2,330 Pounds Of Beef Stolen At Mokence

Some hungry thieves took 2,330 pounds of prime beef Thursday night from a slaughter house east of Mokence, owned by James Spieth.

Spieth discovered the theft about 8 a.m. today, when he went to the slaughter house to get some meat for his grocery store in Mokence.

An investigation by the sheriff's office showed three whole sides of beef were taken, plus the hind quarters from four more.

The meat was valued by Spieth at about $1,150.

Also taken was a large saw used to cut up carcasses.

Tire tracks outside the slaughter house seemed to indicate the thieves used one or more cars, not a truck, to haul away the loot.

A large knife they used to cut off the hind quarters was found stuck in the ground near the chute used to unload cattle.

FLAT ROCK, N.C. (AP)—Poet Carl Sandburg, exhausted by travel, work and the pain of an ulcerated tooth, is taking a week's rest on doctor's orders.

His wife said Thursday that Sandburg, 81, biographer of Abraham Lincoln, has been on the move continuously since Lincoln's birthday anniversary Feb. 12.

Sandburg canceled a lecture set for Bangor, Maine, tonight.

He is carrying a toothache around the world.

The classes were sponsored by the two locals and conducted by the University of Illinois Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations and the Division of University Extension.

A father-daughter breakfast Sunday will mark the climax of the Girl Scout Week celebration.

While the Berlin crisis will remain the No. 1 item on the agenda of the Anglo-U. S. discussions, Macmillan has stressed that he intends to spell out the reasons for Britain's initiation at recent American trade decisions.

Basically, the four principal U. S. trade moves which have stirred particular opposition in Britain are:

1. The announcement last year of U. S. quotas for the import of lead and tin and restrictions on oil imports.

2. The rejection of the English Electric Company's bid to furnish equipment at the Greys Ferry, Ark., dam project.

3. The U. S. attitude at the recent Montreal conference on aviation nationalities acts of the International Civil Aviation Organization. The conference approved an American navigating system in preference to a British system.

4. U. S. wool tariff quotas, which the British feel work against high-quality cloths in favor of staple cloths.

British worries about all these are based more on a strong feeling of dependence on U. S. economic leadership than on hostility or suspicion.

The Fight For Your Tax Dollars

The United States is involved in plenty of serious problems—Berlin, the rocket race, the Middle East—but not one of them is any more critical than the battle of the budget which is being waged in Congress.

The lines have been formed and the fight is on between the budget balancers and the budget busters. The issue is President Eisenhower's budget which would hold federal expenditures at $77 billion.

At stake is the future of our national economy. Every American is involved because, as Rep. Leslie Arends points out, "every dollar expended by the federal government comes from our individual pockets. Tax dollars do not grow on trees."

Rep. Arends suggests that taxpayers might become a bit more vocal in economy demands and spending curbs if they knew how much of the $77 billion was going to cost their families.

He points out that keeping the federal budget in balance will cost the average taxpayer $442. You know how average you are if you glance at your current tax return.

Basing it on population the $77 billion budget will mean a federal tax load of nearly 12 million dollars for the city of Kankakee and nearly 36 million dollars for the entire country.

Foreign Cars With Yankee Flavor

Back when foreign-made cars were gaining their first popularity in this country, there were those who scoffed.

"They said the foreign products were spawned by necessity in the have-not countries where comfort and style were sacrificed for conformity and frugality. These sources claimed the overseas autos were designed for inferior highways, costly gasoline and short trips."

Wait until they become entrenched in the U. S., then watch the foreign manufacturers change the product to fit the super highway, high speed driving and convenience-demanding desires of the American motorists, they argued.

Maybe they weren't so wrong. We have just received a news release from a British auto maker which stresses at great length the luxuriousness, styling, comforts and increased horsepower of a new model.

