Say Producers Suppressed Jury TV Report

NEW YORK (UPI) — A grand jury report containing "a complete moral indictment" of TV quiz show operations has been suppressed on the pretext of producers of some of the now-defunct big-money shows, it was disclosed today.

The district attorney's office said it will fight for publication of the report. Court action is expected before the end of the month.

The report does not name any specific show or any individual, but it says the grand jury, which was organized in 1957, found that quiz show producers had "a complete moral indictment" of the quiz show industry, and should be made public "for profound moral reasons."

"IT AFFECTS the whole television industry," the foreman, Louis M. Hacker, said.

The grand jury report was made after an eight-month investigation into the fraud charges which caused most of the big quiz shows to go off the air last year.

General Sessions Judge Mitchell D. Schweitzer impounded and sealed the document when it was handed to him this week. He said his right to accept it had been challenged, but on June 28 for the district attorney's office to present arguments against its complete suppression.

Attorneys for producers of the $64,000 "The Price Is Right" and "The $64,000 Challenge" said Thursday they had filed such a challenge with the court. Producers for at least two other quiz shows were said to have made similar protests.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee wants a start made next year on a cutting down and eventually wiping out all gifts of foreign economic assistance. It contends loans are better.

The committee wrote its demand Thursday into President Eisenhower's $3,500,000,000 foreign aid bill. Both the Senate and the House must agree if it is to become effective. No deadline was fixed.

IT WASN'T WORTH IT!

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — Sharon Asker, taking her first test as a driver's license, became more and more nervous as the examining highway patrolman jotted down her minor mistakes.

The patrolman added the score and announced she'd passed.

"My gosh, I'm glad that's over," Sharon said. "I'll never drive again! I'll never drive again!"

House Passes Property Assessment Freeze Bill

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — The final decision on whether to freeze property assessments at 55 per cent of fair cash value rests with the Illinois Senate.

By a 97-0 vote, the House Thursday approved the plan proposed by Rep. John Morris (D-Chicago), after spokesmen for Gov. Stratton threw their weight behind it.

The Morris bill—regarded as a major tax reform—was opposed by most Chicago Democrats.

AT PRESENT, the amount of property tax bill is determined by a local taxing body's rate applied against the assessed valuation. Under the existing system, the State Revenue Department assigns a multiplier to each county with the purpose of equalizing local assessments at a theoretical 100 per cent of full value.

Actually, the assessments presently average about 55 per cent of fair value.

Thus, said Rep. William Pollock of Chicago, Republican minority whip, "the effect of this legislation is to coolly and freeze into law the present system."

Morris introduced the measure in the wake of protests over high tax multipliers which boosted assessments for many counties in the state.

HE TOLD THE HOUSE Thursday that without his legislation, the 1958 statewide assessed property value of $3 billion dollars might double in the next few years.

As one objection, Clark cited the fact that railroads and certain corporations now being assessed by the state revenue department at 100 per cent of value would be reduced to 55 per cent. This would reduce the amount of taxes on home owners and an assessment ceiling should serve to put a brake on the state revenue department.

Stowaway Of 30 Years Ago Gets Air Trip To Paris

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The first transatlantic plane stowaway since the second flight to Paris Saturday.

Arthur Schreiber, now 52, is flying to the French capital as a guest of Air France.

On June 13, 1929, when he was 22, he stowed aboard the "Yellow Bird" as three Frenchmen, Jean Assolant, Rene Lefevre and Armand Lott, took off in the single-engine plane from Old Orchard, Maine, for Paris.

They arrived in Paris 30 years later.

Lefevre, now an executive of Air France, arranged Schreiber's trip to celebrate the 30th anniversary of the flight.

Federal Team Making Geodetic Survey Of Area

An alert Kankakeean, any time now, may spot a slender steel tower silhouetted against the skyline where nothing could be seen the day before.

At night, the blinking of lights from atop the tower might catch his eye.

These unfamiliar sights, coupled with the busy movement of men and trucks, may cause concern for some residents, but there's no reason for worry.

What that alert Kankakeean will be witnessing is one of the oldest operations carried on by the federal government—an accurate survey of all the land within our borders.

The towers and their lights—sending signals in Morse code—are the property of a 22-man U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey team.

Through August, they will determine and mark elevations or geographic positions of selected points within the narrow corridors extending from Kankakee to Urbana.

The team erects portable steel towers—50 to 100 feet high—over two known points called triangulation stations that are marked by bronze discs.

This is done during daylight, but the observations are made at night when the atmospheric conditions are better, accounting for the blinking lights.

THE OBSERVERS read the angles between their towers and a third tower which is located over an unknown point.

To a passing motorist, the lights on the distant towers may not be visible since they are usually located 5 to 10 miles away. Some may be as far away as 25 miles.

The longest line ever observed by a survey was 182 miles.

The towers used by the crews are actually two towers in one. The outer tower forms the platform for the observers and lights while the inner tower, centered exactly over the bronze marker, holds the crews' delicate instruments.

On occasion, the survey chief may double check his accuracy by actually measuring the distance between two of the stations with a tape. The tape isn't ordinary.

It's made of special alloy steel which holds expansion to the minimum and is precisely standardized by the U. S. Bureau of Standards.

When the observations and calculations are completed the steel towers are removed. The only trace left is a small bronze disc imbedded in concrete. On it will be stamped:

"Triangulation station, U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, for information write to the Director, Washington, D. C. $250 fine or imprisonment for disturbing this mark."

Strike Halts 40 Italian Ships

ROME (AP)—At least 40 Italian ships were held in ports around the world Saturday by a seamen's strike now in its fifth day.

Although most of the strike-bound vessels were in Italy, some of the biggest, including the Giulio Cesare — flagship of the Italian Line — and the Vulcania, were in New York.

Some 10,000 passengers were affected.

The unions are asking a 30 per cent wage increase. The owners offered a six per cent raise over present wages averaging slightly above $6,000 a year ($100 monthly).

Gary Citizens Group Plans Vice Cleanup

VALPARAISO, Ind. (UPI)—Tom Morgano, a central figure in the Senate Rackets Committee investigation of vice and corruption in the steel-rich Gary, Ind., area, was freed on bond today after spending nearly two days in jail.

Morgano was arrested late Thursday night outside the College Inn, a pizza restaurant he operates near the Valparaiso University campus and charged with attempting to bribe a Lake County deputy sheriff.

The swarthy Morgano, reported by an associate of Sam Mooney Gilancanna, refused to enter a plea in Circuit Court here Friday and was returned to jail pending arraignment Monday. He was released today when the Bell Bonding Co., Gary, posted $25,000 bond.

As Morgano was freed, citizens groups in the Gary area pressed for a cleanup.

The Gary Crime Commission scheduled a mass meeting for Monday night and invited members of the Senate Rackets Committee and law enforcement officials to attend. The Lake County Council of Churches demanded the dismissal of Chief Deputy Prosecutor Metro Holovachka and two of his investigators.

Holovachka was referred to by Rackets Committee Chairman Sen. John McClellan as an "operating part of the criminal syndicate which conducted vice and gambling."

The church council also demanded a special session of the Indiana Legislature, but the move was rejected by Gov. Harold Handley who said this week that state police had been doing all they could to correct the Gary situation within the limits of the state constitution.

Warns Of Inflation

GENEVA (UPI)—U.S. Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell told the 43rd International Labor Organization convention Friday that the United States had kicked the 1958 recession. Mitchell warned there still were dangers of inflation.

"It's wonderful to see that the church council also demanded a special session of the Indiana Legislature, but the move was rejected by Gov. Harold Handley who said this week that state police had been doing all they could to correct the Gary situation within the limits of the state constitution."

Graham Surprised During Visit To Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI)—Billy Graham, picture of Christ, "The early bird always gets the worm... but who is so hungry?"

He also found a number of Paris high-fashion models posing for pictures in and around the historic buildings, and he caught a fleeting glimpse of Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The evangelist from Montreal, N.C., headed straight for the Kremlin on the first full day of his visit to Moscow. In addition to a number of government buildings, the ancient walled area includes a number of cathedrals which have been converted into museums.

GRAHAM SAID he had heard there were cathedrals in the Kremlin, but he was surprised to find gold crosses still standing on their spires.

"Over the heart of the Kremlin, the cross," he commented to reporters who accompanied him on the tour. "To have this religious spirit in the heart of the Kremlin is a symbol of some future date."

Inside the cathedrals, he found a number of brilliantly illuminated religious paintings for which the Orthodox Church is famous. He paused before a painting depicting the crucifixion.

"It's wonderful to see that the church council also demanded a special session of the Indiana Legislature, but the move was rejected by Gov. Harold Handley who said this week that state police had been doing all they could to correct the Gary situation within the limits of the state constitution."

Graham Surprised During Visit To Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI)—Billy Graham, picture of Christ, "The early bird always gets the worm... but who is so hungry?"

