NAZIS PUSH TOWARD ATHENS

Drag River For Man Drowned Here Saturday

William Ellsworth Topples Out Of Boat; Rescue Attempt Fails

In a vain effort to recover the body of William Ellsworth, 48, from the Kankakee river, boatmen battled rising water and strong current which surged into whitecaps by a strong wind all Saturday night and Sunday.

Ellsworth, farmer residing a mile north and a mile east of the wye south of Kankakee married and father of seven, fell into the river from a boat at 4:45 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The accident occurred three and a half miles northwest of Kankakee directly in front of the Joseph Zopf cottage off highway 113-S.

Ellsworth and his son-in-law, Dale Kuchenbacker, who lives in a cottage nearby, were setting a night fishing line, according to information given Coroner Ed P. Madison and his assistant, Louis Rivard. Ellsworth was handling the line while Kuchenbacker was rowing the boat with his back to his father-in-law.

Tried to Rescue

The son-in-law afterward told the coroner that he heard a splash, looked around and saw that Ellsworth had disappeared from the boat. He jumped into the water after his father-in-law. Kuchenbacker continued, and managed to get a hold on the former's clothing.

He was unable to support the body of his father-in-law, who weighed more than 200 pounds. Kuchenbacker continued, and he was in trouble himself, weighed down by heavy clothing. He finally struck out for shore and reached it with difficulty. Ellsworth had disappeared.

Members of the family later told the coroner that Ellsworth suffered from a heart ailment and was subject to severe attacks.

The spot where Ellsworth went down is above a deep hole near the mouth of the Little Hawkins creek. The hole is up to 35 feet deep the center of a huge whirlpool which causes the current to flow backward along the shore line.

Strong Whirlpool

The backward current was accentuated by a strong westerly wind yesterday while rising water after the recent heavy rains strengthened the whirlpool.

Under the direction of the coroner and his assistant, Deputy Sheriffs Gene LaFontaine and Walter Bader dragged the hole and the surrounding river bed Saturday night, assisted by the son-in-law and other members of the family.

Yesterday the coroner engaged two boatmen, Ray Riley and Harry Price, both of Kankakee, and the dragging continued until midafternoon when the current became so strong and the water so rough that rowboats became unmanageable. This morning the dragging was resumed.

It May Warm Up By Tomorrow

Chicago, April 21—(AP)—Below freezing weather chilling a large portion of the north-central states was expected by the weather bureau to continue today and tonight, with warmer conditions due tomorrow throughout the midwest.

The lowest reported early tonight in the north-central district was 18 at Roseau, Minn. Minot, N. D., had 19

Even Farmers Join Cleanup Week Drive

Cooperating in the clean-up week campaign designated by Mayor Albert F. Hattenbourg to open today, members of the fire department started their own housecleaning this morning. The walls and woodwork in the dormitories are scheduled to get a thorough going over between fire alarms.

Citizens who are cleaning up yards and terraces are asked by Acting Superintendent of Streets Philip J. Schirmer to remove trash to the alleys rather than raking it into the curbs and gutters since such piles cannot be picked up by the city street sweeper. This waste material also blocks sewer intakes and softens the grade of unpaved streets.

Farmers, learning of the clean-up campaign, indicated they, too, want to cooperate but find it hard to keep their front lawns clear of bottles, papers and miscellaneous junk which city folks heave into farmyards as they drive by in their cars.

The complaints are most numerous along highway 49 about one mile north of town. This area seems to be a dumping ground for all manner of things people want to get rid of—including dogs and cats which quickly get run over by speeding autos on the highway.

Farmers in this area appeal to city dwellers to be a little more considerate. Most farmers are plowing with rubber-tired tractors which can be damaged by broken bottles just as auto tires can.

Italian Force Reoccupies The Ionian Coast

Force Greeks To Turn Back From Positions On Albanian Borders

Rome, April 21—(AP)—The Italian high command reported today Italian forces had recaptured the entire Ionian coast of Albania as far as the Greek frontier.

In the Mediterranean, the war bulletin said Italian planes torpedoed and sank a 15,000-ton oil tanker and an 8,000-ton auxiliary cruiser out of an allied convoy.

The newspaper Il Popolo Di Roma said "a big battle to wipe out the Greek army" was in progress at Perati bridge, which spans the Viosa river at the Greek-Albanian frontier. Earlier reports said Fascist dive-bombers had blasted the bridge, trapping the Greeks on the Albanian side.

"Our troops yesterday forced Greek troops, who were offering tenacious resistance in fortified positions at the Albanian border, to beat a retreat," the high command said.

The Italian-reoccupied coastal area was the part of southern Albania taken last November by the Greeks after turning back the Italian invasion.

Fascist airmen were declared to have blasted Greek troop concentrations and mechanized vehicles in successive waves, destroying and damaging considerable Greek equipment.

Other air units attacked Ithaca, on the Greek island of Cephalonia, and the island of Corfu, hitting numerous vessels, the high command said. It added that harbor installations at Missolonghi and the railway station at Kalmata in southwestern Greece, were hit heavily.

Both Italian and German planes, the high command reported, joined in new raids on Malta and the British-occupied island of Crete, setting a British destroyer afire and Whipped along at high speed by a 40-mile wind, flames spread over a large area and continued to sweep toward the barrack buildings at Camp Devens, Mass., where 20,000 troops are housed. Large forces of troops with all available fire fighting equipment were thrown into the battle to halt the flames before they reached the camp. Railroad train sparks are believed to have set the fire.

CCC Builds Dam In Fountain Creek

Camp Gilman, April 21—(RN Special)—An outlet drain consisting of 1,100 feet of 24-inch tile and 2,500 feet of 20-inch tile is being constructed by CCC workers here for the Fountain Creek mutual drainage district, according to Carl H. Lux, camp engineer.

This outlet tile was necessary because of the difficulty in maintaining an open ditch along a public highway at sufficient depth to provide drainage for low ponds on adjacent farm lands.

A reinforced concrete notch spillway will be built at the outlet in Fountain creek. This dam will protect the outlet end stablize the channel. The whole project will provide adequate drainage to all land in the district in wet as well as dry years.

Three farmers have laid considerable lengths of field tile since the outlet work started. Among these are Fred Knapp Jr., Fred Stock and Fred Knapp Sr.

