May, Garssons Plead Innocent

Set Trial For March 19 On Fraud Charges

Defendants Appear In U. S. District Court In Washington

Washington, Jan. 24—(AP)—Andrew J. May, former chairman of the house military committee, and the Garssons pleaded innocent today to charges of conspiracy to defraud the government.

Chief Justice Bolitha Laws, who received their plea in U. S. district court, fixed March 19 for trial.

Apparitions with the former Kentucky Democratic congressman were Henry and Murray Garsson, and Joseph Freeman.

The Garssons were organizers of a wartime munitions combine which received more than $78,000,000 in war contracts. Freeman was their Washington representative.

Indicted By Grand Jury

An indictment returned by a grand jury yesterday charged that May agreed to receive $53,634.07 and "other sums" from them and to use his influence to get them profitable contracts.

The 71-year-old former congressman appeared tense but gave no show of emotion as he stood before Justice Laws to answer the charges.

"I plead not guilty," he said in a strong voice.

Similar pleas then were entered by the two Garssons and Freeman.

The whole court arraignment took less than 15 minutes.

May had traveled most of the night to get here and the Garssons had rushed to Washington from Illinois.

May's attorney, Warren Magee, of Washington, asked Justice Laws for at least 15 days in which to go over the 16-page indictment, which he said was "involved."

Similar requests were made by attorneys for Freeman and the Garssons.

Justice Laws allowed 15 days for the study of the indictment and suggested that perhaps the defendants would decide to change their pleas or file some motions in the next 15 days.

Alvin Krouse, of Washington, representing the Garssons, sought to obtain a delay in the trial beyond March 19.

He said that date might conflict with another case in which Charles J. Margiotti, chief counsel for the Garssons, is an attorney.

Laws suggested the other case might be postponed to accommodate the May-Garsson case.

All four men were fingerprinted in the district building clock block before making bond.

May, first to finish the fingerprinting process, told the criminal court clerk where he was brought to make bond to hurry the process.

"My heart's hurting me—can I sign something and go to my hotel?"

Last summer, May was subpoenaed by a senate committee investigating his relations with the Garssons but did not appear. He said word he was ill and his physician said he had suffered a heart attack.

Must Stay In Washington

In making bond May agreed to stay within the jurisdiction of the court. That means he must stay in Washington.

While waiting to complete the bonding arrangements, May smiled and commented to reporters and others about him:

"Send to Prestonsburg (Ky) for your jury and I won't challenge a one of them."

May's home is Prestonsburg. Court attaches told reporters that court attaches told reporters that

Another Car Wrecks Fairgrounds Pumps

The Fairgrounds filling station, 1023 North Indiana avenue, was torn apart by a car which crashed through the building and fell into the street.

Overhauling of the gas pumps to be completed after the automobile of James Belma, 51, of Chicago, entering the city on Fair street at 4:20 a. m., failed to make the left turn, plowed into the station and sheared both pumps off their bases.

Mark Zidich, John Reed and John Kovach, all of Chicago, were passengers in Belma's auto, but no one was hurt. The entire right side of the vehicle was damaged.

The fairgrounds station and adjoining lunch room have been damaged and battered by autos and trucks skidding around that turn at least a half dozen occasions during the past 10 years.

Anonymous Note Started Garsson Probe

Washington, Jan. 24—(UP)—A hand-drawn anonymous note started the senate investigation of the Garsson Brothers and their alleged "guardian angel," former Congressman Andrew J. May.

The note—now missing from the files of the senate war investigating committee—came in the mail one day in the spring of 1945.

It said the senators "ought to look into" the wartime operations of the brothers Dr. Henry and Murray W. Garsson.

The committee made a "routine inquiry" at the war department. A year of undercover investigation followed.

Sensational Hearings

What the senators learned as a result of that mysterious tip was unfolded last summer at a series of sensational hearings. The grand jury investigation followed shortly thereafter.

The grand jury climaxed its work yesterday by indicting May, the Garssons and another associate on corruption charges in connection with the Garsson's wartime operations.

The story of how the Garssons built a $78,000,000 munitions empire with personality and a borrowed letterhead is little short of fabulous.

