COUNCIL ASKS NEW VIADUCT

DUKE REUNITED WITH WALLY AT FRENCH CASTLE

American Woman for Whom He Gave Up His Throne.

HAPPY MEETING

Monts, France, May 4—(UP)—The Duke of Windsor, once King Edward VIII, ruler of the world's greatest empire, was reunited at Candé castle today with Mrs. Wallis Simpson, for whom he gave up his throne.

The duke, speeding at times at 70 miles an hour over the French landscape, redolent with the odors of spring, passed through the guarded gates of the castle and the iron gates clanged shut, isolating the lovers from the outside world.

Twelve English detectives and French secret service police guarded the locked gates.

Impatient Lover

The duke came here with the speed of an impatient lover from his retreat at St. Wolfgang, Austria, as soon as Mrs. Simpson joyously informed him by telephone yesterday that her final decree of divorce had been granted in London, leaving her free to marry him.

He went by train to Verneuil L'Etang, 31 miles outside Paris, where his black limousine awaited him. Escort by motorcycle policemen and three cars filled with French detectives, the car sped for Monts.

DUKE

The duke brought gifts and flowers. One box filled with Alpine flowers which he picked himself in Austria. Another held an embroidered Alpine costume. In his pocket was the platinum wedding ring which he had made in Paris.

The reunion took place in the dim-lit, library of the old chateau. Behind its oak doors and stained glass windows, the lovers were alone for a brief few moments before they rejoined their hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bedaux.

Dressed in Light Blue

When the duke's car arrived at the chateau, preceded, by a motorcycle escort, it was met on the terrace by Bedaux and Herman L. Rogers, who was Mrs. Simpson's host at Cannes. A liveried footman and two butlers stood by.

Mrs. Simpson, Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Bedaux waited inside.

Mrs. Simpson wore a light blue tunic and a black shirt. Mrs. Rogers was in dark blue and Mrs. Bedaux in black.

After the exchange of greeting, Mrs. Simpson and the duke entered the library. Under its windows, at the entrance to the estate, hundreds of reporters and people from the countryside were massed.

WALLY

Presently the entire party gathered at luncheon, while chairs and a table were set for them on the terrace, where they rested afterwards.

Usually a late riser, Mrs. Simpson was up at 8 a. m. Immediately after a hurried breakfast she went through the principal rooms of the chateau, and the four-room suite made ready for the duke, decorating them with flowers from the beautiful chateau gardens.

Awaited Arrival

The news that the duke had left his train and was on his way was telephoned to the chateau from Paris, and Herman L. Rogers, spokesman for Mrs. Rogers—he and his wife were her hosts during her Dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock and afterwards Dr. Harriet Edgeworth will be the speaker.

Judge Hunter Condemns Sit-Down Strikers

Baby Laughs While Train Bears Down

Funeral services for Harold Lee Sherer, 3-year-old St. Anne boy who was killed Sunday afternoon when struck by a fast Chicago and Eastern Illinois railway passenger train, were conducted at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Houk funeral chapel in St. Anne. Burial was in Mound Grove cemetery of Kankakee.

The inquest into the boy's death was conducted by Coroner A. E. Kerger at the Houk establishment yesterday, testimony being given to the effect that the child, while crossing the railway near his home, sat down between the rails and laughed at the train thundering down upon him.

Witnesses were Don H. Miller, eye witness of the accident who sought to rescue the child; Mrs. Blanche Sherer, the boy's mother; George Fox of Momence, conductor of the train; F. M. Burge of Villa Grove, engineer; and Mrs. Rosie Barton of St. Anne, another eye witness of the accident who fainted as she saw it.

Evidence was given that the train, a St. Louis to Chicago limited called the "Zipper," was traveling 65 miles an hour when it struck the child, who was thrown 150 feet into a water-filled ditch along the tracks.

Besides his mother, the child is survived by his father George Sherer of Bradley and several brothers and sisters.

NAMES RHODES AS FIRE CHIEF FOR WATSEKA

Mayor Blake Gives Appointments for Year.

Watseka, May 4—(RN Special)—The appointment of LaVerne Rhodes as fire chief of Watseka was announced last night by Mayor Frank E. Blake at the first meeting of the new council.

Rhodes will succeed Joe Pickens who formerly held both the jobs of fire chief and custodian of the city hall. He will retain the latter post.

The aldermen cut cards to determine which one of the two in each ward would serve two and which four years. Those who drew high cards and long terms were: B. C. Canavan, First ward; R. L. Creps, Second, and Henry Goetz Jr., Third.

Draw Short Terms

Those who will serve two years are Dr. W. F. Buckner, First; A. E. Horner, Second, and Arthur Burdick, Third.

The council heard and referred to various committees, several requests of W. H. Craft, secretary of the Community club. The aldermen will meet as a committee of the whole to consider the advisability of widening Oak street eight feet instead of four feet.

The park committee will determine whether the city can make a small appropriation for the upkeep of city parks. Mayor Blake was authorized to proclaim clean-up

WOULD REFUSE CITIZENSHIP TO ITS ADVOCATES

Asks Prospective Citizens Their Attitude.

IN COURT HERE

Applicants for United States citizenship who were examined yesterday afternoon by Circuit Judge W. R. Hunter were asked this question—"Do you believe in sit-down strikes?"

All of the applicants answered in the negative. If any had answered "yes," the judge said, he would have denied them citizenship. Afterward, in a 10-minute address to those admitted to citizenship, Judge Hunter said:

"We've had a lot of trouble in this country the last year and a half from what are called sit-down strikes. They are a form of anarchy, violations of the law and should be punished.

"No man has the right to go into your house, keep you out and do as he pleases. You have no right to do that with another man's property."

Two are Rejected

Four persons were admitted to citizenship and two were rejected. Those who were admitted, their addresses, former national allegiance and their sponsors are:

Ferdinand Gerd to Berens, 854 South Osborn avenue, formerly of Germany; Walter Lutes and Fred Wagner, both of Kankakee.

Tage Mortensen, Grant Park, formerly of Denmark; John Kraft and August Heusing, both of Kankakee.

Stanley Stolarski, 668 North Dearborn avenue, formerly of Poland, the Rev. Stanley J. Koralewski of Kankakee and C. R. Reed of Bradley.

August Schumacher, 121 South Third avenue, formerly of Germany; County Judge John H. Beck-

Mrs. Mary Dolan, 79, Here 77 Years, Dies

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Dolan, 504 South Dearborn avenue, who would have been 79 years of age tomorrow, died at 8 o'clock last night at her home following two years of illness with heart disease.

