Hungary Revolt Crushed By Martial Law

Iron Curtain Rings
Down Again As Reds
Cut Phone Service

VIENNA (U. S. Police and troops imposed rigid new controls on rebellious Hungary today to enforce martial law proclaimed by Premier Janos Kadar's desperate government. It seemed apparent the regime had embarked on a campaign to wipe out the last vestiges of resistance.

The nation, torn by revolt, strikes and Communist repression for nearly seven weeks, has been cut off from contact with the Western world for more than 24 hours, except for broadcasts by Budapest radio.

The Red regime ordered military trials for a variety of offenses punishable by death and dissolved the major workers' councils that had tried to negotiate for Hungarian freedom.

The Vienna telephone exchange would not accept calls for Budapest, saying there was no contact. Telephone service between Budapest and Moscow resumed, on a limited basis. But AP Correspondent Harold Mills reported attempts to telephone the hotel where Western newsmen stay in Budapest or the home newsman of Hungarian resident correspondents met with the reply: "Those numbers are out of order."

ONE WESTERN diplomatic mission in Vienna said its only word from Budapest since the communications blackout was imposed was a message at 6 p.m. Sunday night that "all was quiet" in the capital. Word seeped through that police were controlling traffic strictly in the Budapest area in an apparent effort to halt the movement of any anti-government groups or arms for them.

Ike Drafting 1958 Budget Message

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UP)—President Eisenhower today completed his financial work on the 1958 budget and began the laborious task of drafting a budget message for the new Congress.

Budget Director Percival Brundage who conferred with the President here over the weekend, said as he flew back to Washington, "we have finished the totals."

What Brundage meant was that the President and his chief administration advisers have settled on a total for the budget in the upcoming fiscal year.

"We now have all the totals—the big figures," Brundage told a reporter. "Now we must bring them together and start work on the message itself."

BRUNDAGE DECLINED to guess for publication as to the size of the new budget, saying, "after all this work, we'll just have to wait for the printed version."

Brundage, who conferred here with the President, Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson and Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission, said the new budget, of necessity, was completed, and would start to the government printing office by Dec. 15.

Mr. Eisenhower, who has been here since Nov. 26, planned to return to Washington next Thursday afternoon. After a briefing by State Department officials, he will receive Indian Prime Minister Nehru next Sunday afternoon.

Clinton School Opens Without Race Incident

Trial Opens Jan. 28
For 16 Charged With Instigating Trouble

CLINTON, Tenn. (UP)—Negro and white pupils returned to the same classes again today at integrated Clinton High School without a single incident.

The school had been closed since last Tuesday because of fresh racial disturbances, including the beating of a minister who escorted Negro pupils to the school.

At Knoxville, 20 miles to the east, Federal Judge Robert L. Taylor arraigned 16 persons accused of instigating racial trouble at the school in violation of a federal injunction.

All 16 pleaded innocent and Taylor set their trials for the week of Jan. 28.

DEFENSE ATTORNEYS moved orally to have the "whole proceeding" dismissed on grounds that charges are "so indefinite that we don't know how to defend the case."

The lawyers also asked for separate trials, a matter that could drag the cases beyond the closing of the school for summer vacation next spring.

Approximately 700 white pupils, almost full enrollment, came to school in good humor—and without the catcalls and jeers with which they had greeted the Negroes almost daily since school was integrated in August.

At a packed assembly shortly after school opened, the pupils listened soberly while a county official explained that they could be prosecuted—and their cases turned over to the FBI—if they started again such things as "messing up lockers" and using "filthy language" in connection with the Negroes.

Judge Taylor gave the defense until Jan. 12 to file written motions backing up their pleas that the cases be dismissed. Thomas P. Gore, first cousin of Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.), represented the defendants who included two women.

GORE TOLD THE court a number of prominent southern state officials would join in as attorneys for the defense. He named Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook of Georgia, Atty. Gen. John Ben Sheppard of Texas and Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion of Louisiana.

"This is the most important case coming up in these men's lives," Gore said in arguing for separate trials.

Gore's announcement that Dixie officials would come to court to aid the defense indicated that the South was ready to make another major stand here against a continued breakdown of segregation barriers that have stood for generations.

A plea for law and order in Clinton was sounded from the pulpit Continued on Page 6, Column 2

4 Scramble Out Of Auto Before It Is Hit By Train

Four persons scrambled from their automobile before it was hit by a passenger train at Manteno this morning. The eastbound auto became stranded when the wheels started spinning on the snow-glazed crossing, the driver reported.

