Ike's Defense Budget Revised By Committee

Vote Extra Funds For Attack And Polaris Submarines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee revised many sections of President Eisenhower's 1961 defense budget today in a $39,337,867,000 bill to finance the Defense Department for the year starting July 1.

Adding here and cutting there, the committee came up with a total $129,167,000 more than Eisenhower had requested in a revised program submitted in March, but only $2,867,000 more than he sought in the January budget message.

The committee voted extra money for more attack and Polaris submarines, more National Guard and reserve forces the President proposed, a greater airlift capacity, more fighter planes to replace trouble-plagued Bomarc missiles, and an expanded airborne alert capability.

The $1,529,700,000 added by the committee to presidential requests was largely offset by reductions totaling $1,407,800,000. Larger cuts included a 400-million-dollar slash in general procurement funds to force "more economical practices," denial of 293 million sought for a new conventional supercarrier, 294 million cut from the Bomarc program, and a reduction of about 10 per cent in civilian payrolls.

IN A 79-PAGE explanation of its action written by Rep. George H. Mahon (D-Tex.), the committee said "better defense for the dollars expended" should be the result of the budget shake-up.

"The additions made will unquestionably add greatly to our defense," the committee said. "The reductions were made to effect economies wherever possible. . . . The fatal mistake of too little and too late must not be made. . . . We should maintain our armed forces in such a way and with such an understanding that should it ever become obvious that an attack upon us or our allies is imminent, we can launch an attack before the aggressor has hit either us or our allies. This is the element of deterrence which the United States should not deny itself. No other form of deterrence can be fully relied upon."

The committee's recommendations are subject to House action next week.

If approved by Congress, the funds would provide for 2,489,000 military personnel during the coming year, 31,880 planes in the active aircraft inventory, and 817 commissioned ships in the fleet, including 382 warships.

Senate Cool To House-Approved Housing Measure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House-passed billion-dollar housing bill got a lukewarm reception in the Senate today in advance of what was certain to be a cold greeting if it ever reached the White House.

The Democratic measure cleared Thursday, 214-163, will come up for consideration at Senate housing subcommittee hearings beginning May 9 along with 17 other housing measures.

President Eisenhower has opposed any major spending for housing this year as unnecessary and a threat to the budget.

Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.), ranking GOP subcommittee member, said he did not think that as much federal money as the House voted was needed at present to stimulate housing. The House bill would provide one billion dollars of federal money to help finance sale of new houses. The money would be used to purchase GI and FHA mortgages costing $13,800 or less.

Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala.) chairman of the housing subcommittee, and Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) have introduced a measure of their own which would provide a 500-million-dollar boost in college housing authority.

It's SOS For Census Takers

Local census takers set out at 10 a.m. today despite the rain to count residents on three islands in the Kankakee River near Aroma Park. Here enumerator Mrs. Eugene Nussbaum is shown ready to leave shore with her census materials in hand. Her husband is the boat pilot. But just a few feet from shore a shear pin on the motor broke and the boat began to drift down the river.

Going along for the ride were two local census crewmembers, Mrs. Albert Leutloff and Mrs. Byron Leutloff. The boat with the four people is shown adrift just below the railroad bridge in Aroma Park.

The census crew was rescued by the Aroma Park fire department and towed back to shore. The firemen were called by Robert Bydalek, Journal photographer, who was on hand to take the pictures of census enumerating by boat.

Wilmington Officer Shot Trying To Arrest Farmer

WILMINGTON (JNS) — A 25-year-old Wilmington constable was shot and wounded early today while trying to arrest a farmer who was armed with a homemade shotgun.

Treated at St. Joseph's Hospital, Joliet, for pellet wounds in the face, left arm, shoulder and stomach was Jack Wheatley, 25, who was able to return to duty today.

The farmer, Vivian Olson, 57, was arrested a few minutes after the shooting by another Wilmington constable, Michael Grygiel, who found him drinking coffee in the basement of his farmhouse.

OLSON WAS CHARGED with assault with a deadly weapon and is being held in the Will County Jail, Joliet.

Wilmington police said Olson's wife had signed a complaint Thursday night charging her husband with being drunk and disorderly.

