Teachers weighing pay offer

A proposal from the board of education of Bradley Elementary School District for the 1974-75 salary schedule is being considered by teachers today.

Members of the teachers negotiating team appeared at the board meeting Thursday night in regard to a proposal that had been made to the board by the teachers. At request of Leslie McClure and Dr. L. G. Gunning, negotiators for the board, a closed session was held to consider the proposal. Following the session the board presented its proposal with the request that it be taken to the teachers in the district this afternoon.

In other business the board held a discussion on the resource equalizer which affects the state aid formula and the amount of money the district will receive from the state during the year. Supt. James Clark told the board that there is a possibility that the district will lose about $50,000 in state aid next year. He said that this is because Gov. Walker and State Supt. of Public Instruction Michael Bakalis have informed school districts that the full funding from the state for schools next year will fall about $84,000,000 short of last year.

Supt. Clark said that because the resource equalizer is unequal unit dis-

Career center's budget up nearly $200,000

By BILL SEIL

A $884,990 estimated budget for the 1975 fiscal year, an increase of $197,750 over the present fiscal year, was approved by the Kankakee Area Career Center administrative council Thursday night.

The 1974 fiscal budget was $487,200, an increase of only $9,200 over the previous fiscal year.

According to Henry J. Hodus, career center director, the entire budget is based on estimates and a clear picture of expenditures will not be visible until certain variables, such as next year's enrollment, are determined. He said that once these variables are determined, the budget will be readjusted.

Much of the budget increase, about $75,000, is listed under a new category called "vocational projects for resale." This includes $45,000 for materials and supplies for the house being built by the building trades class in the Briarcliff subdivision; $15,000 for two more lots in the subdivision for future construction, and $15,000 for materials and supplies for the construction of a second house.

The new budget also contains a provision for contingencies of $65,000, an increase of $5,000. Hodus again cited the variables and said placing the funds in the contingency category covers potential costs of programs under consideration, such as the hiring of more teaching aides, and possible added costs in the house construction projects.

Hodus said last year's budget was more rigid and did not take into account major increases in costs of materials and supplies. He said the new budget takes the possibility of cost increases into account and gives him more flexibility to operate.

Other budget items include: estimated expenditures of $40,400 for administration, $318,200 for instruction, $400 for health, $57,850 for operation, $18,900 for maintenance, $44,100 for fixed charges and $5,100 for other student and community services.

The balance as of July 1, 1974 was projected at $110,000. Estimated revenues for the 1975 fiscal year are $120,000 in government funds, $360,000 in tuition, $850 in adult education funds, $16,000 from student and community services and $82,000 from other sources. This leaves a projected balance for June 30, 1975 of $3,900.

Harry Skalsky of Bradley prepared the budget with Hodus. The budget was estimated on a projected 950 students.

A new rotation plan for representation on the career center's executive committee was given initial approval. Formal approval will be considered at the next quarterly meeting. Six of the 10 members of the career center are represented every school year. Under

Walkout ends; R-C students back

By RALPH SHUPE
Journal correspondent

BRAIDWOOD — About 125 students at Reed-Custer High School walked out at noon Thursday in protest over what they termed "the forced resignation of one of the favorite and most respected teachers in the high school."

The entire student body of about 250 was sent home at 1 p.m.

Student spokesmen had declared they would continue the walkout until the board of education reconsidered the case of John Reglin, music teacher, who is alleged to have used "improper language" in anger at a female student and her two female companions last week.

STUDENTS WHO witnessed the incident said Reglin "made a mistake" in his reaction to "severe provocation" by the student.

One student spokesman said that "all the student body asks is to have the Reglin case reopened and evidence presented by students who witnessed the incident."

At a special meeting called by the R-C board of education Thursday night, the protesting students agreed to return to class today after the board said it would hear further evidence in the case from Reglin and the female student directly involved in the incident in which both are alleged to have used "improper language." Supt. John Survanice said students did return to classes today.

THE BOARD IS TO hear the evidence at a closed meeting to be held Monday night.

Following a closed meeting Thursday night, the board met with about 100 students and parents in the R-C gym for an open discussion of the Reglin case.

Board President Curtis Simpson and Cary Nielsen, R-C junior, conducted a free swinging question and answer session. Nielsen said the students regarded the board decision as hasty and not quite fair.

"Even though what Reglin did was wrong," Nielsen added, "we don't think his career should be destroyed by one incident."

SIMPSON ASKED, "If he had made the remark to your daughter, what would you have done?"

"I would probably have punched him in the nose," Nielsen replied.

Asked by Simpson why the students did not speak out at the Monday night meeting when Reglin appeared before the board of education, Nielsen said

Tax savings to be realized by many in area

By JAN STRASMA

Growth in Bourbonnais Township has resulted in a tax savings for many township taxpayers, while Bradley area residents are reaping the benefits of a lack of residential growth.

The increased tax valuation resulting from residential and industrial growth lowered the tax rate for Bourbonnais Elementary School District and Bradley-Bourbonnais High School District.

AT THE same time, taxpayers in the Bradley Grade School District will have substantially lower taxes because a lack of growth. With a stable school population, the district's buildings are almost paid for.

Because school districts soak up the bulk of the total tax rate, any drop in the school rate is clearly reflected in the overall rate, which includes all taxing bodies involved.

Bradley and Bourbonnais, for example, were among the handful of communities in the county where the total tax rate dropped for 1973 property taxes. Tax bills will be sent out later this month, and the first installment will be due July 1.

MOST OTHER school districts in Kankakee County recorded an increase in their tax rates, according to the rate prepared by the staff of County Clerk Edmund A. Soule. The rate dropped significantly in Mokena, however, and several other districts recorded slight decreases.

Tax bills are computed by multiplying the tax rate by the assessed valuation of the property involved. The rate is for each $100 of assessed valuation.

The Bradley and Bourbonnais areas are served by dual school districts. There are separate grade school districts for Bradley and Bourbonnais and both communities are included in the high school district.

The Bourbonnais Elementary School District and the high school district (which includes St. George) had substantial increases in the total assessed valuation in the district — with the result that a lower tax rate is needed to raise the required revenue.

THE ELEMENTARY district just $5 million in valuation, while the high school district went up $8 million.

Both districts also reduced their levies somewhat to further reduce the tax rate. The Bourbonnais district's rate was down 1.9 cents to $2.06, and the high school rate dropped 15 cents to $1.65, the lowest rate since 1969.

BRADLEY Grade School District's valuation went up $2.5 million, but the real benefit to taxpayers resulted from the lack of increase in the number of students.

Because the number of students has remained constant, the district will soon complete bond payments on all its school buildings. The bond and interest rate fund dropped 14 cents this year, and there was another decrease in the education fund because of increased

Nixon standing firm against resignation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon is standing firm against resignation, a White House spokesman said today.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said that it was not necessary for Nixon to bring up the question of resignation during an hour-long meeting this morning with Vice President Gerald R. Ford because Ford "knows very well the President's intention and feeling on the matter and that the President intends to complete his term."

Warren said that in their meeting, with no other aides present, Ford and Nixon had a "good talk."

They discussed the domestic and foreign policies of this country, including some time talking about the inflated economy.

In response to a question, Warren said it was "quite possible" that Nixon and Ford had talked about "the mood of the country" following growing pressure for Nixon to quit.

Warren said Ford "knows the President's feelings" on the subject and he made it clear again that Nixon intends to hold fast against resigning.

"I have outlined to you the President's view again, and again on resignation," Warren said. "The facts are there is an impeachment inquiry under way. We don't think the President will be impeached."

Warren said he was not sure Nixon had received a letter today from Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., urging him to resign "because I don't know whether the senator mailed it before he held his press conference."

Warren said Schweiker's resignation call was not surprising. "I really don't detect any shift in position on the senator's part," Warren said. "Of all expressions we have seen recently this is the least surprising."

As for the Nixon-Ford meeting, Warren told reporters "I won't say there was no mention of the impeachment proceeding. It may have come up in a peripheral way."

As to whether Nixon is cognizant of all the resignation demands, including those in several major newspapers that formerly supported him, Warren said:

"Let me just assure you, the President is aware of the various discussions being raised on this issue. The President respects the views of major newspapers around the country. But he disagrees and I disagree with those that have come up."

Prior to Ford's meeting with Nixon, the vice president's deputy press secretary, Bill Roberts, said critical comments Thursday by Ford about administration handling of Watergate did not represent "an attempt to pull away from the President."

What the comments were designed to do, Roberts said, were to show the vice president "is seriously concerned about the loss of confidence in the presidency and in Congress."

Schweiker made public a letter to Nixon in which he said transcripts of the President's Watergate conversations "reveal a total disregard for the moral and ethical values upon which this nation was built," and provided evidence of "obvious moral corrosion destroying and debasing the presidency."

Schweiker was the second first-term Republican senator in two days to suggest Nixon leave office voluntarily rather than fight the impeachment process that the House Judiciary Committee formally started Thursday afternoon. Sen. Marlow W. Cook, R-Ky., said late Thursday that the President should consider stepping down.

Two other Republican senators previously had called for resignation—Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., and Sen. James L. Buckley, CR-N.Y.

One top White House spokesman insisted Thursday that Nixon would not resign "even if hell freezes over." And in an interview on the NBC-TV Today Show this morning, presidential counselor Dean Burch said:

"I really question whether we should start a system of politics in this country whereby we make ad hoc decisions on morality and that Presidents must, ergo, resign. I think that the impeachment process was put in the Constitution for this purpose and I think the President has asked that he be given the benefits of this process."

Burch said that resignation "would imply at least" that he was guilty of wrongdoing.

Career center budget

The proposed executive committee membership for the 1974-1975 school year is: St. Anne, Clifton, Grant Park, Herscher, Monmouth, Reddick and Kankakee. The five-year rotation plan begins in the 1975-1976 school year when Herscher attains full membership. The proposed school district representation for that year will be Clifton, Grant Park, Herscher, Monmouth, Reddick and Kankakee.

Representation in future years, under the proposal, will be Herscher, Monmouth, Reddick, Kankakee, Peotone and Manteno in 1976-1977; Reddick, Kankakee, Peotone, Manteno, Herscher and Monmouth in 1977-1978; Peotone, Manteno, Herscher, Monmouth, Reddick and Kankakee in 1978-1979; and Grant Park in 1979-1980.

The council members firmly rejected a motion made by Byron Wallace of Kankakee School District 111 that would have disbanded the administrative council and expanded the executive committee to include annual representation by all participating school districts. The proposal would also have made the superintendent of the Kankakee County Educational Service Region an ex-officio member, rather than a voting member, as is the case now. One meeting per year would be held that would include the membership of all participating school districts for adoption of budget, presentation of program and other information.

The Wallace proposal had passed the executive committee by a vote of four-to-two, for presentation to the administrative council.

Also in the Bradley-Bourbonnais High School rate is St. George Grade School District where the rate is $2.11, up 12 cents.

The biggest jump in rate was in Kankakee, where the rate increased 45 cents to $2.63. Superintendent Dwight Wright said 33 cents of the increase in several years.