The talk was to be transcribed some time this afternoon for broadcasting over station WPNO of Palm Beach at 7:30 p. m. (6:30 p. m. c.s.t.) today.

Fiester Not Able To Make $10,000 Bond

Watseka, April 21—(RN Special)—Bail for Robert Fiester, Woodland farmer held in the county jail here on a double murder charge, was fixed Saturday at $5,000 for each of the two charges against him. He is still in custody, however.

The amount of bail was fixed by Circuit Judge Roscoe C. South when the law firm of Baum & Brock, representing Fiester, filed a writ of habaes corpus for that purpose.

Attorney Claude N. Baum, former circuit judge, explained today that bail may be allowed in cases of alleged murder "where the proof is not evidence or the presumption great."

He said his client will be released from custody when bail is provided and the sureties approved by the court.

Fiester is charged with the fatal shooting of his niece Miss Royalene Hinkle, 26, and her fiance, Lowell Gray, 25, Hoopeston, some time the night of March 28 at the girl's home near Woodland.

New Government Is Organized By Greek King

Emmanuel Tsouderos Succeeds Korizis As Premier

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Athens, Greece, April 21—Emmanuel Tsouderos became premier of wartime Greece today, succeeding Alexandros Korizis, who committed suicide Friday.

The new government was announced as the Greeks acknowledged that the German drive on the east had made a dent in the allied line and King George II had called upon the nation to fight "to the very end."

Tsouderos had been named minister of foreign affairs and finance and provisional minister of economy in the cabinet formed yesterday by Admiral Alexander Sakellariou as vice premier and the king in the dual role of monarch and premier.

Admiral Sakellariou remains as vice premier.

Leading Economist

Tsouderos, in his fifties, has been active in Greek public life for more than 20 years. He is a native of the island of Crete and began a political career with his election to parliament in 1920.

One of Greece's leading economists, he carried on negotiations with Britain in 1926 for settlement of the Greek war debt. He has held cabinet posts previously as minister of finance and communications and served more recently as president of the bank of Greece.

On the war front meanwhile the Greeks said that the Italians were being stemmed on the west flank of the allied line but that on the east the front gave way under the weight of Nazi pressure.

A Greek communique declared a new stand had been taken after the week-end withdrawal south of Mt. Olympus and said that line—its location not specified—held doggedly against violent attacks and nowhere was broken.

Ten Cabinet Ministers

The cabinet, cut sharply from 21 to 10 ministers, included seven new members but did not change the political set-up it had under General John Metaxas, Greece's strong man who died while his armies still were pushing the Italians back into Al-

New Allied Line Holds Doggedly Under Assault

Next Major Stand Will Be In Mountain Barriers Near Capital

BULLETIN

Bern, Switzerland, April 21—(AP)—A Havas (French new agency) dispatch from Sofia said that the Bulgarian army started this morning the occupation of sections of Yugoslavia and Greece.

The news agency said the Bulgars entered Yugoslav Macedonia and Moravia, occupying Skoplje, principal Macedonian city, and the town of Pirot.

In Greece they were said to have entered a 110-mile wide strip of eastern Thrace, extending along the Aegean coast from Struma to Maritza. (The Bulgars apparently are acting as occupying troops behind the German front.)

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Adolf Hitler's rampaging Panzer columns were reported less than 150 miles from Athens today, thrusting south along the 60-mile-wide plain of Thessaly in central Greece, as the Allies acknowledged they have fallen back again to a new, shorter defense line.

Apparently the next major stand by the British and Greeks was to be made in the southern mountain barriers guarding the approach to Athens between the Gulf of Corinth and the Aegean port of Lamia.

British middle east headquarters said the British withdrawal was "in conformity with the movement of the Greek army fighting on their left."

Australian and New Zealand troops executed "brilliant" rearguard actions which inflicted a heavy toll on the Germans, the British communique said.

Meanwhile, a Havas (French news agency) dispatch from Sofia said the Bulgarian army started this morning to occupy sections of northern Greece and fallen Yugoslavia.

Greece's King George II called on his troops to fight "to the very end" amid allied reverses which saw the Germans break through northern mountian defenses on the Mt. Olympus-Ioannina front, reportedly capture Larisa and Trikkala, and storm down the flat plain of Thessaly toward historic Thermopylae.

Hitler Directs Blitz

Trikkala is a control point of the railway through central Greece from Salonika to Colos, on the Aegean.

With Hitler himself directing the blitz from a railway directing the in the Balkans, the German high command asserted that Nazi mechanized forces were driving south "far beyond Larisa" in pursuit of retreating British and Greek troops.

A Greek communique, however, declared that the new allied line was holding doggedly under violent assault, and that nowhere had the Germans knifed through.

"Other German forces advancing across the Pindus mountains to the west took a mile-high pass near Metsovon, 40 miles northwest of

Forest Fires Sweep Wide Areas In 7 States; Homes Destroyed

By the Associated Press

Thousands of woodland acres in eight eastern states were charred ruins today, aftermath of a devastating series of forest fires that consumed sun-dried countrysides like cordwood.

Tiny sparks became raging flames under the double spur of brisk breezes and tinder-like trees, shrubs and grasses, and devoured hundreds of homes as well as forests and farms.

A fortnight of unseasonably warm, dry weather was blamed for the seriousness of several hundred individual blazes that felled dozens of firefighters and resulted in at least two deaths.

Hardest hit was central and southern New Jersey, where 68 homes were gutted and property damage was estimated up to $1,000,000. In Lakewood, a winter resort, 46 dwellings were razed by licking flames.

Vzevelon Glazoff, 52, died of a heart attack while trying to save his burning Lakewood home. George Knight of Centralia, W. V., either was burned to death or killed by a falling tree as he fought flames nearby.

Other states where blackened tree stumps marked the paths of fires were Massachusetts, Vermont, Pennsylvania, New York, Maryland and Virginia. In West Virginia, some 150 separate blazes were reported.

Sparks from picnic fires, cigarets, and railroad locomotives were all that was needed to set the flames.

Six hundred Fort Devens, Mass., soldiers, fighting a fire in nearby Leominster, were recalled to the army post to beat out flames near the 366th infantry barracks and the rifle range.

Lakewood, N. J., April 21—(AP)—A four-tongued forest fire raged more than 20 miles through parched pineland today, reaching the outskirts of Lakehurst and the U. S. naval air station where thousands battled to halt its advance.

