Schools To Place More Emphasis On Science

More emphasis on science and challenging top students in every field is on the way, it was indicated at a board of education meeting here Monday night.

But schools also must provide a program that will meet the needs of all youngsters, Kankakee board members agreed.

The Kankakee board, like others all over the nation, is following President Eisenhower's urging to "scrutinize your school's curriculum and standards."

Supt. Anthony Marinaccio raised the topic when he said he plans to present a report on the district's educational program at the next meeting.

If the educational program is too soft in spots this will be remedied, he said.

Board Pres. Roy Strassman asserted that the board will be the only one to make the final decision.

Strassman set the theme of the formal discussion Monday night when he read a newspaper editorial.

"The editorial said that too many of the goals America has expected of its youth are being achieved, but that the youth are not being prepared for the future," he said.

Army Charges Soldier With Japan Murder

Jurisdiction In Case Will Be Up To Court Opinion, Says Army

YOKOHAMA, Japan (UP) — The U. S. Army today charged Specialist J.C. Gregory J. Kupski of Detroit with the strangulation death Nov. 17 of the Japanese wife of an American sailor.

An Army spokesman said a legal opinion would be required to determine whether the Army or Japanese authorities have jurisdiction over the case. A jurisdiction dispute in the William S. Girard case resurfaced after the U. S. Supreme Court.

Kupski, 23, was charged with unpremeditated murder of Kazuo Sakuma, 25, the wife of Robert Leslie Wesco. Officials at China Lake Naval Base in California said Wesco had been trying since he returned from Japan more than a year ago to bring her to the states.

THE ARMY SAYS Kupski confessed killing the woman, who was found strangled with a blouse in a Yokohama alley. The Army charge carries a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

Japanese Prosecutor Kishiro Katakura said he was investigating the case "on the assumption that Japan has primary jurisdiction over the soldier."

THE ARMY SAYS SOME reports on the ground that the murder involved a U. S. soldier and the dependent of another American.

The Army wanted to try Kupski in the face of the suspension of a three-year sentence given Girard in the firing range killing of a woman scrap collector. Many Japanese newspapers protested that Girard had been cut, but that 25 pounds may be of high purity.

The Army never filed charges against Girard, however, insisting that he was on duty when Mrs. Naka Sakai was fatally shot. There has been no doubt raised that Kupski was off duty.

Field without charge was Mrs. Helen Mack, 31, and Solomon Smalls, 30. Mrs. Mack's husband, Nolan, is serving a five-year federal penitentiary term in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan.

Teller, two other narcotics detectives and two federal narcotics agents, found the heroin, they said, in a fireplace of Mrs. Mack's apartment and in garbage behind the apartment building.

The premises were entered under authority of search warrants issued by two municipal judges. Mrs. Mack, convicted with her husband a year ago, was sentenced to two years imprisonment. Her attorneys attacked the ground it was based upon insufficient evidence of complicity in her husband's illegal activities.

It wasn't until Foster had sent a letter to Washington that Harold Cash, controller of the Indiana employment Security Division, came up with right answer.

The check was in response to a requisition from Cash's office for federal money to buy land on which Indiana will build its new employment security division building.

Internal Revenue Commissioner Russell C. Harrington said the limitation "would place too great a burden on many taxpayers."

It was announced so late in the year that taxpayers would keep accurate records on their expense accounts for the 12 months starting Jan. 1 "so that for 1958 and later years they will be in a position to supply expense account information to the government."

Harrington warned, however, that taxpayers should keep accurate records on their expense accounts for the 12 months starting Jan. 1 "so that for 1958 and later years they will be in a position to supply expense account information to the government."

Chicago Police Seize Giant Heroin Supply

CHICAGO (UP) — A 38-pound stock of heroin was seized today by Chicago police and federal agents on property of a woman who was free pending an appeal ruling on a narcotics conviction.

Detective Sheldon Teller said about 13 pounds of the dope, found in one-on-one packs, undoubtedly had been cut, but that 25 pounds may be of high purity.

"There's more narcotics in this haul than I ever saw in my life," Teller said. He speculated that it might have brought more than two million dollars on contraband prices.

Caught Chill When Greeting King Monday

Nixon, Dulles Take Over Ike's Scheduled List Of Appointments

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower has suffered another form of a heart attack, the White House said this afternoon.

Judging from a statement issued by the White House, the President could be described as the victim of a cerebral attack, but the White House physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, relayed word to reporters that the President, in his judgment, had not suffered a cerebral hemorrhage.

Snyder said, however, that the seriousness of the President's condition must await further examination.

The President's doctors said that during Monday night he suffered "a slight impairment in speech" which had "improved perceptibly" today.

