Meet Robert D. Murphy

State Department's No. 3 Man Is A Quietly Tough Negotiator

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The hard-negotiating, high-tension negotiator of John Foster Dulles will continue in the State Department. That's assured by the appointment of Robert D. Murphy as two man in the department, will continue to specialize in economic

MURPHY WITH NASSER: Two decades of trouble shooting.

Murphy has been the top U. S. trouble shooter for a series of Secretaries of State. He negotiated the French North Africa during World War II, was in Berlin during the airlift, at Trieste, in Panmunjom, in London during the Suez crisis, in Tokyo just after the war, in Lebanon after the American landings. Wherever there's been a fire in the past two decades, Murphy has been there.

"What kind of a man, then, is he?" "He's Irish — and acts it," says one associate, half admiringly, half wryly. "He has a 'bland' way of negotiating. But when he's through you look down and find you've lost your pants... that is, if you're on the other side and up against him."

Says another associate: "He gets there by being persistent. He presses a point and presses a point and keeps on pressing it. He doesn't get excited but he keeps on calmly just pressing that point. No matter how many times the man on the other side of the table edges away, he keeps on pressing, circling around and coming back."

"Then, if the day ends and he doesn't yet have the answer, he'll wait until the man he's talking to will be bringing the point up again tomorrow. And it's all calm, and it's all quiet, and the other man often doesn't feel it until it's too late."

"He doesn't wear down. He likes people. He likes to talk and negotiate. It gives him a mental lift. But don't get the idea he's inflexible," says one associate. "I've seen him solve tough negotiations by reinterpreting—finding a ground, both sides can stand on. But he never gives up. And he doesn't give in."

IF THAT SOUNDS laudatory, it is. The men who work for Bob Murphy have an intense loyalty. They worry about him, his long hours, the way he drives himself. It takes a shift of his assistants to keep up with him. One comes in early to be ready for Bob Murphy's 10 minutes to nine, and another to be ready for his 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. session.

The invocations were given by the Rev. Clifford Bruner. Vern Nelson announced the patrol boys and girls visited the Museum of Science and Industry on May 2. The PTA paid transportation cost.

Nelson also announced both sixth grades and a fifth grade would be taken to Kankakee by bus next year to make room for a kindergarten. Two more classes will be split.

Reports of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers were given by Mrs. Kraft and Mrs. Meyer. Mrs. Stanley Heck presented awards to the poppy poster contest winners, Jeanne Jager, Marlin Haile, Debra Meyer, Donald Ray, Garry Craig, Gloria Dutton, Gregory Hoelsi, Rodney St. Aubin, Carl Crays and Richard Douglas.

The hosts for the evening were Mrs. Lester Cupp, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Winfield and Mr. and Mrs. Donald David.

Among The Graduates At Olivet College

Getting diplomas at Olivet Nazarene College Thursday will be the daughter-in-law of a former president who is graduating years after her class, the daughter of a deceased faculty member for whom the college's field house is named, a 19-year-old student, at least two sets of brothers, four couples with both husband and wife graduating, and the wife of a professor.

Among the 122 graduates, 62 or just over 50 percent of the students are married.

Mrs. Leslie Parrott, who was to have been a 1944 graduate, will finally get her diploma Thursday, but it will be anticlimactic to success as a candy confectioner, pastor's wife, award winning author and mother of two sons.

Mrs. Parrott, the former Lora Lee Montgomery, missed graduating with her class because of an emergency appendectomy while a junior.

IN THE SUMMER of 1943, between the junior and senior year, she was married to Leslie Parrott, son of Dr. A. L. Parrott, then president of Olivet.

She lacked 12 hours for her diploma when her husband graduated, but getting back to school was pushed off for graduate studies by her husband, work, children and church administrative duties.

Her husband received his doctor of philosophy degree last June from Michigan State University. He is in his seventh year as pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene at Flint, Mich.

Her husband's way of saying thank you, for her service during the years was to permit her to finally get her BA degree.

Last year she finally got back to school, attending Michigan State University to get enough credit to transfer to Olivet and get her diploma.

Mrs. Parrott has written "How To Be A Preacher's Wife And Like It," which was chosen by the American Library Association as one of 50 notable contributions to religious literature in 1957. "Meal From The Manse," a cookbook

Medics OK Visiting Nurse Association

The Kankakee County Medical Society has approved a proposal offered by the Community Welfare Council for establishment of a visiting nurses association here.

Mrs. W. T. Hallett, a director of the Community Chest, notified the Chest board of the approval at a meeting Tuesday.

She said the medical society has appointed a committee of four doctors who will study the needs for and ways and means of establishing a visiting nurse organization here.

After operating for a year, the visiting nurse agency could apply for support from the Community Chest.

Mrs. Hallett said the Welfare Council had distributed 7,000 bulletins listing the supervised activities available to boys and girls in the Kankakee, Bradley and Bourbonnais communities during the summer.

Right Attitudes Cut Accidents, Lions Told

Everybody is in favor of good traffic law enforcement, except when it touches an individual person, State Police Sgt. Thomas McNamara told members of the Lions Club Tuesday noon.

McNamara, who is the district safety sergeant, told the club members that until drivers can be imbued with the proper attitudes, it is unlikely that the annual auto death rate of approximately 40,000 people per year will be significantly reduced. "We'll never accomplish the program of safety in general without an educational program," McNamara stated.

HE REPORTED THAT auto deaths in Illinois have been significantly reduced since the state police force was doubled and the 65 mile per hour maximum speed law went into effect. In 1958, there were 236 lives saved in Illinois compared to the previous year, he reported.

As of noon Monday, there were 40 fewer deaths than on the same date one year ago, McNamara said. He explained that earlier in the year there was a lead of 78 lives saved but several multiple death accidents have reduced this lead.

McNamara pointed out that one of the least significant things in convincing motorists to drive safely is telling them that they might be either responsible for or the victim of the next accident. He explained this is because no one knows who the next victim will be.

McNAMARA WARNED that there is no drawing the line on who will be killed in traffic accidents. He added, "There is no worse way to lose a member of your family, because it is so unnecessary."

He added, if only the training in the schools, warning that one bit of carelessness by a teenage driver can wipe out all the other training for which the schools have been constructed.

McNamara concluded, warning that one bit of carelessness by a teenage driver can wipe out all the other training for which the schools have been constructed.

Al Jarana, northeast of Sheldon.

In each case, the fires occurred during the spring of the year. The first blaze, which started in the barn, was the Mahbitt fire on June 14, 1954. Fire fighters from the Sheldon fire department arrived at 3:06 p.m. The second fire, which destroyed the Jarana barn on June 26, 1956, started at 3:10 p.m. The May 8 blaze in the Fietke home also started in the afternoon.

Damage at the Mahbitt farm amounted to approximately $12,000. The barn destroyed was used for hay storage and milking.

SHEDDON FIREMEN

Assisted by the Concord district. Concord fought the Jarana fire with aid from Sheldon firemen and its contents were a total loss. Personal property in the well-improved barn was valued at $1,400.

general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, also was on hand to pay tribute to Dulles, whom he called "a great statesman of state and a great man."

