Cease-fire nearing, Kissinger reports

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was heckled today by demonstrators shouting for him to go home, but a high American official in his party said the gap between Israel and Syria on disengagement had "narrowed very significantly."

The assessment appeared to jibe with optimistic reports earlier today from the White House that Kissinger was on the verge of a Middle East breakthrough and that an accord might come this week. Kissinger was keeping in close touch with President Nixon. There also were optimistic reports Sunday from Syria.

Kissinger met with Israeli leaders tonight to see if Israel will make further concessions to bring about a military disengagement with Syria.

The official traveling with Kissinger said that the gap had narrowed but the issue still to be resolved is the location of the cease-fire line in the Golan Heights.

Kissinger will take Israel's answer to Syrian President Hafez Assad in Damascus on Tuesday. The high official said Kissinger should be able to judge then, or Wednesday at the latest, whether he can get agreement on a line and military disengagement on this trip.

The trip, in its 16th day, is already the longest of Kissinger's diplomatic missions. The official said that there are three possibilities:

—That there will be no agreement on a cease-fire line, and Kissinger must return to the Mideast later.

—That there will be an agreement on a line but that minor issues of a disengagement will have to wait and he will still have to return later.

—That he can complete the whole agreement this time.

While Kissinger met with the Israeli leaders a noisy band of demonstrators outside his hotel protested against the possibility that Israel might give up too much of the Golan Heights it captured at the end of the 1967 Six Day War. Some of them shouted "Killinger!" and urged Kissinger return home.

The Israeli cabinet met for four hours after a one-hour session between Kissinger, Mrs. Meir and their aides. A communique said the cabinet reviewed Kissinger's disengagement efforts. Kissinger planned to meet with the Israeli negotiators again at 6 p.m. (noon EDT). As the cabinet met, about 500 demonstrators gathered across the street protesting further concessions to the Syrians.

Kissinger emerged from a one-hour session with Prime Minister Golda Meir and her team of key ministers to tell newsmen he had nothing to say until the Israeli cabinet met later in the day.

Striding into the meeting at Mrs. Meir's office, Kissinger glanced briefly in the direction of about 50 persons holding placards and chanting slogans 150 feet away in a parking lot. The protesters, mostly settlers in Jewish outposts on the Heights, called him "Killinger" and other epithets.

When the meeting broke up, Information Minister Shimon Peres and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan walked over to the protesters and remonstrated with them to tone down their remarks about Kissinger.

"He doesn't deserve it," Peres said. "It's not polite."

Foreign Minister Abba Eban said the two sides broke off the talks to allow the cabinet to meet at noon.

Kissinger had shuttled to Damascus on Sunday for talks with President Hafez Assad and returned to Israel Sun-

Mitchell broke wiretap law, court decides

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled unanimously today that the Justice Department under former Attorney General John N. Mitchell consistently violated the law in its procedures for obtaining wiretap evidence.

The 9 to 0 decision probably kills narcotics and gambling prosecutions involving hundreds of persons, which have been pending in various courts awaiting a ruling on whether the evidence can be used.

The department had argued that at worst it had committed only "harmless error" which had not endangered anyone's privacy.

Justice Byron R. White wrote opinions in two highly complex cases on the department's handling of wiretaps. In one challenged area he held that the department was wrong. In the other the department was upheld by a 5-4 vote.

The decision hinged on an interpretation of the Omnibus Crime Control Act of 1968, which contains very specific provisions for applying to a trial judge for a wiretap order.

The statute requires authorization by the U.S. attorney general himself or a "specially designated" assistant attorney general. Many of Mitchell's authorizations were by his executive assistant, Sol Lindenbaum.

A second issue focused on what have become known as "Will Wilson letters"—wiretap permissions to U.S. attorneys in the field which former Assistant Attorney General Will Wilson was obliged under law to sign. Instead they were signed by deputies.

The department won on the second issue.

The challenged practices, which were carried on in 1969 and 1970, have been discontinued.

Cast ballots

Less than an hour after their wedding, Marcello Taburini and his bride Filomena cast their ballots in the controversial, two-day referendum on whether to keep a three-year-old law permitting divorce in Italy. Early returns said those in favor of retaining the law were leading. The vote is the first referendum in Italy since 1946 when the monarchy was ousted. See story, page 5. (UPI Telephone)

Heads...middle...tails

Oh, the possibilities in a horse race. This Baltimore horse could be rather useful on the circuit; she could take first by a head, tie for second or take third by a tail. Of course, she might require two jockeys since it is two horses. (UPI/Telephoto)

Tape gap report due in 2 weeks

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica said today he will make public in about two weeks the final report by a panel of experts on the 18½-minute gap in a crucial White House Watergate tape.