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 o'clock Friday morning at St. Patrick church.

She is survived by children Dr. J. Edward Dolan of Perry Point, Md., Mrs. H. R. Lower of Kankakee, Mrs. P. S. Howard of Downers Grove and Dr. A. N. J. Dolan of Excelsior Springs, Mo., also nine grandchildren.

Her husband James, former well known Kankakee insurance broker, died in February of 1923.

As Mary Elizabeth Galvin, daughter of John and Anna Catherine Green Galvin, she was born in Clifton on May 5, 1858 and had lived in Kankakee since the age of two years.

She was a member of the Woman's Catholic Order of Foresters.

Friends may call tonight and until noon tomorrow at Morgan and Clancy funeral home and after that time at the residence.

Kankakee's Business Gains In Excess of Entire Nation

Washington, May 4—(RN Special)—Sales of the average merchant in Kankakee increased 19 per cent in 1935, the department of commerce announced today.

The 19 per cent gain was figured on the basis of information obtained from 199 typical business establishments. It shows what happened to the business of the average retail merchant in Kankakee in 1935, but does not indicate the total retail gain during that year, since this special study did not include new businesses which were established during that year.

Because of the tremendous job of gathering figures from cities throughout the nation, the census bureau always is a year late in reporting on such things, so that the gains made in Kankakee during 1936 will be reported next year, provided another census is taken again this year.

All Types Increase

All types of business in the city shared in the increase, according to the analysis of the gain made by the census bureau.

Forty-one food stores reported a total increase from $1,307,000 to $1,407,000; 45 eating and drinking places, from $335,000 to $362,000. Other increases were shown as follows:

Apparel group, 18 firms, from $501,000 to $527,000; automotive group, from $1,015,000 to $1,605,000; 19 filling stations, from $317,000 to $330,000; seven furniture and radio stores, from $228,000 to $308,000; ten lumber and hardware stores, $337,000 to $423,000.

The Kankakee gain was considerably in excess of the increase for the state and in the nation as a whole, the figure in each case being 11 per cent, as against 19 per cent for Kankakee.

GUILD HEADS DISCUSS STRIKE

Pending the outcome of a conference between producers and striking union employes in Hollywood movie studios, the Screen Actors' Guild announced it would postpone discussion of a strike. Eleven striking unions of the Federated Motion Pictures craft placed a line of 1,000 pickets around major studios. Robert Monigomery (right), president of the actors' guild, and James Cagney, one of the directors, are shown here entering a mass meeting of the actors.

Fate of Denhardt May Rest With the Jury Before Night

By MARTIN KANE

New Castle, Ky., May 4—(UP)—Tears streamed down the haggard cheeks of Brigadier General Henry H. Denhardt today as his trial for the murder of his pretty fiancee, Mrs. Vera Garr Taylor, approached its close.

The bald 61-year-old veteran of political and martial warfare wept openly as his chief counsel, John Marshall Berry, began the defendant's closing argument to a jury of sun-burned farmers. If convicted Denhardt may face the death penalty.

Berry noticed the tears which Denhardt made no attempt to conceal, and said:

"I don't blame any one who knew Mrs. Taylor for displaying his emotion [illegible]."

The jurors sat impassive. Denhardt finally regained his control and his expression hardened into grimness.

Suggests Suicide

A few minutes later, however, though there seemed no occasion for what Berry was saying, Denhardt again burst into tears, his chin cupped in his large hands as he rested an elbow on the counsel table.

"All the prosecution has been able to prove," Berry said, "is that General Denhardt took a live woman out and a dead woman came back and that the general's gun was found near her body."

Berry showed the jury how he

Kiwanis Club Has Preview Of Operetta

Snatches from the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta "Pirates of Penzance" which will be given in the Kankakee high school auditorium Saturday afternoon and Monday evening were presented before yesterday's meeting of Kiwanians at McBroom's cafe.

Five members of the cast, which is composed of members of the glee clubs of St. Viator college of Bourbonnais and St. Francis college of Joliet, gave chorus, vocal solos and instrumental numbers before the Kiwanians who applauded vogorously and expressed individual commendation to the youthful players.

The Rev. M. Loughran, music director of St. Viator college, who presented the cast members to the clubmen, said that the operetta was given Saturday and Sunday afternoons in Joliet and was very well received.

Those who performed yesterday before the Kiwanians were: Francis Prew of Kankakee, who plays the part of the "Pirate King," William Sagstetter of Decatur who plays the "Pirate Lieutenant," James Brodie of Chicago, the "Major General" Charles Gilbert of Chicago, violinist, and Richard Powers, pianist. William Quirk of Chicago was also present to play piano accompaniment for two violin solos by Gilbert.

Father Loughran said the cast consists of 50 persons and that there will be an accompanying orchestra of 30 players.

The players were presented to the Kiwanians by Ralph Farmer, program chairman, and the club's thanks was expressed by W. A. Schneider.

Albino Robin is Back at Watseka

Watseka, May 4—(RN Special)—An albino robin, the pet of William Fidler of East Mulberry street, Watseka, returned to its favorite summer home in an oak tree in his backyard yesterday for the third consecutive year.

The white-feathered bird, one of few ever seen in this vicinity, was believed killed or lost this spring when it failed to return at the usual time from the south. The robin bathes every day in Fidler's bird bath and always builds its nest in the same tree.

CITY TAVERNS TO CLOSE ONE HOUR EARLIER

Liquor Ordinance is Amended by Council.

2 A. M. SUNDAYS

Three amendments to the city liquor code were adopted at the first session of the newly installed city council presided over by Mayor Albert F. Hattenburg on Monday evening.

The changes move the weekday closing time up one hour earlier and extend the Saturday night limit one hour longer, besides making provision for transfer of licenses when an owner sells his business.

All amendments, unanimously approved by the board of aldermen, go into effect immediately. They were made at the suggestion of the majority of the tavern owners, according to Mayor Hattenburg.

Half Day Sunday

Taverns hereafter will be required to close at midnight except on Saturday evening when they may operate as late as 2 a. m. if they desire. No liquor is to be sold between the hours of 2 a. m. and 1 p. m. on Sunday.

If the original owner of a license decides to sell his tavern business, he will be privileged to sell his license to the buyer who must pay a sum equal to that part of the year remaining. This is to eliminate confusion resulting when the license is issued in the name of a man who may not be connected with the business for the entire year.

