CAR UPSETS: BERTHA ROY DIES

RAYMOND MOLEY IS OPPOSED TO COURT CHANGES

Would Abandon the 'American Method' of Procedure.

"WAY TO DEATH"

Washington, March 23.—Raymond Moley, one of President Roosevelt's closest advisors, opposed the chief executive's court bill today on the ground it would "abandon" the "American method" of seeking social and economic changes.

"That method, the American method," Moley told the senate judiciary committee, "is to tell the public in an orderly fashion precisely what is necessary in the way of economic and social change, to seek to convince the people of its wisdom, and then to ask approval of the change."

"The ends which Mr. Roosevelt has so courageously made his own can be achieved within the grand mores of the American constitutional tradition. But to seek to achieve them through the destruction of the American tradition is to open the way to the death of the ideals that gave them birth."

Original "Brain-trust" Moley, a member of the original "brain-trust" which advised President Roosevelt during his first campaign for the presidency and during the early days of the New Deal, was the third witness to appear before the committee in opposition to the court bill.

Now editor of the magazine News Week, he appeared as a supporter of the Roosevelt objectives and as a frank critic of the supreme court. But he insisted that the proper and best way to "change" the objectives was through constitutional amendment.

He contended it was "not within the spirit of the constitution" to provide for a court "that will lift the cloud of doubt from a number of New Deal measures now in process of preliminary adjudication and to provide in advance for favorable action by the supreme court upon a number of measures not yet formulated."

"No one has been more outspoken than I have been," Moley said, "in criticizing the court for its arbitrary refusal to find a way to modify the law and to preserve its continuity and unity so far as possible in a period of striking, almost unparalleled social and economic change."

No Solution of Crisis Moley, appearing as foe of the president's plan revealed belief that at least seven supreme court members.

Passover To Be Observed By Hebrews

The Passover, principal Jewish festival will be observed this year at virtually the same time that Easter is celebrated by Christians.

This Hebrew festival commemorates the deliverance of the Israelites from Egypt when God smiting the first born child of all Egyptian families passed over the houses of the Hebrews and spared all who marked their doors with the blood of the paschal lamb as commanded by the prophet Moses.

Rabbi Joseph Mirovitz announced today that the Passover services will begin at sundown Friday evening. Special services will be held from 6:30 to 8:30 a. m. Saturday morning at 7 o'clock that evening, and on Sunday morning from 7 to 9 a. m.

For eight days the Jews eat matzo, or unleavened bread in deference to the presidential escape of their ancestors.

ALONZO H. BURT, FLORIST HERE, 89 WEDNESDAY

Has Raised Flowers in Kankakee for 60 Years.

TAUGHT SCHOOL

Alonzo Henry Burt, pioneer florist in Kankakee, will observe his 89th birthday quietly at his home, 725 South Wall street, on Wednesday.

The thing he will miss most, Mr. Burt told a Republican-News reporter, is the annual birthday cake which the late Governor Len Small always sent him on this occasion.

For 60 years, Mr. Burt has experienced the joy and contentment that is a man's when he does the things he likes most of all. He has pursued his study of flowers as a hobby and their culture for commercial purposes through three generations.

Planted life fascinated him even before he decided upon teaching as a profession. He was born in Medina, Mich., on March 24, 1848, was graduated from Adrian college in 1875 and taught school in Michigan and in the vicinity of Union Hill for about three years before quitting the schoolroom for his first love.

Young Alonzo previously had started his own greenhouse and slept in it but boarded with a neighboring farmer. His early efforts were divided between greenhouse plants and truck gardening. His products were hauled to Wilmington and Braidwood in a lumber wagon and sold on the streets or to merchants.

600 Miles in Rowboat Before settling down, he and one of his young acquaintances took a 600-mile rowboat trip down the Ohio river from Cincinnati to Hickman, Ky., camping out enroute for six weeks. They negotiated the difficult rapids at Louisville without a guide for the first time in the memory of the river dwellers. At Hickman, Alonzo worked in a coffin factory and during a flood threat hauled coffin lumber to reinforce the dikes.

He worked on a farm near Union Hill for a while but never dropped his interest in flowers. In 1882 he and his brother Edward moved to Kankakee and bought a four-acre cornfield and potato patch along the river from Rutledge Enos. Started Greenhouse.