Murray supplied much of the personality. Henry borrowed the letterhead.

The suave, dark-haired Henry was a consulting engineer for the Segal Lock & Hardware company of New York at the time. One day he whipped out a sheet of stationery and wrote the war department that he wanted to manufacture munitions.

He said the Segal plant in the Erie section of Brooklyn would be just the place.

The army sent inspectors out to look at the Brooklyn plant, which really wasn't Henry's. They thought it was just the place, too.

Meets Gellman

Shortly thereafter, Henry was in Washington, visiting Rep. Adolph J. Sabath, D. Ill., a fellow pinocchio player. Waiting at the outer office, he fell to talking to Allen B. Gellman, an Illinois manufacturer who had come to Washington—for the first time in his life—to see about getting contracts to make munitions.

Gellman was quite impressed with Dr. Henry Garsson. They decided

College Graduate Granted High School Diploma

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 24—(UP)—A year ago Robert Irwin graduated from Northwestern university.

Last night he graduated from Springfield high school.

Irwin left high school at the beginning of his senior year to take engineering studies preparatory to enlisting in the navy. Later the navy sent him through Northwestern as a V-12 student. He won a bachelor's degree.

He was granted a high school diploma last night on the basis of credits he acquired through navy studies.

Test New Type Of Radiant Heating In Bohmker Home

The new baseboard type of radiant heating will get its first test in this area in the dwelling just completed for Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Bohmker in the 1200 block on South Lincoln avenue.

Utilizing hollow steel baseboard through which hot water is circulated, this system eliminates all radiators, ducts, grill work and pipes in floors and walls.

All that is required is a small standard hot water type of boiler to heat the water to 180 to 200 degrees, small copper tubing to carry it to the steel baseboard, and of course, the baseboard itself which radiates even heat to all solid objects in the room.

For Field Study

The Bohmkers, who moved into their 7-room, two-story brick veneer home last week-end, have volunteered the use of it for field testing of the new system which was designed by a group of local engineers headed by Edward B. Moore, 545 South Small avenue.

The first such complete installation in this part of Illinois, it is one of only 10 in the entire country using steel baseboard for residential heating.

Another partial installation is under way in a Bradley residence. Bernard Reck will test this system

Olivet College To Get Federal Equipment Aid

Federal Works Agency Approves Allocation To Kankakee School

Authorization of an undisclosed amount of office furniture and class room equipment to Olivet college by the Federal Works administration was disclosed in Washington today.

The equipment is being allocated to the local school through the veterans' educational facilities project which aids colleges which have a large number of veterans attending classes.

Dr. Grover Van Duyn, president of the school, said application for the equipment was made through the Chicago office of the FAW several weeks ago.

Some Is "Donated"

Much of the equipment will be "donated" to the college by the government, the president stated, although freight and other handling charges on part of the supplies will have to be paid.

Equipment Varied

Dr. Van Duyn said that the equipment will include students' arm chairs for class room studies, calculating office machines, duplicating machines, adding machines, billing devices, office furniture, including desks and chairs, files and laboratory apparatus consisting of slide rules, microscopes and other technical devices.

Other Equipment

In addition, gymnasium equipment may be forthcoming as a result of a joint government's decision of a joint senate-house committee to supervise the job. He proposed that the group be given a working fund of $10,000,000.

Both senate and house will have to approve Robertson's resolution for it to become effective.

In other congressional developments:

The senate civil service committee, exploring ways to cut down the government's payroll, heard objections from Secretary of Interior Krug to suggestions that the bureau of Indian affairs, with 11,000 employees, can be abolished.

Krug contended the government has an obligation to maintain supervision of Indian affairs, "until they can move into society safely."

Hold Up Pipelines

Before the house commerce committee, spokesmen for coal producers and eastern railroads urged that congress hold up the scheduled sale Feb. 3 of the Big and Little Inland pipelines. The War Assets administration, which handles sale of surplus property, proposes to open bids then for these war-built pipelines from Texas to the east coast.

The coal and railroad men protested possible use of the lines to carry natural gas, a fuel competitor with coal.