He also found a number of Paris high-fashion models posing for pictures in and around the historic buildings, and he caught a fleeting glimpse of Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The evangelist from Montreal, N.C., headed straight for the Kremlin on the first full day of his visit to Moscow. In addition to a number of government buildings, the ancient walled area includes a number of cathedrals which have been converted into museums.

GRAHAM SAID he had heard there were cathedrals in the Kremlin, but he was surprised to find gold crosses still standing on their spires.

"Over the heart of the Kremlin, the cross," he commented to reporters who accompanied him on the tour. "To have this religious spirit in the heart of the Kremlin is a symbol of some future date."

Inside the cathedrals, he found a number of brilliantly illuminated religious paintings for which the Orthodox Church is famous. He paused before a painting depicting the crucifixion.

"It's wonderful to see that the church council also demanded a special session of the Indiana Legislature, but the move was rejected by Gov. Harold Handley who said this week that state police had been doing all they could to correct the Gary situation within the limits of the state constitution."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Murphy are natives of Chicago, where their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Lazaroni and Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Murphy, still reside.

Mrs. Murphy graduated from Bowen High School and her husband from Calumet High School. He received his degree from the University of Illinois in 1956 with a major in marketing. He served in Korea with the United States Army.

The couple belong to St. Teresa's Church. Murphy's hobbies are shooting and fishing. He is a member of the Will County Gun Club. Mrs. Murphy likes to fish by Mrs. Mary Stout, Loda, county chancellor.

Russell Lloyd Gilman, gave the address of welcome with a response by Mrs. Eleanor Weir, Ash-kum.

Queen Elizabeth Confers Royal Titles To 2,400

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II Saturday conferred royal honors on a "fitter of artificial limbs, a pig-breeder and an old woman who spent 40 years trudging from door to door teaching children the habits of thrift."

They were among nearly 2,400 persons the Queen and her ministers singled out for titles, favors and various distinctions during celebrations marking her official birthday.

Although the Queen's birthday was April 21, when she became 33, she chooses a June day to bestow the royal honors on those deemed worthy of special distinction.

Those elevated to knighthood included Michael Redgrave, Shakespearean actor, and Stanley Spencer, a painter whose religious works have sparked several controversies.

Composer Michael Tippett and opera singer Geraint Evans were named Commanders of the Order of the British Empire.

John Morrison, secretary of the Royal Scottish Academy of Music, and Leslie Woodgate, British Broadcasting Company chorus master, were made members of the OBE.

The Queen created three barons, who are entitled to sit in the House of Lords, three privy counsellors and three baronets.

Gen Sir Hugh Charles Stockwell, who commanded British land forces in the 1956 Suez invasion, was awarded the Knight's Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath. Stockwell, 56, is military secretary to the secretary of state for war.

A British subject living in the United States, Alexander Brackenridge of South Orange, N.J., was made a Knight Commander of the British Empire. Brackenridge has been president of the British Commonwealth Chamber of Commerce in the United States.

Among those awarded the British Empire medal by the Queen were J. A. J. Gough, chief officer for a firm of artificial limb makers, J. Topper, 60-year-old former manager of the famed Hulton pig herds and Mrs. E. Pritchard, 31.

How We Plot To Fight Space War

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's top military planners are beginning to blueprint the weapons needed to fight a war in space. Among other things, they are exploring the possibility of setting up an attack warning and surveillance system in space.

These are the major developments expected to unfold in the military high command's latest revision of what is known as the "Joint Long-Range Strategic Estimate" covering a 13-year period extending to 1971.

The annual revision, prepared by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, presumably will include a fairly specific definition of the types of weapons and techniques that would be used in space warfare.

The long-range strategic estimate is one of three constantly and routinely revised by JCS. A medium-range estimate, called the "Joint Strategic Objectives Plan," embraces a period from three to seven years from date of revision. The short-range estimate — the "Joint Strategic Capabilities Plan" — is for use in event of war within one year of revision.

THE AIR FORCE, which has major responsibility for space weapon planning, has already assembled some data on what probably would be required in weapons and the intricate systems for their support and use.

In normal procedure, these Air Force recommendations either to the JCS or the Defense Department proposals to be in preparing for space war is subject to approval by the White House and the State Department. These national policy is established.

Up to now, the emphasis has been on the training of the seven astronauts selected by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the armed forces for the first manned space mission. The military still seems to be uncertain what role it will be permitted.

Nevertheless, the Air Force has assembled general requirements on types of weapons and is working on plans to provide training for crews and ground support personnel. Certainly, the training of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the armed forces for the first manned space mission. The military still seems to be uncertain what role it will be permitted.

THE BROAD REQUIREMENTS for a military space system, as seen by Air Force officers and scientists, include these:

operation, could be improved with the use of satellites.

4. New communications systems, required for terrestrial as well as space military activities, are a vital necessity.

These are the initial requirements foreseen by the Air Force. Looking further ahead, some years into the future, new situations requiring new techniques and weapons could be required.

THE SOVIET UNION might object to being watched by an American "fixed position" satellite, put into high orbit and its speed adjusted to synchronize with the revolution of the earth—making it hover above a given point on earth. So the Soviets would send up an intercepting vehicle, to drive away or destroy the American surveillance vehicle. The problem of defending the surveillance satellite would arise.

The proposal for establishing missile launching bases on the moon, with targets "reached" in a few days, has been widely considered.

How many Air Force personnel would be needed to operate space weapons? It does not yet know, but extensive role in space will be, or precisely the hardware to be used, the Air Force has no immediate estimate. Officials prefer to make no comment beyond a guess that the number of men would be far fewer than the approximately 50,000 in the present Air Force organization.

How To Make Dad Happy

The surest way to make Dad happy for Father's Day next Sunday is to be with him and show him with fond attention that he's the most important member of the family.

To make the day special, cunningly learn in advance what he wants for Father's Day and surprise him with that very thing as a Father's Day gift.

His desire may run from personal items to sporting goods or tools, but the most important factor is that he wants and can use the gift.

A MAN WHO LOOKS important, feels important and the family can bolster his ego with gifts that will help him be well-groomed. These might include toiletries ranging from deodorants and colognes to shaving supplies.

His appearance will be improved by new clothing or the equipment to keep his clothes looking nice—shoe shine kit or clothing brush.

Whatever his hobby, an added item to make it more enjoyable will please him and, if he's a do-it-yourself man, one more gadget will be just the thing.

Any father will be happier if mother fixes his favorite meal for Father's Day and the kids shine his shoes, cut the grass or do some of his chores for him.

The four fathers pictured here have some ideas which may suggest to you what to get Dad for Father's Day.

Allen Larson, 281 S. Seventh Ave., would like to be surprised for Father's Day with a new guitar. But it must be a certain kind which he describes as "acoustic."

Stanley Dressler, 428 N. Grand Ave., Bradley, Ill., and adds, "You should see mine!" A family man in every sense, Dressler has a good chance of having his wish granted by one of his youngsters, Nancy, 13, Robert, 15, Barbara, 8, Donna, 7, Mary, 5, or Diane four months. Dressler is an Illinois Bell Telephone Co. cable splicer.

A MAN WITH FOUR children and 12 grandchildren doesn't want more for Father's Day than to be surrounded by his family. Louis Coy, 311 S. Fourth Ave., stationary engineer at City Products Corp. 34 years, is counting on that to celebrate the day. He'll share with them the new c a n o p i e d lawn chair, a Father's Day gift from his wife.

ROBERT L. WHITE, 338 S. Schuyler Ave., Bradley, service station operator, could think of nothing better for Father's Day than a visit from his son, Bob L. White, stationed at Camp Pendleton, Calif., for the past 14 months. White won't have a lonely Father's Day, though, as his daughter, Mrs. Philip Ashline, and her four children will visit him. ## Rev. McCleary Family On Mid-term Leave As Bolivian Missionaries

Leslie Timm feels cheated. A grandfather's inherent pleasure derived from watching his grandchildren play is partially denied. He can't understand their language.

The children have just returned with their parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Paul F. McCleary, from Bolivia. The youngsters speak Spanish more than English and, at play, use Spanish.

The McClearys are on a mid-term leave for two months and will return Aug. 1 to Cochabamba for another two years.

Both natives of this community, the Rev. Mr. McCleary and Mrs. McCleary were graduated from Bradley-Bourbonnais High School and Olivet Nazarene College. He completed his religious training at Garrett Biblical Institute and Mrs. McCleary attended the University of Illinois.

THEY ARE VISITING his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar LaVogue, Rivard Road, Bourbonnais, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Timm, Route 113 N.

Before the McClearys accepted their missionary assignment, the Rev. McCleary was pastor of the Methodist Churches at Essex and Reddick for three years and at Pontiac for three years.