After begrimmed fire fighters in central and south Jersey had succeeded in subduing most of the 47 blazes throughout the state, a fire which started in the Cassville area and burned away more than 6,000 acres of the Fort Dix army reservation veered suddenly on Lakehurst.

British Press Alarmed Over Greek Situation

Hitler's Real Aim Is To Trap Fleet And Middle Eastern Army

London, April 21—(AP)—The British press more and more openly discussed the possibility of defeat in Greece as reliable observers today gloomily studied the campaign there and the intensification of the German diplomatic campaign.

Britain's action in sending troops to Iraq was taken as a visible indication of the official belief that the battle is nearing the Suez and the oil fields of the middle east.

The press, almost in one voice, warned against letting the British force in the middle east be destroyed.

Hitler's Real Aim

Hitler's "real aim," it was said, was to use his armies and diplomacy, in lieu of a fleet, to win not merely the battle in the Balkans, but to trap the British Mediterranean fleet and middle eastern army.

Thus he would weaken the defense of Britain and knife her empire lifeline.

Observers viewed the unfriendly tone of the Spanish press and reports of prolonged cabinet meetings in Spain as a result of axis pressure.

They said a German march to Gibraltar would not help Hitler much in his present campaign in the eastern Mediterranean, but it might give him new ports in Spain and Africa to fight the battle of the Atlantic.

Supporting the view that Hitler's aim is to destroy British power in the Mediterranean, qualified sources declared the loss of the battle in Greece itself would "by no means be conclusive."

If Britain is able to hold a portion of north Africa, including her naval base at Alexandria, one source declared, "Hitler would have a devil of a time closing up Suez and Gibraltar."

"Not Impregnable"

But he admitted the latter is "not impregnable."

In this connection observers attached significance to the increasingly steady stand the British are making at Tobruk and Salum in Libya and Egypt.

As a matter of fact, it is reported that at one time before the British sent troops to Greece some British strategists were prepared to accept German occupation of Greece and to rely on north Africa to keep the Mediterranean open.

The reason Britain finally did send troops to Greece is believed to have been explained yesterday by first lord of the admiralty, A. V. Alexander, who said the government would have been denounced "for having failed to go to the assistance of a gallant nation."

The Evening News warned that "our troops may be compelled to break off the battle (in Greece) against hopeless odds."

Effect Of Parental Emotion On The Child

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph. D.

Without emotions, a person would be no more appealing than a stone, steel pillar or icicle. By our emotions we attract, as by them we also repel. On our emotions and their mixture our personality depends. It's a matter of when to be angry, for example, how angry to be, and how to express this anger most effectively.

A parent feels anger in relation to the growing child in varying degrees often described as annoyance, irritation, vexation and the like. While her ability to be angry at the right time may aid her best guidance of the child, her anger in some form or mixed with fear and anxiety often is the greatest enemy to her and her child. Assuming she has good standards, her efficiency as parent depends chiefly on how well she masters these emotions, instead of letting these emotions master her.

Some how many problems never would arise if she always controlled her emotions (if the father also mastered his!). She would have almost no troubles then over the appetite of the baby and young child, granted that he had proper medical care; and almost none over his sleeping habits. Tantrums, thumb-sucking, nail-biting and stuttering would be very rare, indeed.

Yet complete self-mastery of emotions in such situations is too much to expect in any mother or even to imagine in a fairly decent home. Few exceptions. Nevertheless it is an objective worth striving toward and some mothers do approximate it, so poised and [illegible]

Yugoslavia To Be Divided Among Its Neighbors

Berlin, April 21—(AP)—Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, has arrived in Germany [illegible] to discuss with Germans [illegible] the future of Yugoslavia, territory it was said today in Italian circles.

Earlier, Nazis had announced that King Boris of Bulgaria had visited Adolf Hitler Saturday at the latter's headquarters in the Balkans, and had returned to Sofia yesterday.

It was assumed that Boris had discussed the future of Yugoslavia's territory.

Three have been reports of a coup d'etat, probably on Monday, which Yugoslavia would be carved up and divided among Germany, Hungary and Bulgaria and that [illegible] support parts of it as the Croat separatist regime has been formed.

Palmer said exact [illegible] dwellings was expected from the government, but it would be referred to to Michigan firms, which already are specializing in that type because of private orders from defense employees. The firms themselves can turn out 115 trailers a week.

Man Sought For Questioning In Murder Gives Up

Chicago, April 21 — (AP) — Philip D'Andrea, sought for questioning since last Tuesday night, surrendered at the town hall police station today.

A prominent Italian-American who once was associated with Al Capone, D'Andrea is part owner of L'Italia, a foreign language newspaper published in competition with Arena's La Tribuna.

A few minutes after he walked into the station he was ushered into the office of Capt. Patrick O'Connell to make a statement.

When the 43-year-old Arena was killed it was believed an editorial war between the newspapers might have been involved. But this theory has been abandoned, police said, in favor of one that Arena was shot because of his interest in some woman.

New Allied Line—

Trikkala," the Nazi high command said.

Italian press dispatches said "a big battle to wipe out the Greek army" was raging at Perati bridge, which spans the Vlora river at the Greek-Albanian frontier.

Italian dive-bombers were said to have destroyed the bridge, trapping the Greeks on the Albania side; but the Greeks declared that they had stemmed Fascist attacks in the west.

The Germans asserted that British troops were retreating toward harbors in southern Greece, and Nazi dispatches from the front again spoke of "a second Dunkerque"—a reference to the British-French withdrawal from the battle of Flanders last summer.

Stefani, the official Italian news agency, declared jubilantly that the Greek army was losing "four-fifths of its permanent forces and all the war material supplied by Britain."

The news agency said that the Greek route of retreat, on the road from Ioannina to Arta, 30 miles south, was littered with the wreckage of hundreds of motor vehicles . . . And that "entire encampments have been thrown into confusion, masses of troops scattered, and supply services destroyed."

North African Front

On the North African front, Premier Mussolini's high command reported that Italian and German troops halted a British attempt to land reinforcements near Bardia, Libya, 10 miles from the Egyptian border, and that they had captured all British soldiers who "succeeded in setting foot ashore."

This was an apparent attempt by the British to reinforce their columns battling to stem the Axis drive across Egypt toward the Suez canal.