The gap occurred in a tape recording of a conversation between President Nixon and then-White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman on June 30, 1972, just three days after the break-in at the Democratic National headquarters in the Watergate office building in Washington.

Sirica met for two hours today with representatives of the White House, special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski, and members of the experts panel.

Then Sirica issued this brief statement: "The final comprehensive report of the Court's Advisory Panel concerning the June 30, 1972, EOB (Executive Office Building) White House tape is to be printed as soon as possible for formal submission to the court."

"Upon receipt of the report it will be entered in the public record."

"The court expects to receive the report in approximately two weeks."

"There are no plans to conduct hearings related to the report."

Meeting with reporters after the conference, Sirica showed an inch-thick document which he said was the final report. He would not comment on its content.

Just before the meeting Michael Hecker, the Stanford University expert working on behalf of the White House, entered the court with papers he indicated were his report on the same tape.

Sirica would not comment on whether Hecker had submitted a report to the court but said the White House was free to discuss it.

Sirica said the report covered the tape with the 18½-minute gap but that the tape panel was continuing to work for the court on other tapes. He declined to say how much longer the panel would continue its work.

A separate hearing before Sirica was scheduled for later in the day at which President Nixon's lawyers were to try to persuade Sirica that the White House should not have to give any more Watergate tapes to the special prosecutor.

Meanwhile, as the House Judiciary Committee prepares to subpoena additional White House tapes, a presidential lawyer says "nothing in contemplation" would cause President Nixon to turn over more Watergate tapes.

J. Fred Buzhardt, counsel to the President, was asked Sunday if Nixon's position is that he would refuse to yield either to a Supreme Court ruling or to a congressional demand for the tapes.

"That's certainly my understanding of the present outlook of the President," Buzhardt replied.

Buzhardt added that he does not feel that the White House ever will be faced with a court decision or a demand from the Senate during an impeachment trial for additional tapes.

Senate battle forecast on busing order issue

Journal Wire Services

WASHINGTON — The Senate is heading into a bitter floor fight over renewed efforts to virtually kill court busing orders as a method of achieving school desegregation.

The first voting showdown on the issue will come Wednesday.

But there may be other tests before the Senate finally disposes of the massive $23 billion education bill serving as the vehicle for the busing battle.

The Senate will resume debate on the standby energy bill when it convenes today but turn to the education measure later in the afternoon and stay on it the rest of the week.

Wednesday the House will debate the bill to compensate Mississippi poultry growers for destruction of contaminated chickens.

Both sides expect the Senate vote on antibusing amendments to be extremely close.

Busing foes say they have the best chance ever to get through the Senate an effective provision to kill desegregation plans which make use of extensive transportation of grade and high school students.

Civil rights groups are mounting an all-out effort to defeat the antibusing riders.

They point out that Friday will be the 20th anniversary of the historic Supreme Court school desegregation decision and say it would be ironic if Congress marks the occasion by heavily diluting the rights guaranteed in that ruling.

The House, which acted on the education bill in March, included in it strong antibusing language similar to that which it has adopted previously.

The Senate always has stalled the antibusing provisions.

However, in the last big Senate fight on the issue, in 1972, Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., came within three votes of winning with an amendment to strip courts of the power to order busing for desegregation purposes.

In the new battle, the Wednesday showdown will come on an amendment of Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., to insert into the Senate bill the House antibusing provision adopted in March.

This provision would require the courts to consider many alternative remedies before ordering any busing. And then busing would be limited to the next closest school to the pupil's home.

It also would permit reopening of all previously settled busing cases and their re-determination on the basis of the new limitations.

Ash: Oil crisis aided government

Washington Star-News

WASHINGTON — The Nixon Administration disclosed today that the oil crisis has been a major financial boon to the government.

Roy L. Ash, director of the Office of Management and Budget, testified before the House Ways and Means Committee that federal receipts from leasing offshore land to oil companies for drilling now are estimated $2.1 billion higher than projected in last February's budget for the current fiscal year, and $3 billion higher for next fiscal year.

Ash appeared before the committee to convey an administration request that the federal debt limit be raised nearly $30 billion — from $475.7 billion to $505 billion.