Snyder and Lt. Gen. Leonard Heaton, the commanding officer of Walter Reed Army Medical Center, said in their diagnosis of the President issued soon after 2 p.m. C.S.T.:

"This (referring to his speech impairment of Monday night) confirms our original diagnosis that the President suffered an occlusion of the small branch of the middle cerebral artery on the left side."

"It cannot be determined at this time whether the condition present is one of a small clot or of a vascular spasm. All findings indicate no brain hemorrhage."

THE DOCTORS said that the President's current condition was "mild and is expected to be transitory in nature," but that he would require "a period of rest and gradually decreased activity followed at several weeks."

Snyder and Heaton added, however, that "the outlook for complete recovery within a reasonable period of time is excellent."

The physicians—and a number of them called into consultation during the night and today—agreed that hospitalization of the President would not be necessary.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers went to the White House this morning.

SECRETARY OF STATE John Foster Dulles also went to the White House to fill in for the President at a conference with Moroccan King Mohammed V.

Dulles left shortly after noon. He would not discuss the President's condition. Asked if he had talked with Nixon he said "Yes." Asked if it was about the President's health, Dulles replied: "I can't say."

Nixon and Rogers remained behind.

NIXON'S OFFICE later announced cancellation of an afternoon appointment at which the vice president was to have presented a plaque to Gov. Theodore R. McElwain of Maryland. A spokesman in Nixon's office said that Nixon was busy at the White House.

For air defense, he said, there was a need for improved radar, planes and missiles and more rapid development of the SAGE communication system. He said the Army and Navy also should be given the money to do their job.

"WE SHOULD start at once," he said, "on an anti-ICBM intercontinental ballistic missile program. . . it is time to go all out."

He said this anti-missile defense should include the means both to detect and to destroy enemy missiles.

Doolittle said "the primary reason" for Russia's lead was that the Soviet started working sooner on missiles. He said they started pushing their development 11 years ago.

Congressman In Favor Of Making Hawaii A State

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep. Ernest F. Byrne (R-Ill.), who made a recent inspection tour of public works projects in the Hawaiian Islands, says he favors statehood for Hawaii.

"I was deeply impressed by the industry, ambition, initiative and cleanliness of the people in the islands," Byrne said Monday in a statement issued by his Washington office.

The congressman arrived in San Francisco after completing the tour as a member of the House public works committee.

"Past history reflects the steadfastness of the islands in standing with United States and their willingness to defend our way of life," Byrne said.

"I do not believe there is any danger that communism will flourish in Hawaii since the people are alerted to the efforts of Harry Bridges (Western Union labor leader) to spread the communist doctrine."

Navy Hopes To Launch First U. S. Satellite In One Week

WASHINGTON (UP) — Navy scientists hope to launch the first U. S. satellite a week from Wednesday—just two months after Dec. 4 last when the first satellite was launched into space.

The launch of the Vanguard satellite project said Dec. 4 has been picked for the attempt to send aloft a six-pound sphere six inches in diameter.

The attempt, he said, will be made about dawn at the U. S. missile test center, Cape Canaveral, Fla. If conditions are not right at that time, the source said, another effort will be made perhaps two days later.

PLANS CALL FOR one or more launches of small test spheres in December, with a fully instrumented 21-pound satellite to be fired in March. There has been some talk of a January launching of the fully developed satellite.

THE PROJECT Vanguard source who told of plans to fire the test satellite next week said it will be fired southeastward and adjusted for a generally equatorial orbit. If all goes as planned, he said, it should enter an orbit that would

Treasury Clears Indiana Million Dollar Mystery

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) — The U. S. Treasury Department has cleared a check that arrived in Indiana state Treasurer Adolph L. Foster's mail Monday.

The government sent no letter explaining what the money was for and Foster didn't remember asking for it. To make things more confusing, the figure was in round numbers which is rare in a government check.

It wasn't until Foster had sent a letter to Washington that Harold Cash, controller of the Indiana employment Security Division, came up with right answer.

The check was in response to a requisition from Cash's office for federal money to buy land on which Indiana will build its new employment security division building.

Sales Crew Tactics Bring Many Gripes

Complaints about sales crews operating in the Kankakee area among community groups aired over the phones in the local Chamber of Commerce office.

Although many of these crews offer legitimate merchandise at a fair price, the public still complains about the selling tactics used.

The complaints discussed here are not those against salesmen which offer services of merchandise from out of town at higher than local prices.

Recently a magazine sales crew operated in Kankakee for a week and Chamber Manager Henry Brandt said, "There have been more complaints regarding this crew than any other which has canvassed this community since it came here four years ago."

Stacey Faces Murder Count In Chicago

CHICAGO (U)—The Cook County grand jury Monday reportedly returned a true bill charging William Stacey, a baby portrait photographer, with the slaying of 16-year-old Darlene Todd.

