Yesterday's Bloodshed, Violence Gone Forever

All Is Peaceful On Today's Picket Line

HOMESTEAD, Pa. (AP)—On the river bank, the big, black steel plant, which dwarfs everything in town, lay quiet and still, like a giant tamed by Lulliputians.

At the main gate of the Homestead works of the United States Steel Corporation, the pickets played pinochle.

A foreman came out, noted the humidity, predicted another strike, and asked if he might go out to his car for a moment. The picket line held him back.

A COMPANY POLICEMAN came by. A picket handed him a copy of the Pittsburgh Courier. The cop handed him a copy of the Courier.

Back in New York, the two armies of negotiators and industrial relations experts and public relations experts hammered away at the gates. There have been five with dire epithets, each side implying the other was out to cripple the Republic.

But here on the front line of the cause, some people are hurting. The strike, where steel is made, has left people remember bloody strikes that resembled civil wars, where the women are buying less fruit, less olives, less steak and more potatoes, more spaghetti, more chopped meat. Hard-ware and paint stores have no complaints. The do-it-yourself trend is bigger than ever.

Here and there, individual strikers were definitely feeling the pinch in the first month of the strike—especially men who work irregularly during last year's recession. They were skipping mortgage payments on the primer.

Still, most strikers approached by this reporter said they had not yet begun to feel the squeeze but would if it lasted much longer. Many had vacation pay. They were living and eating normally.

A modern strike, it would seem, was less immediate impact. In the old days, they felt hunger and anger quicker. "In those days," said one woman, "the old man walked out the gate, got drunk right away and wanted to set fire to the steel workers' lives, where people remember bloody strikes that resembled civil wars, where the women are buying burgh, capsules a half century of American labor progress. People here remember their grandfathers working for 26 cents an hour. They remember their fathers in the depression showing up three times a day for all three shifts trying to get a few hours work.

Today the average steel worker earns $3 an hour and is protected by security clauses, pension clauses, seniority clauses and by a union $60,000 strong and powerful enough to shut down America's biggest basic industry overnight.

Today the young steel worker no longer lives in the old cinder block houses crowded onto the hill overlooking the plant. He has moved over the hill to the suburbs beyond, where he owns a horse and piece of land and more like his own.

He no longer fears the mortgage. He no longer fears the mortgage. He no longer fears the mortgage. He no longer fears the mortgage.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Comedian Arnold Stang, 35, suffered what was described as a "heart-factitious" attack and head injuries when he was rammed into one of the famed cherry trees here early today. No charge was filed against him.

While spokesmen for management and labor call each other names, they still can find it in their hearts to regard mutual convenience. Thus, several days before, the union tells management of an impending walkout so the company can start cooling down the furnaces.

Management and labor agree on who will be allowed in the plant during the shutdown. They agree there is no point in keeping five gates open—use just one, it cuts down on pickets. Pickets can tell on company property, use company washrooms and company power lines if they want to watch television.

U.S. Would Sell Reds Products In U.S. Exhibit

Commerce Chief Considers Move Good Will Gesture

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States announced today it is willing to sell the Soviets a vast array of products displayed at the American exhibition in Moscow.

The items range from a house to a screwdriver.

Secretary of Commerce Fredrick H. Mueller described the offer as a good will gesture. Such a sale presumably also would be good business for Uncle Sam. It would save him the cost of shipping the goods back to the United States.

There was no immediate word whether the Soviets were approached in advance about the proposal, or whether they would be interested.

The offer covers about 1,500 American-made items, including the $200,000 closed circuit color TV unit below which Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Premier Nikita Khrushchev last month held their impromptu debate on the cold war. Also on the list is the medium-price prefabricated house which the Soviets have claimed is much better than most Americans can afford.

MUeller announced the proposal in a special statement which said: "This trade offer is both a sincere gesture of good will to the Soviet people and a definite opportunity for the Soviet Union and the United States to do business."

The phrasing of the announcement indicated that some American products displayed at the fair will not be made available to the Soviets. However, Commerce Department aides declined to clarify this point.

About 1,000 items covered by the offer normally would require U.S. export licenses before they could be sold to the Soviets.

Items offered include all equipment in a model kitchen display, home furnishings, hand and portable tools, radios, a complete home workshop, hi-fi equipment, pleasure boats, sporting goods, office equipment, farm machinery, automobiles of all kinds, phonographs, air conditioners and portable American clothing.

There's Water Around Here Somewhere

Where's the water? Nothing but a sea of faces greeted the Journal photographer when he went to the park district swimming pool Tuesday to get a picture of how many persons had turned out for the annual free day.

Free swimming was permitted from 1 to 5 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m. By 2:30 p.m. checkers had counted 920 youngsters through the gates. At final count, 1,871 persons, mostly children, had used the pool on free swim day. (Journal photo)

Twins Born In Airliner

Over Ocean

GANDER, Newfoundland (UPI)—The British wife of an American airman gave birth to twins aboard a Pan American Airways plane today only 30 minutes before it landed here on a London to New York flight.

Pan American identified the mother as Mrs. Judy Anne-Silvers. The twins, a boy and a girl, were born at 1:15 p.m. and weighed 5 pounds, 10 ounces and 5 pounds, 10 ounces.

The mother and twins are reported doing fine. A Pan American spokesman said: "It was believed to be the first multiple birth aboard an airliner."

Both twins are girls. The mother was just large enough to take the twins. The mother and infants were taken to a hospital here.

West Germans Give President Hero's Greeting

Heat Wave Lingers On

There's more hot, humid weather in store for the Kankakee area Thursday and the heat wave is expected to stay through the weekend. Temperatures Thursday are predicted to hit the 90s again with a low tonight in the 70s.