Later in the morning Foreign Minister J. M. A. H. of the Netherlands flew in with his Austrian counterpart, Leopold Figl. First of today's contingent was Gromyko, full of praise for Dulles, his old adversary at the conference table. He described the former secretary of state, dead of cancer at 71, as "an outstanding statesman, outstanding diplomat."

Gromyko, who made the trip from Geneva by commercial airliner, flew in from New York. A little over half an hour behind him U.S. Secretary of Defense Louis A. H. flew in by military Air Transport plane with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville as passengers.

Herrter said the Geneva East-West talks have "made only small progress."

"It is my hope that in the negotiating sessions that he ahead of us has publicly sought to pressure the West into agreeing to Soviet demands under the threat of taking single-handed action if the Allies refuse."

Khrushchev's remarks clearly irritated top American officials. They came only one day after the State Department bluntly advised him in effect to shut up unless he came to the Western Big Three to adopt an equally tough line.

LLOYD STEERED clear of world politics. "It is said that the occasion for this visit to Washington should be the funeral of my friend and colleague, John Foster Dulles," he said.

Couve de Murville expressed sorrow on his own part and that of his government. He said tribute would be paid "in the spirit of that long friendship which unites France and the United States, and the strengthening of which the late secretary of state contributed so much."

disaster over the Red Cross presently is in the rehabilitation phase.

Miss Francis Blackburn of the National Red Cross, who is director of the Red Cross disaster operations here, said 92 families thus far have received emergency relief. She said applications are being submitted daily.

Miss Blackburn is one of six persons who have been sent here by the National Red Cross to work with the disaster. Others are Lester Clark, building adviser, and Miss Grace Foster, Ralph Johnson, and Miss Lois Donley, case workers.

Case workers are interviewing persons applying for aid and making home visits to estimate damages.

During the 18-hour flight, Herter, Lloyd and De Murville reviewed prospects for persuading the Soviet Union to offer enough concessions to Geneva to insure a German settlement.

Asst. Secretary of State Andrew Berling, a passenger aboard the plane, told newsmen the three Western foreign policy chiefs mainly discussed strategy.

Berling said the secret phrase of the Geneva conference, due to begin officially Friday afternoon in Geneva, actually will start aboard the Air Force plane which will fly the three to the Swiss city.

ANY TALKS in Washington about the plane will be colored by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's tough talk in Albania, that Dulles was an "outstanding politician" who in the last months of his life displayed a "more sober understanding of the international situation."

Thus, Cardosi contended, the Illinois Central should be made a part of the proceedings so that the railroad would be able to make records of Kankakee-Chicago passenger business could be shown. The New York Central says it does not have these records.

During the hearings, E. R. Delaney, NYC director of passenger service, testified the railroad was losing more than $750,000 yearly by operating six daily trains.

New Floor Care Ends Waxing

One of the difficult jobs of housekeeping is to wax linoleum and asphalt tile floors. Now, thanks to Glaxo, it's no longer necessary to wax and scrub; just apply Glaxo about twice a year. It maintains a high luster, non-slip coating that seals out dirt. Glaxo dries in one hour and is water clear. It's cheaper than wax in the long run, besides saving a terrific amount of work, plus truly a beautiful floor.

lost hearings wound up without a ruling on Kankakee City Attorney Victor Cardosi's motion to have the Illinois Central Railroad brought into the case.

CARDOSI CONTENDED that he has publicly sought to pressure the West into agreeing to Soviet demands under the threat of taking single-handed action if the Allies refuse.

Khrushchev's remarks clearly irritated top American officials. They came only one day after the State Department bluntly advised him in effect to shut up unless he came to the Western Big Three to adopt an equally tough line.

LLOYD STEERED clear of world politics. "It is said that the occasion for this visit to Washington should be the funeral of my friend and colleague, John Foster Dulles," he said.

Couve de Murville expressed sorrow on his own part and that of his government. He said tribute would be paid "in the spirit of that long friendship which unites France and the United States, and the strengthening of which the late secretary of state contributed so much."

Award Presentations Highlight School Activities

In the midst of baccalaureates and commencements, high schools throughout the Kankakee area these days are announcing winners of scholarship, activity, organizational and other types of awards for the year.

St. Patrick's Academy in Momence staged its presentation of awards and May crowning devotions on campus last Sunday. The May queen, Betty Rawls, and her assistant, Leona O'Connor, followed by maids of honor climbed the grove while the congregation sang "Hail Holy Queen." The queen crowned Our Lady and was in turn crowned by her assistant.

Presented at this point to Betty Rawls in the high school and Gary Lehou — and Karen Prairie in the eighth grade. Leona O'Connor received a first honor scholarship to College of St. Francis in Joliet and she and Betty Rawls were presented with gold medals for their outstanding work in the Sodality.

Membership certificates were given to new members of the Senior and Junior National Society. Receiving senior memberships in the Good Counsel Chapter were Catherine Binek, Mary Dennison, Joanne Churek, Deirdre McElree and Mary Soucie. Members of the Junior Maria Goretti chapter are Joanne Boudreau, Diane Bruckman, Mary Lou Gilmour, Pamela Hemphill, Clara Kieffer, Kathleen Lindstrom, Susan Lindstrom and Earline Neal.

The afternoon awards program was preceded in the morning by the baccalaureate mass in which the Rev. T. H. Demaris, pastor, gave the address. Mass was followed by a dinner served to the graduates, parents and faculty.

Patricia Oliver, senior at St. Anne Community High School, is the 1959 winner of the Basch and Lomb honor scholarship award.

Winners of Spanish awards were: Sandra Strati, Joan Wilson, Francis Mayotte and Jo VanMatre and sophomore members Karen Larkins, Lorraine McCarthy, Dolores Buser.

In GAA a second award for 150 points went to Carol Arthur and first awards for 75 points were presented Janet Meredith, Sharon Poteraki, Judy Prince, Diane Wakat and Roberta Mathews.

Plan Housing, Airport Cuts To Avoid Vetoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Democratic leaders reported they are urging reluctant colleagues to pare down housing and airport spending bills. They want to avoid presidential vetoes.

Wrapped up in these two measures is the core of the political controversy between the majority of Democrats and President Eisenhower-budget balancing.

The two bills now are before Senate-House conference committees.

Democrats from the big cities particularly want Congress to enact large-scale housing, and airport programs to which they can point in their 1960 re-election race. If Eisenhower vetoes these bills, his action is sustained, these Democrats think Republican candidates will suffer.

On the other hand, Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) and Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas were reported arguing that the Republicans thus far have developed budget balancing as the only major issue for 1960.

As reported by some of their colleagues, their argument is that if the Democrats try to bring the bills to minimum amounts they may be able to blunt this issue by getting presidential approval for the expenditures involved.

CHEVY'S BIGGER BRAKES (BUILT FOR UP TO TWO-THIRDS LONGER LIVING LIFE) Chevrolet's new brakes are the biggest in their field—bigger, in fact, than those of many heavier, higher priced cars. And Chevy's bonded linings do away with drum-scoring rivets.

CHEVY'S FRESH STYLING (THE ONLY UNMISTAKABLY MODERN LINES IN ITS FIELD) You don't have to look twice at Chevy's clean-swept silhouette to know it's a new car. And, besides the satisfaction it brings, Chevy's style will mean a higher allowance at trade-in time.