In preparation, they spent a year in Costa Rica and learned Spanish before going to Bolivia in September, 1957.

With only about 150 Americans in Cochabamba's 80,000 population, the children, Leslie Ann, 7, Mary, 5, and John, 3, play with Spanish-speaking natives and Indians. Mark, four months, probably will be speaking Spanish by the time his grandparents see the family again in two years.

At home, the McClearys speak only English to the children to help them remain bilingual.

Despite the "manana" pace of living usually associated with the Torrid Zone countries, the Rev. McCleary's workday is anything but "light." He is pastor of an interdenominational church, pastor of the El Salvador Methodist Church, conducts three Sunday schools; as in any other church, his weekly Bible study, choir practice, membership study class, several youth meetings and official board meetings.

IN ADDITION, HE IS director of a daily kindergarten for 70 children ages 3 to 7 and taught by six teachers; teaches a course in religion at the American Institute which has an enrollment of more than 1,000 students and conducts a weekly radio broadcast.

Mrs. McCleary's life is even more demanding than that of her husband's. She conducts two missions, one for the natives of Spanish stock and the other for the Quechua Indians, and takes part in the women's organizations' activities.

Her household duties, without benefit of many of the conveniences in North American homes, are time consuming. Asked what the misuses most, Mrs. McCleary says, "The food." A few native canned and

Success Astounds Him Astarie, The Ageless

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Embarrassed and bewildered is the way to describe Fred Astarie these days.

If you saw him pick up those Emmys, you know the phrasing is correct.

"I never dreamed the TV show would go into orbit," he says. It was nine awards from the Television Academy. No show ever took so many. No star ever was so pleased—or so chastened. He even offered to return one Emmy.

THIS, FRED'S 67TH year, will be his greatest: A TV show that will make a fortune, his first dramatic role in a movie, his autobiography.

Astarie seems shy, despite a half-century of success. However, he knows his worth and won't settle for a cent less. He has as much ego as any actor, but on him it doesn't show. Three of the Emmys he won last year were replaced by a dog act.

Astarie pampers himself to this extent: he has telephonists, he has a long distance call about small matters that notes would cover. Impatience explains why he likes to spend money.

"It's meant to be spent, not kept in a box—but he doesn't pamper himself. He dresses simply, but casually. His coats are too short and his pants too tight (the English tailor's influence), but he thinks other men's are too loose. He wears Oxford

Rockefeller Still Silent On Plans

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller returned Friday from a trip to the White House, but he still won't say if he hopes to live there.

That is, that he is not seeking the nomination, and that his aim is to be a good governor. When asked if he would seek the nomination, he said that he would cross that bridge when he came to it.

Rockefeller said after a brief visit with President Eisenhower that he merely wanted to pay his respects to the President. He added that he did not talk politics, he added.

Bees Are For The Birds Says Woman

ROCK FALLS (AP)—Bees have their place, says Mrs. E. L. Kern, and she wishes they would stay there.

After locking the door, Mrs. Kern telephoned a local beekeeper for help. Before he arrived, some of the bees crawled under the door and Mrs. Kern killed them, including the queen bee.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Only the movies can make a star out of a dramatic actress or actor, says red-haired Piper Laurie.

Outside of comics and Westerns, she says, "the TV industry doesn't build stars."

She cited the case of Joanne Woodward, long rated one of the finest actresses on television. The movie "The Apartment" won't be available and I may get my chance.

Home Of The Week

The first family to purchase a lot in the area known as the Gracefield subdivision, the John Gards built a three-bedroom home and have resided there since last February. Their address is 833 Leslie Ave. There are three children in the family, Dean, 12; John, 11; and Patricia, 9.

Like most women, Mrs. Gard enjoys her modern kitchen with its work-saving devices, but she also derives much personal pleasure from the handsome fireplace in the living room. She had always wanted a fireplace in her home, and this is her first.

The large home in which the Gards now reside, built on a 100 x 157 foot lot, provides ample room for the three bedrooms, a bath and a half and a recreation room, planned for the full basement but not yet completed.

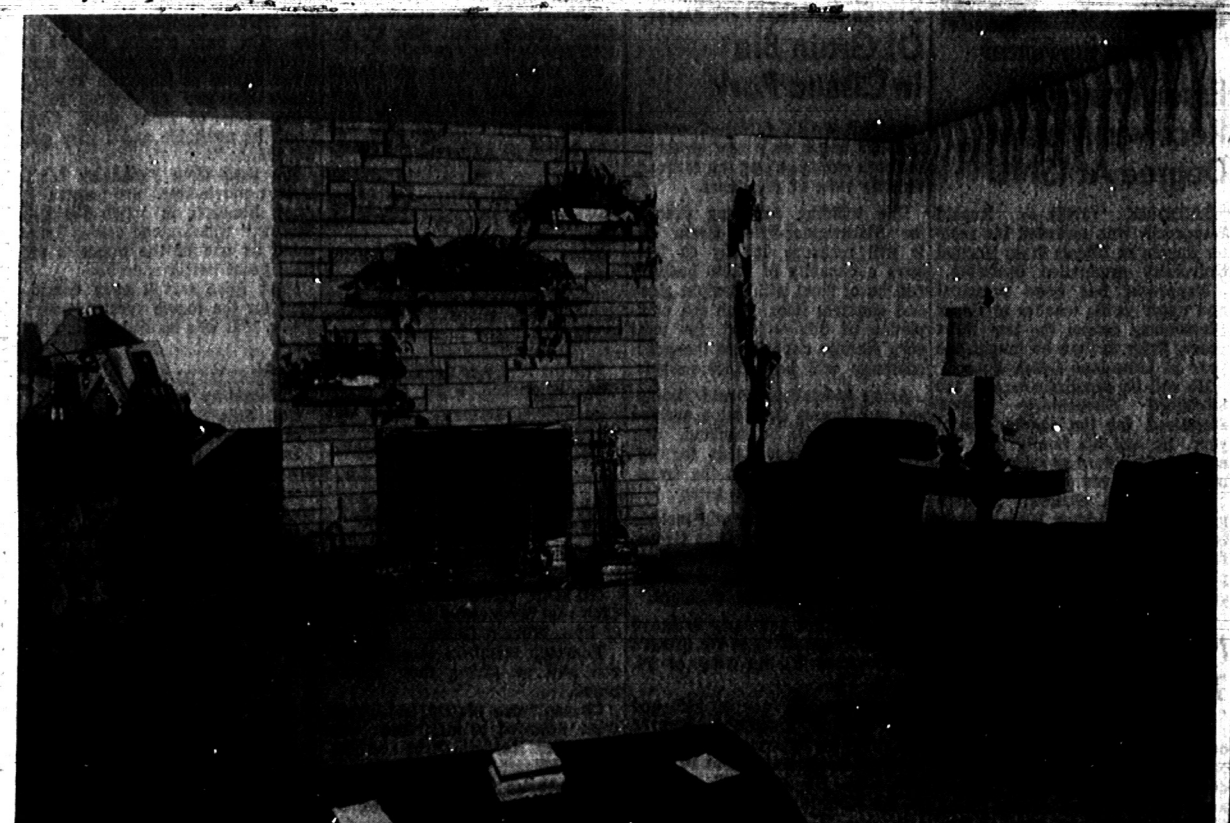

Special features of the home are the large windows in all rooms and the spacious and attractive main bath room.

A front hallway is provided for the Gard family through the placement of living room furniture. A large davenport faces away from the entrance area and into the living room, dividing the area without the restriction of a wall.

Adding to the feeling of size in the bedrooms are the large windows. Even in the smallest of the three bedrooms, the window is extra large.

Neutral colors in the Gard home decorative scheme are egg shell and beige. Also used are gold, blue, green and red.

The exterior of the residence is brick and stone.

A davenport, not seen in the foreground, faces into the living room area of the John Gard home and provides walking space from the doorway behind it and a conversation area in front. Mrs. Gard has used an egg shell shade predominately in the room, featuring

Give Your Living Room Wall A New Look With Picture Display

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

You can make a living room wall a conversation piece by seeking individuality in displaying your pictures, says decorator Rhonda Sande, whose special forte is grouping pictures.

Proportion is the important ingredient in the formula for good wall arrangements," says Miss Sande, who advises amateur decorators not to think in terms of 2 or 3-inch frames when selecting a border for a picture.

"It's better to get a sense of the way the picture moves and then determine the frame," she says. "Sometimes it is better to have the mat wider at the sides, sometimes a narrower frame all around does the best job."

"Put your imagination to work too, in the matter of choosing mats for pictures," she says. "Silk, linen, burlap, other fabrics may strike your fancy. We do not need to stick to the same old static ideas in framing pictures."

If you are uncertain about your display, map it out on paper or set up your plan on the floor before making the final decision. One good idea, suggests Miss Sande, is to move colored papers over the picture until you decide on the right color and width of your mat.