British military sources described the withdrawal on the eastern flank as orderly, maintaining an unbroken front; but the Germans said the Greek campaign was entering its final phase with fighting developing into a hot chase of the British and Greeks south of captured Larisa.

Besides Larisa, 40 miles south of Olympus, the Germans said they had fought their way through British defenses into Trikkala, west of Larisa and 45 miles southwest of the classic mountain home of the Gods.

Volos, through which some of the British expeditionary forces entered Greece, is 30 miles south of Larisa, across coastal plains, and the pass of Thermopylae is just beyond the key road junction town of Lamia, 50 miles south of Larisa.

At Lamia, Greece's mountain barriers rise again, guarding the narrowing approach to Athens between the Gulf of Corinth and the Aegean.

New Greek Cabinet

King George II of Greece, who stepped into the dual role of monarch and premier yesterday, formed a new cabinet with himself at its head and Admiral Alexander Skellarios as vice premier, and urged his forces to fight "to the very end."

The cabinet leadership change was forced by the death of Premier Alexandros Korizis, announced to have killed himself last Friday.

Across the Mediterranean, a British garrison still held out under bombing and tank attacks at the Libyan port of Tobruk and advance patrol fighting swirled around the Egyptian frontier town of Sollum as the British said their forces were holding out to gain valuable time needed to bring up reinforcements.

In the air war of the west, the Germans said residential districts were bombed last night by some RAF forces which penetrated the western frontier of the Reich, and the British reported few casualties and little damage from scattered raids over England.

The United States and Canada linked their mobilization of resources closer in an agreement announced last night after a meeting of President Roosevelt and Canadian Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King at Hyde Park.

The agreement called for interchange of defense articles by the United States and Canada—with each providing those it is best equipped to produce—for the dual purpose of speeding up aid to Britain and of hastening western hemisphere defense preparations.

American Doctors Asked To Volunteer For British Aid

Washington, April 21 — (UP) — One thousand young American doctors today were asked to volunteer for service in Great Britain to meet "desperately acute needs of Britain's military and civilian hospitals."

President Roosevelt and the British Red Cross made the appeal. Mr. Roosevelt acting in his capacity as president of the American Red Cross.

The American Medical association's committee on medical preparedness will aid in selecting the volunteers and pass on their qualifications. The division of medical sciences of the national research council has established a special subcommittee on medical personnel for Britain.

President Roosevelt's statement was issued at the White House. Park N. Y. Jerome Simultaneously, chairman Norman H. Davis of the American Red Cross issued a similar appeal. Davis declared that Britain had been approved by Secretary of War Stimson, Navy Secretary Knox and General Thomas A. Parran, both of whom agreed the United States can and should" provide doctors for Britain.

Young surgeons and physicians who volunteer for British service will be enrolled in the Red Cross in Britain and will "work under the protection of the Red Cross, terms of Geneva a covenant which has been respected by belligerents since 1864," Mr. Roosevelt said.

Those accepted will not be required to pay transportation to Britain and will not forfeit citizenship. Applications will be accepted at the Washington headquarters of the Red Cross.

Identified As Spy

A robbery suspect identified as Bruno Johannes Valentin (above), 32, was said by Sheriff James S. Dresser at Riverhead N. Y. to have admitted he was a member of the German secret police. Agents of the FBI and immigration officers have been questioning the prisoner for more than a week. The sheriff said the suspect outlined the "Nazi espionage and sabotage setup in the United States."

Private Industry Must Profit If It Is To Survive

Washington, April 21 — (U.P.) — Declaring that private ownership in this country "makes it the duty of the government to encourage and safeguard profits," President Roosevelt today told congress while there have been "several spectacular instances of undue profits" during the defense period "the facts do not support the general charge that profits are unconscionable."

In a long message to the house and senate, the president said that "private initiative and private capital have been the foundation stones of the American system of production and distribution. Broadly speaking, they have been the tools with which we have succeeded in developing the highest standard of living in the world."

"Under the stress of present circumstances it is necessary that the government itself provide the capital for certain additional plants and that it recapture excessive profits through taxation and renegotiation of contracts," the president said, "but the creation of new capital and the management of the vast bulk of industry must remain in private hands and under the stimulus of reasonable profit. It is by such methods that we can hope to avoid the alternatives of economic regimentation or economic collapse."

Roosevelt said that the United States is "not headed toward socialism, fascism, communism or any other form of state control."

"We are not going to adopt the methods of dictatorship in order to preserve democracy," he said. "We are not going to regiment business in order to make certain that democracy will survive in business."

Italian Forces—

sinking a steamer in Suda bay.

"From now on it is no longer a question of chasing the enemy from Albanian soil, but to finish him right in the pincers," Il Popolo Di Roma's correspondent, Gian Gaspare Napolitano, wrote from the front.

Napolitano said that the Greeks, retreating in an ordered manner in the early part of their withdrawal, had time to systematic destruction of material which could not be transported, burning bridges and scattering munitions. They did not fail, however, to leave behind the Italian-like sniper bullet. Motor vehicles of the quartermaster's corps and infantry and artillery accompanied them brought up the rear and "with a sigh of relief" Orthodox Italians meanwhile broke through the Greek left wing and almost simultaneously dashed along the coast toward Porto Palermo, Napolitano said, adding that now two wings of the Italian line are closing in on the main body of the Greek army, which is in flight with the greatest speed allowed by the terrain interruptions and the march which is now on foot.

"Men and mules are advancing; a continuous stream of engineering corps is building roads, repairing bridges, throwing pontoon bridges between banks, and motor vehicles are passing across.

"Where mules cannot advance men are leaving supply trains and artillery behind them and are advancing alone, now only a few kilometers from the Greeks.

"With arms, artillery, cassons, munitions, bread and motor vehicles pushed up Napoletano said, the Greeks no longer have any space to move about, retreat, or face the situation."

Stefani official Italian news agency, reported that the Greek army is losing four-fifths of its permanent forces and all the war material supplied by Britain."

The Italian news Stefani said is "closing up the pores" of the Greek army while planes relentlessly harass the fleeing Greek columns.

The road from Ioannina in northwestern Greece to Arta, Italian south, was described as the only route for Greek escape in that area.

Stefani said persistent bombings left the road blocked in "long files of motor vehicles, overturned, abreast and set afire.

