MAURICE STANS

Mitchell, Stans both acquitted

NEW YORK (AP) — A jury that started out "screaming and yelling across the table" has acquitted former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and one-time Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans of all charges in their criminal conspiracy case.

The nine men and three women came to unanimous agreement Sunday afternoon after 26 hours of deliberation that the former cabinet colleagues were innocent of conspiracy, obstruction of justice and perjury.

Both were accused of trying to block a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of financier Robert L. Vesco, in return for Vesco's secret $200,000 cash contribution to President Nixon's re-election campaign.

Referring to Vesco and his aides, Juror Clarence Brown said after the verdict: "They wanted to get something, but I don't think that Stans and Mitchell ever fell for it."

The jury's forewoman, Sybil Kucharski, said, "We were off in little groups screaming and yelling across the table" when the deliberations began. She said the jury was split even on the conspiracy count, so it turned to the six separate perjury counts against Mitchell and Stans.

"After looking through all the perjury charges, the rest was easy," Miss Kucharski said. "We figured there couldn't be any conspiracy if there was no perjury."

The verdict brought a smile to the face of the normally undemonstrative Mitchell. But it brought no legal surcease. He faces trial in Washington at a still unset date on almost identical charges in connection with the cover-up of the Watergate break-in.

Leon Jaworski, the Watergate special prosecutor, still is studying part of the Nixon campaign financing operation which Stans headed.

"Our faith was resting with a very, very fine jury," Mitchell told a news conference in the U.S. Courthouse. "They were a cross section of the people and they were representative of America."

"If there is one place I am firmly convinced you can get justice, it's from the American people. I have great faith in America and that's why I love this country."

Stans was shedding tears of relief by the time the lengthy 15-count verdict had been read. "I've been reborn," he told a newsman. "I was innocent all along, but it's good to have it confirmed."

In Washington, Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald Warren said of President Nixon: "The President was very pleased for the two men and for their families."

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, said he sees no connection between the verdict and future Watergate cases. "Each case stands on its own bottom," he said.

Vesco, who was indicted with Stans and Mitchell and lives in exile in Costa Rica, called the verdict

the "first fair verdict I've heard in a long time."

The chief prosecutor, Asst. U.S. Atty. John R. Wing, was deeply disappointed. Asked how he felt about the verdict, he replied:

"Rotten! If we could have gotten Vesco back it would have been different. It was absolutely not a waste. When there's evidence that people committed a crime, those crimes should be investigated and prosecuted."

Vesco fled the country in the midst of an SEC investigation of his corporate activities and all efforts to bring him back failed.

Mitchell and Stans were charged with conspiring to obstruct an SEC fraud investigation of Vesco, who has corporate interests in such diverse locales as Hong Kong, Beirut and the Bahamas.

It was an influence peddling deal, the government said. The prosecution called it a "quid pro quo"—something-for something—in return for Vesco's $200,000. The cash was collected by Stans, who raised $60 million for Nixon's 1972 campaign.

Mitchell, 60, a man of dry humor, was the law and order symbol of Nixon's first administration. He represented administration firmness against anti-war demonstrators during the late '60s and early '70s and pushed for a number of law and order measures.

Mitchell now is estranged from his wife, Martha. Asked at his post-trial news conference whether he had talked to Martha since his acquittal, Mitchell asked: "Who?"

Nixon sets TV reply to tapes subpoena

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon plans to take his case against impeachment to the public with a prime time nationally televised address tonight, sources said.

They said they expected Nixon to make the broadcast at 8 p.m. CDT on all television and radio networks. But they said the time was subject to change.

The address will be keyed to Nixon's response to a House Judiciary Committee subpoena for 42 presidential conversations with one-time administration officials. The subpoena must be answered by 9 a.m. Tuesday.

As the week began, two top Republicans said it would be inadequate for Nixon to turn over transcripts but not subpoenaed tape recordings to the House Judiciary Committee. That view was taken by former Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., in separate television interviews Sunday.

Nixon spent much of the weekend at his Camp David, Md., retreat, working on his response. He had scheduled his return for today but flew back unexpectedly by helicopter Sunday night.

Sources at the White House began putting out word Friday that the President might make a television address Monday night. The subject is certain to be the escalating demands for material from White House files.

In addition, a subpoena requested by special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski that demanded tapes and records of 64 presidential conversations calls for a response Thursday. Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said that "we have every intention" of meeting the Tuesday deadline for an answer to the House committee subpoena.