Those who made a hasty exit from the machine were Arthur A. Dale, 52, the driver; his daughter, Annetta, 20; and Dale Harvick and his wife, Nancy, all of Manteno.

They were en route to work at Manteno State Hospital about 7:45 a. m.

The northbound Louisiana hit the front of the auto, knocking the car about 100 feet from the Third street crossing and tossing the motor about 30 feet from the car.

Dale said he had halted for a stop sign west of the tracks, and the car had crept up a slight incline to the tracks.

WHEN THE WARNING bell began to ring, he tried to back the halted car off the tracks.

"I couldn't go back and I couldn't go forward, so I said let's get out of here," Dale explained. He lives at 185 Fourth St. and came to Manteno from Anna last Jan. 9. The Harvicks live on Division street.

The front of the train received minor damage. The engineer was George Butler of Chicago and the conductor was R. W. Stutcher of Champaign.

State Policemen Roger Draves and Ralph Mann investigated.

THREE NEW AUTOS and a pickup truck on a transport escaped damage when the transport skidded into the side of a train two miles west of Sheldon at 10:25 a. m. Sunday.

The front of the transport was demolished, but it didn't turn over as it was dragged about 30 feet and wedged against a signal post, Draves reported.

Draves gave the driver, Karl M. Volkmar, 38, RR 1, Smithsboro, a ticket charging him with disobeying a stop sign. Volkmar was westbound on Route 24 when the transport hit the fourth car of northbound extra train 117A of the Milwaukee Railroad.

The engineer was Walter Alexander of Terre Haute and the conductor was William F. Caze of Jasonville, Ind.

Two Kankakeans received first aid after their auto reportedly pulled off the highway to avoid another car which had skidded near the Armour plant road north of Bradley.

They were the driver, Jewell Whitlow, 34, 863 N. Evergreen Ave., who sustained a left leg and hip injury, and Frederick Brown, 66½, N. Evergreen Ave., who received a left leg injury.

Fear Plane Crashed In Violent Storm

VANCOUVER, B. C. (U. S. A Trans-Canada Air Lines plane with 62 persons aboard disappeared Sunday night in a violent windstorm over the forbidding Chilliwack area of southwestern British Columbia.

Search leaders feared the worst commercial aviation disaster in Canadian history.

Twelve Canadian air force craft and six other planes took off at daybreak to search the area extending in all directions from Hope, 125 miles east of Vancouver. Weather conditions were fairly good after Sunday night's turbulence.

Squadron Leader G. L. Sheahan, searchmaster, said two radar stations had reported "fixes" on an aircraft at 7:10 p. m., a minute after the last message from the Trans-Canada North Star said it had passed Hope on its return toward Vancouver with one of its four engines gone.

THE SEARCHMASTER said the radar "fixes" showed the plane could be anywhere within 30 miles of Hope. Hope is at the western end of Fraser Canyon in an area carved by canyons and gorges and with numerous lakes.

An early report that a flashing light had been seen on a mountain 45 miles east of here turned out to be from a microwave relay tower.

In addition to the aerial search, a ground party was set to start out from Chilliwack, 65 miles east of Vancouver.

Among the passengers which boarded TCA's flight 818 at Vancouver Sunday night were four members of the Saskatchewan team of the Western Interprovincial Football Union who were here for Saturday's East-West Shrine game.

The missing aircraft, a Canadian version of the DC4, left Vancouver at 8 p.m. (pst) on a flight to Eastern Canada but turned back at Hope, 125 miles east of here, when one engine failed.

At approximately 7 p.m. the pilot, Capt. Allan Clarke, 35, of Montreal, asked the air traffic control center here for permission to descend from 8,000 feet to a lower altitude.

That was the last radio contact with the plane, a tourist flight to Montreal with scheduled stops at Calgary, Regina, Winnipeg and Toronto.

THE WIND AT HOPE, when the airliner vanished, was blowing in gusts up to 50 miles an hour following a weekend of heavy rain and snow storms in the Cheam Mountains.

British Patrol Attacked, Hold 7 Egyptians

Tension Increases In Port Said With Withdrawal Near

LONDON (UP) — Egyptian underground fighters in Port Said attacked an eight-man British patrol early today with hand grenades and machineguns, injuring one soldier. Seven Egyptians were arrested.

It was the first outbreak of anti-British violence since the military occupation of Port Said and authorities feared there would be more as Anglo-French troops evacuated the captured city.