According to Wheatley, he was summoned to the police station at 11:05 p.m. Thursday to serve a warrant for Olson's arrest.

Wheatley called Grygiel and both constables headed for the Olson farm home, located about 7 1/2 miles southwest of Wilmington on Route 113N near Ritchey.

Wheatley telephoned the farmer to tell him he was about to be arrested. The constable said he and Grygiel were unable to find anyone in the farm house when they arrived and were of the opinion Olson may have entered the wooded area surrounding the house.

Deciding to wait it out, the constables returned to their car and backed it across Route 113N to the other side of the highway.

POOR AUDITION

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — The Mississippi Senate before voting on making "Dixie" the state song, rose and sang the tune.

"If that's how it sounds, I'll have to vote against it," Sen. William Caraway said.

Hoffa Trial Ordered For Tuesday; To Appeal Edict

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Dist. Judge Joseph R. Jackson today ordered a trial beginning Tuesday of civil proceedings aimed to oust James R. Hoffa as president of the Teamsters Union.

Jackson denied a motion by Hoffa's attorneys that he throw out the proceedings.

Hoffa's attorneys immediately announced that they would go to the U.S. Court of Appeals in a new attempt to avoid the trial.

Other motions to forestall the trial already are pending for decision before the appeals court.

The proceedings against Hoffa are based on a contention that he misused union funds. They were brought by court-appointed monitors who contend Hoffa used some $600,000 of Detroit Local 299 Teamsters' funds in various personal business enterprises.

ONE ENTERPRISE was a Florida real estate development in which Hoffa originally had a 45 per cent option.

In arguing the proceedings should be thrown out, Hoffa's attorneys contended that the courts have no power to remove him and that this is a privilege entirely within the hands of the union members who had elected him.

Judge Jackson ruled, however, that "it is the decision of the court that the monitors clearly acted within the scope of their authority."

Jackson heard arguments all day Thursday and for an hour more this morning on the issue.

A situation which gives a particular legal twist to Hoffa's case is the fact that he took the union office under a court consent decree issued in January 1958. That decree let Hoffa take office provisionally with a three-man monitor board appointed by the courts to supervise a corruption cleanup.

The consent decree, imposing specially strict obligations on Hoffa to safeguard union funds, resulted from the compromise of a Teamster member's lawsuit contending Hoffa had been elected to his Teamsters' job in the fall of 1957 by a rigged convention.

State Supreme Court Holds 1st Chicago Session

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois Supreme Court held a full-dress session in Chicago today for the first time.

Six justices sat in the Weymouth Kirkland Courtroom in the University of Chicago's new law center.

It was part of a program celebrating the completion of the four-million-dollar center, but the justices actually heard oral arguments in two routine civil cases.

The high court has sat only in Springfield since 1870.

Participating were Chief Justice Byron House and Justices Ray I. Klingbiel, George Briwtow, Walter Schaefer, Harry Hershey and Charles H. Davis.

The university said Justice Joseph E. Daily of Peoria did not attend because of illness in his family.

The courtroom, named in honor of Weymouth Kirkland, 82, a widely known Chicago attorney, was dedicated Thursday night.

Its main purpose is for use by law students in conducting mock trials.

Turk Students Continue Riots; Defy Martial Law

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Rioting against Premier Adnan Menderes spread to this capital city today in defiance of martial law.

At least 100 persons were injured as mounted police, swinging long riot sticks, charged into demonstrating students.

With tear gas, the police drove the students into the Law and Political Science buildings of Ankara University.

About 9,000 students took part in the demonstration. Eyewitnesses told of seeing four students and a policeman killed, but these reports could not be confirmed.

The demonstration began as the Ankara students massed to sing the Turkish independence anthem and to shout approval for the 10,000 Istanbul students who rioted against Menderes Thursday — some shouting "freedom" and citing the example of Korean students who toppled the Syngman Rhee regime.

THE ISTANBUL rioting also was reported to have caused deaths, but the military commander there said he received no such advices.

The martial law declared Thursday to curb Istanbul's demonstrations was extended to Ankara but failed to stop the politically minded students from speaking their piece.