"A group of 'just objects' can be very cold, but one or two three-dimensional things can really perk up a wall area," she says. "Although I must say I dislike little white plaster plaques that mean nothing, and seem to be the rage in some circles. A clock is a suitable and ideal object to include in the wall art, and there are lovely designs that can beautify any arrangement."

Mrs. John Gard is pictured in the modern kitchen of her home. The brick cabinet wall includes a built-in oven (at far end) in two-quarter and an antique copper hood above the cupboard top stove. A refrigerator-freezer, in matching turquoise, stands at left. The

Use Tools Correctly To Prevent Home Shop Grief

By MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

All the tools represented in a hardware store's inventory will be of little use to you, unless you use the right tool for the right job, use each tool properly, and keep all tools in good condition.

Mashed thumbs are the result of improperly used hammers. Cuts more often result from dull, rather than sharp tools.

Listed below are suggestions to help you avoid painful injuries when using tools.

Hammers: Strike call head with the full face of the hammer. Striking at an angle will cause the hammer's face to slip off the nail. When starting a nail, hold it between the thumb and forefinger near the head of the nail, not near the point.

Keep hammer handles smooth and free of splinters. Handles should be tight in the hammer head. Replace handles that are cracked or otherwise damaged. Rewedge loose handles.

When face of a hammer head becomes nicked and dented, replace the hammer.

Saws: Keep saws sharp. Change replaceable blades when they become dull. Support your work on sawhorses. When using a hacksaw, fasten the work in a vise.

Start a new hacksaw cut on the back stroke. Maintain even, steady pressure while sawing.

Screwdrivers: One size won't do for all jobs.

The blade's tip should seat itself firmly and squarely against the bottom and sides of the screw slot, in each instance.

A sure way to get a nasty puncture wound is to hold the work in one hand, the screwdriver in the other hand, and DON'T substitute a screwdriver for a chair or a crowbar.

Power tools, portable or stationary, offer their own set of hazards. Electric tools should be grounded.

If you run many power tools in your basement or garage, put them on a separate circuit. Lights and tools should not share a common fuse.

Never use a power saw without a guard over the blade. Watch what you run through a saw. Don't attempt to cut lumber with nails in it.

Don't wear loose, floppy sleeves or a long necklace while working with power tools.

Repair, cleaning and adjustment should never be undertaken while a tool is running. Turn off and disconnect it, first.

As you begin to add more tools to your shop, plan their locations carefully. Allow yourself a good three feet around each power tool for maneuvering.

Provide places to store hand tools. Don't throw them all in a box.

Supply plenty of light over power tools and workbenches. Keep a good fire extinguisher or a bucket of sand with a easy reach. Have goggles on hand. If you do any grinding in your shop, keep work area clear and clean.

Handy Man Fits Approximate Sizes To His Personal Needs

By MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

How big do I make it? How much material do I need? Those are two questions every handy man faces whenever he tackles any sort of building project, large or small.

For most things that you are likely to make around the house there are "standard" dimensions. Those needn't be followed slavishly, but they provide a base on which to figure.

For example: You want to put up some book shelves. The average book shelf is eight or nine inches deep. Shelves are generally 18 inches apart, but one shelf can be given more height to accommodate taller books.

The highest shelf shouldn't be more than 8 1/2 feet from the floor, unless you run to big ones in your family.

The accepted height for either a table or a desk is 30 inches. The seat of a chair ought to be 15 inches deep and about 18 inches high, minimum. The full height of the back of the chair should be 30 inches.

Table and desk tops run from 36 to 42 inches in width. Length of a table or desk should be at least 48 inches. Leave plenty of space—25 inches high and no less than 18 inches of depth.

Closets always should be 12 inches deep. Use one-inch lumber.

The closet pole will be most useful at least 12 inches away from the wall and about 5 1/2 feet from the floor.

In the kitchen, floor cabinets should have tops that are 24 inches deep, 30 inches high. Hang wall cabinets so that they are a minimum of 18 inches above the sink level.

If you build stairs, don't try to keep specific dimensions in mind. Instead, there's a proportion of rise to tread to remember.

Here's the formula: twice the riser height plus the tread width should equal 64 or 65 inches.

Example: An eight-inch riser would call for an eight-inch tread. A riser taller than six inches in height makes them too shallow. Ideal dimensions are seven-inch risers, 18-inch tread. Recall: the higher the riser, the narrower the tread and the steeper the stairs.

Outdoors, certain rules apply, too. A field fence, to be sturdy, should have 4x4 posts, ends for corners and gates. If you use round posts, get them six inches in diameter.

A gate should be at least three feet wide. Get posts long enough so that a third of their length can go below ground. Thus, a six-

WHAT SIZE TO MAKE IT?

Problem of size is designed to drive the handy man wild. Best information: guide by averages; build to fit.

Foot fence would require nine-foot posts.

Posts should be set no more than 10 feet apart. If it's a rail fence, set the posts half-a-rail-length apart.

For rails, use 1x6s. A picket or a board fence may have a top and bottom rail. For such rails, use 2x4s or 2x6s.

Planning to build or buy a garage? Measure your car and figure on a clearance of 18 inches at the back, six inches in front, minimum.

As for width, 10 feet is the absolute minimum for a one-car garage, 14 feet is more acceptable. A two-car garage should be at least 20 feet wide. Minimum length should be 20 feet; 22 feet is better.

Judge Denies Melquist Plea For New Trial

WHEATON (AP) — Charles L. Melquist, 22, Friday was formally sentenced to 97 years imprisonment for the murder of 15-year-old Bonnie Lee Scott.

Judge Mel Abrahamson of DuPage County Circuit Court imposed sentence after denying a motion for a new trial for the young construction worker. A jury which convicted Melquist of murdering the girl last Sept. 22, fixed the penalty in its verdict last May 2.

Melquist gulped nervously several times as Judge Abrahamson ordered him incarcerated in the Illinois State Penitentiary at Joliet until he has served his sentence. The youth replied, "No sir," when asked if he had anything to say to the court.

In his plea for a new trial, Melquist's lawyer, Robert J. McDonnell, argued that the state had failed to prove where the murder took place since it had no evidence except that given by Melquist in two statements.

McDonnell indicated he would appeal the conviction.

X15 To Receive Another Test Ride

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—America's first rocket ship will get another "free ride" late this month. The X15 will be making its fifth captive flight — under an eight-jet B52 piloted by a test pilot — to see how it behaves with a fuel load of nearly 20,000 pounds, more than doubling its weight.

The Scott girl disappeared Sept. 22. Her body, nude and decapitated, was found nearly two months later in a forest preserve southwest of Chicago. Pathologists reported the girl had been smothered.

Melquist told authorities after his arrest that he had smothered the girl with a pillow as the co-pilot sat in his car in the driveway of his parent's home in Villa Park. The girl lived in Addison, a few miles from Villa Park.

Switch Hit Home For Growing Family

By DAVID L. BOWEN

"Sure, we need four bedrooms now, but what'll we do with all those sleeping rooms when the kids grow up?"

If that question from a cost-conscious spouse is blocking your road to home ownership, here's a plan that may help remove the obstruction.

It's a medium-sized four bedroom ranch with a built-in answer to middle age—the sleeping section can easily be converted from four bedrooms into two "his" and "hers" suites. Removal of a few partitions turns a home that can easily accommodate from three to five children into one tailor-made for a pair of grandparents smart enough to plan for a comfortable life after the children are gone.

ONE EXECUTIVE in the housing industry has pointed out that most home design today is aimed at the young, expanding family—with little thought being given to the needs of a couple whose children are part of the family, the roughly rectangular sleeping section is divided into four bedrooms. Two baths are in this part of the house, one handy to the family room and the other at the end of the bedroom hall.

When the children grow older, marry, and move out to set up their own homes, the use of rooms in this section can be drastically altered with a little simple carpentry and redecoration.

The two rooms on the street side of the hall become a bedroom and connecting den (or office) for the man of the house, with easy access from the main entrance. Carpentry required: two doorways cut in partition walls, one sealed.

ON THE OTHER side of the hall, the lady of the house gets a completely feminine suite composed of bedroom, sitting or sewing room, and connecting bath. Carpentry required: one arched doorway and one doorway cut in partition walls, two doors sealed.

The unusual flexibility in the bedroom section is not the only advantage of this design. The important living and service areas of the house were laid out with both efficiency and beauty in mind. They would make living a comfort at any stage of family development.

A foyer at the front entrance routes traffic either into the formal living room, the informal family room and kitchen area, or the bedroom hall. The living and dining rooms are in line, providing an expanse more than 21 feet long. The fireplace in the center of the interior living room wall and a bow window on the exterior wall insure elegance. The dining room could be screened off or added to the formal entertainment space, 33' x 9' deep.