Congress already is laying plans to investigate generally how WAA is conducting the job of selling plants and other things the government acquired during the war but no longer needs. The house committee on expenditures named a subcommittee today to work with a similar senate group in the investigation. Rep. Riley (R-Okla.) was named chairman.

The senate itself debated whether to create a special committee on problems of small businesses. Opposing, Senator Lucas (D-Ill) contended. The coal and railroad men of other special committees on various subjects.

New Labor Bill

Freshman Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) introduced another labor bill dealing with the closed shop. It would provide:

1. That the "union shop" and "closed shop" be removed from the realm of bargaining and be left up to employees in any plant to decide by a two-third majority vote.

2. That "preferential hiring" and "maintenance of membership" be left to collective bargaining.

3. That employers have the right to state opinions to their workers on labor questions provided no

File Opposition To Proposed Air Route Through Kankakee

BULLETIN

Washington, Jan. 24—(AP)—The Great Lakes area case involving 40 applications for new or additional air routes today went to the "jury"—the five man civil aeronautics board.

The board may approve these applications, change them, deny them or grant some applications that the examiner disapproved.

Claims that two north and south airline feeder services which the Parks Air Transport company of East St. Louis proposes to provide through Kankakee and other Illinois towns are "inadequate," were presented before the Civil Aeronautics board today in Washington.

Representatives of a group opposing the board examiner's recommendation for grants to the Parks company plumped for east-west feeder service.

R. L. Harper, traffic manager of the Peoria association of commerce, asked that the board approve an east-west route applied for by Columbian Air Lines. The examiner had recommended against this.

Ralph J. Monroe, appearing for Decatur, said, "We want and need east-west lines. The proposed Parks Air Transport service is too limited."

Similar views were voiced by representatives from Galesburg, Champaign-Urbana, Danville and Bloomington.

It is not known when final decisions will be made.

Urges Congress Audit All New Deal Spending

Resolution Proposes $10 Million Fund To Carry Out Probe

Washington, Jan. 24—(AP)—The Republican-dominated congress got a proposal today that it order a complete audit of all government spending during the "new deal" years of the Roosevelt administration.

Senator Robertson (R-Wyo) introduced a resolution for creation of a joint senate-house committee to supervise the job. He proposed that the group be given a working fund of $10,000,000.

Both senate and house will have to approve Robertson's resolution for it to become effective.

Raising A Point In Law

Mrs. Helen Spitz (right), Circuit court reporter, shows Miss Henrietta Cason, the clerk, what she fears might cause legal repercussions to be heard 'round the world. The gladiolus bulbs Miss Cason is holding were an exhibit in a court case last week and are beginning to sprout. The law says the court reporter must preserve all court exhibits in the same condition in which they were presented.

'Glad' Tidings

Bulbs Sprout Trouble For Keeper Of Court Exhibits

Trouble was sprouting up all over the Circuit court today for Helen Spitz, court reporter, and it might take a Supreme court ruling to get her out of it.

State statutes stipulate that it shall be the duty of the court reporter to receive for safe keeping all trial exhibits and to preserve said exhibits in the same condition in which they were received.

The guy who wrote that law didn't take into account an older law—the law of nature, Helen complains.

How, for instance, is a person going to keep a gladiolus bulb from bursting out in sprouts?

Several bags containing the bulbs were labeled exhibits during last week's lawsuit involving William Wiersema, a Wicher gladiolus grower, and Edwin and Chester Sirois, St. Anne dealers. The sprouting bulbs are now straining the seams of their cellophane bags.

If the case goes to a higher court, will the exhibits with their appendages be legal? That question was one even Judge C. D. Henry couldn't answer.

Mrs. Spitz is thankful on one thing: that the case wasn't over rabbits.

Seek Economy In Veterans Administration

Washington, Jan. 24—(AP)—House Republicans shifted their economy guns to the Veterans administration today but promised no more than a near miss against the cash actually paid to former GIs.

Chairman Taber (R-NY) of the appropriations committee told a reporter that the $7,000,000,000 budget for veterans can take a trimming. But he said the cuts will be made in the money spent to administer benefits for veterans and not in the benefits themselves.