The government controlled radio announced that all universities will be closed until May 29.

Three hundred mounted police charged into the students as they started to march away from the university grounds, singing in praise of ex-President Ismet Inonu, the leader of Menderes' chief opposition.

In the melee that followed, 30 persons were hurt and all the windows in one wing of the university law building were smashed.

The students retreated into the building and threw pieces of broken window glass down on the mounted police.

TWO TURKISH newspaper photographers and a Turkish reporter were arrested as they covered the fracas.

Ankara's military commander appeared and appealed to the students to go home. The demonstration was broken up by a passing motorist. Clocks and watches in the battered home—70 miles southeast of Oklahoma City—were stopped at 11:45 p.m. The path of the twister was estimated at a half mile wide.

Found dead in the wreckage were Mr. and Mrs. Dave Pawley, both in their 50s, and their daughter, Laura Ann, 22. Their home was four miles west of Cromwell.

The twisters were first reported over Anadarko before dusk and last reported in the Oklahoma City area.

LOYD WALTERS, the heart-attack victim, died as his house was damaged by wind.

The sprawling Oklahoma capital city was hardest hit. "It's impossible to make an estimate of damage at this time," said City Manager Sheldon Stirling early today. "Right now we are most thankful there were no deaths."

Most of the damage here was from roofs torn from buildings and homes by the twister, which apparently passed over at rooftop level. Two homes were destroyed and trailers in a trailer court overturned.

In the tiny farm community of Pocasset, 50 miles southwest of here, two homes were flattened by a tornado and two others heavily damaged.

At Tuttle, 10 miles northeast of Pocasset, a twister clipped a side of the high school gym, wrecked a cotton gin, a school bus garage and three houses.

Passenger Set Explosion; 11 Persons Killed

Survivor Describes Battle On Craft; Falls Unconscious

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Road workers who saw a Venezuelan airliner explode in flight said today a survivor had told them an apparently demented White Russian blew up the plane with a bomb.

They said the pilot had grappled with the passenger before the blast that sent the plane plummeting Thursday, carrying 11 of the 13 aboard to their deaths. The Russian was identified as Vyacheslav Lavinski, who apparently was a resident of Venezuela.

The two survivors are a Spanish grocer and a Venezuelan woman. The woman is not expected to live. Authorities pin hopes of checking out the bizarre story on the survival of the grocer, who lay unconscious.

The road workers said the grocer, Jose Chacin, had told them before he passed out of the struggle in the air. They said he reported the passenger had gone into the pilot's cabin, locked the door, and threatened to blow up the plane.

WHILE THEY WERE struggling the copilot told the passengers over the plane's loudspeaker system that the man was carrying a bomb that was going to explode any minute.

While they were struggling, the two pilots of the Linea Aeropostal, the plane's owners, inspected the wreckage. Capt. Joffre Valdes reported a smell of burnt powder in the debris and what looked like a piece of a hand grenade encrusted in the door.

The plane was only three minutes from the airport when it exploded. Reporters brought back a book they said they had found in the wreckage. It's title was "Death in the Air."

Government intelligence agents, who announced Thursday night that the plane had been blown apart by a bomb, meanwhile looked into the history of the passengers.

Anti-Castro Plot Crushed In Cuba

Clark Did Get Gifts, No Payola

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dick Clark, king of America's disc jockeys, swore today he never received payola but admitted knowing that a record company in which he had an interest made payments to other platter spinners.

He acknowledged receiving gifts worth $4,500 from a record manufacturer who subsequently charged the cost of the gifts to promotional expenses.

HE SAID HE insisted on giving the donor a check for $300 for a fur stole which later turned out to have cost $1,000.

Clark, handsome youthful idol of the nation's teen-agers, gave his testimony quietly before a packed hearing room as House payola investigators continued their inquiry into under-the-table payments for plugging of records.

Answering questions by Robert W. Lishman, subcommittee counsel, Clark agreed that he knew the Chips Distributing Co., a Philadelphia record firm in which he held a one-third interest, had distributed $20,000 in payola over a 20-month period.

Clark insisted he knew nothing about details of the payments, which he said were handled by Harry Chipetz, one of the partners in Chips Distributing.

