MAN BELIEVED DEAD IN RIVER

SAYS KANKAKEE IS LIVELIEST CITY IN WHOLE STATE

Salesman of Joliet Praises Town in Rotary Talk.

SELLS ITSELF

Describing Kankakee as the liveliest town of its size in the state of Illinois, Frank Parks, representative of the Gerlach-Barklow calendar company of Joliet, analyzed the triangles of teamwork, retail salesmanship and advertising at the Rotary club meeting Thursday noon in the Hotel Kankakee.

Mr. Park's talk revolved about a sequence of triangles. He acknowledged three types of cities—those which are live, dead, or have one foot in the grave. "Not many miles away from here, some are so dead the buzzards won't light," he said.

"We don't need all the towns we've got. Many of them are dead because of hardening of the arteries of transportation. People travel farther so much faster now that the future of several communities depends upon the survival of the fittest. A town today must sell itself to itself," he asserted.

Lubricates Trade

"Selling is the oil that lubricates transactions in exchange for merchandise or service. It involves the application of three principles—common sense, personality and enthusiasm, and these in turn demand use of three forces— imagination, intestinal fortitude, and ability to talk and think in terms of selling.

"By the application of teamwork, the merchant can improve his advertising methods and eventually his retail sales."

Mr. Parks directed the attention of Rotarians to another triangle—the three things which control the success of advertising—medium, copy and repetition.

Good Advertising

Selection of the medium which carries the selling messages is highly important today because so many are competing for attention—newspapers, magazines, radio, movies, automobile, signs, mail matter, etc.

Drawing further on his analogy, the speaker said, "If selling is the oil that lubricates transactions, then advertising is the oil can that makes the selling job easier. The can with a short blunt spout (signs and billboards) will do a quick job. The can with a longer spout (newspapers and magazines) reaches the harder places. The can with the long and sharp point (direct mail) is for the most difficult places.

Need Repetition

In writing copy, merchants don't need more words, but rather better words. The test for effective copy is not is it good writing" but "does

MANY COMMUNITIES ARE MINUS ELECTRIC SERVICE; DUE TO STORM

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 8—(AP)—Several Illinois communities were without wire service today, the result of the worst ice storm since 1924, but temperatures above freezing prevented heavier damage.

Zero weather was forecast, but the temperature at noon was 41 degrees and the ice that formed late yesterday had melted from wires and trees.

Jacksonville was apparently hardest hit by the storm that extended westward to Quincy and Hannibal, Mo., which were without wire communication. Macomb, Beardstown, Havana and Petersburg also were partly isolated, along with several smaller municipalities.

Five Springfield factories closed because they couldn't get electric current.

Budget Message Is Sent To New Congress

PEACEMAKER

Playing a prominent role as peacemaker in the General Motors strike, James F. Dewey, above, federal labor conciliator, held conferences with both union chiefs and corporation leaders. Following the parleys, he was optimistic that the opposing forces could be brought together for discussions that would show the way to settlement.

Local Nurse Is Beaten By Irate Hubby

Gilman, Jan. 8—(RN Special)—Mabel Henry, a nurse at Kankakee state hospital, today filed suit for divorce from her husband Irle, a justice of the peace at Paxton, through her attorney, C. E. Beach. Cruelty is charged.

In her bill, Mrs. Henry charges that her husband would not permit her to live at home but kept her employed at the state institution. When he came to see her on weekends he would have her go with him to cheap hotels or roadhouses to spend the night.

At 11 o'clock New Year's eve they left Kankakee in an auto with Mrs. Henry driving. She desired to go home but he wanted to stop at a roadhouse. When she drove on by, according to Attorney Beach's bill, he beat her, breaking her nose and blacking her eye and leaving her at a Jeffery street oil station covered with blood.

A hospital ambulance took her to Hampton hall, the nurse's home at Kankakee state hospital.

Lucille Rieck is Awarded Divorce

Mrs. Lucille M. Rieck of Kankakee obtained a divorce from her husband Elmer, who she charged with desertion, before Circuit Judge W. R. Hunter yesterday afternoon.

The couple was married on Aug. 30, 1935, and lived together until the following Oct. 21. There are no children. Mrs. Rieck was represented by Attorney C. D. Henry.

FDR FORECASTS A PUBLIC DEBT PEAK JUNE 30TH

Urges Cooperation of Employers in the Nation.

SEES A BALANCE

Washington, Jan. 8 —(AP)— President Roosevelt sent a multi-billion dollar budget to congress today in a message bluntly leaving a complete balance of federal income and outgo up to industrial re-employment efforts.

With certain exceptions, Mr. Roosevelt told congress his new 1938 budget "is in balance" and would remain so if later relief requirements do not exceed an estimated $1,537,123,000.

Then, after forecasting a new public debt peak next June 30 of $35,026,000,000 despite sharply increased income, the President added:

Asks Employer Cooperation

"It is my conviction that if every employer or potential employer will undertake during the next six months to give employment to persons now receiving government help, the national budget can thereafter be kept definitely in balance.

"Without such cooperation on the part of the employers, the question of a balanced budget for 1938 must of necessity remain an open one for the very good reason that this government does not propose next year, any more than during the past four years, to allow American families to starve."

Mr. Roosevelt's budget message, covering especially the 12 months beginning next July 1, but including also requests for money to carry relief through June 30, was read to both senate and house by clerks. No new taxes were asked.

Responsibility of Business

Besides emphasizing the responsibility of business to absorb the jobless, the President warned the overwhelmingly Democratic congress:

"If new legislation imposes any substantial increase in expenditures either in the expansion of existing or the creation of new activities, it becomes a matter of sound policy simultaneously to provide new revenue sufficient to meet the additional cost."

In terming the 1938 budget "in balance," the President allowed $1,537,123,000 for the year's relief costs and excepted a $401,515,000 appropriation law required for debt reduction.

But he stressed that "if improvement in economic conditions continues at the present rate," the government would "be able to attain in 1939 a completely balanced budget with full provision for meeting the statutory requirements for debt reduction."

Relief Figures Withheld

Final figures on relief outlays were withheld until later. Mr.

Asks For Billion Dollars To Fulfill Agricultural Pledge

By FRED O. BAILEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

Washington, Jan. 8—(UP)—President Roosevelt asked congress today for a record-breaking billion dollar appropriation to fulfill his campaign pledge of increased aid for agriculture.

His budget estimates for the 1938 fiscal year call for immediate appropriation of $930,876,985. Congress, with his approval, is expected to add to this total an estimated $200,000,000 for emergency agricultural agencies.

Principal items in the projected 1938 agricultural program:

1. Soil conservation, $620,000,000.
2. Public roads, $181,500,000.
3. Rural rehabilitation, $150,000,000. (Estimated).
4. Department of agriculture administration, $82,416,180.
5. Aid to tenant farmers, $50,000,000. (Estimated).
6. For agricultural experiment and extension work, $25,458,169.

Budget estimates revealed about 75 per cent of the agricultural appropriations, or about $750,000,000, will go directly to farmers through loans, grants and soil conservation benefit payments.

Mr. Roosevelt asked for a new appropriation of $850,012,958, to which will be added $75,864,000 available from previous appropriations. He requested $128,665,556 more than was appropriated in the 1937 fiscal year.

The President's estimates do not take into account the possibility of another drought, such as cost the government several hundred million in added relief in 1934 and in 1936.

Drought relief for more than 400,000 farm families has exhausted resettlement administration funds. Mr. Roosevelt expected to ask congress for an emergency appropriation of $50,000,000 to continue that work to July 1.

Later he plans to request an emergency appropriation of probably $150,000,000 to continue rural rehabilitation work under resettlement in the 1938 fiscal year. He recently made resettlement a permanent bureau of the department of agriculture.

Congressional plans appearing to have administration support call for an annual appropriation of at least $50,000,000 beginning in the 1938 fiscal year for aid to tenants in purchasing farms.

The President's 1938 estimates are considerably above the $907,326,285 which he estimated the department of agriculture will spend in the 1937 fiscal year. Actual expenditures in 1936 were $891,305,607, he said.

Expenditures Of Uncle Sam Show Increase

Washington, Jan. 8—(AP)—The treasury reported today a major shift in the relative size of government expenditures between its classifications of "regular" and "emergency" activities during the last fiscal year.

The department's annual report showed that for every $1 paid out for "recovery and relief" in the 12 months ended June 30, $1.82 was spent on "normal" government operations.

In the previous year $1.08 went for emergency activities, for each $1 going to general departments, while in 1933-34 emergency spending overbalanced regular outlays in the ratio of $1.55 to $1.

Citing a 368,300,000 climb in regular expenditures to 3,276,900,000 last year, the treasury attributed this in part to heavier national defense outlays, increased personnel in civil departments and agencies and restoration of a 5 per cent salary cut to government workers.

While these expenditures were climbing, the report said, emergency spending declined $293,900,000 to $2,776,800,000. The total, however, was a net figure after deduction of earnings and repayments of various agencies.

Aggregate expenditures were set at $8,879,800,000, of which 56 per cent went for regular activities, 31 per cent for recovery and relief, 8 per cent for interest and 5 per cent for debt retirement. In the previous year, regular departments accounted for 39 per cent, emergency activities for 42 per cent, interest, 11 per cent and debt retirement 8 per cent.

On the revenue side, total receipts rose $15,500,000 last year to 4,116,000,000.

Miscellaneous internal revenue levies accounted for 49 per cent of this. Income taxes provided 35 per cent.

SUDDEN ACTION STIRS RUMORS IN KIDNAPING

Three Automobiles of Federal Men are Active.

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 8—(AP)—Three automobiles filled with men believed to be federal bureau of investigation agents raced through Olympia, Wash., today and took the road to Aberdeen, 84 miles southwest of Tacoma.

This sudden action stirred rumors a "break" had come in the kidnaping of 10-year-old Charles Mattson.

At the same time, two other automobiles, also traveling at high speed, were reported leaving Tacoma on the mountain highway leading to the southwest toward Mount Rainier where the drivers hurriedly conferred before the machines separated and sped on their way.

Hint of Release

Observers interpreted their activity as meaning the kidnaped boy had been released. All law enforcement agencies had completely withdrawn from activity earlier in the week at the request of the boy's father. The general understanding was that they would make no moves until Charles was released.

The latest communication from the Mattson family to the kidnaper, published in the Seattle Times yesterday, indicated that important developments could be expected shortly.

Neither Harold Nathan, in charge of the government operatives in Tacoma, nor Inspector Earl J. Connelly could be reached in their hotel rooms after the federal machines left the garage.

Per Capita Expense is $59.19 Per Year

Washington, Jan. 8—(UP)—President Roosevelt's estimates for the 1938 fiscal year provide for per capita expenditures of approximately $59.19 for every man, woman and child in the nation.

Per capita receipts are estimated at about $56.

Per capita expenditures show a decline from $65.33 estimated for the 1937 fiscal year while receipts are up sharply from the $44.83 estimated for the 1937 year.

STUDENTS HOOT AND HOWL OVER REGENT RULING

Glenn Frank's Ouster Causes a Wild Demonstration.

PREDICT STRIKE

Madison, Wis., Jan. 8—(AP)—Governor Philip F. La Follette, addressing 1,000 striking students who invaded his offices today, refused to promise consideration of their demands for reinstatement of Dr. Glenn Frank to the University of Wisconsin presidency.

The university board of regents ousted Frank amid cries of "politics" from his defenders. The vote, taken last night, was 8 to 7.