If it's any consolation, it is getting cooler. The official high at the Kankakee Airport weather station Tuesday was only 92, a drop of three degrees from the high of the previous two days.

Highs Tuesday included a 96 reading at Louisville, a record tying 95 at Chicago, 95 at St. Louis, 94 at both Detroit and Columbus, Ohio, 93 at Atlanta, 92 at Washington, D. C., Phoenix, Ariz., and Kansas City, 90 at Minneapolis and Madison, Wis., and 89 at New York.

The Weather Bureau's five day forecast is all bad news. Temperatures will average 10 to 12 degrees above normal in the Kankakee area. This means highs of 89 to 94 for the area and lows of 69 to 83 degrees.

Weather officials said sleeping conditions were uncomfortable Tuesday night for most of the country, though Pierre, S. D., and Chadron, Neb., experienced 27 degree drops within a few hours.

Adenauer, 50,000 Greet Eisenhower After Jet Flight

BONN, Germany (UPI)—President Eisenhower landed at West Germany's capital city of Bonn today to launch a historic nuclear age crusade for peace.

The man who led the Allied armies 14 years ago to inflict on Germany the most crushing defeat in its history was welcomed back here in triumph today as the free West's leader in the cold war with communism.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, 82, and most of his government were on hand to greet the President as he stepped from a giant jet transport at Wahn Airport near here.

An estimated 50,000 Germans lined the 18-mile route from Wahn to Bonn and its nearby diplomatic suburbs of Bad Godesberg where the President was spending the night at the U.S. embassy residence.

War-Torn Laos To Get U. S. Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States has decided to give Laos emergency help in arming 5,000 more troops and military units to deal with Communist guerrilla attacks, official sources disclosed today.

Formal announcement of the decision, expected this afternoon, is not likely to mention the $500,000 cost of the emergency aid, officials said.

But they said the United States will foot the entire bill, including pay and the cost of uniforms and other equipment. The present 25,000-man Laotian army is entirely financed by U. S. aid.

The decision followed shortly after the military situation in Laos worsened here by the Laotian government's recent seizure of the strategic town of Thakhek, a key communications center.

German Freighter Rescues 6 Scouts On Lake Michigan

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—A German freighter rescued six Oak Park, Ill., members of a Sea Scout boat distressed in Lake Michigan by a squall. It was disclosed today.

The freighter Valeria of Hamburg, answered the Sea Scouts' distress signals.

They were identified as William J. Akens, Robert Wolf, 36, Lewis D. Meadows Jr., 20, Patricia J. Akens, 18, and William J. Akens, 18, all of Oak Park.

Akens said the Sea Scout boat had been bound for Washington Island, Wis., in Door County from Charlevoix, Mich. He said the boat sprang a plank during the squall and began to take on water rapidly.

"We got the pumps going and that helped somewhat, but we were starting to sink," he said. At this time, the Valeria answered the scout boat's distress call Tuesday night.

The Valeria's captain, Achim Behrens, had the scout taken aboard the freighter and crew lifted on deck with a cargo boom.

No House OK Seen On Bond Rate Ceiling

WASHINGTON (AP) Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) said today he does not expect the House to consider this year's repeal of the interest rate ceiling on government bonds, repeatedly urged by President Eisenhower.

Rayburn told his news conference, "I don't think it will be taken up, because there is no slightest chance of the House doing it this year."

HE DID NOT rule out the possibility, however, of legislation raising the interest rate on "E" bonds, which are sold by the Treasury to individuals from 3 1/2 to 3 3/4 percent.

Eisenhower prodded Congress Tuesday to act before adjournment on raising gasoline taxes to finance the deficit-ridden highway program and to enact minimum essential housing legislation.

ONE BRIDGE has been completed in Norton Township and is expected to be finished by the second week of the month. The bridge will be let soon.

Eleven miles of township road will be put on a show at 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. The blue ribbon livestock parade will be held at 7 p.m.

Last Vest Improves

HUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The last survivor of the Civil War, 115-year-old Walter Williams, is "gaining regularly now" and continues to improve, his daughter Willie Mae Bowles said Tuesday. The old soldier, critically ill for two weeks after a bout with pneumonia, began to rally over the weekend.

An increase of a cent a gallon in the gasoline tax for the next 4 1/2 percent or less.

SOME DEMOCRATS feel the urgency for passage of interest rate legislation is passing because the House has completed most of its major refinancing for this year.

Eisenhower, in Tuesday's appeal to Congress described the 4 1/2 percent interest ceiling as an "artificial limitation which forces the Treasury to rely on potentially inflationary short-term borrowing."

The net gain in non-agricultural employment this year as compared with last year was $15, Robinson reported.

The total number employed in 1957 was the highest for the month of July in the past five years.

The new manager is a 1941 graduate of Wayne University, Detroit, Mich. He served as an infantry officer in the European theater during World War I, then joined Ford Motor Co. on his return to civilian life and held posts in the general and cost accounting fields.

Drivers Urged To Be On Lookout For School Youngsters

Schools open here in Kankakee and police chief Wallace Flannery today asked motorists to be watchful for children going to and from school.

"Children frequently dart out in the street and some youngsters, especially the smaller ones, may not have been taught about the extra caution needed on the way to and from school," Flannery said.

The police chief said it is a good idea for the parents to walk the route to school with small children the first few days.

Parents can point out the traffic dangers on the way, he said. "Parents must also teach their children to respect and obey all traffic rules. This can best be accomplished by personal example," he added.

smoothest ride!

One of the 7 big bests Chevrolet gives you over any other car in its field

Anyone who's ever taken a Chevy over a choppy country road can tell you how lightly Chevrolet's Full Coil suspension handles rough going—and coil springs never squeak, never need grease! Try this velvet way of going for your own way of saying "what a smooth ride!"