Richardson said supplying the transcripts of the tapes would not meet the order of the committee's subpoena. He also said that "the case is close," about whether there was sufficient evidence to prove Nixon had committed an indictable offense.

Richardson resigned Oct. 10, rather than fire then-special prosecutor Archibald Cox. He was interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Asked why he felt the possibility of an indictable offense against Nixon was "close," Richardson said:

"What would bother me is the pattern. The direct answer is I don't think that the evidence is sufficient in any given situation: Milk, ITT, cover-up of Watergate, to directly implicate the President. But the cumulative pattern of these things surrounding the President, in each case involving somebody next to him in responsibility, creates a really troublesome question."

"A failure on his part now to fully meet the requests for tapes justifies an adverse inference on this very question."

Javits, on CBS' "Face the Nation," said that turning over transcripts likely would be viewed as inadequate. He also said that if the House votes an impeachment, Nixon should step down temporarily while he is on trial in the Senate.

Last week the Judiciary Committee voted 34 to 4 to grant a White House request for five more days. Originally the deadline was last Thursday.

In granting the delay, many committee members, including Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said they hoped the request for more time to review the subpoenaed material was an indication that Nixon planned to supply everything called for in the subpoena.

But the committee appeared unanimous in its concern that the White House response might be edited transcripts. Even the President's strongest supporters seemed agreed that unless the committee has a role in verifying that all pertinent material is included in the transcripts, they would not be acceptable.

Enough gas, but area prices high

Pumps are fuller, the work days are longer and the gasoline lines are gone, but Kankakee area motorists are paying for it—nearly as much as anyone, in the country.

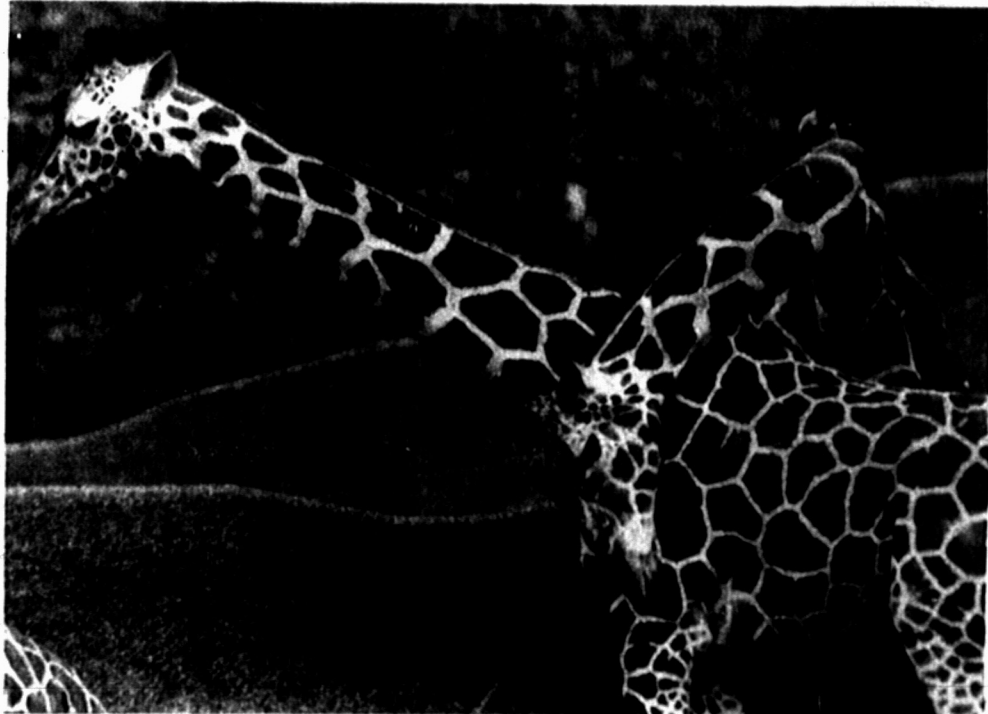

Gasoline allocations in the Kankakee area were greater in April than in March, in some cases more than 25 per cent more than last month. One local distributor said his gas allotment for April was more than 100 per cent more than April, 1972, which is the base year for allocations.

A local spokesman for the Illinois Gasoline Dealers Association said today area stations are open six days a week, sometimes seven. But there is no positive indication that the gas "surplus" will last.

Bruce Huot, one of the owners of Baron Huot Oil Co., said this morning his company received an April allocation of more than 100 per cent of April, 1972.