The governor told the student demonstrators he had invited President John Conant of Harvard university to come to Madison to determine whether politics had motivated Frank's dismissal.

Conant declined, La Follette added.

Break Up Conference

The students, angry over Frank's dismissal, gathered on the campus and marched to the capitol. They swarmed into LaFollette's office, breaking up a press conference at which the governor had intended to discuss the "politics" charge.

Police reserves from downtown headquarters were called to help capitol officers eject the demonstrators.

LaFollette then agreed to address them.

He was greeted with a mixed chorus of cheers and boos when he stepped upon the rostrum in the state assembly hall. The students listened quietly. There were more cheers and boos after he finished.

"I hope you know this is not a very easy thing to do," LaFollette said. "I am going to ask your indulgence and talk without formalities.

"Your presence here is a tribute to the University of Wisconsin. (A loud cry of assent filled the chamber). I thank God that we have a student body that will put on a demonstration like this although it puts me in a tough spot. (This brought boos).

Why He Was Silent

"I have remained silent about the president of the university for several years because it would have been improper for the governor to make any statement while the matter was pending before the board of regents.

"Regarding the charge of politics, I would much prefer to have some disinterested group brought in to make a decision. I have asked Dr. James Conant of Harvard to come here to make such an inquiry.

"I ask you, would any of you do this if he had a skeleton in his closet? I felt that if Dr. Conant could have come here a great damage to the university could have been avoided. My sole concern in this matter has been the university."

Governor LaFollette recalled the growth of the institution since the days of John Bascom and referred to the time when President Frank honored him by making him a member of the law school faculty, and offered him the deanship of that school.

Ignores Student Response

"Do you think that any man with my background would sit in the governor's office and do injury to

"Lu" of "Clara, Lu and Em," Dies in Evanston Today

Chicago, Jan. 8—(AP)—Mrs. Isobel Carothers Berolzheimer, the "Lu" of the radio team of "Clara, Lu and Em," died in an Evanston hospital today.

In private life she was the wife of professor Howard Berolzheimer of the Northwestern university school of speech.

She had been ill several days of pneumonia and a streptococcic infection. She was 36 years old.

"Em" of the radio trio—in private life Mrs. John Mitchell of Evanston—was ill and under the care of a physician today.

Only "Clara"—Mrs. Paul Mead—of the team which went off the air last fall, remains in good health. Sponsors of the team said their humorous gossip patter had won them a wide audience.

Closed Bank At Momence Pays $27,541

A six per cent dividend payment totaling $27,541.88, for creditors of the First National bank of Momence, in receivership since Dec. 15, 1931, has been received from the comptroller of currency for distribution, according to announcement today of Martin C. Dooley, receiver.

Qualified claimants may receive their checks by presenting their receiver's certificates at the office of receivership in Momence. Those living away from the immediate vicinity will be advised of the dividend by mail. All are requested to call at the office promptly.

This dividend is the sixth since the bank became insolvent and represents a return to date of $303,730.68 or 66 per cent to creditors whose claims aggregate $459,031.45.

Funds available for the payment of the present dividend represent collections received in regular process of liquidation and do not include any loan of funds received from the RFC. This is not the final dividend, according to the receiver.

Previous payments have been made as follows: July 1932—27 per cent; June 1933—6 per cent; March 1934—7 per cent; August 1934—10 per cent; August 1935—10 per cent.

The escapade cost him $5.25, the amount of the fine assessed in police court.

Weekly Survey of Business Affairs

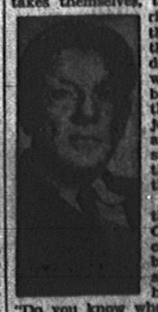
New York, Jan. 8—(AP)—Trade and industry followed a zigzag course this week, Dun & Bradstreet reported today in the weekly survey.

Expansion was less marked in some trade divisions, while in others momentum gathered force following the interruption of the holidays. Consumer buying was well sustained by January promotions and the enlarged call for winter needs in districts touched by subzero weather.

Low inventories brought more activity in wholesale markets with interest wide in both current replacements and Easter merchandise. Industrial progress was slackened not only by year-end shut downs but by the spread of labor complications in some automobile plants and allied branches.

Well, I'll Tell You—

By BOB BURNS



I can't help feelin' sorry for these people that try to tell other people how to live. If they have made mistakes themselves, they are taking a risk by bringin' up the subject and if they have never done anything wrong, they can't be much of an authority on the subject. Some of 'em are so interested in saving your neck that they hang themselves.

I had an aunt that was that way. One time she caught her little boy tellin' a fib and she called him to her and she says, "Do you know what happens to little boys that tell lies?" And he said "No, Mama." And she said "Well, a big green man with jest one eye swoops down and gits the little boy and flies with him up to the moon and makes him pick up sticks fer the rest of his life." She says "Now, you'll never tell another lie, will you? It's awfully naughty."

I had one uncle that was very religious. On Sunday my aunt told him that the new neighbor had come over to borrow the lawnmower. My uncle was horrified. He said "Why, do you know if that man usett the lawnmower on Sunday he'll be breakin' one of the ten commandments?" He said "Tell the man we ain't got no lawnmower."

RECOVER AUTO AS SEARCH FOR BODY STARTS

J. C. Crews, Farmer at the Hospital, is Missing.

FIREMEN HUNT

BULLETIN

J. C. Crews was alive at 4 o'clock this morning. That was established this afternoon when his wife was contacted at her home, 979 South Sixth avenue. She said he had left home shortly before 4 a. m. to take his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Wayne Crews and her young son uptown to catch a Detroit bus.

Crews was in good spirits at that time and said he would return home to shave before going to work at 6:30 a. m. When he didn't come back, Mrs. Crews supposed the bus was late and that her husband had gone directly to work. It was not until noon when he failed to come home for dinner that she began to suspicion that anything had happened.

City firemen this afternoon were dragging the Kankakee river at the foot of Schuyler avenue on the north side of the river in an effort to recover the body of J. C. Crews, 65, of 979 South Sixth avenue.

Just before noon Crew's automobile, an old model car with a rumble seat, was dragged from the river. There were no bodies within it.

Crews, who was in charge of the cattle on the farm of the Kankakee state hospital under Head Farmer Bert Russell, failed to report for duty this morning.

Door Found Open

When his car was dragged out of the water, the left hand door, the side of the driver, was open. The right hand door was shut and locked.

For a time it was feared that Crews' wife Edith had been in the car with him, since their friends on the state hospital staff said they were an affectionate couple and seldom apart.

Wife Is Ill

At noon, however, Mrs. Crews was found at home. Because of her ill health, she was not immediately informed of the tragedy that may have overtaken her husband and was not questioned as to her husband's movements last night.

At noon Coroner A. E. Kerger notified Mr. Russell that he would make every effort to recover the body from the river, if it is there. He asked firemen to continue dragging this afternoon.

Discovers Accident

The discovery that led to the recovery of the automobile was made this morning by Mrs. Walter Bouchard, 02 East River street, whose home is adjacent to the east to the Schuyler avenue park which the auto crossed to plunge into the river.

She noticed automobile tracks across the park from the River street curb line to the water edge and also noticed that a small tree had been knocked down by the passing automobile. She then saw oil bubbling to the water surface a short distance from the shore.

She notified police and the fire department and Fire Chief Roy Marquart sent out a squad of firemen and the department's rescue boat.

Firemen Called

Firemen Andrew Ostiglewski, Harry Holtz and Ray Riley, after numerous attempts with a grappling hook, finally fastened a cable to the car, which was then dragged out by two automobile wrecker cranes.

The firemen immediately began dragging again with smaller grappling hooks in an effort to recover the body, under the assumption that the driver leaped from the car as it struck the water, that the body floated out from the car through the open door, or that the body was dislodged from the car when the latter was being dragged out.

Crash at 1 a. m.

Mrs. Bouchard this morning told Deputy Coroner Edward P. Madison that she heard a crashing noise about 12 or 1 o'clock this morning but thought no more of it until she saw the track and the broken tree.

Mrs. Henry Beckman, who lives on the west side of Schuyler avenue at the intersection with River street, also said that she heard a crash about 1 o'clock this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Crews, until they moved to Kankakee when the former became an employe of the state hospital, resided at Effingham. They have two sons, one in Effingham and another in Detroit.

TO CALIFORNIA

Mr. and Mrs. A. Miller of Clifton are leaving for Stockton, Calif., this week for an extended visit.

BELGIUM WARNS SPAIN TO SEND BODY OF BARON

Embassy Secretary Allegedly Slain in Madrid.

ASKS INDEMNITY

Brussels, Jan. 8—(AP)—Belgium warned a sharp ultimatum on the Spanish Socialist government today, giving it 48 hours to deliver without military honors the body of Baron Jacques de Borchgrave, allegedly slain embassy secretary in Madrid, and submit apologies and pay an $8,000 indemnity.

If Spain fails to comply with the demands, it was indicated Belgium will sever diplomatic relations and possibly submit the case to the Hague international court.

Aroused Indignation

The death of the young diplomat, who was first secretary of the embassy, has aroused great indignation here where he was extremely popular.

A senate committee investigating the incident said Borchgrave, 25, was buried underneath nine of 20 stones from 1,000 yards north of Madrid.

The baron was said at the time to be ten miles from the front lines visiting wounded Belgians of the international brigade.

CAT CAUSED PANIC

Budapest, Hungary—(INS)—A cat caused a panic in the National Theatre during the first act of a Hungarian comedy. The cat appeared suddenly on the stage and shocked by the light and noise sprang on the leading lady. The actress screamed and dashed from the stage. The cat sprang into the first row of the audience. Everyone thought it was rabid and the police fled in panic. After a half hour's pause the show was resumed before empty front rows. The cat disappeared.

STACK SAYS STATEMENTS ARE UNTRUE

Editor, Republican-News,
Kankakee, Illinois.
Dear Sir:

The Kankakee Star carried an article in this week's issue regarding the discharge of former Deputy L. D. Jarvis from further connection with my office. Many statements in this article were untrue and falsehoods. May I have space in your paper to give the public the facts of the matter? These facts are as follows:

When I discharged Mr. Jarvis. I had no intention of giving the reasons to any paper. Not for any personal consideration but out of consideration for the discharged officer. I felt that even though he had proven disloyal to me and had slandered my name by making false statements to my friends and to the public and refused to execute the orders given him, even then, I felt if I were in his place I would appreciate such a favor from my former "boss." However, mis-statements continued to be circulated and when the Star printed a story at my office for a statement, I felt it only fair to tell the public that he was discharged for insubordination. The reporter then secured a statement from Mr. Jarvis and after reading it as stated in the paper, I decided to give the public the facts.

The Star states that "the discussed man hinted a fight for fight." To this statement I wish to say that if Mr. Jarvis really means that statement, that he has my heartiest approval. When questioned further by the reporter he stated "call the bar association." To that . . . I wish to say that I trust the reporter will do just that and not give up his efforts to contact it until they have given their statement to the paper.

