Burglars Hit Loda Post Office

LODA (JNS)—An apparently futile burglary of the Loda post office this morning was the fourth institutional break-in in this area this week.

Thieves broke into the Taylor State Bank, Emington, Sunday; the Kempton State Bank Monday and the Melvin State Bank Tuesday. Loda Postmaster Allen (Skip) Gharst said his preliminary examination indicated nothing was taken. The thieves broke the 1/2-inch plate glass door window and forced an inner door, gaining access to the vault door. The vault doornob was wrenched off, but entrance apparently was not gained, Gharst said.

State Nearing End Of Case In Shelley Trial

Woman Testifies To Events At Time Of Dixon Stabbing

The state neared the end of its case in the trial of Robert Shelley Jr., 28, today after the defendant's one-time mistress testified for almost an hour and a half. Mrs. Ida Mae Robinson, 23, Kankakee, mother of five living children, told a Circuit Court jury she had been separated from Shelley for about two months before the Sept. 19 stabbing of Wallace Dixon, 33, Chicago Heights. Shelley has been charged with murder and manslaughter for the slaying.

Mrs. Robinson said she and Shelley had lived together for almost 14 months before the separation although both were still married to others. SHE SAID SHELLEY asked to speak to her when she was in the Pioneer Club, 957 E. Mulberry St., with some companions from Chicago Heights on the night of Dixon's stabbing.

After the conversation, which took place away from the table where she had been seated, Shelley joined the group. He sat next to Dixon on a divan. Mrs. Robinson said Dixon wouldn't get up to allow Shelley to leave the table a few moments later.

When Dixon asked Shelley to leave another way, she said Shelley slapped Dixon and a scuffle ensued. When the fight was broken up, Mrs. Robinson, Dixon and the others left the tavern.

Shelley followed a few moments later, caught up with Dixon and stabbed him, she stated. She eluded him by going into a home where she hid in a bedroom.

Mrs. Robinson denied, under cross examination by Shelley's attorney, Clarence Hayden, that she had been romantically involved with Dixon.

SHE SAID SHE HAD seen Dixon on only five different occasions. Continued on Page 8, Column 3

Vessel Sinking; Crew Is Saved

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—All 11 crewmen from a sinking American fishing vessel were rescued in rough seas off the Mexican coast early today, the Coast Guard reported.

The Norwegian ship, Tai Ping, answering a distress call went to the assistance of the American vessel, the Adriatic, which was operating out of San Pedro, Calif.

The Adriatic was reported sinking about 55 miles southwest of Cape San Lucas, Baja California. Cause of its trouble was unknown.

Planes Collide Over Rio Bay; Believe Forty Dead

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—A plane carrying U.S. Navy musicians collided over Guanabara Bay here today with a Brazilian commercial plane. There were indications of 40 or more deaths in the crash of the two planes.

The collision took place in sight of Sugar Loaf Mountain, in the bay area where President Eisenhower paraded Wednesday. The President was in Sao Paulo, Brazil, today when the collision took place.

The Brazilian air force said it believed 40 men were aboard a DC4 plane carrying the Navy musicians. But in Washington the White House said the plane carried 27 Navy band and orchestra members and a crew of 7.

SEVERAL survivors were reported, but first indications were that some of these came from the commercial plane.

The Navy plane was described as a DC4 and the commercial plane as a C47 or DC3 of the Real Line, a major domestic carrier in Brazil.

Reports from the Rio Yacht Club, near the scene of the collision, said some musical instruments had been pulled from the water along with nine bodies.

A U. S. Marine band came to Rio last week and participated Wednesday in the parade honoring President Eisenhower. It was to have flown to Buenos Aires, Argentina, today to take part in ceremonies honoring President Eisenhower there Friday.

More Support For Brazil Is Pledged By Ike

President Rides Bareheaded In Sao Paulo Rain

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—President Eisenhower doffed his gray felt hat and rode bareheaded in a heavy rain today to acknowledge the cheers of a half million or more fans in this industrial heart of Brazil. Confetti and ticker tape littered drenched streets.

Later at a luncheon Eisenhower extolled the free-enterprise system and pledged continued U. S. support for Brazil's economic development.

Opportunity without discrimination is a vital aspect of democracy in both Brazil and the United States, he said, and freedom in the long run yields the most productive economic system ever devised by man.

"OUR SOCIALLY conscious private-enterprise system benefits all the people, owners and workers alike," he said. "It has resulted in high productivity, high consumption, high wages, and a reasonable return on investment. Balanced progress is our watchword."