"We have more product for the month of April than we did for March and May, but it looks like we'll have far less in May than we did in April," Huot said. Baron Huot receives most of its gas from the Phillips Petroleum Co. Huot said his company had a 75 per cent allocation for March and that the May allocation would probably slip to the 75 per cent mark.

When asked why he received such a large chunk in April, Huot replied, "I don't have any idea."

Syrians report 2 jets lost

He added, "You never know from one month to the next what you're going to have. I tell you, this is an interesting business to be in."

Bob Agee, president of the Kankakee chapter of the Illinois Gasoline Dealers Association, said this morning that most of the 35 member dealers in the area have sufficient gas supplies for April.

"Almost everyone has been open more hours than in recent months," said Agee, who operates Agee's Marathon service station, Court St. and I-57. "We've extended our hours by 30 per cent over the last month, primarily because we have more fuel available."

Agee said all the 35 member stations are now open at least six days a week with some open all day Sunday. Only a handful close early on Saturday, he said.

Gas prices in Kankakee are nearly as high as Hawaii, where the 58 to 62 cents per gallon range is the highest in the nation, according to a American Automobile Association survey.

Huot said dealers who get gas from Baron Huot are charging 57.9 cents per gallon for regular and 59.4 cents for premium. Roland Arnell, manager of Ridgeway Services Inc., said the 12 area stations that Ridgeway supplies are charging 56.4 cents for regular, 60.9 for premium.

Ridgeway is a distributor for Union Oil Co. Arnell said Ridgeway's allocation for April was 70 per cent, primarily because the Union refinery in Lemont was in a "turn around" in April.

Arnell said the refinery closed for three weeks in April to inspect the refinery and update methods. He said the "turn around" is a common practice and performed every three years.

The 12 stations supplied by Ridgeway are open six days a week, despite the 70 per cent allocation, Arnell said.

Woman's remains pose mystery to authorities

By RALPH SHUPE
Journal Correspondent

WILMINGTON — Will County authorities are attempting to unravel the mystery of how the body of a woman might have reached an island in the Kankakee River, decomposed and lain there long enough so that only bones remained to be found Sunday.

The skull and several other bones were discovered when a party of canoeists stopped at the island, said to be the first large island in the river about 1 1/2 miles northwest of Warner Bridge.

The canoeists took the bones with them to Wilmington, where they were being met by friends, and reported to the police department. City police referred them to the Will County sheriff's department.

Deputy Charles Graham called for assistance from the state crime lab and then asked for river transportation from the Wilmington Fire Department to go to the island.

Their search revealed several more bones, including the rib cage, a blue and green plaid dress, bra and slip. From the size of the slip, they deduced she was a rather large woman. They also discovered she had an upper partial plate.

One of the canoeists in the party was Robert J. Bell, 404 N. Joliet St., Wilmington, and he took the bones to the city police department.

Willard Blood, Will County coroner, said there was no immediate way to tell how the body of the woman had reached the island, how long she had been dead or what was the cause of death.

He said the bones were being examined by the state crime laboratory. Any further action will depend on findings of the lab and if they show cause for further investigation.

RTA battle renewed

The squabble between House Speaker Robert Blair and Gov. Daniel Walker threatens to steal the legislative show again this week as more discussion over the RTA may overshadow budget matters in Springfield.

fighting because of the impending visit of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger in an attempt to achieve troop disengagement.

Damascus communique reported the air battles broke out following a series of strikes by each air force against enemy positions on Mt. Hermon, and that large formations of planes swirled through the skies over Mt. Hermon in a battle that soon spread to Lebanese air space.

Israeli sources reported a Syrian troop buildup opposite the Israeli lines on the northern front but dismissed it as a psychological move to coincide with Kissinger's fifth Middle East peace mission since the October war. Kissinger arrives in the Middle East later this week.

Kissinger, meanwhile, met Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko for a second time to try to win Soviet support — or at least hands off — for American efforts to bring about troop disengagement between Israel and Syria.

The two men met in an L-shaped room on the penthouse floor of the Intercontinental Hotel at 10 a.m. (5 a.m.

CDT) and were later lunching before Kissinger flies to Algiers this evening en route to his mission in the Middle East.

"What do you want me to do?" Gromyko asked Kissinger as they stood smiling for photographers and cameramen under the lights in the lobby of the hotel when Kissinger went down to meet him, flanked by security men.

Spectators lining the balcony applauded them but were kept away by barriers lining the way to the elevators.

American officials said the two main subjects would be Kissinger's Middle East mission and a new agreement on limiting multiple warheads on strategic missiles (MIRVs) which President Nixon hopes to conclude when he visits Moscow in June.