I believe I have as many good friends in this honorable body as has Mr. Jarvis. Furthermore, truthfully speaking, there isn't one of its members whom I believe would say that John Stack hasn't always been fair and honest with them and they have always extended to me the same courtesy. As to Mr. Jarvis having the favored ear of former Governor Len Small; well-this is news to me; it was my understanding that he served as his chauffeur. As to Mr. Jarvis' hints at counter-charges; no one knows better than himself that he hasn't any to begin with. Furthermore, regarding the statement that he, Jarvis was an appointee of the local fiscal head; machine, I wish to state that he was not recommended to me for appointment by that organization. He came to me and pleaded with me to appoint him, that he was without work and in very poor circumstances. He helped in my campaign by whatever way he could and he told me that if I would appoint him that he would "cut off his right arm" if he ever did anything to discredit me either as a police officer or brought discredit by any act of his to my office or proved disloyal to me. Mr. Jarvis appeared very sincere at the time and, too, I pitied him. When elected, I appointed him to act as one of my deputies. Mr. Jarvis can tell you better than I just how faithfully he fulfilled his promises to me. Mr. Jarvis came to me unrecommended by any political organization and his actions within the office year made it impossible for me to retain him as a member of my force.

I trust that I have made the situation clear and that it will not be necessary to give the public another statement.

Maj.Gen.Abel Davis Dies; Long Illness

Chicago, Jan. 8—(UP)—Maj. Gen. Abel Davis, 64, chairman of the board of the Chicago Title and Trust company, died last night after a two-year illness.

Abel served in the Spanish-American war, Mexican border disturbances, and the world war, and was awarded the distinguished service cross and distinguished service medal.

He became a brigadier general in command of the 66th infantry brigade of the Illinois national guard after the war, resigned his command in 1920, and retired from the guard in 1935 as major general.

He also was active in civic affairs.

FIREMEN TWICE HUMILIATED

Preparing to return to Lorain, they found red tickets plastered on their automobiles for illegal parking.

Seek to Dissolve Codicil to Will

Watseka, Jan. 8—(RN Special)—Through Attorney Elmer E. Taylor, Edward Ashley Miller, by his next friend Edward Miller, and Mrs. Ramona May German have filed a bill to the circuit court to break the codicil to the will of their grandfather, Andrew J. Ashley.

Andrew Ashley died at Onarga on Jan. 23, 1936, leaving a will which nominated Charles Gray as executor and trustee of the farm land. Charles Gray and Nelson Gray were named defendants in the bill.

On Feb. 17 of last year a first codicil to the will was offered for probate.

The codicil made provision for a trust left to Edward Ashley Miller for his lifetime of property described as the east half of the northwest quarter of section 32, township 28, range 14 west.

It also left the home place described as the west half of lot 7, and the west half of lot 8, north-west quarter of section 4, township 25, range 14 west to Ramona May Garmon during her life to go to her children at her death.

They ask that the codicil be broken on grounds that the grandfather was not of sound mind when it was signed Jan. 30, 1933.

REGENTS STUDY CANDIDATES TO SUCCEED FRANK

Wisconsin U. President Ousted Late Yesterday.

STUDENTS IRKED

By WILLARD R. SMITH
United Press Staff Correspondent

Madison, Wis., Jan. 8—(UP)—The LaFollette-dominated board of regents today studied a list of four men whom it may name to succeed Glenn Frank, famed liberal-educator as president of the University of Wisconsin.

The list, guarded carefully by members of the board which dismissed Frank on mismanagement charges, was known to include three members of the university staff, Dean Lloyd K. Garrison of the law school, Dean Edwin B. Fred of the graduate school, and John M. Gaus, of the political science department.

The fourth name was reported variously as Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, and Robert Morss Lovett, retired professor of the same institution.

Acting President

George C. Bellery, white-haired dean of the university's largest college, letters and sciences, today stepped in as acting president in an atmosphere charged by charges and denials of political meddling and threats of a student strike.

A student protest against Frank's dismissal appeared to last only as leader to grow into a strike. Fraternity and dormitory leaders reported unanimously they would not sanction such a strike, but would make no move to interfere with one.

As Frank prepared to remove his books from his office and issue a final statement decrying this "anti-American and anti-educational procedure," Gov. Philip F. LaFollette called a press conference for 9:30 a. m. (est) to explain the "situation."

LaFollette was drawn into the matter despite persistent denials that he prompted the dismissal. He appointed the eight regents whose majority vote last night after a two-day hearing on mismanagement charges passed a resolution providing against renewal of Frank's contract when it expires July 1, and giving him a leave of absence effective today. He was accused by Frank himself of conferring before each regent meeting with regents Harold M. Wilkie and Claude Gates, whom he appointed to the board and who led the movement for Frank's dismissal.

Frank Comments

"It is an anti-American and an anti-educational procedure for two regents, Mrs. M. Wilkie and Mr. Gates to take control of a board like this and act in caucus with a political boss and then for three hour proceeding practically every meeting of this board," Frank said.

"It's a distinct compliment to be hated by a group like that," he added.

Frank, whose usual smiling suavity made him one of the most popular as well as the most respected men on the campus, was bitter as he left his office where the regents voted 6 to 7 for the dismissal resolution.

"The Gates' resolution is in perfect keeping with the deception behind the Stringer bill," he characterized the moves of the Wilkie forces from the start. "It is all in the climax of a determination and attitude I learned of the day the news of my election to the presidency broke in the New York papers."

Advised Against Job

He was advised against the job at that time by George Mendenhall, husband of Phil LaFollette, sister of the governor and Sen. Robert M. LaFollette, Frank said. He quoted Mendenhall as saying:

"That is not the family's wishes. There are no openings on the board likewise criticized his dismissal bitterly.

Daniel Grady, leader of the minority faction, commented with a quotation from Stevenson: "There is no hatred so bitter as the hatred of sa neriority."

Playwright Zona Gale Breese, member of the board which brought Frank to Wisconsin in 1925, said it can't believe this is Wisconsin.

Anne J. Jackson, University of Chicago professor and chairman of the committee of free speech of the American Association of University Professors, said: "This is the most extraordinary and partial proceeding I have seen in 40 years of academic education. I could imagine such a thing happening only in the early days of the Russian revolution by a committee of soldiers and peasants. It has happened here."

Wilke and Gates, weary after the two-day session, declined comment.

Accept Vote as Final

There appeared no doubt that Frank would accept the board's vote as final. The Wilkie group had a clear majority. Seven of its 15 members were appointed by LaFollette and the majority vote was cast by Wilkie, Gates, Robert W. Baker, Jr., Edward J. Brown, Claude Gates, Kenneth Hance, Antoine M. Miller, Raymond Richards, Mrs. Clara T. Runge, Harold M. Wilkie. Among the seven Frank supporters were three other LaFollette appointees, the Rev. R. B. Christopherson, Daniel H. Grady, and Gunnar Gundersen, state superintendent of Public Instruction John M. Callahan, and A. A. Bachen, Jr., Mrs. Alice Goode, and George W. Mead.

Frank's first move was to incorporate in a separate statement his defense against Wilkie's charges that he mismanaged university funds, failed to retain the confidence of university faculty members and legislators, and spent too much time on his own affairs.

The defense was made during a public hearing which 500 students invaded to box in execution of LaFollette's name and cheer for Frank.

"Trumped Up Charges"

After presenting figures to show the university had risen in enrollment and reputation under his administration, Frank protested "the hastily trumped up charges and details which every d true—and they are not—could not be answered to the satisfaction of a university."

Frank said three days after his election as president he was informed that "certain forces" wanted a "certain kind of administration." "The desire was for a Fascist type

Hopes Widening For Peace Parley in the Motor Crisis

By the Associated Press

New strikes and shutdowns in the automotive industry threatened to add more than 20,000 workmen today to the total of approximately 100,000 already made idle by the nation's industrial controversies.

A "sit down" strike developed at the Cadillac Motor Car company in Detroit, forcing the lay off of 4,800 men. This brought the number of jobless in the General Motors strike to about 57,000.

Production in the LaSalle division was suspended. The scheduled halting of operations in Chevrolet units at Flint, Saginaw and Bay City, Mich., pr mised to add 19,875 more to the unemployed.

Approximately 40,000 seamen were ashore in strikes against ship owners on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, with settlement out of sight.

At New York, more than 2,000 maritime workers voted to hit the strike on tankers, accepting a wage of $80 a month.

Fern Evette, president of sub district No. 9 of the United Mine Workers of America, announced a movement has been launched in the Franklin county, Illinois, coal field to boycott General Motors unless union recognition comes to auto workers.

Peace conferences in the General Motors situation brought no definite developments.

Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan, emerging from a meeting at Detroit, said conferees had a "definite objective" but declined to name it. Federal representatives, G. M. officials and members of the United Automobile Workers of America took part in meetings.

Police used a threat of tear gas and a demonstration of 500 union workers and sympathizers last night at the Flint, Mich., jail, where two union members were held incommunicado as a result of earlier disturbances at the Flint Chevrolet factory.

The factory was closed.

General Motors officials said 70,000 of its employes would be idle by nightfall.

Was Magazine Editor

After the hearing, Frank posed for news photographers who asked him to light his pipe. He complied smilingly and said: "Please note that the hand is steady."

Frank's last job before coming to the university was as editor of the magazine Century. He is well known as an author, and as a public speaker.

He has never admitted political ambitions, although he has been mentioned as a Republican candidate for president. There were rumors, too, that he might make use of his dismissal to enter politics, firstly as governor of Wisconsin, to succeed the 1938 election.

The board of regents will name his permanent successor after receiving recommendations of the executive committee at the regular meeting Jan. 20 and conferring with university faculty representatives.

Detroit, Jan. 8—(UP)—Automobile Workers of America called a "sit-down" strike today in General Motors' big Cadillac plant in an attempt to break a deadlock between the union and the $1,500,000,000 corporation.

Their action came at a time when Gov. Frank Murphy, aided by federal conciliators, prepared to resume conferences with both John L. Lewis, committee of 17 of the United Automobile Workers of America, and William S. Knudsen, executive vice president of General Motors, and planned to see union leaders later.

Fifty-one hundred men are employed in the Cadillac plant and when they struck the Cadillac plant only a cold, wet spring and a prosperity laced fight would prevent the 1937 grasshopper toll from exceeding the 16 to 18 million dollars of Illinois crop damage last summer.

Grasshoppers a Threaten Again in a Few Months

By PAUL D. SHOEMAKER
Associated Press Farm Editor

Chicago, Jan. 8—(AP)—Unless the two under the ground across the vast expanse of the farm belt there should be another big threat of another grasshopper horde which would descend during the summer.

How many of the billions of eggs deposited in the soil last fall by the pests will hatch depends, entomologists declare, upon the weather in May and June. If it is cool and wet many of the eggs will not hatch, but if it is warm and dry hatching conditions will be ideal.

Extremely cold weather apparently does not affect the eggs. Dr. Carl J. Drake, Iowa State entomologist, said that although the mid-west had its most severe winter in many years, and in some instances in the history of the state, the insects survived in as great numbers as in any year.

When the Flint engine plant and the Bay City carburetor factory close tonight, it will be only a short time, according to General Motors officials, when shut-downs will occur in every Chevrolet plant.

Murphy, dominant figure in the negotiations, refused to concede that an agreement was impossible.

Highlights of FDR Message on the Budget

Washington, Jan. 8—(AP)—Highlights of President Roosevelt's budget message:

The programs inaugurated during the last four years to combat the depression and to initiate many needed reforms have cost large sums of money, but the benefits obtained from them are far outweighing all their costs.

Although we must continue to spend substantial sums to provide work for those whom industry has not yet absorbed, the 1938 budget is in balance; and, except for debt reduction of $49,815,000, it will remain in balance. * * *

We expect, moreover, if improvement in economic conditions continues at the present rate, to be able to attain in 1939 a completely balanced budget. * * *

It is my conviction that if every employer or potential employer will undertake during the next six months to give employment to persons now receiving government help, the national budget can thereafter be kept definitely in balance.