To date, 60 applications have been received in the office of City Clerk Ralph Farmer for permits to sell liquor during the ensuing year. The present limit, fixed by city ordinance, is 65. Those who have been issued temporary licenses, subject to final approval of the liquor licensing committee are as follows:

Grant 60 Licenses

Howard Baron, 485 North Indiana avenue; Harold Mohler, 254 East Merchant street; John Buffo, 192 South East avenue; Daisy Palmer and Joe Genard, 297 West Court street; Walgreen company, 236 East Court street; Edward Kulpinski, 592 North Schuyler avenue; Lydia Langlois, 246 West Court street; Sam Ciaccio, 496 East Birch street; Rene Suprenant and William Kruger, 774 South Main street.

River Victim is Buried on Monday

Burial of John Doe, the name given the unidentified body recovered from the Kankakee river west of Bourbonnais on Sunday morning, took place yesterday afternoon in Memorial Park.

Coroner A. E. Kerger, who will conduct an inquest later in the week, swore in the jury yesterday so that burial might take place immediately. The condition of the body, which had been submerged for some time, did not permit keeping it any longer.

Congressman Meeks Wants His Office Air-Conditioned

Washington, May 4—(RN Special)—With all signs pointing to a long summer session, Congressman James A. Meeks of the 18th Illinois district today faced the doleful prospect that the longplanned air-conditioning will reach his office sometime around Sept. 1.

The air-conditioning has been in prospect for some years but delay followed delay so that Congressman Meeks will have only the electric fans to combat the frightful summer heat of Washington in his luxurious office suite on the fifth floor of the new House office building.

Meeks will fare somewhat better when actually attending sessions of congress, as the house and senate meeting chambers have had air-conditioning equipment for some years. The present project calls for so equipping the office buildings and the remainder of the capitol at a cost of four million dollars.

Insufficient funds to complete the project caused the delay which made it impossible for the cooled air to get to Meeks before time to turn on the heat. Congress passed a supplemental appropriation at the beginning of this session, but the money came too late to be of much help for this summer.

Washington is one of the hottest spots in the United States in summer and the heat is rendered much more uncomfortable by the intense stickiness and humidity. In the past a few good hot days usually could be counted upon to end even the knottiest of sessions, important bills being jammed through in record time as soon as the sun commenced to pour down on the sweltering office buildings.

But this time most legislators, after looking over the Roosevelt legislative program, have sighed with resignation and set about to endure the heat with the least possible suffering—getting what solace they can out of the thought that they will eventually get air-cooling—in September.

Set May 15 For Election Grant Park

Preparations for a special school election in a wide area of territory surrounding Grant Park are being made by County Superintendent of Schools Clarence J. Kennedy.

The election will be the result of a petition filed several weeks ago by 56 legal voters of that area who asked that the special balloting be had to determine whether or not a new community high school district will be established in the territory.

Since the territory would include the present Grant Park high school district, the assumption is that this high school plant would serve the new district if established.

County Superintendent Kennedy tentatively set May 15 as the date of the election. Today, however, he was considering postponing the date because the many details of arranging the election take a great deal of time.

The territory included in the petition consists of 24 sections of land in Sumner township, 36 sections in Yellowhead township and parts of 11 sections in Yellowhead township. It does not include any of the land involved in similar petitions filed some time ago in behalf of Bradley, St. George and Momence high schools.

NOW EXPECTANT FATHERS HAVE THEIR OWN ROOM

St. Mary Hospital Provides New Feature.

National Hospital day will be observed by St. Mary hospital on Wednesday, May 12, with open house from 2 to 5 p. m.

The public is particularly invited to inspect the facilities of the hospital at this time. During the past year, the fourth floor has been opened up as a maternity ward, several new pieces of equipment have been purchased and the entire interior has been redecorated.

Moved from the third floor to more spacious quarters on the fourth floor, the maternity ward now includes even a room for expectant fathers. It is fitted with modernistic furniture and a bed—just in case. Nervous fathers are permitted to smoke in this room.

Big Improvement

Hospital authorities believe the arrangement of this ward is far superior to anything they have ever had before. The beds for 19 mothers are away from the delivery rooms and the nursery so that patients will not be disturbed.

An isolated nursery is provided as well as electrically heated bath table and tents to raise the temperature around the newborn to that of incubator heat, or 88 to 100 degrees.

Doctors have their own private waiting room on this floor, too, and the obstetrics room is fitted with every modern development of sci-

CITY ATTORNEY IS INSTRUCTED TO TAKE ACTION

Illinois Commerce Commission to Hear Plea.

NEW APPOINTEES

The municipal government of Kankakee officially took cognizance of the deplorable and hazardous condition of the Court street viaduct over the Illinois Central railroad Monday evening by adopting a resolution directing City Attorney Victor N. Cardosi to present a petition in person to the Illinois Commerce commission.

Upon motion of Alderman David W. Wood, Fourth ward, the petition will cite the Illinois Central railroad to show cause why a new viaduct should not be constructed. It will be presented to the commission at that body's earliest convenience.

The original plans of the railroad, after the north section of the trestle dropped a distance of a foot and it was ordered closed by the railroad's own engineers, called for repairs only to the underneath structural supports.

26 Years Old

Local groups believe that this traffic bottleneck, long outmoded after 26 years of service, should be replaced with a new one. The iron girders which jut up into the center of the viaduct have been responsible for several night automobile crashes when drivers failed to see them.

The council heard and approved the annual report of the library board; referred the request of Mrs. Christine Nemitz, 363 West Station street and Mrs. Richard Mueller, 355 West Station street, for a 40-foot no-parking space in front of their residences, to the traffic committee with power to act; accepted the bond of Ralph Stone, merchant policeman in the amount of $500; designated the First Trust and Savings bank as depository for the funds of City Treasurer Walter L. Ehrich; and approved the council committees and mayoral appointments to fill vacancies.

Building Inspector

William H. Spraker of 603 South Myrtle avenue, was appointed building inspector to fill the post formerly held by Treasurer Ehrich. Other vacancies were filled as follows:

W. R. Hickox, appointed for a five-year term on the zoning commission.

William A. Yates, appointed to membership on the police and fire

Arrested for Not Paying Damages

Newell Campbell, former resident of Kankakee and Rock Creek, was arrested early today by Officer John Powell on a state warrant charging him with driving an automobile while intoxicated on Sept. 6, 1936, when his car and that of Dane Kelly, 3018 Pearl street, Franklin Park, were involved in a collision here.

At the time of the accident, Kelly decided to drop the charges when Campbell agreed to settle with him for damages amounting to $85. Since then, it is said, Kelly has been unable to collect and has decided to press charges.

Campbell was scheduled to have a preliminary hearing before Police Magistrate Edward Hoennicke and be bound over to the county court today.