Kissinger arrived Sunday night and drove to the Soviet Mission around the corner from the hotel to meet Gromyko for their first meeting which lasted almost two hours. American spokesmen described it as "friendly and constructive."

Simultaneously, though, the speaker is trying hard to brand Walker as a staunch supporter of the MTA. # Miller pulls for friend, then goes and beats him

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Johnny Miller wasn't expecting to win the Tournament of Champions. Not after that opening 75. And, as late as the last round he was pulling for Buddy Allin, a onetime team-mate at Brigham Young.

"He's a gutsy little guy who's had a lot of problems. A real gentleman. I was pulling for him to win," Miller said, smiling, and added: "But I was trying to get in my leeks, too."

He did.

Miller claimed his fifth pro golf title of the year Sunday with a clutch four-foot par-saving putt on the last hole that let him avoid a sudden-death playoff with Allin and John Mahaffey.

Miller, the U.S. Open champion and the sensation of the tour this season, was the only man in the elite field of 25 tournament winners who broke par in the windy, pressure-packed final round. He had a 69 and a 280 total.

Allin and Mahaffey, now a runner-up three times this season, each had a share of the top spot until they bogeyed the 72nd hole. They tied for second at 281, Mahaffey with a final 70, Allin with 71.

Billy Casper was alone at 71—283. The group at 285 included Gene Littler, Jerry Heard and Hubert Green, a two-time winner this year. Littler and Heard had 71s on the 6,855-yard La Costa Country Club course and Green blew to a 77.

Jack Nicklaus, a four-time winner of this tournament and favored to do it again, closed with a 75 and was well back at 287. Lee Trevino trailed the field with a 300 total. For the first time in two decades Arnold Palmer failed to qualify for the tournament that is made up only of regular tour events for the last 12 months. Masters champ Gary Player had a previous commitment and could not compete.

Miller collected $40,000 from the total purse of $200,000 and pushed his winnings for the year to an eye-popping $192,877.

Walker's letter helps DuQuoin retain Hambo

DU QUOIN, Ill. (UPI) — Du Quoin State Fair President W.R. "Bill" Hayes II had a "Dear Bill" letter from Illinois Gov. Dan Walker when he went to the Hambletonian Society's special meeting Sunday in New York.

And because of the letter he'll be coming home with a new three-year contract to continue staging the most prestigious of all harness races instead of the "Dear John" answer he got from the society last Oct. 28.

Hayes said the letter from the governor promising financial support to the fair in its bid was the difference.

Du Quoin, which has hosted the premier trotting event known as "the Kentucky Derby of Harness Racing," since 1957, was awarded a contract for 1975-7677, after it offered to add $125,000, to the Hambo purse, guaranteeing a total purse of $200,000. In addition, it guaranteed $25,000 to the companion Hambletonian filly stake.

Mitchell, Stans both acquitted

NEW YORK (AP) — A jury that started out "screaming and yelling across the table" has acquitted former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and one-time Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans of all charges in their criminal conspiracy case.

The nine men and three women came to unanimous agreement Sunday afternoon after 26 hours of deliberation that the former cabinet colleagues were innocent of conspiracy, obstruction of justice and perjury.

Both were accused of trying to block a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of financier Robert L. Vesco, in return for Vesco's secret $200,000 cash contribution to President Nixon's re-election campaign.

Referring to Vesco and his aides, Juror Clarence Brown said after the verdict: "They wanted to get something, but I don't think that Stans and Mitchell ever fell for it."

The jury's forewoman, Sybil Kucharski, said, "We were off in little groups screaming and yelling across the table" when the deliberations began. She said the jury was split even on the conspiracy count, so it turned to the six separate perjury counts against Mitchell and Stans.

"After looking through all the perjury charges, the rest was easy," Miss Kucharski said. "We figured there couldn't be any conspiracy if there was no perjury."

The verdict brought a smile to the face of the normally undemonstrative Mitchell. But it brought no legal surcease. He faces trial in Washington at a still unset date on almost identical charges in connection with the cover-up of the Watergate break-in.

Leon Jaworski, the Watergate special prosecutor, still is studying part of the Nixon campaign financing operation which Stans headed.

"Our faith was resting with a very, very fine jury," Mitchell told a news conference in the U.S. Courthouse. "They were a cross section of the people and they were representative of America."

"If there is one place I am firmly convinced you can get justice, it's from the American people. I have great faith in America and that's why I love this country."

