Commission Studies New York Transportation Bill

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Illinois Mass Transportation Commission today studied a bill passed by the New York Legislature to create a state office of transportation.

The bill, adopted last week and awaiting the signature of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, would "develop an overall transportation policy in coordination with communities in the state, neighboring states and the federal government."

Sen. Merritt Little (D-Aurora) has introduced a bill for a similar office in the Illinois Legislature. His bill runs along the lines recommended by Gov. Stratton in his message to the assembly last month.

But the New York bill goes much further. It provides for regional studies of transportation problems and authorizes the agency to investigate the operations of transit media within its state.

The Illinois commission, created by the Legislature in the last session, plans to submit a proposal to this session, commission secretary Erwin Popke said.

"We recognize the need for a coordinating agency," said Popke. "Just how it would work and who would be a member remains to be decided, however."

COMMISSION CHAIRMAN Sen. Elroy C. Sandquist (R-Chicago) said he favors the creation of regional agencies in metropolitan areas around the state, rather than a central office. The agencies would be composed of representatives of the state, county and city governments and of major industries and transit companies in the area.

Sandquist said the agency could consider transit problems in its area—such as a bus company desiring to suspend operations because of the problem was brought before the Illinois Commerce Commission. The agency would study the effect of the action upon the

Economy Makes 2 Bandits Rob Grant Park Lunch Room

Two armed bandits made off with $150 in cash and 20 to 25 cartons of cigarettes from Smith's Standard Service lunch room in Grant Park about 10:15 p. m. Thursday, after tying the owner and two patrons with wire and yanking the telephone wires off the wall.

They threatened to dynamite the homes of the victims if they told police about the robbery.

According to a report by Sheriff's department officers, Carl Schmitz, owner of the service station and lunch room, said that one of the men entered about 9:50 and bought coffee and cookies for 15 cents.

At 10 p. m. Schmitz turned off the outside lights, and a few minutes later the second robber entered with a sawed-off double barreled shotgun. The first man then produced an automatic revolver.

They ordered Schmitz and the two patrons to keep their hands down behind them and face the wall, then the second bandit to enter the lunch room and made the victims with wire he had brought in with him.

They got $70 from the cash register, $25 from the owner and the rest of the cash from the two patrons and a vending machine.

Before leaving they destroyed the telephone connection and made their dynamite threat.

Neither the victims or investigating officers could find any sign of what the bandits used for transportation. If they had a car it is suspected they had it parked some distance from the lunch room.

Both bandits were reported to be white, and one had tape on his face seemingly in an effort to disguise his appearance.

Sue Contractor For $10,000, Charge Faulty Work

A $10,000 suit for faulty house construction has been filed against Melvin G. Riddleberger, Limestone Township contractor.

The suit has been filed in Circuit Court by Kenneth and Mary Ann Riddle, Melrose Subdivision, RR 1, Bourbonnais.

The petition states that the Riddles entered into an agreement with Riddleberger for construction of a home May 2, 1957, for a price of $15,350.

It also says that Riddleberger failed to construct the following in accordance with agreed upon specifications:

Concrete footings and foundations, heating system, chimney, electrical wiring, framings, braces, walls, ceilings, supports, flooring, floor tile, cabinets, storm doors, windows and other portions.

The petition says the house is uninhabitable and is built of "inferior materials." It asks the $10,000 for "necessary replacement and repairs."

Piano Duo In Concert Here Saturday

Arthur Ferrante and Louis Teicher, who have earned a reputation for a fresh approach to two-piano playing, will appear in Kankakee High School auditorium at 8 p. m. Saturday.

Their concert is the fourth event of the season presented by the Civic Music Association.

During their performances, Ferrante and Teicher introduce new musical sounds produced in unorthodox ways in addition to the normal use of keys and strings.

Sometimes one will suddenly rise, lean over the strings and begin to beat, pluck or strum them. Other strange tones are also produced with the aid of mutes and other gadgets invented by them.

Many of the sounds are worked into intricate arrangements of modern tunes taken from Broadway shows but their repertoire ranges from Bach and pre-Bach composers through the great romantics to modern works.

Ferrante and Teicher, both graduates and former faculty members at New York's Juilliard School of Music, have appeared on every major TV network and have recorded extensively.

2 Former POWs Cite Value Of RC Work

The Red Cross fund campaign, which will be launched Monday in Kankakee, has received memories for two Kankakeans of wartime days when the Red Cross meant a great deal toward their survival.