Some Uncharted Seas To Explore

Amid our grandiose plans for the conquest of space it may come as a rude shock to most of us that the oceans, which constitute three-quarters of the earth's surface, still remain largely unexplored. Even more startling is the revelation by a committee on oceanography of the National Academy of Science that "we know less about many regions of the ocean today than we know about the lunar surface."

The seas, the committee report states, present a challenge to man which in magnitude approaches that of space. Major features of the oceans are uniquely different from anything either on the surface of the moon or on the land surfaces of the earth.

My mother, who was also in the theater, noticed this and sent him a letter, I guess that's how she knew very little about him.

"Father, as he grew older, was a very devout man. He helped many people come into the church. He was a very dedicated man—dedicated to his fellow human beings. He used to spend hours every day helping people with their problems."

"He had tremendous drive and a great capacity for work. After a long day at the studio, he would write most of the night on plays, sketches, songs, letters to his friends in trouble. He never sloughed off a job, no matter how small."

"In the household he was boss. There was no doubt of that. But he had great humor."

"We had a very full relationship as father and daughter, and as a mother and son."

"I have no desire at all to run for office myself," she said. "But the theatrical aspects of politics fascinate me. I do love to watch a really smooth politician perform."

People in Britain and the Commonwealth are too inclined to touch their ears and say, 'Yes, all very true. American politics is something I don't want to stand up to them more—Royal Air Force Marshal Sir JOHN SLESSOR.

We must keep the door of opportunity open in agriculture—and we cannot do this through more and more governmental spending, which always means more and more controls, more and more regimentation.—Agriculture Secretary EZRA TAFT BENSON.

THEY CAN'T DO A THING WITHOUT YOU!

Impressive Example Of Statesmanship

WASHINGTON—They may quibble and put in London papers about some feeling of hurt pride or even supposed to exist here concerning possible assumption of world leadership by Prime Minister Macmillan. They may worry in Paris whether attention is being paid to Gen. De Gaulle. These are petty matters.

But it was in dealing with the possibility of a ground war, that President Eisenhower gave at his new conference Wednesday an impressive example of statesmanship. This is what really makes America so strong in the eyes of clear-thinking people everywhere.

The President has been urged to increase the ground forces because of the possibility that the crisis in Berlin might lead to a ground war. But he declined to make this an excuse for augmenting the budget for ground troops. In fact, he issued what must certainly be viewed in Moscow as a stern warning when he remarked that he did not intend to see the Allies fight a ground war in Europe. He left the implication that the use of nuclear weapons would be seriously considered.

This is laying it on the line to Moscow, where there should not be the slightest doubt now that America is in earnest about resisting any attempt to force Western troops out of Berlin. Mr. Eisenhower says that the West doesn't intend to start any war and that Western troops will there be any force used in defense.

THE PRESIDENT has said he wouldn't yield an inch on the Berlin crisis, and he hasn't. The President says American armed forces are adequate for the task—and he stakes his reputation on it as one who served in the post of supreme commander of the Allied armies in Europe during World War II. He couldn't depend on guesses then, and he isn't depending on them now.

Mr. Eisenhower has been accused of being more interested in budget balancing than in national safety—a foolish, partisan and silly charge. He answered bluntly at his news conference this week that, even if the federal government were operating at a surplus, he wouldn't spend more than it currently being recommended in the budget for the armed forces. Instead, he would use that surplus for such things as improving education.

The President might have gone further. He might have said that a deliberate effort is under way to unbalance the budget not so much to add appropriations for national defense as to break down the whole bulwark of government finance so that almost everything for which special interests want to spend money will have a clearer field.

For, once the budget is unbalanced, the argument would be heard that the deficit will not do any harm.

U. S. Ultimate Target

The United States, Great Britain, France and Soviet Russia are in Berlin as an act of war because they defeated Hitler and conquered Germany. Germany itself came to be divided into two parts, East Germany and West Germany. East Germany developed into a satellite of Soviet Russia, a part of the Soviet Universal State; West Germany developed into a free country, rich, effective, competitive in world markets with Great Britain and the United States.