With producers scrambling to find new oil fields, the government is leasing more offshore acres at higher bid prices than anticipated, Ash explained. And receipts from the leases count as reducing net budget expenditures.

Other major changes in expenditure estimates since the budget was published in February, Ash said, include reductions in outlays for health, education and defense, partly offset by increased expenditure for unemployment benefits, interest on the public debt and veterans' compensation.

Testifying with Ash, Paul L. Volcker, under Secretary of the Treasury for Monetary Affairs, lowered the February estimates of corporation income tax revenues by $3.3 billion for this fiscal year and $3.5 billion for next fiscal year.

But he raised the estimate for individual income tax revenues by $3 billion, mainly to reflect the impact of inflation in raising taxable incomes.

Volcker also raised from $1.39 trillion to $1.402 trillion the estimate of gross national product — total output of goods and services — during calendar 1974. This increase mainly reflects inflation.

Volcker and Ash said the budget deficit for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1974, now was estimated at $3.5 billion, down from the February projection of $4.7 billion. They said the deficit estimate for fiscal 1975 had been raised from $9.4 billion to $11.4 billion. There is only an indirect relationship between budget estimates and the debt ceiling, because the ceiling is based on a different version of the budget.

The legal limit on the debt now is $475.7 billion and the actual debt on April 30 was $472.9 billion. Volcker said the debt would press against the ceiling late this month and again during several days in June.

Unless Congress acts, the limit will drop automatically to $400 billion on July 1, when the actual debt will be about $75 billion higher.

In requesting the rise in the ceiling, Volcker projected a peak debt of $499 billion next fiscal year. He requested an extra margin of $6 billion to cover unforeseen developments and possible extra loans by the treasury to support the housing industry.

Man hospitalized after fight at Manteno area home

A rural Manteno was reported in good condition this morning at St. Mary's Hospital where he was being treated for a head wound received in a fight early Sunday at a Manteno area home.

The man entered the home of Kenneth E. Hall, Manteno, and began hitting furniture there, deputies said. He then began beating Hall's wife Virginia, and Hall intervened. As the man drew back to hit Mrs. Hall, her husband struck him on the head with a liquor bottle, Manteno police reported.

The man then got a shotgun and fired three shots at Hall as he ran down the road from his home, according to the report. None of the shots hit Hall.

Service station attendant thwarts armed robbery

A would-be armed robber was thwarted early Sunday morning in his attempt to hold up the "Purple Martin" Oil station, 1705 E. Court St. The robbery attempt was the second at the service station since Tuesday when a lone gunman made away with $100 to $150. Sunday morning's attempt was identical to the Tuesday robbery with one exception.

Jim Bretzman, an attendant at the station, thwarted the robbery's efforts after the man entered the station and asked for a pack of cigarettes.

Kankakee police reports said Bretzman turned the robber's efforts after the man entered the station and asked for a pack of cigarettes.

ICCB hearing set in Beecher

BEECHER — An Illinois Community College Board hearing on the Beecher school district's assignment to the Kankakee Community College district will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Beecher.

The hearing is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Beecher High School gymnasium. Interested persons may testify at the hearing.

A citizens' group in Beecher had earlier filed a petition with the ICCB requesting a hearing on Beecher's assignment. The ICCB voted at its December meeting to tentatively assign Beecher to KCC, at the request of the Beecher board of education. The ICCB staff had earlier recommended that Beecher be assigned to Prairie State College at Chicago Heights.

In most cases, a school district will petition for a hearing of this type to take advantage of one of two options: the district may submit testimony and request the ICCB change its assignment to another school district; or the hearing can be a prerequisite for a "back door" referendum. Some 77 hearings of this type are being held throughout the state in April and May by the ICCB. The ICCB will consider possible assignment changes as the result of these hearings at its June 21 meeting in Chicago.

Deputies said the intruder had taken the calculator and a small amount of cash. The burglar was seen running away from the school.

Mrs. Gandhi changing policies in India

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, dressed in a yellow cotton sari, rose from her seat in parliament after midnight to defend her handling of the railway strike now in its sixth day.

Across the chamber, more than 50 men—Communists, Socialists, Conservatives—tried to shout her down.

The 56-year-old prime minister angrily rebuffed her critics, saying she had listened to a one-hour lecture from the woman who ordered thousands of union leaders to jail in a fruitless strike.

"To say our policy is anti-labor is the most preposterous statement anybody could have made," she declared.

