At Hearing

Chicago, July 12.—(AP)—The Senate campaign funds committee now is ready to open its door on expenditures of candidates in Illinois Senate primary last April.

The committee, headed by Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, begins Monday a public inquiry into the desire to learn whether the Republican nomination of Ruth Hanna McCormick cost any more than the $252,500 she reported spending herself. A great many witnesses have been subpoenaed, more than a score for the opening day.

It is the second time in four years that an Illinois Senatorial campaign has gone under the scrutiny of a Senate investigation. In 1927 a similar Senate committee came to Chicago to inquire into the campaign of Frank L. Smith against Senator William McKinley which led to the Senate's refusal to seat Smith.

Preliminary inquiries by special investigators for Nye's committee have encountered several "blind walls," the Senator said, and the public hearing was intended to penetrate these barriers.

For this purpose, numerous business men, politicians and other persons thought to have pertinent information have been summoned. Until the subpoenas are served the names are kept secret but among those upon whom service has been made are Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune; W. R. James, president of the Chicago West Park Board; Christian Paschen, Chicago Building Commissioner; Miss Naomi McAllister, superintendent of the Civic League, and Vincent Ferrara, treasurer of the Anglo-American Association.

The expenditures of $252,500 set forth by Mrs. McCormick in winning the Senatorial nomination were wholly from her own fortune. She said she had not "accepted any contribution from any person nor organization. She said she had kept her accounts meticulously "with a view toward presenting her report to the Senate."

Senator Charles S. Deneen, defeated by Mrs. McCormick, said his campaign expenses were slightly less than $25,000 which he spent from his own funds. He said the few small contributions he received were returned to the contributors.

It was expected the Nye committee would sit here for several days, due to the large number of witnesses to be heard.

Baltimore, July 12.—(AP)—John McDonald, principal prosecution witness against Thomas Mooney and Warren K. Billings, serving life sentences for the preparedness day parade bombing in San Francisco in 1916, said today he had perjured himself at the trial and now desires to "undo the wrong."

Sought in connection with efforts of the Mooney defense league to obtain pardons for the women, Mr. McDonald was taken into custody here after being recognized by a neighbor. He was held on a nominal charge of investigation.

After his arrest he issued a statement through an attorney in which he said:

"I, John McDonald, aged 58 years, residing in Baltimore City, testified as a witness for the state of California versus Thomas Mooney and Warren K. Billings. I never saw Mooney until taken to the hall of justice in San Francisco and was told by an officer that this is Mooney (pointing him out to me). My testimony in the various cases was untrue and false. I desire to undo the wrong done by me in sending Mooney to prison regardless of personal consequences. The authorities got me to testify that I identified Mooney but this is an absolute falsehood."

Five years after the conviction of Mooney and Billings, McDonald made an affidavit at Trenton, N. J., in which he said he was not positive of his identification of either. The affidavit was used in an effort to obtain pardons.

In refusing to grant the latest pardon petition a few days ago, Governor C. C. Young of California indicated his decision might be reversed if McDonald were produced to repeat his repudiation before the Governor and the Supreme court.

McDonald cannot be compelled to return to California. His appearance before officials there would be voluntary as there are no charges against him and he cannot be extradited to obey a subpoena from the California Supreme Court.

Mooney was sentenced to death but sentence was commuted.

3 Boys Dead
And 5 Men
In Hospital

Owensboro, Ky., July 12.—(AP)—Three boys were dead and five men were in a hospital here today suffering from serious burns as a result of an oil well fire on a farm near Haynesville 20 miles south of Owensboro, late last night.

James Crowe, 12, and Matt Crowe, 14, brothers, and Elmer Fuqua, 13, were watching workmen repair a rig after an oil well was brought in on the farm of Thurman Crowe, father of the Crowe boys, when the oil and gas from the well caught fire and enveloped them in flames. Five men were badly burned.

It was believed that some one near the well lit a match and accidentally set off the gas that filled the air about the well.

"Calamity Jane" Working Fine For Bobby Jones As He Leads In Third Round

Interlachen Club, Minn., July 12.—(AP)—Bobby Jones, as a result of a record breaking 68 for his third round and 54 hole total of 212 strokes started his second and final round today with a substantial lead in the defense of his National open golf championship.

Bobby was five strokes ahead of the runner up Harry Cooper, Chicago, Golden of Darien, Conn., were tied for third with 218.