That followed a statement by another top bracket Republican, Chairman Allen (Ill) of the rules committee that:

"The policy of the Republican party will be to preserve appropriations benefiting veterans, although many bureaucratic functions of the New Deal will be eliminated."

"Here's the pitch," Taber amplified. "The Veterans administration is loaded up with a lot of people who aren't keeping busy. On top of that, they have been cutting a lot of capers."

"They have done all sorts of ridiculously high prices, for instance, to doctors and dentists doing work for them under contract—sometimes double and treble the going prices for dental and medical services in the same town."

W. P. Lockwood, 99, Civil War Vet, Near Death

William P. Lockwood, Kankakee's only surviving Civil War veteran, was near death this morning at St. Mary hospital.

Mr. Lockwood, who would be 100 years old March 31, is in a partial coma and has been unable to take nourishment for several days, his son, Frank, said. The family is in constant vigil at his bedside.

Physicians state that only the aged man's amazing vitality is keeping him alive. Mr. Lockwood has been in the hospital for 18 weeks and rallied several weeks ago after being in a serious condition.

3 Firemen Killed In Minneapolis

Minneapolis, Jan. 24—(AP)—Three firemen were killed and seven more injured, one of them critically, Thursday night when fire followed by a series of explosions destroyed a Minneapolis auto showroom and garage.

The victims were trapped in heavy smoke when the tiled concrete showroom floor collapsed as result of the blast. The flames started in the basement paint shop of the garage.

U. S. Steel Gets 1947 Demands Of CIO Union

Open Conferences To Set Pattern For 800,000 Workers

Pittsburgh, Jan. 24—(UP)—The United Steelworkers' Union laid its 1947 demands before U. S. Steel Corp. today at a two-hour session opening negotiations expected to set the pattern for the nation's 800,000 steel workers.

CIO President Philip Murray announced following the brief conference that negotiations would be resumed Monday. He immediately called for a session of the union's general policy and executive committees later today.

No Definite Wage Demand

He said the union's proposals, placed before the company representatives, contained no definite wage demand other than a "substantial" increase. However, he said, the union may have a further statement following this afternoon's policy sessions.

John A. Stephens, U. S. Steel vice president in charge of industrial relations, said that company officials planned no immediate conferences, pending resumption of negotiations.

Murray said the only business transacted at the opening session was the presentation of the union's 15 point proposal for the new wage agreement and the selection of officers.

Stephens was named permanent chairman of the negotiating conference and USW Secretary-Treasurer David J. McDonald was selected as secretary.

The union was ready to submit a new report by Economist Robert Nathan when the negotiations are resumed, but its contents were secret.

Nathan Report

The new Nathan report is confined to the steel industry and is supplemental to his controversial general report which held that industry can raise wages 25 per cent without boosting prices.

The steelworkers' proposals, in addition to the 15 point proposal, included:

A man using the name "Giles" arranged with the Devines to have Alice's photograph taken at a local studio for a national publication. She left the studio with the man at 7:30 p. m. Monday. He drove her to a rural lane, stopped the car, bound her and gagged her, then took her to a tourist cabin near Sacramento where he held her prisoner overnight. Next day, when he left to make a telephone call she freed herself from her bonds and escaped.

Addressing the 12 other passengers he said he was going to disregard the bus route, the schedule, everything, to get Mrs. Gumba to the hospital.

This bus is now en route to Lincoln hospital," he said. "You people want to stay on?"

The passengers cheered and said, "Let's go."

Young returned to the driver's seat and the bus took off. The

Regional OPA Offices Given Instructions

In Case Of Doubt, Favor Landlord, Directors Are Told

Washington, Jan. 24—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Philip Fleming, director of the Office of Temporary Controls, said today he has instructed regional OPA offices to "liberalize" rents in "hardship cases."

Fleming made the statement to reporters after discussing rent control with President Truman. The President told his news conference yesterday that he favors continuation of nation-wide rent controls and that responsibility for any changes now rests with congress.

Fleming said he and the President did not come to any decision in their talk but covered the ground very thoroughly.

He said his instructions to liberalize rents in what he called "hardship cases" were given earlier this week at a conference here of regional OPA directors.