... the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class! But the happiest part of it all is that this Full Coil ride is just one of seven big bests—all documented by published opinions of experts and on-the-record facts and figures.

BEST ROOM—Official dimensions reported to A.M.A.* show that Chevrolet sedans offer more front seat head room than all but one of the high-priced cars—more than 5.9 inches than the "other two" of the leading low-priced three.

BEST ENGINE—Chevrolet engines have long won expert praise from virtually all automotive press. "The most efficient V-type engine in the world," says the Motor Trend magazine, "is this way." ... the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class! But the happiest part of it all is that this Full Coil ride is just one of seven big bests—all documented by published opinions of experts and on-the-record facts and figures.

BEST ECONOMY—A pair of Chevrolet sedans with Powerglide won their class in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run, topping every other full-sized car.

... the winning mileage was a whopping 22.88 m.p.g.

BEST BRAKES—Chevrolet's bonded-lining brakes are the biggest in their field, built for up to 66,000 longer life. In a direct competition conducted by N.A.S.A., Chevy outlasted both of the other leading low-priced cars in a test of repeated stops from highway speeds.

BEST STYLE—It's the only car of the leading low-priced 3 that's unmistakably modern in every line. "In its price class," says POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, "it's a masterpiece of styling."

BEST TRADE-IN—Any N.A.D.A.* Guide Book can give you the figures on Chevy's extra value. You'll find that Chevrolet averages last year's average up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two."

... and Chevy dealer will be happy to tell you about a whole host of other advantages besides these seven. Why not drop by his showroom?

Eliminate School Fire Hazards

These inspections showed that there was a need for many corrective measures. Hazards were noted and school officials began projects aimed at eliminating them before the start of school this fall.

Kids Say: Send 'Em All Up

The kids of the world were all for the space age, even before this latest development. We mean the plan to send turnip and spinach seeds up into space.

They are to be carried by a Navy balloon some 20 miles above the earth where they'll be bombarded by cosmic rays. After the balloon descends, the seeds will be planted and watched for changes or abnormalities in growth.

In the opinion of the kids we know, it can't help but improve spinach and turnips.

We Spend Too Much For Leisure

NEW YORK (AP)—You have too much leisure time! You don't work hard enough? A presidential fact-finding commission says Americans with their eyes on the better life could be in danger of losing the Soviets' race for survival.

More work and less leisure will lead to more money, the panel says. But the fact is that their leisure time has increased notably in the past decade. And Americans will spend this year on fun of various kinds run to $70 billion, according to the survey. How much you include as recreation and leisure time activities or not depends on your definition. It is strikingly above just 10 years ago.

Products added to this latter day leisure time add up to a sizable part of manufacturing.

THE NEED OF THEM—The report by the Joint Economic Committee says some have taken on the aura of status—the newer cliché replacing the older one—of keeping up with the Joneses.

Defenders of leisure time say everyone except those who from time to time can't have either the physical and mentally, and therefore a national asset, not a liability.

Some of the ways Americans are having fun:

Two billion dollars for boating and the same amount on photography. (Bell & Howell breaks the record with $8 million for its cameras in amateur photographic equipment last year.) Film, flash and other accessories for such equipment makes up the rest.

Boating is said to total one billion dollars. The United States Boat-Building-Center officials say this includes boat building, boat sales, the centers and on equipment, and so on.

AMERICANS ARE PUTTING—Americans are putting over 60 million dollars into swimming pools this year and 300 million into lawns. They also are buying 10 million plants take nearly $1 billion. Bell & Howell's cameras, binoculars and periscope machines about one half billion dollars. The company also sells maps and two billion for toys and sports equipment. The bill for travel is $1 billion.

To reach a higher figure, the committee adds that people can add some of the things they do much for overseas travel. That would include the cost of uniforms, playing cards, outdoor furniture, magazines beyond news, recreations beyond room service—not forgetting the thousands to where you think

Nothing Done On Bond Rate Freeze

ASHINGTON Smouldering often does not attract attention here in government or congressional circles, but among the business leaders, those who are responsible for the neglect run for cover. The two major parties at both houses of Congress and is, therefore, regarded as the smouldering fire on the subject of interest rates.

Despite urgent appeals from the business branch of the government, the Secretary thinks that continuation of the ceiling on interest rates must inevitably force the business community to demand a "controlled economy." It's the same old struggle between the business community and the government demand with a naturally opposed even if those who think the government is the only way to even if it has to resort to the "printing press."

It is a kind of situation that latter kind of situation may arise which is causing widespread fears that the government will force Europeans who hold vast sums of dollars on the gains in purchasing power. This means further weakness in the dollar.

MANY of the Democrats are actually urging the government to go back to the "old ways" before it has led to serious consequences. The government's position is that the Federal Reserve Board during a Democratic administration would be a "printing press."

A large part of the problem was a result of the government's policy of fixing the price of dollars in government securities at fixed prices in the market.

ment heretofore, nothing has been done by the lawmakers to keep the ceiling that keeps the interest rates on government bonds low. It means that nobody really ment borrowing is and the consequence is a world-wide appre-

A New Great Britain

HOW THE COMMONWEALTH WILL manage to hold together during the next decade is difficult to foresee. Canada, Australia, New Zealand, India, Pakistan, and the United Kingdom have different economic and foreign policies. Undoubtedly whatever influence Great Britain exercises will be moral; not an expression of power. The advantages of belonging to the Commonwealth are not material. The economic advantages which give nations in the Commonwealth an economic priority, is not slight. There are other financial benefits, particularly for countries in the sterling area and the Commonwealth, which are not subject to the fluctuations of the "imperial preference" will continue no one can prophesy. Such countries as Canada and Australia are becoming competitors of Great Britain and the United Kingdom in the world market.

