniture. Therefore, to hold the relative humidity within proper bounds at all times.

Rustic Fence Spruces Up Outdoor Patio

Today's patio is a fully equipped outdoor room. It has furniture designed for casual living and often a brick barbecue pit or charcoal grill.

A four-rail rustic fence built in just four to six hours using a power chain saw will further dress up a patio.

Try a fence that comes out from the house on the end of the patio furthest away from the most-used entrance and runs down the long outer edge. The end nearest the entrance to the patio is left open.

FOR AN AVERAGE 16 x 24-foot patio, six red cedar posts approximately 7 feet long and 8 inches in diameter at the larger end are required, as well as 160 feet of 1 x 6-inch redwood lumber, cut into the standard 8-foot lengths.

The four rails closing in the patio will run through slots cut through the center of the posts. Beginning about six inches from the house on the short end of the patio, measure off distance 8 feet center-to-center. The corner post should be approximately six inches beyond the outer edge of the patio.

Set the posts with the small end up, about 2 1/2 feet deep. Tamp in the post holes with gravel.

THE CHAIN SAW will cut its way through the post holes easily. Make two passes through the post, one on each of the outside vertical marks that outline the rail, cutting all the way through. Two 1/4-inch kerfs or notches will be cut through the post. Knock out the center piece with a hammer and chisel.

Start the rails about 1 foot apart. Starting 8 inches from the top of the post on the side through which the rails will run, mark a 1 x 6-inch outline around each of four center marks spaced a foot apart.

Moisture from cooking and boiling of foods should be vented to the outside, preferably by means of an exhaust fan. Keep kitchen doors closed. Cover pots and pans, especially when contents are boiling. Gas-burning appliances should be properly vented as combustion of gas liberates water.

Keep attic crawl space and basement vented or louvers open, and then several closed prevents this, close them partially and take extra precautions to minimize moisture in other ways.

File Saves Time, Labor In Home

A handy time and labor saving home organizer provides files for important household papers, check and cash books, stamps and stationery and bills. This home manager file has 32-page annual and 16-page permanent books. Together they record all information needed by the family.

Everything is conveniently kept in this one central place. It reminds a person of important payments and dates, gives some legal advice on financial affairs and is a help at income tax time.

The system when kept regularly shows where your money goes, where and how to cut expenses. And it also sets up a family health record, keeps track of social activities and other such family matters.

Available in white onyx or black marble patterns for formal use, or with colorful mosaic surfaces for casual living, the electric tray fits into any mode of living. For the gracious hostess, it makes a handsome serving piece to keep hot hors d'oeuvres hot or to warm casseroles on the buffet.

Mothers can keep children's school papers in the electric tray, so that slow eaters can enjoy the end of the meal as much as its beginning. Good in the sickroom, too, where cold food is always a problem. Brides who may have trouble coming out even when trying a new recipe have discovered such trays.

Another handy appliance is a miniature thermostat-controlled broiler, no bigger than a thick cook book. If steak is on the menu for a dinner party, put one or more broilers on the table and let each guest broil his own. For those who live alone, this device is especially useful.

Even the egg now has its own electric appliance, and it, too, can be used at the table. Children can cook their own breakfast eggs and perhaps this activity will encourage the youngsters to eat them. The gadget shuts off automatically when the eggs are done, soft, medium or hard.

Study Handicrafts At Session Of Sheldon WC Group

SHELDON (JNS)—"Handicrafts" was the program studied during a meeting of the history and literature department of the Sheldon Women's Club in Library Hall.

The art of fingerprinting was demonstrated by Mrs. E. G. Buse. Mrs. Buse showed how different parts of the hand, forearm and fingernails could be used to achieve interesting texture effects. Members of the group made fingerprint drawings on glazed paper.

Leather tooling and copper enameling of pins was taught during the craft program. Individual pieces were made by the group.

Members of the program committee were Mrs. Richard Coughlin, Mrs. Steve Johnson, Mrs. Oliver Riker, Mrs. Albert Larcue and Mrs. Buse.

Miss Vera Seymour, chairman, presided during the business meeting. Twenty members answered roll call.

It was announced the winning entry from the eighth grade class in the art contest had been entered in the district contest. A music scholarship has been granted to John Granrud to attend a music camp at the University of Illinois this summer.

Members were reminded that the district convention would be held April 21 in Kankakee. The state convention is slated for May 6 in Chicago.