Eisenhower pledged that "with our financial and economic capacity, we shall continue to support Brazilian development." Brazil has received more than 2 1/2 billion dollars in U. S. public and private credits.

A thousand guests attended the luncheon, sponsored by the Commercial Association, the Industrial Association and the Rural Society. These big trade organizations include among their members businessmen who manage branch factories for U. S. and European companies manufacturing their products here for Brazilian distribution.

Brazilians danced, jumped and shouted in the rain in their enthusiasm over Eisenhower's visit. The temperature was 70.

There was no police estimate of the crowd's size, but the best guesses ran to at least half a million. There were probably not so many as welcomed Eisenhower in Rio de Janeiro Wednesday, but the Paulistas made up for this in enthusiasm. The cities are of comparable size, about three million each.

EISENHOWER rapped communism, without naming names, in his discussion of the merits of free enterprise at today's luncheon.

"Sheer material wealth can of course be accumulated, and scientific miracles achieved, by authoritarian methods," he said.

"But let us not be misled by

Heart Fund Collectors To Ring Home Bells Sunday

Bells will ring Sunday. They will be doorbells pushed by more than 400 volunteers making a door-to-door canvass of Kankakee County homes for the Kankakee County Heart Association.

Heart Sunday, observed annually the last Sunday in February, is the climax of the month-long Heart Fund campaign.

Mrs. P. W. Sawyer, Heart Sunday chairman, said the staff of volunteers is led by a core of long-time backers, some have worked every year since the county association was formed eight years ago.

ABOUT HALF the volunteer solicitors are individuals convinced of the worth of the cause, Mrs. Sawyer said. The others are affiliated with organizations interested in public and community service. These include Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, the Altar and Rosary Societies of St. Patrick's and of St. Martin of Tours Church, Bethune Youth Center, St. Mary's Hospital Auxiliary, the Junior Woman's Club, Girl Scouts and Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority, which has adopted the Heart Association as its major project on a state-wide basis.

Barrett said Kerner's resignation does not become effective until Monday and there will be no vacancy until then.

"The governor's poor advice must be based on a political opinion," the county clerk said.

Stratton, in calling the special primary, said a vacancy now exists because Kerner had sent his resignation dated Jan. 25. However, Kerner later withdrew the Jan. 25 resignation to give Barrett more time to pick a successor.

Barrett announced Wednesday that City Court Judge John Marshall Karnes, 63, East St. Louis, will take over as temporary Cook County judge effective Tuesday.

Nik Pledges Support To Indonesia

DENPASAR, Bali (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev today pledged the Soviet Union's support to Indonesia's struggle to gain control of Dutch West New Guinea.

"The Soviet people consider it a just and legal demand," the Soviet leader told a cheering crowd of 10,000 in downtown Denpasar, capital of the Isle of Bali.

Seated atop a bamboo platform, Khrushchev and President Sukarno watched an hour-long procession of Hindu rites representing birth to marriage.

The Soviet Premier, wearing a pith helmet to shield his bald head from the hot sun, seemed to enjoy the entertainment. Later, in a speech of thanks, he attacked imperialism and colonialism and warned the Indonesians they will have to keep on defending the freedom the won from the Dutch.

4 More Inches Due Here Bureau Warns

With snow already at crippling depths and drifting, the U. S. Weather Bureau has issued heavy snow warnings. It predicts likely accumulations up to four or more inches through Friday and Saturday.

A total of 6 1/2 inches has fallen in Kankakee since Saturday and an estimated 4 1/2 inches remains on the ground, according to the local U. S. Weather station.

State police headquarters in Pontiac reports all roads in the district are slippery and hazardous. Routes 9 and 122 in McLean County are limited to one-way traffic.

THE IROQUOIS County sheriff's office said roads are very bad and the county superintendent of schools indicated Gilman-Danforth unit schools, Onarga, Buckley, Loda and Bryce-Ash Grove schools are closed because of snow-choked roads.

In Ford County, the sheriff's office reported very bad driving conditions with most roads slippery and hazardous. The county school superintendent said no schools were closed.

Intermittent light snow continued throughout the night and today in the Kankakee area and is expected to continue into Saturday.

THE PROBLEMS of continued snowfall are complicated by strong northeast winds causing drifting. Winds in this area reached 20 to 25 miles an hour.

The high temperature Wednesday was 31 degrees in town and 30 degrees at the airport; the overnight low, 22 degrees.

The mercury is expected to drop to around 20 degrees tonight and not go above the high 20s Friday. Friday night's low will be around 15 degrees.