For instance, if Canada had to choose between "imperial preference," and a mutuality of projects with the United States, it would be difficult to see how it could choose the former. The United States interest of the United States even if some Canadians now reject the suggestion.

On the other hand, the policy of the United States is now fixed by the fact that Great Britain, which would not have been able to defend herself alone in either World War I or World War II, must be defended by the United States. The American foreign aid policy is now based on the fact that the United States has no other ally.

WHILE NO LAW HAS BEEN PASSED to that effect and while many Americans object to such an assumption and whereas it is correct to say that large sections of the British Labour party do not relish Great Britain's dependence upon the United States, it is also true that Great Britain is dependent upon the United States and that this country accepts that responsibility.

Great Britain did not join the European common market because of its ties to the commonwealth and to the United States. It cannot be established that it would have been to Great Britain's advantage to join this group. It would have been advantageous to the European common market to have British participation and it must be assumed that ultimately a way will have to be found to include Great Britain and/or an economic race between Great Britain and West Germany will disturb the West.

It definitely would be harmful to the United States to become a member of this body and to be tied into its tariff reductions to the point that low-wage goods could come into this country more freely.

As a matter of fact, some American labor unions which have hitherto pursued a policy of free trade are now reconsidering their policy in view of the fierce competition their goods face in American markets from goods that are produced in low-wage countries. They must now realize that if they do not represent inefficient or non-competitive production; they could destroy markets for American labor even in the United States.

The textile and garment workers are the principal sufferers, but the automobile workers will sooner or later realize what happens to labor when imports of automobiles exceed exports. Capital does not suffer because it can be exported to foreign countries and is actually being exported. The returns on such exports do nothing for the American worker.

Voice Of The People

BRADLEY — I would like to know just how long the fishermen in this vicinity (below dam) are being to fish in badly polluted water while the so-called conservationists do nothing. I am sure we could go down near the railroad piers or the Station Street bridge and catch a few black bass, maybe a couple of walleyes, but today there are no bass and far between (carp omitted).

The only fish that is plentiful and good eating, in clear water, the catfish, is uneatable in this vicinity. They have a strong, oily taste, like kerosene, and anyone who has tried to eat one, that was caught in this vicinity—better yet, I'll catch you one, you clean it and eat it, you'll know I'm not deceiving the meat, and if you can't eat it, I'll eat the paper that this is printed on.

So, come on fishermen, let's see how many you can catch and sell up below the dam in our clean water for more and better fishing, turn in our licenses for a refund.

Decatur Won't Try To Tax Power Utility

DECATUR (AP)—The Decatur City Council is discontinuing its efforts to collect taxes on the $6-million dollar capital stock of the Illinois Power Co. through transfer of the utility's home office from Monticello in Platt County to Decatur in Macon.

The tax rate in Platt County is 27 cents per $100 assessed valuation. In Macon county it is $3.55. The utility maintains executive offices in Decatur.

In a letter to the utility made public Tuesday the council said: "The council feels that there is nothing to be gained in exploring further its suggestion that the Illinois Power Co. pay its capital stock in Macon County. We are in agreement that it would be unfair to the other counties in which you do business for you to move the site of your company to Decatur."

"PERHAPS A MORE equitable method of payment would be one which was based on the business transacted by your company in each county. It is realized that any such taxing arrangement would require statutory changes. It is our hope that you will not look upon a further inquiry into this matter as a challenge to your company."

Allan Van Wyck, president of Illinois Power, said when the Monticello-to-Decatur move was suggested by the council last month that his company "firmly believes that neither on the basis of law nor upon the basis of fairness can the City of Decatur claim that such capital stock assessment be located in Decatur."

Ricca Loses Plea To Escape Deportation

CHICAGO (AP)—The Board of Immigration Appeals has blocked another attempt by former Capone lieutenant Paul (The Water) Ricca to escape deportation to Italy.

The board's ruling Tuesday denies the 42-year-old reputed crime syndicate boss any further appeals through government agencies. But his attorney said Ricca would appeal to the courts.

Ricca, now serving a three-year sentence at Terre Haute, Ind., also was convicted in 1943 of extorting $1,800,000 from leaders of the Hollywood motion picture industry. He was paroled after serving three years in prison.

In its deportation case, government attorneys contended that Ricca used a false name to enter the country in 1920 because of a Naples murder conviction.

Speed Trap Fine 2 Cents; Judge Warns Prosecutor

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Rosalind Gardner, 30, pleaded guilty Tuesday to driving her truck 52 miles an hour in a 30-mile zone.

Magistrate William S. Allen told the prosecutor he didn't want to see another similar case in his court. He fined Gardner 2 cents and said: "That's just what I think of this case."

Spareribs Are Smart And Saucy

BY CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Newsfeatures Food Editor

Here come old and new barbecue and dipsy!

Old-fashioned barbecue means split halves of a meat carcass stretched over trenches of coals, brought to a state of crisp brown tenderness and free from the least scorching. Then over the meat the deluge of dipsy — as the sauce was called in some parts of the deep South, and may be to this day.

And what memories of those sauces! Almost 50 years ago a Southern woman lovingly recalled her favorite dipsy, her father's, and wrote:

"Daddy made it thus: Two pounds sweet hard, melted in a brass kettle, with one pound beaten, not ground, black pepper, a pint of small fiery red peppers, rubbed and stewed soft in water to barely cover, a spoonful of herbs in powder — he would never tell what they were — and a quart and pint of the strongest apple vinegar, with a little salt. These were simmered together for half an hour, as the barbecue was getting done."