Police said Stacey admitted bluebonnet, choking and stabbing the young mother to death Friday in her West Side apartment after making a set of photographs of her 6-month-old daughter Karyn Lynn.

The 24-year-old Stacey, father of two children, told authorities Saturday that he attacked Mrs. Todd on an impulse. Police quoted Stacey as saying he slugged her with a sawed-off baseball bat and then plunged a kitchen knife eight times into her body.

Stacey was questioned after police found his appointment card to photograph the child in the apartment.

The victim had arranged for the baby's pictures as a Christmas present for her husband, Thomas, 19, a magazine salesman.

Meg O'Day, a busy little Leghorn hen in Flemington, N.J., recently laid 362 eggs in 365 days.

Yule Seal Sale Ahead Of Last Year

The Kankakee County Christmas seal sale is running more than $1,500 ahead of the comparable period last year, according to a report today by Dr. Jacob Gersbach, chairman of the campaign.

Receipts in the drive now total $4,636.85.

"Although we are ahead of last year's figure, we still have a long way to go to reach the $19,950 goal," the chairman said.

He urged residents of the county to send in their contributions as soon as possible.

The sale of Christmas seals supports the health education program, case-finding projects and rehabilitation services of the Kankakee County Tuberculosis Association.

The Association turns over part of the funds received by the annual campaign to support research projects aimed at finding more effective ways to reach the hard-to-reach in a vaccine to prevent the disease.

Henry J. Schoder, association president, said that the Kankakee County organization raised its campaign goal this year in the hope that it could provide more generous support for these research projects, particularly those being carried on in their community.

Financing The Rocket Program

The really big battle of the budget is under way. The present emphasis is on keeping defense spending within reasonable limits despite the necessity of improving our rocket arsenal.

Possibly this cannot be more than a pious hope. Observers point out that rockets and missiles are very expensive devices both from the point of view of research and that of production.

Russia's breakthrough on earth satellites is only part of the story. We are not worried about Sputniks particularly. We shall have many of our own very soon, perhaps earlier than the target date in March. What we are worried is the knowledge behind the rocket that carried the Sputniks into space.

We have the rockets and the missiles too. Some devices in our rocket arsenal have graduated from the drawing board and proving ground to the factory. But it is feared that the Russians will have long-range and intermediate missiles in production before too long.

The political advantages derived from

Russia's baby moons can be discounted. In time, if our own variety proves more advanced, we shall take over the laurels. But military implications are something else again. A world living in the shadow of missile warfare will not be a pleasant place. It would be even gloomier if the Russians had any kind of advantage over us.

So in a manner of speaking the race for rockets and missiles is a life-and-death affair. Viewed in this way there can be no stinting on missiles. We shall have to find the money, and then some.

The Defense Department will have to cut to the limit the non-essential activities that have used up some of the available funds. It would be silly to take the attitude that there's no place to cut.

Meanwhile, we have no course but to show as best we can that we are the true seekers after peace, and to hope that our strength will one day induce the Kremlin to treat the issue as a matter for honest, vital negotiation of the safety of all mankind.

More Time For Pure Research

America's lag in science really reflects two great deficiencies. We do not have enough scientists and engineers. And those we have can't spend enough time on basic research into unknown realms.

Basic research is the quest for fundamental discoveries which can open broad new pathways for technical advancement and human betterment. It can be carried on in the laboratories of government and industry. But it is best conducted in the atmosphere of dedicated free inquiry which prevails in our colleges and universities.

In the last decade or so, this vital pressing forward of scientific frontiers has been severely handicapped. Money from private sources to feed such research has almost dried up as heavy taxes stopped build-up of new fortunes.

The burden of supplying new funds has fallen on government and industry, as the only plentiful sources remaining. But government and industry have been chiefly concerned with promoting scientific discoveries which would have more or less immediate application to their specific problems. So government grants usually have been tied to defense, and industry's to new or improved products.

We can't engage in a numbers race with Russia in the production of scientists and technicians, as was well noted by Dr. James Killian, President Eisenhower's new boss of science. A dictatorship in a society of human values, they must study. If it wants 10,000 physicists and engineers a year, it gets them. Such moving of pawns is impossible in a society of human values.

Yet there are many things we can do. We can increase the monetary and the prestige rewards of the scientist, lifting him to a status matching his accomplishments.

In this country we have been too suspicious of brains, as we have been of spending money for pure brain work. The scientist must not be—and must not be viewed as—a materialistic specialist, ordered to do his technical bit but never let out of his corner.

His technical training, intense through it is, must be set in a broad frame of humanistic studies. Thus he will always have full grasp of the human values free men cherish, and will be able to serve his country and all humanity in any additional capacity, public or private, for which he shows talent.