CHEVY'S BIGGER SAVINGS (MORE MILES TO THE GALLON THAN ANY OTHER FULL-SIZE CAR) A pair of Chevrolet's proved this emphatically—coming in first and second in their class in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run. And the winning mileage was a whopping 22.38 m.p.g.

CHEVY'S HIGHER TRADE-IN VALUE (BY NATIONAL AUTOMOBILE DEALERS ASSOCIATION FIGURES) The N.A.D.A. Official Used Car Guide Book shows that Chevy consistently brings a higher trade-in allowance than any other low-priced car. Judge Says 7 In 8 Delinquents Can Be Cured If Society Tries

(An Chief Justice of the Court of Special Sessions of the City of New York, one of the largest criminal courts in the world, Irving Ben Cooper is especially concerned over the handling of juvenile delinquency cases throughout the United States — and distressed by what he feels is their mishandling in many American courts. The following dispatch is the first of three in which he discusses what he considers to be society's shocking failure to cope properly with young criminals. He tells not only where he feels the fault lies, but what can and should be done to correct it. Judge Cooper's views go to the heart of a problem that besets modern America and millions of our homes.)

NEW YORK (UPI) — I wish I could bring parents, thousands of them, into my courts and have them see a sight that never fails to warm my own heart although I have seen it a thousand times.

It is the sight of young people who have come periodically close to the ruin of their lives—and then pulled themselves back to decency. Their heads are held high, their clothing is neat, their very manner exudes the inner feeling of pride and respect for themselves as human beings, their sense that they are "somebody."

I wish the parents could have seen these same young men and women a year or six months before when they first came into that same courtroom.

THEN, THEY WERE strikingly different. Some shambled in with sulky defiance written all over them. A few wore a mock contriteness that was as transparent as it was phony. Some were so frightened they were in a state of shock. Others wore the stamp of complete defeat, a resignation to hopelessness.

All of them were in trouble — real trouble. They had committed serious crimes: burglary, assault, stealing cars, gang warfare, narcotics addiction, sexual abuse.

They were on the brink of a life of crime and misery and despair and degradation that would pull them relentlessly into the gutter — and possibly keep them there. They would be a menace to the community in which they lived, and bring tragedy to others.

THE transformation of so many of these young people into decent, clean human beings, pulling them back from that brink in time, is the greatest satisfaction of our work. We have found that we can save as many as seven out of eight of them.

THAT IS WHAT I want to talk about: how it can be done.

It comes down to a simple concept that every young delinquent must be given personalized attention. Mass production of justice is no justice at all. If our society is to endure, we must go farther than the datum that the punishment should fit the crime. It must fit the person as well as the crime.

There are courts all across the United States where, every day, the judge snaps off "Six months," "Three years," "Reform school."

He does it without the slightest notion of the defendant's real character and potential as a human being.

"Get him out of society's hair!" — for a little while, anyway. "Throw him in the jug." In that way the judge won't be taking a chance on a youth who laughs at his sentence and goes right out and mugs another woman in a dark street.

SOME OF THESE young people are beyond rehabilitation and probation for them is out of the question. There can be no dispute about this — the hardened young offender presents a challenge not to be evaded.

The right to move safely and unmolested through the city, to be secure at work and at home, and to be protected against fraud and schemers, is the supreme luxury of civilization. For it is the community pays a huge price, and is intolerant of failure, on the part of its agents and instruments. It cannot be patient with, or concerned about the welfare of, offenders while they threaten its security and comfort.

It is no news that society is shot through with various types of criminal groups at all levels, from the most brutal to the most intellectual, many protected by every device against discovery and punishment. We do not hesitate to commit the insane to hospitals, repeaters and hardened offenders to prison, probationers who abuse the community's mercy to jail.

BUT AFTER THESE are put away for the community's safety and their own good, there remains a huge backlog of persons who any average man admits are "worth saving."

Our courts in New York City have been more fortunate than most in getting the tools with which to deal justly. The main implement has been probation — strict and unrelenting surveillance of how they are behaving with the slightest count removed from their minds that misbehavior will result in confinement.

The Human Story Of The Former Secretary—2

Dulles—Warm, Engaging Personality

(Second in a series on the late Former Secretary of State. John Foster Dulles.)

By CARL W. MCCARDLE
For NEA Service

John Foster Dulles was not an aloof character—though he had an austere way about him.

He wore a homburg hat as the trappings of his trade, but underneath he was "old shoe." He had a wide ranging intellect. He had a good sense of humor.

He could relax after a hard day's work, stirring his favorite eye on the rocks with his finger. But his limit was one. He used to smoke a pipe continuously, but a doctor finally told him he was allergic to it and asked him to stop.

He told me one time that if I ever found a doctor who would say "smoking wasn't dangerous, I should cable him."

AT HOME ONE evening, when some diplomat came to visit him on a matter of urgency, it was noticed that the Dulles dog, a miniature French poodle called Peppi, was growling at the distinguished guest.

"I'm sorry," said Dulles to the statesman, "but you're sitting in the dog's chair." The ambassador moved to jump to his feet, but Dulles placed his hand on his shoulder and said, "Don't worry, I'll take care of it."

After we went through Lenin's tomb in Moscow and saw the little father of communism all laid out in his whiskers and beard, Dulles turned to me with a twinkle in his eye and said:

"This is as close as you will ever come to seeing God."

At his Dulles camp in Lake Ontario, where there were no servants and no modern conveniences, he liked to cut down the trees, carry in the wood and water, build the fire, swim in the icy cold water, catch the fish, navigate the boat and be the cooking-singing hymns all the while.

BRITISH Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, later Prime Minister, and new red, was but one of the many foreign officials with whom Dulles negotiated continually. Here, a few parting remarks.

As ideas were formulated in conferences, he would phone the President and ask for advice. He was sometimes charged by the foreign press that Dulles ignored the British. That is a misrepresentation. As long as the Free World alliance was working, he felt there was hope.

On his last trip to London, Paris and Bonn—taken against his doctor's orders—he was trying to bring the British, French and Germans together for a united stand against the Russians.

He was in pain all the time. He took his ubiquitous yellow tablet with him, however, and he never failed to come back with many pages of pencilled notes. These were his careful drafts of important policy papers. He was always planning ahead.

BUT WITH ALL his planning while alone at Dulles camp or on his travels, Dulles had the greatest respect for the fact that it was the President of the United States who was responsible for making the nation's foreign policy. He kept the President informed on everything.

Rogers Home Unit Conducts Meeting In Cabery Home

CABERY (JNS)—The Rogers Home Bureau unit met Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Ida Fleischman with 15 members and a guest present.

Mrs. Helen Eastman gave the minor lesson, "What Your Hands Tell Others."

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Susan Bergan on June 18 at 1:30 p.m. and will feature outdoor cooking as the major lesson.

Lunch was served by the hostess.

CHICAGO (AP)—Two state employees and a delivery service driver have been seized in connection with the attempted shakedown of a New Jersey trucking official.

They are Milton Dayko, 43, owner of a delivery service; Victor Wright, 41, an investigator for the secretary of state's office; and Anthony Del Prato, 34, an investigator for the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Ivy Ziskind, 41, of Jersey City, N. J., secretary-treasurer of the Ivy-Gol Leasing Corp. gave police this account:

Wright told him three weeks ago it would cost him $300 to $400 to fix up numerous Illinois law violations by his firm.