Soviet Newspaper Accuses U.S. Of 'Camouflage Test'

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet Navy paper Sovetskii Flot has accused the United States of planning a "camouflaged test" of hydrogen bombs under the guise of building a seaport in Alaska.

The U.S. government has made tentative plans to set off five nuclear bombs, probably in 1969, to excavate a harbor in Kotzebue Sound, on the northwestern Alaska coast.

Abbe Lane Sues NBC For Injuries

NEW YORK (AP)—Singer Abbe Lane is suing the National Broadcasting Co. for $500,000 in damages for injuries she says she sustained during a TV show.

In a suit filed Friday, Miss Lane, 27, claimed injuries to her left knee when she tripped from a "defective" stairway while appearing with her husband, Xavier Cugat, on his TV program of March 1, 1957.

In addition, the 50-year-old Cugat has asked $100,000 damages as a result of the alleged accident and for losses of his wife's "services and society."

NBC entered a general denial.

LOADED WITH LONGEVITY: Architect Rudolph A. Matern designed this home so that it can change with the changing needs of a family. It has a total of seven rooms, with two baths.

DURING EARLY YEARS: Four bedrooms make this an ideal home for a family with growing children. But the rooms are laid out so they won't go to waste after children mature and leave home.

depending upon what the occasion requires. THIS KITCHEN is well located for control of the rear play area and has a U-shaped counter. The family room adjoins the kitchen on the left and has wide sliding glass doors leading to the long roofed porch across the rear of the house. A mud room and laundry are to the right of the kitchen with service porch, vestibule and shop or storage space beyond that. If built without a basement, furnace and hot water heater could be located where basement stair well is shown.

This rear service and informal living area would also change its function during a family's later years, but these changes would mainly be in name. The family room would become a coffee or card room, the laundry area would be called a hobby room, and the shop or storage room (more storage than shop when bicycles were in the house) would become a man's closet or a garden hot house.

The design offers 1,492 square feet of habitable area, with 200 additional in the garage and shop. Overall dimensions are 73' wide by the formal entertainment space, 33' x 9' deep.

Moscow Papers Praise Dior Fashion Styles

MOSCOW (AP)—Moscow newspapers Saturday began giving attention to the Dior styles which have been drawing packed houses for showings in the Soviet capital.

The labor paper Trud said the crowd liked the French designer's relatively simple and wool designs called Chicago and added that it already had been sold in 22 countries.

It said that fur styles—in which the Soviets are especially interested—were presented "in good taste."

The only animal that is purple in color is the blebok, a small South African antelope.

Georgia Governor Can't Get Excited Over Missile Mail

ATLANTA (UPI)—You'll have a hard time convincing Georgia Gov. Ernest Vandiver that "missile mail" is faster than conventional air mail.

Vandiver received a letter from Jacksonville, Fla., Friday—96 hours after it was sent by Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield in a regular missile freed from a submarine to the Mayport, Fla., naval station.

Jacksonville is only 330 miles from Atlanta—less than two hours by air.

There is strong sentiment for cutting deeper than the House Foreign Relations Committee, Committee Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) reported Friday. But he added that he personally felt deeper cuts might be dangerous.

President Eisenhower has asked $1,000,000,000 for foreign aid in the fiscal year beginning July 1. Of this amount, $1,000,000,000 was listed for military aid and $33,000,000 for defense support.

The House committee reduced the military aid figure to $1,440,000,000 and the defense support amount to $700,000,000. The House will begin debate on the bill next week.

Dead was Monroe J. Corwin Jr., 21, of Joliet, a passenger in the auto, and James Older, 21, of Joliet, driver of the car. Older died in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Hospital authorities said Richard Atkinson, 27, of Joliet, was in serious condition with back injuries. Thomas Scheidt, 19, of Joliet, was treated and released.

Police said the car apparently was travelling at a high rate of speed and skidded 340 feet before hitting the tree.

Red Cross swim classes elsewhere in the county will be held at the Bonfield, Essex and Manteno lakes for residents of those sections of the area.

In accordance with Park District regulations this year separate sessions will be held at the Kankakee pool for those residing within the park district and those living outside it.

Enrollment for residents of the park district will be from 9 a.m. until noon June 16 and 17 at the pool. Classes will begin June 22 and continue through July 34 with each child receiving instruction twice a week for the five weeks.

Children may select either a Monday-Wednesday or a Tuesday-Thursday combination, classes being from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. each day. Maximum enrollment is 1,500 with 750 to be allowed for each of the combinations. Three class periods will be run each morning, 200 attending each.

SPECIALIZED CLASSES will be conducted each Saturday from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Enrollment for these will be limited to 100.

Legitimacy of residency within the district will be accepted by the Red Cross upon the enrollee's statement that he resides in either Kankakee or Aurora Township, the confines of the park district.

Registration for non-residents of the park district will be held from 9 a.m. to noon on July 22 and July 23 at the Kankakee pool. Classes for non-residents will begin on July 27 and continue through Aug. 11. Maximum enrollment will be 750 with class sessions being held four times a week (Monday through Thursday) for 34 weeks. Three class periods will be held each morning during this period also.

It is a requirement of the Park District this year that all non-residents of the district participating in the Red Cross free "learn to swim" program pay the regular pool admission fee to the park district cashier. No admission will be charged park district residents.

Senate Committee Votes On Foreign Aid Bill Monday

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee votes Monday on whether to outdo a House committee in slashing military assistance money from the foreign aid bill.

2 Girls Play House With 'Real' Dolls

The good old summer pastime of playing house for young girls has become the real thing for two girls, aged 8 and 11, with the arrival of two sets of twins Monday and Tuesday.

The arrivals have upset the family routine, possibly more than usual because they are unusual. They are possums and rabbits.

The girls are Debbie Barnard, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Barnard of 2048 E. Hickory St., and her next door neighbor, Valerie Dufour, 8, daughter of Mrs. William Dufour of 404 S. Wildwood Ave.

Every two hours according to the feeding schedule set up by the young mothers, the possums and rabbits, the two possums, get fed at an eyedropper and Peter and Cottontail, the two rabbits, are fed with small doll bottles.

The possums arrived Monday, being donated by a neighbor after the mother had been killed by a cat. Although only about four inches long, they already had their eyes open. Then Tuesday, another neighbor hit a rabbit near a power mower killing the mother and two other baby rabbits.

The two girls are careful to keep youngsters from handling their little charges. They have put the possums and rabbits in cribs, playpens and beds from their doll houses and Friday even tried diapers on their babies, but they just wouldn't stay on. One of the possums plays with a small doll rattle.

Also settling in on the act is Debbie's female cousin, Pamela, who cleans and cares for the children. The two girls hope to set the rabbits free when they become old enough to take care of themselves and possibly give the possums in a zoo.

Up 'til Now

A Scrapbook History, Old And New, Compiled By The Kankakee County Historical Society

Kankakee History

MOTORING HAD ITS PERILS IN 1902
BY HAROLD W. SIMMONS

The advent of the horseless carriage at the turn of the century provided new thrills to the life of Kankakee. A few daring citizens, seeking a more rapid method of transportation than afforded by the old faithful family horse, bought the new-fangled contraption, but they were in the minority. An incident which occurred in the summer of 1902 is related in a story which appeared in the Kankakee Democrat. The yellowing clipping was sent Oliver Johnson, 1485 E. Bourbonnais St. by his uncle, Frank Johnson, now a resident of Minnesota. It seems that Frank, with his brother Fred, traded a steam engine for the automobile appearing in the story. They then sold it to W. H. Sanders, a jeweler having his store on the southside. The story of the near-tragedy of 52 years ago is related in the old clipping.

A BURNING HORSELESS CARRIAGE, W. H. Sanders and his auto met with a mishap. Automobile enveloped in flames was a novel sight to the residents of E. Court street yesterday afternoon. They formed

A LOCOMOBILE of the vintage of 1902. Not the Sanders vehicle, but one of the same model.

An old fashioned fire brigade and carried buckets of water to extinguish the fire, but water only added fuel to the flames. Harlan M. Stone, the sedan chair of the City National bank, was one of the amateur firemen and did some fast sprinting, especially for Sunday. He carried four buckets, but not of water. Mr. Stone started with water, but by the time he reached the scene of the conflagration the bucket was about empty, most of the contents being spilled on the route and on his Sunday pants.

"W. H. SANDERS, OWNER OF THE machine, was severely burned. Miss Emma Sanders managed to tumble out of the flame surrounded auto without igniting her clothes. Fred Snow, in front of whose father's house the mishap occurred, is still marvelling over Miss Sanders' remarkable escape. He says her jump from the burning auto resembled a circus performer's dive through a hoop of flames.