THE HIGHEST tax rate in the county is in Pembroke Township where the rate is $4.56 for each $100 of assessed valuation.

The Pembroke school rate is $2.63, and the high school rate is $1.74.

The lowest rate in the county is the Grant Park District where the rate is $2.60, even though the rate went up 13 cents over last year.

Kankakee School District 111 had a rate increase of 12 cents, bringing its rate to $2.63.

Combining the tax rates for the Bradley and Bourbonnais schools with the high school district, the total school rates are $2.97 for Bradley and $3.72 in Bourbonnais.

5 students suspended from Westview H.S.

Three more students were suspended this morning from Westview High School after being caught by police officers entering the building at 8 a.m. today.

Five students have now been suspended since disturbances closed the school at 12:30 p.m. Thursday. The 50 students left the building after further incidents, according to Dr. Richard Denoyer, Kankakee School District 111 superintendent.

The suspended students are three who were allegedly involved in fights Thursday. Denoyer said in a statement today, Classes were resumed this morning with only two incidents by noon today. Thursday's incidents began during the lunch hour.

Denoyer said the three who were suspended today have been recommended for expulsion. Today's attendance figures were not available but Denoyer said "attendance is down somewhat."

Seven Kankakee policemen stood in the halls of the school and were called out twice to disperse students from the parking lot.

Police turned back the first 50 students after Denoyer and Nathan Richmond, school principal, ordered them from the building. Denoyer said the students were sent from the building in order to avoid an incident.

"Their purpose, I think, was to start a fight," Denoyer said.

The 50 students, all of them white, grouped this morning at Midtown Park, then had the administration building. Students told the police that they left the parking lot and drove to the school's parking lot shortly before 8 a.m.

One student said the group was refused entrance to the building. Richmond said all absences today are unexpected.

N. Y. Stocks Indicted firms get new pacts

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market lost ground today after major banks across the nation boosted their prime lending rate to a record 15 1/2 percent.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which shot up nearly 15 points on Thursday, was off 2.57 to 882.80. Advances and declines ran almost neck-and-neck on the New York Stock Exchange.

The move within the banking industry to boost the key interest rate from 11 percent was the primary impetus for the decline, analysts said. The increase in the prime mirrors the rise in short-term interest rates, which have been drawing investors away from the market to interest-bearing securities.

American Medicorp, the Big Bear's most active stock, was unchanged at 29 1/2. The increase in the prime mirrors the rise in short-term interest rates, which have been drawing investors away from the market to interest-bearing securities.

Consolidated Edison fell 1 1/2 to 74 1/2. The increase in the prime mirrors the rise in short-term interest rates, which have been drawing investors away from the market to interest-bearing securities.

The composite index of Big Board stocks fell 1.14 to 49.03 at 11 a.m. while the market-value index on the American Stock Exchange rose 30 to 88.37.

Teachers and elementary district will face a choice of less funds next year while high school districts will continue to get about the same amounts despite the cutback on the state funds.

It was announced that the building committee of the district is to meet today with Paul Lovell of the Bradley Village Board of Trustees in regard to the selection of a site on the Bradley East School campus for the construction of two new courts.

Several contracts were let for services to the district next school year. According to bidding, contracts for providing heat to the district went to the Bulkhead Heating Co. for gasline to the Greenfield Service Co. for milk and milk products to Schnell Dairy Co. and for the refuse pickup to the Kankakee Industrial Disposal Co.

Omer Tetrault was rehired as treasurer for the school district. The 1974-75 school year, this is his 28th consecutive year in that position.

Personnel for the 1974-75 summer reading and math programs will be selected by the district. The summer reading project will be led by teachers, 6 aides and a clerical person. Joining Perry in the math project will be other teachers, aides and a clerical person.

The summer program will start on June 17 with an all-personnel in-service program. Students will report on June 18. The program will continue in conjunction with a reception unit begun during the class.

A report on the state student council for the school district was made last week and was given by Michael Roselli to the board. A group of Bradley students to the council.

Reports were also given by Robert H. Lusk, president of the National Elementary Principals Association, and by William DeWitt, president of the Illinois State Teachers Association. DeWitt conducted one of the labs dealing with public relations and H. Lusk presented a Project Action program.

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybean futures advanced 1/4 cent to 20 1/2 cents today, while corn futures advanced 1/8 cent to 20 1/2 cents.

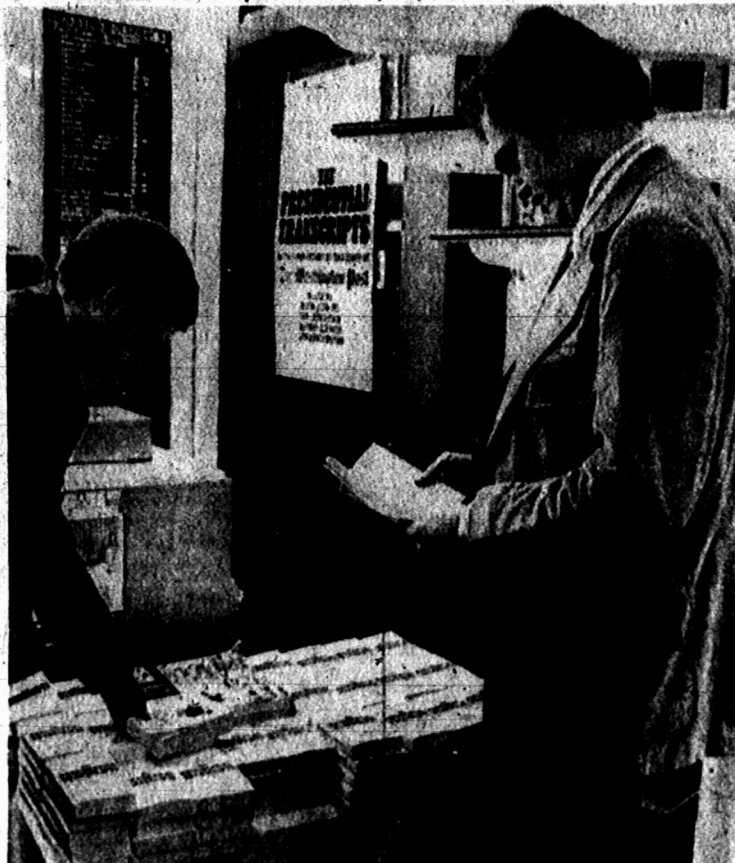

The strength in the grain market was due to a combination of factors, including a report that the U.S. government had purchased 100,000 bushels of soybeans for the military.

Chicago grain prices were also influenced by a report that the U.S. government had purchased 100,000 bushels of soybeans for the military.

Better than 'The Exorcist'?

The private conversations of President Nixon and White House aides, as contained in the recently-released transcripts, are the hottest selling item in the nation's book stores since "The Exorcist." Nixon tape transcripts 'selling like hotcakes'

By United Press International
The private conversations of President Nixon and White House aides on Watergate are "selling like hotcakes" — the fastest-selling item in the nation's book stores since "The Exorcist."

"We didn't realize the extent to which this book touched some kind of nerve in the American public," the tremendous curiosity people have about what goes on in the Oval Office of the White House, said William B. Dickson Jr., editorial director of the Washington Post Writers Group.

The Washington Post, in conjunction with Dell Publishing, and Bantam Books, jointly with The New York Times, both rushed into print paperback versions of the 300,000-word transcripts Nixon made public April 30.

The book versions and the supplements, published by many newspapers are being purchased at an unprecedented rate, a United Press International survey shows.

"They're selling like hotcakes," said Bob Malard of the Bonanza Inn Book Shop in San Francisco, which sold its supply in under an hour.

In Nashville, Tenn., Jim Balle, manager of Zibart's Book Store, received 150 copies of the book on Thursday and sold half of them within three hours. He ordered as many more as the distributor could provide.

The paperback was in such demand in Washington that Dell flew in 11,000 copies on five Lear jets Thursday afternoon. And in Tulsa, where the book just arrived, one bookstore clerk had a "box full" of reservations and wondered if the shipper would "stretch that far."

The transcripts have a way to go to beat "The Exorcist," whose paperback sales have topped 11 million. But in the less than four days in print, Dell had published 17 million copies, and Bantam more than 800,000, with both firms charging them out at the rate of 25,000 copies an hour.

The Dell-Washington Post version is selling for $2.45, and the Bantam-Times edition costs $2.50.

Many persons were able to get full versions of the transcripts at bargain rates through their local newspapers or by purchasing the more expensive, bulky soft-bound (812.25) Government Printing Office version at post offices around the country.

More than 50 newspapers around the country have published — or are publishing — in serial form — the tape transcript. Many others have published excerpts.

Kissinger bit more optimistic

TEL AVIV (UPI) — A shade more optimistic in the last 24 hours, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flew back to Israel today to resume his direct efforts to bring back a troop disengagement between Syria and Israel on the Golan Heights.

Israeli deputy Prime Minister Yigal Alon was even more optimistic—he said he "would not be surprised" if an agreement were in sight. Egyptian officials in Cairo said Kissinger would hold "very intensive" talks over the next four days, implying that an agreement might be in the making.

A high American official in the Kissinger party reported that the odds change daily in the endless discussion about Kissinger's plane and said he would place Kissinger's chances of success today at about 50-50 in favor.

The official said that it was quite possible there would be a break in favor of an agreement early next week—not likely but possible, as he put it.

The official said that the break should come, if it comes, by around 10 a.m. If Kissinger is still in the area by next Friday, he said, the chances perhaps two out of three that he can achieve some agreement on this trip.

The high official said that Kissinger's visit to Washington by May 27, a week from Monday at the latest, to attend a Central European Treaty Organization meeting.

Kissinger conferred in the morning in Cairo with President Sadat, had lunch there and then flew back to Israel to talk to Prime Minister Golda Meir before the Jewish Sabbath begins at 5:30 p.m.

The high American official said that if the secretary of state does not achieve some progress towards an agreement that can be preserved until he returns later to complete it.

The official confirmed reports that President Nixon has been in touch with Mrs. Meir about the negotiations but refused to say anything more.

He repeated again, as Americans' officials have in the past days, that progress had been made, but declined to say why. He was shade more optimistic in the past 24 hours.

"I would not be surprised if we reach a separation of forces agreement with the Syrians soon," Alon said before flying to London for talks with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson. He said Israel had given Kissinger the line behind which Israel is ready to deploy and "I don't expect any possibility of changes in that line."

In a speech earlier today at a kibbutz near the Sea of Galilee Alon had said, "I think something has gotten moving. Maybe the chances are 50-50 and now it depends on which 50 will win."

Kissinger and Sadat gave no briefing to the press at the end of their talks and a working lunch at Sadat's private residence at Giza, on the banks of the Nile, on Cairo's southern outskirts.

Kissinger's visit to Egypt—the third on his current Middle East tour—lasted two hours longer than expected.

American officials said Kissinger would remain in the area until Saturday and that he expected to return to Damascus on Sunday. There were indications earlier that Kissinger might return to Egypt.

Meanwhile, Israeli war-

Expensive army

Just on the face of it, there would seem to be all the room for economizing in the Defense Department's record $55.8 billion request for the coming fiscal year.