Ziskind contacted Dayko, whom he regarded as a friend, and a meeting with the others was arranged.

Police said these events followed:

Ziskind notified the state's attorney's office and then met the men who picked him up in a taxi and took him to a restaurant.

Wright and Del Prato first declined Ziskind's offer of $400 in marked bills, but Dayko declared, "This money's good, I'll take it."

Dayko took the money and the men were unbound when they left the restaurant.

University authorities had turned out to three men's organizations—the Tribe of Illini, a fraternity organization, the Interfraternity Council, and the Men's Independent Association the task of keeping the frolicking students in hand.

Hydrants were turned on, and promptly shut off by the monitors. Some students broke into a women's dormitory and were promptly thrown out by members of the Tribe. Police looked on, but had little to do.

Students estimated that it all was pretty tame.

Democrats Deny Plot To Influence FCC

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic House investigators today sharply challenged Republican charges that they sought to influence a Federal Communications Commission decision involving equal radio-TV time for political candidates.

"Nothing could be further from the truth," said Rep. Peter F. Mack Jr. of Illinois, second ranking Democrat on the House Legislative Oversight Committee.

"All we're trying to do is find out if the executive branch of the government is trying to influence the FCC," Mack told a reporter.

Mack replied to charges Tuesday by Rep. John B. Bennett of Michigan, the committee's senior Republican.

Bennett contended the Democratic members sought to influence the FCC on the issue of whether radio-TV news programs are subject to the rule that assures political candidates the right to equal time on radio and TV.

The FCC ruled in February that the rule applies also to news programs. Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers asked FCC earlier this month to merge that ruling with the radio and TV network's.

Committee Rejects Racket Picketing Bill

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—An anti-action customarily is tantamount to killing a bill but Rep. Harold Widener (R-Freeport) said he will ask the House to upset the committee vote.

At a session that ended Tuesday night, the committee voted 22 to 31 in tagging the measure with a "Do Not Pass" recommendation. Such picking of "business places" as "picketing" is a term of free speech, passed.

Soderstrom said enactment of the bill would "touch off a wave of wildcat sit-down and slow-down strikes throughout the state."

Widener declared that labor organizations promised two years ago to "clean their own skirts" if no anti-picketing legislation was enacted. He said the measure had "endured the legislation."

Nothing has been done about it," Widener said. "In fact, racket picking has become even more detrimental."

The Illinois State Chamber of Commerce and many other business, civic and agriculture groups had endorsed the legislation.

They argued that organizational picketing is justified in order to the case is pending on appeal.

Carl Eckhardt, a Morton Grove service station operator, said his business was picked for over three years because he refused to sign a contract with a Teamster's local.

Eckhardt said a court order last July restrained the picketing-but picketing is justified in order to the case is pending on appeal.

Does Love Have A Place In Budget?

By FAYE HENLE

Our argument ran thus: If we bring the car to the city, there are two alternatives: garage it at $40-plus a month or park it on the street. The latter means risking traffic violations at $15 a clip plus moving the car daily to comply with parking regulations.

"It'll move it every day," I promised, pleased at the prospect of having the car for the scout picnic and a couple of similar events.

"Your time is worth more than that," my husband groaned. (Yes, in my town it could take an hour a day to find suitable parking space.) This is more flattering than all the Mother's Day trinkets I could have received. But it also makes a good deal of sense.

It is not completely impossible to measure the economic value of a husband. Statisticians claim to know the ingredients: the number of years a man probably will work, current and projected conditions of employment and income, the survival rate of men, etc. The conclusion is that a man is worth about $200,000 in his lifetime. (I don't quite agree with this because I claim a man, if he is a husband, has a certain incalculable extra value same as a wife.)

Reportedly, it is different when it comes to the economic contribution of a wife. Even if she works, full or part time, her total contribution to family and home can be only vaguely estimated. If she does not work at all, this contribution is certainly more difficult to pinpoint.

Figure what it would cost you to hire someone to clean, cook, market, wash and iron, tend the children and sew buttons. Again, let's exclude the intangible ingredient of love with which these tasks most often are performed.

The cold bitter truth remains that in any well ordered scheme of things the contribution of the wife should be reckoned on in any family financial planning. Regrettably, I can cite a half-dozen instances in my own backyard where this contribution by the wife is no longer possible as a result of illness.

To guard against such tragedy, here is my advice: Life insurance. Either you or your wife should buy some type of family income policy. Here is the economics of it:

Available for a 20-year-old wife is a 20-year, $10,000 family income policy that costs $24.50 monthly in premiums. The temporary insurance in such a policy, I'm told, spans 20 years.

If the wife were to die, her family would get $200 monthly, hardly enough for the pay of a competent person to care for small children, but a help at least. Her beneficiary, at the end of 20 years, would receive the policy's face value of $10,000. If the wife survives the 20 year period—and there is a pretty good chance of this—the premium drops to $16 monthly.

When she reaches 65, the policy would have a cash value of between $3,500 and $6,000 which could be used to set up a life income of $33 monthly to supplement retirement income.

If the $33 per month in those years ahead will only buy peanuts, no doubt even those peanuts might spell added security.

AMAZING RESULTS AT SPEARS

The discoveries and developments made at Spears Chiropractic Hospital for the treatment of most diseases are bringing relief to many sufferers who believed they were doomed to invalidism.

Thousands of patients from every state in the Union and several foreign countries enter Spears Hospital each year. Though no claims are made for cures, many patients proclaim their results as miraculous. Only nature cures and all a doctor can do is assist in this great work. Because about 90% of our patients reach us after having been given up or declared incurable elsewhere, naturally some of them arrive too late for complete relief, but a majority go home well satisfied and happy. Atrophic lateral sclerosis is a rapidly progressive paralysis resulting from involvement of the brain stem located at the base of the skull. There are many cases for this condition, neck injuries among which play an important role. Early symptoms of these conditions are paralysis of the hands and arms. As the disease advances, leg muscles, swallowing and breathing become affected.

SENSIBLE menu suggestion for a meal aboard ship: Sliced roast meat, hero sandwiches, marinated shrimp, and cheese and fruit.

Meals Afloat Should Be Hearty, But Not Elaborate

By GAYNOR MADDOX, NEA Food and Markets Editor

For the more than six million American families who must pleasure boats, on-deck dining presents some special problems. Water and ice are usually scarce even on boats with galleys. Also most food is eaten hand-to-mouth by necessity, because sea breezes and tilting decks play havoc with set tables. A ready-cooked roast is a wise choice to take along. Sliced, it can be turned into hearty sandwiches, cut in chunks and combined with canned vegetables, it makes a fine meal-in-a-pot stew.

Hot soup is a good item for the days when cool breezes sting. It can be carried hot in a thermos, or heated quickly over the galley's primus or propane gas burner. Another tempting hint: aluminum foil doubles as an insulator to keep cold foods cold, and as a plate for hand-to-mouth foods.

Because appetites are keen on deck, serve sustaining food, with ample protein foods included. Shrimp marinated in a Spanish sherry (often called the "sailor's" drink because it rides the waves well and requires no ice), olive oil and herb mixture, well-chilled then wrapped in foil, will keep many hours without benefit of refrigeration. (The sherry contributes as a preservative.) This makes a satisfying snack or lunch.