A broken gasoline feed pipe caused the mishap while the machine was going at a moderate speed. Mr. Sanders heard something snap, and at once reversed the power and applied the brakes. The escaping gas instantly ignited, the flames bursting out and curling up and around the occupants before the machine was stopped. Mr. Sanders and his daughter jumped for their lives. Mr. Sanders burned his face and hands in stooping and reaching under the machine to turn off the gas feed valve. By this time the wood work of the machine was aflame and burned for several minutes after H. M. Stone, Fred Snow and P. A. Lord had dashed buckets of water on it.

"The bottom of the vehicle was burned through, the sides badly scorched and the leather seat ruined. The damage will amount to about $100. Mr. Sanders was taken to his home by Fred Snow behind a common plug horse. W. S. Vandewater happened along and took Miss Sanders home in his automobile. Miss Sanders would have preferred to have rode behind the horse as a matter of safety. Afterwards Mr. Vandewater and August Radeke came and got Sanders' machine and pulled it home with the former's automobile, which was a much more dignified proceeding than having it yanked off by a team of mules. The automobile and horseless carriage fellows have a brotherly feeling and stand together.

"AUGUST RADEKE WOULD HAVE COME to the rescue with his machine if he had not met with a mishap similar to Sanders. Saturday evening the gas feed pipe of his driving apparatus broke on East avenue, which resulted in an explosion and put the machine temporarily out of the running. The two accidents have put a damper in the enthusiasm of Kankakee people who were figuring on buying steam propelled autos with gasoline for fuel.

"A Democrat reporter called on Mr. Sanders at his home yesterday afternoon to ascertain the extent of his injuries. He was seated in his store holding a pet dog in bandaged hands. Sanders' eyebrows and mustache were singed and his burned face was liberally smeared with a mixture of axle grease and oleomargarine. Sanders ran a napkin launch on the river for many years and never had a gas explosion or accident. Recently he sold his boat to Policeman Kaiser. Now he is trying to trade the automobile for the boat."

Although the account of the accident does not tell its exact location, it probably took place somewhere near E. Ave. and Court St. The men who came to the rescue lived in the immediate neighborhood and probably saw what happened while sitting on their front porch. It being a Sunday afternoon, H. M. Stone later became president of the City National Bank; Fred Snow, according to his son attorney Herman Snow, operated a printing establishment in the 200 block of E. Merchant street, later devoting his time to banking and farming; P. A. Lord at that time under the firm name of Lord Lumber Co., manufactured church furniture in the building now occupied by the American-Market-Paint Co. on N. Indiana avenue.

Singer Billie Holiday Arrested On Dope Charge

NEW YORK (UPI)—Blues singer Billie Holiday, critically ill with liver and heart ailments, was arrested Friday for allegedly sniffing heroin in her hospital bed.

The famed "lady day," 43, was booked by telephone after a nurse told police she seized a package of white powder—later shown to be heroin—from Miss Holiday. The nurse had become suspicious when she saw some of the white powder on Miss Holiday's face.

Police said Miss Holiday admitted she occasionally took heroin. She told authorities she found the heroin in the bottom of her pocketbook after she was admitted to Metropolitan Hospital May 31. However, police believed a visitor had smuggled the heroin to her. They said they would question all coitus addition.

Police said she would be arraigned at bedside when she is last month, her attorney said.

Symington Won't Seek Presidency

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Stuart Symington, U.S. Senator from Missouri, has indicated he won't seek the Democratic presidential nomination next year. He says he doesn't consider himself a candidate for the job.

Symington, here to speak Saturday night at a Jefferson-Jackson dinner, told newsmen Friday that "a great candidate" would be Ohio Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

But DiSalle, federal price stabilizer in the Truman administration, merely smiled at the suggestion and told Symington good-naturedly: "Why don't you mind your own business?" They were seated next to one another at a press conference in the governor's mansion.

Holiday had "whipped" her nerves, she said she would be arraigned at bedside when she is last month, her attorney said.

Queen's Floating Palace Arrives For St. Lawrence Ceremonies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A graceful and expensive lady of the sea is coming 3,600 miles from England to lend her elegance to the official opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

She's the Britannia, floating palace of the Queen of England. And from the time she enters into the St. Lawrence's first look at St. Lambert's near Montreal, the Britannia will rule the waves of the Great Lakes.

AND FROM THE decks of the blue-hulled Britannia, President and Mrs. Eisenhower, with Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, will participate in the June 25 ceremonies. They'll have luncheon in the state dining room—big enough to seat 50—that's furnished with a table by the time she sails into the St. Lawrence for her first taste of fresh water. She has taken the 880,000 and two expensive refits by the royal couple who plan to visit the St. Lawrence and the Great Lakes for a one-day visit on July 8, and then up to Canada for their six-week tour.

WHEN ANCHORED in the United States, the ship will represent an investment of $4,918,000. This includes the original $1,000,000 cost of the ship and the $3,918,000 cost of the refits. The ship is a two-masted, 10,000-ton vessel with a beam of 110 feet and a draft of 35 feet.

Built into the Britannia is a two-car garage, capable of accommodating 12 cars. The Queen's fancies a drive ashore, but there is a royal rumor that for all its good looks, Britannia is not a very fast runner.

Postmen Will Work July 3

WASHINGTON (AP)—Post office workers won't get a holiday on July 3 like most government workers. President Eisenhower Friday authorized the holiday because the 4th of July falls on a Saturday. But Postmaster General Arthur W. Summerfield, last 13, announced that Post Offices will remain open July 3 and there will be normal mail deliveries that day.

Mikoyan Promises More Sputniks

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Deputy Premier A. I. Mikoyan says Soviet scientists will send up additional earth satellites to replace Sputnik III which is slated to plunge earthward next fall. "They will not leave the skies empty," he said.

All-Summer Fun Right In Your Own Back Yard

It's more fun in the summertime, but Mr. and Mrs. Malvin Mayo of 531 Cook Blvd., Bradley, cook on their patio, which adjoins the garage, all year round. Even when they must eat indoors, they enjoy the flavor of outdoor cooking. This is a typical scene at the Mayo residence. Mayo presides at the grill while his wife serves their youngest child, Valerie, 2½, a chocolate brownie. The other children, from left, are Patricia, 8; Linda, 12; and David, 11.

Patio doors stand open and many families have already begun a favorite warm-weather pastime, outdoor eating! Chef's hat and large apron have become popular wearing apparel for male members of the family who often pride themselves on their ability to produce a meat course with a special flavor. "There's nothing like barbecued chicken or steak cooked over a charcoal grill," they say.

As for the rest of the meal, that's women's work. She adds, complaining, preferring to encourage the annual spurt of culinary endeavor on the part of her husband (even though it oftentimes results in extra work for her.)

Pictured here are a few families who enjoy eating out-of-doors, and two summertime "chefs" who have barbecue sauce recipes to recommend.

A picnic these days can mean anything from eating in a roadside park or camp area to moving food and dishes into the back yard. It's inexpensive fun for the entire family.

Outdoor cooks have become quite resourceful in equipping themselves for easy linin'. Some keep salt, pepper, relishes and food accessories in special containers so that they can picnic on a moment's notice.

Table covers need not be flattery cloths; they can be disposable paper covers in a never ending supply of patterns and decorations. The table can also be covered with a spare beach towel, big enough to stretch the length of the table and heavy enough to stay put in a breeze. The bold, colorful designs perk up the utilitarian table.

Finger tip towels also make dandy napkins, color-matched to beach towels. An inexpensive addition to a picnic box is a mesh foot cover that unfolds like an umbrella to protect sweets or salads from insects. Some of the new paper plates are plastic coated, heavy enough to be washed and re-used.

When a picnic will stretch into the twilight hours, miniature lanterns, battery-powered, are a welcome addition to the table, for sociability and to help the cleanup committee.

On The Social Side

SECTION II — KANKAKEE SUNDAY JOURNAL, SUNDAY, JUNE 14, 1959 — PAGE 21

For barbecuing, JOSEPH L. AZZARELLI, 34 Marquette road, suggests the following sauce recipe:

- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup ketchup
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/2 cup lemon juice
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
- 2 tablespoons prepared mustard
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon black pepper
- 1 clove garlic, cut up

Cook onion until soft in hot oil. Add remaining ingredients. Simmer 15 minutes. Then taste.

Azzarelli enjoys outdoor cooking and eating but also has his basement recreation room outfitted with a barbecue pit for grilling and smoking meat.

JEROME L. BENOIT, 1978 E. Spruce St., is another outdoor cooking enthusiast. He even has a motto for barbecuing: "Don't be in a hurry." His basting recipe:

- 1/2 cup cooking oil
- 1/2 cup lemon juice or cider vinegar
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 1/2 tablespoons salt
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 1/2 teaspoons tobacco

Combine and bring to boil. Baste every 15 or 20 minutes for about an hour.