"Entire encampments have been thrown into confusion; masses of troops scattered, and supply services destroyed," the news agency said in dispatches from the front.

Halt British Attempt To Land At Bardia

East African Italian Commander Refuses To Surrender

April 21 F. The Italo-Italian communique in Rome reported a British, Bengali and Australian attempt to land reinforcements near Bardia, Libya, in Italian territory, which "succeeded in setting foot ashore."

Bardia is 10 miles from the Egyptian frontier and northeast of Tobruk, Libyan port which the British admit is under attack.

Repeated Raids on Tobruk

Repeated anti-tank were made Italian air raids were of the British harbor, damaging factories and ships in the bay, continued by Italian and of Spanish, German aviators, Italian reports said.

British Princess Observes Birthday

London, April 21—(UP)—Princess Elizabeth observed her 15th birthday anniversary quietly today with King George, Queen Elizabeth and her sister, Margaret Rose.

She received a turquoise and diamond necklace, brooch and bracelet set which once belonged to Queen Victoria. The jewels, which traditionally pass to the King's eldest daughter on her 15th birthday, probably will not be worn by Elizabeth until she is 16. The only jewelry her mother permits her to wear are a simple, silver wrist watch and a plain, inexpensive brooch.

Busy few in her honor from parties in buildings here, but the princess was "somewhere in England," where she has been living since Christmas, 1939.

The only festivities are a small tea party followed by a motion picture show for which Elizabeth chose the film including some of the royal family which she took herself. Six planes from factories to Royal Air Force fields.

ONE SOUR NOTE . . .
but it's a great orchestra nevertheless

Even a great orchestra will make a musical mistake once in a while. And once in a while . . . out of the thousands of decent, law-abiding beer retailers in Illinois . . . you'll come across one or two who operate disreputable establishments.

These "black sheep" retailers constitute a tiny minority. Yet they tend to drag down the good name of beer.

By arousing public indignation, such undesirable retailers endanger your right to enjoy good beer. They also endanger the benefits to the public that beer has made possible.

For example, in Illinois beer has created 73,769 new jobs with an annual payroll of $67,820,548 and paid $2,922,136.00 in taxes last year.

The brewing industry wants "black sheep" retailers eliminated entirely. You can help us by patronizing only the reputable, legal places where beer is sold. And by reporting irregularities to the duly constituted law enforcement authorities.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Washington, April 20—Any one on extraordinary amount of income who reads reports of the testimony before senate committees each grade publicity about the one-third increase in taxes can have how easy the boost is going to be for all. For an initial instance, the senate finance committee has already found more money than his republican colleagues ever dreamed they could get out of the income and profits taxes. The house bill would raise $2,000,000,000 in new revenue. The senate committee has found it can get $3,000,000,000 and more. It is confident it can get $4,000,000,000 if it wants to.

Democrats on the committee have not yet decided how much they will raise, but they have already found that the house bill is inadequate to meet the defense needs. Wheat Easy, Off Slightly; Corn Futures Steady

Chicago, April 21.—(AP)—U. S. Department of Agriculture today resumed the slow retreat which began with the Italian collapse. Losses of more than a cent a bushel carried prices to levels four to five cents below the highs reached only two weeks ago.

War news, weakness of securities and failure of temperatures in the southwest to fall as had been expected Saturday were largely responsible for the selling. Buying which stimulated a recovery of about the lost loss was associated with reports overseas shipments of wheat from North America and reports that Spain was after more Argentine grain.

Receipts were: Wheat 36 cars, corn 64, oats 30.

Wheat closed unchanged to 5-8 cent compared with Saturday, May 1-1-1-1-4 July 88 3-8-1-2; corn 1-8 off to 1-8 up, May 67 3-8 July 68 1-8 oats 1-4 lower to 1-8 higher.

Minnesota Round-Top Brooder House

Sketch shows a round-top portable brooder house that was designed by Minnesota Experiment Station. The roof is of plywood, covered with roll roofing, and the designers also recommend placing two windows on each side. Advantages are lighter weight — less space to heat — and saving in material.

Removing Extra Teats

Dairy experts advise the removal of extra teats on heifer calves by cutting them off close to the udder with a pair of sharp scissors and applying iodine. There is usually little or no bleeding.

Worms in Sheep

Missouri Experiment Station reports success in controlling stomach worms—and at least partial success with nodular worms—in sheep, by treating ewes 28 days with phenothiazine. This new drug, however, is of no value for sheep tapeworms, which should be treated with nicotine sulphate.

New Michigan Peach

My friend Stanley Johnston has done it again. At the South Haven, Michigan, fruit experimental station, Stanley has created and tested and ahead of Elberta and growers call Redhaven the best early peach they have ever seen.

Hogging Down Sorghums

Texas A. & M. College Experiment Station showed that "hogging down" grain sorghums is an expedient, wasteful method of feeding the crop—especially in rainy areas where the ground is frequently muddy during the feeding season. To have to let it mature and to harvest it, instead of hogging it down, need to make 100 lbs. of pork—compared to four lbs. of the same weight of pork from corn fed in a well-fenced lot.

Size of Milk House

Wisconsin Experiment Station reports that the smallest practical milk house is about 6 by 12 feet. Such size will handle up to 4 cans of milk. For producing milk of highest possible quality, a thoroughly clean, aerated, with a minimum size of 12x16 feet. The milk house should be well screened, one room being used for storage and washing equipment and the other for cleaning and cooling.

Soybean Blight

Indiana soybean growers are wondering whether the pod and stem blight attacks on 1940 are a threat of more serious trouble to come in future years. Purdue Experiment Station's brief report says that the dead plants break off at the root crown and then show a rough, slightly shredded appearance at the point of breakage. Purdue Experiment Station reports that the best method of control is to plow under all infected fields, and to plant beans for two years on infected land—and to keep, if possible, stock from trespassing on infected fields. Spraying or dusting seed with copper fungicides is valueless as the infection is inside the beans from a diseased field.

Swine Erysipelas Vaccine

Starting about ten years ago swine erysipelas has come to be one of our most serious hog diseases and while it is not as contagious or as fatal a contagion from the soil of an infected farm makes it necessary for the hog raiser to find some way to live with the disease. Vaccination seems to offer the greatest promise for the control of this disease at the present time. The USDA reports very encouraging results from vaccinating very young pigs ahead of the age when they usually become infected. Vaccinating children and if further experiments back up these preliminary experiments the department plans to distribute erysipelas vaccine to veterinarians for widespread test under farm conditions.