Hero sandwiches, in crusty long rolls, can be made in themselves. Take along French dressing in a sprinkle-top bottle (a laundry sprinker can be used) and a variety of sprinkle-on seasonings. An excellent hero sandwich can be made with cold roast beef, lettuce, sliced green peppers and French dressing. A jar of potato salad might also be offered, the salad to be spooned into the buns along with the meat. Cookies, fresh fruit and cheese make the most practical and welcome desserts.

If your boat has a galley, here's a fine quickly-made stew: To cubed roast beef (about 1½ cups), add 1 can June peas with liquid, 1 can carrots, 1 can tomato paste, ½ cup Spanish sherry, pinch of oregano and a generous dash of garlic salt. Heat thoroughly. Serve community may attend these classes.

Erect Pacific Memorial To Yank War Dead

HONOLULU (AP)—On the inner rim of an extinct volcano crater known as Hill of Sacrifices, a memorial is being erected to America's war dead of the Pacific.

It is being built of Italian marble brought halfway around the world to the National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific, overlooking downtown Honolulu.

There in the green lawn of Punchbowl Crater, the remains of 17,000 Americans who died in the service of their country, most of them the dead of World War II and the Korean conflict. They include several thousand unknowns of the two wars.

On Memorial Day, as is the custom each year, families of the dead, Boy Scouts and veterans organizations will decorate each grave with Hawaiian flowers.

Perhaps the most noted of those buried in Punchbowl was not a military man when he died.

He was Ernie Pyle, the war correspondent killed by Japanese sniper bullets April 18, 1945, on the remote Pacific island of Iwo Jima near Okinawa.

Pyle, 44, rated burial in this military cemetery because he served in the U.S. Navy in World War I.

THE NEW WAR memorial is being built at Punchbowl by the American-Battle-Memorial Commission, a government agency that constructed and maintains 14 cemeteries and 17 memorials.

Work on it was started in June 1958. It is expected to be completed in the summer of 1962.

A principal part of the memorial will be the "Garden of the Missing." It will be carved, on marble panels, the names, rank, organization and home state of some 26,000 missing of World War II and the Korean War.

The memorial is the last of 17 built by the commission. The cost has not been announced officially. One early estimate placed it at three million dollars.

Punchbowl Cemetery itself cost $1,102,000, and was dedicated Sept. 2, 1949, the fourth anniversary of V-J Day which marked the end of World War II hostilities.

In the end of World War II hostilities, the end of the Pacific war, the volcano crater, formed by an eruption said to have taken place 75,000 years ago.

NORFOLK, Va. — A night watchman at the Upton-Producing Company here reported to police that a thief broke into the warehouse and took a shotgun, a pair of hunting boots and a hunting coat. It was the night before the opening of the duck season.

The new officers will be installed at a banquet in June.

Winners were announced today in the safety poster contest sponsored by United Commercial Travelers. Checks for $5, $3 and $1, first, second and third place respectively, were presented to the winning students today.

Prize winners from Kankakee High School art class, in order of placing, were James Thomas, Ruth Ann Stansbury and Bonnie Scholten. Members of St. Patrick Central High School Art Club who won were, in order of placing, Jerine Chaney, Susan Mulvihill and Cathie Brule.

Marilyn could be doing one of two things in this picture — practicing her dramatic reading for the Miss Illinois contest or studying for final exams which coincide with the beauty pageant. However, here the photographer caught her running through her reading.

'Housework Never Done'

By DR. PAUL POPPENO

Meet Mrs. M., an American homemaker. And, like many other American homemakers, she has her problems.

"No matter how early I start and how hard I work, I never finish the things I ought to do," she writes. "I know it's partly because of interruptions, and I suppose that I really don't have the day planned properly. But I'm still getting mighty discouraged!"

You certainly have plenty of company, Mrs. M. If you asked all the homemakers in your block, I suspect that everyone of them would tell about the same story. But really, you can do better without much effort. Why not try budgeting your time? Use some of the methods that are adopted in efficient industrial plants. Adapt them to your own purposes and you don't take them too seriously. I mean don't suppose for a moment that you can attain perfection along this line. Start out, however, by asking yourself what your weekly time income is. How many hours a day do you want to spend doing housework?

When you have decided this, list all your activities and put them in three classes:

- (1) Inescapable. These are the things, like getting breakfast, that you have to do and you have to do them more or less when you please.
- (2) Necessary but flexible. Jobs like dusting and vacuuming can't be evaded, but you can do them more or less when you please.
- (3) Optional. These are some things you're doing that you don't have to do. They might include following soap operas on radio or television or scrubbing the kitchen floor regularly whether it needs it or not. They might include some fancy cooking or trying to make a dress for yourself or a lot of other things that you'll think of.

LIST THESE SO that you get some of them in each day. When you've listed them with the approximate amount of time they should take, prompt off everything you can. Then live on this revised "time budget" strictly for a week or preferably a month. Keep a Marilyn has found that she can accomplish two tasks at once, and in her crowded schedule that can be a big help. What could be more time-saving than practicing her walk in preparation for the Miss Illinois pageant and vacuuming at the same time?

Q. Why isn't more done for retarded children? There are many such children in some parts of the country!

A. Correction: There are many such children in ALL parts of the country! The figure is estimated at 5,000,000 in the entire United States! Mental retardation is eight or ten times as common as cerebral palsy or polio. One of the best things you can do for mental retardation is donate money to its research fund.

Q. You keep advising retired people to work—why do you want to shorten their lives? Let them enjoy their few remaining years!

A. I'm with you on that policy; but let's not get as much satisfaction out of life as working people. One study of persons who lived to the age of 100 years discovered not one "retired, do-nothing" person among them!

Next Goal: Miss Illinois

"Every little girl's dream come true" is how Miss Marilyn Hawkins describes her feelings toward winning the Miss Kankakee of 1960 crown.

The attractive brunette not only finds time to win city beauty titles, but also to finance completely her college education by working as an accountant and by sharing in housekeeping and cooking duties in a cooperative living house at the University of Illinois and to participate in dramatics.

NOW THAT SHE HAS won the city title, her next obstacle is the Miss Illinois pageant in Moline Thursday through Saturday. Perhaps her greatest problem in preparing for the contest is scheduling and rescheduling her college final exams which occur this week. She will arrive home from school Wednesday and will get an official send-off from Court St. and Schuyler Ave. Thursday at 10:30 a.m. Mayor Ed P. Madison will be among those present.

She has had to cut into her already-crowded schedule to make several weekend trips home to plan her wardrobe. On one of her last trips here the weekend of May 8-9-10, she was not only concerned with her clothes, but also with finals. Tucked in her suitcase were a number of textbooks, in case she had a few extra minutes for study. The joys of winning the local contest far outweigh the problems encountered, according to Marilyn. Her trophy is on display with the house trophies at Stratford House where she resides at the university, and she now is often called upon to perform at various functions where her dramatic readings are always a favorite. "It is a nice piece to have to pay, though," she says in regard to the time these activities are taking. Marilyn said that she had that "once-in-a-lifetime" thrill when she was announced winner of the Miss Kankakee contest. Perhaps the most wonderful part, she said, was the best wishes and congratulations she received from friends.