Here's Schedule for Collecting Waste in Alleys

Regular weekly collection of vegetable refuse in the residential district by the R. C. Hall firm has been resumed. Residents are requested to separate ashes and trash from the garbage and keep the latter in covered containers.

In order that they may know when to expect the collectors, the weekly schedule is given:

Mondays and Thursdays—Southside, west of the I. C. tracks, White City, Mertens subdivision and Brookmont.

Tuesdays and Fridays—eight main alleys in the center of the city from East avenue to Wildwood and also in Riverview.

Wednesdays and Saturdays—All north and south alleys from Evergreen avenue east to the city limits and the Big Four district. Also all east and west alleys.

EVACUATION OF CITIZENS FROM BILBAO STARTS

Any Attempt to Molest Ships Met with Force.

WARSHIPS NEAR

By HARRISON LAROCHE
United Press Staff Correspondent

Hendaye, French-Spanish frontier, May 4.—(UP)—British and French men of war steamed off the basque coast today awaiting the start of a mass evacuation of refugees from war torn Bilbao.

Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish Nationalists dictator, had refused safe conduct for refugee ships crowded in Bilbao harbor and had protested angrily that the evacuation was an intervention in the Loyalists' behalf.

German and Italian submarines were reported lying in harbor to the east of Bilbao.

In this tense atmosphere, with orders to repel by force any attempt to molest the refugee ships outside the three-mile limit of Spanish territorial waters, the British and French warships were ready to protect the women and children to be removed from the city.

The 10,000-ton Spanish liner Habana, interned during the civil war in the Nervion river, was ready to sail from Bilbao with 3,800 refugees, of whom 800 were children.

Spanish news agency reports said two submarines had arrived at Pasajas, on the northwestern tip of Spain, near San Sebastian, and within a few miles of the route to be taken by the refugee ships, one was identified as the German "U23." The other was said to be Italian.

Evacuation To Proceed

Despite Franco's peremptory rejection of the British scheme for evacuation of Bilbao's non-combatants, the British government ordered the evacuation to proceed as speedily as possible.

French authorities said that they expected that 7,000 of Bilbao's 300,000 homeless, terror-stricken war refugees would be in France by Wednesday.

In the waiting naval squadron were the British battleship Royal Oak, the British cruiser Shropshire, three British destroyers, and the French destroyer Terrible.

The United States destroyer Kane sped from Gibraltar to "French ports" to "observe" the evacuation without taking part in it.

The refugees aboard the Habana will land at Bordeaux. Of the group, 800 will be sent to the Island of Oleron, and 1,000 to the region of Biarritz. About 2,700 refugees mostly children were on board.

It was planned to take women and children first, then men of nonmilitary age. Under an agreement between the league authorities and the British government no political discrimination will be shown in selecting refugees.

Concentration Camps

The children will be established in concentration camps in the Pauillac region, near Bordeaux, supervised by a selected corps of basque mothers.

The great French labor organization—the confederation General Du Travail, with a monthly income of $1,500,000—will finance the care of 3,200 children.

British labor unions have agreed to care for an additional 4,000 children.

Altogether it was planned to remove 30,000 of Bilbao's 300,000 war refugees, and officials said the rest would have to take their chances against the invading army of Gen. Emilio Mola, his airplanes and artillery, as enough ships could not be assembled soon enough to remove them all.

Franco's refusal to consent to the removal of civilians was accompanied by many reasons, chief of which was that Bilbao is subject to blockade and is the scene of extensive air operations which cannot be suspended.

The Nationalist commander-in-chief went so far as to warn that the British consulate in Bilbao would not be guaranteed "much longer" against insurgent air bombs.

In view of this attitude, the British and French governments immediately suspended efforts to liberate at least part of the 2,400 Nationalist hostages in Bilbao, imprisoned since the beginning of the war, and ordered the evacuation of the war refugees to begin without delay.

Grow Lettuce Throughout Garden Season

Lettuce has become as much of a staple in our menus as potatoes or beans, and the home gardener who does not grow a fine crop of it is missing something which he cannot get at the market. Although head lettuce can probably be as cheaply bought as grown in small quantities, this is not true of the leaf and cos varieties, which do not keep so well and cannot be transplanted successfully from long distances. They should be grown at home, where they can be taken from the garden an hour before eating; and a supply can be maintained throughout the season if succession and companion plantings are practiced.

Leaf lettuce is returning to fashion because its green leaves are rich in vitamin A. It is far and away the easiest to grow, and will produce edible leaves in a surprisingly short time. It is ideal for gain to form.

The home garden, because it must be picked just before consumption. It cannot stand days on the market, as the head lettuce can. Sow the seed at ten-day intervals for a long season. Plant in a spot which does not get too much sun.

Cos lettuce is the lazy man's delight, for it will produce the maximum quantity leaves with the least effort. It is a type between the leaf and the head varieties, where the leaves tend to fold into a head, and may be aided in this by tying them in such a position. Like the rest of the lettuces, it is best during the early and cooler weather, but it is also excellent during the warmer season, when it will pass through the higher temperatures with amazing freshness.

All the lettuces like a rich deep loam soil, with adequate moisture. Plant them in rows a foot to 18 inches apart, with 6 to 12 inches between the plants of the cos, and 3 to 5 inches between the leaf varieties.

In the case of head lettuce, more time and effort must be spent. It is first necessary to plant the seed in a box in the house a month before setting the seedlings out in the garden. Cool weather and fast growth is the secret of success with this delicious type, and when too much sun catches them, they are likely to run up to seed instead of heading. Keep the soil moist, and do not plant in a location that gets the full sun all day. Cultivate well so as to have a dust mulch present at all times, and give a little fertilizer about the time the heads begin to form.

Summer Schedule at Cabery Church

Cabery, May 4.—(RN Special)—The Rev. L. H. Landreth, pastor of St. Joseph church, today announced the summer schedule of masses at his church.

Beginning Sunday and continuing until further notice masses will be at 7 and 9 o'clock Thursday. Assension day mass will be at 9 o'clock in the morning.

Next Sunday special tribute will be paid to all mothers and the Virgin Mary to whom this month is dedicated. Following the early mass a special devotional service has been arranged. Juanita Schafroth, assisted by Juanita Meinbeck and Helen Sadler, will crown the Virgin's statue and there will be a procession of all the children in the parish. Benediction will follow.

Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock the members of the Altar and Rosary sodality will meet with Mrs. Carrie Shelton.

Duke's Injunction Case Heard Today

London, May 4.—(AP)—The Duke of Windsor's application for an injunction in connection with his libel suit against Geoffrey Dennis, author, and William Heinemann, Ltd., publisher of "Coronation Commentary" was heard today in chambers.