Silage for Beef

Both Michigan and Ohio experiment stations have shown very profitable results from finishing beef steers entirely on corn silage and legume hay, but Illinois Experiment Station reports that many Illinois steer feeders have abandoned the use of silage. The explanation given is that Illinois feeders are normally aiming at the production of high-finished steers—and that when they started to feed silage they fed too much silage thereby both reducing the daily gains and the final degree of finish. To obtain corn silage efficiency in the production of choice beef this station says that not more than 3 lbs. of silage per cwt. per day should be fed at the start, and that this should be increased 3 lbs. per cwt. at the end of the feeding period. With this limited silage ration steers will finish well without shelter. Feeders should remember that the Michigan and Ohio work was done with steers that had been developed and fitted to produce fast enough finish to take the steers off the grass.

Stocks At New Lows Since June 10, 1940

New York, April 21.—(UP)—The stock market today bowed to foreign war pressure and sold out to new low levels since June 10, 1940, when the nation was in the throes of the fall of France.

The day was a fatal reminder to the New Deal Security and Exchange Commission that the pressure prevailed until the final hours until recoveries appeared late and there. Closing prices were slightly irregular.

Dealings were heaviest throughout. The turnover of approximately 400,000 shares was helped by the 20,000-share blocks of Commonwealth and Southern purchased at

That the market may have come a cropper of discounting of impending hostilities was thought to have attracted bidding. Bulletins relating of the continued withdrawal of Allied forces in the Balkans, interpreted by certain circles who had the idea of getting aboard. No technical come-back.

While business progress was viewed with faith, sales tax and labor worries remained as speculative handicaps.

Steels had to contend with the 40-minute cutting in mill operations down 2.3 points, or 16 per cent of capacity. The closing was another mainly on coverage of coke due to the soft coal mining deadlock.

Rails reacted Commodities were a trifle mixed. Wheat at Chicago was off around a cent a bushel, and corn off around ½ cent, while cotton was up around 25 cents a bale to up a little more.

Battered Body Of Missing Girl Is Found In Creek

Terre Haute, Ind., April 21.—(AP)—A 15-year-old girl, battered and strangled to death, was found today in Honey Creek, seven miles south of Terre Haute and authorities said a 17-year-old youth had been attacked by the girl's slayer.

Chief Thomas Wesley Cox said the youth, whom he identified as Kenneth Merrill Bonnell, had admitted that he struck the girl, Dorothy Jean Bright, with a rock and left her for dead.

Bonnell was taken into custody by police after he had been identified by Mrs. Ruth Bright, mother of the girl, as a companion of her daughter on the night she disappeared.

Police said Bonnell told them that he struck the girl with a rock after she had refused his attempts to attack her.

Dorothy Jean was last seen alive by her mother when she left home to attend a party.

Police said Bonnell told them that he left the girl's body in the creek.

Chief Cox said Bonnell would be charged with first degree murder.

60 Boys Escape From Reformatory

Whittier, Calif., April 21.—(AP)—Restless and confined to the seventh investigation within a few months of Whittier boys school, 60 youths fled the reformatory yesterday. By nightfall more than half had been returned and some others came back voluntarily.

Since early December, 217 boys have escaped—125 of them this month. From the school which houses 232. All but a few have been recaptured.

Sunday's mass flight followed a plea by the Rev. Edward J. Flanagan, founder of Boys Town at Omaha, Neb., to co-operate with a new, humane administration "so you can soon take your normal place in society."

Father Flanagan, member of an investigating committee appointed by Gov. Culbert L. Olson, has had abolished the last privilege cottage, where boys were kept in virtual solitary confinement as punishment. Suicide of two youths there about a year ago prompted the series of inquiries.

Worry of the boys over new heads at the school—five within a year—was cited by William B. Cox as chief cause of the escapes. Cox, secretary of the Osborne association, penology and rehabilitation society in New York, was appointed Whittier superintendent, effective next June 1, by Gov. Olson.

He said the boys are so confused by investigations and by questioning by psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers and probation officers that they just wander off for a few hours to try to think things out and let their restlessness wear off.

Give Eyes A Beauty Break

By HELEN FOLLETT

"I suppose," says a woman who's been told with comfort beauty is her type is dim, "that I should get new glasses." But does she? She does not, for she buys herself a new spring hunter outfit and she gets herself the best permanent wave she can buy. She also buys home perky hats by the dozen. She is out for decorative bells to make her look attractive, when she should be letting her eyes go bells. Tired eyes are sick ones. To neglect them is to do oneself an injustice and to set back all beauty efforts. Impaired eyesight has a depressing effect upon the mental and the spirits. It creates turkey tracks for which there is no magic cure.

Eye Strain

The eye specialist will tell her that, in many times, eye strain will cause violent headaches and irritability. Why put herself completely out of form by postponing the day when she puts on specs? It is a regrettable fact. Yet thousands of women are precisely that silly.

Makers of frames and lenses have improved their wares, have a large number of designs to offer. Some make the long rose look shorter; others make the nubby one look longer. If you are out for your first pair of glasses, the obliging optician will explain all about the matter, help you to make the most becoming decision.

Inflamed eyelids must have medical attention; unless something is done there is a chance that the lashes will fall. The papillae becoming so weakened that no new little eyelashes will appear. Styes are a menace too. If you are afflicted, don't meddle with them. Apply boric acid compresses until the yellow point breaks, then press out the pus gently. Keep the fingers cool eat with gauze; if you don't you may spread the infection.

When applying any darkening agent to the lashes be careful to keep it away from the eyes. Even the most harmless substances may set up an irritation.

Important Trials This Week For Derby Hopefuls

Blue Grass, Wood Memorial On Program

By SID FEDER

New York, April 21.—P—This is "last chance" week for some of your very best Kentucky Derby hopes and a lot of the winter-book "investors" are rooting for them like sophomores for "alma mammy."

In the Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland Thursday and the Wood Memorial at Jamaica Saturday, several standout gallopers who haven't done any too well up to now will have to produce—or else they're not likely to get that ride to the Downs to hear "My Old Kentucky Home."