We will begin to make up the lag when we start to turn out scientists of this order, and to give them unhampered opportunity to use their rich endowments of ability to the very hilt.

German Christmas Season Starts Early

BONN, Germany—The Christmas season in Germany starts two or three weeks earlier than in America. This is partly because the Germans have no Thanksgiving Day festival in November.

Hence, when the harvest festivals held in September and October are over, German thoughts turn to Christmas early in November. By mid-November, all the shops and stores are filled with Christmas merchandise and the shop windows are gaily decked with Christmas ornaments.

Already German stores are crowded with Germans doing their Christmas shopping, purchasing their purchases of German greeting cards.

As in past years, the emphasis here is heavily on religious themes in greeting cards. Usually the Holy Family is shown, or the Christ Child, or saints and angels.

One German Christmas custom, which appears to have no relation to the birth of Christ is that of baking all kinds of special Christmas cookies and making special cakes from almond paste or marzipan in the form of miniature fruits, vegetables and meat.

I HAVE JUST STROLLED along the main streets of Bad Godesberg and Bonn to enjoy the window displays of marzipan candies. The marzipan hannahs, peaches, cherries, apples, oranges and lemons are so lifelike it is hard to believe they aren't really fresh fruit.

The same astounding realism is shown in the miniature radishes, carrots, potatoes, cauliflower, turnips and other vegetables made from almond paste.

pan paste and colored to resemble real meat.

BESIDES DOZENS OF different kinds of Christmas cookies and candies, many shop windows are specially decorated with candles, religious figures and symbols and Santa Claus with red and gold costumes and white beard.

The German Santa Claus differs markedly in appearance from the typical American one. Instead of being jolly and roly poly, and coming from the North Pole, as in America, the German Santa Claus is called Saint Nicholas (Saint Nikolaus) and comes directly from heaven.

He doesn't come on Christmas Eve, as in America, but on the eve of Dec. 6. He is usually a tall, gaunt man, who terrifies many German children when they see him, for he carries not only a bag of sweets, but also a bundle of whips to chastise children who have been naughty or disobedient.

SANKT NIKOLAUS appears at the German child's home shortly after the child goes to bed, and his arrival is heralded by the ringing of a huge bell. After the parents usher him into the living room, the children must answer Saint Nikolaus' questions as to good or bad behavior, and finally recite Christmas poems before him.

On Christmas Eve the children are taken to the church, where the Christmas story is read, and the children are given small gifts. The ceremony begins on the fourth Sunday before Christmas Day and consists of lighting one candle on each subsequent Sunday one more candle is lighted, until all four are lighted the Sunday before Christmas.

Urges Speed-Up Of Floating Bases

We are speeding up our missile program. We are going to do other things to increase our military power.

Results from these efforts in terms of usable weapons can be expected in two or three years in most cases.

How shall we survive in the meantime? How shall we maintain the level of relative power, as regards the missile-happy Soviet Union, to back up a strong, resolute foreign policy?

How shall we retain the confidence of our Allies, which is based on confidence in our armed might as a deterrent against Soviet aggression?

How shall we deal promptly, confidently and effectively with the local adventures and aggressions which the Soviets will surely start trying out for size?

TODAY'S HARD FACTS about our power of "massive retaliation" are:

(a) The majority of the bombing aircraft of the Strategic Air Command are still medium-range B-47s.

(b) These aircraft can reach Soviet targets only if they are by using overseas bases, closer to the USSR.

(c) By in-flight refueling on flights from U.S. bases.

(d) Our overseas bases, and the countries where they are located, are now directly threatened by Soviet intermediate-range (500-1,500 mile) ballistic missiles.

(e) We do not now have enough tanker planes to insure full-scale operations in war of our B-47 wing from American bases.

(f) For the time being—for this crucial interval our land-based deterrent striking power is limited.

What this adds up to isn't good enough.

All these shortcomings can be remedied. We can build more long-range tankers. We can provide for greater numbers of our B-47 wing. We can speed up our own missile programs. In time, we shall be better off.

Poor, Old Joe, Alas

My dog, Joe, now is a juvenile delinquent and his smah has been summoned to the magistrate's court to explain his misconduct. The offense occurred at 7:45 a.m. The summons was dated Nov. 26, but it should have been dated Nov. 20, which shows that the police are on their toes. Whether Joe can be held on a charge of misdemeanor that occurred eight days before the police saw him, I do not know.

Perhaps learned counsel should be consulted on the subject. Surely a Supreme Court case is so gentle with offenders, will consider the Constitutional right of a dog to be charged properly for his errors of commission.