No peace treaty has ever been arranged with Germany because there can be no agreement as to which of these two Germany. Therefore World War II never ended in Europe.

SINCE THE END OF WORLD WAR II as a fighting phase of a continuous war since 1914, various attempts have been made to find a formula for uniting the two Germanys but all such efforts have failed. The fact is that whereas West Germany can speak for itself as the voice of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, the voice for East Germany comes from the Kremlin in Moscow and its owner is Nikita Khrushchev.

Errors were made during World War II at Yalta and Potsdam in the determination of the fate of Germany on the assumption that Soviet Russia was a loyal ally which sought the same kind of a peaceful world that the West sought. The imperialistic characteristics of Soviet Russia were not identified, with the result that today, 14 years later, the question of Berlin and of the unification of Germany is still before us and may lead to World War III.

Two courses are open to the United States:

1. Berlin and West Germany can be abandoned to the imperialistic purpose and strength of Soviet Russia;
2. The United States and its allies can refuse to abandon Berlin and West Germany.

THE FIRST COURSE WOULD BRING the power of Soviet Russia to the Rhine and France would have to prepare to defend itself from being absorbed in the Soviet Universal State; the second course could lead to a general war involving the United States. The second course means that patience has been exhausted and that the western world will defend itself; the first course indicates that the West has become obsolescent and gives up under threat.

Eugene Lyons, who is an authority on Russia and a senior editor of "The Reader's Digest," said:

"The real enigma is why we who are earmarked for conquest prefer to kid ourselves that communism can somehow be bought off, or contained, or induced to commit suicide by suddenly renouncing global conspiracy and world domination. We behave as if this were a conventional disagreement between nations—a question of territory and markets and colonies, as in the past. But it's nothing of the kind. What's involved is the 'permanent revolution' unleashed by Lenin, promoted with increasing zeal and increasing success by all his successors. And we're doomed to defeat as long as we submit to political tranquillizers."

This view is absolutely correct. It can only be hoped that it is not too late. Soviet Russia seeks the absorption of the continent of Europe in the Soviet Universal State which would give the Soviet Union State industrial base unequalled in world history and which would reduce the significance of the United States considerable. In Germany, Soviet Russia would find a hard-working, initiating and imaginative people.

THE ULTIMATE TARGET IS, OF COURSE, the United States which is the principal stumbling block to Soviet Russia's imperialistic ambitions. The Communists have always held that they can defeat the United States without a fighting war. The mechanism for this is for Soviet Russia to use capitalist methods to compete with American manufacturers in world markets. In this phase of the cold war, Soviet Russia is progressing rapidly. Secondly, Soviet Russia employs the psychological phases of the cold war to raise our budgets, to stimulate inflationary measures in this country and a flight of nervous capital to Switzerland and other tax and money havens.

Khrushchev may retreat from his threats over Berlin but that will be of no significance. He will try in Iran; he will try in Cuba or Venezuela or Bolivia; he will try in Indonesia. Should Khrushchev fall or die, the same program will be followed. It is a program of world conquest, devised by Lenin on the basis of Marxism and is rigidly fixed in the minds and hearts of Communists everywhere.

To Manage Sick Child

What can you do when an ill child won't take his medicine with a spoon inside.

Otherwise, it probably is best out a struggle? Parents across the country have to let father hold the youngster ask for this question of themselves on his lap so he can grab the child and the doctor comes in to administer the medicine.

In the past, I have offered several suggestions to help solve this perennial problem. Now, a North Carolina pediatrician, Dr. Forrest P. White, has mapped out a real battle plan.

In an article in a recent issue of the American Medical Association's publication, "Today's Health," White lists the following general rules:

FIRST, PLAN THE procedure. Have all the equipment within reach. If two adults are to administer the medicine, decide what each will do.