At the outset of his fourth round, with apparently every spectator on the link flocking around him, Jones hit a perfect drive but skinned the edge of a bunker with his iron second, the ball stopping 5 feet short of the Green. He nearly chipped the ball in, missing by six inches, and taking par 4.

With the wind at his back, Bobby boomed a 275 yard drive up the second fairway, then his second straight, but too strong. From the back edge of the Green, he putted four feet past the pin and missed, taking 5, one over par. It was his first 3-putt Green of the day.

On the 180-yard third Jones fired his tee shot to a bowl-like trap, short of the Green and barely got out to the edge of the carpet. From 35 feet he putted 3 feet short and again missed as he took a bad 5.

He was 3 over par only three holes.

Two fine wood shot placed Jones three feet short of the 506 yard fourth Green. He chipped six inches from the hole to clinch a birdie 4.

The champion's tee shot on the 178-yard fifth dropped 22 feet from the pin. The putt was a few inches off line, but he got his 3 easily.

Interlachen Club, Minneapolis, Minn., July 12.—(AP)—Bobby Jones, the champion shot a spectacular 68, four under par, and a new competitive record for the course, to take the lead in the third round of the United States open golf tournament today. It gave him a 54-hole total of 212.

Bobby's 68 was the greatest round he has ever registered in the American open championship, and only the third time he has broken 70 in ten years of competition in this event. Shot two 69's last year, one at the start, and the other in the play off.

His famous putter, Calamity Jane, never was working more brilliantly. The champion had no less than 11 single putt greens, the longest putt being 25 feet. On all but three holes, the first and the last two, Bobby was putting for birdies.

Jones second round put him nine strokes ahead of Charles Lacey of Philadelphia, who sprang an upset to go into a tie with the champion at 144 after the second round. Lacey finished with 42-35-77 for today's round and a total of 221.

Johnny Farrell with a 73 and a total of 219, was seven strokes behind Bobby.

Cooper finished with a 73 and 54 hole total of 217, five strokes behind Jones. From the fourteenth on he got only one par, went one shot over on two holes, but kept even by getting two birdies.

Golden smashed home two under par on the last nine holes for a 71, one under for the round, for a total of 218.

Walter Hagen finished with 78, his three round of 223 putting him 11 strokes behind the champion.

MacDonald Smith slipped just enough to take 74 for his third round, totaling 219 at the three quarter mark.

Bobby started his journey back with a regulation 4 on the 344 yard 10th.

Even a driving front wind failed to stop Bobby on the 484 yard 11th, and he clicked off another birdie 4. He was short with his brassie second, pitched up six feet from the pin, and sank his putt. The "bird"

Georgian Type of Home Meets With Approval

Brought Down to Date This Sort of House Fulfills All Needs

By LULU RICHEY ELWELL
For genuine comfort and dignified good looks, the Georgian Colonial type of house is a most successful choice. The fact that it has endured since the beginnings of this country and has been built in every section with equal satisfaction to its owners, proves that economy was always a characteristic of early Colonial houses and it still obtains today. The rectangular plan so universally used has the economic advantage of enclosing the greatest area with the least material. The pleasing rambling effects on many old Colonial houses arise from the additions that increased prosperity allowed them to make.

As in all the various types of Colonial houses, Cape Cod, Dutch Southern, etc., the chimney was placed in the center so as to serve two or three fire places. A later development was the placing of the chimney on the outer wall and allowing the stair hall to occupy the entire center of the house. This plan has served American homes for generations and bids fair to continue to do so for many more.

Lives Up to Tradition
The logical development of this rectangular plan fixes the character of the exterior. The central doorway with windows symmetrically placed becomes the focal point of interest. Great care was lavished on the entrance design of the door. In this modern house the accompanying illustration, it will be seen that this house and doorway live up to the tradition.

The handsome and gracious door, way gives the proper keynote to the whole structure. At this period in Colonial architecture, the difficulties and stress of actual living had been overcome and attention could be given to more refinements. Then it was that the details of cornice, trim, gable and entrance were given much attention. They show plainly the influence of classic Greek and Roman architecture, passed down to us through the Renaissance. The Georgian Colonial type shows this influence particularly in its use of the pilasters and columns.

The illustrated house in Colonial style, the innovations and changes made by the Americans constitute many of the delightful features of this type and design. The long narrow windows, true to the period, have added to them the semi-circular top or head of paneled wood which matches the semi-circular panelling set in the entrance. On the windows the addition of the shutters gives breadth and balance to them. In an earlier day these shutters would have been of solid boards, but for our day and age the type with movable slats is much the most practical, regulating as it does both light and air.