* * * This government does not propose next year, any more than during the past four years, to allow American families to starve.

I propose shortly to submit to the congress a broad plan for placing the executive branch of the government of a sounder and more responsible basis of management.

I strongly recommend that congress enact during its present session the security legislation, to also establish the (civilian conservation) corps as a permanent agency of the government.

FDR Forecasts—

Roosevelt left unsaid $800,000,000 of additional funds would be needed to carry on work relief through June 30.

Including the estimated relief sum, expenditures during the fiscal period would aggregate $7,604,000,000—a drop of $764,000,000 under estimated outlays for the current fiscal year.

Mr. Roosevelt, citing generally improving business conditions, forecast next year's receipts at $7,393,000,000.

Thus, eliminating $401,815,000 of debt retirement from the expenditure total would result in a budget surplus for the first time since 1930.

The budget presented to congress no new governmental activities. It referred to a promised message on administrative reorganization which Mr. Roosevelt said "will undoubtedly involve the transfer of existing activities."

Extension of Taxes

To keep present revenue channels open, the executive recommended extension of a group of miscellaneous taxes scheduled to expire next June 30 next. He asked that taxes which automatically would be repealed next June be retained at current rates.

The projected increase in public debt from $35,460,163,000 today to $36,000,000,000 at six months' end is attributed in part to the request for a supplemental appropriation of $790,000,000 for work relief and activities of the resettlement administration. He pointed out that relief obligations to be created this year and paid next.

Included also was a request for $160,000,000 for the civilian conservation corps from March 31 to June 30. Funds also were provided for the CCC in 1938, and Mr. Roosevelt recommended that congress make the corps a permanent government agency.

Wilkie Funeral to Be Held Saturday

Funeral services for Mrs. Edith Wilkie, 40, of 441 West Hawking street will be conducted Saturday afternoon.

Private rites will take place at the Hickey funeral home at 1:30 o'clock followed by a public service at St. Paul Lutheran church a half hour later.

The Rev. Carl Haller, the pastor, will officiate. Burial will be in Memorial park.

She is survived by the widower Edward Lee; sons, Robert and Jack; sisters Miss Amanda Balthus and Mrs. Wm. G. Brandenburg, all of Kankakee.

Says Kankakee—

it made good reading." Repetition is necessary because the human mind forgets. The merchant must keep his customers remembering that they like his store, said Parks.

"All stores have personality. I have been in practically every town in Illinois and I have yet to see one with a more pleasing personality or one in which the people are more friendly, courteous and know how to smile than your own Kankakee.

Need to Expand

"What your merchants should work for is to step ahead of the present trading area, build up a list of thousands of people and personally invite them to come to Kankakee—not to buy anything, but just to visit. For with every thing else being equal, people will come and buy where they are invited," he concluded.

George Lueth introduced the speaker and W. F. Lockwood introduced the junior Rotarians for January—Eugene Vollmer of St. Patrick high and Robert Alexander of Kankakee high school. Maurice Inman was a guest.

Brief Local News

UNDERGOES OPERATION

Miss Jean Andrews of 829 South Evergreen avenue underwent an operation for appendicitis at St. Mary hospital Sunday. She is "doing nicely."

SON IS BORN

Mr. and Mrs. James Stevenson of St. Anne are parents of an 8 1-2 pound son born New Year morning. He has been named Kenneth Charles.

TWO CRASHES

Two automobile accidents occurred in the Riverview district last evening and this morning. At Lincoln and River streets Russell Johnson of Aroma Park and Elmer Spelgal, 209 South East avenue were driving machines which crashed on Thursday. At Duane and Elm streets today an Alexander Lumber company truck driven by H. V. Richard of 309 South Fraser avenue, West Kankakee, was involved in a crash with the auto of Louis Ashline of Sunnyside. No one was injured.

Germany to Sell Loyalists' Ships

Berlin, Jan. 8—(UP)—The government announced today that it will dispose of two Spanish freight ships owned by German warships in reprisal for the Spanish seizure of the German freighter Palos.

A communique said the ultimatum demanding release of part of the Palos' cargo and one Spanish passenger had been met without compliance by the Spanish government with its terms.

The communique did not state what disposal would be made of the vessels.

Disposition of the ships would be made, the communique stated, because an answer to the ultimatum presented three days ago by the admiral of the German fleet in Spanish waters had not arrived.

Reliable private quarters considered it probable that the two Spanish ships would be turned over to the rebel government of Gen. Francisco Franco, which the Germans consider the only legal government in Spain. The Franco government then would make a financial accounting.

Personal

Mrs. Josephine Baldwin of 318 South Chicago avenue is improving after being ill over the holidays.

Mrs. Horn of Clifton, was a shopper here Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Kempen and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Schroeder of Martinton were callers here yesterday.

Mrs. Charles Holmes of the Waldron road who is confined to St. Mary hospital for treatment is improving.

Fred Hefter spent yesterday in Chicago.

Jack Saffer returned today to Wells, Minn., after spending the holidays with her mother Mrs. J. J. Bott of 251 South Evergreen avenue.

It requires but 15 minutes for the army's photographer to take a picture, develop it in a darkroom aboard the ship, and drop it to the ground forces with a parachute attached.

Nine Men to Die in the Electric Chair; Sing Sing

Ossining, N. Y., Jan. 8—(AP)—Twenty men under death sentence remained today in Sing Sing prison's death house where the electric chair only a few hours before claimed the lives of two youthful slayers of a subway collector in a hold-up.

Nine of the condemned men are to be executed within the next two weeks, four next Thursday and five a week later, unless saved by executive clemency.

Theodore Distefano, 31, and Joseph Bologna, 24, two of six men convicted of shooting Edwin Epostio, 22-year-old Transit company employe when they robbed him of a sackful of coins totalling $240, were put to death last night.

Salvatore Scata, 19, whose confession prosecuting officials credited with making possible a solution of the crime, was saved when Governor Herbert H. Lehman, only a few hours before the time set for the execution, commuted the Hartford, Conn., youth's sentence to life imprisonment.

Earlier the governor had commuted the sentences of Jim Rimmel, 22, Dominick Zizzo, 27, and Eugene Bruno, 23.

the university?" he asked.

"There were 500 shouts of "yes"."

Governor LaFollette ignored the response.

While the governor spoke, his legal secretary was conferring with another group of students, who claimed the demonstrators did not represent the majority sentiment of the student body.

Police Called

Police were called today to eject demonstrating University of Wisconsin students, angry over the ousting of President Glenn Frank, when Governor Philip F. LaFollette's office and broke up a press conference he was holding.

The students marched from the university campus to the governor's office after they had been harangued by speakers, including a young woman, a lad and a professor, who cried:

"Are you going to stand by like a group of moral cowards?"

The students created so much disorder in the executive chambers Governor La Follette called upon the Madison police department for help. Six capitol policemen were unable to cope with the surging youths.

Receives Committee

Col. Charles Dow, white-haired secretary to the governor, was barricaded in his office to keep the students out.

Police Chief William McCormick arrived with a detail of 12 officers. With much shouting and commotion they cleared all of the demonstrators out of the ante-room and a committee of two was admitted to see the governor.

Hugh Lucas, Milwaukee, and John More, Clinton, were named as the committee.

The chief executive agreed after talking to them to address the students in the state assembly chamber.

The demonstration started between the 8 and 9 o'clock university classes with a shout from a group of sorority girls. "We want Frank."

Tour of Campus

In a few minutes 250 students started parading through Bascom hall, which houses the university administrative offices. They wildly mixed music hall and the law building, gathering recruits as they went along.

Strident orators helped swell the crowd and after they had made a complete tour of the campus, the leaders called for a march on Governor La Follette.

As the procession started from the campus the governor was holding a press conference to answer the charge he had dictated the action of his appointees on the board of regents who had just enough votes to dismiss Frank.

The students broke up the press conference. They swarmed into the executive offices and filled the ante-room off the governor's private suite. Loudly they shouted "we want Frank."

Those close enough pounded on the governor's door.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 8—(AP)—Two hundred University of Wisconsin students ran through Bascom hall on the campus today, shouting for the return of Dr. Glenn Frank, who was dismissed from the presidency last night by the controlling progressive bloc on the board of regents.

Young men and co-eds joined in a "snake dance" along the broad corridors of the old building which houses the university administrative offices and most of the lecture rooms of the college of letters and science.

Cries of "we want Prexy" rang from one building to another. The students invaded one classroom after another appealing to other students to join them.

Stage Demonstration

Dr. Frank, president of the school for the past 11 years, was discharged by an 8 to 7 vote of the board of regents after a stormy two-day open hearing by the board on charges that he was inefficient and shirked his duties.

Immediately after the vote was announced a group of students staged a demonstration in the main hearing room. They hooted and howled, overturned chairs and tables and broke a window. They subsided upon entrance of a detail of Madison policemen and then began circulating about the campus.

Throughout the night they visited fraternity houses, dormitories and sororities, urging all students to attend a demonstration in front of Bascom hall before classes today and then refuse to enter their class rooms.

Strike "Inevitable"

Miss Caryl Morse, girls' dormitory chairman at the Frank-ordered hearing earlier in the day had predicted that a strike was "inevitable" if Frank was discharged. She said votes had been taken in dormitories with the result in favor of a strike.

Bitter argument over Frank's qualifications as an administrator failed to shake the determination of Governor LaFollette's appointees on the board to seek a new president. The Progressive bloc, headed by Harold M. Wilkie, chairman, voted solidly against the retention of the educator.

The president was relieved of his duties effective today although the dismissal does not become official until the end of the school year. Dr. Frank was given a leave of absence with pay and Dean George C. Sellery of the college of letters and science named to act as president.

"Smoke Screen"

Of Dean Sellery, Dr. Frank said: "It is significant, that a 'family' created majority of regents appointed as acting president the man whom I was, in effect, ordered to discharge from the deanship as one of my first acts 11 years ago. It is obviously a smoke screen to hide from the public bald dictation of university procedure from political headquarters."

Governor LaFollette earlier in the hearing was accused by two of Frank's supporters of instigating the removal of Dr. Frank. The governor announced he would hold a press conference today to answer the charge.

Father Lambert is Buried Here Today

Last rites for the Rev. George J. Lambert, 62, of Aroma Park, former Kankakee priest, were held at St. Rose church this morning and the body was interred in St. Rose cemetery.

Honary pallbearers included Dr. M. E. White, Dr. D. J. O'Laughlin, A. E. Reagan, Will Aeschbet, E. J. Deslauriers and Hector LeBeau. The active pallbearers were parishioners from Pathen Lambert's parish, the Sacred Heart church at Aroma.

Both Sides Suffer Losses at Madrid

Madrid, Jan. 8—(UP)—Fighting desperately to prevent further insurgent advances, Loyalists artillery drew a curtain of steel around northwest Madrid today after an all-night battle in which both sides suffered heavy losses.

As details of the engagement came out of Madrid, the first word passed by censors since Sunday afternoon, it was reported that Remisa hill, in the woods between Pozuelo and Majadahonda, had been won and lost three times during the night's fighting.

Dawn found the strategic spot in the hands of the Loyalists who were preparing to launch a counter-attack on Majadahonda in an effort to dislodge the insurgent troops who have driven the government forces back to their second line of defense.

RATIFICATION OF AMENDMENT IS REQUESTED

FDR Asks States to Consider the Child Labor Question.