Pressed by Lishman, he said Chipetz told him at one time that payola was being distributed.

Clark also acknowledged under questioning that he had done nothing to stop the payments to the Chips company.

He said he received the $4,500 in gifts in 1958 from Lou Bedell of Era and Dore Records.

In a lengthy statement read to the committee about his activities, Clark said that in addition to the fur stole for his wife, Bedell also presented her with a necklace and him with a ring—both worth a total of $3,400.

"I emphasize that these items were given to us as presents. I did not receive them because of any agreement or understanding

Hands Down JP Opinions

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Illinois attorney general today set a deadline 10 months prior to the April 4, 1961 election of justices of the peace for establishment of JP districts.

County boards which fail to establish districts within the deadline must wait until the 1963 election to increase or decrease the number of JPs. Atty. Gen. Grenville Boardley ruled.

THE ANSWERED questions asked by State Atty. William J. Bauer of DuPage County about the controversial law.

Illinois justices of the peace and county officials associations have urged the new law be postponed from its effective date, the April 1961 election. Then the number of JPs would be drastically reduced and would be supported by salaries instead of fees.

Boardley's opinion said the board can increase or decrease the number of JPs to be elected by adopting a resolution not more than 12 nor less than 10 months prior to the first election.

If an increase is provided, not more than one added justice and constable may be provided in any justice district for every 20,000 inhabitants or major fraction thereof. The 20,000 limit is not binding on the board in setting up initial districts.

Boardley said the board first would divide the county into justice districts of nearly equal population size. One justice and one constable would be elected for each 40,000 population or major fraction thereof in each district.

Boardley's other opinions on Bauer's questions included these: The last official census of the county, not the last official federal census of various cities and villages within the county, is the basis for determining population of the county.

BECAUSE OF the discretion of the board whether to increase or decrease JPs and constables in a county, a special election would not be needed to fill JP positions created by a population increase.

Boardley gave this ruling on the event the 1950 census was the basis for first establishing JP districts and the 1960 census would become official before the April 4, 1961 election but after the county was divided.

The new JP law does not authorize any special election to change the number of JPs or constables but a timely county board resolution can arrange for new districts at least 10 months before a regular election.

A Justice of the Peace District may contain one whole township and parts of another.

Districts established for the 1961 election may be changed and additional JPs and constables elected in 1965.

Salary and expenses of JPs should be fixed before the April 1961 election.

Pembroke Township Home Lost In Fire

HOPKINS PARK—A Pembroke Township home was destroyed by fire early today and the owner burned when he tried to save a trunk from the burning building.

Robert E. Hayes, Pembroke Township fire chief, estimated the loss at $5,500 with minor damage to one wall of an adjacent house.

The home was owned by Timothy Jewell, 28, 2100 1/2 foot, four-room house was occupied by Jewell and his wife. Jewell went into the home after he fled injured but received burns on the right hand and arm trying to save a trunk with valuable papers. He was unable to get the trunk out.

Firemen concentrated their efforts on preventing the fire from spreading to the Lucille Knight home six feet to the west.

Hayes said he believed the fire started on the outside of the building from the way it burned. There was no fire in the stove.

Ten firemen answered the call and worked until 4:30 a.m.

Average production of about 87,000 dairy cows in Illinois last year was about 7,032 pounds of milk.

Charges that communism is infiltrating churches in the United States were instigated by the "odd-balls of Christianity who preach a message and whip up hate biases," the Rotary Club told me last Thursday.

The Rev. Harold Davis, pastor of Central Christian Church here, repeated the charges against the Communist Party and its training manual.

The accusations are serious and serious charges. Mr. Davis said, "They are not true and true citizens of our land had better take time to read the manual."

THE LISTED The charges in the Air Force manual and related in this way:

"The National Council of Churches and many persons and Version of the Bible, first published in 1948 and 1952, were either card-carrying Communists, sympathizers or members of the Communist Party. The 28 devotional hymn workers on the Revised Standard Version, all Christian save one who was a learned and devoted person, are Communists."