A Duel of Standouts

The Blue Grass will feature the first three-year old duel of the 1940 juvenile standouts, Whirlaway and Our Boots, but more important to the Derby picture is just what—if anything—each others as Valdina Groom, Blue Pair and Bushwhacker can do. The Wood serves the spring "surprise package," Robert Morris, against Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons' high-geared King Cole, but beyond that it's going to furnish proof of whether Dispose and Curious Coin, the Florida winter heroes, can come back to their southern form.

As matters now stand, the future book operators added up a lot of potential profit off the turf's surprises of last Saturday and came up with a new callover of odds that didn't much resemble the previous prices. All alone at the top of the latest list was Our Boots, Roy Martin's Bull Dog colt, quoted at 3 to 1 as a result of the neat sprint victory with which he opened his three-year old campaign at Keeneland Saturday.

Dispose at 6 to 1

Hooked up at 4-1 were Charley (Lucky) Howard's Porter's Cap, convincing winner of the Chesapeake Saturday; King Cole, the handsome speedster who turned in a snappy 1:40 2-5 mile workout, and Whirlaway, Warren Wright's leading juvenile money winner of 1940, who is rapidly recovering his two-year-old form and should be "hot" for the Blue Grass.

Back of these were Dispose, the Flamingo winner, who was dropped to 6 to 1 off his run—or lack of it—in the experimental Saturday, in which he showed not a lick of speed and wound up last, and J. Fred Byers' Robert Morris, who opened at 20-1 but is now headed all the way down to 10 as a result of his two fine performances this spring.

Picard Anxious To Teach Others This Game Called Golf

Oklahoma City, April 21—(AP)—It's like getting ready for a banquet by going without food, but Golf Pro Henry Picard figures he can cut his tournament competition to two or three meets a year and still find his way around the course without the aid of a seeing-eye dog.

"Naturally, my tournament play will suffer," said the former P.G.A. champ who left a Hershey, Pa., club because he had to play in tournaments while the members stayed at home, and who landed at the Twin Hills club here, where the members want him to stay at home and teach them to play in tournaments.

"I've been making the tournament circuits for ten years and now I want to settle down and spend my time teaching others to play the game."

Picard, one of the greatest competitors in the professional ranks, has four other reasons for transforming himself from a tournament golfer into a teaching golfer. They are Mrs. Picard and the three little Picards—one ten, one five and the youngest only one year old.

During his six and a half years at the swank Hershey Country club his family saw so little of him that every trip home nearly necessitated a round of introductions.

Doubled After Strike-Out

Hal Trosky, Cleveland Indian infielder, was tagged out at first by Detroit Tiger Pinky Higgins in the fourth inning of a game at Detroit. With the count at three and two on Indian Gee Walker, Trosky left second with the next pitch. Walker struck out and Detroit Catcher Birdie Tebbets got the ball to third ahead of the runner. Cleveland won 2 to 1.

Stengel Among New Owners Of Boston Bees

Boston, April 21.—P—For the second time in his half-century of baseball, Bob Quinn is heading a syndicate-owned club that he hopes will be a pennant-winner for his beloved Boston.

Last night that esteemed veteran baseball broker, Honest Bob, proudly announced that a dozen loyal friends had joined forces with him for the purchase of the 73 per cent controlling interests in the Boston National league club held for the past five years by C. F. Adams, wealthy Boston sportsman. Among them were Cyrus Stengel, the club's manager, and Francis Quinnel, the former national open and amateur golf champion, now a Boston broker.

Deal Represents $350,000

Both Quinn and Adams refused to divulge financial terms of the deal that will be consummated as soon as a few minor legal and financial details have been settled, probably within a day or so. It is understood however, that the Quinn group agreed to give $250,000 cash and a $100,000 note for control.

The owners of the club's remaining 27 per cent holdings, former Massachusetts Governor Frank G. Allen, Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell of Boston and Leopold M. Goulston, the club's vice-president will retain their interests, Quinn revealed.

The other members of the Quinn syndicate are Joseph F. Conna, Richard Revesz, Joseph Mark, Daniel Marr, Louis Perini, Frank McCourt, all of Boston; Guido Rugo of Milton, Dr. William Wrang of Middletown, Conn.; J. W. Powers of Danielson, Conn. and Max Mayer of Brookline, an intimate friend of Manager Stengel.

Revamping his line after the odd-dest week-end of the spring, J. J. Carroll of St. Louis moved the Ohio-owned colt back into his original position as favorite for the run of the roses by slashing his win price to 3-1 and dropping his odds to place and show down to 6-5 and 1-2.

Carroll's action comes as no surprise. Held at 4-1 when the books opened a month ago, Our Boots rose to 8-1 when his handlers said he lagged in training and wouldn't be rushed. He came down to 5-1 on the strength of a fast week-ends and the newest drop was based on his excellent spring debut at Keeneland Saturday.

While Our Boots dropped, King Ranch's Dispose—the horse who temperamentally replaced him as the favorite—moved back up. A sore disappointment when he ran last to three ineligibles at Jamaica Saturday, Dispose went from 4-1 to 6-1 and the only reason he didn't go higher was that his last performance was so bad the commissioners don't believe it.

Bracketed behind Our Boots are C. S. Howard's Porter's Cap, who won the $15,000 Chesapeake over the week-end; Calumet Farm's Whirlaway and Ogden Phipps' King Cole. The latter two turned in fine workouts in their last attempts and are regarded as certain starters. The price of the trio is 4-1 8-5 and 2-1—a good deal of money is piling in. Until today their odds had ranged as high as 8-1.

The biggest drop in the price of any candidate was the tumble of J. W. P. Byers' Robert Morris. He fell from 20-1 to 10-1 4-1 and 2-1 after winning the $16,000 Excelsior Handicap from older horses at Jamaica. Simultaneously, the biggest boost was in the price of Coldstream Stable's Curious Coin, who failed along with Dispose.

Champion Reds Near Basement After 1st Week

By BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

This, marking the start of the second week of the major league baseball season, almost by fiats being pause for reflection at clubs back on pre-season estimates as to how they are holding up under the early firing.

In the light of yesterday's developments, however, it seems to defies anyone to come up with a reasonable logical answer. This correct itself has not come to the front for air, buried as it is under base hits and horrible statistics.