Further ornamenting the door are the long narrow side lights of glass and the slim pillars upholding the overhanging porch roof. In older instances, these side lights were frequently ornamented by making them elaborate and beautiful. The panelling, pillars and window frames are painted a rich cream color, which is also a typical Colonial note.

Garage a Part
The builder of this modern version was not content to cling absolutely to the Colonial tradition but added modern notes enough to make the house fit the needs and use of a present day family. The necessary garage was set slightly apart from the house, but connected to it by the pleasant little sun-room shown in the picture.

Inside the house, such details as brass knockers and cut glass door knobs, fit into the background admirably. In this particular house the stair well was closed on both sides so that a long rail was unnecessary, but a handsome newel design guarded the two lower steps. Signs of mahogany with the risers painted white kept close to tradition. The last pleasant detail was the picket fence. The pickets were of the simplest design, made of the same material as the gate post held up the sphere that, back in 1800, was called the cannon ball. Shrubbery set against this fence added to its good looks.

A TIMELY IDEA

It may be that to add just the touch of gaiety to the bedroom you plan to put wall paper on the upper part. A coat of good spar varnish will make it waterproof. It is true that this may be an asset. Don't despair if you find that the color will run, as there is a cure for that. Your favorite paint shop will provide you with an all-weather preparation to be applied first which will set the color and make it safe to put on the varnish coat.

Things To Know About Flooring In Your Home

There is much more to good flooring than meets the eye. Its underpinning is really the key to its success or its lack of it. Builders concede that a poor quality of flooring laid on a good foundation is most satisfactory than a high grade flooring laid on a poor foundation. The owner contemplating new flooring will wisely look to that important foundation, then, and select a good grade of material to cover it, knowing that in this way he will build for his own lifetime and posterity.

In the case of new building, it is easy to assure the right specifications for joists and underflooring, but where an old floor is to be replaced it would be the safest procedure to have the foundations carefully inspected and measured before attempting to lay new wood. If the joists are correctly figured, the span of the room the next thing to ascertain is the capacity of the underflooring. With only one possible exception this flooring should be laid diagonally. The exception occurs when parquetry is to be laid on the diagonal joists, which run across the room, and the top flooring is laid across the other should cross the long span of the room. This procedure insures the longest wear and the best appearance.

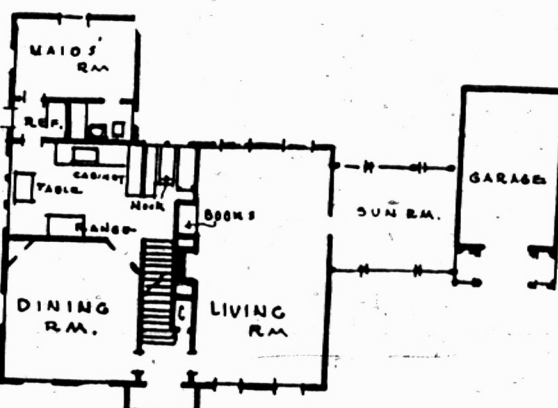

Wood Must Be Dry
In an old house, being modernized, the wood will, of course, be dry, but in new construction it is essential that it be delivered to you dry and kept carefully in that state. A step to insure it remaining dry is to have it put in a putting over the underflooring, at least two thicknesses of high grade water-proof building paper. For the upper floors alone, a layer of felt may be added to this for a sound deadening on first floors or over a cellar. As it absorbs moisture, a cellar, though, one needs have little consideration of the noise made over a cellar.

The choice of top flooring is a whole chapter in itself, running from pine to mahogany, and through innumerable grades. Costs and the personal equation will settle the final choice. Edgegrain pine, fir, maple strip, oak in its various grades, cuts and colors, birch, teak, mahogany, walnut and English oak make up a list of flooring possibilities. To these one may add the parquet, herringbone or fancy period designs and the wonderful new floorings which are completely finished at the factories and have no work to be done on them other than nailing them to the sub-flooring. Even the nail holes are concealed and the floor is ready to be used the day it is laid.

Garage Should Fit In The Home Atmosphere
The amount of money invested in the average motor vehicle justifies the building of a garage that is thoroughly satisfactory in every detail. It should afford protection, reasonable convenience in its use and maintenance and more than incidentally become a good looking adjunct to house and grounds.