This is a monstrous sum of money, even though it represents a small fraction of America's total economic output. Americans, harried by inflation, perceiving no immediate threat to the nation's security and still looking for the Vietnam peace "dividend" that has never materialized, inevitably question whether such an outlay is necessary.

Military critics scream about the high cost of defense," says Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D-La.), chairman of the House Armed Services Committee. "But the cost of trying to do without the draft is high and will continue to increase."

The Army especially, which has discharged all but a tiny percentage of its draftees and has no prospects for any more, is discovering that it costs more and more to come up with less and less.

Despite a quadrupling of military pay in the past 10 years, $2,500 bonuses for four-year enlistments and a lowering of educational requirements, the Army fell nearly 15 percent below its 1973 recruitment target.

Masada: memorial to Israel's past

King Features Syndicate.

JERUSALEM — Mrs. Nancy Kissinger, so the story in the Jerusalem Post read on the day before Secretary of State Henry Kissinger moved on to Syria and Jordan, "will stay on to four Masada with Professor Yigael Yadin. Tomorrow she will cross over to Jordan by the Allenby Bridge and meet her husband in Amman."

This could have been a social note, and for all one can tell Mrs. Kissinger may have been cast in the role of just one more prospective sight-seeer bent on improving her time while her traveling mate went about his more important business. The circumstances, however, offered a tantalizing field for diplomatic speculation. For what is Masada, and who is Professor Yigael Yadin? And, finally, why would Nancy Kissinger, a serious researcher in her own right, be interested in taking a rubbernecking excursion like the average casual tourist?

TAKING THE QUESTIONS seriously, Masada is an archaeological relic of the first century of the Christian Era, when the so-called Jewish Zealots were making their last stand against the all-devouring power of Rome as symbolized by the Tenth Legion. The place itself stands on a forbidding hill, almost a mesa, on the barren western shore of the Dead Sea.

One reaches the top either by a long hour's scramble up a "snake path" guaranteed to take the wind out of the most nimble goat, or by a claustrophobic ski lift brought by the Israelis from Switzerland. Coming over the crest, one finds oneself in the remains of a fortress built by King Herod, who thought of it as a refuge in case Mark Antony, his Roman boss, should obey Cleopatra's whim and head Palestine over to the Egyptians.

HEROD, A METHUEN man, tricked the place out with granaries, storage rooms, baths and cisterns, with elaborately tiled palace quarters for himself. He died without leaving cause to use it. But when the Jewish revolt against Rome began to sour after 70 A.D., the band of last ditch Zealots who held seized the fortress held it for more than two years. The siege tower, finally managed to breach the north wall. But when they entered they found 858 corpses, dead by one of the most astounding suicide pacts in history. Two women remained alive to tell the Roman soldiers what had happened; presumably the Jewish historian Josephus Flavius got the story from the Romans, although he could have heard it from the two survivors.

Now what is the curriculum vitae of Professor Yigael Yadin, who volunteered to be Mrs. Kissinger's cicerone? He is a professor of archaeology at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem who served as director of excavations at Masada from 1963 to 1965. Before his career as an excavator he was, like other Israelis of pioneering mettle, a man of war, a Chief of Staff of the Israeli Defense Forces, a decorated war hero. MR. PRESIDENT: YOU FAILED TO COMPLY WITH OUR (DRAFTING DELAYED) SURPRISE

Nixon should resign quickly

BOSTON — When Willy Brandt resigned as chancellor of the Federal German Republic, he gave the briefest of official explanations: "I accept the political responsibility for the German-Light case in connection with the Guillaume case." The next day, for his parting gift to the German people, he made a speech in which he said that he was resigning because he was not a politician.

MY RESIGNATION is a result of my respect for the unwritten rules of democracy, and to prevent my personal and political integrity from being destroyed.

Distinct themes were woven together there. One was the duty to put system above self. Brandt was saying that West Germany's institutions were more important than any individual, and the rest of Hitler's death camps is preserved in the name of the republic.

When the federal republic was born, 25 years ago this month, it had to be regarded as one of the failures of democratic enterprise. Even if one could have put aside the horrors of the immediate past, there was almost nothing in German history to provide confidence that the self-restraint, the commitment to constitutional order, would be found among the republic's politicians.

Today West Germany is at least the equal of any other country in Western Europe in the confidence and stability of her institutions. A major, perhaps the decisive reason, has been the permanence of Willy Brandt.

In his years as chancellor the country faced severe tests of its constitution, and passed them. There was the coalition government, and the

Dixon still No. 1; Page to try harder

SPRINGFIELD Has Alan Dixon given Harry Page an issue?

Maybe.

At least there was surprise at the statehouse when a confirmed report arose from the campaign trail that the popular Belleville Democrat had publicly stated this is the last time he will run for state treasurer.

IT HAS LONG been recognized beneath the capital dome that Dixon at the relatively young political age of 46 has his sights set on higher office — U.S. senator or governor.

Brainwash by Devil

At last Congress finally did something that was long overdue in calling for a day of humiliation, fasting and prayer.

We have been blessed like no other nation at any time in our history. Why? Because our founding fathers put their dependence on God to guide the nation.

How often, we have drifted far from God's law and now what a wholesale mess we are in! We have let the Devil's group constantly try and brainwash us in removing any mention of God in our lives.

The Bible tells in Ezekiel what happened to Sodom. I wish that all the newspapers in this country would put on the front pages in headlines "Congress proclaims national day of humiliation, fasting and prayer," then print the complete prayer, then read it and say "amen" and "amen."

Nixon's judgement is getting worse

WASHINGTON — In the Congressional Globe for June 4, 1942, the official stenographer in the House of Representatives reports John Quincy Adams as follows:

"Mr. Adams said . . . why, what mockery it would be for the Constitution of the United States to say that the House should have the power of impeachment, extending over the President of the United States himself, and yet to say that the House had not the power to obtain the evidence and proofs on which their impeachment was based. It appeared to him [Adams] equivalent to a self-evident principle, that the power of impeachment gives to the House necessarily the power to call for persons and papers."

NEVERTHELESS, 122 years later this is precisely the principle President Nixon is challenging in the Watergate case. He has refused to turn over the additional "evidence and proofs" requested by the House Judiciary Committee and the special prosecutor, Leon Jaworski, and his lawyer, James D. St. Clair, has threatened to sue the House for its refusal to do so.

It is probably inevitable that this conflict between the President's claims to "confidentiality" and the House's power to call for "persons and papers" in an impeachment proceeding, should be decided by the highest court for judicial review. But again what is odd movement to the left. There was Nixon's Ostpolitik, breaking with the shibboleths of the past. There were the tests of no-confidence votes and in-terim elections, met by Brandt without any trimming of principle.

His resignation is one more test of the constitution, and in that sense a last great contribution to his part. For the West Germans will pass the test, will show that their fidelity is now to system rather than person.

BRANDT'S CHARACTER was more important than his policy. He brought directness, simplicity, above all integrity. An American who was close to him said this week: "I'm convinced that his last value, for the Germans and for the rest of us, was his demonstration that there can be moral integrity in politics. That is why he quit as he did, with the simple statement that he took responsibility."

Americans are bound to make the comparison with their own embattled president. It is an instructive one. In all these pages of White House transcripts, there is not a word in which the President's character is praised, and not a word in which he is criticized.

WHAT IS HAPPENING these days is a public and political revolution at the White House. It is an instructive one. In all these pages of White House transcripts, there is not a word in which the President's character is praised, and not a word in which he is criticized.

Governments toppled, others near brink

UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Scandals, political fragmentation and economic headwinds are toppling governments across the world and threatening to bring down others.

Although worldwide parliamentary instability is difficult to pin on a single cause, there's no doubt voters' uneasiness about the economy is a factor.

In France, the Gaullist party lost control of government in a May 5 presidential runoff vote after 15 years in power.

Proof necessary for SS number

People may be asked to prove their age, identity, and citizenship to get a Social Security number when applying for the first time, according to Earl F. Zess, Social Security district manager in Kansas.

The proof is required under an amendment to the Social Security law. "The requirement affects native United States citizens, naturalized citizens, and aliens."

People can apply for a Social Security number by writing or visiting any social security office. Application forms are available at Social Security offices and post offices.

Age can usually be proved with a birth or baptismal certificate," Zess said. "You should apply for a Social Security number several years before you need it."

People applying for duplicate Social Security numbers because they've lost their social security cards or changed their names generally aren't affected by the proof requirement, according to Zess.

The proof requirement is intended to help prevent people from obtaining more than one Social Security number under a false identity, Zess said.

A fine of up to $1,000, imprisonment of up to one year, or both may be imposed for fraudulent use of the Social Security number to get benefits from federal funds.

"Your number is yours alone and remains the same for life," Zess said. "You build retirement, disability, survivors, and Medicare credit for yourself and your family by work and earnings credited to your Social Security number. You're not getting full credit, which could adversely affect your payments in the future."

The proposed, rotation reports every five years and each district serves three years on, then two years off.

The proposed executive committee membership for the 1974-1975 year is Manteno, St. Anne, Clinton, Grant Park, Herscher and Momence. The five-year rotation plan begins in the 1975-1976 school year when Beecher attains full membership. The proposed school district representation for that year will be Clinton, Grant Park, Herscher, Momence, Reddick and Kankakee.

Representation in future years, under the proposal, will be Herscher, Momence, Reddick, Kankakee, Peotone and Manteno in 1976-1977; Reddick, Manteno, Beecher, St. Anne, Clinton and Grant Park in 1977-1978; Beecher, St. Anne, Clinton, Grant Park, Herscher and Momence in 1978-1979; Beecher, St. Anne, Clinton, Grant Park, Herscher and Momence in 1979-1980; Clinton, Grant Park, Herscher, Momence, Reddick and Kankakee in 1980-1981.

The council members firmly rejected a motion made by Byron Wallace of Kankakee County School District 111 that would have disbanded the administrative committee and expanded the executive committee to include all participating school districts. The proposal would also have made the superintendent of the Kankakee County Educational Service Region an ex-officio member, rather than a voting member, as the position is now. One meeting per year would be held that would include the superintendent of all participating school districts for adoption of budget, presentation of program and other information.

The Wallace proposal had passed the executive committee by a vote of four-to-two, for presentation to the board.

state aid, according to James Clark, superintendent.

He said, however, the district would have to restore part of the educational fund cut in the future, and new residential development in the district would necessitate construction of a new school in several years.

The highest tax rate in the county is in Pembroke Township where the combination of the Pembroke Grade School District and the St. Anne High School District results in a combined rate of $4.48 for each $100 of assessed valuation.

The Pembroke school rate is $2.53, and the high school rate is $1.95.

The lowest rate in the county is the Grant Park district where the rate is $2.40, even though the rate went up 13 cents over last year.

Kankakee School District 111 had a rate increase of 1.3 cents, bringing its rate to $3.32.

Combining the tax rates for the Bradley and Bourbonnais schools with the high school district there, the overall school rates are $2.97 for Bradley and $2.72 in Bourbonnais.

on morality and that Presidents must, again, resign. I think that the impeachment process was put in the Constitution for this purpose and I think the President has asked that he be given the benefits of this process.