No result was announced.

The Duke has sued for libel, demanding damages, and has sought an injunction restraining circulation of the book, published last month.

ARMY HOUSING, FLOOD CONTROL TO BE DELAYED

Administration Efforts to Slash Expenses.

PLANS REJECTED

Washington, May 4.—(AP)—Administration efforts to slash the cost of governing the country appeared in both today for preliminary skirmishes with the house appropriations committee.

Chairman Whittington (D-Miss) of the house committee on public buildings and grounds, asked for a $4,000,000 appropriation for flood control in Mississippi river basin.

President Roosevelt has explained he would prefer to see the money spent for flood control in relation to power development projects.

The president has told committee chairmen that he would like to see the whole budget for the next fiscal year reduced to $7,500,000,000. He has asked $1,000,000 to start the ball rolling toward that goal.

Millions Requested

Among other requests for appropriations today was one for $19,980,000 for the construction of federal buildings and post offices.

Secretary Ickes appeared before a senate appropriations committee to advocate expenditure of the Public Works administration's remaining funds. The committee has before it a request for $440,000,000 for the PWA.

Senator Byrnes (D-SC), leading economy advocate, made a brief speech in the senate urging that relief and the public works program be separated.

We have got to separate relief from all other expenditures," he declared. "Otherwise economy is impossible."

Byrnes' remarks were interpreted as a warning to the president that he should not ask congress for additional expenditures for relief.

The treasury and government expenses exceeded income by $2,584,685,287.76 during the first nine months of the present fiscal year.

Minor Inundations Predicted in the Indiana Lowlands

Evansville, Ind., May 4.—(UP)—Minor inundations were predicted today throughout the lower reaches of the Ohio river and its tributaries by the Ohio river valley association.

Weather bureau officials said that while the river would rise above flood stage in numerous small cities this week indicated peak levels will not damage property. The only exception to this prediction, they said, is Evansville. Principal threat was to farmlands.

At Evansville, Ind. Cross Roads Levee District Director Charles W. Carr warned families in lowland areas bordering the Ohio river to evacuate their homes at the least threat of being marooned.

J. H. Armington, local meteorologist, said Indianapolis forecast moderate inundations in the lower reaches of the Wabash and White rivers. Minor inundations were predicted at Owensboro and Uniontown, Ky., and Newburgh and Cypress, Ind.

Armington said the White river would pass flood stage from Elliston to Green county, Indiana, to the mouth at Mt. Carmel, Ill., and the Wabash would pass flood stage from Vincennes, Ind. to where it empties into the Ohio river.

The Wabash, Patoka and White river valley districts overflowed into farmlands in Gibson county, Indiana. The Patoka also was spreading over the lowlands near Petersburg, Ind.

Union township farmers south of Evansville built up their levee to protect 9,000 acres of fertile corn land.

At Beardstown, Ill. the rising Illinois river forced suspension of work on LaGrange lock work. Farmers of Lost Creek drainage district No. 1 started levee pilings to protect their 3,000 acre holdings.

Flood stage was predicted for Cairo, Ill. and for New Madrid, Mo., across the Mississippi from Cairo, by the U. S. weather bureau at Memphis. The Mississippi county Flood committee at Memphis ordered precautionary evacuation of lowlands in the Birds Point-New Madrid spillway.

The upper Mississippi was reported rising above St. Louis.

Long Time Dream of Teachers Realized

Athens, Ga. May 4.—(AP)—A long time dream of teachers has come true in the development of a new machine which its sponsors claim will correct and grade examination papers.

Working with the speed of electricity, the device will correct an examination paper of the "true-false" or selective question variety and show the grade on a meter, said P. H. Beers, examiner of the university system of Georgia, today.

Beers, who had a hand in promoting the machine's development, said it works on the principle that a soft pencil mark is electrically conductive. Electricity following through the pencil marks made by the student cause the recording device to function.

The student will write his answers in one of two or more parallel columns on a standard printed form. Beers explained. As each paper is inserted in the machine, electrode blades descending on the paper will determine which questions have been answered correctly.

Many generations of teachers have cherished a hope that the irksome task of grading the work of young America might some day be eliminated. The machine which partly may make their dream a reality was developed by engineers during a long time project sponsored by many organizations interested in the advancement of education.

Beers said the first 25 machines now are being built for distribution to some of the nation's leading universities.

Transportation Tieup in London May be Increased

London, May 4—(AP)—A warning that a complete tieup of London's transportation in these crowded pre-coronation days might follow any attempt to break the strike of 20,000 bus drivers and conductors came today from one of the walkout's leaders.

There were reports that some of the subway and streetcar unions were eager to strike in support of the bus men, although the latter's organization has opposed any sympathy walkout, at least until after a board of inquiry reports.

A board of inquiry was to resume hearings this afternoon on the union's demands for a 7 1-2-hour day and slower bus schedules. Busmen now work eight hours. It was expected the board's report would be issued Friday with negotiations for settlement to be conducted over the week-end.

Wendel on Stand; Conspiracy Trial

Newark, N. J., May 4—(AP)—Paul H. Wendel took the witness stand over defense objections in the federal court conspiracy trial of Ellis P. Parker and his son, Ellis, Jr., today to tell his story of being abducted and forced to confess [illegible] the Lindbergh kidnaping.

When the former Trenton lawyer was called, counsel for the Parkers immediately challenged his qualification by offering a record of his conviction several years ago for perjury, and a pardon from the state court of pardons.

A federal judge William Clark ruled that the pardon removed any disqualification.

Wendel then began relating the story of his own abduction and alleged forced confession.

He said a man he later found was Murray Bleefeld, approached "him the night of Feb. 14, 1936 and told him Jimmy de Louis, a Trenton detective, wanted to see him "at headquarters."

Harry Weiss and Bleefeld, he said, told him they were federal men, [illegible] from the department of justice.

Martin Schlossman, he said, was driving the car.

Bleefeld, Weiss and Schlossman have pleaded guilty.

Wendel described the ride to Brooklyn from Manhattan and said Weiss told him when they stopped:

"If Bruno burns, you burn."

He finally was told he was wanted for the Lindbergh kidnaping.

"You can make a lot of money confessing to the Lindbergh kidnaping," Wendel said he was told.

"They are suggesting," he said, "that I say I kidnaped the Lindbergh baby for the purpose of getting Bruno Hauptmann a new trial."