Tension was rising daily in the port city and there have been increasing reports of arms and ammunition smuggled to underground fighters in Port Said. Most foreigners have left in fear of Egyptian vengeance.

THE EIGHT-MAN patrol of the First Battalion of Royal Scots was attacked on the fringe of the native quarters, but the quick-thinking soldiers saved their lives by diving for cover when they first heard grenade pins being pulled out.

British officials said five grenades were thrown in the 30 minutes attack and that machineguns were fired at the troops from nearby rooftops.

Reports reaching Istanbul said Syria was reinforcing its military positions along the tense Turkish frontier with troops and new Soviet equipment. The reports from Gaziantep on the Turkish-Syrian border said unidentified jet aircraft, presumably Russian, were crossing the Turkish border headed for Syria.

SYRIA HAS ACCUSED Turkey, Iraq and Israel of plotting together to attack and regain control of the oil-rich Middle East.

Ike Asks Prayers For 'Victims In Hungary'

By UNITED PRESS

Thousands of Americans from coast to coast paused in prayerful meditation today for the victims of what President Eisenhower called the "brutality in Hungary."

The President made the statement in urging Americans everywhere today to observe United Nations Human Rights Day by lifting their hearts and their prayers to the oppressed people of Hungary.

The peal of church bells at noon sounded the call to prayer in many cities. Flags were flown at half mast in some cities as a day-long reminder of the sacrifices made by freedom loving Hungarians.

"ON THIS HUMAN RIGHTS Day," the President said in his statement, "it is for each one of us to recognize anew that we are brothers in our Father's house, and each is truly his brother's keeper."

"We cannot shed that responsibility, nor do we want to do so. Let us resolve on this day that the world shall never forget what tyranny has done to our fellow man in Hungary."

Mr. Eisenhower's statement, his most sympathetic to date on behalf of the Hungarians, also said the Soviet terror in Hungary "repudiates and negates" virtually every article in the U.N. declaration of human rights.

That these human rights have been so flagrantly repudiated is cause for worldwide mourning," he said.

Among the cities holding special observances were San Francisco, Fort Worth, El Paso, Cincinnati, Albuquerque, Washington and Newport, Ky., New York and some other cities marked the day with special proclamations.

STUDENTS AT Xavier University in Cincinnati wore black arm bands, and the City Council unanimously adopted a resolution condemning Russia.

In Chicago, residents donated an estimated $100,000 for Hungarian relief in a tag day held last week. Flags at Indianapolis were flown at half mast.

The United Nations headquarters in New York took time out from considering a motion to condemn Russia to hear a special concert by the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra.

Find Body Of Rural Dwight Man In Snow

DWIGHT (JNS)—An 55-year-old rural Dwight man was found dead Sunday in a snowbank along a country road approximately three miles southeast of Frank.

The body of Frank J. Klein was discovered at 10:15 a.m. by Orville Gillett and Delbert Anderson, Dwight, as they were operating a township plow along the country road.

According to Vernon VonQuakenbush, Livingston County coroner, the plow blade hit Klein's foot, uncovering the body.

Evidence at the scene indicates Klein had been en route home from Dwight when his car went out of control and became stuck in the snowbank.

Klein apparently got out of the car and walked about 150 to 180 yards in the direction of his farm home, about three quarters of a mile from the scene of the mishap.

It is not known whether he collapsed from the exertion or a heart attack. Drifting snow covered the body. It is believed the body was along the road a good part of the night.

2 Youths Seized After Killing Actor In Chicago Hotel

CHICAGO (UP)—A 49-year-old actor was clubbed to death with whiskey bottles in his hotel room on the near North Side today. Detectives said they seized his assailants, two 18-year-old youths, before they could leave the room.

The actor, Malcolm Beggs, was found lying on the floor of his 10th floor room in the La Salle Hotel. He had been bound with a necktie and beaten with whiskey bottles, police said.

The detectives said they had gone to the hotel room to answer a disturbance call.

The teenagers were identified as Robert Mitchell of St. Louis and Haskell Kelieme of Evansville, Ind.

Police said they admitted slaying Beggs after first deciding to rob him. They were held without formal charge.

Beggs was a member of the cast "No Time for Sergeants," a comedy about army life which is now playing at the Erlanger Theater.

Don't Decorate Holiday Addresses

WASHINGTON (UP)—Postal clerks appealed to the public today to refrain from decorating the address side of Christmas cards.

The idea seemed to be that it read some of the writing they get. The plan was made by the National Federation of Post Office Clerks (AFPCO). It joined the Post Office Department in suggesting: Mail early, write or print clearly and wrap firmly.