3. That many ministers and lay people are stooges of communism and spies for the Soviet Union.

4. That one single Communist who was a member of a church. Have you?

THE GROUP which instigated the charges are as "potentially dangerous to a truly Christian and religious nation as itself," the Rev. Mr. Christian said. "Everyone has a right to his own opinions, but one's has to be a good citizen."

Some of the strongest evidence of the conspiracy is the great land, and perhaps the most of it, are those few heretics whose constant endeavor is to guard an under the churches."

Police Law Needed, Stratton, Daley Agree; Apart On Details

CHICAGO (AP)—The governor of Illinois and the mayor of Chicago apparently agree that some legislation is necessary to give teeth to the program of reform planned for Chicago's police force.

But Gov. Stratton and Mayor Richard J. Daley, after a two-hour session Thursday, failed to reach any major decision as to what legislation, specifically, is needed.

Emerging from the closed-door session with Daley, the boss of Illinois Democrats, the state's top Republican said: "We HAVE COME to no final conclusion yet on just what legislation should be presented."

The two have locked horns over the matter of state participation in Chicago's problems was brought up. Daley wants to push legislative action until the regular session in Springfield in 1961. Stratton, however, is expected to present his own proposals before a special legislative session opening next Tuesday.

A agreement was apparently reached Thursday that some legislation is necessary to clear the doubts about the legality of the new police reform program. Daley said he would favor one piece of legislation—a measure to allow Chicago to bring in experts from outside. This brought a state law requiring a year's experience of an officer before his appointment to a city post.

The police force was assailed by scandal last fall by disclosures that some policemen were aiding burglars. In the ensuing commission, Daley established a five-man police board and imported Orin Wilson, a California college professor, as superintendent of police.

STRATTON said the lawmakers of Illinois, in considering police reform in Chicago, "should not allow any personalities, personal or political, to enter the picture."

He declined to say whether he would seek power over these "Daley's appointments to the board." This proposal was drafted by state Sen. George E. Drach (R-Springfield). But Stratton commented: "I have the final police power."

Two cars pulled away from the side of the road just as Wheatley turned off the car lights.

Wheatley said HE and a "Grygell" then saw Olson appear at the house, probably thinking it was the constables who let him in. When the constables made their approach, Olson met them with the homemade, sawed-off shotgun.

Unarmed, Wheatley shined a flashlight in Olson's face and the "farmer" said, "Put out that light or I'll shoot." Wheatley and Grygell dove into a ditch and Olson climbed a tree.

The constable said attempts were made, to no avail, to get Olson to get out of the house. After a wait of several minutes, Olson fired a blast which struck Wheatley, who was crouched behind a fence post.

Wheatley said Olson's son, who came on the scene, tried to get his father to put down the weapon. The boy fled when the father threatened to use the gun on him.

Authorities learned that the son and a neighbor had managed to get nine guns out of the house before the constables arrived. Two of them were loaded. They failed to find the sawed-off shotgun.

State police were summoned for assistance. Grygell, after the shooting, managed to force his way into the house and arrest Olson while he was having coffee.

Rain Douses Fire At State Game Area

BEAVERVILLE (AP)—A well-timed rain Thursday night and early today put out a fire in the Kankakee State Game Area near this community.

According to Bob DeWitt, Illinois quail conservation officer, the blaze, which had been burning partly out of control since Sunday, managed to destroy two square miles of the southern section.

However, since the fire burned slowly, all of the deer, pheasants and quail which inhabit the area were able to escape. The loss was confined primarily to swamp grass, which served as cover for the fowl.

The absence of high winds prevented the fire from crossing at least one of the game area's east-west fire lanes. If the fire had jumped the lane, approximately 1,000 acres of heavily wooded area would have been destroyed. Included the northern section are Norway spruce and pine trees.

Negroes Plan 'Passive Resistance' In Theaters, Houses, Parks, Hotels

(Last of a series.)

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—Negro college students and their advisers say the lunch counter "sit-ins" are only the beginning of the "non-violence" movement.

They say their program will move against what they consider "inequalities" one by one, and always, like Gandhi, "without violence."