Put the medicine bottle where the child can't knock it over. It is especially advisable if it is an expensive medicine.

Right from the beginning be determined that you will succeed. Perhaps this obvious determination will be enough to convince the child that he might as well cooperate.

Keep calm and don't let the child's excitement affect you. Talk soothingly to the youngster, even if he is yelling and screaming.

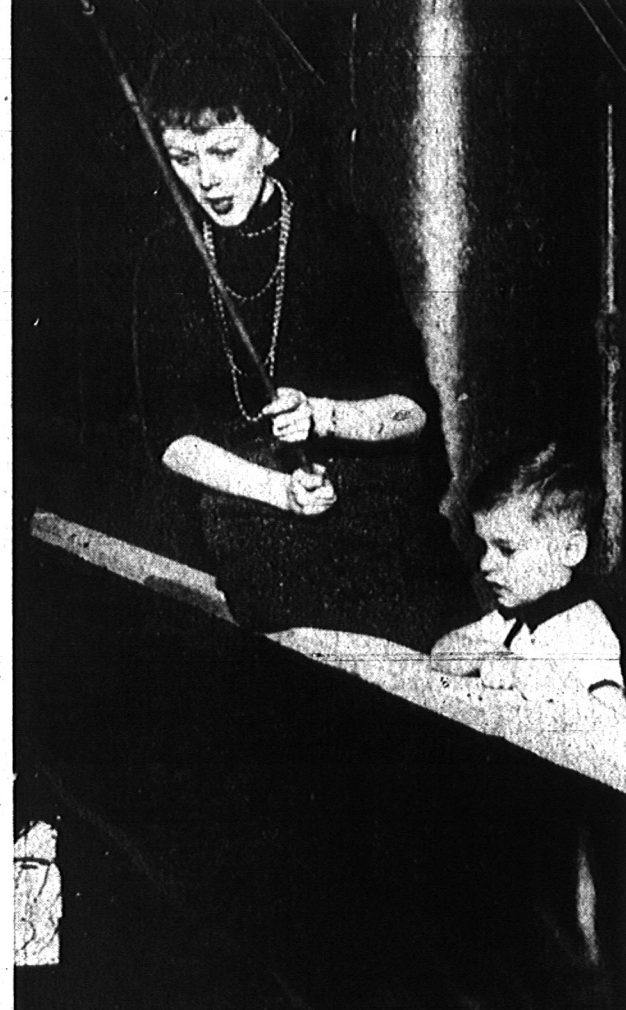

If the child vomits when a liquid medicine is given, wait until he calms down before trying to give it to him again. Generally, it will stay down the second time.

Sometimes it is best to give only half a teaspoonful at a time. This way less of the medicine is apt to be spilled.

Gently place the spoon on the tongue and hold it there. Tip it to pour a small amount onto the back of the tongue. As long as you hold the spoon in place, the child won't spit out the medicine and therefore has no choice but to swallow it.

IF THE CHILD clamps his mouth shut tightly, you can wrap him snugly in a sheet or blanket, thus freeing both of your hands from control.

Ignore adults in their own home is just plain bad manners.

Quite A Battle, But She Won!

By JEAN MARTIN

This is not just another one of these "fish" stories you've heard your friends tell so often.

This is the real McCoy, although Martin's the name.

For the first time in my quarter of a century I went fishing. The scene was the big fish tank at the Sportsman Show which opens tonight.

BEFORE THIS assignment I didn't know the first thing about baiting a hook, casting a line, pulling it—the fish—in and taking it off the hook... ugh!

I don't know what I would have done if I'd been fishing in the Kankakee River and caught one.

There at the Aquarium I felt more secure knowing that if that 50 pounder, well, maybe not quite, pulled me in I'd at least have a swimming chance.

And what a thrill it was for me and especially for a 4-year-old onlooker who seemed to be more of an expert fisherman than I, when I felt my first bite.