Burch added, "I don't think the President has any intention of resigning. He's aware of the concerns. (But) A. he is convinced he is not guilty and B. he is convinced he has not committed any impeachable offense."

Burch said that resignation "would imply at least" that he was guilty of wrongdoing.

Even if a Republican delegation would go to the White House to officially urge his resignation, Burch said he believed Nixon would argue that he is "entitled to due process" and would refuse.

In his letter to Nixon, Schweiker said:

"After reading the edited tape transcripts released by the White House last week, I am writing to ask that you resign your office."

"The transcripts reveal a total disregard for the moral and ethical values upon which this nation was built. I am compelled to speak out. I cannot remain silent in the face of the now obvious moral corruption destroying and debasing the presidency."

"I have not and will not prejudice questions relevant to impeachment. But I believe that public review of the released transcripts will inevitably destroy your capacity to lead our nation effectively for the remainder of your term."

"I am convinced you can leave your country and the presidency by resigning now."

He signed it "respectfully."

The White House, however, stood more resolute than ever on the subject.

The President will not resign even if he freezes over—no matter what."

This week's erosion of support for the President on Capitol Hill came as members of Congress digested the 1,200 pages of edited White House transcripts Nixon made public last week in an effort to prove his innocence.

trative council, which meets quarterly and has two representatives from each member school district. Wallace said the executive committee made most of the decisions and did most of the planning for the center and that the administrative council had become "superfluous." Opponents to the proposal said the present system had been working well, the proposed system would result in a decrease in individual participation in the executive committee and the proposed plan would give the superintendent of the educational service region less involvement.

The career center has been operating as efficiently as any co-op we have had," Skalky said. "I'd rather not change it until we have something else that we are absolutely sure of."

The council briefly discussed an executive committee recommendation that would allow all schools to pay fees on a monthly basis, rather than annually. This was rejected in favor of retaining the present system which allows the prime mirrors the rise in short-term interest rates, which have been drawing investors away from the market to interest-bearing securities.

American Midcor, the Big Rock's most active stockholder, was charged with 2% after a 200,000-share block trade.

Hodges reported that the diesel and body departments are badly in need of more space and that he would probably make a proposal to build a 15,000-sq-ft expansion program at a future date. He also stated that an open house would be held on May 28 for the building trades class' house in the Brainerd subdivision.

Jack Pierce of Peotone made a proposal that the chairman of the citizen's advisory committee be made a voting member of the administrative council. The preliminary motion passed and a final vote will be taken at the next quarterly meeting.

Recognition plaques were presented to two outgoing executive committee members, Wallace and Pierce. Wallace had delivered a report to the Kankakee Community College activities.

Also in the Bradley-Bourbonnais High School rate is St. George Grade School District 3 where the rate increased 4 cents to $2.82. Superintendent Jerry Wright said 3 cents of the increase was the result of a referendum passed in February increasing the limits in the educational and transportation funds.

Combined with the high school rate, the increase was the result of a referendum passed in February increasing the limits in the educational and transportation funds.

Other school districts and their tax rates include Momence Unit District 1, $2.57 down 13 cents; Herscher Unit District 2, $2.49 up 8 cents; Central Community Unit 5, $2.61, up 5 cents; and Manteno Unit District 5, $2.50, up 10 cents.

In the St. Anne High School District with the Pembroke district is the St. Anne High School District with a rate of $2.16, down 1 cent, and the St. Anne Grade School District with a rate of $1.89, up 1 cent.

Combined with the high school rate the two areas would have total school rates of $2.90 in Wiggins and $4.14 in St. Anne.

Implicitly critical transcript revelations in a speech Thursday.

"We cannot do a characterization of people's minds with a wave of the hand," Ford said. "One thing every elected office holder must be given attention to the voter. If he fails to pay attention to the voter, he is not an officer but a very long."

Leading newspapers that endorsed Nixon's three presidential candidacies also called for him to resign. The latest were the Los Angeles Times and the Cleveland Plain Dealer, with editorially today. The staunchly Republican Chicago Tribune and the Omaha World-Herald earlier this week said Nixon should leave office.

"A resignation would probably be beneficial (for the Republican party), but I'm not recommending it," Rhodes told reporters. He said release of the transcripts increased chances for impeachment.

Anderson was among Republican leaders who met with Nixon Thursday. After the session, he quoted Nixon as saying he would not finish his term.

"I would welcome his resignation. But I would want to see the nation that he was doing so voluntarily, and not because of (party) pressure," Anderson said.

"I am now firmly convinced that resignation is a course of action which (Nixon) must realistically contemplate in order that the confidence and faith of the American people in our government can be restored," Cook said.

Cook said Nixon "has irretrievably lost any claim to the confidence of the American people" and that the transcripts "are a disgrace to the American people because of the moral turpitude which they indicate."

Other Republican senators who have earlier suggested Nixon resign are Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, a liberal, and James L. Buckley of New York, a conservative.

Earlier this week, Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott retreated from his long time role as Nixon-apologist, calling the transcripts "a shabby, disgusting and immoral performance."

Other White House officials said Nixon on "blew his stack" when he heard of Scott's comments Tuesday. But Clark said there has been "no discussion" of resignation at the White House.

N. Y. Stocks Indicted

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market lost ground today after major banks across the nation boosted their prime lending rate to big business to a record 11 1/2 per cent.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which shot up nearly 15 points on Thursday, was off 2.97 to 82.50. Advances and declines ran almost neck-and-neck on the New York Stock Exchange.

The move within the banking industry to boost the key interest rate from 11 per cent was the primary impetus for the decline, analysts said. The increase in the prime mirrors the rise in short-term interest rates, which have been drawing investors away from the market to interest-bearing securities.

American Midcor, the Big Rock's most active stockholder, was charged with 2% after a 200,000-share block trade.

In final action promotion exercises for the district were set for 8 p.m. on Tuesday, May 28 in Bradley Central School gymnasium.

At first glance, the problem of space isn't obvious. Visitors see a spacious, 32-foot high, Gothic room adorned with an enormous chandelier and an intricate hand-carved gold-leaf pattern on the ceiling. A 21-foot wall of glass looks out onto a lush garden. The room is a masterpiece of design and construction.

The SPAC problem begins to show at the reference room, however. This room has a 40-foot ceiling with 24 huge chandeliers. Large canals are filled with significant murals of significant historical events. The room is a masterpiece of design and construction.

State Library has many problems

SPRINGFIELD — The lack of space, materials, money, humidity and staff are the major problems the state library faces today. Trained personnel are hard to find, crowded conditions have necessitated closing this room with the reading room and office space, and low humidity during winter months hastens deterioration of reference materials.

The primary function of the library is to serve as a clearinghouse for information. The director of the state library is the title given to the person who is responsible for the maintenance of library service. The current director is Alphonse F. Trezza.

the students did not know what was going on.

Joseph McElroy, board member, told the protesting parents and students, "I'm not going to sit here and let anyone use this language."

The consensus among parents and students at the meeting was that Reglin deserved punishment but that the action of the board of education had been too severe. They also complained that the female student directly involved in the incident had received no punishment.

Survance announced that he would call the three girls involved in the "improper language" incident along with Reglin to his office and get the story and then take disciplinary action against the three students if it is called for.

Reglin admitted everything we had heard he had done and he was not going to be a trouble maker.

His statement left on deaf ears. Robert Pollock, a parent, asked what was the provocation? A woman in the audience explained, "I wouldn't take what she said." Another parent asked, "What happened?" Another student said to a teacher, "You blankety-blank."

"We didn't realize the extent to which this book touched some kind of nerve in the American public... the tremendous curiosity people have about what goes on in the Oval Office of the White House," said William B. Dickson Jr., editorial director of the Washington Post Writers Group. The Washington Post, in conjunction with Dell Publishing, and Bantam Books, jointly with The New York Times, both rushed into print paperback versions of the 200,000-word transcripts. Kissinger bit more optimistic

TEL AVIV (UPI) — A force agreement with the Syrians soon, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flew back to Israel today to resume his direct efforts to bring back a troop disengagement between Syria and Israel on the Golan Heights.

Israeli deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon was even more optimistic—he said he "would not be surprised" if an agreement were in sight. Egyptian officials in Cairo said Kissinger would hold "very intensive" talks over the next four days, implying that an agreement might be in the making.

A high American official in the Kissinger party reported that the odds change daily in the endless discussion about Kissinger's plane and said he would place Kissinger's chances of success today at about 52-48 in favor.

The official said that it was quite possible there would be a break in favor of an agreement early next week—not likely but possible, as he put it.

The official said that Kissinger is still in the area by next Friday, he said, the chances are perhaps two out of three that he can achieve some agreement on this trip.

In a high official said that Kissinger must be back in Washington by May 21, at the latest, to attend a Central Eastern Treaty Organization meeting.

Kissinger conferred in the morning in Cairo with President Anwar Sadat, had lunch there and then flew back to Israel. He left from Tel Aviv on Monday at the Jewish Sabbath begins at 5:30 p.m.

The high American official said that if the secretary of state does go home, he still expects to achieve some progress toward an agreement that he can be preserved until he returns later to complete it.

But he cautioned that there will be no formal cease-fire in the Golan Heights fighting, although perhaps a reduction, without a final agreement.

In answer to questions, the official denied that the latest Watergate transcript crisis had any effect on his negotiations in the Middle East.

He said that the Arabs especially were confused about what the American crisis was all about, and it had helped him to do with Kissinger's negotiations.

The official confirmed reports that President Nixon has been in touch with Mrs. Meir about the negotiations but refused to say anything more.

He repeated again, as American officials have in the past days, that progress had been made, but declined to say why he was a shade more optimistic in the past 24 hours.

"I would not be surprised if we reach a separation of Arab guerrilla concentrations inside Lebanon today and Syrian aircraft strafed Israeli positions on the adjacent Golan Heights front, military communiques said.

Fighting broke out for the 80th straight day along the 45-mile Golan front before Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flew from Egypt to Israel to resume his shuttle mission to ease out a disengagement accord.

Israeli deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon said he was optimistic about an agreement being reached, but said Israel will offer no more concessions on troop pullbacks beyond those already offered to Syria.

An Israeli spokesman said Israel's midday airstrikes after Syria sent its own planes into action. The Syrian

Watergate committee headed for showdown

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Watergate committee, headed by Sen. Frank Church, is expected to report its findings on the scandal to the Senate in the next few weeks.

The committee, which was created in January, has been working on a report that will detail the events leading up to the scandal and the actions of the participants.

The committee's report is expected to be a landmark document in the history of the Senate's investigations into presidential misconduct.

Earlier in the day, the committee reached a compromise with Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo, Nixon's friend who handled the $100,000 under which the panel would narrow its focus to the period between August 1972 and the end of the year.

The committee's report is expected to be a landmark document in the history of the Senate's investigations into presidential misconduct.

Burch berates system of questioning 'morality'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dean Burch said today it was "perhaps regrettable" that President Nixon did not immediately call the police when he first learned that some of his top aides were involved in the Watergate cover-up.

Burch, a counselor to the president, said he was "amazed" that Nixon did not take more immediate action.