What seems to have happened to Joe is that at 7:45 a.m. when my dog-lovers are in the park, giving their charges a little breath of scented fresh air in a grimy and sooty city, he was permitted to take a short run off the leash but in the presence of his smah to whose instructions he honestly and swiftly responds with unhuman-like obedience.

POOR JOE! A COP WAS HIDING behind a bush, laying for dogs who might be enjoying a moment of chasing their tails. Pierced, he turned on the culprit, wrote out a summons, got the date wrong in his excitement and anxiety. And now, the smah will have to go to court and be fined for permitting Joe to move about without a leash, which is clearly against the law.

Actually, Joe was not being looked after by an smah, which is Chinese for a nana which is universal for a woman who looks after a child, but by a cook who happens to be a dog. Why this particular cook did not get into a hassle with the policeman who got his dates wrong, I do not know. She likes to hassle and can be sharp-tongued. I am told, Joe did not even bark at the cop, which shows me, as he barks at everybody, being a loquacious dog with a keen sense of humor and a rejection of the theory of man's superiority.

Incidentally, Joe was named after a certain senator from Wisconsin who was my friend. I received the dog as a gift while the senator was being tried before the world in the hope that men would have a low opinion of him. He is now dead.

THERE WAS A TIME WHEN I used to take Joe out for his morning walk myself, rain or shine, snow or slush. But alas and alack! That has now been forbidden, along with smoking dog cigars, eating well-cooked food, and other virtues of life of value. It is used to be fun, going out early in the morning. Then, on a park bench, slept a lush, his bottle, now empty, lying close to him. The child was some time, and I was alone. The dog was alone. I picked up the bottle, perhaps took the edges for the sweet taste of the beverage or cut his little finger after it smashed the glass. Maybe, in due course, the child will become an alcoholic, as the book says.

We used to have kind of a voluntary dog-lovers association. We would talk about this and that and our dogs would scamper about in the park for improper purposes and Peter made a noise about them. He wondered why dogs might not have a little fun in the parks in the early morning and late evening. If these funny people were allowed to hold hands there.

Soviet Schools Subsidized

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The new, Sputnik-inspired interest in doing something to promote increased education of scientists and engineers in the United States—instead of just talking about it—is reduced eventually to questions of statistics and money.

The big push now is that it's going to take many millions of dollars to build more colleges and laboratories and to pay professors higher salaries.

But the new U.S. Office of Education study on Soviet Russia's school system shows plainly that the United States is not spending a lot more for higher education than the U.S.S.R. Also, the U.S. Office of Education study shows that the U.S.S.R. spends more on higher education than the U.S. does.

Whatever is wrong with U.S. colleges is something else.

The U.S. has 1,000 accredited colleges and universities awarding degrees. Over 3,000,000 students are enrolled in these institutions, or about 25 per cent of all college-age youngsters.

Russia has only 765 colleges and universities with a full-time enrollment of over 1,300,000 and a part-time enrollment of 600,000. This is about 10 per cent of college age youngsters.

OVER 35,000 DEGREES were granted in the U.S. last year. Russia has no comparable degree system. The Soviet Union's total enrollment of 1,900,000 students is about 25 per cent of all college-age youngsters.

The total planned educational budget for the Soviet Union with a population of 200 million is put at $8.4 billion. At six rubles to the dollar, instead of the official four-and-a-half rubles rate, this would be equivalent of 11.6 billion dollars.

There is no check on how much of this planned budget is actually spent and what for.

Cites Value Of Junior College To Community

A junior college raises a community's productivity, income and cultural level, Dr. Anthony Marcucci declared at a state education meeting Monday in Chicago.

The Kankakee superintendent of schools addressed a section meeting of the joint convention of the Illinois Association of School Boards and the Illinois Association of School Administrators.

He said a junior college should: 1—Provide "intense study" in the humanities to develop better-informed citizens and top-notch leaders.

2—Provide the culmination of a community science program commencing at first grade level. At the high school level, tests would show who would take six years of science in junior and senior high. Then the junior college work would show "if they are people who should go to college or if they should enter the technical fields."

3—Train skilled workers for trade and industry and develop a sense of civic responsibility.

4—Provide a two-pronged program of business education—one for executives and one for clerical to develop top-notch secretaries.

5—Develop a home and family living program. The nation should spend at least as much money in this field as it does to develop the livestock and crop varieties.

6—Develop a program of physical education and sports for all.

A JUNIOR COLLEGE should be the cultural center of the community, Dr. Marcucci asserted. The program, would automatically raise the culture of a community, he said.

All this, said the Kankakee superintendent, would make the community more productive and multiply its wealth.

He pointed out that the program can be started with existing facilities—usually as part of the adult education program.

The group at Chicago also discussed how Alton is trying to get a junior college program started and how Mount Vernon went through its preparation. Alton will vote on a junior college in February.