For those who insist on making, however, here is the situation:

In the National league the New York Giants who were favored by some to make the first division are in first place, having won their first game in six starts to Brooklyn yesterday, 10-7. The Dodgers, also favored to repeat for the pennant are resting in second place. Six eminence odds by winning their first two games, including a 10-9 job on the Phillies yesterday.

Things Normal in A. L.

In the American league, barring the presence of the second Boston Red Sox in third place with a record of five wins and one loss, things are not quite so strange. After all, the Cleveland Indians, picked by New York Yankees are figured to run away with everything, are in fourth and at the moment display nothing to indicate otherwise.

Brought of such trends however, let us tabbed doubt into the early administration which before started supposedly misfired. Seven baseball teams on a Sunday afternoon (the St. Louis Browns and Chicago White Sox got off yesterday) was sold on Chicago fans' outdoor plan.

In the National league there were four games. These produced men the adding machine 82 runs 136 hits, 16 errors and 27 pitchers, or an average of 13 runs 23 hits four errors and seven pitchers per game. There were three games in the American league. These turned up 52 runs, 67 hits, 12 errors and 15 pitchers.

In both leagues there was only one game that was free of errors. That second of Ethel Rouse's Red Sox over Dick Kerr, et al and Chicago Park Leaguers. Both pitchers pitched in the Jimmy Foxx book at 3-1. More gives moreover

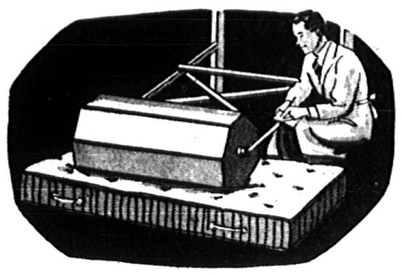
HOW TO GET THE MOST FOR YOUR MATTRESS MONEY . . . Lesson 4



THE BEAUTYREST CAN "TAKE IT"

Here is a picture of the "Torture Machine" used by United States Testing Company for testing mattresses. In making a test the 200 lb. roller moves back and forth across a mattress, constantly pounding and mashing it. Each trip of the roller is automatically counted, and mattresses are frequently inspected for damage. The Beautyrest and 17 other leading mattresses in various price ranges were tested by this machine to determine their relative durability. The Beautyrest lasted 8 times longer than any other mattress tested...You may buy a Beautyrest for only $1 a week

Nazi Legions Roll South On Thessaly Plain

New Threat To Greek-British Forces Over A Wide Front

BULLETIN

Cairo, Egypt, April 21— (AP) — British empire forces in Greece are withdrawing to new defensive positions in "conformity with the movement of the Greek army fighting on their left," the British middle east communique reported today.

The communique credited Australian and New Zealand troops with "brilliantly conducted" delaying actions which had caused heavy German casualties.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Berlin, April 21—German mechanized forces have pushed southward "far beyond Larisa" in pursuit of Greek and British troops retreating on the Greek plain of Thessaly, the German high command said today.

Other Nazi forces operating to the west seized a mile-high mountain pass near Metsovon, 40 miles northwest of captured Trikkala, after crossing the Pindus mountains, the daily war bulletin said.

The communique emphasized air assaults against British troop transports along the Greek east coast. A 7,000-ton merchantman was said to have been destroyed in the port of Volos and two transports were reported "heavily hit" at Khalkis. Another transport was sunk from a convoy in the Mediterranean, the high command said.

Authorized sources previously had said that the Nazi mechanized units were rolling steadily southward after the retreating Greeks and British across the whole 60-mile width of the plain of Thessaly in central Greece.

New Threat to Greeks

The German seizure of Metsovon pass offered a new threat to the Greeks retreating into northwestern Greece from Albania along an ever-narrowing path.

Italian forces which are pushing the Greeks across the border say the retiring forces have only one main road left open, that which runs southward from Ioannina. Metsovon pass is 25 miles east of Ioannina, which in turn is about the same distance from the Albanian border.

Greek resistance was said to be crumbling following the taking of Trikkala, 40 miles west of previously-captured Larisa, and the British constantly harassed from the air were described as withdrawing toward harbors.

Somewhere behind his advancing troops, Adolf Hitler observed his 52nd birthday yesterday in a flower-decorated railway dining car in the presence of military leaders while informed circles in Berlin turned their thoughts toward the political reorganization of the Balkans.

Official and authorized quarters remained silent, but reports persisted that there would be a "conference of victors" almost immediately to map the broad outlines of the axis' new order in the southeast.

Reports from Vienna said King Boris III of Bulgaria had arrived there and Italian leaders were said to be en route.

Plan to Carve Yugoslavia

The impression prevailed in Berlin that the Yugoslav collapse had raised such urgent questions that at least a tentative adjustment was imperative. These questions included the borders of the new state of Croatia and what portions of Yugoslavia should be given to Hungary, Bulgaria and possibly Rumania.

Unofficial reports in the German capital said Bulgarian troops had reached Skoplje southern Yugoslav city which was called historically Bulgarian.

Nazi dispatches from the front used the words "a second Dunkerque" with increasing frequency in mentioning the British and the commentary Dienst Aus Deutschland said the British were heading for Lamia and the ports of Volos and Khalkis.

The capture of Trikkala reported by the German high command Saturday close on the heels of the taking of Larisa, left the Germans on a line less than 150 miles from Athens and the Nazis said their air force was hammering at troops on the single road leading south from Larisa.

Trikkala, a town of 22,000 gives the Germans a grip on the rail line winding through central Greece from Salonika to Volos.

An aunt found him and administered such treatment as was available. Lambert was adopted by the aunt, but the wound never healed. It affected the bone and Lambert suffered from it until it finally caused his death.

LAUREL ROOT REPLACES FRENCH BRIAR FOR PIPES

Hendersonville, N. C. (UP)—The collapse of France has given the mountaineers of western North Carolina a new industry.

Thousands of dollars weekly are being paid the mountaineers for laurel root, the best substitute for French briar, that pipe manufacturers have found in the United States.

The roots undergo a delicate processing before they are sent to the manufacturers and new plants have sprung up as the demand increased. Here the cutting, drying and grading of the peculiar root is carried on.

Government foresters say the removal of these laurel roots, instead of proving harmful, will be beneficial in thinning dense areas of foliage that hinder [illegible]