Stans was shedding tears of relief by the time the lengthy 15-count verdict had been read. "I've been reborn," he told a newsman. "I was innocent all along, but it's good to have it confirmed."

In Washington, Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald Warren said of President Nixon: "The President was very pleased for the two men and for their families."

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, said he sees no connection between the verdict and future Watergate cases. "Each case stands on its own bottom," he said.

Vesco, who was indicted with Stans and Mitchell and lives in exile in Costa Rica, called the verdict

the "first fair verdict I've heard in a long time."

The chief prosecutor, Asst. U.S. Atty. John R. Wing, was deeply disappointed. Asked how he felt about the verdict, he replied:

"Rotten! If we could have gotten Vesco back it would have been different. It was absolutely not a waste. When there's evidence that people committed a crime, those crimes should be investigated and prosecuted."

Vesco fled the country in the midst of an SEC investigation of his corporate activities and all efforts to bring him back failed.

Mitchell and Stans were charged with conspiring to obstruct an SEC fraud investigation of Vesco, who has corporate interests in such diverse locales as Hong Kong, Beirut and the Bahamas.

It was an influence peddling deal, the government said. The prosecution called it a "quid pro quo"—something for something—in return for Vesco's $200,000. The cash was collected by Stans, who raised $60 million for Nixon's 1972 campaign.

Mitchell, 60, a man of dry humor, was the law and order symbol of Nixon's first administration. He represented administration firmness against antiwar demonstrators during the late '60s and early '70s and pushed for a number of law and order measures.

Mitchell now is estranged from his wife, Martha. Asked at his post-trial news conference whether he had talked to Martha since his acquittal, Mitchell asked: "Who?"

Nixon sets TV reply to tapes subpoena

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon plans to take his case against impeachment to the public with a prime time nationally televised address tonight, sources said.

They said they expected Nixon to make the broadcast at 8 p.m. CDT on all television and radio networks. But they said the time was subject to change.

The address will be keyed to Nixon's response to a House Judiciary Committee subpoena for 42 presidential conversations with one-time administration officials. The subpoena must be answered by 9 a.m. Tuesday.

As the week began, two top Republicans said it would be inadequate for Nixon to turn over transcripts but not subpoenaed tape recordings to the House Judiciary Committee. That view was taken by former Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., in separate television interviews Sunday.

Nixon spent much of the weekend at his Camp David, Md., retreat, working on his response. He had scheduled his return for today but flew back unexpectedly by helicopter Sunday night.

Sources at the White House began putting out word Friday that the President might make a television address Monday night. The subject is certain to be the escalating demands for material from White House files.

In addition, a subpoena requested by special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski that demanded tapes and records of 64 presidential conversations calls for a response Thursday.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said that "we have every intention" of meeting the Tuesday deadline for an answer to the House committee subpoena.

Richardson said supplying the transcripts of the tapes would not meet the order of the committee's subpoena. He also said that "the case is close," about whether there was sufficient evidence to prove Nixon had committed an indictable offense.

Richardson resigned Oct. 10 rather than fire then-special prosecutor Archibald Cox. He was interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Asked why he felt the possibility of an indictable offense against Nixon was "close," Richardson said:

"What would bother me is the pattern. The direct answer is I don't think that the evidence is sufficient in any given situation: Milk, ITT, cover-up of Watergate, to directly implicate the President. But the cumulative pattern of these things surrounding the President, in each case involving somebody next to him in responsibility, creates a really troublesome question."

"A failure on his part now to fully

meet the requests for tapes justifies an adverse inference on this very question."

Javits, on CBS' "Face the Nation," said that turning over transcripts likely would be viewed as inadequate. He also said that if the House votes an impeachment, Nixon should step down temporarily while he is on trial in the Senate.

Last week the Judiciary Committee voted 34 to 4 to grant a White House request for five more days. Originally the deadline was last Thursday.

In granting the delay, many committee members, including Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said they hoped the request for more time to review the subpoenaed material was an indication that Nixon planned to supply everything called for in the subpoena.

But the committee appeared unanimous in its concern that the White House response might be edited transcripts. Even the President's strongest supporters seemed agreed that unless the committee has a role in verifying that all pertinent material is included in the transcripts, they would not be acceptable.

Pumps are fuller, the work days are longer and the gasoline lines are gone, but Kankakee area motorists are paying for it—nearly as much as anyone in the country.

Gasoline allocations in the Kankakee area were greater in April than in March, in some cases more than 25 per cent more than last month. One local distributor said his gas allotment for April was more than 100 per cent more than April, 1973, which is the base year for allocations.