The Burt brothers started their greenhouse and built a home on the spot where Mr. Burt lives today. After a few years Edward moved to

Norwegian Steamer Sinking; Aid Near

Boston, March 23.—(AP)—Coast guard headquarters announced today that the cutter Chelan reported it had sighted the Norwegian steamer Bjerkli, in distress 250 miles south of Sable Island.

The report did not indicate if the Bjerkli were in any immediate danger.

Coast guard headquarters said the Chelan was the first to sight the vessel which wireless last night that it was shipping water.

Although the steamer Hamburg reported it had sighted the ship at 7:40 a. m., the coast guard said the Hamburg later discovered it had sighted another ship.

The Bjerkli's position was given as 570 southeast of Boston and 500 miles east of the Nantucket lightship.

Boston, March 23.—(AP)—Sea and land fire fighting apparatus dashed to the East Boston docks today as an electric crane operating in a drydock between the United Fruit company boats San Gil and San Bruno burst into flames, threatening both vessels.

The San Gil caught fire soon after the first burst of flame. Firemen, enveloped in a dense cloud of black smoke, poured water not only on the vessel but on the San Bruno as well, in an effort to keep the sparks from spreading.

One fire chief reported soon after the outbreak that a spread of the flames would threaten a huge floating drydock. He asserted they were prepared to submerge it if necessary to save it from the flames.

The fire threw out so thick a column of smoke that firemen at times were working in virtual darkness.

The San Gil and San Bruno were sister ships employed by United Fruit in regular runs to South and Central America. Both were 325 feet long with displacements of 3,628 tons.

Jail Driver Who Struck 3 Other Cars

Orman Matheson, 466 South Dearborn avenue, driver of a car which was involved in a crash with three others Saturday evening at Dearborn and Merchant streets, was placed under arrest last evening when the owners of the various vehicles involved appeared at the police station to arrange a settlement for the damages.

A warrant charging him with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor and reckless driving was issued out of Police Magistrate Edward Hoenicke's court and signed by Paul Stoner of Aroma Park and John Stockton of Watseka, two of the drivers. Stoner's auto was tipped over and the side of Stockton's was stayed in. Both were hit by Matheson's car.

Through his attorney, Edward Drolet, Matheson asked for and was granted a change of venue to Justice Fred R. Smith's court where a hearing is to be arranged.

Hattensburg and Maitland Clubs Are Flourishing

Such clubs have been formed in almost every precinct of the township and the membership cards are coming in from all those districts. In the meantime the city and township candidates, making a house to house canvass, report they are being well received all over the territory and that they are receiving assurances of support from the great majority of the public.

The property was owned by Judge C. W. Raymond of this city and was located on the cemetery road northeast of Watseka. It was tenanted by Mr. and Mrs. John James, who moved here from Loda three days ago.

All of the James furniture was saved except from one bedroom. The origin of the fire is unknown but the flames burned for eight hours. The Watseka volunteer fire department, which answered the alarm, was helpless for lack of water.

Donald Gray, Young Lawyer, Is Seeking Supervisor's Post

The William H. Maitland roster of candidates for Kankakee township offices, to be elected April 6, is especially deserving of public support irrespective of party lines because of the splendid character, general ability and popularity of each of the candidates.

All of them, from the top of the ticket to the bottom, are young, highly respected, progressive and well known throughout the community. They are making an active but friendly campaign, in keeping with their personalities and modern viewpoint, and if elected will give the township and county efficient, businesslike and friendly service.

Candidates Attend Rally in Township

Organization of a "Maitland for Supervisor" club in the first precinct of Kankakee township, which is West Kankakee, was completed in a meeting of voters of that precinct yesterday afternoon at the home of former Governor Len Small.

The meeting was arranged by Budd L. Small, Republican committeeman of the precinct, and Mrs. Fannie Still, the committeewoman. It was addressed by William H. Maitland, candidate for supervisor, and Attorney Donald Gray, one of two candidates for assistant supervisors.

Daniel Bergan, the other candidate, for assistant supervisor; Victor Boudreau, for assessor, and Yvon "Pat" Dandurand, for town clerk, were introduced and spoke briefly, also Joseph Tolson Sr. and Armand LeBeau, candidates for the park board.