Weather and road conditions are less severe northwest of Kankakee, according to state police headquarters at Joliet. Highways in the area are slippery in spots from weekend snowfalls, but no additional snow has fallen, the state police reported.

The snowstorms, sweeping out of the Plains plastered southern

Truck Rams Into Bus Carrying 22 Passengers

RICHMOND, Ky. (AP)—A trailer truck jackknifed on a snow-slick curve early this morning and collided head on with a Greyhound bus carrying 22 passengers. Only the bus driver was killed.

He was Leland S. Cummins, 50, of Lexington, Ky.

All the passengers were taken to a Richmond infirmary, but only one was believed hurt seriously. He is Robert Caylor, 44, of Detroit. Doctors said his left leg was broken.

Many of the passengers suffered severe shock as well as minor cuts and bruises.

One of the passengers, Ronald Convolser, 18, an Air Force enlisted man from Ft. Gordon, Ga., said the impact had knocked him out of a bus window.

Cost Of Living Drops Slightly For January

Some Workers Will Take Cut In Hourly Wages

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lower prices for clothing, new cars, eggs and most meats brought a slight decline in living costs in January.

It was the second straight monthly dip in the government's living cost index.

Even so, the index is still just a little under its record high. And, although down from December, the January living cost level was a record high for a January.

The Labor Department reported today the index dropped one-tenth of one per cent in January to 125.4 per cent of the 1947-49 base.

Chicago Area Costs Reflect U. S. Trend

The Chicago Consumer Price Index declined 0.1 per cent from December to January, according to a report issued today by Adolph O. Berger, Director, North Central Regional Office, U. S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics. The January index for Chicago is 128.9 (1947-49 equals 100), 1.4 per cent above the level of a year ago.

Increases of 0.6 per cent for medical care, 0.5 per cent for food and 0.1 per cent for "other goods and services" were practically offset by decreases of 1.3 per cent for transportation, 1.2 per cent for apparel, 0.4 per cent for personal care and 0.1 per cent for housing over the month period ending in January.

period. This is the lowest living cost level since September but it is 1.3 per cent above a year earlier.

The slight change will have this effect on wages of various workers whose union contracts provide for wage adjustments geared to the index:

WAGES OF ABOUT 60,000 workers in aircraft and farm machinery industries will be reduced, in most cases by one cent an hour.

About 14,000 trucking industry workers will receive a one per cent hour raise on a different adjustment basis.

There will be no wage change for about one million workers in the auto and related products industries.

The Labor Department also reported that spendable earnings of factory workers remained at a record high in January. This is

Radio Operator Says Girl Was In His Cabin

BOSTON (AP)—Willem van Rie, Dutch ship radio operator, testified today that Lynn Kauffman was in his cabin for a three-hour period on the day he is alleged to have killed her.

This was brought out under cross-examination by Asst. Dist. Atty. John F. McAuliffe.

The 31-year-old murder trial defendant said the girl was in his cabin from 1 a. m. to 4 a. m. Sept. 18.

The state charges Van Rie beat Miss Kauffman and tossed her overboard from the Netherlands freighter Utrecht as it proceeded down Boston Harbor the night of Sept. 18.

It alleges the Dutch wirelessman had a quarrel with her in her cabin.

SNOW IS AT ONCE beautiful and burdensome. While snow crews plow the clock around to get ahead of the continuing snowfall and windswept drifts, motorists driving slowly enough may witness this scenic view at Memorial Gardens east of Kankakee

Oath Affidavit 'Unnecessary' Claims Nixon

CHICAGO (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon says the National Defense Education Act's "affidavit of disbelieve" is unnecessary and unwarranted.

Nixon made his view public Wednesday in a letter to three university presidents who urged him to support repeal of the controversial oath.

Any student seeking a loan under the act must sign two oaths. One is a loyalty oath required of all federal officials and employees.

The other, the affidavit of disbelieve, asks the student to swear he does not believe in, belong to or support any organization advocating overthrow of the government.

Nixon said he believed the loyalty oath covered the situation, making the affidavit "unnecessary and since it is not a general requirement for all recipients of government benefits, unwarranted."

President Eisenhower has called the affidavit unwarranted and recommended Congress repeal it.

Nixon's letter was sent to Chancellor Lawrence A. Kimpton of the University of Chicago, President Virgil M. Hancher of the University of Iowa, and the Very Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, C.S.C., University of Notre Dame president.

Argentine Gives Up On Submarine

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—The Argentine navy has given up trying to trap a mystery submarine many Argentines doubt ever existed.