The two are Albert Keller, Kankakee's state American Legion commander, and Charles Magnuson, a chemist at the Armstrong Cork Co.

Both men reported that had it not been for the Red Cross food packages that reached them in the prison camps there would have been many more prisoners dying than was the case.

"IT'S AN EFFORT OF THE Red Cross that I will never forget," remarked Keller, "not only for what it meant to me personally but also for what it meant to all the POWs."

Magnuson explained that the normal diet of food issued to each POW in the camp amounted to 800 to 1,000 calories a day.

"For a prisoner who came into the camp in good physical condition this meant a gradual losing of weight until he was pretty much of a walking skeleton," Magnuson explained. "For the prisoner who was not in good physical condition it meant that he was susceptible to disease and would have a rough time recovering because of the light calorie intake."

"The thing that aided us all, of course, was the Red Cross food package. We were to receive a package a week but because of the poor transportation in Germany they didn't always come through on time. Finally the arrangement was made to allow the Red Cross to transport the packages in their huge moving trucks and from that time on we were better off."

Bourbonnais, 10; and Charles B. Fitzhugh, 69, of 921 S. Dearborn Ave., 69.

The milk truck was driven by Raymond H. Schmohe, 42, Milford. Atkins was later fined $10 in police court for failure to observe a stop sign and $20 for driving without a valid operator's license.

Plan Junior College Survey In Iroquois

CRESCENT CITY (INS)—A survey for the need of a junior college in Iroquois County will be conducted by each of the 12 high school districts in the county. It was reported to the Crescent-Iroquois Community High School board of education at a regular meeting Thursday night.

A report on an organizational meeting of a committee to study a proposed junior college was given by the board by Arnold Lehman and Mrs. Robert Meyer, representatives of the Crescent City area on the committee. The junior college session was held Wednesday night in Watsela with R. P. Roberts, county superintendent of schools, in charge. Ten of the 12 school districts were represented and it was decided a survey would be necessary to determine how many students would attend a junior college if one were established.

Cost of the surveys are to be borne by the various districts. It was reported that at least 160 students would have to assure attendance to form a junior college with 200 students necessary to make it economically feasible.

THE COMMITTEE said it would meet again in March with a University of Illinois expert on organizing junior colleges. The date was not set.

At the board meeting Louis Sherr, superintendent, reported on a survey among students in high school on interest in taking foreign languages. The board discussed

Teenagers Love Parties, Despite Problems

Everybody, every age, loves a party... but teenagers especially so. Perhaps their enjoyment stems from the fact that their "best" parties are spontaneous. They just happen; nothing special is planned. Teenagers do not wait until Christmas, the Fourth of July or some other national holiday for a party. Any impromptu occasion is an excuse.

Although teenagers simply love to get together and party, they are the first to admit that giving parties causes PROBLEMS. Perhaps everything is all arranged. The family is cooperative. The food is out of this world. The big night arrives with everything taken care of, and then all of a sudden, the party-giver is hit with a sudden case of the butterflies. He or she wants the party to be a successful one, and supping it isn't.

ALL THE CASUALNESS that goes into a casual party must be figured out to the hilt, or it will end up as a casual mess. The importance of getting things done well ahead of time cannot be stressed enough. A few minutes relaxing before the guests arrive will give even the host or hostess with the most "butterflies" a chance to calm down.

Be sure to invite people who like to do the same things. For instance, some friends would rather play cards, while others like to dance. Make it clear whether the party is to be a social or a dance party. Invited one should come alone, bring someone of his or her own choice, or escort someone who has chosen. The better your planning, the more fun for everybody!

Food is the "life of the party," and whenever things drag at a party, it's time to "Come and get it" or "Fix your own," for today's trend is toward "do-it-yourself" in the way of refreshments. Guests are often asked to add their favorite toppings to pizza or to spread the relish on hamburgers. The United Church Of Christ Story

(This is the 12th in an intermittent series of dispatches profiling America's major religious bodies.)

BY LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

America's newest major religious body symbolizes, in its name and history, the powerful drive for Christian unity that is gradually breaking down the ancient barriers of Protestant denominationalism.

Its name is the United Church of Christ. It was formed on June 28, 1957, by the merger of the Congregational Christian Churches and the Evangelical & Reformed Church.

Present Charters For Cub Packs, Scout Troop 397

Charters for Cub Scout pack 397 and the recently organized Boy Scout troop 397, sponsored by the American Lutheran Church, were presented at a combined Blue and Gold banquet held Thursday evening at the church. Charters were presented by Z. N. Maisonnave, assistant district commissioner.