Mr. Tolson, former circuit clerk, said that if he and Mr. LeBeau are elected the taxpayers of the park district may feel sure that they are carefully and honestly handled in a dignified manner. "The people will not have to apologize for us," he said, "or we to the people."

Mr. Tolson's widespread reputation for honesty and sincerity was called to the attention of the voters by Mr. Small.

The club in West Kankakee is similar to clubs being formed in other precincts of the township which have the purpose of electing Mr. Maitland and his ticket in the April 6 election. The clubs are being formed on a competitive basis, with prizes to be awarded the clubs which give the most assistance to the ticket.

GOVERNOR AIN'T GONNA QUIT SAYING "AINT"

Santa Fe, March 23.—(AP)—Governor Clyde Tingley "ain't gonna quit saying aint."

Just to convince himself, the governor said, he had some "brain trusters" check up on the word's origin.

"They traced it back to the revolutionary war, and if that ain't good enough, what is? It sure is handy, anyway, ain't it," he asked.

Body of Man Who Disappeared From Liner Is Washed Ashore

London, March 23.—(AP)—Dr. Percy Vosper definitely identified today the nude body of a man washed up from the English channel near Beach Head as that of Frank Vosper, his actor son who had been mysteriously missing since he disappeared from a gay champagne party at sea March 6.

Vosper disappeared from the cabin of Miss Muriel Oxford, British beauty queen, where a farewell party was being given aboard the liner Paris as it neared Plymouth after a transatlantic crossing from New York.

The body of the man, who was believed to have plunged to his death when he stepped through a window he thought led to a deck, was found Sunday on the south coast headland projecting out into the channel.

Authorities attributed the body's nude condition to long immersion.

HOOSIER MAYOR IS IMPEACHED; BACK TO CELL

Huntington Council Removes Executive from Office.

UTILITY FIGHT

Huntington, Ind., March 23.—(UP)—Clare W. H. Bangs, militant leader of utilities today sought a means of rescinding his impeachment as mayor.

Bangs said he will appeal the Huntington council's decision to rescind the charges on which the city council removed him from office.

The council removed Bangs from his job last night, after a hearing on charges that he had been guilty of 14 of 19 counts, including the impeachment of the city council.

Bangs returned to the cell which he had occupied during most of his militant fight against the northern Indiana utilities.

Defied injunction. Room after Bangs took office in Huntington, Ind., he organized a municipal utility. The power company obtained an injunction against him, which he defied.

The injunction, which was issued by the state court, was defied by Bangs.

Twelve hours before Bangs was to be heard on his petition for release, the council impeached him.

Bangs was called to the hearing. He refused to appear.

The council then ordered the utility disbanded, and then sought release from jail.

Councilmen. Clyde L. Souza, Thomas P. Amann, Jr., Elmer C. Case, Clyde L. Miller, and Charles E. Ade voted for Bangs' removal.

Only councilman Perry W. Brown and John Finkerton stood by him.

When the finding was announced, Bangs leaped to his feet, angrily accused the council of "selling out" the people.

Principal count in the impeachment charge was the 19th, it charged the mayor "persistently refused the laws of the state and defied its civil court."

OTHER SCHOOLS IN OIL FIELDS ARE INSPECTED

Spurred By Tragedy at New London a Few Days Ago. URGE NEW LAWS

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT
New London, Tex., March 23—(AP)—Rigid inspection of every rural school in the vast east Texas oil field area was the expected aftermath today of the disastrous London school explosion—caused, experts agreed, by accumulated gas.

School doors were shut as safety experts began a search for possible similar conditions that killed 455 here.

Extreme caution pervaded the area, especially after Gordon C. Hawley, chief engineer of the state's fire insurance department, told a military court of inquiry yesterday he had located in the vicinity another school endangered by escaping gas.

Other Schools Endangered
"A test a few hours ago," Hawley told the investigators, "at the Carlisle school near here showed gas escaping underneath the place at the rate of 720 cubic feet a day, all of which makes this occasion all the more ominous."

Engineer W. A. Newsom of the state fire insurance department aided in discovering the Carlisle leak. "If a superficial inspection gives results like that," he said, "what will a general inspection give? This is just an average school."

Dr. E. P. Schoch, Texas university chemist and authority on explosions, said all signs pointed to an accumulation of gas under the basement floor as the cause of the London tragedy, worst of its kind in the nation.