He would hold the program in mind for the future.

Empty Graves Prove Gein Did Rob Them

PLAINFIELD, Wis. (UP)—Local authorities today dropped their official investigation of butcher-slayer Ed Gein following the opening of the looted graves of two women.

Diat. Atty. Earl Kileen said Monday night the looting proved Gein's story that he obtained all but two of his human trophies in ghoulish raids of fresh graves on moonlight nights.

However, Wisconsin Gov. Vern Riffe directed state investigators to continue their probe. Thomson ordered state Atty. Gen. Stewart Honeck to continue investigating "all the facts and circumstances" in the Gein case.

The two graves were secretly opened Monday by Wausau County officers. One grave was empty, and the other contained a woman's bones on top of the casket.

"It had to be Gein," Kileen said. "It was a grisly sight."

But this was a field day," he added. "The last day of this horrible investigation."

Authorities, who found Gein's ramshackle farm home littered with the remains of 10 women, at first feared the 51-year-old bachelor was a serial killer.

The mid-murdered farmer admitted murder and a statement Agatone gave police saying he had killed 10 women, and the others in the Plainfield area, one better known as a robbery victim, Nov. 15, but he maintained he got the skulls and death masks of eight of them in 1953, and the others between 1944 and 1952.

As far as I am concerned, no further investigation was needed," Kileen said.

The district attorney said authorities planned no further grave openings. He said a list of six other graves Gein admitted pilfering had been given to Ray Keith, the local undertaker. Keith will exhume those graves if the relatives so desire, Kileen said.

Gein, meanwhile, was confined at the Central State Hospital for the Criminally Insane at Waupun to determine if he was sane enough to stand trial for the murder of Mrs. Bernice Worden, 58, Plainfield, who was killed in December, 1953, slaying of Mrs. Mary Hogan, 54, a nearby Pine Grove tavern operator.

He will be held Nov. 19 with Mrs. Henry Baber as hostess.

Legion Units On Dwight Street Lighting Program

Four Kankakee American Legion units will participate in ceremonies dedicating the new, $40,000 Dwight street lighting system Saturday.

The national championship color guard, the junior color guard and the post's senior and junior drum and bugle corps, the Blackhawk and the Legion Lancers, will march in a parade at 7 p.m. and participate in the program at 7:30 p.m.

All members of the senior color guard—will see their sixth national championship at the national color guard convention in Atlantic City, N. J., this summer—are planning to remain in the unit next year. They have been holding weekly practice sessions in preparation for next summer's competition.

Big Problem For Coming Year: What To Do About Atom Secrets

WASHINGTON—Thomas E. Murray wraps up the problem the Eisenhower administration and Congress must face next year and later: What to do about atomic secrets?

Murray used to be up to his neck in these secrets. He was a member of the Atomic Energy Commission. Now he's consultant to the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy. Expressing his own views in a report to the committee Monday night he took this position:

The huge blanket of secrecy thrown over nuclear development was all right so long as this country monopolized the field. It doesn't now. Russia is abreast of us for all practical purposes. Now it's time to share secrets with allies.

But NOT ALL secrets, Murray said. Not, for instance, those he has huge atomic weapons of annihilation. Murray thinks this country could hold on to the atom bomb for five years and retain exclusive right to decide when or whether to use it.

Rival Scientific Groups Pick Sites For Atom Smasher

CHICAGO (UP)—Two scientific groups today disputed the location of a 100-million-dollar atom smasher, which will be the world's largest when built.

To sum up, he said American "secrecy, a can't halt Soviet progress."

Atomic Energy Commissioner Harold S. Vane said the device should be built at Argonne National Laboratory in Lemont, a suburb of Chicago. But a group headed by Prof. R. G. Rollefson of the University of Wisconsin maintained the huge machine should be erected near Madison, Wis.

It was believed that the new atom smasher would assure the United States a future lead over Russia in the field of "pure" atomic research.

Vane said the commission feels that the maximum usefulness of the machine could be gained at Argonne. However, he still has an open mind on the whole matter.

Rollefson's group, all members of the Midwest Universities Research Association, has an office at a laboratory in Madison. He said MURA feels the construction should take place at Madison because the Delmar solid bedrock to support the multi-ton device and an unlimited water supply, necessary to its operation.

Russian Leader Khrushchev-How Long Will He Last?