A letter concerning the cancer crusade was read. It was announced the department dinner would be held May 6 and the Women's Club banquet will be held May 20 in the Presbyterian Church. Sack lunch refreshments were served by Mrs. J. H. Thomas Shrimplin and Miss Vera Seymour.

Appliances Finding Place On Table

Small electric kitchen appliances are stepping right into the parlor these days.

An appliance that's making a name for itself throughout the home is an electric serving tray that keeps food at perfect eating temperature. Until recently, this type served was virtually unknown in the household and few women ever considered it a necessity.

Now homemakers are becoming familiar with its usefulness. Available in white onyx or black marble patterns for formal use, or with colorful mosaic surfaces for casual living, the electric tray fits into any mode of living. For the gracious hostess, it makes a handsome serving piece to keep hot hors d'oeuvres hot or to warm casseroles on the buffet.

'Paintings' Of Waterproof Tape Brighten Child's Room

Here's a new art form for people who can't draw. It is tape artistry. Simple, yet flexible, it lends itself to decorative wall plaques for children's rooms or playrooms. Just form designs with strips of colored plastic tape, so there's no need to draw or paint. The tape is waterproof, so the pictures can be washed over and over again to remove tiny fingerprints.

The most appealing designs for children are familiar things such as birds, trees, or flowers. To make a plaque start with a smooth surface such as beaverboard, plywood or linoleum. Cut it to the desired size or have it cut for you. Spray the surface with a solid color for background. While it is still wet, use the brightly colored tapes to stand out well against the background.

SKETCH OR TRACE a design in pencil. Then lay strips of colored plastic tape over the sketch in vertical or horizontal rows. Try to vary the distance between them to avoid a mechanical look.

Following the sketch lines remaining between the tapes on the tape ends with a sharp razor blade. Use a single edge blade for safety. To finish this "painting," peel off the trimmed edges and erase penciled sketch.

Once this is done, add a few touches such as whiskers, flower stems and such with slivers of tape.

They boarded a plane for Paris, France, to join L. Donald Deatley. Mrs. Deatley is the former Joyce Theatfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Theatfield, Buckley, at whose home she had been staying since their marriage. L. Deatley has never seen his six-month-old son. Mrs. Deatley also will be able to visit her brother, Edwin, who is stationed in that area.

PVT. KENNETH Dettmering, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Dettmering, arrived at Mannheim, Germany from Ft. Carson, Colo. His wife, the former Arlene Dippie, will join him in the near future.

MR. AND MRS. Tom Zunkel and daughter, spent last week at the home of the former's parents, Dr. and Mrs. O. R. Zunkel, at Mrs. Zunkel is a student at Bradley University, Peoria.

Personality Can Affect Heart Patient's Health

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—A person with a heart condition may be in more danger from his personality than from his arteries. A recent survey by a cardiac work classification unit of the Heart Association of Southeastern Pennsylvania showed a "definite personality pattern in heart patients."

Dr. David Gelfand, head of the unit, said that "young people suffering high blood pressure or coronary artery disease, in fact most patients under 50, have passive, dependent natures and are unable to express aggressions (normal combative reactions)."

"KNOWLEDGE THAT THEY have heart disease may affect them in one of two ways," Dr. Gelfand continued.

"There is the openly dependent type who, after he gets a heart condition, uses it to sidestep responsibility. And there's the ambitious, determined fellow who covers up his passivity and ignores symptoms of the disease that stand in the way of economic achievement."

"Both may be in greater mortal danger from their personalities than from their coronary arteries," he concluded.

YVONNE'S DEPARTS—SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UP)—School officials have finally jostled "Yvonne" out of the 9th grade English classes.

The Sir Walter Scott novel was ordered prepared by Charles Dickens' "Great Expectations."

Mrs. Mildred Rock, supervisor of secondary education, said Yvonne, a 9th grade classic for as long as she could remember, didn't seem sophisticated enough for modern pupils of that class.

Teachers were sick and tired of it, too, she added.

Clothes for the spring drive for Lutheran World Relief may be brought to Mrs. Anderson's home. Following the meeting, it will be packed.

A short business meeting will be held April 24 at 2:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Walter Anderson.

Dryer Vacuums Dusty Pillows

The versatile automatic dryer now performs service other than routine clothes-drying for today's housewife.

An "air-fluff" control button dryer, makes it possible to "dry-vacuum" dusty pillows, curtains, drapes, bed spreads, throw-rugs and other home furnishings. This is one way to keep the house sparkling fresh without expensive cleaning bills.

