ST. ANNE TILE PLANT PLANS BIG EXPANSION

Install Machinery
to Manufacture
Face Brick.

BUSINESS GOOD

Foreseeing an increased demand for brick in a sustained residential home construction program during the next several years, the Eastern Illinois Clay company of St. Anne is contemplating the expansion of its present tile plant to include the manufacture of face brick.

Louis Meyers, one of five brothers active in the operation of the plant, located at the south edge of the village of St. Anne, told a Republican-News reporter yesterday that plans are still only in the formative stage and that much experimental work must be done and favorable rates must be obtained before the company decides definitely to enter the field.

It was indicated, however, that the outlook is favorable. If tests show this product can be profitably manufactured here, the St. Anne plant will have a marketing advantage in being close to Chicago. This is partially offset, however, because of the necessity for shipping in shale, the raw material needed in the making of bricks.

To Alter Plant
Mr. Meyers said that orders had been placed for considerable machinery and equipment and that an engineer would come this week to consult with the firm regarding proposed alterations in one of their two main buildings.

The Eastern Illinois Clay company has been operating steadily since last March with a force of 50 men. Running at 30 per cent of capacity, it maintains a stock of 400 different sizes and shapes of tile for partitions, drains and fireproofing.

Former Drug Store Owner Here is Dead

Teresa E. Hickey, one time owner of the South Side drug store, died on Dec. 31 at her home at Caledonia, Minn., following a brief illness of pneumonia. Funeral services were held there and burial was in the Caledonia cemetery.

Miss Hickey was born and reared in Louisville and following graduation from pharmacy school the family came to Kankakee where she purchased the South Side drug store. She operated the store for several years and in 1927 sold out to the Koehlers. She then moved to Caledonia where she had her own drug store until her death. She was one of the first business women in Kankakee.

Hunt Speeded For Brutal Kidnap Killer

Huge Airliner Long Overdue, 13 Are Aboard

Los Angeles, Jan. 12.—The Western Air express reported at 12:10 p. m. (2:10 p. m. est) today that an air transport from Salt Lake with ten passengers was overdue at Union Air terminal. It last was heard from at 11:05 a. m. near Newhall, south of the Tehachapis, in southern California.

Among the passengers were Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson, explorers and big game hunters, internationally known for their exploits and films of South African life.

The last report of the air liner was from a position within a few miles of the spot where a San Francisco to Los Angeles flight crashed on the night of December 27 killing 13 persons.

There are 13 persons aboard, a pilot, co-pilot and stewardess, in addition to the ten passengers. The plane was due at the union air terminal 10:45 a. m. (Pacific time). The pilot was W. W. Tevis, the co-pilot named Owens, and the stewardess Esther Conner.

Western Air officials, with a ground crew, left by automobile from union air terminal immediately for U. S. Newhall region.

John Wood, rancher living four miles east of Newhall, drove into the sheriff's station at Newhall shortly before noon to report that he heard an "airplane engine sputter and finally died" near his ranch at 11:15 o'clock this morning.

The rancher, who did not have a telephone at his place, feared an air disaster and went as quickly as he could to the sheriff's station. Two sheriff's deputies returned to the ranch with the pilot.

City before he boarded the plane, now overdue Johnson had remarked: "The jokers are really safe when they know how to get along in them. America, probably, because it is the most civilized place in the world, is the most dangerous. Why, I almost got killed by a taxi this morning."

The sky at Newhall was overcast after intermittent showers that began during the night.

Officers said it would require several hours for the deputies to reach the rancher's home and make a careful search. Some of the hills near Newhall have snow on their summits. Many of the trails have been washed out by the winter storms, making the search difficult.

The terrain is rugged, sprinkled with trees and thick brush. Johnson, a native of Rockford, Ill., is 52 years old, he married Osa Adams, of Chanute, Kas., May 15, 1910, and gained fame as an animal hunter and a producer of films of African wild life.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson returned to New York Oct. 25, 1936, after spending a year exploring the wilds of North Borneo and taking sound pictures of the jungle life.

Using an amphibian plane on part of their trip, they took 150,000 feet of film. They brought back with them a Borneo boy, member of a head-hunting tribe, and a collection of jungle animals.

GHASTLY CRIME

Seattle, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The Seattle Times today quoted an unnamed authority as stating that the investigation of the kidnap-murder of Charles Mattson, a 10-year-old boy, had been found in an automobile abandoned at an Everett service station.