Architects are working more and more toward the incorporation of house and garage. This arrangement from most points of view is the ideal one; so handy that neither weather nor late hours interfere with going in and out. Considered on here, as many city ordinances make severe requirements. If the wall between house and garage is properly fireproofed, there should be no difficulty. The connecting door should be metal faced.

In whatever location the garage is placed, it usually appears in a general view of the house and grounds. It is usually appears in a general view of the house and grounds. It is usually appears in a general view of the house and grounds.

For real comfort and appearance this, the Georgian type of floor plan and the close proximity of the garage to the house. As in all Colonial types, here you find great economy in construction and this type of home is well worth consideration for the new home builder of today.

Use Care When Buying Paint For The Home

Cheaper to Buy Good Grade of Paint and It Lasts Longer

Spring and fresh paint seem almost synonymous. The brilliant sunshine of these days show up every shabby spot about a house and the urge to wield a paint brush attacks every interested home owner. Before plunging into this freshening-up process, it is wise to look carefully to your choice of materials. To the layman one brand of paint is as good as another, but an experienced painter knows there is a vast difference between first class products and those of an inferior character.

Chemists have been trying for many years to find substitutes to take the place of white lead, zinc oxide and siccate and it has been proved so absolute tests in various parts of the country, under different climatic conditions that while lead zinc base paint with a fixed amount of magnesium siccate, has the proper durable, expansion and contraction properties. Such a paint lays perfectly on the surface and withstands climatic changes, in the summer the heat of the sun, in winter snows, frosts and ice will not destroy or disintegrate the film.

Good Paint Economy
Although the proper ingredients may be used, unless they are thoroughly ground and mixed, a part of poor lasting qualities may be obtained. A high grade paint is first thoroughly ground with pure linseed oil in powerful mills, then used in great agitators with pure linseed oil and Japan dryer. The paint then carries a fixed amount of pigment and liquid both thoroughly incorporated, making a product of uniform consistency and lasting all of the qualities to withstand variations in temperature.

Manufacturers of high grade paints point out to property owners that it costs just as much per square yard to apply an inferior quality paint as it does to apply a high grade quality white lead and zinc oxide siccate paint made from strictly pure linseed oil. They call attention to another significant point and that is that a high grade paint will invariably cover a larger area per gallon than a paint of inferior quality.

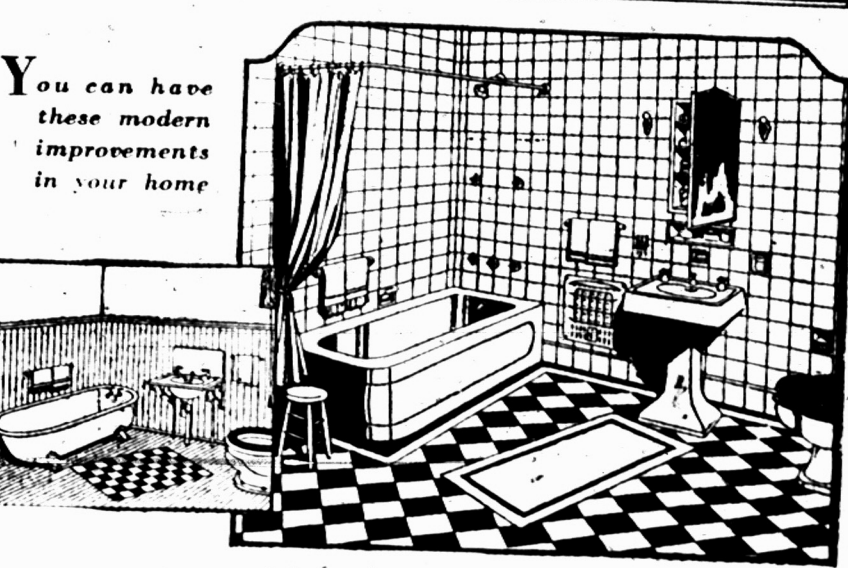

A manufacturer who is jealous of his reputation uses only the very highest quality of the above named ingredients in proper proportions, which have been thoroughly calculated in order to produce a paint of uniform consistency that will spread well under brush, hide and cover the surface, dry properly, and give wear and protection.