Because 100 per cent of the dusty air is completely filtered from the dryer drum, fabrics tumble gently and safely in heatless "air-fluff." They emerge ready to re-hang or re-use immediately.

And use this method for a between-washings refreshing and restoring of heavy pile fabrics such as terry towels, bedspreads, etc.

How To Recognize Unethical Contractors

Most dealers who sell such home improvement items as storm windows, doors and jalousies are honest, responsible businessmen. They handle good products, advertise and sell them ethically, install them properly and stand ready to make any necessary service adjustments.

Unfortunately, there is a minority of dealers who, like others in various other fields, resort to "bait" advertising to lure customers.

Bait advertising may be defined as "an alluring offer to sell something which the advertiser does not actually intend to sell, tries not to sell or deliberately avoids selling."

IN SELECTING home improvement contractors, it is important to deal only with those who are established; not those who are here today and gone tomorrow. The only sensible way to make sure of fair rates and good service is to engage an ethical contractor. Don't hesitate to ask for references. The honest contractor is always happy to provide them.

Avoid glib talkers who offer a cash rebate of some percentage of the price of the work.

Be on guard for the salesman who keeps lowering his price.

Run up the danger signal whenever a long term guarantee is offered. Remember, the guarantee is as good and only as good as the financial and moral responsibility of the firm offering it.

THE SALESMAN who offers to include additional work at no additional cost to his original quotation is another one to regard with suspicion.

Too great a spread in the price quoted on a specific job is a definite indication to look carefully into the responsibility of the firm. From which you receive these quotations. Finally, be sure you understand all papers before you sign a purchase agreement. Sign the contract only when you are sure you understand all the terms and conditions.

Arranging Increases Closet Space

There doesn't have to be a decision in the closet to make a person ashamed of this often-neglected chamber. Uncluttered and lack of planning may point the finger of guilt.

If this is the case, here are some suggestions for making a closet a place of pride and pleasure. A pretty closet can also please the nose as well as the eye when scented with fragrant sachet pillows.

Closets should be arranged to keep clothes and accessories in good condition and easily accessible. With clever arranging, closets also provide storage space for suitcases, sewing kits and sundry boxes and bundles.

Since the main purpose, however, is to keep clothing in condition, don't crowd. Allow at least 25 inches for the width of hangers on the rod. If the closet is not deep enough for that requirement, use short rods and place them crosswise rather than lengthwise.

IN ARRANGING clothes, the shorter garments, like blouses and jackets, together. The space beneath them may then be used for storing suitcases or other boxes. If possible, place hangers at least 12 inches apart. This will pay off in reduced pressing and ironing.

Closets that harmonize with the adjoining room have a real decorative look. Carry out the theme of a feminine bedroom with pretty rosette-patterned hangers. And, an elegantly pole may be covered with matching contact paper. To make the interior smell as rosy as it looks, place sachet pillows on the hangers. They come with little loops for easy hanging.

Hat boxes and stands come with trim, too, to carry the decorative theme. For an easy-to-clean top shelf, line it with washable contact paper.

If you select regular wallpaper, protect it with clear lacquer for easy cleaning with a damp cloth. You may even complete the decorator look by papering a section of the closet.

FORREST (JNS)—The Central Group Woman's Missionary Society Convention will be held at St. Paul's Church, Forrest, on Wednesday.

Porch Can Be Extra Room In Homes

Enclosing a porch is a ideal project for the homeowner who is handy with tools. One method is to do the entire job with combination wood storm and screen doors, and a porch can be enclosed completely for use all year around. With screen inserts in place, the porch is an airy, summer haven. In fall, the screens are replaced with light glass panes and the porch becomes a comfortable sunroom which can be enjoyed on all but the coldest days.

A big advantage is economy. The homeowner can do the entire job himself in a week and at two, since complicated framing seldom is necessary. Besides this saving in labor, the cost of materials is much lower than the total cost of materials needed for a conventional porch.

Here's the procedure followed by a New Jersey homeowner in enclosing his porch with combination storm and screen doors of ponderosa pine.

For his 16x20-foot porch, he bought 22 stock doors from a building material dealer. The doors were three feet wide by 85 inches high. The homeowner fitted the doors to the floor at the bottom and exit onto a patio in the rear yard.

Hardly Fair—HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (UP)—On the last day of Crime Prevention Week here, Attorney Richard Hobbs, chairman of an Exchange Club committee which had carried out a program of publicity for observance of the week—made a sheepish confession to committee members.