ITS PROVISIONS

By FREDERICK A. STORM
United Press White House Correspondent

Washington, Jan. 8—(UP)—President Roosevelt today appealed to the governors and governors-elect of 19 states to make ratification of the child labor amendment to the constitution a major item on the 1937 legislative programs.

Mr. Roosevelt sounded his appeal in letters which directed attention to the fact that governors in 19 more states would place in the constitution the amendment which empowers congress to limit, regulate and prohibit the labor of persons under 18. Twenty-four of the necessary 36 states already have ratified the change.

The chief executive pointed out that "nation-wide minimum standards are necessary and that a way should be found promptly to crystallize in legal safeguards public opinion in behalf of the elimination of child labor."

A Major Item

"Do you not agree with me that ratification of the child labor amendment by the remaining 13 states whose action is necessary to place it in the constitution is the obvious way to early achievement of our objective? I hope that you will find that this can be made one of the major items in the legislative program of your state this year."

The President addressed his communications to governors Clyde Tingley, New Mexico; Richard Kirman, Nevada; Olin D. Johnston, South Carolina; Herbert Lehman, New York; James V. Allred, Texas; R. E. Cochran, Nebraska; Harry W. Nice, Maryland; Wilbur L. Cross, Connecticut; Fred P. Cone, Florida; Governors Charles F. Hurley, Massachusetts; Clyde R. Holy, North Carolina; Clarence E. Quinn, Rhode Island; Leslie Jensen, South Dakota, and George D. Aiken, Vermont; Governors-elect Gordon Browning, Tennessee; Richard C. McMullin, Delaware; F. Rivers Lawson, Alabama; Lester A. Huxman, Kansas; Lloyd C. Stark, Missouri.

Mr. Roosevelt for years has waged a vigorous fight for the adoption of the amendment. As governor of New York he directed a like campaign. As the letters to the question several times but was unable to effect ratification.

Since entering the White House his interest in the subject has been intensified.

BURGLARS KNOCK OUT

New York, Jan. 8—(UP)—Burglars who cracked the safe of the New Netherlands Coin Co., took $20,000 worth of rare domestic silver and gold coins, but they passed up trays laden with foreign silver coins. Among the pieces stolen was the rare Oregon Beaver $10 gold piece, estimated to be worth about $1,800.

Embargo Measure Affecting Spain Signed at Capitol

Washington, Jan. 8—(AP)—A special resolution embargoing munitions shipments to Spain became law today with President Roosevelt's signature.

The measure was hurried to the White House and signed a few minutes after Vice Pres. Garner had signed it in the senate.

The resolution provides a $10,000 fine or five years imprisonment or both for violations of its terms.

"Except arms, ammunition or implements of war, on the list issued by the United States, or possessions of the United States, to Spain, or to any other country for reshipment or transshipment to Spain, for use of either of the opposing forces in Spain."

"Implements of war," are defined as all commodities listed by the president in his proclamation of April 10, 1936, forbidding munitions shipments for use in the Italo-Ethiopian conflict. Military and non-military planes and parts are listed as such commodities in the proclamation.

The embargo will continue until the president finds that the conditions described in the resolution has ceased to exist."

Customs collectors were notified immediately to enforce the new law.

The emergency measure was not enacted in time to stop the first arms shipment to Spain by Robert Cuse, Jersey City exporter, but it is believed to become law in time to head off a bigger shipment of $1,507,000 by Richard L. Dineley, of San Francisco.

Meanwhile, Mexico moved to resume its arms to the Spanish trade.

Ernesto Hidalgo, Mexico's acting secretary of state, said several days ago the last week caused his government to alter its policy prohibiting reshipments of United States arms to Spain.

Spanish Morocco Question Worries British Cabinet

By FREDERICK KUH
United Press Staff Correspondent

London, Jan. 8—(UP)—The British cabinet held an emergency session today in the midst of growing European tension over Spain, based on the question of German and Italian military aid and the alleged German pene ration of Spanish Morocco.

The latter question, has aroused France, fearful that if Germany gets a foothold in Morocco, France will be confronted in the Mediterranean by a powerful Fascist neighbor, with attendant disturbance of the delicate balance of power in the inland sea.

It was reported during the cabinet meeting that Britain and France may try to obtain from Italy many a promise to respect the integrity of Spanish Morocco and not attempt to make a deal with the rebels whereby it might become a new German colony.

Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin presided over the cabinet meeting. It was attended by Capt. Anthony Eden, foreign secretary; Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of the admiralty; Alfred Duff-Cooper, minister of war; Sir John Simon, home secretary, and other ministers.

The cabinet discussed the Italian and German replies to the Franco-British suggestion that the sending of "volunteer" recruits to Spain be halted.

The replies accepted the principle of halting the flow of volunteers, provided every other form of foreign aid is halted simultaneously. Doubt was expressed that such a halting effective could be accomplished, in view of the complicated negotiations involved.

A foreign office spokesman announced Britain adheres to its demand that measures to halt the flow of recruits shall have priority over all other forms of intervention, such as financial aid.

The spokesman made it known that despite Germany's proposal of both foreign fighters and foreign "agitators" already in Spain. The proposal was directed principally at Marcel Rooenberg, Soviet ambassador to the Spanish Valencia government.

Imminent concentrations of British, Italian and Mediterranean fleets and many French warships in the waters off Spain, as well as a further consideration of plans to send troops to the Franco-Spanish border, laid the groundwork for a possible arms and men blockade of the war-torn peninsula.

These new major developments kept the international picture chaotic.

1-Belgium indemnity and return of the body of Baron Jacques De Borchgrave, diplomat allegedly executed outside Madrid, in a 48-hour ultimatum to the Madrid-Valencia government, with possible severance of diplomatic relations as the alternative.

2-Germany, at the expiration of her 3-day ultimatum to the Spanish government, announced she was turning over two seized Spanish ships to the Franco insurgents.

The German demand for return of the cargo and passenger of a captured German freighter was ignored by Valencia.

Two Insurgent warships bombarded the Spanish towns of Port Bou and Culera, just south of the French border, sending 40 shells into the cities. Both warships flew Fascist flags. One was a cruiser similar in size to the Insurgent cruiser Canarias; the other was a destroyer.

Chinese Narcotic Peddler Executed

Peiping, Jan. 8—(UP)—Lu Ju-Hsin, 30, was executed by firing squad today in public ceremonies.

Lu was arrested last night as he left the Japanese quarter of the north gate of the city and was found to be carrying 60 ounces of narcotics. His death was ordered by Gen. Chang Chih-Chiang, chairman of the Hopeh-Chahar political council and leader of the campaign.

The execution squad near the municipal garbage dump, was preceded by a long procession through the city's streets in which Peiping residents were warned of the government's orders against the use or sale of habit-forming drugs.

Lu, shackled to a car, was dragged behind the procession with buglers sounding frequent calls. Police carried posters advertising the condemned dealer's crime.

Before a crowd of 10,000 persons, Lu was carried to the execution ground. Half frozen, he was forced to his knees in front of a soldier. An officer gave a cut command. The soldier placed his revolver at the back of Lu's head and fired a single shot into the victim's brain.

Then he picked up the body, threw it into the cart, and the procession again started—this time for potter's field for burial.

Confirmation of FDR Appointments Up to the Senate

Washington, Jan. 8—(UP)—Hundreds of nominations were sent to the senate today by President Roosevelt for confirmation.

All of the appointees now are serving under recess appointments. Their permanent nominations must be approved by the senate.

Heading the list were appointments of William Phillips of Massachusetts as ambassador to Italy; William C. Bullitt of Pennsylvania as ambassador to France, and Joseph E. Davies of the District of Columbia as envoy to the Soviets.

Others included foreign service appointments, selections to the "little cabinet," and to numerous emergency agencies, and army appointments.

Other appointments included:

Milburn L. Wilson of Montana to be undersecretary of agriculture succeeding Rexford Guy Tugwell, who resigned recently.

Harry L. Brown of Georgia, to succeed Wilson as assistant secretary of agriculture.

Justin Miller of North Carolina, as a member of the board of tax appeals.

Edwin S. Smith of Massachusetts and Donald Wakefield Smith of Pennsylvania, as members of the national relations board.

Fred H. Colleti of Washington, as a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank board.

John G. Winant of Massachusetts, reappointed as member of the Social Security board.

John M. Carmody of New York, as deputy administrator of the rural electrication administration.

Harrison R. Carpenter, of Colorado, as director of grazing.

Paul H. Nystrom of New York, as member of the federal board for vocational education succeeding Lincoln Filene, whose term expired.

Eugene S. Legatt of Michigan, to be acting executive director of the national emergency council, replacing Lyle T. Alverson.

To be state director, national emergency council:

Minnesota, Mrs. Anna Dickie Olsen.

The department of commerce is contemplating giving financial aid to Jon and Howard Funk, nationally known glider pilots of Akron, O., for development of their light, low cost two-passenger monoplane, safety features of which have impressed government engineers.

Great Britain and France Ask Quick Action in Spain

By the Associated Press

Spurred more than ever by authoritative reports of German and Moroccan activities threatening both the future of Gibraltar and a Spanish Mediterranean border, Great Britain and France drove ahead toward localizing Spain's war today.

They wanted direct action; a quick, practical plan to keep foreign arms and men from making the civil conflict into even more of a "little world war."

French officials announced emphatically they could never permit Germany to gain a foothold in Spanish Morocco, where thousands of Germans were reported to have conducted a virtual military and commercial invasion.

France and London, in earnest consultation, have heard that German-supervised fortifications are going up at Ceuta, to rival those of Gibraltar, 14 miles across the straits; that Germans have obtained from Spanish insurgent rulers of the Moroccan zone numerous concessions which will give the land-poor third Reich a colonial sedge.

The French officials, announcing that Britain was in full accord, said they would press for an immediate cessation of neutrality powers to stop foreign intervention in Spain, in the face of Italian-German-Portuguese insistence that international volunteers from going to war.

Difficulties lay ahead, however, in the matter of meeting the German and Italian suggestions for effective

Hungry Transient Injures a Sister For Refusing Food

Joliet, Ill., Jan. 8—(UP)—For years it has been the custom of Sister Mary Gertrude of St. Joseph hospital to feed hungry transients who come to the door twice each day.

But today, because of it, Sister Gertrude is unconscious and Sister Gertrude is unconscious and Sister Mary Agnes is under arrest charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

A raggedly-clothed man, pudgy and bearded, met Sister Gertrude at the door last night.

"I'm hungry, sister," he whined. "Can't you give me some food?"

Sister Gertrude would have liked to help him, but she said:

"Can't you come back in the morning," she asked. "We'll have something for you then."

The ragged man mumbled and shuffled away.

It was only a few minutes later that the sister went out on a glassed-in porch to complete an evening duty. There was a crash and a window broke. Sister Gertrude slumped to the floor, her head bleeding. A heavy brick tumbled down beside her.

Seconds later another brick crashed a window in the linen room. Glass showered Sister Martine.

They called police but whoever it was had gone.

Essential Facts of Budget Message

Washington, Jan. 8—(AP)—Essential facts of President Roosevelt's budget message:

The question of a balanced budget in the 1938 fiscal year was left "open," to be determined by the course of private business and by others persons now on relief rolls.

Mr. Roosevelt projected $1,537,123,000 relief outlay, spending would total $7,604,000,000. Eliminating from the $401,315,000 for debt retirement, the outlay would level up with anticipated revenues of $7,393,607,000.

A new $35,000,000,000 high in the public debt would be reached next June 30, an advance of $1,348,000,000 during the current year.