Benoit's favorite cook-out is chicken. He uses 2½ pound chickens, halved, and bastes each piece on both sides with sauce, then lets them stand for 10 minutes. Place meaty sides up, so they may cook longer. He further suggests adjusting the grill so that the chicken is as high as possible. He uses "a good close bed of charcoal." When the fire is started, spread the coals out evenly to cover the bottom of the grill.

Back yard get-togethers are a common thing in the summertime and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford T. Tate (in background) of 778 Cook Blvd., Bradley, join Mrs. V. J. Snider (at right) for a neighborly steak fry. The Sniders live at 777 Meadow Ct., Bradley. The children are, from left, Anne Snider, 1; Stephanie Tate, 9; and Patie Tate, 5.

Pictured in their back yard as they prepare for a meal outdoors are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Mark Jr., 1809 Meadowview Ct. Like most wives, Mrs. Mark is content to relinquish cooking honors for the summer months.

Even the family dog stands at attention when it's time to eat outdoors at the Ferdinand J. Denoyer residence, 1915 E. Linden St. The three Denoyer children are, from left, Cheryl, 5; Tommy, 3; and Stephen, 4.

The two children of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Ackman, 552 S. Myrtle Ave., think that a meal of wieners and marshmallows is the very best possible. They are Kathy Jo, 5½; and Jeffrey, 4.

Every outdoor chef arrives for a finished product that is appetizing and pretty as a picture. No matter how the chicken or steak or meat course is prepared, it is often the basting sauce that makes the difference. Two local "chefs" (above) share their favorite sauce recipes for chicken and steak.

Illini Lose Tarzan's Star

Just when he thought he had Willie LaBeau all wrapped up for delivery to Illinois, Harold (Tarzan) Milton found his star halfback all locked up at the University of Colorado.

Milton, the one-time Kankakee high athlete who counts each year just that doesn't return him a Louisiana Negro state championship of one kind or another, is head coach of all sports at Walter Cohen High School in New Orleans.

LaBeau is the fleet scabbard who, says Milton, helped him win his fifth state track title in eight years this spring. He's a sprinter.

Illinois has been watching LaBeau for two years, claims Tarzan, but Coach Ray Ellet made the mistake of confiding to one of his assistants that the boy is good. Chuck Thorpe, the assistant coach for the Illini but who has since joined the staff at Colorado.

The law of self preservation, of course, prompted Thorpe to use the information for which Illinois had paid to interest his new employees in Illinois.

But Milton, who is known down in New Orleans as "Kankakee," considers Ellet and his staff with the promise that he'll try to send them another and better star in 1960—a lad named James (Country) Warren. Country, Milton says, can run faster and do everything better than LaBeau. He had jumped 24 feet 6 inches this spring in the state meet and runs the century under 16.

"He's another J. C. Caroline," his coach claims, "but he's not only a junior."

Meanwhile, Ellet and Co. may still get a consolation prize from Milton for 1959—a 215-pound, 6-4 inch being sent from the tackle from Milton's 1958 team.

Milton, who plans to spend his summer here, had said last fall that he would try to land a job in this part of the country this year, but now he doesn't know.

Every year," chuckled the stocky young man whose long and checked football career included stints with a crack wartime Marine team and the Canadian professional league, "I say I'm going to move. But then I take a look at the kids I've got coming back at New Orleans, so I say 'Just one more year.' Trouble is, I never seem to run out of good athletes."

Besides, the fading color line hasn't completely disappeared even in these parts, and good coaching jobs are still few and far between for men of Milton's race.

Coaches Off To Summer School, Jobs

Summer isn't necessarily playtime for high school coaches in the Kankakee area. About half of them are furthering their education at various summer schools while the other half are toiling on temporary jobs.

Among summertime students are Ed Beneky, St. Patrick Central's basketball coach; Sam Miranda, Kankakee High's case manager; Ron Stewart, West Junior High coach; Tom Pritchard, East Junior High coach; and Kankakee High tennis coach, Don Richard, West Junior assistant and Bob Muir, B-B assistant.

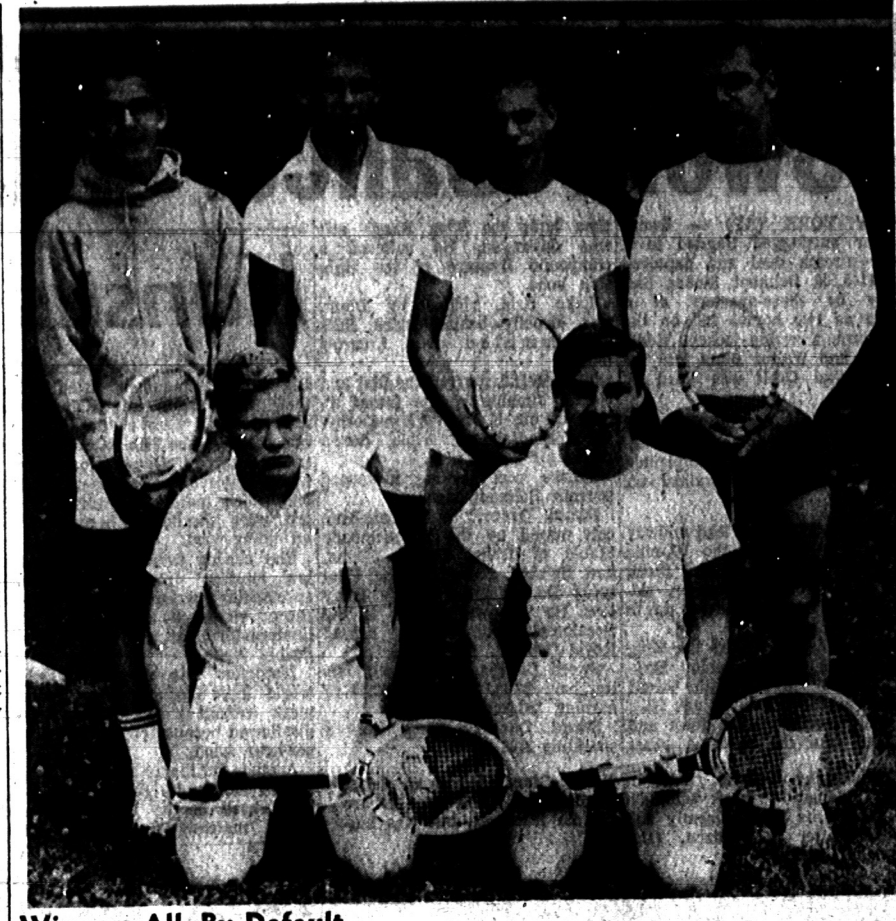

Beneky will start classes Monday at Illinois State Normal and Miranda is at Southern Illinois U. Miranda is at Southern Illinois U. The University of Colorado at Boulder seems to be the most popular spot for enrolled there in the summer months.

Pritchard and Richard are newswires and will take along their brides, naturally. Muir, father of a new son, is at Illinois.

The coaches who have either completed work on their masters degrees or are skipping summer school in favor of trying to fortify the family coffers include Frank Chiodo, St. Pat athletic director and football coach; Jerry Lennon, Bradley-Bourbonnais football coach; Bert Nafziger, B-B's new athletic director and retired basketball coach; Charlie Swille, Kankakee's baseball coach; Bill Osness, Kankakee's football coach and Dick Samson, B-B assistant.

Chiodo and Samson are conducting the Bradley-Bourbonnais summer recreation program; Lennon is again teaching driver's training. Osness is wedding a paleontologist; Nafziger is employed at the Shady Lawn Golf Course in Beecher and Swille is assisting the Kankakee Park District's summer program.

The only man on the athletic staff of the three schools whose work carries him through the summer months is Earl Jones, Kankakee's athletic director who will devote most of the summer weeks to making preparations for the 1959-60 athletic and physical education programs.

These six boys qualified here Saturday for the state football tournament June 20-23 at Decatur without winning a reprieve. A tournament was scheduled for the Cobb Park courts to pick the Kankakee team but when only six players showed up their qualification became automatic. Qualifiers were (back row, left) Willie LaBeau, Harold Milton, and James Warren.

They're Not Old Yankees, Mossi Finds

By United Press International

Take it from Don Mossi—the Yankees ain't what they used to be.

It took Mossi five years to beat the Yankees four times with the Cleveland Indians but he did for the fourth time in a third of a season Friday night when the Detroit Tigers dumped the world champions, 3-1.

A result of no particular importance?

No sir, if you saw Casey Stengel, winner of Kankakee High's American Legion (best all-around athlete) this year, has added Wyoming to his list of prospective college football careers. He's a senior in football athletically, is still considering Florida State, how at league, "I say I'm going to move. But then I take a look at the kids I've got coming back at New Orleans, so I say 'Just one more year.' Trouble is, I never seem to run out of good athletes."

Stengel, the fading color line hasn't completely disappeared even in these parts, and good coaching jobs are still few and far between for men of Milton's race.