Jury chosen, Hall trial starts Monday

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Judge Louis Schalla has chosen a jury for the trial of James Earl Ray, the man accused of murdering Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The trial is set to begin on Monday in the federal court in Iowa City.

The jury of six men and six women was selected after a lengthy process of questioning potential jurors.

The trial is expected to last several weeks.

Hall, a former Iowa football player from Toledo, Ohio, is a former student at the University of Iowa. He was arrested in 1969 and charged with the murder of Dr. King.

The trial is being held in Iowa City, where Ray was arrested.

The jury includes three housewives, a grocery clerk, a business executive, a male nurse, a secretary, a farmer, a laborer, a teacher, a social worker, a police officer, a state clerk and a factory foreman.

Herbert W. Kalmbach, who was Nixon's fundraiser and personal lawyer, is reported to have testified before the committee that Rebozo told him some of the money went to Rose Mary Woods, the President's personal secretary, and the two Nixon brothers.

The Watergate committee has been told that the $250,000 cash contribution, given by a supermarket executive to Rebozo as a secret contribution for President Nixon's reelection campaign, never reached the campaign committee as intended, the Washington Post reported today.

The newspaper quoted an unnamed source as saying Rebozo had admitted under oath that he received the money in an envelope from A. D. Davis, vice chairman of Winchell Corp., a food chain based in Jacksonville, Fla.

Rebozo contended that he turned the money over to Frederick C. LaRue, a campaign aide, but LaRue has said the Watergate committee he never received it.

The Post story said committee investigators have been unable to find any record that the $50,000 was received by the campaign organization.

The Post story said Davis allegedly turned over the contribution to Rebozo in a salon several days before a new campaign finance law took effect on April 7, 1972 and thus did not have to be reported publicly.

'Holy Year' emphasis to be outward
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pope Paul VI has proclaimed the year beginning Pentecost Sunday, June 10, as a "Holy Year," a traditional observance aimed at the renewal of the faith.
In practice, Holy Years, marked about every 25 years in modern times, have been purely spiritual, "a manifestation of profound piety and the unity of the Church," according to Vatican Secretaries of State Cardinal Jean Villot.
But this year, the emphasis will still be on the life of the spirit, it will also include outward, emphasizing reconciliation, Christian unity and the search for peace.

The local solution Battling inner-city woes

By SHERRY WEILER
Coping with problems brought on by inner city locations has been a challenge to many metropolitan churches in recent years.
To find out how Kankakee churches are faring, The Journal asked several local pastors what problems they are encountering and how these problems are being solved.
The main difficulties appear to be lack of space to expand church and parking facilities and the relocation of many members to suburban areas away from the city.
To combat these problems, a variety of programs which include long-range planning committees, special types of services and innovative programs are being tried to promote a better relationship between the church and its neighborhood.
ONE FACT was emphasized by all the pastors interviewed. The churches feel they are not alone in their problems and do not want to relocate outside city unless conditions are met.
The first Baptist Church, 425 S. Harrison Ave., is a prime example. During the past several years, the church has been in a constant state of flux. The church is located in a building which is in poor condition and the parking lot is inadequate. The church is also in a neighborhood which is in a state of decline.
The church is currently in the process of relocating to a new building in a better neighborhood. The church is also in the process of expanding its parking lot and improving its facilities.

O'Brien mails questionnaire

U.S. Rep. George M. O'Brien mailed a questionnaire R-J-let, to his constituents seeking their views on nine major issues, including impeachment.

O'Brien announced today that his office has sent the questionnaire to 150,000 homes in the 17th Congressional District, which is made up of Will, Kankakee and Joliet counties as well as most of Bloom Township in Cook County. The questions, dealing with such issues as environmental controls, daylight savings time and regulation of energy producers, are on a computer card with space for answers from up to three persons in each household.

The first question reads: "Should the House of Representatives vote to impeach President Nixon so the Senate can hold a trial to determine whether he should be removed from office?"

In regard to this question, O'Brien said, "If this matter comes before the full House of Representatives I intend to vote my conscience on the basis of the evidence." He said he believes the people of the 17th District should have the opportunity to give their opinion. The results of the poll will be released to the press, he said.

The other questions are:

Do you think the news media have been fair to the president?

Would you favor a mix of government and private financing of federal election campaigns?

Do you favor limiting future presidents to one six-year term?

Should oil, coal and other energy producers be regulated like utilities?

Would you favor relaxing environmental controls if that would conserve energy?

Should year-round daylight savings time be continued?

Should persons over 65 get federal income tax relief for local property taxes?

Are we spending too much (a) on defense questions (b) on domestic programs?

Cleaning of the ditch will be done by a crew of about 20 men obtained through the Kankakee Community Action Program. These men would work in support of a dragline and truck crew, which would be furnished by the state, Gullion said in his letter.

Colombians blame young Americans in drug traffic

(Editor's Note: This is the first of two articles describing drug traffic in Colombia, the center for South America's cocaine trade and a major marijuana producer.)

BOGOTA, Colombia — "Yankee, Go Home," signs are beginning to appear in Colombia, but with the added demand that the Yankee take their narcotics with them.

Such is the influx of young U.S. drug traffickers posing as tourists that Colombian immigration authorities are working with the government tourism corporation to develop a visa selection program that will help keep out the narcotics peddlers. In a recent six-week period, for example, 300 U.S. "tourists" have been fingered by DAS.

6 inducted into German honor group

Six students have been inducted into one of Bradley-Bourbonnais High School's newest organizations, the German Honor Society. It is associated with and chartered by the Delta Epsilon Phi, a national chapter sponsored by the American Association of Teachers of German.

The six students are Michael Boguszewski, Jeff O'Flaherty, Kevin Wiegand, Randy Max, Sherry Denault and Linda Boyle. Recently sponsor is Donald J. Meyer. For being the outstanding German student in the school, Boguszewski received a special book award from the national chapter. The student maintained a consistent A-average through three years of German.

Parents of the students attended the induction ceremony and the induction ceremony was a potluck supper followed by a social.

Membership in the association is offered to any student who has maintained for three consecutive semesters a B-plus average in German and a B-average in all other subjects.

NIU reports mother, not son as grad

Even a big university can make mistakes. That's why the Journal is announcing the graduation from Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, of Bradley E. Cahow, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Cahow, 146 N. Blaine Ave.

The university erroneously (and the Journal published) that Mary Anne Cahow was the graduate. Seems that she is the mother of Bradley. Cahow graduated with a major in political science and a minor in history and philosophy.

He was elected to the Student Senate as a sophomore and served two years on the Campus Judicial Board and one year on the Academic Conduct Board.

The Bradley had his student government job at Northern Illinois University. He is temporarily employed by the Northwestern Railroad.

4th in family to girls State

Cindy Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Hamilton, of Calumet, has been chosen to represent Skinker, Trost Unit 112 of the American Legion Auxiliary, Calumet, at Girls State. It will be the fourth in her family.

Miss Hamilton becomes a fourth member of her family to attend Girls State. Three of her older sisters previously represented the Skinker Trost Unit at the event.

A junior at Tri-Pont High School, she was a member of the cast for the all-school play, "The Ghost with the Mostest." Last summer she spent two weeks taking part in a speech workshop held at the campus of Eastern Illinois University, Charleston.

Outside of high school she is a member of Calumet United Methodist Church and Youth Fellowship. Alternate is Cindy Jole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Layle Jole, Calumet.

B-L prom held

"Saturday in the Park" was the theme of the Junior-Bourbonnais High School prom held in the high school gymnasium Saturday night.

Tim Deakley served as master of ceremonies and David E. Kutenymer, the response was by Stephen Bloomstrand.

The class prophecy was presented by Janet Bloomstrand and the class will be read by Kevin Eastman.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. James Brannaman.

Four from the Kankakee area have been named to the dean's honor list at Augustana College, Rock Island, for the winter quarter. They are James A. Mehner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dodo H. Mehner, 83 N. Convent, Bourbonnais; Linda Squidder, formerly of Kankakee and now of Rock Island, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Squidder; Mildred K. Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Johnson, Danforth, and Barbara Kuester, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Kuester, 909 S. Myrtle Ave.

Bonnie Lou Miedema, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Miedema, Momence, has been named to the dean's list for the winter quarter at Wheaton College. She is a junior.

John G. Zoliani, RR 2, Bourbonnais, was among those honored for scholastic excellence last month at the traditional Founder's Day program on the Bloomington campus of Indiana University.

Included as honorees were undergraduate students who made the dean's list the first semester of this school year.

Two from the Kankakee area are among 22 students in the school of chemical sciences at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign who have been awarded honors.

Raymond Janiewicz, senior, shared the Elliott Ritchie Alexander Award made to the student in chemistry, chemical engineering or biochemistry who in his first two years in UIUC attained the highest scholastic average. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Janiewicz, 36 Marquette Lane, he is a graduate of Kankakee Eastridge High School.

Marjorie Mueller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene J. Mueller, Dwight, shared the Zil Lambda Upsilon Cup awarded by this chemical honor society to the sophomore in chemistry or chemical engineering with the highest scholastic average. The Dwight High School graduate is a junior.

The name of Debra Stankuski was omitted from the dean's list of the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, which appeared in a previous edition of the Journal.

She is majoring in accounting. Kim Smith, 272 E. Monroe St., and Naomi Crouch of Robertsville, are members of the women's intercollegiate varsity tennis squad at Southern Illinois University, Carbondale.

Twenty-one Wartburg College students of Waverly, Iowa, have been placed in various phases of church work for the May term.

One is Diane Star, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Star, 337 S. Small Ave. She has been assigned to the Rev. Mike Bauman at the Memorial Lutheran Church in Glendale, Wis.

Enrolled in a course entitled "Experience in the Ministries," the students had a choice of working in a congregation, in institution or a situation such as an Indian reservation.

The course, which is under the supervision of the religion department, gives students an opportunity to gain perspective on church vocations by observing and participating in the work of the church on the local level.

Barbering opportunities limited

Angelo Bolla runs a small, two chair barber shop in a medium sized city. "At first the trend to long hair hurt our business," he admits, "but then as styling of men's hair became more important, our business improved. I learned my trade from my uncle but my barber went to barbering school. If you like, barbering is a good business," Angelo says.

There are an estimated 100,000 barbers in the country, most of them men. There is, however, a growing number of women barbers, particularly in the larger cities. Employment of barbers is expected to grow slowly through the 1970's with most job openings resulting from retirement. The average age of barbers is high with a resultant high retirement rate.

Small shops, such as Angelo's, with only one or two chairs will probably remain the most common type of establishment. The growth of suburban communities, however, should result in opportunities to open larger shops and expand staffs.

As hair styles and trends change, however, there should be increases in the need for barbers styling for men has also made for added opportunities and the necessity for additional skills.

To obtain a barber license, all states require, a candidate must have graduated from a State approved barber school. In addition the applicant must meet health requirements. All but a very few states require the beginner to take an examination for an apprentice license. After working one or two years as an apprentice he usually takes a second examination for his license as a registered barber.

Barber training is offered in many public and private schools and a few vocational schools, in addition to commercial barbering schools. Courses usually last six to 11 months.