In different places, the movement will take different forms, they say. In Nashville, students talk about a "drive" to segregate drive-in theaters. "You just drive up your car to the entrance and automatically block the way until they sell you a ticket," says a dark-skinned college boy, his eyes alight.

In Memphis, they've begun to test segregated libraries. In other cities they're going into the white parks.

In Birmingham, a Negro student adviser says: "We're planning a mass demonstration to get Negroes to ride in the front of the buses where the white people sit."

Already in one Tennessee county, a Boy Scout worker says, Negroes have been quietly coming to white churches, sitting in the rear pews.

In Charleston, S. C., Negro high school students talk about a sit-down in the white section of a movie theater.

In Nashville, a Negro attorney says: "We'll never get any place unless we make a drive on segregated housing."

A worker with another student group says: "We're trying to find a way to move in on hotel rooms."

The Negroes say they have tested results which have whetted their appetites for more.

The Rev. Martin Luther King, sitting in a handsomely appointed office in Atlanta, told me: "We will encourage more students to go to jail, to build a spirit, a cause among Negroes. If we fill up his jails, the white man will have no place to put us."

NEW METHODS ARE UP FOR STUDY. Says one student: "What do you do about a restaurant if you can't get in the door? Or what about job discrimination? Or schools? Or rear pews."

"WE WILL FILL UP his jails, the white man will have no place to put us."

10 Mistakes Parents Make On Allowances

By DR. PAUL POPPONE
Every child should have an allowance. Here are 10 common mistakes made by parents in this connection—they are offered as part of an answer to a score of parents who have written me on the subject.

1. Allowances don't begin soon enough. An allowance should start as early as the child can count and make change.
2. The allowance is made with-out consultation with the child as to the amount. He therefore doesn't feel that he has some responsibility.
3. The allowance is fixed for one child without consultation with the other children. These matters should be worked out in family council, to give all members a greater feeling of fairness.
4. It is not revised often enough. It must be increased as time goes on; sometimes it might even be diminished if certain expenditures change.
5. No part of it should be a "forced loan." Parents often give a child, say a dollar a week, with the stipulation that 50 cents of this must be put in a bank or savings account. Saving is highly desirable, but if it is tied to the allowance, the child cannot be continually reminded that he is getting an allowance of a dollar.
6. THE ALLOWANCE must not be used as payment for work done in the home. This contribution of time and labor is for his own good—it's his home and he's working for himself. If you pay him for doing chores, you make him (potentially) a mercenary worker. He'll demand more money for making their own beds. He'll go on strike. He loses sight of the fact that family life means all for one and one for all.
7. The allowance must not be used as a weapon for punishment, e.g., "I'm going to take a dime off your allowance this week because you called your mother a bad name." The two actions have no logical connection. He's entitled to an allowance, just as he is entitled to food and clothing, because he's a member of the family. (He's also entitled to punishment, but by different methods.) Of course if he willfully broke some other child's toy, he might be compelled to replace it at his own expense. That's logical—the other isn't.
8. The allowance is too small. If it's out of line, he may in certain cases be tempted to steal in order to keep up appearances!
9. The allowance is too large. If he is associating continually with children on a much more modest level, he will be forming some bad standards.
10. The allowance doesn't cover enough. In high school, for instance, it should cover most of his clothes as well as school lunches.

Q. After a mother has given the best part of her life to bringing up her children, doesn't she have a right to feel that she can move in with one of her married children, in case she is widowed?

A. I wouldn't call it a right:

The Princess And The Fotog

Meg And Her Tony Have One Thing In Common

(Last of three articles.)

By TOM A. CULLEN
LONDON (NEA)—In marrying Tony Armstrong-Jones, Princess Margaret is taking on a husband who will look like a hybrid horse among the royal thoroughbreds stabled at Buckingham Palace.

Or perhaps it is a marriage of two mavericks, for Margaret and Tony have this in common—both of them love kicking over the traces.

The wedding in Westminster Abbey should be a weird affair. For when Princess Margaret exchanges vows with Tony the Photographer, British royalty, whether it likes it or not, will be embracing some of the seven liveliest arts.

