HIGHER COURT SAVES VILLAGE $100,000 BILL

Holds Bradley Not Liable for Old Contract.

COST OF SEWER

An opinion written by the state appellate court at Ottawa, announced today, means a saving, for the time being at least, of approximately $100,000 for the village of Bradley.

It has been estimated by some of the attorneys involved in the long litigation leading up to this decision that if the village had been made to pay, or is made to pay in the future, the earning capacity of the village through taxes paid by its citizens will not permit payment in less than 100 years.

In this opinion the appellate court reverses a decision several months ago by Circuit Judge W. R. Hunter and does not send the case back here for trial.

Dosen Plaintiffs

The dozen or more persons, represented by Attorney Wayne H. Dyer, who are suing the village, represented by Attorneys E. A. Marquette and C. D. Henry, may now ask the appellate court for a rehearing or petition the supreme court.

The suit is in the name of Christ Anderson and others of Chicago and Chicago Heights against the village. It dates from about 1922 when M. C. Connors, Chicago contractor, completed a sewer for the village, the cost being $307,511.69.

The contractor it was alleged, was not paid all that was due him and he in turn did not pay all that was due from him to his subcontractors. Before his death, a number of years ago, he assigned his interest in the contract to several persons who used the village for the unpaid remainder, while the subcontractors also sued the village.

Ten Year Fight

Cross bills and counter claims were exchanged between the parties in an involved tangle until finally the case went into the hands of a master-in-chancery, where it was threshed out for nearly 10 years.

Finally, in 1932 the various plaintiffs obtained a judgment of $54,119.21 against the village, which has not been paid. Several months ago they petitioned the circuit court for a writ of mandamus requiring the village to levy taxes to pay the judgment, which was granted by Judge Hunter. The village attorneys appealed.

OVERPOWERED BY PRISONER UNDER ARREST

Body Handcuffed To Mail Box on a Lonely Road.

POSSE SEARCHES

Monroe, Mich., Jan. 20.—(AP)—The bullet-pierced body of Michigan State Policeman Richards F. Hammond, 25, was found handcuffed to a mail box on a lonely country road today, five hours after he was abducted by a former convict he had taken into custody.

A posse of more than 200 officers from Indiana, Ohio and Michigan combed wooded areas for Alcide (Frenchy) Benoit, alias Joe La Rue, who was paroled from the Michigan state reformatory at Jonia a year ago.

Farmers Join Search

Planes piloted by Detroit police and Indiana state police joined the search and Michigan state police issued radio appeals for farmers to arm themselves and search their out buildings for the fugitive.

A hasty, six-foot search party, with a fellow officer, Sam Sineni, halted two men while blockading the highway at Monroe shortly before last midnight in search of two gunmen who abducted Fred Williams, a used car salesman in Detroit, and left him tied to a tree in Toledo.

Hammond took Benoit in the state police patrol car while Sineni entered a car operated by the second suspect, John Smith, alias Mike Delbert, formerly of Flint, and also a former convict.

Overpowers Trooper

Enroute to the state police barracks at Erie, Mich., Benoit suddenly overpowered Trooper Hammond and sped away with him in the motorcar.

Trooper Sineni pursued the fugitive patrol car for ten miles, exchanging shots with Benoit until the pursuing car was ditched.

Two Monroe county deputy sheriffs, Joe Damsard and Robert Nave, came upon the hunted car near Lulu, Mich., and again a gun battle ensued with Benoit finally abandoning the patrol car. He escaped on foot into nearby woods.

Cheffer Out of Alderman Race in Fifth

William Cheffer of 480 West Mulberry street, Democratic alderman in the Fifth ward for the past three years, withdrew his petition yesterday and declined to be a candidate for reelection to this office.

His withdrawal assures Stanley Boris and Urvie C. Newbold of places on the ballot in the general city election April 20 and makes unnecessary a primary election in the Democratic ranks.