"We are for labor, but even more for the country. The country's interests come first, and they are above the interests of any one section," she said.

The new revised help booklet will be available after the meeting or at the office, room 210 in the Volkman Building.

The new revised help booklet will be available after the meeting or at the office, room 210 in the Volkman Building.

Public meetings UPI editors topic

Governmental corruption and women's liberation competed for the attention of newspaper editors attending the Illinois UPI Editors Association meeting in Springfield over the weekend.

"We were most concerned over city council and school board members who neglect to keep their sessions public," said Roy L. Barron, managing editor of the Daily Journal and moderator of the sessions.

"Of some 40 editors participating, only three reported using the term 'Meat' in their news stories," Barron explained.

Gene Smiley, managing editor of the Daily Journal, urged editors to invoke the authority of the Illinois Open Meetings Act to make certain that the public and the press was welcome at all governmental board meetings.

School bus, car collide; both drivers injured

Two persons were injured this morning when a school bus collided with an auto on the St. George Road at the Indian Oaks Trailer Court, according to police.

Reported in satisfactory condition at Riverside Hospital.

Bourbonnais Police Chief Larry Hildebrand, who investigated the accident for the sheriff's department, reported there were no children on the van-type school bus. The accident occurred at 6:30 a.m.

Hildebrand said the bus pulled out of the trailer park onto the path of the westbound self auto, and the two vehicles collided.

Ms. Hopper was charged with failure to yield the right of way from a private drive, the police chief said. The school bus was operated for the Kankakee County Special Education Cooperative.

There was a full day of classes Friday, although at least one student was dismissed at lunch time, according to a spokesman at the school.

School board meeting tonight

The board will also consider student expulsions, resignations of personnel and other personnel matters, and payment of bills.

The meeting was adjourned from last Monday.

KSH official sees Soviet mental health facilities

While methods of therapy are similar, a Kankakee State Hospital administrator found mental retardation programs in the Soviet Union following the visit of a Soviet delegation to the United States and directed almost exclusively at the young.

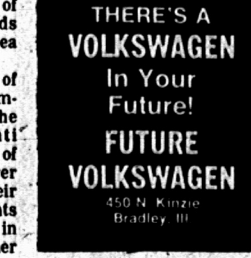

Dr. Joseph Tremont, special education administrator at KSH, recently returned from a tour of Soviet mental retardation facilities, sponsored by the American Occupational Therapy Association.

Tremont said he was given a tour of mental retardation facilities for children in Moscow and Leningrad. He said that the person on the tour had requested to be taken through a retardation facility for adults, but they were told that only clean and well organized facilities were visited.