Methodist Men Have Panel Talks, First In Series

The first of a series of panels dealing with Christian principles was held Sunday morning at the monthly Methodist Men's breakfast at the Kankakee First Methodist Church.

Elmer King, chairman, the Rev. John Hinant, Walter Knecht and Edward Baron participated in the panel discussing the subject "Living Right—At Our Work."

Following the discussion was the showing of a film which was developed at the United States Protestant Laymen's convention in Buffalo, N.Y.

Knecht stressed that although it is natural for some to delay choices on important matters the ability to reach correct decisions can be developed. He emphasized that the good of the larger group should always be considered by an individual in making a decision.

The Rev. Mr. Hinant discussed pitfalls that occur when the heart rules decisions rather than what is right. Baron spoke on the possibilities of persons' entanglement with laws or rules that are archaic and need reevaluating.

Also adding to the discussion were Elmer Wilson, Wayne Cunningham and Ralph Nesmith.

3 Weekend Burglaries Net $300

Kankakee police believe three weekend burglaries netting about $300 probably were committed by the same persons.

Safe crackers also used similar methods during a burglary in Bradley a couple of weeks ago.

The losses in the weekend burglaries included Grade A Dairy, 1623 E. Court St., $75; Baker-Durrell-Mattley Real Estate and Insurance, located in the same building, $200; and Carter Grain and Feed Co., 257 N. East Ave., $25.

Sgt. William Paulauskas said the burglars' method of operation was to enter the homes and take only cash, leaving keys behind.

Two safes were opened at the dairy by knocking off the combination and using a punch. A child and punch were used to open a safe in the real estate office.

A window was smashed to enter the dairy building and a crow bar was used to get into the real estate office.

Attempts to open the safe at the grain company were futile, although the burglars knocked the handle off and battered the dial.

Twenty-five dollars was taken from the petty cash box.

The real estate and dairy burglaries were discovered Sunday morning and the grain company break-in this morning.

A safe was opened by the Kankakee Police at the Superior Drive-In Cleaners and Shirt Laundry, 436 S. Schuyler Ave., Bradley, about two weeks ago.

Surviving are a son, Andrew, Lexington; a daughter, Mrs. Leo Ribordy, Odell; a brother, Peter, Dwight; sisters, Mrs. Katherine Schulteis, Pontiac; and Mrs. Tracy Slattery, Rapid City, S. D., six grandchildren and five great grandchildren. He was preceded in death by five brothers and a sister.

Good Times Continuing

Annual Parade Of Economic Predictions Scheduled To Begin

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (UP)—The big soothsaying guns are being trained today on the outlook for 1957.

Taking part in this seasonal outbreak of predictions of what to expect in the coming year are a pride of industrial lions, top men in oil, auto, steel, rails, building, textiles, farm implements, retail, aircraft, railroads, meat packing, insurance and banking.

Mostly they see good times continuing. But here and there are some who see a slowdown in their own industry. And the banker, in particular, sounds the note of caution.

AN OVER-ALL VIEW and a most optimistic one, is taken by Carrol M. Shanks, president of Prudential Insurance. His economists see the dollar value of all goods and services to be produced in the United States next year rising to a whopping $30 billion, up from $28 billion from the estimated Gross National Product for 1956. They see consumer spending rising by 10 billion dollars next year from 1956's 265 billion.

Roger M. Blough, U.S. Steel chairman, is "reasonably optimistic for the overall economic outlook." He sees steel production at high levels through the first six months of next year "come what may in international affairs."

THE AUTO INDUSTRY's big three see a better year dawning. Harlow H. Curcio, General Motors president, predicts Americans will buy 6 1/2 million new cars in 1957, 10 per cent more than this year.

L. L. Colbert, Chrysler president, says 1957 "approaches the potential of 1955 as one of the biggest years for the automobile industry." Henry Ford II, Ford president, agrees and looks ahead 10 years to see car ownership rising from the present 47 million to nearly 67 million and annual sales at $4 1/2 billion.

Near and long term views of the housing prospects vary sharply. Economist Miles L. Coleman tells Architectural Forum, building magazine, that the next 10 years will see a 26 per cent expansion in building of new homes. But Joseph P. McDermott, New York State housing commissioner, says the 1957 rate of home building will be the lowest since 1949, unless the mortgage market improves.