CAUSE OF SOCIETY'S ILLS

This is a queer, sadly-tangled world we live in, and the best way to give yourself a splitting headache is to try to figure out just who is to blame for the things that go wrong in it. The detective running down a clewless murder case has a soft snap, by comparison; he at least knows that when he gets to the end of the trial he won't be throwing himself behind bars.

Judge Benjamin Scheinman of Los Angeles Calif. started thinking aloud along these lines the other day. Judge Scheinman presides over the court in which the coppers daily unload their assortment of drunks, vagrants, and other petty offenders—the misfits of metropolitan life for whose infinitely complicated web of mistakes and offenses society can think of no answer but 10 days in the jug.

So the judge unburdened himself to Ted Le Berthon, reporter for the Los Angeles Evening News.

"We may be arresting the wrong people," he mused. "We may be making a mistake in arresting drunks and vags and not arresting those who provide the breeding ground for drunks and vags, and who certainly contribute to their delinquency."

And then the judge began trying to figure out just who these contributors to delinquency might be.

He mentioned the sweatshop employers who pay starvation wages; the politicians who decree that jobless single men on relief must get along and stave off the soul-racking monotony of idleness on $15 a month; the saloonkeepers who sell liquor to these men until they are drunk and after they are drunk; the commercial employment agencies that make them pay to get jobs; the flophouse owners who herd men six or eight at a time in dirty ill-ventilated rooms.

All these things added together, the judge remarked, are enough to drive any man to ruin. Dirt, idleness, hopelessness, friendlessness—put them to work on a man, and you need not be surprised if he winds up, frowsy and bedduddled, in police court.

"There is another angle, too, for us to ponder over," continued the judge. "If you and I voted into office the fellows who later decided that a single man on relief should live on $15 a month, we too, might be subject to arrest."

In other words, we have the privilege of delegating to society you-wind up by putting the finger on yourself. For if we live in the kind of society that drives a certain percentage of its misfits to drink and vagrancy, and if we ourselves consent to that society's existence and do nothing to iron out its rough places—then we ourselves are the ultimate offenders.

If you want to keep your mentalease and complacency, never try to discover the ultimate responsibility for society's ills. For if you do, you may wind up just where Judge Scheinman wound up—accusing yourself.

PASS THE MAVERICKS!

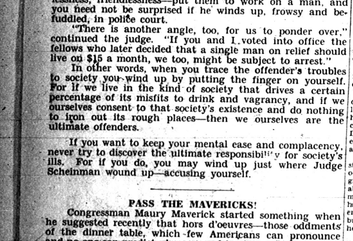
Congressman Maury Maverick started something when he suggested recently that a horn d'oeuvres—those odiments of the dinner table, which few Americans can pronounce and no one can predict—be renamed in simpler form.

Mr. Maverick suggested "dingle doos." But now comes no less a gastrecic authority than George Rector, famous New York restaurateur, to urge that they be called "mavericks" in honor of the congressman.

This, says Mr. Rector, would be fitting for two reasons. First, as a tribute to the congressman; second, because "maverick" is a good all-American word meaning an unbranded animal. Mr. Rector has also come out by himself and is any man's for the taking. This, he points out, is a perfect description of a tray full of antipasto, canapes, anchovies, and similar odds and ends.

We hope his campaign succeeds. Waiter — a tray of mavericks, if you please.

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark



'KINK'S X!'

Your Children

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

There is something so very symbolical about a Maypole with its ribbons, a child at every end, that have to give the old-timers credit for a happy custom.

May day is the children's day, and New Years of Boy-and-Girldom.

In any rate, it is very different from almost any other day of the year.

Sentiment used to lose its head, of course, and the very times that called the Maypole triumphant were hiding poor little Oliver Twists in child labor "work houses," and the Davy Copperfield was being farmed out to strangers at the tender age of eight.

Today, however, the good old stick has evolved into another kind of standard. Pink ribbons have given way to reality, and the songs about blossoms and crowns, to the more sober cadences of health and happiness. Happiness not dependent on a few short delirious hours, but the human principles of child health and welfare.

Better Housing Urged

Perhaps we are getting too workaday and matter of fact at that, because we need our Maypoles and the children need their parties, but there are fewer little ants, lambs and angels in the cemeteries than was formerly the case, and if anything was to change, the decrease is certainly the better sacrifice.

The new Maypole has these slogans on the ribbons:

"Good Housing for the Child, dren," first of all. This may be interpreted in many ways, from the change of the present cheerless room in the home to the alley, sunnier side, to the entire betterment of living conditions. It means safe sanitation, and it means a sturdier health.

"Better Feeding" includes the importance, not only of enough nourishment, for the little folk but the right kind. It means that one streamer alone should bear the name Cod Liver Oil." The special diet for babies today is almost perfect, and should wear the crown of crowns.

Guidance Points Parents' Way

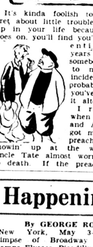
"Child Training," if like a valiance" better is written boldly on another of the ribbons. For the first time in history, and mighty in a long time, it has been discovered that a child's health and happiness depend largely upon his mental peace and vice versa. And for the first time, too, parents have access to authoritative literature that will help them to understand that the problems of their children.

"Happy Environment" is our fourth slogan. Every child blooms more perfectly in a home atmosphere of normal peace, affection and sympathy. Half the problems of childhood are not the child's at all, but the relationship of parents. This, I fear, is going to need the air of time, because our structure is not yet perfect. The unity of the home is still one of our difficulties in this era of separations.

But let us be thankful for this new Maypole that shows us that a "child conscious," and "child responsible."

LEGISLATOR RUNS TROLLEY

Springfield, Mass., May 4—(UP)—Daniel J. Breanahan legislator has his own way of "relaxing" on his day off. Every Sunday for the past 35 years he has donned his trolley-man's uniform and operated a car over one of the city's lines. It also preserves his standing as a member of the Trolleymen's union.



It's kinda foolish to worry and fret about little troubles that come to you, because as time goes on, you'll find you'll forget 'em entirely and years later, somebody happens to mention the incident, you'll probably find that you've forgotten it altogether.

I remember when Uncle Tate and Aunt Pluto got married. The preacher was invited up at the seddin and Uncle Tate almost worried himself to death. If the preacher hadn't finally showed up when he did I believe Uncle Tate's heart would have stopped altogether.

Ten years later, he happened to run into this same preacher and the preacher says "Do you remember jest ten years ago I gave you an awful fright?" and Uncle Tate says "Yes, and I still got her!"