The newspaper stated federal bureau of investigation agents pounded the automobile and the clothing.

At Everett, Sheriff Walter Faulkner denied any knowledge of the reported find.

The account here stated the driver of the car left suddenly after asking the service station attendant to fill the gasoline tank. The attendant saw the clothing, not blood-stained the Times informant said, and called government men.

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Under direct orders from President Roosevelt to continue until the quarry is found, federal bureau of investigation agents pushed their hunt today for Charles Mattson's kidnaper.

The United States justice department is offering a reward of $10,000 for information leading to the arrest of the kidnaper and the punishment of the perpetrator of this ghastly crime.

President Roosevelt issued his orders to the corps of agents in an official statement, asserting:

"The murder of the little Mattson boy today has shocked the nation. Every means at our command must be enlisted to capture and punish the perpetrator of this ghastly crime."

Attorney General Cummings informed me that he has offered a reward for information leading to the arrest of the criminal; and that the special agents of the federal bureau of investigation of the department of justice are engaged in a search which will be pursued relentlessly and will not be terminated until the murderer is caught.

Make New Effort to Locate Crews' Body

Efforts to find the body of James C. Crews, 65-year-old employee of the Kankakee state hospital who is believed to have drowned in the Kankakee river early Friday morning, today was taken over by the management of the institution.

Efforts by the county to recover the body have been discontinued after four days of dragging the river but today the management of the state hospital hired Ray Riley and Henry Walsher, both of Kankakee, to search the river below the Public Service dam to Wilmington.

These two men for the past several days have been in the employ of Coroner A. E. Keger to drag the river at the foot of Schuyler avenue and who also used dynamite in an effort to bring the body to the surface.

HUNTER DISCOVERS BODY OF KIDNAPED BOY

Two weeks after Charles Mattson was abducted from his Tacoma, Wash., home by a lone man, the body of the 10-year-old physician's son was found in a brush-crusted brushland near Everett, Wash. The exact cause of death was not determined immediately, but investigators said several front teeth had been knocked out and there appeared to be a large hole in the head. The boy's father, Dr. W. W. Mattson, said "I feared it." (Associated Press Photo)

Steel Doors Protect Class Rooms

To prevent the theft of any more typewriters from the commercial studies classrooms of the high school, the school board in its regular session last night decided to purchase steel doors for the three entrances to the classroom. The doors will be equipped with strong locks.

The board received $4571.15 in tuition for pupils from non-high school territory, this amount being approximately 75 per cent of the claims for tuition in 1935 and 1936.

The resignation, because of ill health, of George Burton, engineer of the Departmental school for 21 years, was accepted by the board which named Joseph Farman, already in the employ of the school district, to take his place.

The vacancy left by the promotion of Mr. Farman, formerly a general utility man in the schools, will be filled by John Cosello, 669 Lincoln avenue.

The board transacted other routine business, including the report of school heads and the payment of claims.

Arrest Drunk for Attack on Woman

Leslie Alvey, whose address is in the alley of the 500 block on South Third avenue, was arrested last night by Officer John Powell on a warrant charging habitual drunkenness.

The complaint was signed by his sister-in-law Mrs. Timothy Alvey, who he came to the latter's house, struck her and threw things around. Alvey waived preliminary hearing and will be taken into county court.

KRAUS TELLS NEW PROBLEMS OF RAILROADS

Lines Beginning To Regain Former Leadership.

A discussion on the subject of how railroads are regaining their old position in the transportation field by materially improving service to patrons was made before yesterday's meeting of the Kiwanis club by W. A. Kraus, joint freight agent here of the New York Central and Big Four railways.

Following his explanation of how this improvement of service has been accomplished, Mr. Kraus made this comment:

"We in the railroad field hold the unanimous, steadfast belief that our industry is a solid, viable and an absolutely necessary one. We believe that ways will be found in the future, as in the past, to meet all changing conditions, economic or otherwise."

Safe and Sure
"We shall constantly continue our efforts to reduce expenses and increase earnings. It may be that the railroads will never again hold the dominating position in the field of transportation they once held. Nevertheless, under reasonable and average general economic and business conditions, well managed and well located railroad systems will continue to render safe, sure, satisfactory service to the public."