A local spokesman for the Illinois Gasoline Dealers Association said today area stations are open six days a week, sometimes seven. But there is no positive indication that the gas "surplus" will last.

Bruce Huot, one of the owners of Baron Huot Oil Co., said this morning his company received an April allocation of more than 100 per cent of April, 1972.

"We have more product for the month of April than we did for March and May, but it looks like we'll have far less in May than we did in April," Huot said. Baron Huot receives most of its gas from the Phillips Petroleum Co.

Huot said his company had a 75 per cent allocation for March and that the May allocation would probably slip to the 75 per cent mark.

When asked why he received such a large chunk in April, Huot replied, "I don't have any idea."

Effort to end acid leakage near success

CHICAGO (AP) — An attempt to cement the rupture in a tank that has been leaking a dangerous chemical since Friday "should work," officials said today.

The cement, which was poured around the rupture for seven hours during the night, hardened before dawn.

Fumes from the chemical — silicon tetrachloride — were still registered at slightly below what was called the minor irritant level. But officials speculated the fumes were caused by the liquid remaining on the ground.

While the cement was poured, workmen continued to remove the dangerous chemical which forced the evacuation of thousands of persons Friday night and caused 102 persons to seek treatment at hospitals.

The tank, at the Bulk Terminals Co., in Calumet Harbor, ruptured, releasing nauseous fumes over a South Side neighborhood. While no one was seriously injured — the majority of those treated complained of headaches, coughing and eye irritation — eight persons remained hospitalized today.

Pumping of the chemical was minimal Sunday as workers attempted to neutralize fumes still escaping from the tank with a mixture of limestone and diesel oil.

Woman's remains pose mystery to authorities

By RALPH SHUPE
Journal Correspondent

WILMINGTON — Will County authorities are attempting to unravel the mystery of how the body of a woman might have reached an island in the Kankakee River, decomposed and lain there long enough so that only bones remained to be found Sunday.

The skull and several other bones were discovered when a party of canoeists stopped at the island, said to be the first large island in the river about 1½ miles northwest of Warner Bridge.

The canoeists took the bones with them to Wilmington, where they were being met by friends, and reported to the police department. City police referred them to the Will County sheriff's department.

Deputy Charles Graham called for assistance from the state crime lab and then asked for river transportation from the Wilmington Fire Department to go to the island.

Their search revealed several more bones, including the rib cage, a blue and green plaid dress, bra and slip. From the size of the slip, they deduced she was a rather large woman. They also discovered she had an upper partial plate.

One of the canoeists in the party was Robert J. Bell, 404 N. Joliet St., Wilmington, and he took the bones to the city police department.

Willard Blood, Will County coroner, said there was no way to tell how the body of the woman had reached the island, how long she had been dead or what was the cause of death.

He said the bones were being examined by the state crime laboratory. Any further action will depend on findings of the lab and if they show cause for further investigation, the coroner said.

Enough gas, but area prices high

He added, "You never know from one month to the next what you're going to have. I tell you, this is an interesting business to be in."

Bob Agee, president of the Kankakee chapter of the Illinois Gasoline Dealers Association, said this morning that most of the 35 member dealers in the area have sufficient gas supplies for April.

"Almost everyone has been open more hours than in recent months," said Agee, who operates Agee's Marathon service station, Court St. and I-57. "We've extended our hours by 30 per cent over the last month, primarily because we have more fuel available."

Agee said all the 35 member stations are now open at least six days a week with some open all day Sunday. Only a handful close early on Saturday, he said.

Gas prices in Kankakee are nearly as high as Hawaii, where the 58 to 62 cents per gallon range is the highest in the nation, according to a American Automobile Association survey.

Huot said dealers who get gas from Baron Huot are charging 57.9 cents per gallon for regular and 59.4 cents for premium. Roland Arnell, manager of Ridgeway Services Inc., said the 12 area stations that Ridgeway supplies are charging 56.4 cents for regular, 60.9 for premium.

Ridgeway is a distributor for Union Oil Co. Arnell said Ridgeway's allocation for April was 70 per cent, primarily because the Union refinery in Leont was in a "turn around" in April.

Arnell said the refinery closed for three weeks in April to inspect the refinery and update methods. He said the "turn around" is a common practice and performed every three years.

The 12 stations supplied by Ridgeway are open six days a week, despite the 70 per cent allocation, Arnell said.