With yesterday the last day for withdrawal, all of the Republican candidates "stood pat," necessitating primary contests on Feb. 23 in three wards—Second, Third and Sixth.

Whatever the outcome in the spring, at least four new faces will be seen on the next board of aldermen, since that many have declined to run again. These are William H. St. John, Armand LeBeau, Yvon Dandurand and Cheffer.

Public Elementary School Enrollment Shows a Decrease

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Public elementary school enrollment in Illinois decreased 15,393 last school year while the number of high school students increased 8,621, state school officials said today.

Superintendent of Public Instruction John A. Wieland expressed the opinion that the grade school decrease was because "an advent of better economic conditions for 1936 probably led to an increase in the enrollment in private and parochial schools."

Wieland reported Cook county had an elementary school enrollment of 448,218 and a high school enrollment of 18,653, the latter figure being 1,064 more than the rest of the state combined.

Madison county, with 22,352 grade school pupils and 6,075 high school students, ranked next to Cook county. Putnam county had the smallest elementary school enrollment of 928 and Calhoun county, with 161, had the smallest high school enrollment.

Watseka, Jan. 20.—(RN Special)—The estate of Mrs. Rebecca M. Blake, who died at her home on Lincoln avenue Dec. 4, leaves an estate of $27,500 to her relatives, according to the will which was probated Monday in county court by Judge John H. Gillan.

CORONER WILL PROBE CAUSE OF BLAST IN TANK

Defective Torch Is Believed Source of Explosion.

MAN WILL LIVE

A six-man jury to investigate the explosion here yesterday afternoon which took the life of George Hardwick, 58, of Elkhart, Ind., was to be impaneled today by Coroner A. E. Keger.

Although the inquest will not be conducted until Tuesday morning at the courthouse, the jurors were to be sworn to immediately view the body so that it might be removed from Phillips & Friday funeral home to Elkhart for funeral services and burial.

C. H. Swank, 50, also of Elkhart, Hardwick's companion in the explosion, is still a patient in St. Mary hospital but is not badly injured. Burns about the face, head and hands are merely of first degree. Hardwick's body was terribly burned.

Tank Near Roundhouse

The blast occurred about 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in a wooden water supply tank perched on high supports, of the New York Central railway near the roundhouse.

The two men, aided by George Hinderer of 398 North Seventh avenue, were working inside the big tank, which had been out of use for some time and which was to be refitted for service.

To remove frozen mud and slime from the sides of the tank in the cleaning and repairing process, the men were using a blowtorch which was filled with gasoline under pressure.

Torch Defective

Noticing that the torch made what Hardwick called "a funny noise," the workmen were reluctant to use it further, Hardwick commenting, "You know these things have been known to explode."

Finally Hinderer said, "I'll get a mechanic from the roundhouse, shut it off."

Hinderer has told Coroner Keger that Hardwick did shut off the torch and that he left for the roundhouse. When he was about 150 feet away, he said, he heard the blast and, turning around, saw smoke and fire bursting from the tank.

Saves Himself

James recently left the local hospital and found a new job in Springfield.

Appellate Court Reverses Decision of Judge Beckers

Declaring as incompetent the evidence presented by one of the signers to a note which affects an estate settlement because an executor is unable to meet such evidence, the state appellate court at Ottawa handed down a decision this week which reversed a ruling of Judge John H. Beckers in county court a year ago.

At that time suit was instituted by Arthur Saltgiver, executor of the estate of Frank Saltgiver, against William and Frances McGrath and William and Maude Allers Jr. to recover on a $280 promissory note for rental of the Saltgiver farm in Rockville township. The note was given in 1923, came due in 1935 and was never paid according to the plaintiffs, represented by Attorney Luther Bratton.