Happenings in New York

By GEORGE ROSS

New York, May 3—A Quick League of Broadway after the Champs Elysees, Picadilly Circus and the Grand Corniche Manhattan seems to be more concerned about the crowning of King George VI than is London, and they tell me George M. Cohan rehearsed upon hailing that he was going abroad to escape all this clamor about the Coronation.

The display of gulchristuide at the French Casino, Paradise, and Holly-wood is a fast glance per of the beaurr displayed in London and Parisian caravanserais.

Upon returning a prodigal finds this Excursion to the new dramatic hit along the Rialto, Boy in Arms," the new musical sensation.

One could travel around the world six times, pause in Rangoon, Bangkok and other far-flung points, and still return to Broadway to find Tobacco Road" coasting along happily without a care in the world.

And I think it's wonderful that this is about ready to bring back Abie's Irish Rose.

London Going Whacky

Benny Goodman's swing band should have a gander at London, where the natives there have just discovered the swing king's syncopation and would like to have him over there.

The Manhattan night spots, sours that have kept an eye on all the premises confide, haven't discovered any startling talent during the past six weeks.

The subways seem fairly drab and uninteresting here after a long ride in London's underground where the carriages are vari-colored and match the color schemes of the stations.

Here's a note about Libby Holman sailing for the Coronation; and Helen Morgan's huge success in London has just reached Broadwayites' ears.

Nothing new at Bardi's, the saloon on the side street from Shubert Alley and the Forum of the theatrical circle, except that the people now huddled in front of the place, speak of places bucolic, for the summer theater season is about to descend upon America again.

Lee Shubert, they tell me, had to place two extra rows of seats in the Ethel Barrymore theatre to accommodate the capacity crowds at Claire Boothe's play, "The Women."

Polyglot Broadway

Strange to come back to Broadway and find more foreign languages films showing than in most European capitals.

Note to Tallulah Bankhead: London would rather see you on one of its stages than most native leading ladies.

Peer through the glazed windows of Lindy's after a brief absence and the absentee finds most unfamiliar faces, and inside, overhears the same conversation about the poker game, song-plugging and gratuitous film information.

In a note from a Hollywood friend I see one starts that of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Kaufman aren't coming back to appear in a musical show because he prefers the movies to turn actor in his youth and while he can possibly avoid the fate.

For home reason or other, Broadway seems the same without Harry Richman.

And a resident son returns a wiser man when he finds sightseeing guides on Broadway corners, for there is nothing extraordinary about their trade. In Paris, the rue de Rivoli is full of them and in London, professional guides outnumber the visitors to Buckingham Palace by five to one.

One horrifying memento a tourist brings back with him from Europeen's current addiction to the new international drink, Tomato Juice. In Parisian sidewalk cafes, in London and on Italian piazzas, they sit and sip the juice of the fruit through long straws, as if there was an exotic interest to be taken warily, like absinthe.

Ben Bernie's aside to American radio satellites: It doesn't do any good to yearn for European engagements because they don't pay. Top remuneration for broadcasters in England and France is the equivalent of $200.

Head Lettuce
Celery Seed Dressing
Caramel Pudding
Coffee

GLAZED CARROTS
6 peeled cooked carrots
4 tablespoons sugar
1 cup broom sugar
1-3 cup boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
Place the carrots in a shallow baking dish. Add the rest of the ingredients and place on a floured board. Knead 5 minutes. The exact amount of flour can not always be determined, but the dough should be stiff enough not to stick to the board. Place the dough in a greased bowl, cover and let rise until the dough is twice its bulk. Punch down, cover and let rise again. Shape into rolls. Let them rise 2 hours. Bake 15 minutes in a moderate oven.

REFRIGERATOR ROLLS
1 cup mashed potatoes
2 cups grease
1 cup fat
2 teaspoons salt
1 cup granulated sugar
1 cake compressed yeast
1-3 cup lukewarm water
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
8 cups flour

Cook potatoes. Mash and add the milk which has been scalded and cooled. Add the sugar, fat, salt and sugar. Crumble the yeast and add to the water. After 5 minutes add the yeast to the potato mixture. Add the rest of the ingredients and place on a floured board. Knead 5 minutes. The exact amount of flour can not always be determined, but the dough should be stiff enough not to stick to the board. Place the dough in a greased bowl, cover and let rise until the dough is twice its bulk. Punch down, cover and let rise again. Shape into rolls. Let them rise 2 hours. Bake 15 minutes in a moderate oven.

Daily Health Talks

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Among the many ways in which the lung of a tuberculous victim may be tested that which has received the greatest consideration in recent years is the shrinkage and collapse of pneumothorax.

A lung is collapsed so that tissues may be quiet and rest, just one untill they can heal. Small lesions also inhalers spread or disease from one part of the lung to another.

The first of the procedures used as artificial pneumothorax was simply to draw the air from the fourth to one half of all contained in the chest. This is not not suitable for patients who have adhesions. That is those who have had a spell of pleurisy with the attachment of the lung to the chest wall.

In time the method was improved by a device like the Sanders apparatus, which is fairly automatic and sufficiently accurate.

Finally there came the method of using the patient's own air. Through the nose and mouth and in the proper amount, patients who, in previous years would have been confined to bed, remain constantly in a sanitorium or hospital, are able to go about their work.

Dozens of lads expected, however, that there is another method of collapse. This is the patient himself. Many years ago it was discovered that the phrenic nerve, which supplies the diaphragm, controls the movement of the muscles of the diaphragm and of the chest wall. If this nerve is severed the muscles concerned rests the diaphragm is pushed upward and diminishes the room in the chest cavity. This method is wholly surgical and until after the phrenicotomies has been tried and found to have been found impressive. In this method the phrenic nerve is an operation on the chest wall to the removal of portions of the ribs. Higher and higher grows and grinding complete rest to the lung.

In many instances artificial pneumothorax is the only way to get rest enough. When this is applied in the proper manner and in the proper cases, patients who in previous years would have been confined to bed for months or years

AFRAID to Love

By MARION WHITE CHESLY NEA SERVICE—INC

CHAPTER XII

"Surprise!" A dozen voices echoed the word.

Joan, too stunned to speak, looked at Dorothy, and her eyes flashed appreciation. There was a lump in her throat, and her heart was filled with sweet bewilderment. This was a shower for her—for Joan Barrett, the outcast, who had never known a single friendship in all her life. Here were gifts from friendly neighbors who asked nothing further than the fact that she was their neighbor's fiancee and Dorothy Starke's friend!

One by one she unwrapped them—linen luncheon sets, embroidered with dainty hand embroidery; bath towels, enormous affairs that both frightened and gave an inkling of accessories—pot holders and toilet seat mats and aprons . . .