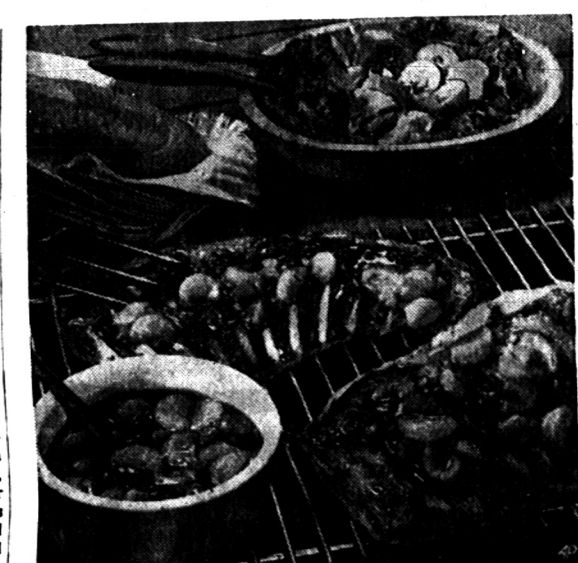

"Hot! After eating it one wanted to lie down at the springside and let the water of it flow down the mouth. But of a flavor, a savor, a tastiness, nothing else earthly approaches."

These days new-fashioned barbecue and dipsy also have their devotees. A couple of racks of fresh pork spareribs may be stretched over the backyard grill.

Diplomat Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee Tuesday approved Walter C. Bowling, a career diplomat, to be assistant secretary of state for European affairs. Bowling, a native of Atkinson, Ga., is now ambassador to Korea.

He had to leave a paycheck with the county clerk as security until he got the 2 cents.

*From all directions, from every town in the county, families regularly come to shop at Rudy's. Does price ALONE prompt some of them to drive 30 miles and more to buy food at this particular market?

Of course not! Because it takes MORE than price to win . . . and HOLD . . . customers. (We've already proved, not in words but in action, that NO OTHER SUPERMARKET CAN CUT YOUR COST OF LIVING LIKE RUDY'S.)

It's the EXTRAS — and, above all, the ATTITUDE that keeps customers. We've always felt very strongly about this. And perhaps that's why Rudy customers, in turn, feel welcome here, feel always at home . . . and WANT to come back.

We give our customers the tangible things they expect and deserve — a big, bright, clean, cheerful, easy-to-shop store, freshly stocked at all times, and offering services second to none.

But all-important intangibles are present at Rudy's, too — mainly an ATTITUDE that the customer must always be our first and foremost interest . . . that the customer is an individual whose wants, needs, desires — even whims — must be satisfied.

We are dedicated to serving you with a warmth and devotion rarely found in this era of mass merchandising. You sense this immediately at "the store designed with YOU in mind."

You get more . . . SO MUCH more . . . than price alone . . . at RUDY'S.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK (AP) — A cautious market groped its way to another slight rise in quiet dealings early this afternoon.

Changes of most pivotal issues were slight. A point either way ahead, higher and lower issues made wider moves in response to special news or recommendations.

Some activity in motors accompanied their generally higher tone. American Motors was up around a point.

An undercurrent of concern was present in regard to the stiffening of credit, and the building materials were pretty solidly ahead. Sales and utilities were mixed. The trend was irregularly higher among electronics, nonferrous metals, rubbers, mail-order retailers and steel.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 30 cents to $229.70 with the industrials up 40 cents, the rails unchanged and the utilities up 10 cents.

Government bonds backed away for the sixth straight trading session.

Butler Plan Irks Southern Demos

WASHINGTON (AP)—Angry Southern Democratic leaders have condemned Party Chairman Paul M. Butler and his plan to deal with any Dixie revolt at the party's 1960 national convention. A spokesman for Butler's office said Tuesday the chairman will ask the National Committee to adopt again the rule that state delegations are admitted to the convention with an understanding that their state Democratic organization will support the candidates nominated. Conceivably, it could be used to bar delegations from someone to move that Butler be asked to resign.

SOME SOUTHERN states have taken steps, by legislation or by action of their state Democratic organizations, to omit the Democratic nominees' names from ballots and to choose uncommitted electors to cast the state's electoral college votes. This, if the state's Democratic organization doesn't like the nominees, it can withhold its support for them in the Electoral College. Should this result in no candidate getting the necessary majority vote in the Electoral College, the election would be thrown into the House of Representatives, where each state has one vote. Southern opposition to Butler's plan developed quickly. U.S. Senator Strom Thurmond (D-SC) and Herman E. Tamm (D-PA) called for Butler's resignation or dismissal. Sen. John Sparkman (D-AL) said some of Butler's recent statements have sounded like talk "calculated at pushing the South out of the party." Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) spoke out in favor of the proposal. "THERE WAS NO comment from presidential front-runners for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination. Thurmond, who led the 1948 Dixie Democrats' walkout and became the States Rights party's presidential nominee, told a reporter, "The people of South Carolina are going to vote as they see fit. The people and no one is going to force them—and that goes for an airman at Comox RCAF base sighted the wreckage at the 4,000

Long, 64 Today, Visits New Orleans NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Gov. Earl K. Long celebrated his 64th birthday today with the hope that his presents would include "a little campaign money." The volatile governor, barred into New Orleans Tuesday night claiming he would win his bid for an unprecedented fourth term "in the first primary."

Sen. Talmadge said he thought the Sept. 18 meeting of the Democratic National Committee would provide a good opportunity for someone to move that Butler be fired, or for Butler to resign "for the good of the party."

Douglas was the first of the Northern Democrats to comment. He said he couldn't see why there should be any row about it. He said it seemed to him that there should be an issue raised in the party, "it would indicate they wanted to split."

