Witness Gets Excited In Guertin Trial

Court Recesses To Let Him 'Collect Himself' As He Grows Pale

Admiral A. Ambrose of Bloomington, trustee of the Citizens Exchange and Security Trust of 800 Ave. today took the circuit court witness stand to testify against Walter A. and Percy J. Guertin, former clients of the currency exchange.

The Guertins, father and son, are on trial for alleged confidence game and conspiracy with the closing of the currency exchange on May 5, 1937.

Today morning, while testifying as to his business relationships with the defendants, Ambrose grew pale, clenched his fists and asked time to "collect himself." Judge Lester H. Bickel called a recess at 11:15 a.m.

Ambrose testified, in answer to questions by State Attorney Samuel H. Shapiro and Assistant Victor LaFontaine, that when the currency exchange closed there were 103 checks against the Guertins and Son account for a total overdraft of $7,140.43 and that there was a $450 overdraft against the W. A. Guertin account.

During the existence of the Guertin & Son account, he said, he wrote 1,200 to 1,500 checks worth against it and that 500 of these were overdrafts at one time or another.

The first overdraft, he continued, was on Jan. 15, 1937, and was immediately "taken up." After that, he said, the overdrafts continued straight on.

Admits Being Duped
Asked why he allowed the practice to continue, he said, "Well, I guess the boys just pulled the wool over my eyes." During the period of the overdrafts, Ambrose continued, there were numerous checks that were paid up.

Disregards Wife's Plea, Kills Self

WPA Worker, Despondent Over Health, Suicides

Curtis Dyer Shoots Self On Anniversary Of Mother's Death

Despondent over ill health, Curtis Dyer, 39, WPA worker, fired a bullet into his brain last night in the yard of his home, five miles north-east of Kankakee.

Using a crude 22 caliber rifle with a truncated barrel and a home-made pistol handle, he loaded and fired four times, the final shot taking effect high in the right temple.

His wife Estelle and four children, sitting in their one-room dwelling, heard the shots shortly after 8 p. m. Noticing the fourth made a dull muffled sound, the children ran out into the darkness. Dyer's four-year-old son Carl was the first to reach the body, lying in the corner of their small yard.

Dyer had threatened to commit suicide on several previous occasions, according to information given Coroner A. E. Kerger and Sheriff Dan Bergan. The victim's health had been poor and he was suspected of suffering from tuberculosis.

On Sunday when he visited his sister Mrs. Hettie Krieg of Bucking-ham, he recalled that his mother Mrs. Mary Dyer died five years ago, Monday, and was buried on May 15, his birthday. Dyer at that time remarked that this would be a good time for him to go.

Brooding over his "bad lungs" he began drinking in recent weeks and yesterday he didn't work, spending the day drinking and sleeping. He ate no supper and when he went out into the yard about 8 p. m. his wife followed him and inquired what he was going to do.

He frequently practiced target shooting but usually not in the evening. Mrs. Dyer said she talked for a while, pleading with him not to do anything desperate. After he appeared calm and assured her "I'll be all right," she went into the house. A few minutes later the shots rang out.

Besides the widow, he leaves sons Carl, 4, and Leland, 4 weeks old, and two stepsons Bernard Pelletier, 14 and Shirley, 12, sisters Mrs. August Krieg, Chicago, Mrs. Richard Lane of Herscher, brothers Clark of Holland, Mich., and Weldon of Wilmington.

Resistance Ends In Main Areas Of Holland; Overwhelming Odds

London, May 14—(AP)—A broadcast heard in London tonight identified by the announcer as coming from the Dutch radio quoted the Dutch army commander, General Henri Gerard Winkelman, as declaring "Our resistance has been broken by overwhelming power."

The broadcast said that Rotterdam was bombed and Utrecht threatened with destruction so "to save further sacrifice of men," the cities have surrendered.

It added that Dutch troops are "at the moment asked to exercise control and await the arrival of the German armies."