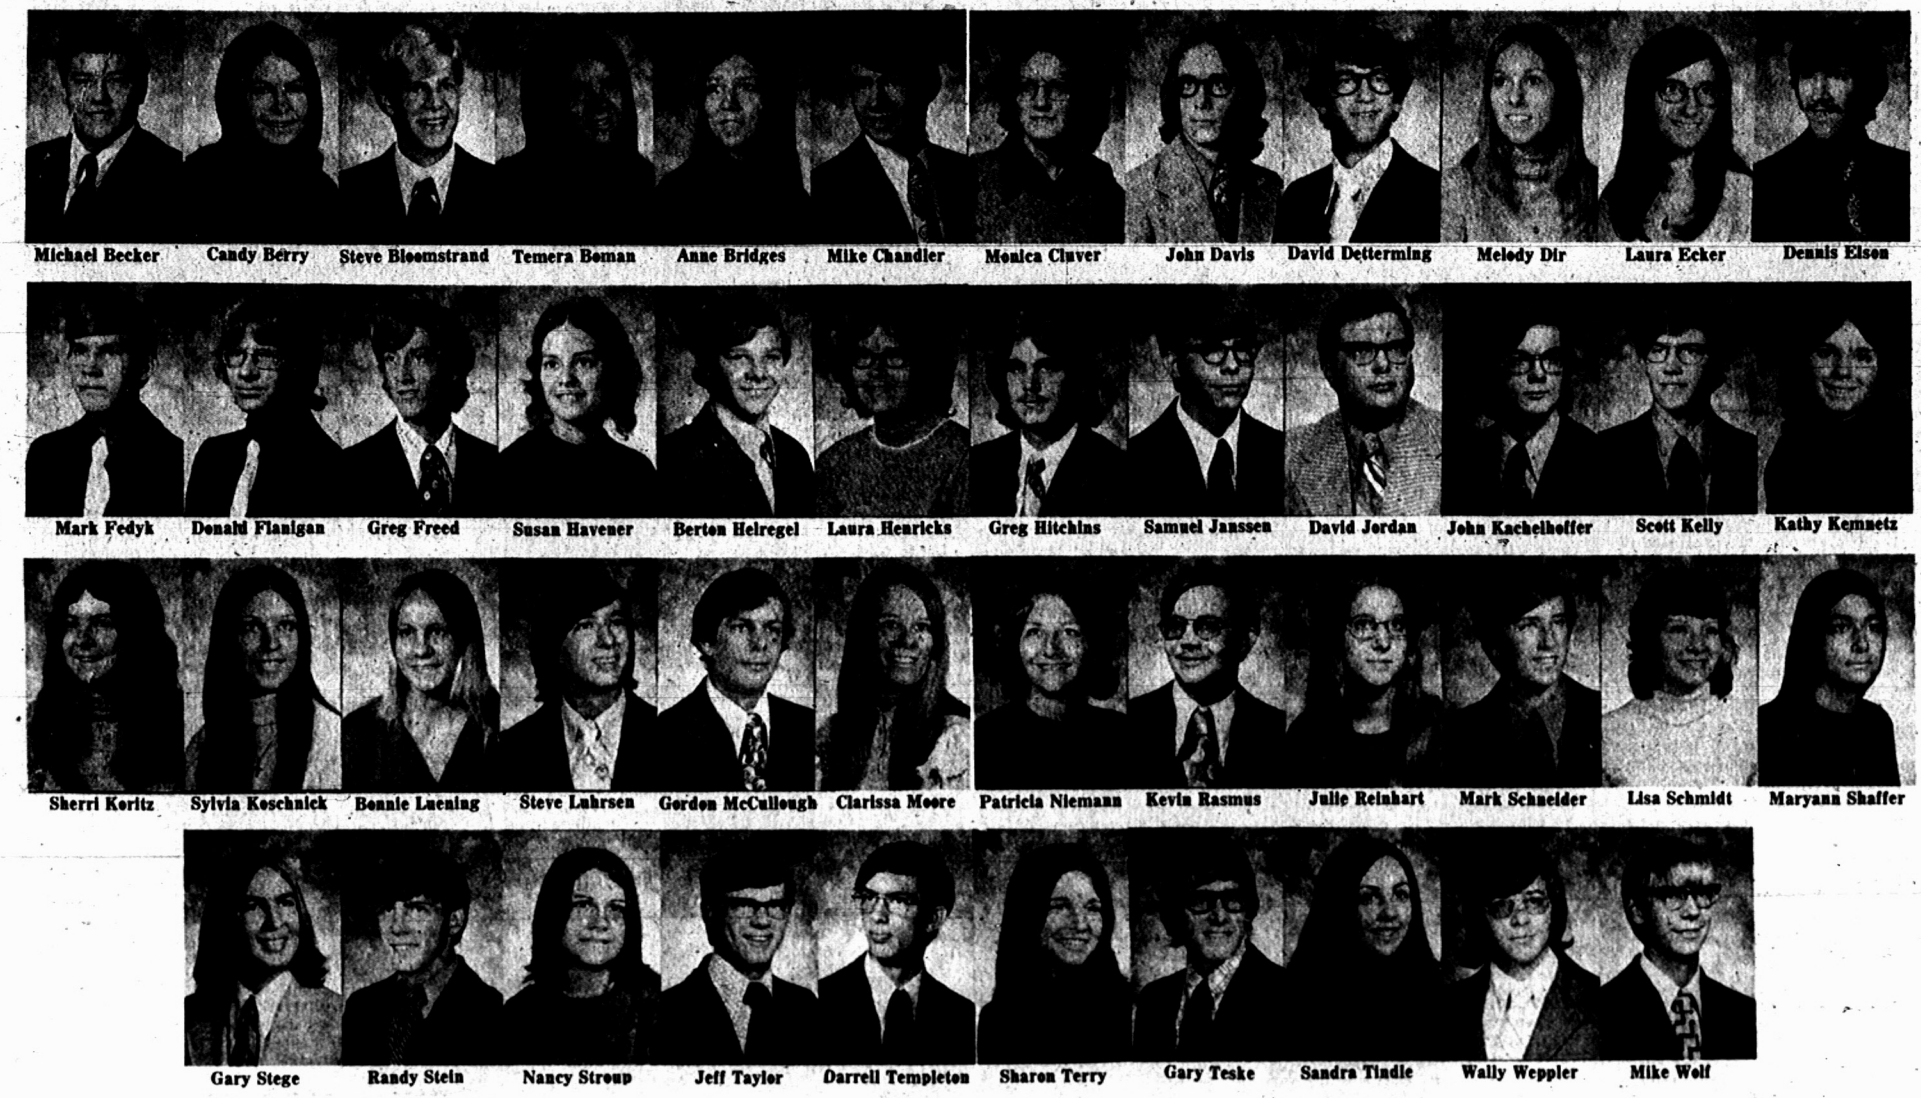

There was not enough time to get to them.

While there is a trend toward day classes for the retarded in the United States, according to Tremont, the Soviets operate a network of special schools called internats, which are usually combined special day and boarding schools in the rural areas, and totally boarding schools in the urban areas.

The Soviets use methods of behavior modification similar to those used in the United States, Tremont said. The mechanics of basic skills are stressed over mental operations. In their general education, students are asked to follow models in building or drawing, rather

Did Connally help in big dairy co-op tax audit?

WASHINGTON (AP) — John B. Connally may have assisted the nation's biggest dairy cooperative in a tax audit that failed to uncover the dairymen's massive illegal political donations and alleged kickbacks, the co-op's former lobbyist is quoted as saying.

Bob A. Lilly, former lobbyist for Associated Milk Producers, Inc., said Connally, then Treasury secretary and in command of the Internal Revenue Service, "may have helped" the tax matter, according to notes taken by a lawyer who interviewed Lilly.

Ally, co-op lawyer Jake Jacobson once told the milk producers' leaders that Connally had written about the matter directly to R.L. Finney, the IRS district director in Austin, Tex., an informed source said.

Phinney, a long-time friend and former business partner of Connally, acknowledged that he had been involved in the 1971 audit, but denied that Connally or anyone in Washington had contacted him about it.

Connally couldn't be reached and his lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, declined comment.

Jacobson, once a friend of Connally, hired one of Connally's senior law partners, Marvin K. Colby of Houston, to handle the tax matter. Jacobson has testified to Watergate investigators that he checked with Connally in advance to "see if it was OK" to hire Colby, several sources said.

George L. Melven, the milk producers' chief executive, is quoted in court papers as saying that Colby "got them off on that one but said he could not do it again." Colby, in a telephone interview, said his role was to give legal advice to the co-op.