IN PREPARATION for the state contest, Marilyn is studying her dramatic reading, "Patterns" by Amy Lowell, under the direction of her college drama instructor.

She has had to cut into her already-crowded schedule to make several weekend trips home to plan her wardrobe. On one of her last trips here the weekend of May 8-9-10, she was not only concerned with her clothes, but also with finals. Tucked in her suitcase were a number of textbooks, in case she had a few extra minutes for study. The joys of winning the local contest far outweigh the problems encountered, according to Marilyn. Her trophy is on display with the house trophies at Stratford House where she resides at the university, and she now is often called upon to perform at various functions where her dramatic readings are always a favorite. A woman's wardrobe is always a problem, anytime, anywhere, and it's a special problem when that particular person is planning a wardrobe for the Miss Illinois pageant. Miss Marilyn Hawkins, who is Miss Kankakee of 1960, has made several weekend trips home from the University of Illinois to decide what to take and what to leave behind. Here she is making a selection prior to leaving for the contest. (Journal photos)

Her chaperone at the Miss Illinois contest will be Miss Agnes Stelter, her former drama teacher at Bradley-Bourbonnais Community High School.

Marilyn's time from Thursday through Saturday definitely will not be her own. She will be occupied with modeling, rehearsals and constantly meeting people. Her family will be present on Saturday for the final round of activities.

Marilyn's time is seldom her own. She thrives on a hectic schedule. Coupled with her desire to make top grades in the Liberal Arts College at the university, she shares duties with the other girls at Stratford House in cooking, cleaning, budgeting and making the residence.

MARILYN, WHO IS A graduate of Bradley-Bourbonnais Community High School, is a sophomore at the university, majoring in liberal arts. She is a member of the University of Illinois Sho Ball.

Indonesian Prince Touring Kankakee

A poolside at Gaines Research Kennels near Kankakee was an object of interest for Prince Paku Alam VIII (left) of Indonesia, who is visiting Kankakee as part of a State Department tour through the United States. Tuesday the prince also toured the area, was a guest at a Kankakee

Country Club dinner and visited the local Red Cross chapter and disaster headquarters. Today he was scheduled to visit farms in the Kankakee area. He will leave Thursday morning. With the prince in the photo is Francis Krohn, kennel foreman. (Journal photo)

Chandler Foe Takes Lead In Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Bert T. Combs had the door almost closed on Gov. A. B. Chandler's 1960 presidential hopes today by piling up a big lead for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Chandler's choice, Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield, was trailing by 21,842 votes with nearly half of the state's 3,784 precincts tabulated.

Waterfield said it was still a race, claiming he was ahead in the rural areas in Tuesday's election. Few ballots had been counted in his home area in extreme western Kentucky.

Offsetting this, however, was the fact that tabulation was equally slow in Combs' native eastern Kentucky hills.

It was one of the bitterest Democratic primaries in years.

The Republicans chose former U.S. Rep. John Robison as their standard bearer in the November general election.

CHANDLER, ineligible by law to succeed himself, had counted on Waterfield to deliver him Kentucky's 30 votes at the Democratic presidential convention next year.

But a Combs victory could throw the votes behind Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, a close friend of former Sen. Earle C. Clements, chief sponsor of Combs.

With 1,724 of 3,784 precincts reported, the vote was:

Wilson W. Wyatt, Combs running mate, held a lopsided margin of 14,000 votes over Chandler, the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Returns from 1586 precincts showed:

Wyatt 145,929; J. B. Wells Jr., 32,558.

Although only 824 precincts had been counted in the Republican race for governor, Robison had rolled up a lopsided lead over two opponents.

2 Save Mom, 3 Children; Father 3 Others Drown

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — Two men rescued a mother and three of her six children from Lake Marian Tuesday but the father and three other children drowned.

Raymond Adolphus Miller, 31, had taken his family on a late afternoon fishing trip when waves capsized their 12-foot boat.

Drowned with Miller were LeRoy J. Shirley Jr., 7, and Andy Wallace, 4.

Mrs. Miller and the other children—Jimmy, 8, Donnie, 6, and Randall, 2—were brought ashore by O. L. Williams and R. J. Napworthy, who noticed the boat in trouble while working on a dredge at the lake on the outskirts of this central Florida city.

The Millers had gone most of the way across the lake, half a mile away, when wind roughened the water and they decided to head back.

The boat swamped and went down, stern first. Mrs. Miller and three of the children clung to the boat but the father and other children disappeared in the water. Their bodies were found an hour later.

Miller, a native of Gadsden, Ala., was employed by a citrus packing firm.

Park Swimming Pool To Open June 10

The Kankakee Park District board of commissioners, at a special meeting Tuesday evening, set June 10 as the opening date for the district's swimming pool.

Facilities at the pool are now undergoing final stages of repainting, redecorating and adjusting of equipment for the coming season, according to E. J. LaPorte, park district superintendent.

For the first time in the history of the pool, family season passes will be sold for $15.

All members of one family, residing at the same address, will have unlimited use of the pool with this pass. Each member of the family will receive a ticket, the stub of which they sign and return to the park district office.

Admission to the pool will be made on presentation of this ticket if the person's signature corresponds to the one on the stub which was returned.

Announcing the decision to allow the program at the pool again was Richard A. Tyson, member of the district's board of commissioners and chairman of the buildings and grounds committee.

The board had discussed the use of the pool for the Red Cross program at its last meeting, and directed Tyson to meet with Red Cross officials to work out details of the program. He made his report at a special meeting of the board Tuesday night.

TYSON REPORTED it was agreed by Red Cross officials and his own committee that the swimming instruction program would be limited to four mornings a week, with three classes each morning, and a maximum of 250 students in a class.

Classes will be conducted Monday through Thursday, with instruction to be over by 11:30 a.m. There will be a special class on Saturdays from 9 to 11 a.m. for adult classes and senior life saving training, not to exceed 100 persons.

For safety reasons it was determined there would be one life guard, trained to at least junior lifeguard rating, for each 20 students taking instruction.

THE RED CROSS will supply all personnel for the program, including lifeguards, teachers and shower attendants. The park district will furnish basket checkers and other regular staff members.

Park district residents will be registered first for the learn to swim program. If the 250 maximum for each class is not reached in this manner, those living outside the district will be accepted. However, non-residents of the district will have to pay the customary admission charge, either by ticket or season pass.

Howard Schwark, president of the board, said arguments worked out on Friday, which have now been eliminated.

Park board commissioners expressed their appreciation to the Red Cross for its cooperation and for conducting a program that is of great benefit to the entire community.

In past years classes were also conducted on Friday, which have now been eliminated.

Planning a ham dinner or some other outdoor meal, barbecue or picnic over the Memorial Day weekend?

The men who map weekly specials for the nation's supermarkets hope you're planning such meals, for that's what they have on the bargain lists this weekend.

Versatile ham, which can be served hot or cold, is pretty much a staple for a summer or winter holiday. Canned hams, which are even simpler to handle, also are featured in some stores.

Memorial Day is regarded in some states as sort of a kickoff date for outdoor eating, and a variety of items suitable for such occasions are offered at bargain prices. Hamburgers, frankfurters, luncheon meats, potato salad and other items are included.