No Dutch broadcast was heard here after 8:10 p. m. (1:10 p. m. c.s.t.)

The Holland broadcasting station is at Hilversum, some 18 miles southeast of Amsterdam and just east of the main water line to which the Dutch have retreated.

Joint Declaration Of Disapproval Of Lowland Invasion

Washington, May 14—(AP)—The United States expressed today its willingness to join with the other American republics in a joint declaration of protest to Germany over the invasion of Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg.

The state department told the Uruguayan government, which originated a move for a joint declaration, and the Panamanian government which communicated the Uruguayan suggestion to the other republics, that the United States would be glad to join with Uruguay and the other republics in such a declaration.

A state department note added that this government was in full agreement with the draft of a text for the joint declaration of protest, as written by Uruguay.

The state department released the text of a cablegram received from the government of Uruguay through the Panamanian foreign minister.

The message said: "The government of Uruguay has learned with keen emotion of the attack on sovereignty and violation of neutrality suffered by Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. The government of the republic believes that respect for the rights of neutrality is an international principle which should be formally maintained whatever the circumstances may be in which the belligerents find themselves."

"I (the Uruguayan foreign minister) take the liberty of invoking articles four and five of the ninth resolution approved at Panama to the end that the other American governments be consulted concerning the possibility of a joint declaration on this subject."

"I respectfully request your excellency (the foreign minister of Panama) that on transmitting the contents of this dispatch to the other governments of America you be good enough to inform them that they, like the government of Uruguay, will receive a draft text which this chancellery will send."

Gigantic Test Of Strength Fast Blazing Into Great-est Of All Battles

BULLETIN
Berlin, May 14—(AP)—The German high command announced tonight that Rotterdam, great western Netherlands seaport, had capitulated.

"In north Belgium, German armored units have reached Ligny, historic battleground of 1815, in pursuit of the retreating enemy."

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The fiercest fighting of the war—fast blazing into the "greatest battle of all time"—raged along the Meuse river between France and Belgium today.

French dispatches said the Germans supported their mechanized land forces with an air armada of between 6,000 and 7,000 planes.

Historic Sedan, 10 miles inside the French frontier, was reported captured.

At least 2,000 tanks have clashed in combat. The French said German losses in this action were "tremendous." Berlin sources denied it.

France Reports Great Battle Of West Under Way

Admit That Sedan, Inside The Maginot Line, Has Fallen To Germans

Paris, May 14—(AP)—A French military spokesman conceded this morning that the city of Sedan, 10 miles within France in the fortified border zone below the Belgian border, "probably has been taken" by German attackers.

The high command earlier had admitted that the Germans, gaining momentum in their push through southeastern Belgium, had crossed France's northern border and it was generally conceded that the long-awaited "great battle of the west" had at last begun.

The German advance, the French communiqué disclosed, was part of a push which carried the Germans to the Meuse river on an 80-mile front extending northward from Sedan through the Belgian town of Namur to Liege, key point in Belgium's eastern defenses.

Military advisers have indicated that it was along this line that the allies planned to make their stand against the Germans in a battle expected to prove a decisive factor in the outcome of the entire war.

South Bank of Meuse

The Germans were reported to have concentrated a massive attack, supported by tanks and airplanes, in the Sedan sector. The town, which is on the south bank of the Meuse, is on the south bank of the Meuse.

Equally heavy fighting was reported by the French at the Belgian town of Dinant, 15 miles south of Namur on the Meuse.

Dinant likewise was abandoned by civilians.

The French communiqué said the Nazi attack was increasing everywhere, and that the Germans had used two full divisions in their drive to the Meuse. Sedan is located in the northern extension of the Maginot line.

The French reported repulse of a German assault at Longwy—inside the French frontier near the junction of the Belgian and Luxembourg borders—after bitter street fighting. The French still are holding the town, a spokesman said.

Two Nazi attacks in force in the Fobach-Sgar sector, east of Longwy, also were reported turned back. German patrols were said to have been driven off near Wissembourg, at the eastern end of the 100-mile front stretching from the Moselle to the Rhine.