Wilhelmi Takes Sprint Car Feature

The Melcher Special again looks like the fastest sprint car running at Kankakee Fairgrounds Speedway.

Bernie Wilhelmi of Joliet, Ill., piloted the Melcher car, No. 66, to a feature race (Q 10 laps) victory at the Kankakee oval Friday night before an estimated 1,500 auto racing fans.

The Melcher Special, owned by Leo Melcher of Joliet, was the car Streator's Bob Tatterman was piloting when he won the Kankakee County Fair sprint car feature last summer. This was the season's first sprint car show here.

Wilhelmi finished second in the Chuck Larkie of Wichita, Kan., in the first heat of the evening and also was first in a four-lap trophy dash.

The Joliet flash started in third position from the pole in the 12-car feature race. Wilhelmi made three trips around the quarter-mile clay track before he pressed forward to take the lead.

On the eighth lap, three cars ran into trouble, leaving Wilhelmi in the lead. He held the lead until the 10th lap, when he was overtaken by Don Hartman of Kankakee, who finished second in the third heat. Each of the pre-heat races was eight-lap, or two-mile, races.

THE WEEKENDS OF MEMBERS of the Village Baptist Church, Lake Village, are generally devoted to the construction of a new church for the congregation. Because of the dearth of time and labor on the part of the congregation, the structure, which normally would cost approximately $40,000, will be put up at approximately half that figure, according to the pastor, the Rev. R. Kenyon Haring. Pictured on the left are Allan Cox, Wesley Odle, Russell Rainford and James Bradburn. Handing up a board is the Rev. Mr. Haring. (Journal photo)

Baptists Build Own Church, Lake Village

LAKE VILLAGE, Ind. (JNS)—A church building for the Village Baptist congregation is gradually being realized. After approximately eight years of holding services in a tent, then a home or four currently in the Lake Village gymnasium, hopes are high to be able to worship before winter in the basement of what will be the new Lake Village Baptist Church. Because of the size of the congregation, approximately 40, progress toward the realization of a new church has been slow and the completion date is not yet in sight. However, by working weekends, bit by bit, the congregation, in the Haring, pastor, the Rev. R. Kenyon Haring, is making headway in completing the basement foundation, which probably will be used for meetings while work continues on the main part of the structure. According to the Rev. R. ## Africa—Where Old, New Mingle

LEOPARDVILLE, Belgian Congo (AP)—Sights and sounds from Africa: The Africans of the Belgian Congo know what they want even if they can't spell it. It's independence. But the signs painted on Leopoldville's walls after the January riots read "Independence." That's incorrect in both French and English.

Is addressed as "boy" waiters, porters, gardeners, messengers. Age has nothing to do with it. And the word is even used in the French and Belgian territories where it sounds like "boy."

The women's clubs in Accra are trying to persuade their more care-free sisters in northern Ghana to wear clothes. The clubs say going around nude is incompatible with Ghana's dignity as a new and independent state. Much of the opposition to the proposed change comes from the men up north, many of whom have three or four wives. They can't afford it.

The best show in Lagos, Nigeria is just below the bridge which connects the island city with the mainland. Almost every day an African fisherman dies his reward to the bridge, throws out a fish. He ties the line to his big toe and then goes to sleep. Crowds gather on the bridge above, even more eager for a bite than the fisherman.

Only a few blocks from the automobile salons and the fancy hair-dressing shops in Lagos you can buy anything you need to go into business as a wildcat trader. Shops in the city market stock a haphazard variety of monkey skins, dried eels, python skins, weird masks, herbs and various kinds of dried fish.

In Leopoldville, Africa's first big city, the nightclubs are crowded Saturday nights with whites and Africans dancing together. When a hotel, possibly one of the new ones, couldn't sleep because of the noise, the Greek proprietor looked at the dance floor crowded with dancing couples and said: "Ain't it wonderful."

Two of the Africans who ran the mile in the Congo-Nigeria track meet at Lagos recently were barefooted. A man with shoes won. A bar in Leopoldville has a most natural backdrop possible. The bottles are stacked against a plate glass window which is one side of a cage containing African birds of all hues and whistles.

Chickens, and especially roosters, give many Africans a rural atmosphere. They "yell" you up in Leopoldville's best hotels at dawn. They wander about in the streets of Lagos. And tourists find them

Eastland To Use School As Weapon For Segregation

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI)—Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) said Friday Southern states should rely on the power to close public schools as their chief weapon in the battle to preserve segregation.

Eastland told the Mississippi Bar Association's annual convention that Southern states must stand up against outsiders seeking integration of Southern schools.

"The best way in the world to tell their hands, when we have to, is to close the schools and let 'em stay closed," he said.

Eastland predicted "the private school systems will be a success when we establish it. Meanwhile, he said, "we must fight off weaklings who say take a few Negroes into the school as a compromise."

In the northwest corner of South Dakota, a flying priest—the Rev. Donald E. Murray—combines flying and ranching for a group of boys from broken homes.

African women carry almost everything on their heads except the baby. They carry the baby strapped to their backs. It is not unusual to see an African mother, baby strapped to her back, walking the streets with one pair of water on her head, another in her hand.

In Accra, multi-racialism seems the most natural thing in the world. The nightclubs are crowded Saturday nights with whites and Africans dancing together. When a hotel, possibly one of the new ones, couldn't sleep because of the noise, the Greek proprietor looked at the dance floor crowded with dancing couples and said: "Ain't it wonderful."

Actor's Wife Accuses Him Of Beatings

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Actor Ernest Borgnine, who won a 1958 Oscar for portraying a jovial butcher, is a wife beater, says his estranged wife.

And Mexican actress Katy Jurado is a home wrecker, adds Rhoda K. Borgnine.

Mrs. Borgnine, 34, heavy set and matronly looking, made the accusation Friday in asking Superior Court to test the alibi testimony of her husband, who was granted her last Aug. 25.

Borgnine, 41, denied the accusations, and said he hopes to marry Miss Jurado. He denied the alibi testimony of her husband, who was granted her last Aug. 25.

Borgnine charged that Jurado coerced her to file for divorce while she was highly nervous and under the influence of tranquilizers.

"He said he would say his sex life was unsatisfactory," the affidavit added, "and that I refused to have more children."

He didn't realize I had an answer to all his allegations. He didn't know a woman never forgets getting beat up—lips swollen, eyes blackened, black and blue marks so that the dress for the Academy Awards back in 1956 had to be changed in a hurry so the marks didn't show."

"I've always hoped that he might make three or four speeches of this type," Morton said. "We like to use the big gun when we can. He's the best salesman the Republican party has."

The senator added that the President might make more than two out-of-town appearances.

Perhaps, he said, some would be necessary at all if the programs "came along all right without this sort of activity."

AS FOR 1960, Morton said he thought Eisenhower would be "just as aggressive as the duties of his office work permit."

"I wouldn't think you would put the President on the campaign trail in 1960, but he said it should reflect a president and perhaps take over the House "by a thin margin."

Defeat of several southern Democrats would be necessary to win the Senate and Morton did not think this was likely.

Morton said he does not expect the GOP to win control of Congress in 1960. But he said it should reflect a president and perhaps take over the House "by a thin margin."

"I wouldn't think you would put the President on the campaign trail in 1960, but he said it should reflect a president and perhaps take over the House "by a thin margin."

Defeat of several southern Democrats would be necessary to win the Senate and Morton did not think this was likely.

Actor's Wife Accuses Him Of Beatings

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Actor Ernest Borgnine, who won a 1958 Oscar for portraying a jovial butcher, is a wife beater, says his estranged wife.

And Mexican actress Katy Jurado is a home wrecker, adds Rhoda K. Borgnine.

Mrs. Borgnine, 34, heavy set and matronly looking, made the accusation Friday in asking Superior Court to test the alibi testimony of her husband, who was granted her last Aug. 25.

Borgnine, 41, denied the accusations, and said he hopes to marry Miss Jurado. He denied the alibi testimony of her husband, who was granted her last Aug. 25.

Borgnine charged that Jurado coerced her to file for divorce while she was highly nervous and under the influence of tranquilizers.

"He said he would say his sex life was unsatisfactory," the affidavit added, "and that I refused to have more children."

He didn't realize I had an answer to all his allegations. He didn't know a woman never forgets getting beat up—lips swollen, eyes blackened, black and blue marks so that the dress for the Academy Awards back in 1956 had to be changed in a hurry so the marks didn't show."

"I've always hoped that he might make three or four speeches of this type," Morton said. "We like to use the big gun when we can. He's the best salesman the Republican party has."

The senator added that the President might make more than two out-of-town appearances.

Perhaps, he said, some would be necessary at all if the programs "came along all right without this sort of activity."

AS FOR 1960, Morton said he thought Eisenhower would be "just as aggressive as the duties of his office work permit."