Navy Secretary Gaston Clement Wednesday night announced an end to search operations in Golfo Nuevo, where the navy had said the sub was hiding. Clement said no contact had been made with the intruder for several days.

An all-out search was launched after ships reported detecting a submarine in the south coast gulf Jan. 30. The bulk of Argentina's naval forces blockaded the 20-by-40-mile gulf and dropped depth charges repeatedly.

Standard Versus Compact Car

By FAYE HENLE

Detroit's auto makers would like to tune into your dinner table debate.

I'll wager that for an impressive number of you the current controversy is standard vs. compact car.

Papa will claim that you get what you pay for, at least this is the view in my household. Yet, someone will raise the question of economy of operation. Here is where the debate gets hot!

How much of an initial saving is the smaller car? Compare the fully-equipped standard car with the fully-equipped compact car of the same manufacturer and you may discover your debate is a quibble — a $275 difference in favor of the compact model.

How about running the smaller car? Here is where your pocketbook will really feel the difference.

Registration and license plate fees: Generally based on weight, so score one for the compact car.

Insurance: The National Association of Underwriters has announced that some 400 insurance companies will give compact car owners a 10 per cent discount on their premiums. This association has asked insurance supervisory agencies in 45 states to approve this 10 per cent discount rate starting next month. Shortly, similar approval will be sought in other states. (Sports cars are excluded from this discount.) Gas consumption: The Bureau of Public Roads puts mileage of the average U.S. passenger car at slightly less than 15 miles per gallon. The claim the compact cars make is 30 miles per gallon (with standard transmission).

Repairs: Here again, the compact car can claim an edge. You can replace the windshield of a compact car for $50 or spend $200 for the windshield on a large luxury car.

Are you puzzled by the fact that at a time when we are spending more, and our tastes are being changed by the new economy in our car buying? You should not be. For many of us our spending habits are changing radically. For others, the idea of a second car dawned only recently. These are plus factors for the smaller car.

And, if you think that the smaller car was a foreign brain-child, you are wrong. In 1909, George Romney, president of American Motors, Inc., thought to push the compact car before World War II. For details, read Tom Mahoney's biography of the gentleman, just off the press and titled "The Story of George Romney."

Regardless of how you resolve your debate, you should know of the following tax savings any car is entitled to. These are enumerated in a Ford Motor Co. publication, "Buyer's Digest of New Car Facts."

You could save at least 20 cents of every dollar you spend.

Deduct from your income tax state, city or county sales taxes when you buy a car plus registration fees, drivers' license, city or county use tax and property tax plus the interest portion of your financing charge and state and local gas taxes. If you have an accident or loss by theft, any expense not paid by insurance is deductible.

If you use your car for business — exclusive of driving to and from your job — these are deductions you can take: Gas and oil, title and automobile inspection fees, lubrication, repairs, washing, tires and supplies, garage, parking fees, insurance and depreciation.

Reading Begins At Home

By DOROTHY WHIPPLE, M.D.
AP Newsfeatures

Reading is fundamental to all education. We hear a lot these days about reading disabilities and we certainly see some children who never master reading. The point where the printed word gives them pleasure.

There are of course a few extreme cases where a serious organic difficulty interferes with learning to read, but the vast majority of normal youngsters can and do learn to read. Some children lay up print with joy and enthusiasm and some learn just enough to get by.

One of the big differences between those children who love to read and those who don't is the attitude of the home in which they live.

Children who come from homes where books, magazines and newspapers are part of life absorb in their very early years the knowledge that pleasure lies between the pages of a book. Read to your child. See that he can understand.

Andy at 4 loved to "read" the story of Pokey Bear. He knew the whole story "from the front to the back," as he said. He turned the pages, looked at the pictures and recited the events that made Pokey Bear become a Fast Bear. Andy loved all sorts of stories and poems. Both of his parents read to him before bed, whenever there were a few spare moments. They talked about the stories, made up new stories, encouraged Andy to tell stories. Andy loved the stories about the olden days when Mother was a little girl and Daddy a little boy.

One day Mother brought home a small notebook and with Andy at her elbow she started to write down some of Andy's favorite stories. The printed words came one of that family's favorite stories. Andy loved to read a real book. Mother couldn't draw very well but she managed to get some real animation into stick figures. Andy loved their book. Writing books became one of that family's favorite jobs. One of Andy's favorites was called "Princess For Breakfast" and related an episode in which Andy ate the pits of his prunes (fortunately without dire consequences).