Use Care in Purchase
As is usually the case at this season of the year, there is considerable house-to-house canvassing by paint salesmen, selling materials most of which do not measure up to the high standards required by reputable manufacturers. The average home-owner is not in a position to evaluate the materials offered for sale in that manner and consequently extreme care should be exercised in the purchasing of such products. It is the safer course to investigate the reputation of manufacturers offering their products through channels other than reliable local concerns.

Property value increased by MODERNIZING

Beauty, convenience, comfort, upstairs and down, inside and out, at small cost, easily financed

Making old houses like new is quickly done and easily financed. It pays to Modernize because you get more pleasure out of living in attractive, convenient, comfortable surroundings, and modern improvements increase the property value far more than their cost. Besides, an up-to-date home is evidence of your good taste and your high standing in the community.

You can begin by modernizing your bathroom, or adding an extra bathroom or lavatory for the convenience of your family and guests. Attractive fixtures add so much to a home. You should have them in the kitchen and bathroom, too, replacing the old fashioned sink, and wash-tubs. Throughout the house, from basement to attic, a change will suggest itself here and there that will add much to the comfort and convenience of your home.

And outside, the house can easily be remodeled or refinished, the bareness of room and gables softened and made gracefully modern. Windows made more or less added or enlarged, the porch made larger, smaller or glazed in; trees and shrubbery added to the grounds. There's no end to the benefits of Home Modernizing. You can do as little or as much as you wish.

The Republican Leads In Circulation -- Advertising -- News

87 THOUSAND IN KANKAKEE TRADE AREA

The Republican is Growing With Kankakee And Its Suburbs!

FIGURES BY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SHOW LARGE HOME POPULATION

Kankakee Is Growing

83.3 Per Cent of Population Is Native Born 12.3 Per Cent Foreign Born

As a result of the recent official census figures given out by the U. S. Government for Kankakee and the immediate surrounding community, W. A. Fletcher, president of the Kankakee Chamber of Commerce, advises the Chamber has compiled the following interesting information, which it is believed should be given to the public, thereby permitting every one to give Kankakee a boost at every opportunity. The following table gives the population within a three mile radius of the Court House and is considered Kankakee home trading population:

City of Kankakee, 20,834; West Kankakee, 1,801; South Kankakee (Swanell & Hackett Subdivision), 815; Commercial Subdivision, 86; Sunnyside Subdivision, 65; Hobbs Heights, 518; Bradley, 2,047; Bourbonnais, 606; hospital employees, 344; St. Victor's college boarding students who reside here approximately ten months of each year, 225; Aroma Park, 776; total, 27,901.

The official population of Kankakee county is 50,077 and what is considered Kankakee's immediate trading area of 25 miles north and approximately 40 miles east, south and west, shows a population of approximately 27,000 people. Those born in Kankakee is estimated at 83.3 per cent, while foreign born 12.3 per cent, and the color population is estimated at 1.3 per cent.

These population figures are significant, inasmuch as Kankakee is now in the 30,000 class, with its immediate population of a three-mile area showing 27,901. Kankakee and its suburbs are growing and it cannot be disputed that the past ten years has shown a healthy growth. Given the population figures for the year 1920, by the time the year 1940 is reached, an unprecedented gain in population will be realized.

United Church Notes

"An Adventure in the Versology of the Bible" is the subject for the morning service next Sunday at ten o'clock.

Remember that the Sunday school hour is at nine o'clock.

"Persons who see no value in the church but who profess a profound appreciation for the higher values would do well, it seems to me, to consider the part which the church, historically has played in the discovery and promotion of such values.

For it is not, I think, too much to say that by transmitting the ideas and ideals of Jesus that the church has caused to appear in this world a new valuation of human life and has, indeed, lifted the level of life for a very considerable portion of the race.

"To say that the church has done this alone without the help of any other agency would be extravagant and absurd. But those educational and philanthropic institutions to which likewise the world's gratitude is due have been in most instances the children of the church.

"And those prophetic spirits who from time to time have stepped out in advance of the church of their day in appeals for freedom or for justice which the church ought officially to have made—even they have been indebted to the church for the vision which lured them on.

"The inspirative or every great humanitarian movement which has been undertaken during the past nineteen hundred years may be traced to that man of Galilee whose ideas and ideals the church more than any other institution has striven to keep alive in the world."

"Persons who see no value in the church would do well to consider further what the church is now doing or at least capable of doing for a multitude of men. Colleges, hospitals, fraternal organizations, associated charities, having learned some of the lessons which the church taught in other centuries, are now doing a great many things which the church once did alone."