For Tony's friends are far removed from the rarefied circles in which the royal family moves. The world of Armstrong-Jones, up to now, has been the world of hard-bitten reporters, actors and actresses, copy writers, interior decorators, theater critics, fashion designers and ballerinas.

FEW OF THEM will be invited to the wedding by the Lord Chamberlain, but their presence will be felt by some of the Palace Old Guard.

These courtiers of the old school, as exemplified by Sir Michael Adeane, the Queen's private secretary, had a hard enough time swallowing Prince Philip with his brusque ways and his notions for modernizing the monarchy.

Now, they are asking, are the palace doors to be thrown open to the riff-raff of Chelsea, Fleet Street and the wilder reaches of beatnik Bohemia?

Actually, they need not carry on so, for Tony is already busy pruning down his friends to conform to respectability. Gone are the midnight revels in the Iron-monger's shop in Pimlico which Tony had converted into a flat.

ONE GROUP, HOWEVER, is not giving up Tony so easily. That is the gossip columnists, sub-editors and reporters. To listen to them talk, Tony was "one of the boys"—the press photographer type who is seen at ringside at every prize fight, or elbowing his way through the crowds at an auto accident, his press ticket prominent in his hand.

This is only partly true. Nearly every editor in Fleet Street has, at some time or another, bought photos from Tony (usually fashion or society portraits), but this hardly justifies the rash of "My friend Tony" stories appearing.

One newspaper has the distinction of having fired Tony. This is Varsity, the lively undergraduate paper at Cambridge. Tony worked as a photographer for the paper but got the heave-ho in the same term that he coxed the Cambridge boat team to victory over Oxford.

Fleet Street's claim on Tony has been staked for all time by Anne Scott-James, a reporter for Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express. "Tony," says Anne, "is completely one of us who racket around the world with a notebook or a camera."

"Princess Margaret," she adds, "will have to come over to our side, the side of the people." The truth is that Armstrong-Jones has managed to keep a precarious foothold in both worlds, the world of blue blood and that of black printer's ink. He does come from an upper-class family (his mother is the Countess of Rosse), and he did go to the right schools (Eton and Cambridge).

Princess Margaret saw the handsome photographer for the first time nearly four years ago, when they met at a rehearsal of a revue, "Cranks," where Tony was employed taking pictures. A few weeks later she recognized him at the wedding of a friend.

AFTER AN INTERVAL of more than a year Tony walked into Margaret's life again, this time at a ball. After that they frequently were guests at the same house parties, and Tony was invited by the princess or the Queen Mother to Clarence House.

And Margaret often slid down the spiral lighthouse staircase of Tony's Pimlico flat for a spaghetti lunch prepared by him.

More than four years have

ACTRESS JACKIE CHAN belonged to the carefree world of Tony the Photographer.

elapsed since Princess Margaret banished the other man—dark, tragic-looking Peter Townsend—from her life.

Today, she is a much more thoughtful and understanding person, her willfulness and flightiness being things of the past. She is also a deeply religious person, not only in the sense of being a regular church-goer, but in the sense of trying to live by the Scriptures.

In the opinion of most Britons, it is time that the princess put the past definitely behind her and had a bit of fun. And Tony, the commoner, is just the man to lead the revels. This hybrid horse may kick at the Buckingham Palace doors, but it will be only to let a little air and sunlight in.

Yank Adventurer Sentenced To Death

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Allan Lawrence Pope, American flier of fortune, today was sentenced to death for fighting against the government in Indonesia's 1958 rebellion.

An Indonesian air force judge convicted the 31-year-old pilot from Miami, Fla., of carrying arms for the rebels, killing 17 members of Indonesia's armed forces and flying bombing and strafing missions in the uprising against President Sukarno.

Pope showed no emotion as Lt. Col. Sardjono, the judge, pronounced the death sentence.

THE JUDGE GAVE him a week to accept the verdict or appeal to a higher court. If the flier accepts the verdict, the judge may ask Sukarno for a pardon.

Pope admitted flying for the rebels but insisted he flew only one attack mission — "The others were test and patrol flights."

Pope's World War II B26 bomber was shot down near the government-held port of Ambon on May 18, 1958, at the height of the revolt. He bailed out, injured his right leg on landing and was captured.