Long before Andy went to first grade he was anxious to read. He knew about books and he knew there was pleasure and fun and excitement between the covers. He learned to read early.

One day when Andy was quite able to read his primer quite well he said to his mother, "Will you still read me stories when I can still read myself?" "Of course," said mother. "Don't you know how Daddy and Mother often read aloud to each other?"

That evening after Andy was in bed, Mother repeated his remark to her husband. "You know what," he said, "I believe Andy would love to take part in reading a play out loud. Let's see if we can't get some simple stories in play form and we will each take a part and read them."

Of course Andy loved it and before long they were making up their own plays or adapting some favorite stories into dramatic form.

Parents who love books, who read and talk about what they read can instill in their children a desire to learn for the pure joy that comes with it. Such children seldom have reading disabilities.

Teacher Should Get 'A' For Appearance

By JEANNE D'ARCY

A pretty appearance counts. No one should be more aware of this than a teacher. Daily she faces a critical audience. If she looks attractive, if her appearance is pleasing to the eye, she's sure to have fans, both boys and girls.

Youngsters are impressionable. Perhaps their instincts aren't all out in favor of lessons and studies, but it's for certain that Teacher can do a great deal to change this, and her appearance is no small part of her impact on pupils.

Remember back when you were a child? Who was your favorite teacher? Was she a dandy looking, well-dressed woman, or was she a wash-out when it came to clothes?

Keep In Trim
Swayback Accentuates Posterior—Abdomen Too
By IDA JEAN KAIN
Posture faults often show up glaringly in the pre-teens. One young mother, concerned about her daughter's silhouette, writes: "My little daughter is 12 and has what is called a 'little' pot belly... and she is getting awaybacked. I would like to know if I should have her fitted with a girdle and what exercises should she take?"

A girdle at 12... heaven forbid! A slight curve at the small of back is normal but it shouldn't cure in sharply. So first look into the cause of the trouble. Some common causes of swayback in youngsters are: sleeping on stomach with head on hard or high pillow, sleeping on sagging or too soft mattress; reading with book lying on floor or couch, lying on stomach, trunk propped up with weight resting on forearms.

SPECIAL EXERCISE can counteract swayback and help youngsters to get on the posture beam. They should be active, fun-to-do callisthenics, such as the following:

• Full round bobbin
• Automatic Darning Release
• Hinged presser foot sews over pins, seams, hems.

• Forward and Reverse
• Automatic Round Bobbin Winder

FREE Material Practice Kit: Thread, Material, Lace, Rick-Rack, Interlacing, Zipper, Sample Book, Etc.

Seek Ways To Push Sale Of Savings Bonds

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Savers are still in the saddle and the U. S. Treasury is coming off second best in its competition with other forms of investment for their business.

Few think that interest rates are likely to drop significantly or that easy money is likely to replace tight for some time. So the rivalry is still unabated.

To halt the increase in redemptions of Series E and G Savings Bonds and the drop in their sales, a House committee is proposing to eliminate the legal limit on the amount of interest the Treasury can pay to holders.

But the President already has power to raise interest rates now being paid. Yet the Treasury has made no move to do so. Instead it is planning a drive to get employers to step up promotion of payroll savings plans in their plants.

THE ARGUMENT is that, higher interest rates elsewhere or no, the Savings Bond is still the safest risk in the nation, especially for the little investor.

The Treasury has power to lift these rates now because last year Congress raised the rate limit to 4 1/4 from its former 3 3/4 per cent. The Treasury then set the present 3 3/4 per cent rate, hoping that would halt redemptions and increase sales.

But last month sales trailed the year-ago figure again, while redemptions topped it.

The lure to savers from other sources is just too tempting. Mutual savings banks and many commercial banks have lifted the rates they pay depositors. Savings and loan associations have lifted their payments by varying degrees across the country. Some on the West Coast go as high as 4 1/4 per cent.

Many bonds yield five per cent or more and the Treasury itself went after the individual saver with a highly successful five per cent offer.

YIELDS HAVE gone so high because money has been kept tight to discourage a new outburst of inflation, and credit often has been hard to come by.

The money market eased in the first weeks of the year, as it usually does. But there has been some stiffening of interest rates in recent days. Demand for business loans finally has begun to rise again. That helps keep money tight.

Fears of further inflation have been considerably allayed. But few expect the money managers to loosen the credit strings much unless another recession begins taking shape.

The West Coast's offering of highest interest rates doubtless reflects the need for funds in fast-growing communities. And that is where you'll find the largest savings and loan associations, with their close ties to the home-mortgage market.