Broiled Tuna In Summer Sandwich

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

MY, HOW THE life and times of the sandwich have changed. Brought into being at an 18th Century gaming table—so legend has it—by the Fourth Earl of Sandwich, the "sandwich" was a meat between bread so hot that he could eat with one hand and hold his cards with the other.

By the time England's Mrs. Beeton put recipes for the sandwich in her famous 19th Century cook book, it had only six fillings: anchovy, caviar, cucumber, foie gras, oyster and cheese.

In the United States, even as growing and well-travelled as Philadelphia's Midge gave sandwiches short shrift, in her 1957 "New Cookery Book" the lady says:

"SANDWICHES—are slices of cold ham, or tongue, cut very thin, and laid between this slice of buttered bread. The meat may be seasoned with French mustard. Roll them up nicely. There are silver cases made to contain sandwiches to eat on the road when traveling."

It took 20th Century cooks and customers to go to the sandwich—from tea-size "dainties" to submarine. One of the best-known of our present-day all-around cook books gives about 100 ways to make the sandwich.

One of our favorites for warm weather is the open-face broiled sandwich. Because all-cold menus get tiresome in summer, this quickly heated snack often is just the thing for lunch. Made from a pantry-shelf staple as tuna, it's easy to prepare.

OPEN-FACE TUNA SANDWICHES

Ingredients: 1 can (8 1/2 ounces) chunk-style tuna, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons chili sauce, 1 slice bread, butter, 1 slice (sandwich size) processed

Method: Mix together well the tuna, mayonnaise and chili sauce. Toast the bread on one side under a broiler; spread the untoasted side with butter. Spread tuna mixture over buttered slice of bread. Cut the cheese into thin strips and arrange over tuna. Broil several inches from source of heat until hot through and lightly browned—3 minutes or so. Serve at once. Makes 2 to 4 servings.

On the return trip, the group stopped at a Kankakee restaurant for the evening meal and installation of officers.

Retiring president, Mrs. Keith Amstutz, conducted a brief business meeting. Devotions were read by Mrs. Richard Zorn. Mrs. Clarence Hirstein gave the history of the club for the year.

Diet-Conscious Women Seek These Low Calorie Recipes

By JEAN MARTIN

Warm summer months are just around the bend and many calorie-conscious women are even more so now due to the straight and narrow lines of summer fashions.

A Kankakee, Mrs. William D. Ward of 1026 S. Myrtle Ave. has suggested two low calorie dishes for women fighting the "battle of the bulges." One is for APPLESAUCE COOKIES and the other is a GRAPEFRUIT SECTION SALAD, appropriate for either lunch or dinner.

Another recipe which Mrs. Ward feels will help you to relax and enjoy summer activities is her JELLIED GRAPE JUICE.

A particular favorite of Mrs. Ward's teenage son is her JUMBO BURGERS which she suggests serving at summer picnics. In case of leftovers the already broiled burgers may be frozen and served again after reheating.

Mrs. Ward is a member of the White Shrine and First Methodist Church. She also belongs to several bridge clubs at which she has served both her cookie and salad recipes.

The Wards' children are Blake, 15, June, 12, and Paul, 4. The Kankakee's featured recipes are follows:

APPLESAUCE COOKIES
1 1/2 cups cake flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/2 cup butter
1 tablespoon sucaryl
1 egg
1 cup dietetic applesauce
1 cup raisins
1 cup all-bran

Sift first six ingredients together. In another bowl mix butter, sucaryl and egg until light and fluffy. Then add flour mixture and applesauce alternately. Fold in raisins and all-bran. Bake by level tablespoons onto greased cookie sheet about 1 inch apart. Bake at 375 degrees F. for 20 minutes.

SALMON LOAF
1 tall can salmon
1 can mushroom soup
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
2 cups soft bread crumbs
1/2 cup milk
1 egg

Salt, pepper, paprika to taste. Mix all ingredients and put in greased loaf pan. Bake 20 minutes at 350 degrees F.

GRAPEFRUIT SECTION SALAD
1 No. 2 can grapefruit sections
3 tablespoons corn starch
1/16 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon lemon juice

Drain grapefruit sections. There should be 1 cup juice and 1 cup sections. Combine grapefruit juice, cornstarch, salt and sugar. Stir until blended. Heat to boiling. Remove from heat, add lemon juice and grapefruit sections, stir gently to combine. Turn into individual molds which have been rinsed in cold water. Chill until firm, about 2 hours. Serve on crisp greens.

JELLIED GRAPE JUICE
1 cup cold water
1 cup sugar
6 ounces can frozen grape juice plus
2 teaspoons lemon juice, fresh, frozen or canned.

Sprinkle gelatin over cold water to soften. Use a sauce pan. Now heat gelatin over a low heat until dissolved and stir in sugar until liquid is clear. Add grape juice and water, plus lemon juice. Pour into a quart mold and chill until firm. Serves 4 to 6.

JUMBO BURGERS
1 loaf Vienna bread about 15 to 20 slices
1/2 cup margarine
1/2 cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt
Cut loaf in half lengthwise; spread with butter. Combine remaining ingredients; spread about 1/2 inch thick on each half loaf, building edges up slightly. Broil about 6 inches from heat 15 minutes, or till meat is done the way you like. May be garnished with onion rings. To serve, cut in husky crosswise slices. Serves 8. Re-mainer may be frozen for later use.

BUT THE COMBINED socialist vote still is only around a third of the total Japanese vote. Conservative candidates still win around two-thirds of all the races in Japan.

Left-wing professors are solidly entrenched in the major Japanese universities. A heavy number of the young men who later hold top spots in Japanese industry and government graduate as Marxists or "semi-Marxists." Student groups in Japan are so radical that there recently was a major fight between the Marxists and the students to the left of communism — the Trotskyites.

But voting records indicate that most of these young college radicals rapidly grow conservative after graduation.

Indians Hand Sox 3rd Defeat In Row 3-0

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox were two games behind the league-leading Cleveland Indians and suffering through a three-game losing streak.

Natfziger Changes Mind; Stays At B-B

Bert Natfziger, basketball coach at Bradley University, has agreed to terms of the board of education to become athletic director of the school.

Natfziger, earlier had resigned from the Bradley faculty when he was offered the athletic directorship instead of the head basketball coaching position. At that time he indicated he wanted to continue his coaching.

"The more I thought about it the more interested I became in administrative work," the Bradley coach said today. "In a way I hate to give up active coaching but on the other hand there are phases of administrative work that are very appealing. When I made the decision to seek an administrative position I learned the Bradley job or, equally offered me, was still available to me."

S. A. SMITH, Bradley principal, said the board was very pleased with Natfziger's decision to take the job.

"We feel Bert meets every qualification for the job and, of course, that was the thinking of the board when it first offered him the position," Smith said.

The filing of the athletic directorship completes the "new" athletic department of the school, with the exception that one more person to handle freshman basketball may be added, according to Smith.

The assignment other than Natfziger, will be as follows:

Basketball — Rod Richardson, head coach; Parker, assistant varsity; and Tom Hodgson, (his specific duties dependent upon whether another coach is added).

Baseball — Hodgson, head coach; Richardson, assistant varsity.

Track — Samlin, head coach; Melure, assistant varsity.

Golf — Lemon, head coach.

Tennis — Lemon, head coach.

Natfziger, Lemon, head coach.