Expenditures for general government operations next year would rise $740,521,000, but if work relief were held to $1,537,123,000, outlays for "recovery and relief" would drop $963,003,000 under this year's estimates.

An estimate that receipts would increase $1,465,456,800 was based largely on an expected 41 per cent jump in income tax collections.

No new taxes were requested, but extension of so-called nuisance levies expiring in June and July was asked.

Congress was requested to provide additional funds if it expands government operations beyond the budget limits.

TRADITION CONTINUES

Paragould, Ark.—(INS)—Tradition started 100 years ago will be carried on here when Sam Thompson, 37, assumes his duties Jan. 1, 1937, as Greene county clerk. Thompson's great-grandfather, Lawrence Thompson, was 37 years old when he retired from the same office. The elder Thompson was born in 1799. The younger Thompson was born in 1899.

About to Abandon Idea of Shipping Planes to Mexico

Washington, Jan. 8—(UP)—The race of Spanish officials to get airplanes and arms into Mexico before leaders of General Francisco Franco's rebellion against the Spanish government sign an embargo preventing such action, dashed down to one-sided, that the Spanish effort is virtually ended.

Spanish Ambassador Felix Gordon Ordoz today said he had no hope plans from Mexico City to close a deal for planes, went shopping for personal effects this morning instead of doing business with the American airplane shipper, Richard L. Dineley.

A Spanish embassy spokesman, as a result, said he assumed that the time was too short to get planes into Mexico before the embargo becomes effective—probably at noon.

The first of three necessary signatures before the embargo becomes effective was affixed to the joint congressional resolution by Speaker of the House William B. Bankhead at 11:15 a. m. Vice President Garner and President Roosevelt signed the document before 9 in the morning.

The race to get arms for Spain out of the country before signing of the embargo reached a climax as it was learned that the entire subject of world peace and the possibility of a world arms conference is being given serious consideration by President Roosevelt.

Best information today was, however, that the president will delay any proposed disarmament conference overtures until after his inauguration.

2-Germany, at the expiration of her 3-day ultimatum to the Spanish government, announced she was turning over two seized Spanish ships to the Franco insurgents.

The German demand for return of the cargo and passenger of a captured German freighter was ignored by Valencia.

Two Insurgent warships bombarded the Spanish towns of Port Bou and Culera, just south of the French border, sending 40 shells into the cities. Both warships flew Fascist flags. One was a cruiser similar in size to the Insurgent cruiser Canarias; the other was a destroyer.

GIVES MATE KISS OF DEATH

Last caress of a tangled romance which ended in death is given by Mrs. Helen Wills Love, 31, in this farewell over the body of her husband, Harry Love, 45, whom she killed in a courtroom at his mother at a New Year eve dinner in Santa Monica, Calif. Mrs. Love, a secret bride since last March, said she killed her husband, wealthy stock broker, because his love for his mother was costing their marriage. A coroner's jury recommended she be held for trial.

Catherine Meyers of Gilman Dies

Gilman, Jan. 8—(RN Special)—Mrs. Catherine Meyers, 87, of Gilman, died at 1 o'clock this morning at the home of her son, Dr. Carl Meyers, in Chicago following an attack of several months.

The body will be returned to Gilman. Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the Zion Evangelical church by Rev. H. C. Buchmuller. Interment will be in Gilman cemetery.

Besides the son mentioned, she leaves another son in Chicago, Dr. Arthur Meyers, a daughter Mrs. Bertha Gast and son Edward of Gilman. Friends may call Saturday and Sunday at the latter's home.

NEW GOLD BRICK OFFER?

The hands-across-the-sea movement is beginning to come to life again. The Imperial Policy Group, an organization of some two score members of the British padlian-tion, announces that in March it will send over an unofficial mission to promote "a closer understanding between the United States and the British Empire."

This mission, it is announced, will try to do two things; Find out how American feels about a settlement of the British war debt, and try to promote co-operation between the two nations in case another war blows up.

The first part of the job should be very easy, and could be accomplished by a cub reporter on any London daily. The average American's reaction to the war debt is simply a feeling that he would like to see a little something paid on account, and he has made no secret of this attitude for some years.

The second part may be tougher. It is hard to escape the feeling that American co-operation would be just a little bit like the experience of a certain young shavetail. Fresh from West Point, the youth in question was assigned to a western cavalry regiment commanded by a colonel supposed to be the most hard-boiled officer in the entire army.

The shavetail bashfully presented his papers and, to his surprise, found the colonel unexpectedly affable. As he rose to go to his quarters, the colonel

"Yes," said the colonel, "but you will do most of the getting."

When Anglo-Americans have a feeling that it is America that will do most of the co-operating. This is a cold and cruel world and this country will remember that fall downstairs in 1917. A British mission which hopes to sell the idea of co-operation is going to have to demonstrate that it would be a two-way proposition.

Some five or six years ago, we had a secretary of state who was all for co-operation—Henry L. Stimson. The Japanese marched into Manchuria, and expected co-operation from London. Mr. Stimson adopted a firm attitude regarding the various treaties which were fractured by that march.

He came to a few weeks later to discover that London had left him away out on the end of a limb. His successors in office are not likely to forget that experience.

Friendship and harmony between the two great English-speaking nations is a beautiful ideal. Americans can hardly be blamed, however, if they look at the record of the last two decades and decide that an overseas offer of co-operation is apt to have a catch in it.

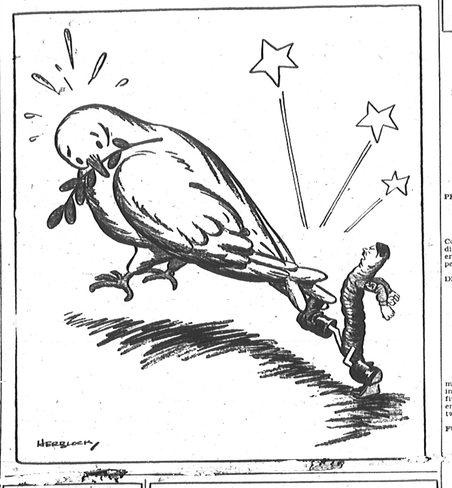
CULTURAL CAPITAL

Andrew Mellon, one of America's richest men, has never been noted as a philanthropist. His latest action, in offering his great art collection to the United States government, however, puts him in rank with the princely givers.

Since this is a commercial country in which all values are measured by dollars and cents, it is worth noting that competent judges have given Mr. Mellon's collection of paintings a value of something like $40,000,000. What is more to the point is that these paintings comprise a heritage of beauty and loveliness which, becoming the property of the nation, will be free to all.

The gallery to house this collection will be built in Washington. So far Washington has done little to become the nation's cultural capital. The new gallery should go far to bring it pre-eminence in that regard.

SOME DAY THE BIRD WILL TURN



Your Children

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

One of the greatest problems of the average mother is that of feeding her husband to his taste and at the same time putting simple fare on the table for the children.

Father comes home, tired and hungry, having had a snatch lunch perhaps, and a hurried breakfast. The one meal of the day that he enjoys is his dinner, and he wants it to be good. He has a right to this. Even though gravy is not good for his gall bladder or pie for his stomach, still and all, that's his business.

MOTHER'S DILEMMA

We are speaking of contentment here, not of diets and what not. If he wants to take his chances on a headache, that is something between himself and his doctor. If he is reasonably well, and most people are, you know, then it does seem too bad for him to be set down to grab sandwiches, crackers, just because the kids have to have them.

Mother tries to give the babies an earlier supper, with cereal, fruit and an egg, but the first thing you know, Papa says he is tired of coming home every night after the fry are in bed. So that is changed. And then the children are sleeping at the same time, the result is that the youngsters sit at the feast with their mouths full and yell, "I want some of that." And it's all off. Mother tries to compromise between Daddy's appetite and the nursery hour which says "light supper" for all young children.

You can't keep them from gobbling all the goodies, once allowed at the big table. They insist on things at gratin, on Thousand Island dressing and hard sauce. And they wake up with furry tongues, not-so-fairy dispositions the next morning, and a tummy ache in the bargain. All because no one has the will power to deny them. Maybe the delectables are fairly innocent, and consisting of a beef steak and mashed potatoes are on the menu. But, if the children are very small, the mother's heavy meal will interfere with sleep and general health.

DENIAL WON'T HURT THEM

What is to be done, then, when Tommy and Tiny and Tagalong all pop down to the evening table, eyes with rich dishes to gladden Dad's heart? Well, all children must learn that he cannot have all the things to eat, to do, to see or to experience that their elders have.

It is not easy to prepare two sets of dinners, supper to youngsters but—if their father insists on having them with him as well as his favorite dishes, then it will be necessary to join the family table. Or, if Tommy is an ace, maybe Daddy will be satisfied to have him alone, and Tiny and Tag can be shooed away early, after their cereal and soup. As sher come up on the doorframe, to Tommy's delight, they too may be allowed to join the dinner circle. But whichever way you decide to work out the problem, it is still best to wash up over bedtime meals.

BLIND MAN REPAIRS SHIRTS

Cleveland, Jan. 8.—(UP)—Paul Hahn, a victim of the loss of sight, is mad. Worrying about whether he could afford a new shirt he devised ways of reclaiming old ones. Now he's in business for himself. He replaces cuffs and collars and reconditions old shirts, etc.

Chesman frying boats are to be 10 regular ferry runs between North Adams' most summer, as a result of the closing of a cemetery that interposed America's air line.

Happenings In New York

By GEORGE ROSS

New York, Jan. 8.—Nothing flattering about the female of the species is revealed in Clare Boothe's new play, "The Women," that Max Gordon brought to Broadway.

On the contrary, the fashionable authoress has dug feline claws deeply into the members of her sex, showing them up as two-timing, treacherous, gold-digging, unremorseful and lewd creatures, unworthy of the innocent male. Of whom, by the way, there are no signs, for Miss Boothe has carefully omitted men from the cast.

Instead, she takes us to peep behind the scenes of milady's exclusive cloisters, the bridge club, the beauty salon, the dress shop, the lying-in hospital, the ostentatious bathroom and the powder lounge of an elegant night club—and in all these hallowed grounds, shows us the women at their nefarious plots and counter-plots against Homo Sapiens. She spares none of the thirty-eight females who inhabit the stage except one, and that one is a child, too young to have learned the skilful business of banditry from her elders.

Nor are the ladies in "The Women" concerned about much except checkmating their men; and most of the story concerns a group of homewreckers who are surprised that one of their kind should still be in love with her husband. They do what they can to remedy such a disgrace. It is a situation, by their malicious gossip and slanderous rumor.

Naturally, women who make matrimonial mixups a lifetime's occupation must be fashionably beautiful and they must move in the most luxurious surroundings. So Max Gordon has set the stage with opulent fixtures and the ladies wear the latest stylish and most expensive clothing. And the acting is superb, for Margalo Gillmore, Ilka Chase, Phyllis Povah, Betty Lawford, Audrey Christie and Margaret Douglass seem to be taking poisonous pleasure in reflecting the behaviour of their feline sisters.

"The Women," in its venomous way, lets in a good many cats and leaves the rats of human kindness out on the doorstep.

Two other recent arrivals on Broadway are Gilbert Miller's production of "Premise," which comes here from Paris, and Martin Flavin's play, "Around the Corner," which is described as "An American play for the American people."