With the spring and summer months approaching the increasingly popular recreation of bicycling will be back on your mind. If you are planning to take the scenery on some longer trips, here are some tips for you to keep in mind. If you've been neglecting exercise throughout the winter months don't start off on an extensive trip until you are in condition. Begin cycling each day, going a bit further each time you go out. First, ride on flat surfaces and gradually work towards the hills, tackling small ones at first and higher ones as your condition improves.

You can save a lot of money on your trips by packing food in a saddle bag or knapsack, say, for a picnic. You aren't limited to sandwiches; you can take along food to cook at roadside areas which are available to you. Beverages are usually heavy, so you can plan to buy those as you go along. Clothing on a long trip should be flexible. For warm days you will want light, loose clothing and shorts. Be prepared for cooler weather with a sweater and long, tightfitting trousers, raincoat or rain jacket will also be helpful for those light.

Concentrate, however, on lightweight clothing as everything you carry adds to the energy you'll use in carrying and pedaling. On long trips you may run into trouble at great distances between help. A simple tool kit, tire repair kit and a pump should be in your kit. A first aid kit to take care of minor cuts and bruises may also be helpful. If you plan to travel by night, be sure you have lights on your bike as well as a flashlight, helpful when you stop at night in a strange area. A map of the area you are going to travel can be obtained from a gasoline station. If you are really going out in the country, bring along a compass and learn beforehand how to use it. The road you will also find that a canteen can help "shake your thirst" between watering holes. You can, if you choose, travel alone. But you'll find it much more fun to share the experience with a friend. Together you can plan your route, where you'll stop for food and rest and what side trips you may make to spots of interest. There's joy in the planning and the trip can be a wonderful highlight.

Still not Maggie and Tony Royal protocol slips a bit

By GAY FAULEY
NEW YORK (UPI) — The protocol and the precision schedule outlined for the U.S. visit of Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon boggle the imagination. When I received a copy of the minute-by-minute schedule for the British couple during their eight-day stay, an invitation to a reception, and finally the ground rules for behavior in the presence of royalty, I felt rather like a child admonished by an old-fashioned parent: "Children should speak only when spoken to."

So what happened? The British princess and her once-commoner husband of 14 years skipped all the protocol jazz, at least at the reception in the Waldorf Astoria hotel, where they stayed during the New York phase of the trip. They became simply guests of honor, chatting and sipping cocktails with the rest of us.

No receiving line, as is usual with a royal reception. No curtsies. Just the couple, mingling and making sure they met everyone. Small talk.

But this is the way the British Information Services told us to go to the reception. "Normal protocol with the Royal Family demands that those present speak to the Royal couple only when they have been addressed by them first."

Princess Margaret is normally addressed as "Your Royal Highness," Lord Snowdon simply as "Sir."

"It is Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon's wish that they will prove from group to group... and will try to speak to all those present. They hope to keep the whole proceeding as an informal and social basis."

And that the couple did. Except for the battery of U.S. and British security men, it could have been any small reception anywhere.

The rule, "Speak to the Royal couple" only when they're spoken first lasted about two minutes after their arrival. I think the only rule most of us remembered was to call Margaret "Your Royal Highness."

Question: "YRHI, who designed your dress; a floor length lemon chiffon, long sleeved, high necked and accented pleated all the way. No tucks on the short skirt! hair showing streaks of gray."

Answer, after a pause: "Now that you ask, I've forgotten."

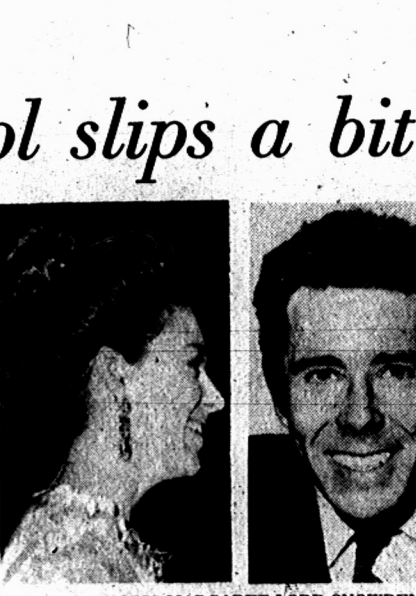

Question: "Did you have a winning horse in the Derby? (They attended the 100th running of the Kentucky Derby)." Answer: "I never bet."

Question: "YRHI, is that ice water with a dash of lime you're drinking?"

Answer: "It certainly is not. It's a gin and tonic." (Lord Snowdon also sipped from a shorter drink and a guest later took the glass Margaret had used as a souvenir).

Before the Princess and Snowdon left New York for Minneapolis and Winnipeg, they called on Margaret's aunt, the Duchess of Windsor, widow of former King Edward VIII.

The duchess currently is at the Waldorf Towers, the same hotel where the royal couple stayed during the New York visit. A spokesman for British Information Services said the visit occurred Tuesday evening "for about 15 minutes," just before the couple continued on to the Metropolitan Opera House for the Royal Ballet.

Pick delegates for church convention

Delegates to the Lutheran Women's Missionary League biennial convention were named when the Women's Guild of Our Saviour Lutheran Church met Tuesday in Luther Hall. Delegates to the convention which will be held in Detroit, Mich., Tuesday through Thursday are Mrs. Gene West, Mrs. Armand Brueggert, and Mrs. Larry Landry.

Mrs. Landry gave devotion. Mrs. Guy D. Warke read a letter from a missionary in New Guinea.

Mrs. Randy Culbertson, Mrs. Subbi El-Talabani, Mrs. Josephine Olson, Mrs. Elmo Peterson, and Mrs. Alvin Ulrich were guests. Harvey Diebert was introduced as a new member.

Mrs. Warke was in charge of the program. "Actions of Love," Mrs. El-Talabani and Mrs. Culbertson will organize the group to welcome newcomers to the church and to assist church members in emergencies.

Hostesses were Mrs. Elmo Peterson, Mrs. Alvin Ulrich, and Mrs. Gertrude Miller.

Mrs. and Edwin J. LaRoque, 235 N. Wabash Ave., Bradley, are parents of the bridegroom. He graduated from Bishop Thuermer Junior College in Harvey, Ill., and is employed by the Northwestern Bank in Peoria.

Miss Barbara Thurman was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Jeanette Goodwin, Sharon Robinson, Kathy Regnier, and Mary Margaret Cunningham. Kristine Regnier was flower girl. They wore pink dresses and pink hats, and carried mixed flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitford had no known of any diabetes in the family until after the wedding. She carried roses. The bride's father, Mr. Regnier, was groomsmen, and Scott Cunningham was ring bearer.

A reception was held at the church.

Chippier's diet includes 1,200 calories a day in three meals and two snacks.

"If he is going to be very active he will need more sugar to replace what he burns up," his mother said.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitford cannot casually leave Chippier with a baby sitter as other young couples can leave their child.

"Somebody has to be there who knows what to look for. Otherwise I wouldn't dare leave him. So far I've only left him with a sitter once," she said.

Life becomes tightrope for parents of diabetic

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — Chippier Whitford, 2, is a diabetic, and every day his mother faces the possibility that a little too much exercise or a late meal could cause him to go into shock.

It is a hard thing to go through. He gets glassy-eyed, sweaty and white-faced when he goes into shock. If I don't notice it right away, he will start shaking and acting drunk. I have to give him orange juice or some other concentrated sugar," she added.

The Whitfords found out that Chippier had diabetes when he was 11 months old.

"We were living in Hawaii, where my husband was stationed at Scott Field Air Force Base. At 8 months, Chippier began being ill with flu and ear infections. It was one thing after another until finally he couldn't keep water down. As soon as they got him into the hospital, they discovered quickly he was diabetic."

"He is better now, but still very unstable. If he doesn't eat on time or enough, he goes into shock," she said.

Dr. David Schmollach of the Endocrine Clinic at Naval Hospital here said that the biggest problems for parents occur in the youngest children.

"The age of 1 to 2 years is the time when their appetites usually go down and they go on a sort of hunger strike. When they have had their regular insulin shot in the morning, and then won't eat the prescribed amount of food, there is always the danger of insulin shock to worry about," he said.

"Somebody has to be there who knows what to look for. Otherwise I wouldn't dare leave him. So far I've only left him with a sitter once," she said.

Mrs. Whitford said she had no known of any diabetes in the family until after the wedding. She carried roses. The bride's father, Mr. Regnier, was groomsmen, and Scott Cunningham was ring bearer.

Life becomes tightrope for parents of diabetic

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — Chippier Whitford, 2, is a diabetic, and every day his mother faces the possibility that a little too much exercise or a late meal could cause him to go into shock.

It is a hard thing to go through. He gets glassy-eyed, sweaty and white-faced when he goes into shock. If I don't notice it right away, he will start shaking and acting drunk. I have to give him orange juice or some other concentrated sugar," she added.

The Whitfords found out that Chippier had diabetes when he was 11 months old.

"We were living in Hawaii, where my husband was stationed at Scott Field Air Force Base. At 8 months, Chippier began being ill with flu and ear infections. It was one thing after another until finally he couldn't keep water down. As soon as they got him into the hospital, they discovered quickly he was diabetic."

"He is better now, but still very unstable. If he doesn't eat on time or enough, he goes into shock," she said.

Dr. David Schmollach of the Endocrine Clinic at Naval Hospital here said that the biggest problems for parents occur in the youngest children.

I Bet You Didn't Know Brought To You By John Slater

Now this is for an oddball about the most famous double play combination in baseball history. "Tinker-Evers-Charles" — these three have been heard about from 1900 to 1960. Yet, the fact is that this combination actually made very few double plays. When Fred Merkle played with them in 1908, he made only eight double plays. The year before they had made only seven. And in 1910, they made only four. So, if you're looking for a double play, you'd better look elsewhere.

Has there ever been anybody in big league baseball history who played in over 100 games in a season and NEVER struck out? It's never happened. The closest anyone ever came to that was infielder Joe Mauer, who in 1923 played in 156 games, had 68 at bats, and struck out only four times.

Here's an interesting fact about golf that you may not know. In 1934, the leading money winner in golf was a man named Sam Snead. He won $200,000. That's a lot of money for 1934. But here's the kicker: He won it all in just one year. And he was the only man to ever win the PGA Championship three times.

'New' Celtics can end it tonight

BOSTON (AP) — Just five years ago, one of the greatest dynasties in sports history crumbled when Bill Russell quit as player-coach of the Boston Celtics. Now, with Coach Tommy Heinsohn calling the shots and Dave Cowens at Russell's old center position, the Celtics are back — just one victory from being all the way back. With a 3-2 lead over the Milwaukee Bucks, the Celtics seek their first National Basketball Association championship since 1956 and their 11th in history tonight in the sixth game of the best-of-seven series at Boston Garden.

"We're going to win it," Heinsohn said confidently. "On any given night either team can win, but we've beaten them twice on their court and now we're back in Boston."

"We've put a lot of pressure on ourselves, but it's not over yet," countered Milwaukee Coach Larry Costello. "We had the same pressure here (fourth game) last Sunday and we won. However, we've got our work cut out."