Meire are all returning from this year's staff. Richardson comes to Bradley after coaching at Effingham High School. Parker and Hodgson will be graduated from Illinois State Normal University.

Next month Parker, former Westford High star, was basketball captain at ISNU this year. Lemon, former Ronanoke High athlete, is captain of the ISNU basketball team.

Kaydettes End Season In 5-3 Loss To Lockport

Lockport got to Kankakee starter Rich Donley for one run in the first and two in the second but then the young batters blanked the visitors for six innings before they broke through for the winning two runs in the 10th.

Meanwhile, the Kaydettes scored once in the second and tied the count at 3-all in the sixth on hits by Jerry Buckley and Jim Cahill together with a base on balls and an error.

Kankakee made six hits off Bill Baroff and Jack Simon, the winner who relieved in the sixth. Donley allowed eight hits.

A winning blend of hitting and pitching has kept Cleveland on top in the American League pennant race. When the hitters miss, the pitchers can do that job too.

Left-hander Don Ferrarese took care of the pitching and the punch for the Indians Tuesday night, combining with reliever Jim Perry for a four-hit shutout while the Sox were unable to get one hit in three consecutive innings in a 3-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

That pushed Cleveland two games ahead of the second place White Sox and put Ferrarese in the record book as the fifth pitcher to hit three two-baggers in a nine-inning game and the first to do it in 36 years.

THE WHITE SOX second white-washing in three games left them at a half game ahead of Baltimore's third place Orioles, who defeated Washington 6-5, Detroit 4-2 and Cleveland 4-1 Tuesday night.

Gardel said: "No need to take me to your leader. I've already offered me."

The Cubs open their game night at Los Angeles today with Glen Hobbie (5-3) going against Bob Drysdale (4-4).

Yankee Traders Busy

The cellar-dwelling New York Yankees completed a four-for-two trade with the Kansas City Athletics involving these five men on Tuesday. The Yanks sent pitcher Tom Sturdivant (top-left), infielder Jerry Lumpe (top-center) and pitcher Johnny Kucks (top-right), and a fourth player to be announced later to the A's. In exchange they got Ralph Terry (lower-left) a pitcher, and hard-hitting Hector Lopez, a second-baseman from Kansas City.

Yankees-A's Trading Record Getting Cozy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
KANSAS CITY (AP) — "Well, I see the Yankees have recalled Ralph Terry after farming him out for a couple of seasons with the junior varsity," said the office cynic.
That jaundiced view is typical of many fans who look down their noses at the cozy trading record of the New York Yankees with the Kansas City Athletics. The swap of Hector Lopez and Terry by the A's for New York's infielder Jerry Lumpe and pitchers Tom Sturdivant and Johnny Kucks set these critical tongues wagging again Tuesday.
AS ONE OF the most notorious of Athletics' coaches, Johnny Sain, called the turn with a few words prior to the swap. "The Yankees," said Sain before he knew of the trade, "have made most of their deals for pitching with second division clubs. The reason is that they can afford to keep starting a pitcher even though he's getting beaten to death. If he has any brains and strength he'll finally learn something and he'll start getting the

FREE EXAMINATIONS GIVEN TO SHOW HOW TO SAVE HAIR AND PREVENT BALDNESS

CHICAGO — Excessive dandruff, dryness, itchy scalp, hair thinning at crown or temples, may be the early signs of hair loss. Why delay longer in carrying out your resolution to "do something about your hair?" (Do not be one of the millions who are bald because they did nothing.)

ERICKSON HAIR & SCALP SPECIALISTS have long been a leader in the field of combating hair loss. Now, we are announcing a new, even more successful home treatment, ready for easy application in the privacy of your own home.

WHAT CAUSES BALDNESS? Actually, the two most common causes of baldness are neglect and mistreatment of the hair. When you first notice your hair thinning, brought on usually by dandruff, itching, dryness, oiliness, seborrhea, take positive action at once. See the famous ERICKSON HAIR & SCALP SPECIALISTS. First, the skilled ERICKSON CONSULTANT determines exactly which local trouble is causing your hair loss. He recommends the length of treatment, tells you what results you may expect, and the cost, which frequently is less than charged by imitators. Because ERICKSON TREATMENT is highly specialized — not hit or miss — something happens soon. You'll see results quickly.

If your scalp is still creating hair—even hair—you can't least see and discuss what you have.

1976 Satisfied Simply because you will not be accepted unless your scalp will respond and no one is accepted for ERICKSON TREATMENT without first having a complete free scalp examination, the percentage of success is extremely high, which we are proud of.

FREE SCALP EXAMINATION There is no charge or obligation for your examination. Mr. G. Smith is the ERICKSON HAIR and SCALP SPECIALIST in your area. Just drop in to see him between 12:30 and 8:00 P.M. Come at your convenience. Examinations are given private—you will not be obliged or embarrassed.

Campout Tips

Right Kind Of Tent Can Be Comfortable

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Camping without a tent is a form of misery which can only be displaced by the return home. Some kind of a tent is essential. Tents come in as many types as they do sizes, but still most popular is the old A-frame tent. There also is the relatively new umbrella tent which also is very popular.
THERE ARE the lean-to, the pup-tent, the tepee, the forester tent, and many others. The umbrella tent is easy to erect and one person can put it up quickly.
A floor of sod cloth is desirable. If a tent has a floor, a tarpaulin underneath will add protection against dampness. "Always dig a small trench around the base of the tent so that rainwater will drain away. Carry a small broom to keep the tent floor clean. Sand will wear it away."
A LARGER TARPULIN over the outside cooking area provides protection in case of rain. A camper should never carry food into a tent. It leaves odors and bears prowling at night are not afraid to rip into a tent in search of food.
Your tent should be pitched with its back to the prevailing winds. Otherwise, should it rain your tent will become a water trap.

Coe Leads Yanks In British Golf

SANDWICH, England (AP) — American Walker Cup captain Charlie Coe today led eight U.S. survivors into the third round of the British Amateur Golf Championship — now known as the battle of the rough.
Dozens of players, winners and losers alike, bitterly criticized the way the rough has been allowed to infringe on the fairways, making them tiger tough and narrow. Invariably players straying only a foot off the fairway found themselves in deep grass.
Among the winners in Tuesday's matches were Bill Hyndman of Philadelphia, victor over John Stobbs of England, 5 and 4; Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, winner over Peter Dobbs of England, 3 and 2; and Dean Beman of Silver Spring, Md., who defeated Hugh Marr of England, 7 and 6.
The biggest upset Tuesday was the defeat of long-hitting Billy Joe Patton, Morganton, N.C., who lost at the 21st hole to little-known Bill Hill of England.

Anthony 3-1 Favorite Over Bowdry Tonight

CHICAGO (AP)—Jesse Bowdry, St. Louis will go after the big punch tonight with the hope of making high-ranking light heavyweight Tony Anthony of New York his 23rd knockout victim.
But the odds-makers don't think he can do it and have installed Anthony a 3-1 favorite for the nationally televised 10-rounder in Chicago Stadium. The bout, telecast at 8 p.m., will be scored under the five point system. Anthony, ranked No. 1 by the National Boxing Association and No. 2 by Ring magazine, has a 38-6 record and has knocked out 28.
Bowdry has won his last two starts, knocking Lou Bailey April 27 and Clarence Hinnant Jan. 25.