"They will make some return on the money invested in the railroads by those who have reposed their

Charles E. Marston, 1115 Elm avenue, this morning said that if the person who apparently stole a valuable dog from his home yesterday afternoon will return it he will give that person another good dog. His Program Calls For New Cabinet Posts

Bunch 105 Federal Agencies Into 12
Departments.

Washington, Jan. 12.—(AP)—President Roosevelt recommended to congress today a sweeping reorganization of the government's administrative machinery that would create two new cabinet posts—social welfare and public works—and eventually bunch 105 federal agencies in 12 departments.

Transmitting a report of a special committee which has studied the question for months, he also proposed:

1. Extension of the civil service to all non-policy-determining positions, including all postmasters and departmental jobs except the highest executives; increase cabinet salaries from $15,000 to $20,000; substituting a civil service administrator and an unpaid citizens' board for the civil service commission.

2. Giving the president six "executive assistants" to relieve him of tremendous detail work.

3. Substitution of an independent auditor general for the vacant post of comptroller general, with the duty of government expenditures.

4. Strengthening and expanding of the budget bureau and the planning and personnel services to make them "effective managerial arms" for the president.

Conservation Department
5. Changing the name of the department of the interior to department of conservation.

Although the committee predicted some saving in money, time and effort, it said the proposed reorganization had but "one grand purpose, namely, to make democracy work today in our national government."

The report was expected to touch off warm debate in congress, where Senator Byrd (D-Va.) and others have contended large savings could be effected by abolishing, as well as consolidating, various federal agencies. Byrd heads a special senate committee studying reorganization.

The president, explaining the report at a White House conference yesterday attended by the cabinet and newsmen, said that of a $7,000,000,000 budget, about $4,000,000,000 embraced irreducible expenditures such as pensions and army and navy pay and food.

By the removing overlapping functions, he said he hoped to save about one per cent of the remaining $3,000,000,000, or $30,000,000.

Asks Speedy Work
He expressed the hope congress would pass the suggested reorganization this session, but said the enactment would be delayed.

AL HATTENBURG CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR'S POST

Ralph Farmer For Clerk; Ehrich
Treasurer.

UNANIMOUS ACT

By unanimous action one of the strongest tickets of candidates for city offices ever placed before the people of Kankakee was endorsed this morning by the Republican City committee.

With a list of prospective candidates before them, the committee gave careful consideration to the endorsement of a ticket that would be to the best interest of Kankakee citizens and the Republican party.

Unanimous Vote
The candidates finally given the committee endorsement by unanimous vote in a meeting marked by confidence and a spirit of harmony and cooperation, are:

For mayor—Albert F. Hattenburg, 1600 South Evergreen avenue.
For city clerk—Ralph Farmer, 765 South Greenwood avenue.
For city treasurer—Walter Ehrich, 509 West Mulberry street.
For police magistrate—Edward Hoenicke, 1297 South Fifth avenue.

The committee's endorsement was made unanimously after frank discussion of the candidates and was done in recognition of their willingness to accept public responsibility, their desire to become responsible, their pledge to give full effort to the election of themselves and their fellow candidates, their desire for clarity and unity in the city government.

Ticket of Youth
Members of the committee, who are elected representatives of Republicans in their precincts, said they believe they have endorsed a ticket outstanding for the youth and ability of the candidates, their progressive and liberal characters and the newness of most of them in political life.

Mr. Hattenburg, popularly known as "Al," is now concluding his first term as city clerk and is a candidate to succeed Mayor Roy D. Taylor who declined to be a candidate for reelection because of personal and business affairs taking more and more of his time.

Outstanding Record
Mayor Taylor has accomplished an outstanding service for the city. Succeeding a Democrat administration two years ago, he found the financial affairs of the city in a deplorable condition but by devoting most of his time and effort to the situation has made a splendid record and restored the credit of the city.

Mr. Hattenburg, whose experience as city clerk has given him a complete practical knowledge of city affairs, is a young business man, a world war veteran, a home owner, the head of a family and outstanding for personal popularity.

His First Race
Mr. Farmer, for city clerk, is also a young business man, active in service club work and also especially popular. This is his first candidacy for public office.

Walter Ehrich is a laboring man, a carpenter by trade, well known throughout the city and active in the affairs of his church. He is a member of a well known Kankakee family. Never has he held an elective office.

Edward Hoenicke is now concluding his first term as police magistrate. He has had considerable experience and success as a public official.