A Real Gasser

Almost everything else is power-driven, so why not roller skates? The thought occurred to Bernie Schmidt of Ecorse Township, a Detroit suburb, who mounted a gasoline engine on a padded metal plate and fitted straps to hold it on his back. The engine and one skate are connected with a flexible drive shaft. It works, as Schmidt demonstrates by scooting around a parking lot. (Photofax)

Authorities believed Hickox was armed with a weapon delivered by his wife, whom he married while awaiting trial.

HICKOX WAS ARRESTED Aug. 8 on a drunken driving charge in Rockford. The unidentified Rockford man named Hickox and two girls as his assailants in a strongarm robbery.

The girls, Patricia Gould, 18, and Irma Hilty, 22, both of Rockford, were sentenced to 1 to 3 years in Dwight (Ill.) women's reformatory on a larceny charge.

Plans for a Christmas party on Dec. 20 were made. The girls will meet to go carol singing in the nursing home. They also will give gifts of cookies. Following this part of the party, they will go skating in Community Hall.

A British Editor Looks At America - Article 1

Sprawling U. S. Still On Verge Of Greatness

(British editor Sir William John Haley has made a seven-week tour of America. This is one of a series giving his impressions of our strengths and weaknesses.)

We were in New Mexico. We had come up from New Orleans, where the railway track is on a bed of sea-shells, and the graves, as in the days of Mark Twain's Life on the Mississippi, are still above ground; through the Bayou country, with its melancholy air of decay; across Texas and the Panhandle.

Earlier still we had flown down from the borders of Connecticut to Georgia in an "executive" airplane, used for ferrying its company's directors.

THEN, THE MAIN features of the landscape, at least those most easily recognized, had been the private swimming pool, floating in a chain of inland lagoons everywhere — their quarter-circle shape, rather like a certain kind of chess-piece, — unmistakable from the air.

Then, too — all down the East Coast, until the land changed from brown to purple and the rivers from gray to yellow ochre — America seemed to be like Venice, floating in a chain of inland lagoons. Now, the land was crying out for water. Some parts of Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, and southern Utah are in their seventh year of drought. And strange thought to a European — or, little, rain for seven years means no snow either.

"I used to complain," said one man to me, "that in the winter I could never get off the road anywhere round here without getting mud on my boots. How glad I'd be to see them muddy right now."

In the wake of the tractors the soil rises in clouds to the sky. This is not a travelogue. But if, in any country, we are to understand the people, we have to understand the land first. And here, the car's other two occupants held the stunts of the plane so it wouldn't slip off. Gently, Hornbaker applied the brakes and stopped.

Hornbaker . . . "I'm just glad he thought of it."

Cold Beer" advertises "Atomic Gas Here."

It is a matter of more than passing interest that a shop window should be heaped with junked gear and counters and the hotel in Santa Fe have on its notice-board the latest prices of uranium and natural gas shares, while in the cottoned square incredibly aged, looking Indian women still sell their highly colored gaw-gaws.

For neither the Santa Fe trail, nor any of the other trails, are what they once were. (But when you cross the Trail of the Forty-pipers you feel history is living itself over again.) The ageless is changing. What all these lands will be in another hundred years, time no one can tell.

For well over a generation the lower Manhattan skyline, with its forest of skyscrapers rising out of the sea, told every traveler approaching the United States that here was the new world. They do so still.

But now, to the south, there is a newer world yet. A world where strange things go on under the ocean bed (you no sooner arrive in New Orleans than to find company after oil company wants to go out to the Gulf; where mud is perhaps the most vital commodity, and where there are highly paid "mud engineers.")

One motor along mile after mile on the super highways — 400 miles is an easy run for a day; people go 100 miles to see a film and back in an evening — and the vastness and profusion, whether it be of vegetation or desert, forest or fields, is unbelievable.

It is possible to travel for days on end on the plateau of the central states and never drop below 5,000 feet; the landscape yet stretching out to the horizon like some endless Siberian plain. Three farms may perhaps share the whole of what can be seen to the skyline. A tiny plane here and there nestles under an improvised shelter to enable the farmer to get about a bit.

AMERICA IS STILL a large enough country for things to be left in. You pass derelict dwellings, abandoned cars, the junk of a small community. No one seems to care; what does it matter? There is plenty more room, plenty more of everything.

If the American economy, in spite of all its efficiency, is built on consumer waste, it is because of this natural profusion. Here is a nation expanding because nowhere yet has it met its bounds.

There has not been time. For the other predominant thing about America is its youth. There are men still living who fought with the Indians. Because Santa Fe goes back to the Seventeenth Century it is considered prehistoric. Things are scrapped out to the Gulf; where mud is perhaps the most vital commodity, and where there are highly paid "mud engineers.")