Water Softener Is Automatic, Pleasing

A person doesn't have to be very old to remember that a water softener once was an unattractive, brine-covered tank that made a basement look like the inside of a boiler factory.

Worse than that looked, perhaps, was the problem of mending up the basement floor with frequent backwashings to regenerate the water softening mineral.

But those days are gone forever. Automatic water softeners which require little or no attention are today's mode. And they're attractive and compact enough to place right in your kitchen or utility room.

A white enameled cabinet completely hides the softener tank. Water softeners must be regenerated periodically. One does the job by means of an electronic clock, much like the defroster on a refrigerator.

Aside from work saving advantages and attractive design, automatic softeners eliminate the inconvenience of regularly putting salt water down the drain.

For his 16x20-foot porch, he bought 22 stock doors from a building material dealer. The doors were three feet wide by 85 inches high. The homeowner fitted the doors to the floor at the bottom and exit onto a patio in the rear yard.

'Packaged' Hi-Fi Unit Out Of Luxury Class

Recorded sound in its truest reproduction over a wide range, has made high fidelity a modern day byword of music.

No longer does the public need to contend with complicated and costly methods for building self-styled high fidelity systems in the home. The industry now offers a fine balance of system in one piece.

Music Fits Into Decor Of Homes

The boom in amateur music making has fit more musical instruments into home decor.

Decorating for music requires an arrangement that appeals to the eye and insures the best listening enjoyment.

In informal living areas the arrangement might be a music corner, a pegboard wall mounting to display instruments or groupings of records, or a music center. The center of the family musical instruments.

SINCE walls and ceiling form a sounding chamber for the instrument, the best location for music depends on the room.

Pianos usually are at their best on the short wall of a room. If the room is small, place the piano in the corner of the room, behind the instrument to soften the sound it reflects. For larger rooms the wall should be left bare to provide round tones that seem to fill the room, according to the American Music Conference.

In medium-sized rooms where no acoustic problems exist, a corner is a good location for the music center. Decorate the wall above a piano with colorful, old-time sheet music in frames.

FOR LONG narrow rooms, the piano can serve as a room divider. Extending out from the middle of an inside wall, the back of the instrument can be faced with book shelves or attractive shutters. In this position the instrument sounds off the ends of the room. It provides better tone values than when played facing the shorter dimension.

When a disposer and dishwasher are installed in combination, the disposer drain line should be installed to prevent food waste from backing up into the dishwasher.

When introducing a large amount of food waste into a disposer, feed it in a steady flow. But packing a large amount of waste in at one time may cause the unit to overload. If the disposer overloads, the thermostat controls shut it off automatically. Wait three to five minutes, then push the unit's reset button and it will begin operating normally again.

Mix your food waste when possible. As different types of textures are added, the disposer will operate more quickly and quietly. And do not feed abrasives such as glass and metal into a disposer.

Sheldon School Wins Banner At Literary Contest

SHELDON (JNS) — The grade school won the championship banner at the annual Inoué County Grade School Literary Contest held Wednesday in the O'Garra Military School.

Twelve county schools were represented. Sheldon was Patsy Jean Costello, 11, for her story, "The Old Rugged Cross," and Carol J. Reynolds, 10, for her story, "The Old Rugged Cross."

The "The Old Rugged Cross" line of a year ago has been carried to greater lengths in the currently popular use of fruit woods and walnut.

Also used finishes are in softer and medium tones, a change from the extremes of light and dark finishes recently popular.

However, throughout the industry there will be more variety in color ranges of wood pieces offered this year than ever before. So it is difficult to say there is a trend away from the light shades or from the dark shades.

Matched wood grains, marquetry and other design elements used in home furnishings are in vogue.

Practicality still hovers in the home, especially where there are children. Additional uses of laminated plastics, with their remarkable resemblance to the real thing, offer handy cocktail and end table items with decorative aspects.

Occasional Pieces Are Functional

Decorative cocktail and end tables are more important than ever today because they add beauty and convenience in many rooms of limited space.

Tables as a whole will be more functional and flexible. In some cases casters are used again for mobility. And many tables include pull outs for use in serving or as extra seats.

Heat Saved By Sealing House Cracks

Before the summer sun starts beating down, a careful appraisal of a home's insulation may mean increased comfort for the family and less of a debt each year in the pocketbook.

A well-insulated house requires less indoor painting, cleaning and dusting than a poorly insulated house.

A study by a national heating and air-conditioning organization revealed how much heat can be lost to the great outdoors by inadequate insulation.