Mattson Case Parallels The Lindbergh Kidnaping Many Details Say Tacoma Officials

By WILLIS DUNIWAY
(Copyright 1937 by United Press)
Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 12—(UP)—The federal bureau of investigation, striving to maintain its peerless record of kidnaping convictions, was reported today to know the identity of the man who kidnaped, and, presumably, murdered 10-year-old Charles Mattson.

The child's body, found frozen and battered in a snowdrift, 60 miles north of Tacoma yesterday, 15 days after he was stolen from his home, provided G-men with at least four clues so important that soon after it was found, a federal agent was heard to say, in a telephone conversation:

"Let's go out and get those fellows now."

Whether the agents believed that their evidence against their suspect was not strong enough to justify immediate arrest, or whether they knew more than one man was involved, could not be ascertained. The closest official secrecy was enforced as the agents, taking complete charge, put every resource of their bureau into finding the criminal or criminals.

Crowds Gather at Scene
Crowds of persons, many of them from Tacoma, gathered at the snow-mantled field six miles south of Everett when agents arrived to obtain the boy's body. They seemed both stunned and angry. The wrists still showing the marks of the rope that had tied them together, was taken to Tacoma last night. In the beautiful home overlooking Puget Sound where Charles was stolen, Dr. William W. Mattson, prominent surgeon, and his wife, a club and society woman, were in a state bordering on collapse.

It was believed that Charles had been dead at least three days—that, probably, he was killed Friday afternoon, while his father was negotiating frantically with the kidnaper, trying for an opportunity to pay the demanded $25,000 ransom. His head had been crushed, apparently by a blow so severe that it knocked out several of his lower teeth. Death was believed to have been instantaneous.

Autopsy Performed
An autopsy was performed on the body last night. G-men forbade local officials to make any statement of its findings.

But a spokesman for Dr. Mattson revealed the family's suspicion based upon its "more than several" communications from the kidnaper—that they had been dealing with a mad man.

The nude body seemed to confirm this suspicion and recalled that a few days after Charles was stolen, Tacoma police were reported hunting for a former patient of Dr. Mattson, a man mentally deranged.

On remarkable detail, the Mattson case paralleled the first of America's long series of kidnapings—the abduction and murder of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr. In both cases, a kidnaper negotiated with the parents after his victim was dead. Both were evasive in their negotiations and both resorted to newspaper advertisements. It was believed likely that Dr. Mattson would have paid the ransom had not the body been found.

Several Clues
But, unlike Bruno Richard Hauptmann, the Mattson kidnaper left many clues. The chief ones were:

1. Footprints found in fresh snow of the field where Charles' body was found. Casts of the prints were taken. Molds will be made. From these molds G-men hope to deduce how tall the slayer is, how heavy, and whether he is right or left-handed.

2. Fingerprints on the ransom note, which can be checked with millions of copies on file in the Washington, D. C. headquarters, and the northwest division bureau of Portland. Other fingerprints may be available on the boy's body and on notes which reached Dr. Mattson during the ransom negotiations.

3. The blue clay found under the boy's nails. This was regarded as a highly important clue. From the texture of the clay, soil experts may be able to determine the exact locality of the kidnaper's hideout. At present, the clay points to a region near the mouth of a river flowing into Puget Sound, where such clay is peculiar to the district.

4. Strands of hair found under the boy's nails, indicating that he fought with his abductor.
5. The printing of the ransom note. Authorities throughout the case have been confident that the machine which printed the note was of peculiar type—a defective, simple printing press commonly used by children. It was believed possible that the device could be traced to the place of sale.
6. The tire prints left by an automobile, apparently bearing the slayer and the body of the boy. The prints already have been identified as those left by a medium-sized, six-cylinder sedan. The tire was of popular make.

Paul Seva, manager of the Rainier Park company who tried to service as Dr. Mattson's intermediary in ransom negotiations, spoke for the father. He quoted him as follows:

"The ransom was not paid, although I made every effort to pay it, and put forth every endeavor to try to follow instructions. The instructions were so elusive, however, and there was such a confusion of notes I was unable to pay the ransom."

It is quite evident the boy was killed instantly and had been dead a considerable time.

Many Notes Received
The kidnaper became exceedingly wary during the last few days and judging from the condition of Charles' body, he was still trying to

"The body was dirty, apparently having been kept in a filthy place,