There's a great difference in the Celtics' style from the Russell era. With Russell revolutionizing the game with his defensive genius, the Celtics won 11 NBA titles in 13 years on the shoestring of such greats as Bob Cousy, Bill Sharman, Sam Jones and Heinsohn.

Now, as Cowens says, "this is a different ball game." The Celtics have shocked the mighty Bucks with a press all over the court. Don Chaney and Jo Jo White, the regular backcourt partners, lead the harassment which has slowed Milwaukee to its slowest in all but one of the first five games.

"We've never pressed like this, it's phenomenal," Cowens said. "During the regular season we play a better press, but this is a different ball game now."

NBA players burn over all-star ban

NEW YORK (AP) — National Basketball Association players involved have expressed "outrage" over an arbitrator's decision against permitting them to participate in a scheduled all-star game against the American Basketball Association, says Larry Flischer, executive director of the NBA Players Association.

"All of the players involved are shocked by the callous approach by owners attempting to stop the game for whatever reason or presumed business reason they have," Flischer said Thursday after arbitrator Peter Seitz ruled that participation by NBA players would be in violation of their contracts.

BOSTON (AP) — The Philadelphia Flyers, a comparative National Hockey League infant, have come of age in seven short years, confident of knocking off the Boston Bruins for the coveted Stanley Cup.

The Flyers broke an old Boston jinx and defeated the Bruins 5-2 Thursday night on Bobby Clarke's hard-earned goal at 17:51 of sudden death overtime, securing the best-of-seven series at one game apiece.

Events which happened a year ago are easily recalled. Especially if you're a baseball fan. Mark McCullough and you pitch for Kankakee Bishop McNamara.

It was McCullough, a year ago, who pitched the only run of the game in a 1-0 McNamara loss to Kankakee Westview in the first round of the Wilmington district baseball tournament.

The loss is particularly vivid to McCullough because it was his first of the season after eight victories. McCullough's counterpart on the mound that day was lefty Kevin Pippin. Can you imagine how much McCullough would like to avenge that loss? Well, he gets his chance Saturday.

The Macs and West view in the first round of the district again and everything is the same as it was a year ago, except for the site, which is Westview's field at 10 a.m. Right now to the fact that McCullough will be facing Pippin, the rest of the state is unchanged.

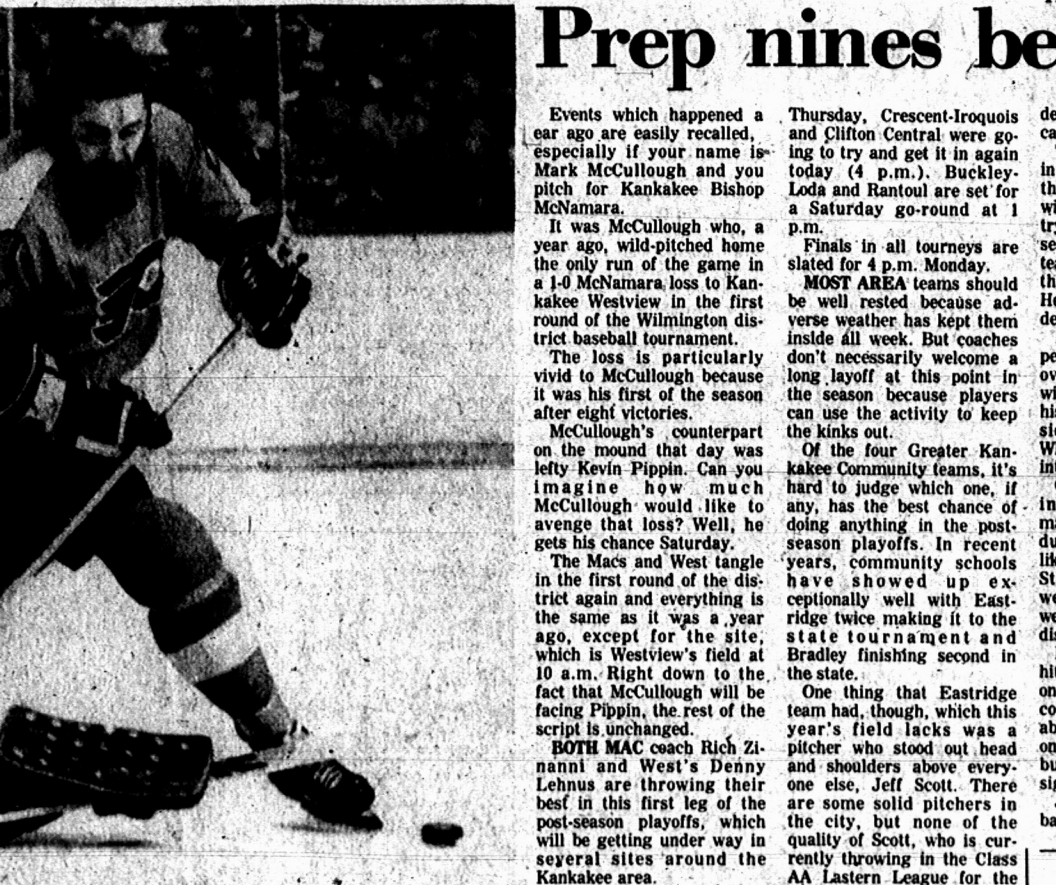

Both MAC coach Rich Zinnanni and West's Denny Lehman are throwing their best in the first leg of the post-season playoffs, which are the first of five district games. The winners of several sites around the Kankakee area.

Here's how the Wilmington, a fearsome hitting outfit, will be in the quarterfinal last year, are booked in the moon contest at Westview while West's Pippin and McCullough are in an 11 a.m. game before the host Bolinas-McNara meet St. Anne.

At Grand Park, Manteno and the Dragons go at one another in the opener at 10 a.m. The game is being broadcast on the radio by Kankakee's WISN.

The Irish have won their last eight games (they're 18-10 overall), a fact that Zinnanni believes they're right where they want them. "We seem to be hitting our peak at just the right time," Rich said. "As a team, we're hitting close to .300 and everybody's average has been climbing."

THE MAC's hottest hitter on the year is Ray Schmidt, who is challenging for all-time school batting mark of .428 set by Dave Lambert. The junior shortstop is currently hitting .400 with 39 hits in 87 plate appearances. If Schmidt did nothing else but hit, he would be such a babe to opposing pitchers. But he also runs with a good

Reward offer spurs heists
case tipsters
 SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The posting of a $50,000 reward for the safe return of Patricia Hearst has spurred an increase in the number of tips to authorities, the FBI says.

But FBI agent Charles Bates said on Thursday none of the tips have resulted in concrete leads to Miss Hearst and the Symbionese Liberation Army, which claims to have kidnapped her Feb. 4.

Miss Hearst's father, newspaper executive Randolph A. Hearst, announced on Wednesday a reward for information leading to the safe return of his 26-year-old daughter.

Meanwhile, in Washington, FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley told a news conference his agency is "stumped" by the case. He said if agents find the hideout of the S.L.A., "we are going in."

Kelley said of the S.L.A., "You have a very close knit group dedicated to a cause. They're very tight in their security. They have restricted their activities."

"They're holed up. They've got friends obviously who are helping them. They have found the key insider an eluding the FBI up to this point."

Kidnapers give U.S. official real nightmare

ANCON, Panama Canal Zone (AP) — "He's got a gun," shouted the terrorist as Alfred A. Laun III tried to figure out how to operate a pistol one of his kidnapers had put down on a table.

Laun, the 32-year-old head of the U.S. Information Service's office in Cordoba, gentiana, was shot in the abdomen, kidnapped and interrogated by leftist guerrillas, operated on and deserted in hours on Friday, April 12.

"I didn't feel the bullet, just a great sensation," said Laun, who is recovering in the Panama Canal Zone's Gorgas Hospital.

Laun gave this account of his ordeal: Some came into the door of his home in Cordoba, he looked through a peephole in the door and saw a man in a police uniform who said he had come to check the antenna of the American short-wave radio set.

Laun opened the door, and the man, who was wearing a black hood over his head, untied his hands and began questioning him about his radio equipment and his work in Uruguay.

Laun told them he was a ham radio operator and was not involved in any of the guerrilla work. He was taken to a room, where he was strapped to a table and his hands were bound.

He was then taken to a room, where he was strapped to a table and his hands were bound. He was then taken to a room, where he was strapped to a table and his hands were bound.

Despite intensified fighting along South Vietnam's western borders which has spilled into Cambodia during the past month, U.S. military analysts disagree with Saigon government officials, including President Nguyen Van Thieu, that Hanoi has launched a general offensive.

"I don't see it as an outbreak of a general offensive," says one analyst. "A number of spokesmen for the government of Vietnam have painted it that way. But I don't believe it. It has a plausible explanation. The fighting is being directed at local objectives. It does not hang together. There is no common thread such as the Tet offensive of 1968 and the Easter offensive of 1972. Not yet."

The Communists are attempting to improve their position militarily so they will be in a better position to launch heavy strikes some time in the future."

Fighting is still bloody after a cease-fire that has been in effect 15 months and casualties are heavy. The Saigon military command has killed more than 30,000 men killed, wounded or missing and claims its forces have killed nearly 60,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

But U.S. and South Vietnamese sources acknowledge that North Vietnamese military reports in Saigon command communications telling of North Vietnamese tanks and assaults by regimental size units are exaggerated and in some cases unfounded.

They claim the purpose was to picture South Vietnam as a country under major aggression in efforts to convince a reluctant U.S. Congress to pour more dollars in both for economic and military purposes.

By the same token, U.S. officials, including Ambassador Graham A. Martin say Hanoi is waging a major propaganda effort aimed at convincing Congress it should reduce aid to Saigon.

One of the significant changes, sources say, is the appointment of a vice premier assigned "to get rid of graft, corruption, bribery, extortion and other economic ills."

Sources say that North Vietnam must be economically strong to sustain an offensive. The Saigon government, however, says the United States and China have been significant military aid to North Vietnam but they claim that economic aid is at an all-time low.

Other countries, such as East Germany, are contributing economically to Hanoi, these sources say.

One of the most significant developments in recent years, according to observers of North Vietnam events, is a major reshuffle of the Hanoi government cabinet in which three new vice premiers were named and at least three ministers were fired.

There is no question that North Vietnam's economy is hurting," says one U.S. source. "The cabinet reshuffle indicates they are finally trying to take serious steps to reverse the situation. During the war, there was no distribution system, no economy, no centralized planning effort."

They just tried to get goods to people who needed it. There was little control in the administrative system."

Military analysts say the continued fighting as an attempt by North Vietnam to keep pressure on Saigon so that economically and politically steps to reverse the situation. During the war, there was no distribution system, no economy, no centralized planning effort.

They just tried to get goods to people who needed it. There was little control in the administrative system."

Awaiting the verdict

Former Army Lt. William L. Calley Jr., having exhausted all military appeals, awaits a federal judge's ruling in California. He is on a motion to revoke his $1,000 bail. (UPI Telephoto)

Calley awaiting prison decision

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI) — Six years after the My Lai massacre, William L. Calley Jr. anxiously awaits a decision on whether he will be imprisoned for the slaughter of at least 21 civilians in the South Vietnamese hamlet.