In his usual meticulous fashion, Miller has provided "Premise" with some of the most polished acting to be seen on Broadway this season and the play serves to introduce the famed English actor, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, to American audiences. As well as Jean Forbes-Robertson, daughter of the great British player, John Forbes-Robertson. But Miss Forbes-Robertson has carefully omitted men from the cast.

Instead, she takes us to peep behind the scenes of milady's exclusive cloisters, the bridge club, the beauty salon, the dress shop, the lying-in hospital, the ostentatious bathroom and the powder lounge of an elegant night club—and in all these hallowed grounds, shows us the women at their nefarious plots and counter-plots against Homo Sapiens. She spares none of the thirty-eight females who inhabit the stage except one, and that one is a child, too young to have learned the fine

CHAPTER III

There was an invitation addressed to Janet Fair. Tommy Blaine, young head of the Hometown Chamber of Commerce, wrote the address with an unsteady hand. Nobody suspected that Tommy Blaine, shrewd young business man, was at heart a romantic. And that he could never see the name of Janet Fair without tender memories that he hoped would reach her.

It reached her.

Janet Fair was sitting in the living room of a small apartment, talking to a woman named Simms when it arrived. Mrs. Simms was not a nice woman. Between the two were spread a dozen gowns, satiny and fur-trimmed and expensive looking, in various stages of completion.

Janet Fair was slim and dark and lovely, with a look of fragile delicacy that comes from hunger and fatigue. Mrs. Simms was large and florid and hearty, with a look of prosperity that comes from overeating and lack of exercise.

Janet Fair was sewing on a spangled evening wrap. Mrs. Simms was pinning a hem.

"Stand still, can't you?" she said irritably. "Oh, I'm sorry I stuck you with a pin, but you're so fidgety. Now, about that bill—"

"I'll pay you next week, Mrs. Simms," said Janet Fair. "I've had a lot of expenses lately, and I'm a little short."

"Short!" said Mrs. Simms. "I should say you are short. Short of money, short of manners, short of—"

"Please," said Janet Fair, "please don't say any more. I'll pay you next week, I promise you I will."

"Next week, next month, next year," said Mrs. Simms. "I'm sick and tired of your excuses. I've got my own bills to pay. I'm not a rich woman. I'm a dressmaker, and I've got to live by my work. I've got to have my money.

The HOLIDAY MYSTERY

CHAPTER XXI

That night at dinner there was another vacant place at the table. It was Betty this time who was missing. Angelyne told of the conversation she had had with Betty earlier in the day, adding that the other girl had gone to lie down, which was weirdly true. At the very moment she said this Betty was dying, a helpless prisoner, in one of the small rooms near the underground kiva. Angelique's revenge was complete. She could afford to seem extremely anxious about Betty's disappearance now.

Bob ate in silence and when the meal was finished followed Pearl, John and Ramon into the library, his determined expression on his face.

"Which of you knows where she is? he demanded.

Pearl John lighted a cigaret before answering coolly, "Now keep your shirt on, Bob. No use talking like that. There are only the three of us left and we've got to see this thing through together."

"That's all right to say, de Forest," snapped Bob, "but I've had all I can stand of murder and mysterious disappearances. It's a cinch Angelique is out of this. She couldn't have had anything to do with it. The professor's not even able to speak, so it simmers down to the three of us—and possibly the vanished Indian. You, de Forest, knowing all the ins and outs of this cursed place, naturally have the inside track when it comes to getting rid of people—"

"You're insinuating that I know where Betty is?" asked Pearl John, his cheeks darkening.

"I'm not insinuating at all. I'm saying it straight out," Bob sternly. "One of you must know where she is, and by Heaven, I'm going to get it out of you, if I have to—"

Ramon broke in with a flash of his hands clinched, "Just who set you up as a judge of either of us, Carbonay?" he rasped. "Has it occurred to you that more than one person

[illegible] about this? You've been very much interested in Betty, Sverenger, yourself."

For a moment Bob did not answer; then he said slowly, "Yes, I have been—more than interested. That's why I'm going to tear this place to pieces, if necessary, to find her. Both of you appreciated her beauty and charm, too. I noticed. Especially de Forest. Isn't that true, Pearl John? He looked at her quite—hungrily."

"If it was true, why should I want to walk off with her?" was the reply.

Bob took a turn about the room, then halted. "I don't think any of the things happen that have happened since you came here," he demanded, "tell me that". Without waiting for the other to answer, he went on, addressing his own question, "It's because you've planned to bring into your own hands here, and have used us as tools, that's why. The better for your purpose. That's why my car couldn't be started, why the phone's been sent to the proper officers. Why Pearl's friends were kept from messing into their family feud."

With a smothered oath, Pearl John picked up a chair, but Ramon gripped his arm. "Not so fast now. I've got a few tips to pass on to you, too, myself, first. Just where do you suppose the Indian had a—den?"

Ramon's black eyes flashed. "And what makes you so sure Angelique knows where Betty is being held, child? Has she been practicing charms on you, too? Perhaps it was the Indian? How do you know he's really dead—disappeared?"

It was this last thought that struck Bob the hardest. Suddenly a man one hand across his eyes and stood, bowing at the others, with despair on his face. "I've got to find her," he said. "I've got to! He turned to Ramon. "What do you mean about Angelique?" he asked.

"Nothing—except that since she seems to be able to wrap any man on the place about her pretty finger, it isn't beyond belief that she may know more about affairs here than she is letting on!"

Pearl ask hurt, Pearl John decided suddenly and went in search of Betty. She was not in her room, waiting.

A short time Pearl John opened the door for Angelique and she came into the room, giving him a quick glance at each of the men. "What's up?" she asked.

Bob walked over to her. "Are you sure you don't know where Betty is?" he asked, point blank.

"I suppose you think I carried her away or something!" she answered sarcastically.

"I didn't say so," he told her, "I asked if you knew where she is."

For a moment only the crackle of the fire was heard in the room. Then the girl's lovely eyes slowly filled with tears. "How should I know?" she said low. "How did I know that I won't be the next one to get a note asking me to go to it over come to this terrible place? I'm the one who has cause for fear, someone will grab me, or the inhabited of these ghastly rooms. She collapsed in a chair, burying her head in a cushion. "Oh, please, Ramon, take me away!" she begged. "I can't work here any more."

Bob turned furiously on the other man. "I knew did it with you! If you two find any pleasure in torturing a girl, I'm through."

He helped Angelique to her feet and led her to the door. "Forgive me, Angelique," he begged. "And do not to be afraid. We'll get out of here, somehow. Mr. Sverenger, Mr. Ramon, take me away!" She [illegible] door behind her, and came back to the others.

"I hope that satisfies you," he said. "The next thing, one of you will be saying that the girls pushed herself through the door. No—a man or men did all of the things that have happened around here, and I still think you both know more than you're willing to admit."

"So that's it!" sneered Ramon. "You, a perfect stranger to both of us, have the nerve to accuse us of crimes that you yourself are most certainly guilty. I forget that neither of us ever laid eyes on you right we picked you up on the road and brought you here. Do you know that you didn't stage the trouble with your car just to get here?"

For a moment Bob saw red. The other man's taunting face was only inches from him, and he struck a driving blow straight into that sneer. Ramon grabbed back against a chair that overturned with a thud. Pearl John picked himself up, his arms from behind and, after a few desperate tussle, the two men were securely held. Snatching a long piece of cord that hung near, Bob bound Ramon's wrists. Another piece of cord and the next minute Bob was being carried to his room where he was locked in. Then he set to work to find a cold wind blowing across his face and when he opened the window a section came that he was no longer a prisoner. He could move his hands and feet, slowly he sat up and, as he did so, the severed cords dropped to the floor. Someone had come in through the window and severed the cords—today—smoothly, serious. But who? Bob did not dare to think the question long, but got to his feet and tried to think what he must do next.

If he could escape from the house there might be a chance that he would meet up with someone on the road down the canyon who could help him. It was foolish to risk another encounter with de Forest and Ramon.

He was positive now that Pearl John was far from being the amiable host he had seemed, and it was not beyond possibility that Ramon Vasquez was, in some way, connected with the de Forest tragedies. But Betty—was the object Bob was really concerned about. If he could find her now! Oh! He gladly leave Thunder Mesa to anyone else cared to have it. He shook his head to rid it of the thought of being buried in the sand—dashed cold water over his head until the blood came tingling to the skin.

Now he felt more fit to try to get through that open window and fight his way, if necessary, to the canyon where he knew he could lend a hand. Putting on a warm coat and shoes he carefully lowered himself to the patio outside, being careful that no one should see him. Then he edged away from the house in the darkness and started toward the road that led down the canyon.

BEGGARS DISPERSED

Budapest — (INS) — A mass meeting of over 2,000 beggars was dispersed with swords by the gendarmerie. The beggars protested against a new decree forbidding begging. Begging is considered a profession and the police was requested to send gifts to the beggars' relief office, which will distribute them after a rigorous "means test." The number of beggars in Budapest is estimated at 25,000. They regard the new system as anti-social because they fear the city will give them much less than they "harvest" when begging was permitted.

RESUME BIG TEN BASKET BATTLES SATURDAY NIGHT

SOUND CALL FOR OLDSTERS! H. M. HAS YOUTH KEY

By HENRY McLEMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

St. Augustine, Fla., Jan. 8.—(U.P.)—I am in this city, the oldest in the United States, on a mission: a mission which, if it succeeds, will restore to American sport those glamorous gridirons of the 1920-1930 decade the most common in athletic history.

There is a fountain in St. Augustine, and it flows by day and by night. Legend has it that this fountain is for our discovered by Juan Ponce De Leon in his search for eternal youth. Some of its waters, says the legend, and a man will gain and retain eternal youth—with his strength, and dice, his hopes, and fires.

I am here to get those waters. Not for myself, for in my business I am not particularly anxious to have the years lifted off and piled away from my shoulders. But my son and oh my friends, if it were I would bring here to drink their fill, those athletes whose passing left America's sport without color, without the color, that makes the games we play worthwhile.

Would Signal the Babe

I want Babe Ruth to lay down a golf club and hurry here. I want him to plop his big fat belly down on the fountain's rim and gulp and gulp. Because I want to see Babe Ruth a fellow, the one and only George Herman Ruth, say up to that plate once more and shake that big yellow bat of his. I want to see Red Grange of Chicago, answer his hecklers by pointing that index finger and then with the count two and three, knock the ball over the fence. I want to see him strike out, for George Herman was every man who ever struck out. I want to see some of his successors act likewise.

I want Bobby Jones to brush aside his golf game and come back to the Dixie Flyer to St. Augustine, and on his way pick up Walter Hagen. I want these fellows—Robert the robot and Hag the Jolly—here to drink two dipperfull and once more roll in those curling puts and nail those 300 yard drives flat. I want to see Bobby, Dorgan and Hagen and Sarazen with a brace of bruins, and Hagen declaratively hook into the water. I want to see a chance to fade it round the palm trees and then straighten out and leave the Cardinals one of their most satisfactory rivalries.

Pancho Paul Junior, Lenglen, Mr. outpointed Charley Gordon, Newport, Vt., (10), (weights unavailable).

Work is progressing rapidly on the new German dirigible, the LZ-129 and the "skin" soon will be applied to the framework. This ship will be slightly larger than the Hindenburg.

AND IT HURT!

Knocked out by Joe Louis, Al Ettore nevertheless effectively squelched Indian Honey Boy Smith's claim to fame as the only Detroit flash when he won a decision in a furious fight at Philadelphia. Here is a glimpse of the close-in mayhem that brought Ettore victory.