Donald Carlson, representing the church brotherhood, was in charge of presentation of troop and American flags. Registration cards were given to adult scouters. Morgan Foster of Manteno, magician, provided entertainment.

Thirteen Cub Scouts were presented with advancement awards and three Boy Scouts received tenderfoot awards. Cub Scout awards were: Tom Capron, Tom Knickelbine, James Fredlund, Greg Kline, Brent Veleker and Lee Ifland, lion badge; Terry Bayston, Gary Jones, Capron and Kline, lion gold and silver arrows; Stephen Boule, two bear silver arrows; Robert Dunlavey, bear badge; John Cleeland and Glen Elan, wolf badge; Gary Frazier, wolf gold arrow; Lee Ifland, three wolf silver arrows; and Glen Elan, bobcat.

Boy Scout tenderfoot awards went to Gary Kent, Kenneth Crossen and Courtland Bonewell.

Mary Allen and twins, Milford. Births: A girl to Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hasz, Milford.

When the merger is completed, the United Church will have a membership of about 2,100,000 and will be the nation's seventh largest Protestant body.

ALTHOUGH MANY congregations have begun using the new name, no local church is legally af-

Presents Show At 2 Cub Banquets

"Puzzles" was the topic of a talk and demonstration given by Dr. Clarence Grothaus at two Cub Scout Blue and Gold banquets held last weekend. Dr. Grothaus demonstrated his collection of puzzles Saturday night at the banquet of pack 327, Our Savior Lutheran Church, held in the church basement, and Sunday evening talked to pack 324, Maternity Grade School, following a dinner held in the Bourbonnais Grade School gymnasium.

Louis Taylor also was a speaker at the pack 327 banquet. Awards presented were James Divit and Randy Cote, bobcat pins; Joe Faucher, wolf badge; Brian Crosby, gold arrow under the bear; Greg Pechauer, lion badge; Larry Crosby joined the Boy Scouts.

Awards presented at the pack 324 banquet were Jack Williamson and William Lamb, bobcat pins; Gerald Olson, Mike Sprinker, Richard Barrone and Greg Taylor, wolf gold arrows; Richard Barrone (5) and Greg Taylor (1), wolf silver arrows; Michael Chamness and Derrell Mochel, bear badges; and Robert Wren, one gold and five silver bear pins; James Kneche, one gold and four silver lion arrows.

filiated with the United Church of Christ at present. It will exist only in spirit and on paper: until a constitution, now being drafted, is completed and approved.

Some local Congregationalist churches have served notice they will not affiliate with the United Church. They have formed the National Association of Congregational Christian Churches. This organization reports a membership of 171 local churches, out of a total of 5,544 congregational Christian churches in the nation.

Four of the dissident Congregationalist churches and 10 individuals have filed a suit in the federal district court of New York challenging the legality of the merger. An earlier legal test, in New York state courts, resulted in a clear-cut victory for the promerger forces.

Despite these birth pains, the United Church is already regarded by students of church history a tremendously significant milestone in the ecumenical movement which seeks to draw together the divided Christian family.

Unlike other church mergers of recent years which have united Methodists with Methodists, Presbyterians with Presbyterians and Lutherans with Lutherans, the United Church represents the confluence of two entirely distinct streams of Protestant Christianity.

CONGREGATIONALISM, which came to America aboard the Mayflower in 1620, is an offshoot of the English Reformation. The Puritans felt that the ecclesiastical hierarchy of the Church of England was stifling true Christian faith, so they established in New England a new kind of church in which each local congregation was completely free to manage its own affairs. This emphasis on congregational autonomy remains until this day a distinctive feature of Congregationalist churches.

The Evangelical & Reformed Church is a product of the Continental Reformation led by John Calvin and Martin Luther. It came to America with the first German and Dutch immigrants to Pennsylvania. Like other churches of the Calvinist tradition, it has a representative system of government (called the Presbyterian polity) in which regional bodies called synods administer many church affairs.

Working out a compromise between these different ecclesiastical structures is the main problem confronting the constitution drafters of the United Church.

There are no major doctrinal issues to be resolved, because both denominations eschew official creeds and leave the individual believer free to work out his own understanding of the Bible within the basic context of faith in Jesus Christ as divine Lord and Savior.

Worship customs vary widely in both denominations with each congregation free to make its own rules.