Melven and Lilly were interviewed by lawyers conducting an independent probe of the milk producers' political activities. The notes of those interviews were subpoenaed recently and made public in court records.

Warnke: Defense request too high

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Asst. Secretary of Defense Paul C. Warnke said today the Nixon administration's military budget request for the coming fiscal year is more than 15 per cent above this year's defense appropriation and "unwise past programs and unneeded efforts at pump-priming" to help head off a recession with defense spending, Warnke said.

He released a report prepared by a panel he chaired of onetime government officials with experience in national security matters. The study was made by the Project on Budget Priorities.

"The huge size of the request, the attempt to camouflage the real increase from last year and the open admission that extra billions for the Pentagon are included to stimulate the economy makes it more necessary than ever that Congress look independently and critically at the real need for military spending to serve our national interests," Warnke said.

The report found that the military budget request for fiscal 1975 amounts to an increase of $13 billion, or 15.4 per cent, above this year's appropriation. Subtracting money to cover pay hikes and inflated prices, the real increase from fiscal 1974 was estimated by the panel at $4.4 billion.

He said that while the administration "has fostered the impression that the military budget request for fiscal 1975 amounts to an increase of $13 billion, or 15.4 per cent, above this year's appropriation. Subtracting money to cover pay hikes and inflated prices, the real increase from fiscal 1974 was estimated by the panel at $4.4 billion."

Hearst 'not surprised' at blindfold reports

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Miss Hearst, who was abducted 14 weeks ago today from her Berkeley apartment, has sworn her allegiance to the SLA in tape-recorded messages to her family. She was photographed with SLA members robbing the Sunset District bank and on the latest tape she said she did so willingly.

Bates said FBI agents are receiving between 50 to 100 calls a day, "but nothing specific has developed yet" in finding the revolutionary gang.

"The trail has never been completely cold," Bates said. "There's no doubt in my mind that the case will be solved and solved successfully."