WE ALL THREE, Dennis Skelly, son of the Lawrence Skellys of 802 N. Lombard Rd., myself and the fish—all jumped—with joy!

With joy! Not the fish, he was jumping with anger for he had discovered that I'd baited the hook with an imitation fly. That's right, no worms for my fish or for me!

So at the end of my fish story instead of taking the slimy slippery morsel off the hook I'm getting myself off first with a sign worded: "BEEN FISHIN'."

AT FIRST I THOUGHT it was a 50 pounder. So did Dennis.

IT EVEN FELT like a monster!

I'M SURE ITS looks were deceiving.

Funeral Services Set For Sheldon Gay Blade

SHELDON (JNS)—Funeral services for "A. Razor," 100, will be held at 1:30 p.m. Sunday on the lawn of the Sheldon Church of Christ. Richard Wilson, pastor of the Church of Christ, will read the obituary. A eulogy will be presented by Harry Ewing, longtime arch enemy of the "Razor" family.

Mr. Razor was born April 1, 1859, son of the first settlers, "Mr. and Mrs. Straight Edge Razor." Although barred from grade school, his closest friend, "Razor Strap," attended every session of the "Razor" family.

Employed for short periods during his life, "Mr. Razor" had been in failing health since the organization of the Centennial Association of Sheldon a year ago.

A feud with the Brothers of the Brush committee resulted in his death on March 1.

Surviving are several thousand area descendants, including the "Electric, Double Edge and Single Edge" families. Immediate relatives are in serious condition today, expected to reappear until Aug. 1, the last day of the week-long centennial celebration.

The body will lie in state in a Sheldon store, where friends may call until the hour of the services. Burial will be in the Sheldon cemetery.

A horse-drawn hearse of the early 1900s will lead the funeral cortege to the burial plot. Included in the procession will be a Mormon caisson by Joe Mah-bitt, a Model-T Ford and horse-drawn wagons carrying the pallbearers and dignitaries.

Due to unusual meriment shown by Sheldon residents over the demise of Mr. Razor, the Sheldon town are in serious condition today, expected to reappear until Aug. 1, the last day of the week-long centennial celebration.

2 Scouters Win Silver Beaver Awards

Two Silver Beaver awards, highest award a Boy Scout leader can earn on a council basis, were presented Thursday night at the annual Rainbow Council banquet and meeting in Joliet.

The Rev. Henry Wilkening, former Catholic diocesan chaplain of the Joliet Diocese, and John Lazier, scoutmaster of troop 66, Coal City, received the awards made annually to persons who have made outstanding contributions to boyhood.

The Rev. Fr. Wilkening is a former assistant pastor of St. Rose Church in Kankakee. He served here for five years until four years ago when he was transferred to St. Dennis Parish in Lockport. Just a few months ago he was named pastor of St. Joseph's Church in Manhattan. He has served Boy Scouting as an institutional representative, executive board member, chairman of the council diocesan committee on Catholic relationships and been active in camping.

Lazier has been a neighborhood commissioner, assistant scoutmaster, and Order of the Arrow adviser and was on the regional sectional staff at the 1957 national jamboree.

Also on the program was the recognition of all scouts who attained the Eagle rank during the year. Those from the Kankakee area honored were Darel Grothaus, post 311, Wesley Methodist Church, Bradley; Jack Proffitt, troop 58, Wilmington VFW; Thomas Rolfe, post 304, First Methodist Church.

Bill Seeks To Revamp State Police Merit Board

SPRINGFIELD (UPI)—A bill introduced this week in the Legislature to overhaul completely the state Police Merit Board "would give the rank-and-file policeman a voice again," its sponsor declared today.

Sen. John Lewis (R-Marshall) said the present three-member civilian board "has completely failed" to acquaint itself with the problems facing career state policemen. He said:

"The result is easy to see... poor public relations between troopers and the public, and low morale within the force itself." He said present morale on the state police "is the lowest I've seen in years."