Syrians report 2 jets lost

By United Press International

Syrian and Israeli jets clashed today in an air battle that spilled over into Lebanese air space. Israel said its planes shot down four Syrian MIG21s and the Syrians said their planes shot down two Israeli Phantom jets and that their missiles destroyed a third.

Syria admitted the loss of two of its MIGs; Israel said it suffered no losses. Artillery and patrol clashes continued for the 49th consecutive day, bearing out statements by Syrian leaders that there would be no let-up in the fighting because of the impending visit of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger in an attempt to achieve troop disengagement.

Damascus communiques reported the air battles broke out following a series of strikes by each air force against enemy positions on Mt. Hermon, and that large formations of planes swirled through the skies over Mt. Hermon in a battle that soon spread to Lebanese air space.

Israeli sources reported a Syrian troop buildup opposite the Israeli lines on the northern front but dismissed it as a psychological move to coincide with Kissinger's fifth Middle East peace mission since the October war. Kissinger arrives in the Middle East later this week.

Kissinger, meanwhile, met Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko for a second time to try to gain Soviet support — or at least hands off — for American efforts to bring about troop disengagement between Israel and Syria.

The two men met in an L-shaped room on the penthouse floor of the Intercontinental Hotel at 10 a.m. (5 a.m.

CDT) and were later lunching before Kissinger flies to Algiers this evening en route to his mission in the Middle East.

"What do you want me to do?" Gromyko asked Kissinger as they stood smiling for photographers and cameramen under the lights in the lobby of the hotel when Kissinger went down to meet him, flanked by security men.

Spectators lining the balcony applauded them but were kept away by barriers lining the way to the elevators.

American officials said the two main subjects would be Kissinger's Middle East mission and a new agreement on limiting multiple warheads on strategic missiles (MIRVs) which President Nixon hopes to conclude when he visits Moscow in June.

Kissinger arrived Sunday night and drove to the Soviet Mission around the corner from the hotel to meet Gromyko for their first meeting which lasted almost two hours. American spokesmen described it as "friendly and constructive."

Syrians attacked

Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam told Beirut's Al-Bihar magazine that the Syrian presence in the Middle East or absence from it has no connection with the fighting.

"Visits, regardless of their nature, cannot estimate the fighting," the magazine quoted him as saying. "We are fighting for declared and well-known reasons and the fighting will stop only when its reasons are ended."

Other Beirut press reports said Grozny would probably fly to Damascus Tuesday, two days ahead of Khaddam, who was scheduled to arrive in the Syrian capital Thursday after stops in Algeria, Egypt and Jerusalem.

In other Middle East developments, Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, a dove favoring concessions to the Arabs in peace talks, today in efforts to put together a coalition government to succeed Premier Golda Meir's caretaker cabinet.

The new government is expected to engineer an abortive attempt to overthrow President Anwar Sadat, urged the Cairo-based Arab League to investigate an April 18 attack allegedly aimed at ousting the Egyptian leader.

Kissinger was meeting in Geneva today with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in an attempt to keep the Russians from sabotaging negotiations for separating opposing armies along the Golan Heights.

The military source in Tel Aviv said it was hard to tell whether the Syrian "shelling of Mt. Hermon was 'meant to soften up Israeli positions prior to an assault.'"

"They have enough forces now if they want to do something, but it could be a psychological move because of Kissinger," he said. "What they're saying is, 'We could use force if we don't get what we want.'"

Syria also claimed to have downed an Israeli warplane in a dogfight over the battle zone Sunday, but Israel said it shot it down.

Miller pulls for friend, then goes and beats him

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP)—Johnny Miller wasn't expecting to win the Tournament of Champions. Not after that opening 75. And, as late as the last round he was pulling for Buddy Altn, a longtime team-mate at Brigham Young.

"He's a gutsy little guy who's had a lot of problems. A real gentleman. I was pulling for him to win," Miller said, smiling, and added, "But I was trying to get in my licks, too."