'Speedy' island almost blown up

WASHINGTON (AP) — A General Accounting Office report says the Navy's new Phalanx antimissile gun malfunctioned so badly in its first test earlier this year that it "threatened to sink" a California island and a friendly ship.

The report, released Sunday by Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said the radar-controlled, self-firing gun "tripped, locked out and declared as a threat" the U.S. Navy ship USS Hollister.

Also, the gun's electronic aiming system zeroed in on Santa Barbara Island, off the Southern California coast, confusing the island for a fast-moving target, according to the GAO report.

While the Phalanx is designed mainly as a "last ditch defense" against enemy missiles, it can also fix on planes and other ships, the GAO report said. Aspin, a member of the House Armed Services Committee, said the initial tests cast serious doubt on whether the Phalanx is worth any further funds.

"out of our already-bloated defense budget," he added. "Certainly, we have no urgent requirements for an automatic gun that attacks islands and friendly ships."

The report indicated that the problem with the gun's electronic targeting system is mainly due to extraneous radar reflections off large objects nearby.

The apartment which investigators say the SLA used for five weeks was located only 15 minutes from a bank which the group robbed of $100,000 on April 15.

The Chicago Tribune quoted unnamed sources as saying the bloodhound going to the blindfold "would seem to indicate Miss Hearst is still not fully trusted by her kidnappers, despite proclamations that she has turned her back on her family and joined the SLA."

2nd generation takes over

Havlicek: 'This is like a rebirth'

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Boston Celtics, a group of second generation traditionalists, burst from the shadows of a long dead dynasty into a wild victory celebration.

Boston had just defeated the Milwaukee Bucks 102-87 Sunday for the National Basketball Association championship.

Claiming the same destiny as the Boston teams that captured eight NBA titles in the 1960s, the Celtics smoked cigars and champagne, drank and threw champagne, and hugged and pounded each other after the surprisingly easy final-game triumph.

"This is like a rebirth," said team captain John Havlicek, celebrating his seventh NBA crown with the Celtics and Boston's first title since Bill Russell's last season in 1969.

Havlicek and forward Don Nelson are the only current Celtics who played a major role in the 1969 championship.

Crockett: 'I wanted 9.0 badly'

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — "I wanted it so badly," said slender flyer Crockett after breaking the world record for the 100-yard dash with a time of 9.0, shaving a 100 of a second off the old mark.

"So many times I've run 9.2 and got nothing for it, nothing," Crockett said Saturday.

This time he got plenty. Crockett became the Roger Bannister of sprinting and now can lay claim to the title of the world's fastest human.

In 1963 Bob Hayes set the 100-yard record at 9.1, and since then several sprinters have tied Hayes' mark, but 9.0 flat was seemingly unreachable—just as the four-minute mile was until Bannister checked 3:59.4 in May 1954.

"It doesn't mean anything to be close to the record," the 24-year-old computer marketing representative said. "And there were so many gathered at 9.1 that even the record was getting crowded."

"Come to think of it, I fixed that."

Crockett, a resident of Peoria, Ill., and graduate of Southern Illinois University, set the record while representing the Philadelphia Flyers' owners club at the Tom Black Track Classic at the University of Tennessee.

He won the 1969 and 1970 Amateur Athletic Union 100-yard titles, each with 9.1. Tennessee track officials had been hoping for a record-breaking performance Saturday by their own stand-out freshman sprinter Reggie Jones, who had clocked 9.1 in trials. He finished second to Crockett with a time of 9.2.

Aeros 'kill' Cougars 3-2

CHICAGO (AP) — "The penalty killers did the job for us," said coach Bill Dineen after his Houston Aeros blew a two-goal lead and then came back to defeat the Chicago Cougars 3-2 in the opening game of their World Hockey Association playoff finals.

"When we kept them from scoring in that second period and again stopped their power play in the third period, I think that made the difference," Dineen said Sunday.

The real test came in the second period when Gordie Howe drew a penalty at 6:50 and Paul Popiel followed him into the penalty box at 8:04 for elbowing his brother, Jan Popiel.

This gave the Cougars a woman advantage for 46 seconds, but they were unable to score in a 2-0 Houston lead.

Larry Hile connected at 8:31 of the first period and less than three minutes later Gordon Labossiere scored on a power play for the two-goal lead.

The Cougars managed to tie the contest on goals by Bob Ladington and Don Gordon in the third period, but Hughes' unassisted goal at 15:48 broke the tie and gave the Aeros a 1-0 edge in the best-of-seven series.