Her eyes lingered over each one regretfully, and she thought that she had never, never dreamed of such wonderful happiness.

The time was passing all too quickly.

Perhaps it was an hour or so later, when Nellie, the little Irish housemaid, came upstairs and whispered something to Mrs. McDonald, who hovered in the doorway.

Mrs. McDonald frowned. "Be off with you, Nellie, and don't talk such nonsense!" she scolded.

"What is it, Mrs. McDonald?" Dorothy asked.

"There's some fakir of a woman down at the back door who tells fortunes with tea leaves. I told her superstitious little baggage thinks the young lady should hear her fortune told."

Dorothy laughed. "Don't be silly, Nellie."

The others, however, looked up with interest. "A fortune-teller?" the chorused.

"Bring her in, of course, Joan, don't you want your fortune told?"

"She does not!" Dorothy snapped, and looked at Joan's reaction.

But Millie Sanders, however—careless, guileless Millie—settled the matter.

"Of course Joan wants her fortune told! Send the woman up, Nellie. Don't you want to hear what the future holds, Joan?"

And Joan, too happy at this moment to think of any misfortune, nodded her head eagerly. "I'd love it!" she agreed.

* * *

A moment later, Nellie brought her upstairs—a bedraggled, dirty, stupid-looking old woman. The others found a place for her in their midst, and she drew forth a soiled pack of cards from a pocket in her coat. Dorothy watched with misgivings. She's too fair for a gypsy, she thought, and too stupid for a clairvoyant. I wonder if this is some smart trick of Sybil Hedges's.

The old woman was shuffling the cards, and regarding Joan dully.

"You're going to be married, eh?" she said them out on the table in front of her, one at a time. Queen of hearts, two of diamonds, king of spades, ace of spades.

"Married, eh?" she repeated, her voice cackling shrilly. She picked up the four cards, shuffled them into the pack once more, then dealt again. The same four cards appeared. Queen of hearts, two of diamonds, king of spades, ace of spaces.

She looked up slowly, shook her old head. "I see no marriage in these cards," she prophesied gloomily. "Only a tall, dark man, and trouble."

A hushed silence followed her words, interrupted quickly by Dorothy. "Rubbish!" she cried, forcing a laugh. "I told you this was silly, Joan. Don't be superstitious!"

"Perhaps it was an omen," Sybil whispered something to Mrs. McDonald, who hovered in the door way

FEW persons ever have the privilege of seeing the giant nightjar, so perfect is its protective coloration. Blending exactly with the tree on which it rests, the bird flattens its tail against the trunk, lifts erect, and closes its eyes, thereby eliminating all resemblance to a living object.

WORK PROCEEDS IN STUDIOS AS UNIONS PICKET

Movie Stars Posing for Unofficial Pictures.

OUTSIDE GATES

Hollywood, May 4—(UP)—Movie stars got their pictures taken for a strikers' "rogue's gallery" today as they swept past picket lines of union technicians to reach their studio gates.

Eleven unions comprised of movie make-up men, scenic artists, engineers, cooks and others, are picketing 10 of the major studios in a strike for a closed shop. The actors themselves are deliberating strike action through their screen actors guild, but no decision will be reached until next Sunday night and meantime the players are passing the technicians' picket lines in their limousines.

Work proceeded in all studios, with such stars as Clark Gable, Jean Harlow, Eleanor Powell, Jeanette McDonald and Greta Garbo, reporting for work as usual. Pickets with candid cameras were taking snapshots of them, to be used as evidence.

"We are building up a rogue's gallery for use as a strike weapon," William B. Cullen, a strike leader, explained. "We are going to win this strike if we have to photograph and publicize every person who crosses these picket lines. If necessary we will have cuts made and placard the photographs all over town."

Players who ran the picket lines regarded the cameramen pickets curiously and provided some unofficial poses for them.

There was no attempt to molest the actors except with the cameras, the familiar instruments of their profession.

Miss Garbo rode through the line in her limousine with scarcely a glance at pickets. Gypsy Rose Lee, former New York strip dancer who is making her first picture, eyed the pickets quizzically. Others who rode or strode through the gates included John Boles, Dorothy Lamour, Richard Dix, Marlene Dietrich, Gary Cooper, George Raft, Irene Dunne, Constance Bennett, Cary Grant, Mary Astor, Ronald Colman, Robert Young and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

They are at work on 50 pictures which represent an investment of many millions of dollars.

Richard Dix and Elissa Landi denied rumors that they had refused to cross picket lines. The reports emanated from union headquarters.

"It is perfectly ethical for us as guild members to pass through the picket lines until next Sunday, at least," Dix said. "I was at work on the film lot yesterday and plan to be there again today."

Miss Landi said she crossed the picket line yesterday to fill a luncheon engagement at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot, and although she is not working at present, she will conform to the guild's policy.

Burly union longshoremen were reported to have joined the picket lines. The first violence was reported to police last night. A group of men raided a cosmetic company, in the belief that it was supplying strike-breaking make-up men to the picketed studios. Damage was estimated at $10,000.

The invaders threatened a watchman and a janitor with knives and chased them away, then destroyed fixtures and cosmetic supplies. No arrests were made.

Charles Lessing, acting head of the striking federated motion picture crafts, said he would appeal to President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, to call a nation-wide boycott of movies produced by the picketed studios. All A. F. of L. men and their families would be asked to avoid the shows.

Picket lines were ordered extended to the National Broadcasting company studio last night. It is next door to the R. K. O. studio and non-striking R. K. O. employes were reported to be going to work through the un-picketed NBC gate of the NBC studio.

Lessing said "steps are being taken by the F. M. P. C. to declare the National Broadcasting company unfair to organized labor."

The federated crafts claim about 6,000 have joined the strike and about 4,000 are on picket duty.

COYOTES CHASED ON ICE

Seward, Alaska, May 4—(UP)—Chasing coyotes across Lake Kenai in ice by automobile is a new and exciting sport in Alaska. Frank Towie, guide and big game hunter, said. The coyotes now run every time they see an automobile, even though it may be hundreds of yards away, he said.

FARNCE AIDS FRENCH HOUSE

Oberlin, O., May 4—(UP)—Prof. R. P. Jameson, head of the Oberlin college French department has announced the gift of 2,500 francs from the French government to Oberlin's French House. The money will be used to buy books.

To make the snake more pungent certain Eskimos place a tiny piece of dog's hair at the bottom of the pipe bowl. A piece of dog's skin is attached to the pipe stem to make the hair available.

The chief materials used in bridge construction today are carbon steel, alloy steels, concrete and masonry.