Other witnesses testified school officials switched from use of a commercial gas to a free supply, obtained by piping into the rescue line of an oil company last January.

Report Withheld
The military board did not make public an opinion on its findings and will not do so unless specifically requested by Governor James V. Allred.

Hawley said "This tragedy would not have happened if certain regulatory measures had been taken." He urged legislation that would include a state electric law, a state boiler safety code, a state exit code and other general safety measures.

Martial law was lifted as Dr. Schoch concluded his lengthy opinion and the court adjourned.

Two possible theories for ignition of the gas advanced by Dr. Schoch included the "throwing" of a light switch and, possible sparks from electrical equipment. Definite origin of the explosion was not given, but the professor pointed out "it could have been on any one of the 72 radiators."

Oilworkers Back on Job
Today this busy oil field community returned to its labor, drilling through the red clay crust of earth for more oil and gas. The inquiry was adjourned, martial law revoked, militiamen disbanded, and the dead, which numbered one-third of the children of the community, were buried in the same earth at which their fathers pined.

Superintendent of Schools, W. C. Shaw, a 61-year-old man borne down with grief over the loss of his own son, Clifford, in the disaster, collapsed on the witness stand yesterday as the military board gathered its final evidence.

He said the school had been paying $250 to $350 a month for fuel from the United Gas company. When he decided to tap the "wet" gas line, as many others in the community were doing, United Gas company representatives warned that it was dangerous but the superintendent thought they were merely trying to sell their own gas, he said.

The Parade company's line contained gas on its way back to the wells after commercial properties had been extracted at the refinery. It was worthless and not for sale.

"Earl Clover, superintendent of the Parade company, told me our connection would be all right with him personally, but the company could enter into no agreements since it was not a utility," Shaw said.

Even Churches GUILTY
There are laws in Texas against pipe line tapping, but E. W. Regan, president of the New London school board, said even the churches, including the Baptist and the Methodist churches in London were doing it.

Dr. Schoch vouched his verdict in gentle terms:
"We all feel that the trustees of this school acted with the best intentions. They were not aware of what proper installation of gas equipment was, and did not know the danger."

The New London school was known as the richest rural school in the world. It was a $1,000,000 institution, with seven producing oil and gas wells on its campus, but the school board believed it would be to its credit to cut the operating costs.

No Classes for 10 Days
Survivors among the New London children, many of whom are in bandages suffering from minor wounds, will have no classes for at least ten days. The main building

SAFEGUARDING LIVES OBJECT OF A NEW BILL

Measure Introduced in the Illinois Legislature.

ODORANT LIQUID

By DON E. CHAMBERLAIN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Springfield, Ill., March 23—(UP)—Legislation safeguarding lives and property in Illinois against recurrence of a gas explosion such as the New London, Tex., school disaster which took 476 lives is the object of a measure before the house of the general assembly today.

The bill was introduced by Rep. Edward G. Hayne (D) Ottawa during last night's session.

Preventive Measures
Preventive measures provided for in the Hayne bill would be through use of odor-producing liquids in conjunction with the supplying of natural gas into certain buildings.

The proposal provides that no firm or corporation shall furnish or supply natural gas to any school or public building unless an odorant liquid is injected into the mains.

By this method, Hayne said, it would be possible to detect a leaking gas main almost instantly.

"There is no such law in Illinois and we certainly want to take all precautions against a repetition of the Texas disaster," Hayne said. "If such a law had been on the statute books of Texas the explosion would have been averted."

Swift Detection
If odorant liquids were injected into gas mains before gas enters school buildings or other buildings, Hayne claims it would make for easy and swift detection of a gas leakage.

"Carelessness probably caused the New London tragedy," Hayne said, for the discovery and return of the pin.

and I'd certainly hate to see anything of that sort happen in Illinois.

This disaster has forcefully brought out possibilities of such a disaster in Illinois schools, or any school in the country for that matter.

Under terms of the proposed legislation, violation would make conviction punishable by not less than a fine of $100 nor more than $500 or both. Each day of leakage would constitute a separate offense. The measure was sent to the committee on industrial affairs.

People must be awakened to possibilities of recurrence of such a disaster as the New London one, Hayne said.