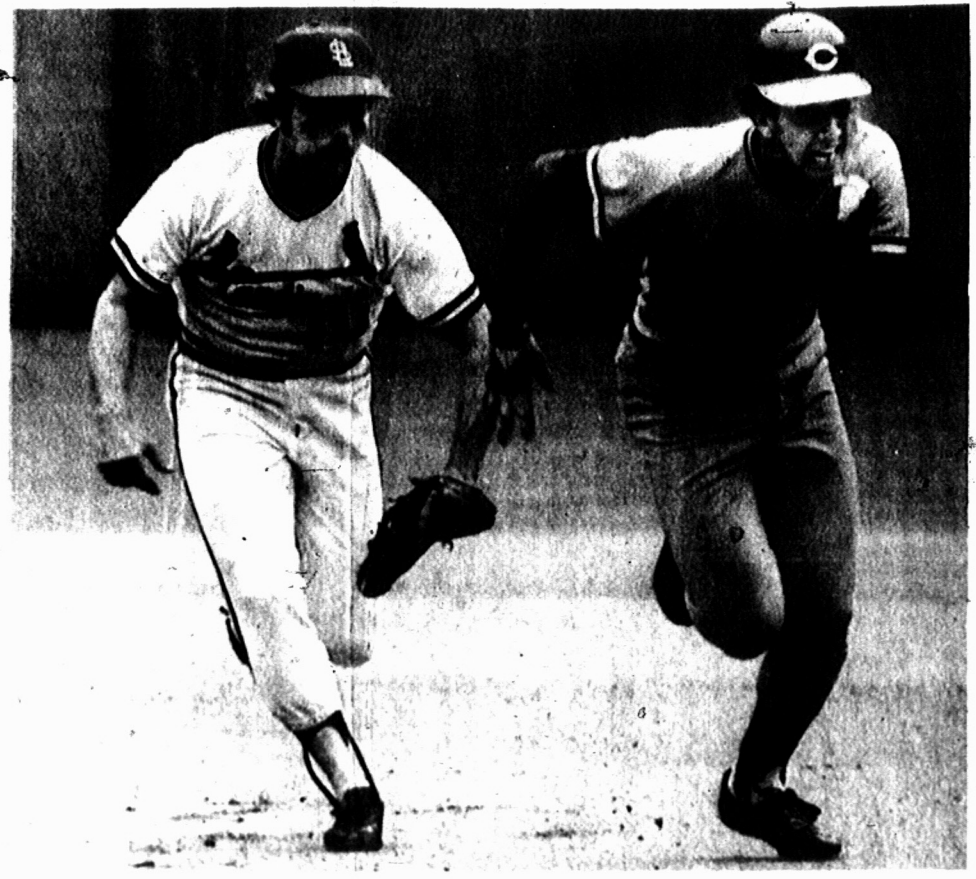

He did.

Miller claimed his fifth pro golf title of the year Sunday with a clutch four-foot par-saving putt on the last hole that let him avoid a sudden-death playoff with Altn and John Mahaffey.

Miller, the U.S. Open champion and the sensation of the tour this season, was the only man in the elite field of 25 tournament winners who broke par in the windy, pressure-packed final round. He had a 66 and a 286 total.

Altn and Mahaffey, now a runner-up three times this season, each had a share of the top spot until they bogeyed the 72nd hole. They tied for second at 281, Miller with a final 70, Altn with 71.

Billy Casper was alone at 71-283. The group at 285 included Gene Littler, Jerry Heard and Hubert Green, a two-time winner this year. Litter and Heard had 75 on the 6,855-yard La Costa Country Club course and Miller, the U.S. Open

Dear Abby

Longs for life after empty years

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: How can a man come back to life at 59 after 13 years of life without life?

My wife died recently after a long illness, and I've been out of circulation for so long I don't know where to begin making a new life for myself.

I may sound cold and heartless, but now that she is gone, I feel a sense of freedom. You see, she left my bed 13 years ago and never showed me any sign of affection after that, so in my view our marriage ended then. (She thought a man over 40 didn't need a woman to sleep with.)

My ego has been ground down to pulp publicly and privately more times than I can count. My only source of satisfaction is in knowing that I stuck with her until the bitter end without cheating on her once, although I often was tempted.

I am free to find a woman who can compensate for all that emptiness. Abby, I am so full of love, and so eager to give it to someone, I can hardly stand it.

Somewhere there must be a woman who is willing to take on a steady assignment like that. But where do I start looking? I need it now. Thirteen years is long enough. I ask only for one with stamina. Thanks.

GEORGE

DEAR GEORGE: Call your friends — married and single — and let them know you are interested in dating. You'll be surprised! Find out what your church and community have to offer in the way of social programs. Get into volunteer work — a good way to meet people with similar interests. Get out and get going. Some lucky gal has a treat coming.

DEAR ABBY: There is a teacher at school who makes some of us girls sick. He pulls the hair out of his sideburns and eats it.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some faint smudges and discoloration, characteristic of old paper. The right edge of the page is bordered by a dark, vertical strip, which appears to be the book's binding or cover material. There is no text or other markings on the page.