That would allow an increase in rents in cases where the present ceilings impose a hardship on the landlord.

Where there is any doubt about rents, Fleming explained, the regional directors are under instructions to resolve that doubt in favor of the landlords.

Local costs, he explained, will be the yardstick in determining whether rents are too low.

Fleming emphasized that his orders do not mean a break in the general line of rent controls. Rather, he said, they are simply designed to correct local situations where rents of some properties may be lower than those of comparable properties in the same area.

French Urge Federation Of German States

Paris, Jan. 24—(UP)—The French government proposed today that the allies set up a permanent federation of German states patterned in many respects after the United States.

The French plan, disclosed by the foreign ministry, will be put before the big four foreign ministers when they meet in Moscow to start work on the German peace treaty.

All powers not expressly allocated to the central government would be reserved to the states, the number and boundaries of which were left open for future decision.

The French suggested that until the occupation of Germany ends, the centralization of certain functions of the government remain under allied control.

A foreign office spokesman said the French plan sought to undo the consolidation of the old German states under Prussian rule, and at the same time provide the central government with enough strength to give Germany a national identity.

Ultimately, under the plan, the Germans would have a single national assembly comprised of four representatives from each state. They would be chosen by state presidents with the consent of the state legislatures, and would serve four-year terms.

New Greek Premier

Athens, Jan. 24—(AP)—King George II today named Demetrios Maximos as premier, succeeding Constantinos Tsaldaris.

Maximos is 74 and a former foreign minister.

A government radio announced previously had said that Tsaldaris, leader of the Royalists whose government has been under severe fire from the left, was made vice-premier and given the post of war minister.

A moment later the bus had another passenger, a squalling baby boy, the Gumba's first child. Mother and infant were carried into the hospital and were doing fine today.

Uncle Sam Finds Too Many 'Rich' Tenants

By The Associated Press
At least 150,000 people around the country have too much money to suit their present landlord. That many tenants, an Associated Press survey showed today, have been or shortly will be asked to move out of low rental public housing projects because their incomes are too high.

In Washington, the Federal Public Housing authority indicated the 150,000 figure is a minimum estimate since it is based only on tenants who have filed statements of their earnings.

The requests to leave range in tone from polite suggestions to tenants that they begin looking around for new homes to definite eviction notices. The purpose, said an FPHA spokesman, "is to stimulate the ineligible to look for other homes."

Generally, housing authorities don't expect to force any evictions if the tenants can find no other place to live. But there is a growing movement to seek approval of the Office of Temporary Controls (OPA's successor) which would lead to court eviction notices.

For Low-Income Groups
The object of all this is to make room in the government-subsidized public projects for low income groups, especially veterans unable to find homes elsewhere.

Nationally, there are about 170,000 families housed in low rental projects. Of these, some 39,000 families are now ineligible for continued occupancy because of excessive income.

In the first half of 1946, the average income of the ineligible families was $2,476. In the same period, the average earnings of the eligible tenants was $1,450. Some low rental project inhabitants are known to be earning $4,000 and $5,000 a year.

Tenants' income limits allowed by housing authorities vary widely. The lowest, $36 a month, is permitted in Delaware county, Indiana, and Knoxville, Tenn. The highest is $360 a month in New Orleans.

Actually, few if any have been evicted because of their income.

Pension Commission Completing Study

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 24—(UP)—State Sen. Wilbur J. Cash, R., Topeka, chairman of the State Public Employees Pension Laws commission, said today that the commission has about completed its study of public employee retirement legislation.

The commission, made up of five state senators, five representatives and five public members, was created by the 64th general assembly to study such legislation.

Cash said the report and recommendations will be submitted to Gov. Dwight H. Green and the general assembly.

"It is hoped that the findings will serve as a guide to the assembly in its consideration of the many proposals for pension legislation which are submitted at each legislative session," he said. "It is hoped that the recommendations will be instrumental in developing a statewide pension policy which safeguards the interests of both employees and taxpayers of Illinois."

Cash said that at present there are 27 different pension laws in force for public employees and that approximately 110,000 employees are covered by more than 140 separate Illinois pension funds.