McGrath, with Attorney Vernon Butts as counsel, testified that the obligation was discharged when it came due, claiming that he delivered a grain check to St. D. Saltgiver, brother of Frank, also deceased. McGrath further testified that he did not receive the cancelled note but that Saltgiver promised to send it to him which he did not do; also that he received a receipt which he lost, and that he was unable to substantiate his statements because the records of the grain company had been destroyed.

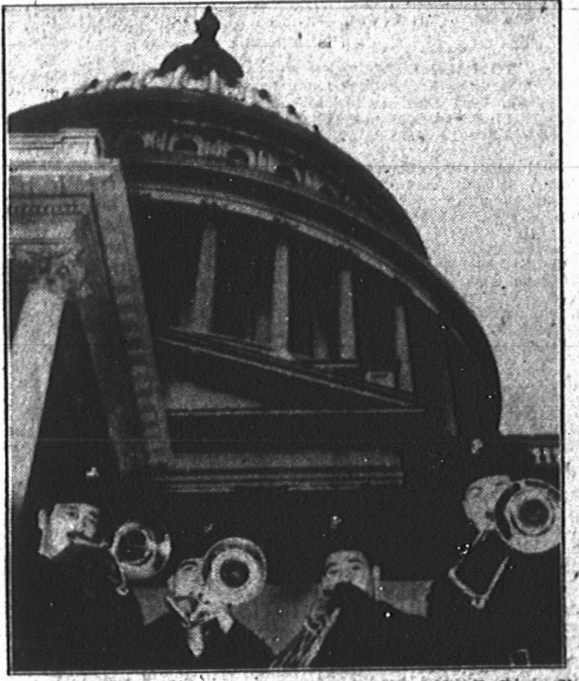

The trial court admitted McGrath's testimony in evidence and found for the defendants.

Sues as Executor

Attorney Bratton based his appeal on that section of the evidence act which bars a party to a civil action from testifying when any adverse party sues as executor of a deceased person. The higher court upheld his contention and declared McGrath incompetent to testify in the case.

This case is similar to that of Lueh vs. Goodmecht brothers several years ago, but the higher tribunal pointed out that in the latter, the plaintiff, John E. Lueh, sued in his individual capacity as a surviving partner rather than as executor or trustee. The court there, by distinguished a partnership estate from a personal estate.

NRS LANDS JOBS FOR 6,273 HERE IN PAST YEAR

Jobs were found for 1,488 workers in private industry and 4,784 on federal public works projects by the local office of the National Reemployment Service during the past year. These figures were revealed at a meeting of employment managers and business executives Tuesday noon in McBroome's cafe.

Several NRS officials also attended the meeting to hear an address by J. W. Bergthold of Chicago, state director of NRS, who explained the functioning of this free employment service.

"The employer saves many hours by calling upon the NRS to obtain the skilled craftsmen and other types of workers he needs," said Bergthold. "The NRS office does the preliminary work of examining applicants and weeding out those not qualified. From a small group certified to him the employer can then pick the type of worker he wants."

CAPITOL PLAZA IS JAMMED FOR GALA OCCASION

Downpour Soaks Decorations But "Show Goes On."

RENEWS PLEDGE

(Text of Address Page 8)

Washington, Jan. 20.—(P)—Franklin D. Roosevelt renewed his presidential oath today and pledged his second administration to blot out "cancers" of economic injustice.

From a white-columned stand below the towering capitol dome, the chief executive told a rain-drenched throng:

"I assume the solemn obligation of leading the American people forward along the road which they have chosen to advance. I feel the test of our progress is not whether we add more to the abundance of those who have much; it is whether we provide enough for those who have too little."

Takes The Oath

Mr. Roosevelt turned to speak after placing his hand on an old family Dutch bible and repeating the presidential oath to black-robed Chief Justice Hughes. Only minutes before, Vice President Garner was sworn in by Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader.

In the covered stand about the chief executive, leaders of the federal government heard Mr. Roosevelt say that millions of poor dwell under the "pall of family disaster."

He warned that prosperity "tests the persistence of our progressive purpose" and demanded that the United States be "strong among the nations in its example of the will to peace."