Exchangites Hear Report On Use Of Cultured Wood

Exchange Club members heard a report Wednesday on Kroehler Mfg. Co.'s Cultured-Wood plant in Meridian, Miss.

Orville McDonald, research engineer and supervisor for Kroehler, said the plant was constructed at a cost of $5 1/2 million and has been in production less than a year.

Purpose of Cultured-Wood is to provide a core that will not split or crack, has no shrinkage and is heat resistant. He said the new product gives a smoother surface and provides the consumer with a new type finish. Another advantage for the consumer is that he is relieved of service worries.

McDonald said the product was developed by Ralph W. Harrison who added special chemicals to hardwood compounds and stabilized the wood fibers. Glue which gives troubles in other products is not used in the Kroehler product.

CULTURED-WOOD is obtained by heating the hardwood fibers to 430 degrees and placing them under 2,500 tons of pressure per square inch, he said. It gives the core all of the fine attributes of hardwood with none of its disadvantages.

McDonald said the process is strictly in its infancy and that Kroehler officials think only the surface has been touched toward future uses. One of the main features is that it will conserve U. S. timber resources.

McDonald also reported that Kroehler sales for the last year were between $90 and $100 million.

Roy Johnson, Kroehler personnel manager, also was a guest at the meeting.

Tank Routs Berserk Killer Of 4

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP)—A sharpshooting mountaineer who picked out moving targets like ducks in a shooting gallery shot four persons to death and wounded five others Wednesday. He died under a hail of machine gun bullets.

State police, protected by an Army tank, cut down Daniel Raymond, 42, as he fled his burning home at Chalkhill. The home had been set afire by incendiary and tear gas bombs lobbed from the tank.

The mountaineer saw a doctor only Feb. 16 because he was nervous, his wife said.

RAYMOND, a pipeline walker for a natural gas company, had a reputation among the mountain folk in this southwestern Pennsylvania area for being a crack shot. He did his lethal shooting from the second story of his home, located about 50 feet from a rural road. Before police shut off the road to traffic Raymond fired for nine hours at almost everything that moved—cars and trucks. Only once did he fail to fire at a moving vehicle. This was a school bus carrying about 50 youngsters.

Veteran state troopers hugged the tank as it opened fire. They, too, peppered the house with volley after volley. Finally, the berserk Raymond tried to make a run for it. He ran a few feet, then dropped as the machine gun bullets cut through his body.

Those killed by Raymond were: Mary Frances Sissler, 61, and Edna Maes, 53, both of Ohio; William Burd, 49-year-old highways department worker from Farmington, Pa.; and May Maust of Farmington, Pa.

WOUNDED were: Harry Cromwell, 31, of Ohio; Lawrence Swengish, 18, of Haddonville, Pa.; Carlus Maust, 22, husband of Mrs. Maust, and two Maust children, Mary, 3, and Eddie, 18, months.

Raymond was armed with two rifles, one with a telescopic sight.

Police said they probably never will know just what triggered the tragedy although Raymond had been "acting nervous." His wife said he set fire to their living room about 12 hours before the shooting began. She said he doused the fire but she was frightened and took her three children to stay overnight with neighbors.

This was the chain of events as pieced together by police: Burd and his helper, Robert Richey, drove their cinder block truck past the Raymond home about 8 a.m. Raymond shouted at them from a second-story window, asking them to cinder his driveway. Glad to oblige, Richey jumped to the ground to spread the cinders.

SUDDENLY, Raymond appeared at the window again. He opened fire, hitting Burd twice. Richey dove for cover. Burd managed to start the truck but it crashed into a tree 100 yards away.

Two motorists, George Smalley, 30, and Joseph Pickens, went to Burd's aid. They were not hit by Raymond. Burd died en route to a hospital.

Swengish was hit next as a shot pierced his windshield. A fire truck with volunteers braved rifle fire to rescue him. He was in a Pittsburgh hospital where his left eye was removed Wednesday night.

Then along came a car driven by Cromwell. He was shot and his car ground to a halt. He stayed in the car for what he said seemed an eternity. He was in fair condition at a hospital.

Mrs. Maes and Mrs. Sissler were next. Their car apparently went off the road when it was hit by rifle fire. They were shot as they tried to run. Their bodies lay on the road until Raymond was shot to death.

Now came the car occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Maust and their two children. A shot rang out. Mrs. Maust collapsed against her husband. She was dead. Then Maust and his children were wounded. The car ground to a halt.