Plane Wreckage Report Called Wrong By RCAF CAMBRIEL RIVER, B. C. (AP)—Reports that the wreckage of a U.S. Neptune bomber and 11 skeletons had been found by a search party Monday were incorrect, the Royal Canadian Air Force said today.

The misinterpretation of a brief radio message from the searchers was blamed. In fact, the Air Force said, the message was meant to be a request for information on a crash in the area in 1951. The message was found in a file at the RCAF base. A search of the file revealed that the wreckage was found in 1951. The wreckage was found in a file at the RCAF base. ## Ask Plans Be Drawn For Bradley School Expansion Prompt action in correcting the Bradley Elementary School District's need for more facilities was pledged Tuesday night by members of the board of education meeting in special session. The board discussed with school architects plans for a proposed new school building which would replace old Central School and also a proposed addition to East Bradley School which would alleviate crowded conditions there. The board directed the architect firm of Kruegel, Wilkins, Healy and Moore of Joliet to prepare preliminary drawings for the proposed new building and the addition. The board said that it hopes to have a final solution to the problem by mid-September. Plans are to call for a special school election to present the proposals to the voters shortly thereafter.

MEMBERS OF THE board gave a verbal "pat on the back" to the advisory council, a group of citizens from all sections of the school district which has been studying school problems. The search party is expected to reach the scene today.

Chinese Reds Fail To Reach Output Goals

TOKYO (AP)—China's Communist rulers admitted today that their production targets for 1959 are too high and must be reduced.

The Chinese Communist party's Central Committee said the targets for grain and cotton were based on 1958 production figures which were hugely in error.

Peiping also announced abandonment of its much-trumpeted program of steel production in backyard home furnaces. The Reds claimed the do-it-yourselfers produced three million tons, but the output is generally understood to have been of very poor quality.

The committee made its revisions at a secret meeting Aug. 2-16. A communique summing up the session was broadcast today by the New China News Agency.

Several hundred people were reported to have inspected the truck at one time or another during the test.

MISS JUDY BOSWELL, 1405 W. Station St., has been a teller in the telephone company offices since her graduation from Kankakee High School. She, like Ellen, resides at home. Her mother is Mrs. Mary Boswell. Judy's desk, located at 11th front of the telephone company office, is the place where telephone payments are made in person.

Enjoyment in her job stems from the fact that she has the opportunity to meet people and to work in a nice atmosphere. She works from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and finds that she has more free time now than when in school.

"I'D LIKE to begin work tomorrow," Miss Carol Crosby of RR 2, Kankakee, has been saying this summer. She will begin teaching duties next Monday at Manteno High School where she will instruct students in shorthand, bookkeeping, typing and office practice. In addition, she will sponsor the school yearbook.

Carol graduated from the University of Illinois in June with a major in business education. Not content to be idle this summer, she has been brushing up on bookkeeping and shorthand techniques and studying directions on office machines. Meanwhile, she is keeping house and cooking for her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Crosby, and sister, Nancy.

She will move from her parents' home and take a room in a private home two blocks from the high school when school begins.

Their roles as school girls are behind them now, and they face the responsibility of the job, coupled with their desire to "make good."

GIRLS WHO HAVE been working a year or so are quick to agree about first jobs. "There's nothing like it," they say. "Every morning and night, will help banish that weather-beaten feeling."

What's really needed for men is a garment that would combine a shirt and shirt. We see it as a completely new design, a one-piece mon sense. A shower session, the men sighted, even public officials, were shorts. But, in a lightweight material with a sort of false front, stitched right to it. The tie problem could—and can now—be handled by wearing a bow tie that clips on to the collar.

Women are all for a change in their summer attire and one of the calls for an outfit almost as warm as a regular suit. With shorts, and very cool and, for office, shirts, and take you out to dinner when the mercury's zooming high. "You've got a shirt and shirt. ## Summer Marks Transition For Grads

By MARILYN MCKNIGHT

The summer of 1959 long will be remembered as the beginning and the end for a number of young women in the Kankakee area—the beginning of their first jobs and the end of many years of school.

Years of study have paid off for the girls, who, since their high school and college graduations in June, are now a part of the business and professional world.

Their jobs take many forms, but each girl is experiencing the same thrill of being independent both where finances are concerned and upon occasions where decisions are to be made.

The girls are thrilled with the variety of experiences their jobs afford. As a nurses' aide at St. Mary's Hospital, Miss Ellen Bertrand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Bertrand of 396 S. Cleveland Ave., finds the unexpected happens all the time.

AMONG HER DUTIES are assisting the doctors, setting up instrument trays and taking patients to their rooms. She works an eight-hour shift daily with the exception of Monday every week and the third Sunday of each month.

Career girls on their first jobs are canny shoppers. With the first pay check almost every girl heads for a clothing store to acquire new clothes. Ellen was thrilled with that first pay check, plus each succeeding one, but she has learned to save and spend wisely. Although it can be a temptation, she does not spend her money freely for whatever she wants.

Ellen graduated from St. Patrick Central High School with the class of 1959.

Children Love To Paint

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.
AP Newsfeature

Toddlers love to paint—that is they get great joy from bright colored poster paints they can smear across big pieces of paper. Painting is a valuable experience for little children. They do not paint pictures, they paint the way they feel. It is often very worthwhile for a youngster to be able to express himself in this way.

It takes a bit of doing to arrange a place at home where a small child can paint. In today's column we will discuss how to equip a painting corner. In the next column we will talk about what to expect from the little one who paints.

Select a corner that will not be too much damaged by a bit of paint being slopped around. Cover the floor with a big piece of linoleum. In the summer the painting equipment might be set up outdoors or in a corner of the garage.