"We are determined," the President said after reviewing progress since he first took the presidential oath, "to make every American citizen the subject of his country's interest and concern."

Fronting the stand arranged for the simple but impressive ceremonies, spectators braved a driving rain to witness the historic event.

Senators and representatives met in their legislative halls to file in a body into the cold outdoor air. Justices of the supreme court robed in their old capitol chamber.

Crowds gathered slowly along Pennsylvania avenue's long reach, cheering the President's passage with the ceremonial arrangements committee. They awaited the inaugural parade, a column of military display, West Point precision and the navy's blue.

Attends Church

Before swearing anew to uphold the constitution and voice to the nation his pledges for another four White House years, the President drove through a cold downpour of rain to bow his head in prayer at St. John's Episcopal church.

On the glistening wet capital plaza where presidents take their oath of office, crowds slowly were filling the soaking wooden benches facing the white colonades of the President's stand.

Mr. Roosevelt and his family was joined at the "church of presidents" by Vice President Garner and others of high Washington officialdom. Several hundred huddled in the rain cheered the chief executive's appearance.

The church was arranged simply for the ceremonies, only candles and white flowers being placed in the chancel.

A special entrance at the side was arranged for Mr. Roosevelt, and it was here that the crowd was thickest, many huddled against the church to get out of the rain.

Garner was the first high government official to arrive.

The President, accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt and his son James, arrived at 10:12 a. m. Mrs. Roosevelt (Continued on page two)

King without a country

CHAPTER VII
The winter sun was warm and the breeze that drifted from the water front was just what the king needed. He was sitting on the waterfront of the little seaport of Looe, in Cornwall, England. He was looking out at the sea, and he was thinking of the many things that had happened to him since he had been crowned king. He was feeling a little lonely, and he was wondering if he would ever see his mother again.

"Well," he said, "it's like this. You see, I came from the state of Maine—that's in America. Another fellow and I, we came over here to see the world. I was here for three months and I never got to see a painter."

"He lived pleasantly in the most comfortable of homes, the most beautiful scenery and the pleasantest of climates. The king was a very young man, and he was very handsome. He was a very good fellow, and he was very kind. He was a very good king, and he was a very good man."

"He was a very good king, and he was a very good man. He was a very good king, and he was a very good man. He was a very good king, and he was a very good man. He was a very good king, and he was a very good man."

"He was a very good king, and he was a very good man. He was a very good king, and he was a very good man. He was a very good king, and he was a very good man. He was a very good king, and he was a very good man."

"He was a very good king, and he was a very good man. He was a very good king, and he was a very good man. He was a very good king, and he was a very good man. He was a very good king, and he was a very good man."

"He was a very good king, and he was a very good man. He was a very good king, and he was a very good man. He was a very good king, and he was a very good man. He was a very good king, and he was a very good man."

"He was a very good king, and he was a very good man. He was a very good king, and he was a very good man. He was a very good king, and he was a very good man. He was a very good king, and he was a very good man."

"He was a very good king, and he was a very good man. He was a very good king, and he was a very good man. He was a very good king, and he was a very good man. He was a very good king, and he was a very good man."

"He was a very good king, and he was a very good man. He was a very good king, and he was a very good man. He was a very good king, and he was a very good man. He was a very good king, and he was a very good man."

7 Per Cent Boost in Soil Payments

Watseka, Jan. 20.—(RN Special)—An increase by 7 per cent on the class 1, or diversion, payments of the 1936 agricultural conservation program was announced to Iroquois county farmers today by C. E. Johnson, Farm Bureau advisor.

This means that a producer who would have received $100 for diversion under the old rates will receive $107 for having participated in the 1936 program.

Payments now being made in Iroquois county constitute 90 per cent of the total payment earned by following soil conserving and soil building practices last year. The final installment will be paid as soon as administrative expenses are determined and pro-rated.