One motor along mile after mile on the super highways — 400 miles is an easy run for a day; people go 100 miles to see a film and back in an evening — and the vastness and profusion, whether it be of vegetation or desert, forest or fields, is unbelievable.

It is more usual, of course, to write about American towns and cities. They, too, will wax and wane, grow and decay, be built and pulled down again. They give you the feeling of drive and power, of a great people in being.

Lands Plane With Assist From Auto

NORFOLK, Va. — After it was over, weekend pilot Manning Rooks could "hardly believe it happened." And no wonder.

Caught aloft in a light plane with a damaged landing gear, Rooks had just brought his craft safely to earth by landing it with one wing atop a moving automobile.

IT WASN'T a lucky accident. It was planned that way, not by Rooks but by veteran flier Ed Hornbaker, from whose company Rooks had rented the plane. Rooks, who has 100 hours of flying time, had taken off from Municipal Airport for a routine spin Sunday when the airport control tower radioed that his right landing gear was "dangling under the plane."

The crash crew at the airport was alerted and Rooks, 150 feet above, figured things "looked bad." He'd never made a crash landing.

On the ground, Hornbaker had an idea. Climbing into a hard top sedan with two other men, he drove out on the field.

THE CAA TOLD Rooks that Hornbaker would try to make the car act as wheels for the plane if Rooks could land with one wing on top of the auto.

Rooks made several passes at the runway to gauge speed and distance. On the fourth pass, he set the plane's left wheels on the runway and the right wing on top of the car.

While Hornbaker drove, the car's other two occupants held the stunts of the plane so it wouldn't slip off. Gently, Hornbaker applied the brakes and stopped.

"I'm just glad he thought of it," said Rooks of the stunt.

Sun-Fun Fashions Reviewed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Those light-hearted California fashion designers ignore the impending snow and ice that so usually blankets the northern part of the nation, and show fashions for fun in the sun.

These will be seen in the plushier resorts this winter, and will set the pace for beach and play next summer. So it is that buyers from all over the country flock to Los Angeles in November, to buy the clothes that the upper income brackets will be wearing in January, and the rest of the citizenry will put on in July.

This year the accent is on femininity in fashions for every occasion, from the dinner dress at the country club to the winter cruise. The careless look is strictly out of date this year, and women will wear ruffles and lace, even to the beach. They also will go for bold, colorful, covered-up fashions on most occasions, and will favor subtle colors rather than vivid tones.

The California fashion collections set the tempo for beach, resort and sun fashions for the rest of the country, and this year they stress a minor key silver gray, for instance, is the newest color for swim suits and beachwear, and beige is a favored color, second only to plain white.

There are, of course, bold color notes to break the monotony, but almost always are combined with white—and many designers cling to gray or beige and white as the top color combination of the year.

It's a year in which to be subtle, be ladylike, be discreet, whether in the ballroom or at the beach.

RUTH MILLETT Don't Leave Dad's Gift Until Last

"Papa isn't actually the forgotten man on Christmas morning. But in all too many families Papa's gifts are more or less afterthoughts. Mama shops for weeks or maybe longer finding the kids exactly what they want. She hints the town high and low for something to please Cousin Agatha. She window-shops for herself so that she can give Papa a few broad hints as to what he can give her.

Then comes the thought that she hasn't bought anything for the man who is going to get all the Christmas bills.

So she sees a dressing gown and decides that if she buys that maybe she can get him to put aside the shabby, old one he feels comfortable in. Or she decides he could use some nice white shirts, or she gets even more practical and buys him a supply of underwear, socks, etc.

"There's so little you can give a man," she tells herself. "And besides, Joe never seems very excited over his presents, anyhow."

SHE'S KIDDING herself, of course. There are just as many imaginative gifts for a man as for a woman. The woman who knows enough about her husband's hobbies and interests and personal economies has some idea of what he would like but hesitates to buy for himself.

She can come up with a number of gift ideas any one of which would really be just what her husband wanted.

And if Joe doesn't seem to get much kick out of opening his Christmas list this year?

So why not make your husband's gift the most important one on your Christmas list this year?

What you spend for it in money isn't nearly as important as how much you spend in imagination and determination to really get him just what he wants.

NALC Auxiliary Elects Officers

New officers were elected at the Thursday evening meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to the National Association of Letter Carriers.