You will use water soluble paints so the clean-up is possible with a wet rag. Bright color poster paint can be obtained at an art supply store. Buy the dry pigments (they are cheaper than liquid paints). Get some Bostone which mixed with the pigments and water will make your paints go much further. You will need pigments in the three primary colors, red, yellow and blue, and also black and white. With these you can mix a variety of colors. Have a few wide mouth jars for a small amount of each color paint to be given to the child. You will need brushes, one for each color of paint.

The paper can be newspaper. You can obtain it from your local newspaper printing office—free sometimes, but never expensive. It is handy to have an easel though you can use a table top or even the floor. Of course you can buy an easel, but a most satisfactory one can be made from an old orange crate. Stand the crate on end. Nail an upright piece of wood at the back of the top and a horizontal piece of wood at the front of the top. A big piece of cardboard can then be supported on the upright and will be held in place by the strip in front. Your newspaper can be attached to the cardboard with thumb tacks.

If the orange crate has a divider in it, as most do, it will provide a handy shelf for jars of paint.

With a very small expenditure of money and some time and effort you will be equipped to provide your child with painting equipment that will last for years. Your child will get great joy from painting and you may come to understand him better by watching him with this play medium.

Under 21...by Dan Halligan

DEAR DAN: I'll be a sophomore next month when school starts. I can sell all my freshman year books the day school starts for about $15. I'd apply that money on new books. My mother knows of a needy family who will have a boy starting high school this year and she's asked me to give him my books. I'd like to but I bought the books myself out of money earned. I'm kind of on the spot because neither of my parents plan on giving me the difference in money that I'll lose. I'd like to help out the boy but don't you agree I've got my eye to consider—Swifty.

Dan Halligan will answer questions submitted by teenagers and children. Send questions to him in care of the Kankakee Daily Journal.

DEAR SWIFTY: You've certainly got the right to sell your books and apply the money to books you'll need your sophomore year, especially since you had to work for your book money. That's the practical side of your problem. If you want to be very impractical, give the boy your old books and be out $15. If you want my honest opinion, I'd like to see you be a little impractical in this case if the boy is really deserving. You may kick yourself a time or two when you're pushing a broom or whatever part-time work you right shoulder and you won't be able to say "Thank you."

DEAR DAN: How can a girl find out where she stands with a boy she has dated a few times? Should she ask him "What do you have a friend ask him?" What do you think of getting? After a girl has dated a boy five times, should she also ask him? Thank you. —Jude, Jan and Jean.

DEAR GIRLS: After a girl has dated a boy a few times she should have a pretty good idea where she stands with him. I don't think she should have to ask him or have a friend ask him. What do I think of getting? That world "getting" is misunderstood by a lot of people and rather than spread the confusion, I won't give you a direct answer. Let's just say you know right from wrong accordingly. In matters of a personal nature your conduct by it is simple question: "Would I make my mother ashamed of me by doing this?" There's your answer.

DEAR DAN: Last year I got three traffic tickets for speeding. This year my record is clean. I'm watching my speedometer but it hasn't done me much good. I live in a small town and I'm pretty sure I can't get a new girl, that's all I want. I know of seven different girls who have been given orders not to date me anymore because of my record. —Tommy

Gen. Schriever—Man Behind ICBM Program

BY RALPH DIGHTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Early next month the Air Force hopes to stamp "operational" on the Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile. The expected announcement will mark a significant step toward eliminating the critical gap—once estimated as wide as three years—between the American and Soviet long-range missile programs.

Among the men largely responsible for whipping U.S. missile technology back into the race with the Soviet Union is Lt. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, chief of the Air Force Air Research and Development Command.

THE SOVIET UNION first claimed possession of an ICBM Aug. 26, 1957. The United States had to wait 15 months before the Air Force blasted its first experimental Atlas from Cape Canaveral over the full 5,000-mile-plus south Atlantic range.

Now, less than a year since that feat, the Atlas is about to be tested with a full complement of weapons. None could feel greater satisfaction over this development than Schriever—who won his present post and his general's stars fighting for missiles.

It was not an easy fight. There were times when he laid his career on the line. He was a Pentagon colonel and former German emigrant hunking around who would not believe the space age was about to dawn.

But in little more than five years Schriever has rocketed to three-star general and built missile technology into a two-billion-dollar-a-year industry.

Schriever is inclined to be modest about his pioneering role in missile development.

He has been credited with fighting for missiles since 1950, when they were more closely related to science fiction than a military science.

"IT JUST ISN'T true," he says, "with characteristic frankness. It did not become solid on missiles; technological advances showed weapons until late in 1952, when the Air Force began to develop them."

Schriever was a man among those who pushed the idea for setting up production facilities while development of the Thor intermediate range missile was still under way. He argued that this compression of time would mean that the missiles would be ready for deployment much sooner. There are now operational bases in England.

WHEN BERNARD Schriever, born Sept. 14, 1910, in Bremen, Germany, arrived in America in 1917, he was a young boy. He was the son of a German immigrant who had fought for his existence.

First, as a crackerjack engineer, Schriever knew missiles and how they should be made.

Second, he was a top-flight administrator, a paper work genius in development and planning.

Schriever, as a brigadier general, was sent to Ingwood, Calif., to lay the groundwork for what was to become the Air Force Ballistic Missile Division.

In the years since 1954, he has flown hundreds of thousands of miles in this country and abroad in the cause of missiles. He spent much of this time in Washington, selling his program to Congress.

He argued that this compression of time would mean that the missiles would be ready for deployment much sooner. There are now operational bases in England.

Ben received a B.S. in engineering from Texas A&M in 1931 and joined the Air Force. He has been in the service ever since, except for a brief period as a commercial pilot in 1938. He married a general's daughter—they have three children, became a Wright Field test pilot, took a master's degree in aeronautical engineering at Stanford University in 1942, then flew bombing missions in the Pacific.