Akrons, Who Play Here Tomorrow, Whip Bendix Five

Tomorrow night Gallagher school quintet will tackle the pace-setting Akron Firestones in the armory at 8:15 o'clock. The Akron team moved up to 9-15 so local business men can see the largest basketball team in the world in action. Every man on the team receives a uniform and letter, except one.

The Akrons are undefeated and boast of victories over such teams as the Chicago Americans, the Kankakee Eastmans' cedaks, Joffalo Bisons (Buffalo) and the Akron Goodyear Hyde of Philadelphia, Dayton London Bobbos, and have twice beaten Kenzo A. C. of Indianapolis. On Jan. 3 they defeated the Akron Goodyear 31 to 30 and have defeated the highly-touted Bendix five of Akron. The Bendix five which Les Tammen is a member, by a score of 41-25.

Coach Ray Meyer has been recognized as the leading contender for world basketball honors by Ned Irish, Madison Square Garden boss.

"Roosevelt" is the name chosen for a cub born at a lion farm at Fort Lauderdale.

St Anne, Manteno Cage Foes Tonight in Bitter Battle

The Cardinals of St. Anne face a busy basketball assignment during the week-end. Their school has been up considerably since the improved showing in the holiday tournament, and fans are anticipating good games in the next scheduled encounters.

Tonight the boys go to Manteno to meet the team that defeated them by one point in the holiday meet. Saturday night at the St. Anne gym Bloom of Chicago Heights plays Oliver's team, the team that defeated the last five years.

In nine games played since 1931, Bloom enjoys a one game advantage. The boys from Bloom are rough this year, due principally to the young twins they raise in Chicago Heights but the Oliver team is conceded nothing until the game is over.

On Thursday of next week another game will see St. Anne and Peotone mixing it up. The Cardinals have been playing Peotone only since 1934, but during that time have given the Cardinals one of their most satisfactory rivalries.

UNION HILL

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schott and son Wayne were Sunday visitors at the home of her mother Mrs. Mary Guest of Reddick.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Beaulieu and his father Edward Beaulieu motored to Chicago on Sunday. The latter remained in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas LaPlante and son Tommy of Peoria spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Beaulieu.

Mrs. Schneider will entertain next.

East and West Club Meets Thursday

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Broseau of 332 South Fifth avenue were host and hostess to the East and West club Thursday evening.

At cards the honors were accorded to Mr. and Mrs. Broseau and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Deslauriers. Refreshments were served and the next meeting will be with Mrs. Schneider.

Christian Church Service

The minister, the Rev. John F. Norman of the Central Christian church, who has been ill with influenza, will preach Sunday morning on a "A Personal Confession of Faith." The choir will sing "The Lord Bless You and Keep You" by Stainer.

A social hour with a pot luck lunch for all young people of the church and their friends will be held at 5:30 o'clock Sunday. The social committee, of which Ivan Bauman will have charge. Ira Langston, field representative of the church, will be a guest of honor. He will speak at the 6:30 young people's service and will speak on religious education at the evening service. All church members and friends are invited.

Mrs. Mayberry Entertains Club

The Semper Fidelis club met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. J. F. Mayberry at her home on Locust avenue.

At 500 the honors were accorded to Mrs. Arthur Wesselhoft, Mrs. Harvey Gleason and Mrs. Charles Pontious. Refreshments were served and the club adjourned to meet in two weeks with Mrs. Elmer Palmateer of 515 South Evergreen avenue.

BEGGARS DISPERSED

Budapest — (INS) — A mass meeting of over 2,000 beggars was dispersed with swords by the gendarmerie. The beggars protested against a new decree forbidding begging. Begging is considered a profession and the police was requested to send gifts to the beggars' relief office, which will distribute them after a rigorous "means test." The number of beggars in Budapest is estimated at 25,000. They regard the new system as anti-social because they fear the city will give them much less than they "harvest" when begging was permitted.

STORIES IN STAMPS — By I. S. Klein

"FATHER of U. S. NAVY."

IRISH-BORN John Barry was 15, in 1760, when he went to sea. It was natural for him, therefore, to lead the small, unorganized naval force of the colonies, when the revolution broke out in 1776. He commanded the first naval vessel owned by the United States and made the first capture of an English ship.

In 1781, on his return from an errand to France, he encountered two British ships, and the ensuing battle was so intense that detail seemed confusing. Barry was wounded, the colors were shot down, all guns except one were disabled. But Barry refused to surrender. Manning the lone cannon, suffering from the wounds he fought hard until the enemy ships ran up white flags.

After the war, Congress authorized construction of a navy fleet, and Barry was put in command. He led this nucleus of the American navy in raids against pirates and armed vessels of France. He died, in 1803, aged 58.

His portrait appears, with that of John Paul Jones, on the new one-cent Navy stamp.

HAND PICKED AUTOMOBILES
WE MEAN JUST THAT!
HAND PICKED—We don't buy out a distressed dealer's complete stock because in so doing we would get lots of undesirable merchandise that we would have to pass on to our customers. And let us say just now while there is talk and rising commodity prices is the time to buy. They will be higher next spring. This week past we have had exceptional luck in finding the most beautiful selection of Sport Coupes, Coaches, Sedans of vintage—all Plymouths and Chevrolets—with the exception of two Dodges and one 1936 Pontiac. All with trunks built in—not put on—and several with

STRIKE

'35 and '36

Radios and Heaters

And you can buy these cars just as cheap as the nine-run automobiles offered by other dealers. And let us remind you that when you pick a car from—as it is backed not only with our 30 Day Unconditional Guarantee but also our years of experience of selecting good automobiles for our public.

When You Visit

our show room you won't find any high pressure salesmanagers to horse trade you into something you don't want but trained automobile men who help you analyze your needs. That's why one friend tells another and our chain of satisfied customers carries on. Pay us a visit and you, too, will join our family of satisfied customers.

CENTRAL PART OF THE STATE IS ICE-BOUND

Storm Cripples All Traffic and Electrical Service.

MINERS TRAPPED

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 8—(UP)—Warm breezes today erased tons of ice deposited over central Illinois yesterday by a heavy rain which froze as quickly as it fell. The storm crippled traffic and electric service over a wide area.

Nearly 1,000 miners were trapped in mines in Springfield when the electric current which lifts elevators and provides light and ventilation was shut off due to broken wires and light poles.

In mine A, owned by the Central Illinois Coal Mining Co., 200 men remained underground for nearly seven hours past their usual quitting time because the elevator couldn't lift them to the surface.

The men were not in danger however, because an auxiliary power unit provided light and ventilation. They finally made their exit from the mine about midnight last night, climbing a spiral stairway which forms an escape shaft for adjourning mine B owned by Carl Elshoff.

At the Peabody Coal Co. woodside mine, 325 miners walked to safety through an escape shaft after the current had been broken. At the same company's Peerless and two Panther Creek Coal Co., mines, miners were brought to the surface without difficulty.

The marooned diggers in mine A whiled away the hours playing cards by candlelight and taking an occasional drink to ward off dampness. Told that it was raining and sleeting the men chose to remain in the mine rather than use an escape shaft which would take them into open country.

Climb Spiral Stairway

Finally after a seven hours wait they accepted suggestion that they walk through entries to the adjoining mine B and come to the surface by way of spiral stairway which paralleled the digging's elevator shaft, also crippled by the storm.

They made their way underground by aid of flashlights and bug lamps which they wear in the front of their caps and about two hours later they had reached the surface. They were bundled into special buses and returned to their own mine where they washed and dressed.

Until all had reached the top, some anxiety was felt for the safety of the men, despite assurances of mine officials. They traveled through the underground passages directed by underground bosses, in orderly fashion and in good spirits.

The entrapment in mine B was of short duration. The power failing the men waited a short time and then followed instructions to come up by the spiral stairway. Both mine A and mine B are worked by the Progressive Miners of America.

At the Peabody Woodside mine the men came out with little delay. As the power went off the diggers were told to use an escape shaft at the rear of the mine. Fresh air was pumped in and they walked to the shaft, climbed a slope and emerged into open air.

Traffic Paralyzed

The heavy coating of ice paralyzed street car and electric interurban traffic throughout this section, resulting in all such service being halted for a number of hours. All airplane service through this area also was halted.

On the steam railroad lines trains were able to get through but far behind regular schedules due to the fact that telephone and light poles which had broken under the weight of the ice blocked the tracks.

Streets and highways were strewn with branches of trees which broke under the strain of an ever-increasing load of ice on their branches. Highway maintenance men were called into action to keep the roads open.

The ice continued to form until an early hour today when shifting breezes sent the thermometer mounting well above the freezing point with the result that the ice disappeared much more rapidly than it was collected.

Two explosions followed by fire destroyed a warehouse of the M. J. Kellner Brokerage Co., early today. Firemen expressed the opinion that the explosions were caused by short circuited electric systems.

Motorists Warned

The state division of highways last night warned motorists not to attempt to travel on highways because ice formations made the pavement treacherous.

The ice extended to cities in all directions from Springfield, Lincoln, Havana, Taylorville, Litchfield, Decatur, Jacksonville and a number of other points all reported damage due to the heavy rain and ice.

Many of the cities were temporarily isolated from outside contact due to the fact that telephone wires leading into them had been broken by the ice. Some were darkened when electric wires also snapped under the heavy coating of ice.

PEAK POPULATION NEAR

State College, Pa., Jan. 8—(UP)—The nation's population will reach its peak in 1950 and will be between 135,000,000 ad 140,000,000. The prediction was made by Dr. Oliver E. Baker, senior agricultural economist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, in a talk at Pennsylvania State college.

PET FOX LIKES HOME

Stockton, Me., Jan. 8—(UP)—Marion Colson has an affectionate fox for her pet. During the three years the fox has lived at Marion's home it has run away four times. It only stays a few days, however. Marion believes her pet misses the banana and candy she feeds it, so returns.

PIE ORDER OVER-FILLED

Greenwich, Conn., Jan. 8—(UP)—Two gasoline station attendants, Jack Crowley and Henry Drinkwater, ordered one apple pie at 45 cents. The salesman got the order mixed and the two amazed customers received 45 pies. After a few hours of telephoning they managed to send them to friends.

Vatican Spokesman Says Pope Better

Vatican City, Jan. 8—(UP)—Pope Pius, during a restful night, maintained the improvement noted in his condition during the last 48 hours, a Vatican spokesman said today.

His spirits better since the pain in his legs has subsided, the pope in the late afternoon after his audiences and when his secretaries have finished reading to him, enjoys telling members of his household anecdotes of his boyhood and his early career, it was said.

Prof. Aminta Milani, the Vatican physician, maintains his vigilance in fear that there might be complications in the pope's illness, or a weakening of the heart. Prof. Milani continues to visit his patient three times a day. He sleeps at home, in Rome, but leaves an assistant on duty all night in the Vatican.

The pope conferred at length this morning with Cardinal Pacelli, his secretary of state.

SANCTIONS BRED INVENTION

Turin, Italy—(INS)—A cash register which gives correct change, a watch which shuts off gas on the kitchen range, a gear shift for bicycles, an anti-skid horse shoe, a cellophane sound track, are among the inventions exhibited at the Industrial Show here. All the devices were made during the period of sanctions against Italy.

London, Jan. 8—(UP)—Edwin Moll, of Highburg, was fined $10 at North London Police Court for stowing away on a train. Police said Moll grasped the tail light of a train and rode in that position from Highburg to Camden Town to attend a hockey match.