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Nikita Sergeyevich Khrushchev is blurring an awesome trail across the Communist world. But nobody knows just how long Russia's political Sputnik can stay up there.
Informed being is that one day, perhaps not too distant, he will fall with a tremendous crash. The Red boss, who now appears to run the whole Communist world, is less predictable than the scientific Sputnik, and far more dangerous to the free world.
He likes drinking almost as much as he likes talking. But he can be as grim as a frowny face when he is in a steel-trimmed stadium firmly on the bottom of his nose and issues a threatening blast as he did last spring when he blamed the West for the Hungarian revolution.
THOSE WHO HAVE watched Khrushchev perform marvel at his bounciness. Short and stubby, about 5 feet 4, his 180 pounds are compressed into a squat bear-like figure. Only up close can one see the most grace of which fizzes on his head which, in picture, looks round and barren as a billiard ball. But for all his lack of hair, Khrushchev neither looks nor acts his 64 years. Correspondents find it tough to keep up with him.
Khrushchev was born April 17, 1894, in Kursk, which is near the Ukraine, and has had long association with that Soviet Republic. But he is pure Great Russian from head to toe, a living embodiment of the baffling contradictions which make up the Russian personality.
To the public Khrushchev is all bombast and bragging, a blusterer and grin. If he has any soft side, it is as a family man. He is a devoted father, his youngest son, an electro-technical student, and to his daughters and grandchildren. Another son was killed in the war.
Khrushchev's wife is seldom seen in public. Those who have seen her say she is a modest type, constantly clutching over her husband's stormy politics.
LIKE MANY Russians, Khrushchev is an emotionally sentimental and coldly ruthless at the same time. About his communism he has the look of a fanatic, completely sure of ultimate victory. He pledges himself to the destruction of capitalism, and his sentimental side probably tells him no matter how bloody the price, it is for mankind's good.
Khrushchev climbed to eminence over the corpse of Stalin's real or imaginary enemies. From obscure beginnings he rose through party organization ranks, headed the Moscow party, vaulted to full Politburo membership. He emerged from the war a political lieutenant, and began to lead the Ukraine and finally landed in Moscow in 1958, where his rivalry with Georgi Malenkov began. The free world clings to Khrushchev's smiles might have the power to pull the free world apart.
MANY CAME TO look upon Khrushchev as an amiable but-fool, lurching in a happy alcoholic haze across the world political stage. The influential figure, probably fully ready for the power struggle which would begin with Stalin's death five months later.
Khrushchev's rise from then on was lighted by a series of brilliant explosions.
HE SHEDDED Malenkov out of the first secreted party of the party in 1955, then out of the premiership in 1955. He moved his plans for reorganization of Soviet economy down the throats of his rivals, then out-maneuvered and eliminated his rivals - Malenkov, V. M. Molotov, Lazar Kaganovich, Marshal Georgi Zhukov and many others. In his words, "we took the black sheep by the tails and threw them out."
He promised the consumers the U.S.S.R. would overtake American production of meat, milk, butter and consumer goods. But his mind was on Sputniks and missiles. At Communist should fight for the working class as Stalin did. "We would coexistence mean a Communist spirit of live-and-let-live?" said Khrushchev.
"Whether they like it or not, the capitalists must die. It is like a pregnant woman who is about to give birth. You can't tell her to not it off. She must give birth. It is a natural phenomenon. It is the same with the death of capitalism. Of course, we'll contribute seven years for enough consumer goods to satisfy their demands, at least 15 years to overtake American production."
Khrushchev changed his tune. He said, he was a Stalinist, because Stalin was a model Communist, and "God grant every

Algebra, Geometry Studied In 6th Grade At Red Schools

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Most American high school students take one year of mathematics. This required course is usually taught in the ninth grade. It may be "general math," which is a review of grade school arithmetic with a little algebra and geometry thrown in, or it may be first-year algebra.

Many high schools require a second year of math for students preparing for college. This may be plane geometry in the 10th grade, which about 40 per cent of our students take, or intermediate algebra in the 11th grade, which 33 per cent take.

AMERICAN students out of seven go on to study advanced mathematics—solid geometry and trigonometry—in the 12th grade.

Conduct School Tour At Donovan PTA Meeting

DONOVAN (JNS)—The Parent Teacher Association meeting was held in Donovan High School on Thursday evening, opening with four numbers by the high school band under the direction of Gene Oberst.

Reports from chairman of committees were heard. There are now 315 PTA members. Mrs. Irene Bushey announced a profit of $107.50 was obtained from the combined food sales held in Donovan, Beaverville, Marlinton and Tiroquois.

A tour of the school building was conducted by members of the student council, with the teachers in their individual rooms, and one year of astronomy, in the 10th grade.

Hostesses in charge of the refreshments were Anita Nourie, Erma Miller and Darlene Peorbole.