In a one-story frame house, 30 per cent of the total heat loss was through exterior walls and roof, 25 per cent through windows and doors, 18 per cent through the floor into crawl space below, 16 per cent through the ceiling into the attic, and 11 per cent through cracks around windows, doors, and other openings.

It is wise to have a local builder do any major insulating jobs needed. But, as for fuel-burning cracks around windows and doors and exterior joints, any willing do-it-yourselfer can seal them up by using one of the special caulking compounds that come in large fold-up metal tubes. The tubes have a special applicator nozzle to speed use and a key for rolling up the tube and extruding the product.

A survey of small homes made by a midwestern university showed possible savings. Testing an efficient five-room house built in 1890 on a cold winter day, the researchers found that $240 worth of insulation saved from $720 to $800 on fuel bills. A single block in a new square-shape fruitwood frame, toasters in sharp, straight lines, spoons and hot plates follow the trend.

The morning was spent completing the rolling up of the tube to be used. A polka-dot dinner was served at noon.

Mrs. Lawrence Dewey, president, called the business meeting to order. Emma Pickles had charge of the devotion. Mrs. Erma Andersen gave the lesson. The next meeting will be held May 14.

MRS. SADIE Spiller entertained the Alameda Club in her home. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Borne and Mrs. Arthur Borne Jr. were guests.

There were 16 members and two guests present. The group discussed plans for a swimming party in the YMCA. Kathleen, Miss Kay Bruner is in charge of the arrangements.

During the social period, games were played. Prizes went to Teresa Malone, Angela Lanku, Judy Guandoli and Martha Feller.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Kay and Martha Bruner. The next meeting will be held in the hall on May 14 at 7:30 p.m. Hostesses will be Martha and Elizabeth Feller.

'Square Look' Saves Space In Kitchen

The kitchen is no longer a neglected room. The first big step, taken a few years ago, was introduction of color in major appliances. This year another design idea is receiving the attention and admiration of homemakers.

It is the squared-off design in major appliances, created to add a streamlined look and to save valuable working space. New accessories and small equipment coordinate with this space-saving trend.

This year's refrigerator and freezer models slim, squared-off lines fit flush with standard cabinets and walls to make every inch count. Extra storage cabinets also may be placed directly over this type refrigerator.

SMART homemakers may add to interior saving devices by using square freezer and refrigerator containers for storing fresh foods and leftovers. Stacked the top of the refrigerator, they save more than 30 per cent of the space taken up by round jars and receptacles.

For example, a regular pop board, placed over the work counter, serves as a rack for square pots and pans. An electric clock in a new square-shape fruitwood frame, toasters in sharp, straight lines, spoons and hot plates follow the trend.

Handle Dishwasher, Disposer With Care

This country's mania for cleanliness, with the least effort, is being relieved mechanically in some areas of the home.

More than 4 million garbage disposers and 25 million dishwashers have gone into American homes since the end of World War II. Sales of these two products are climbing faster than those of any other kitchen appliances, according to their manufacturers.

Many city plumbing codes require that all pump model dishwashers either have a separate drain and vent, or exhaust through a disposer.

This latter course generally proves to be the more economical and practical arrangement of the two and where you have this type installation, it is important to grind all waste in the disposer before turning on the dishwasher. Otherwise, water draining from the dishwasher will not pass freely through the disposer.

When a disposer and dishwasher are installed in combination, the disposer drain line should be installed to prevent food waste from backing up into the dishwasher.

When introducing a large amount of food waste into a disposer, feed it in a steady flow. But packing a large amount of waste in at one time may cause the unit to overload. If the disposer overloads, the thermostat controls shut it off automatically. Wait three to five minutes, then push the unit's reset button and it will begin operating normally again.

African Crisis Causes French To Oust Gaillard

Assembly Rejects U.S.-British Plan In Tunisian Dispute

PARIS (U)—France was back in familiar shape today: no government, a deepening crisis in North Africa and no solution in sight for either.

President Rene Coty began another weary round of political talks in search of someone who might rally enough National Assembly votes to succeed Felix Gaillard as premier.

Gaillard resigned Tuesday night after the Assembly voted 21-255 against his call to accept a U.S.-British plan for settlement of France's dispute with Tunisia.

There was no ready apparent successor to the 35-year-old Gaillard. The votes which finally cut him down came from five months of clashing came from the two extremes of French politics, which cannot combine to form the 25th postwar government.

Gaillard's was the second successive government brought down by rightist opposition, led by followers of Gen. Charles de Gaulle, to concessions in North Africa.