The group met first downtown for a dinner and then adjourned to the home of Mrs. Glen Koffen of 1209 E. Merchant St. for the business meeting.

Officers elected were Mrs. Richard Thompson, president; Mrs. Jack Worley, vice president; Mrs. Warren Kissack, secretary; Mrs.

Wayne LaCrosse, treasurer; Mrs. Fritz Legris, financial secretary; Mrs. Robert Doyle, chaplain and Mrs. Clyde Mulligan, misters for arms.

Plans were completed for the Christmas basket which will be presented to a needy family. Mrs. Mulligan was in charge of the business meeting.

Christmas gifts were exchanged. Card prize winners included the St. George Legion Auxiliary Has Party

A Christmas party and regular meeting were combined Tuesday by the St. George Harvey S. Run unit of the American Legion Auxiliary.

A citation from the State of Illinois Department of Public Welfare for volunteer service was presented to the unit in appreciation of its work.

It was signed by R. J. Graff, "Gifts for the Yanks" will be held Dec. 18 at the Mariano State Hospital. The unit sent $5 to the district cigar fund and plans were made to purchase a gift for the child sponsored by the group at Alfred Fortin Memorial Villa. The next county meeting will be Jan. 21 at St. George.

During the social hour gifts were exchanged. Mrs. Extra Marquis won a special prize and other prize winners were Mrs. Homer Benoit, Mrs. Orval Walsh, and Mrs. Edward Gregoire.

The refreshment table was decorated with a holiday theme. Hostesses were Mrs. Homer Benoit and Mrs. Euclid Bouchard.

Information For Brides

Supplying the newspaper with information concerning her wedding is one of the bride's important duties.

Since details lose importance as news material become older, the Journal requests that wedding information be sent in advance of the ceremony.

The established policy of the Journal is to use full details only if information is supplied within a week after the event. Information received promptly will be given preference over that received late. The accounts will be cut as they become progressively older, until only bare essentials such as names, place and date will be used after 10 days have elapsed. Information is considered too old for publication after two weeks have elapsed.

To insure a complete story, wedding information should not be held to be used with a picture, since this may mean a delay that will materially affect the completeness of the write-up.

Wedding blanks are obtainable from the Journal office by brides-to-be. Properly filled out, such a blank would contain all the necessary information. Blanks should be sent direct to the Journal news department.

Information on weddings occurring in towns included in the Journal News Service are often gathered by the Journal correspondents in these towns. Prospective brides should contact the correspondent in her town promptly and give her all the information so that it may be sent in to meet the deadline. No other persons are authorized to receive the questionnaires.

Wedding pictures will not be used if received more than two weeks after the wedding date, except in cases of weddings held outside the United States. Wedding pictures received soon after the ceremony will be given preference over those received late.

Fiftieth anniversary pictures will be used only if received within two weeks after the anniversary date. They are preferred in advance.

Varying space conditions and engraving and typesetting deadlines make it impossible to guarantee a specific date, or position, for a photograph or an account of the event.

Red China's Drive To Make Manchuria Production Center Forgets Workers

(Editor's Note—A Canadian reporter, David Lancashire, has spent six weeks touring Red China—an area where U. S. reporters cannot travel because of State Department rulings. Lancashire traveled 5,500 miles and talked to farmers, factory workers, clerks and even a few capitalists. In this uncensored story, first of a series to appear this week, Lancashire tells of the industrial development of Manchuria and how life is lived there.)

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

MUKDEN (Shenyang), China (U)—Mukden was developed and then wrecked by the Japanese. It was restored by the Russians when they occupied Manchuria after World War II. Today, back in Chinese hands, it is the hub of an industrialization program aimed at making Manchuria a world production center.

Wing Grade School To Present 2-Act Operetta Dec. 17

FORREST (JNS)—"The Christmas Wish," a two-act operetta, will be presented by the Wing Grade School on Dec. 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the Forrest gymnasium.

Leading characters are Peter, portrayed by Richard Brown, a homeless boy who keeps wishing for a home, and Mother Martin, portrayed by Beverly Horine, who is in charge of the orphanage where Peter lives.

Harold Stoller and Phyllis Sharp, who take the parts of Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth, have been supporting the home, but decide to withdraw their help. In order to encourage them to continue their support, Mother Martin has the children put on a good Christmas program to impress them. In the end, the Wentworths not only decide to keep on helping the home, but agree to adopt Peter.

The operetta is under the direction of Mrs. Luetta Cummins, assisted by the Wing grade teachers.