LEWIS' BILL CALLS for establishment of a six member board composed of six state policemen who would be appointed by the director of public safety for six year terms. The state police chief would be an ex-officio member of the board.

The six policemen would be an assistant superintendent, a captain who is not a superintendent, a lieutenant, sergeant, corporal and patrolman.

"Under this setup the patrolman would have one of his own rank on the board making sure his interests were safeguarded which is not the case now," Lewis said.

Lewis said present patrolmen cannot advance in the state police unless their superiors "give the OK." This situation, he said, is the "biggest problem" of the state police in a state police district which in turn promotes low morale and disinterest in the job of law enforcement.

Gov. Stratton gave a cool reception earlier this week to Lewis' bill saying he felt the present three-member board was doing "a good job."

Valley Veterinary Association Elects Officers

Public Safety Director Joseph Bibb was not enthusiastic about the measure either. He said:

"I STRONGLY FAVOR the merit system for the Illinois state police. Perhaps it would be wise for the Legislature to study its operations and functions from time to time. Civil service systems such as the Police Merit Board should be subjected to constant study and analysis. I think the present Police Merit Board has done an outstanding job."

Lewis said his Senate district, the 34th, covers parts of the Chicago-Urbana and Elmhurst state police districts "where there is trouble right now." He said he has conferred with other lawmakers and they have told him "the situation is bad" in their districts as well.

Lewis said he would bring legislation to the Legislature to study the situation in districts where "motorists have cursed state troopers who stopped them for some reason."

He leveled sharp criticism at the present board's process of selecting candidates for the state police training school saying "a large percentage of those taking the test given by the board fail because they don't measure up to present standards. He indicated disagreement with the present standards."

Many troopers are against the present system of transferring from one district to another miles away because there is "no stability of location, especially for troopers with families," Lewis said.

Nephew Saves Man Buried 10 Minutes

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—Sam Scott, 42, of nearby Robstown, was completely buried for 10 minutes Thursday when a casket was being dug out of the ground.

His nephew, Wayne Muckelroy, 20, Robstown, frantically clawed loose sand from Scott's head until it was cleared. Oxygen was fed him through a tube and mask until the crushing sand could be dug away.

Los Angeles Hot

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A summer-like heat wave sent the temperature up to 87 degrees in Los Angeles Thursday—hottest day of the year. What's more, there wasn't any smog.

It was even hotter in other Southern California cities. Long Beach topped the list with 90, followed by Anaheim, San Diego, and Palm Springs, where it was 87.

Says Women Careless When Clothes Shopping

BY DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Heaven help the American family if women shopped for food as carelessly as they do for clothes, says Edith Head, Hollywood's most famous designer.

"MOST WOMEN ARE" carelessly about their homes, their furniture, their children and their meals," says the small, dynamic Edith, who has dressed most of the famous movie stars from Clara Bow to Sophia Loren. "But the average woman has a blind spot when she looks at herself."

Miss Head, a former French teacher in California schools, is fashion chief for Paramount Pictures, a post which she has held through a generation of movie glamour girls. She lives in Beverly Hills with her husband, Ward Jihen; designs all her own clothes as well as those of the stars.

"FASHION CAN be whimsy," she says.

Back among the hats in America, Mrs. Chris Cosones recalls that the women of Colombia, where she has been visiting, don't wear hats.

Kankakee Woman Enjoys Trip, Visit To Colombia

Having worked in the millinery business for the past five years, Mrs. Chris Cosones was out of her element among the women of Rio Hacha, Colombia. They don't wear hats. They wear lace mantillas. Mrs. Cosones, who DID wear hats, was visiting in Colombia with her daughter, Mrs. Jose Romero. Julie Cosones Romero was married two years ago. She met her husband during a visit to the University of Illinois, where he was studying civil engineering, and returned with him to his Spanish speaking homeland. Mrs. Romero speaks Spanish, fluently, and wears mantillas instead of hats. The Kankakee mother, who resides at 385 N. Harrison Ave. and works downtown, visited with her son-in-law and daughter for two months and returned recently with much pride in her daughter. She is proud of the manner in which her daughter has adjusted to a new country and she is amazed at her mastery of a new language. The Romero speak Spanish, except when alone at home.