AFTER THE WAR, Schriever was sent to Washington as chief of the scientific balloons section. In 1948, he entered the National War College and upon graduation went to the Pentagon. There he demonstrated his ability to handle tremendous detail and inspire those around him.

At 45, as the Air Force's research and development chief, Schriever today is making decisions which could affect this nation's survival.

If he does his new job well, there may be even higher rewards. Some observers believe he may be marked for the top Air Force job—chief of staff.

Cheering Germans Hear Ike Vow Not To Give Up Berlin

BONN, Germany (AP)—President Eisenhower wound up his talks in Germany today with a pledge to protect the people of West Berlin and to stand fast against the menace of Soviet Communism.

Eisenhower conferred for 5 1/2 hours with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and the two issued a communique pronouncing the Western alliance "of utmost importance to world peace."

The two governments, the communique said, hold mutual cooperation "one of the pillars of the foreign policies of the two countries."

Eisenhower told a news conference he saw no evidence here that the Western alliance was in any danger. He said the same time the President said he believes closer unity of the nations of Western Europe "is really the hope for salvation of the world."

The statements added up to a firm assurance by the President that in his forthcoming talks with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev he will do nothing to undercut the NATO alliance.

Eisenhower emphasized, however, "referred once again to the pledge given by the United States and its allies to protect the freedom and welfare of the people of Berlin."

Eisenhower and Adenauer, the communique said, engaged in "a private detailed discussion on various political questions."

It listed some of them: Disarmament, Berlin and German reunification, European integration and Allied unity.

Eisenhower left Bonn with the ringing cheers of the West German public. When he walked from the Adenauer's Palace Schauburg, thousands were lined up to say goodbye.

Cries of "I like Ike" were heard. Some spectators threw bouquets of flowers.

Eisenhower waved back, beaming with delight.

He then took off in a helicopter for Wahn Airport on route to London and talks with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. Adenauer accompanied him in the helicopter. Crowds broke through the police lines at the airport to get him on the back.

Before returning to the United States Sept. 4, he will visit Paris for discussions with President Charles de Gaulle.

Eisenhower told his news conference he believes Adenauer shares his view that the Khrushchev-Eisenhower talks may "melt a little of the ice" in the cold war.

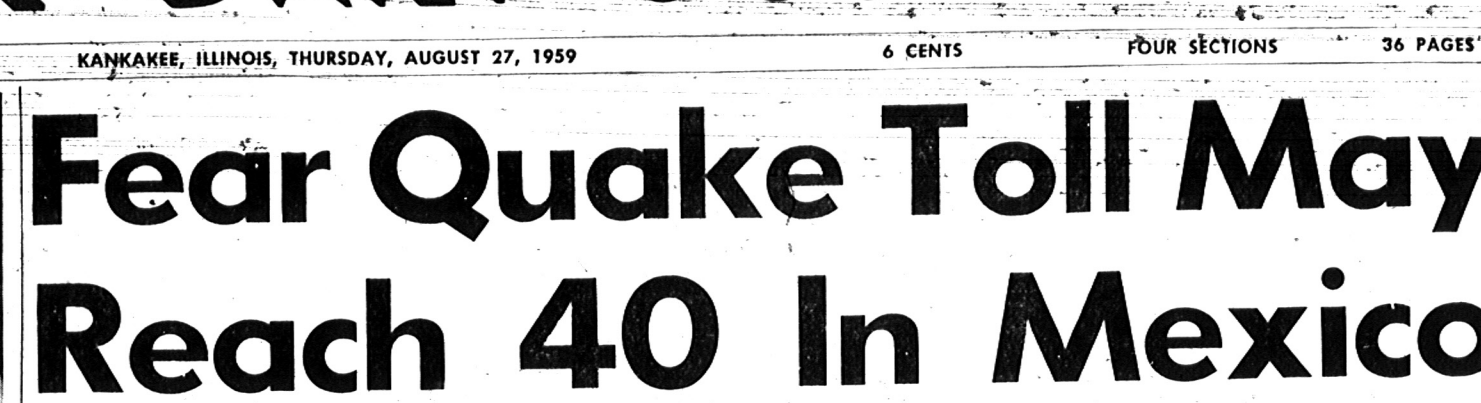

I think so," the President said in response to a reporter's question. "At least that was the impression I got."

AS TO WHETHER the Khrushchev-Eisenhower talks will lead to a new era of peace, Eisenhower said, "I cannot say. I saw no indication of that."

In response to a question, Eisenhower said he and Adenauer discussed no new proposal for settling the dispute over Berlin. He was asked whether he and Adenauer discussed problems of European integration and Allied unity.

"We have to talk about France because we are talking about NATO and France is a very important part of NATO. So I can assure you that we talked about France very considerably," he replied.

Fear Quake Toll May Reach 40 In Mexico

Shocks Cover 6 Southern States; 10 Die

(Pictures on page 35)
MEXICO CITY (AP)—Southern Mexico today counted at least 19 dead following the nation's worst earthquake of the year. Communications were still out to many points, and some estimates of the toll went as high as 40 dead. The quake hit about 2:20 a.m. Wednesday, spreading destruction and panic across the six tropical states of Veracruz, Oaxaca, Campeche, Yucatán, Puebla and Tabasco. The heaviest shocks apparently were felt on the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, narrowest Mexican point between the Gulf of Mexico and the Pacific.

Subterranean rumblings accompanying the quake added to the panic. Officials said the number of injured may reach 130 or more.

Jatipan, a small town 25 miles from the quake's center in southern Veracruz state, apparently was hardest hit. An official report said seven were killed there. But Mexico, the government official monopoly said its Jatipan office reported 20 dead, 120 injured and between 60 and 80 per cent of the town's buildings destroyed.