Liege Ports Taken

French military sources said the Belgian forts at Liege—with the exception of one already have fallen to the Germans—were still holding out. Northwest of Liege a great battle between mechanized units was reported continuing near Tirlenmont.

Earlier the French had reported that they had defeated the Germans in a great battle of mechanized forces in the Belgian Ardennes and estimated they had shot down 400 German planes in the last three and one-half days of fighting.

"More preliminary," is the way a French war ministry spokesman described continual air battles, infantry drives and the gigantic mechanized engagement in which the French assertedly dispersed between 1,500 and 2,000 German tanks in the Ardennes mountains.

The "real" struggle for possession of the Netherlands and Belgium, he said, will come on the new allied line.

Military commentators said the Ardennes fight yesterday was the first in history in which two such fleets of "land battleships" had matched tactics and guns.

Sketchy dispatches told how the tank battle was fought in bright sunlight on a flat terrain between Tirlenmont and Tongres where the machines were able to maneuver freely.

The French corps, en route to the battle line since the invasion Friday, rushed into engagements at full speed, it was said.

Claim Nazi Losses Heavy

The dust raised by the encounter could be seen from afar. The roar of the tanks' guns could be heard for miles.

The French reported Nazi losses in men and material there were heavy.

Advices from the front said the German offensive appeared to be general north of the Moselle. Observers cited three objectives which the German general staff might have immediately in mind:

1. To divide the hazoned fronts of the Netherlands and Belgium in a drive to the coast.

2. To win the left bank of the Meuse river and drive on Brussels.

3. To force the French defenses along the Luxembourg border where the German army corps got a running start through the defenseless grand duchy.

It was emphasized by a spokesman of the French war ministry that slow materials by British, French Dutch and Belgian troops could not be considered a retreat because that action merely was the following out of a pre-arranged plan of strategy.

Communications of the Belgian high command did not give the outcome of yesterday's engagements, but said that constant German pressure along the entire Belgian frontier had been met with "stiff resistance." Belgian troops were said to be holding their positions "everywhere."

California Will Have Replica Of English Church

London, May 14—(INS)—A replica of the picturesque parish church of St. Margaret, Rottingdean, Sussex, Eng., is to be built on the coast of California, according to information received here today by the Rev. W. O. White, vicar of Rottingdean.

The site of the proposed church is on Mount Forest, overlooking San Francisco valley and the Sierra Nevada mountains.

St. Margaret's Rottingdean, is where Earl and Countess Baldwin were married, and the church has associations with many other English celebrities.

"The desire is to copy St. Margaret's church, as being representative of the charm and spirit of southern England."

Examples of the works of the late Sir Edward Burne-Jones, the well-known English artist who lived in the parish for many years, are contained in the church.

Anson Boyd, chief architect of the Forest Lawn Memorial Park association, Glendale, California, in a letter to the vicar of Rottingdean, stated that he intended to start building the replica church this year.

The church officers at Rottingdean have readily agreed to cooperate with Boyd in his plans.

London Amused At Subtlety Of Some Propaganda In U. S.

London, May 14—(INS)—The subtlety of foreign propaganda in America was strikingly and amusingly revealed when Lord Stamp, eminent British economist, recently received a gift of a parcel of food from a friend in Philadelphia.

The gift was sent to Lord Stamp in all good will to enable him to have a little luxury in these days of rationing in Britain.

Contained in the parcel were: Three tins of Portuguese sardines, A small box of Gruyere cheese, A tin of honey, and A little pot of peanut butter.

Lord Stamp was deeply touched by his friend's kindness, but has since "enlightened him as to the true facts that Britain has ample supplies of food and that no one goes short."

His lordship had a photograph taken showing the shops of London packed with this class of goods and has sent it to his friend in Philadelphia, so that he may prove to Americans that Britain is not in the parlous state as foreign propaganda would have them believe.