It was March 16, 1968, when Calley's platoon of the Americal Division's 11th Infantry Brigade stormed through the tiny village. Calley was convicted March 29, 1972, for his role in the atrocity.

But the stocky, 30-year-old former lieutenant spent only three days in the stockade at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., in the hands of U.S. District Court Judge J. Robert Elliott, who is expected to rule soon, perhaps today, on a government motion to revoke Calley's $1,000 bail.

Last Monday, Elliott took the government motion under advisement but indicated he probably would allow Calley to remain free pending a hearing June 24 on an attempt to have his conviction overturned.

Calley's life sentence was reduced to 30 years during military review and then to 10 years by Army Secretary Howard Callaway last month. President Nixon notified the Army last Saturday he would not further reduce the sentence and the Army immediately gave Calley his family in Nono, Pike County, Ariz., said Thursday.

Filmland becoming real disaster area

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The movie world is becoming a disaster area — literally — since producers have realized that millions can be mined from sagas of men or atoms, insects, earthquakes, fire and other forces of nature.

"We've got to give the public something they can't get on television," argues Jennings Lang, executive of MCA-TV.

He is the one who induced Mario Puzo to write an original script for "Earthquake," in which a large part of Los Angeles is destroyed. The movie is now being filmed.

Another Universal project is "Hindenberg," in which Robert Wise will reproduce the destruction of the German dirigible. Because it is impractical to build a new one, Wise plans to photograph a 60-foot model of the ill-fated dirigible.

Charles Heston is starring not only in "Earthquake" but also in Universal's "Airport 1975." It has a Boeing 747 which is disabled in a collision with another plane. Film Heston comes to the rescue by being lowered from a helicopter.

The studio industry is also starting shooting of Martha's Vineyard. Mass. is based on the Peter Benchley best seller about a white shark that devours swimmers.

"The king of the disaster epic is Irwin Allen, the man who gave you 'The Poseidon Adventure,' 'The Towering Inferno' and 'The Omega Code.' His future projects include 'Beyond the Poseidon Adventure,' 'The Day the Earth Ended,' 'The Golden Gate,' 'The Swarm,' the latter based on a new book about an insect invasion.

"It was a career soldier," Gordon said. "He liked the Army. He still likes the Army. It's quite obvious that he was a disappointed."

If Calley is sent to Pike County, he would be eligible for parole in less than six months since he already has served three years under house arrest. The decision on whether to recommend parole would be made by a prison board with review by higher military authorities, probably including the secretary of the army, Gordon said.

Calley, a bachelor, still lives in the same apartment complex in which he has resided throughout the legal fight, only now he has to pay his own rent.

Jailed as S. Yeman spy, Illinoisan tells his story

NEBO, Ill. (AP) — When he was convicted of spying for the South Vietnamese in November 1968, Ed Franklin believed he probably would allow Calley to remain free pending a hearing June 24 on an attempt to have his conviction overturned.

Calley's life sentence was reduced to 30 years during military review and then to 10 years by Army Secretary Howard Callaway last month. President Nixon notified the Army last Saturday he would not further reduce the sentence and the Army immediately gave Calley his family in Nono, Pike County, Ariz., said Thursday.

"I was not mistreated, not physically abused," said Franklin, now residing with his family in Nono, Pike County, Ariz., said Thursday.

Italy divided by divorce issue

ROME (UPI) — Bitter arguments over whether to repeal a law legalizing divorce flared today on the final day of campaigning for a referendum on one of the most divisive church-state issues in Italian history.

Pope Paul VI, speaking to 35 bishops, made a final plea for voting out the three-year-old law that introduced divorce in Italy for the first time since the Napoleonic era.

Cars with loudspeakers blared slogans and music while political party workers flooded cities with handbills at the end of campaigning for a two-day national referendum on divorce beginning Sunday, Mother's Day.

The Vatican, the dominant Christian Democratic party and the neo-fascist Italian Social Movement (MSI) were demanding repeal of legalized divorce.

All other parties, from the opposition Communists to the Christian Democrats, coalition partners, want the law retained.

The pontiff joined the campaign Thursday by praising the antiodivorce stand of Italian bishops and urging dissenters to sacrifice their views for the sake of unity.

In a visit to new headquarters of the Italian Bishops' Conference, the Pope said Church unity demands "loyal sacrifice of one's particular views, an effort for conformity."

The pontiff cited "the indissolubility of matrimony, based on the word of Christ and the very essence of the conjugal society."

Scores of Roman Catholic priests have been admonished or punished by their bishops for defying the hierarchy's antiodivorce stand.

Former Premier Giulio Andreotti, campaigning for the Christian Democratic party, said history showed divorce led to the decadence of nations. He said a divorce victory would be followed by liberalization of abortion and drug laws.

Prodivorce speakers accused Christian Democratic party leader Amintore Fanfani of using the referendum as a tool to impose a semi-authoritarian rule on Italy.

"Fanfani has resorted to the referendum to try to change the balance of forces and favor a general turn to the right," Luigi Pintor, leader of the leftist Manifesto group, said.

New mystery in Kronholm case

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The FBI is trying to determine if there is a connection between the March 15 abduction of Eunice Kronholm and an intruder who entered the Kronholm residence.

A young Chicago-area man was shot by FBI agents Thursday about a mile from the Kronholm residence. The FBI said Danny L. Callendo, 20, Forest Park, Ill., is the man who disarmed two officers and fled Wednesday night after police answered a break-in call at the Kronholm residence in Lino Lakes. Callendo was in critical but stable condition at Unity Hospital in Fridley.

Authorities conducted an all-night search of the area near the Kronholm residence in an attempt to find the intruder, and Callendo was seen walking along a road about mid-morning. They said he answered the description of the man who had been at the Kronholm residence.

The FBI said Callendo ran when an agent identified himself, then threatened to shoot and appeared ready to do so. Agents said they fired at Callendo and he was wounded in the face and chest.

Two .357-magnum revolvers belonging to the disarmed policemen were found in Callendo's possession, along with a .32-caliber automatic pistol, authorities said. He was charged with assaulting a federal officer.

Police said Callendo was unable to talk because of the face wound, but was able to answer some questions by scribbling on a note pad on the way to the hospital.

Officers said Callendo indicated he was from Chicago and had driven to Minneapolis. A 1973 black Toronado registered to Callendo was found later at Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport.

The incident was the latest in a series of events which have cast an aura of mystery about the Kronholm abduction, which a few days ago had appeared only to be awaiting trial.

Mrs. Kronholm, wife of South St. Paul banker Gunnar Kronholm, was taken from the couple's home the morning of March 15 and was released some 80 hours later after her husband paid $200,000 in ransom. Most of the money was recovered.

James W. Johnson, 35, Lakeville and Frederick Helberg Jr., 42, formerly of South St. Paul, were indicted on federal extortion charges and state kidnapping charges in the case. Thomas G. Hodgman, 31, Brooklyn Center, faces a federal extortion charge.

Johnson, who is free on bail, was shot in the head last Saturday when a car pulled alongside his vehicle on an interstate ramp near Lakeville. He said he had been given a message to meet someone at a bar, but had left when no one showed up.

Johnson was released from the hospital Wednesday and issued a statement that other persons not yet arrested were involved in the abduction. He said "the hoodlum element downtown is involved," but refused to elaborate.

The FBI said it was checking on that report.

Allende activists' trials near

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — After eight months in power, Chile's military junta is speeding the final judgment of activists in the government of Marxist President Salvador Allende.

More than 100 persons are now on trial or awaiting sentencing by military tribunals throughout the country. At least 6,000 persons arrested after the Sept. 11 coup still are imprisoned.

The air force member of the junta, Gen. Gustavo Leigh, said two weeks ago that proceedings for all those held would be started quickly to determine who should stand trial and who should be released. He said orders had been issued to accelerate trial of those accused.

Charges range from possession of Marxist literature to treason and espionage. Dozens face death sentences although no one has been executed in four months.

Gen. Oscar Bonilla, the interior minister, said this week the four-man junta would review all death sentences. Authority to confirm or commute such sentences had been "temporarily delegated" to local garrison commanders earlier because of emergency conditions, Bonilla said.

Summary military courts sent at least 96 men to the firing squads shortly after the coup. But the junta ended these drumhead executions in mid-January.

Death sentences imposed on five men in San Fernando last month were commuted Monday by the province's military governor to long prison terms.

The only persons now known to be sentenced to death are two former directors of the Socialist party convicted in Valdivia of plotting to assassinate local military commanders.

An air force "council of war" is trying 67 men in Santiago, and death sentences are asked for six of the defendants.

There are reports—not yet confirmed by the government—that 25 army officers will go on trial soon on charges of betraying the armed services, and that the prosecution will ask the death penalty for four of them.

The junta has announced that 35 leading members of Allende's regime will be transferred from Dawson Island to Santiago and Valparaiso to stand trial. The defendants include 12 former cabinet ministers, 10 former congressmen and Luis Corvalan, head of the Communist party.

In the past week:

—A military court in Rancagua sentenced 33 persons to prison terms ranging from 18 months to 16 years.

—A university student in Valparaiso was sentenced to life for organizing a guerrilla training camp.

—Seventeen defendants in Talca province were given sentences ranging from 70 days to 10 years.

Abortion clinic's head denied mass at her own funeral

CHICAGO (AP) — A young Roman Catholic woman who became administrator of an abortion clinic has been denied a funeral mass.

The Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Chicago confirmed Thursday that it refused to permit requiem mass for Suzanne Loutsch, 26, who was killed in a parachute accident.

But a church spokesman denied it did so because of pressure from anti-abortion groups.

The woman's family and fellow workers at Albany Clinic say an organized effort prevented the service.

A Bishop in the Old Catholic Church, which denies the doctrine of papal infallibility, subsequently offered services for Ms. Loutsch, and she was buried at All Saints Cemetery, Des Plaines.

The Rev. Leonard Felczak, pastor at St. Tarcissus Church, said he was told of the young woman's abortion activities by a man who phoned the church. He immediately contacted the Chicago chancellor, he said, and was told that "if she was connected with this clinic...she could not have mass."

"The decision was not the result of pressure from pro-life groups," he said. "She chose that herself. It was her beliefs that caused her to lose the right to have the mass."

The woman's mother, Florence Loutsch, said, "right-of-lifers...are calling me, my family, the church, the chancery office. And I can't understand it."

A practicing Catholic, Mrs. Loutsch said she understands the church's viewpoint.

"But you'd think I was personally doing something horrible against the church," she said.

The Albany Clinic has been the target of anti-abortion groups in the past, head counselor Beverly Sternberg said.

"But this time they've gone too far," she said. "This is fringe lunacy. It was bad enough to lose her, but to have this happen..."

Ms. Loutsch was killed when her parachute failed to open completely in a jump over Chicago-Hammond Airport May 1.

She was divorced in 1969 but "still went to church from time to time," her mother said.

"She certainly had not renounced the church," the mother added. "She had a really deep faith in God."