LEE LOOMIS resigned Wednesday after 7½ years with Honegger and Co. in Forrest. He had been manager of the service department. Loomis purchased the Wistuff Hatchery in Chatsworth and has made tentative plans to open next week.

Kempton Mission Society Meets

KEMPTON (JNS)—The Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church met Wednesday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hansel Williams with 12 adults and seven children present.

The meeting was opened with a prayer by Mrs. Merlin Provance, president, followed by group singing with guitar accompaniment by Mrs. Williams.

Mrs. Clarence Bailey, box secretary, reported a box of Christmas gifts donated by members of the society had been sent to the Rev. George Hayse and family in South Africa. Offerings were taken for mission work and for expenses of the local society.

Mrs. Provance opened the devotion period by reading Psalm 116, followed by prayer by Mrs. Bailey.

Mrs. Willard Walsmith gave a report on the work of the five Nazarene Churches in the Philippine Islands.

There are 1,834 factories and mines in Liaoning Province, and most of them are centered in Mukden and Anshan, two hours away. So many factories are now plugged into the city's power lines that public electricity is often cut off in the daytime.

THERE IS NO gaiety here. By 7 p.m. streets are empty except for workers on their way to night school. Social and family life is sacrificed to production, and even the cigarettes in Mukden are stamped with a little cog-wheel trademark.

It is a dreary city of almost 2½ million, with miles of walls and drab houses, forests of chimneys and acres of housing projects for the workers who tend the heavy production lines.

The residents live and think in terms of the factory. The model housing village outside the city, where 7,000 factory families live in new but squalid buildings, is peppered with posters and slogans. The factories are hung with banners urging workers to "increase your political consciousness

Chebanse Eastern Star Schedules Officer Installation

CHEBANSE (JNS)—The Order of Eastern Star met Thursday evening for a potluck supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Winterroth, worthy patron and matron, presided.

It was announced a joint installation of the Eastern Star and Masonic Lodge officers will be held Dec. 15 at 7:30 p.m. Practice will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. A school of instruction for the Star is set for Dec. 27 at 2:30 p.m., with a potluck supper and evening session to follow.

After the business meeting, a Christmas party was held in the lower hall. Movies were shown by Frank Brenneisen.

as you increase production."

In the downtown district, a former department store houses an exhibition of unbelievable dullness. There are five floors of lathes, plows, bottled chemicals, sample cases of ballbearings and steel bars, drill presses and truck tires.

BUT THE MONOTONOUS display draws 1,200 persons a day, the director said, and 4,000 or 5,000 on Sundays. A good percentage of the serious-faced visitors are women and tiny children, and high school students intently enjoying their one day off in the week.

The factory head works a 48-hour week, and has hospitalization and housing supplied almost free by the state. There are no vacations, but seven days off a year for national holidays.

Wages run from about 33 yuan a month to 108 yuan for highly skilled men or women ($14 to $47). These are among the highest industrial salaries in China.

The usual workers' home is a one or two-room affair with leaky faucets, bare walls and no bathroom. Furniture—wooden beds with no mattresses, and straight-backed chairs—is often supplied by the factory. A family generally includes two or three children plus in-laws.

RENT, HOWEVER, is only $2 or $3 a month. And since night life is unknown in Northeast China except for movies or dances at the factory canteen, there is nothing much but subsistence for a laborer to spend his money on. Most manage to bank a small amount.

This fall, workers in Manchuria got a retroactive pay increase of 14 per cent. The city's stores were filled with families splurging the bonus on such luxuries as small radios, bicycles and padded cotton clothing.

Almost all the factories were built by the Japanese during their 14-year occupation. As the Japanese fled, they tried to leave the buildings and machinery in ruins.

The Russians who followed confiscated much of the workable machinery and shipped it to the Soviet Union. Since then, however, they have been pouring technical and financial aid back into the province. Many of the 205 projects to be aided by the U.S.S.R. during the first five-year plan are in this area.

ALL EXPANSION of the factories and installation of machinery was planned by Russian technicians. Crews of Chinese workers were sent to Russia to learn the intricacies of the machine age. Now directors of the plants say, the Chinese are capable of running things themselves. The Russians have for the most part gone home. At Anshan's Mills, where nine towering blast furnaces turn out most of China's iron, the redevelopment program has tied itself into a knot.

The roads through the 60 factories are churned to mud. Traffic is blocked by switch engines shunting to and from the factories.

Once away from the factories, Anshan is an attractive city. Streets laid out by the Japanese are wide and tree-lined, and small parks have been provided for the laborers.