MRS. ROMERO devotes several hours a week to teaching the English language to children at a Catholic school in Rio Hacha. In return, the nuns are teaching her to write the Spanish language.

Mrs. Cosones describes her daughter's apartment as "very modern" and her life as very pleasant. She observed that Latin American men "are really the bosses" in their homes, but adds that her son-in-law shows his wife the courtesies familiar here in America.

Returning to a cold winter, Mrs. Cosones recalls the 100 to 100 degrees temperature in Colombia with much favor. She enjoyed her first trip out of the country and loved visiting the people of Rio Hacha (with her daughter as interpreter) even though they were "hatless."

Yours Family And You

What Do You Think Of Matching Wardrobe Fad?

By DR. PAUL POPPENE

Q. What do you think of the fad of husband and wife having clothes of the same material and much alike in cut?

A. Matter of taste—but it's not my taste. I like to see many men and womanly women, not blurred carbon copies of a neutral sort of nothing.

Q. Is it true that one American state does not allow divorce?

A. No. But South Carolina prohibits divorce in its State Constitution until 10 years ago, when the rule was amended, by a vote whose fairness was widely questioned at the time. The state now gives divorces, though there hasn't been much demand for them. If I like to know how the policy of prohibition in this respect worked out, I have an old reprint, "The States With No Divorces," which I'll gladly send a free copy to any reader on request accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelope. The story is very instructive!

Q. DO MARRIED MEN really live longer or is it, as the old adage has it, that "it only seems longer?"

A. A married man around 40 probably has twice as many years of life ahead as a single or divorced man at 40, and he's likely to have a lot more satisfaction per year.

Q. How can we get our daughter to cut more substantial bread before she starts to school?

A. It's important to do so and one way is to get her up earlier, letting her help prepare the breakfast, make beds, and do other chores around the house so that she has an appetite. If she's very young, write me with stamped, self-addressed envelope for free reprint, "Let's Avoid Feeding Problems With Children."

Q. Do you think co-education is helpful or harmful, from the point of view of sex education?

A. Interesting light is thrown on your question by a survey which Frank E. Moreton made among 4,000 teachers and scholars in Great Britain. "Of teachers educated co-educationally, a large majority had found their experience helpful in their relations with the other sex. Of those educated at single-sex schools, a large majority had found their education harmful in this respect."

Q. WHY ISN'T IT against the law for landlords to refuse to rent a home to a couple with children?

A. New York has a state law making any landlord guilty of a

True Friend Tackles An Offensive Problem

By JEANNE D'ARCY

Are you a true friend who tells your duty to speak out? Certainly, if you say nothing because it's the easier way?

It's a troublesome question that arises when someone you know well is offending with bad breath or perspiration.

It's embarrassing to you—and for them—to bring up such a topic and yet, if you're truly a friend, it's your duty to speak out. Certainly, if the matter is so obvious that you've noticed it, others have, too. Why let a friend be the center of unflattering talk?

You can always work up to the topic sideways.

If it's perspiration, for example, you might talk of your own troubles in this regard, stressing all the things you must do to keep daily—daily shower, daily change of clothing, use of dress shields, application of effective deodorant.

This paves the way for your friend to discuss her own problems, and may give you an opportunity to recommend a deodorant you yourself find most effective.

The same approach can be used in tackling the question of bad breath. It may be due to dental cavities or to a stomach condition. It can also be caused by improper brushing of teeth. Thorough brushing, indicated and for real social security, it doesn't hurt to use a mouth-wash either.