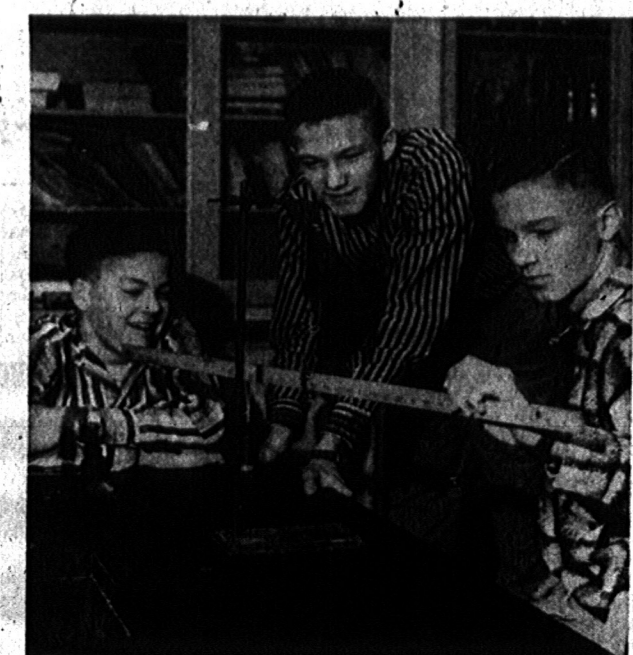

There will be no meeting in December. The next meeting will be held on Jan. 24, featuring a speech program and music by the band.

Ronald is a member of the Student Council and Ray is vice president of the junior class and a member of the chorus.

Hold Open House Thursday In High School, Kempton

CABERY (JNS)—Open house was held in Kempton High School on Thursday evening for the parents and friends of the Kempton-Cabery School District.

Following the class sessions, a meeting was conducted by the Parent Teacher Association in the music room. Mrs. Russell Spire led a song from the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Mrs. Leonard Siedentop, chairman of the ways and means committee, reported on a proposed bake sale to be held Dec. 7 in Kempton and Cabery. This project was approved.

The group also voted to accept studies. The government lays down one hard-and-fast curriculum for all schools and all students. It is designed to serve the needs of the state—the production of large numbers of engineers and scientists, for example.

(Next: Obstacles to a tighter curriculum.)

Most of our high schools offer—and some require—one or more additional courses in laboratory science. The best schools offer biology in the 10th grade, chemistry in the 11th, physics in the 12th.

A survey by the U. S. Office of Education last year showed that 79 per cent of America's 10th graders were taking biology; 33 per cent of the 11th graders were studying chemistry; and 24 per cent of the seniors were enrolled in physics.

RUSSIAN STUDENTS begin their science studies in the fourth grade, with two hours of biology instruction a week. They continue to study biology through the ninth grade, a total of five years.

Physics is added in the sixth grade and is studied for five years. The Soviet student takes four years of chemistry, starting in the seventh grade, and one year of astronomy, in the 10th grade.

Some U. S. high schools offer four years of foreign language instruction and require at least two years for a student taking a college preparatory course. But the majority do not require any foreign language study, and many do not even offer it.

RUSSIAN students get five years of foreign language instruction.

RUTH MILLETT Signs Of Aging In Little Things

It's the little things that make a woman face the fact that she is getting middle-aged.

Starting to put on eye make-up and having to quit because it's one close job she can't do wearing glasses.

Dancing with a handsome man to a dreamy piece of music and having him talk the whole time about how expensive it is to have a new in college.

Turning down dress after dress shown her by a saleswoman with the mental note, "Too young for me."

Chaufering a chattering bunch of teenagers somewhere and having them address not a single remark to her from the time they say "Hello" to the time they politely say, "Thank you for the ride."

DECIDING REPEATEDLY to start buying size 14 instead of wearing the size 12 in order to wear size 12.

Seeing an actress she remembers as a glamorous movie star of her youth playing the role of a middle-aged woman in a TV drama.

Having a saleswoman try to sell her a hat by telling her how "youthful" it makes her look.

Coming across an old photograph of herself and noticing with a pang how little the woman she resembles the girl she was.

Facing a birthday without a bit of happy anticipation. Thinking in the midst of a big party that it all seems kind of silly. And, besides, her feet hurt.

The feeling of being middle-aged seems in just such little ways as these.

The Prize Is One Share Of Stock... And Postman Rings 13,736 Times If You Win

NEW YORK (NEA)—If U. S. Postmen ever inquire into this new "Share of America Company," well, there's just no jelling what will happen.

Obviously, the contest is dazzling and the prize handsome. He who wins takes home one share of every common stock listed on the New York Stock Exchange as of last May 31—or its equivalent ($42,000) invested to his taste.

Beneath the surface, according to appraised sources on Wall Street, are unlooked for consequences to the mail courier whose appointed rounds include the prize winner.

As of last May 31, the facts reveal, there were 1,000 companies on the Exchange. And if the contest winner takes his prize this way, his mailman will have 1,000 certificates of stock.