"They have a lot of experience and they don't panic," said Chicago player-coach Pat Stapleton. "Hughes didn't make a mistake when he got the puck. I guess that's why he scored 42 goals during the regular season. Really, it boils down to their scoring on the power play and we didn't when we had our chances."

The game drew a capacity crowd of 3,000 at the suburban Randall's shopping center arena which recently became the "home" of the Cougars after they had been displaced from the International Amphitheatre by a Peter Pan production.

Havlicek averaged 28.4 points in the 1974 championship series and was named Most Valuable Player.

"This is the greatest, there's no doubt about it," said Havlicek, wiping off champagne gleefully poured over him by Coach Tom Heinsohn in the Celtics' cramped, steamy dressing room.

Flyers take playoff lead

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Terry Crisp compared the frustration of his first three appearances in the Stanley Cup finals and the station he feels this time around with the Philadelphia Flyers.

"The 36-year-old Crisp scored the key goal Sunday in the Flyers' 4-1 victory over the powerful Boston Bruins, to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven National Hockey League championship series. The fourth game is here Tuesday night.

Crisp said the big difference between being in three Stanley Cup finals with the St. Louis Blues as compared with this set against the Bruins "is that I really feel we have a honest chance at the Stanley Cup this time."

"When I was at St. Louis I was just happy to be in the first round. We could have given 100 percent and still come up short."

"We would have been happy then just to get one or two games. That would have been just like winning the Stanley Cup. On this team there are 20 fellows not whistling in the dark."

The Blues, of course, got into the Stanley Cup by winning the playoffs in the NHL's expansion division. The Flyers had to knock off the New York Rangers, one of the league's original teams. In the semifinals, they won their division over a group that included another preexpansion team, the Chicago Black Hawks.

The 5-foot-10 inch Crisp, from Parry Sound, Ontario, said he was the most surprised guy on the ice when his shot at 15:43 of the second period slipped off Boston goalie Gilles Gilbert's stick into the net to send Philadelphia ahead 2-1.

Earlier, Boston's John Bucyk had muted the wild cheering crowd of 17,007 with a goal at 1:53 of the opening period. Tom Bladen tied it at 10:27 on a 30-foot power goal off a cross-ice pass from Bobby Clarke. The Flyers kicked it up in the third period on goals by Fred Kuczek and Ross Lonsberry.

Flyers' Coach Fred Shero said he felt Boston stars Bobby Orr and Phil Esposito were tired, adding:

"And our centermen are laying on them. In past years we tried to keep the puck away from them. We believe now we're trying to overwork them, let them get the puck and then take on them."

Orr was terse but to the point. "The Flyers are working harder than we are. They are hungrier than we are. We can turn this around, but we've got to start skating and start working. On the power play we'd be better to take a 10-yard penalty."

Boston Coach Rep Gooden ripped his team.

"We were outplayed," he said. "Second effort is required to beat this team. If you don't you're in deep trouble. I've seen as play badly and win, and seen us play well and lose. We played very bad today, no second effort."

The Flyers lost winger Gary Dornhoefer, who suffered a separation of the left shoulder. He'll undergo surgery today or Tuesday. The veteran Dornhoefer has scored five goals and had six assists in the playoffs this year.

Astros' Watson: Cincy fans maniacs

Houston's Bob Watson, bleeding and nearly unconscious, slumped to the artificial turf in Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium. In an intense effort to catch Merv Rettenmund's fly ball, Watson crashed into the left field wall, then collapsed. Rettenmund continued around the bases for an inside-the-park home run.

Fans of the stands rewarded Watson's superlative effort by showering his motionless body with cups of beer.

The Astros reacted with indignation and anger.

"They threw three beer cups on him," said outfielder Cesar Cedeno, trying to control his sore emotions. His two-run homer had provided the only Houston scoring of the day in 3-0, 4-2 losses to the Reds.

"He was laying there bleeding and could have been blinded from hitting the wall. I wish I could have climbed up there with a ladder," Cedeno said.

"They're maniacs," said Watson, who required 12 stitches under his right eye after the collision.

Reds Manager Sparky Anderson led his actions aping. He reacted to the fallen player and shouted angrily at young fans. About 12 of them were removed, to the loud cheers of the 35,000 spectators.

BRAYES' GIANTS 2.

The 71st home run of Henry Aaron's record-breaking career and two runs batted in by Dave Johnson carried the Braves to their victory in the opener, backing the three-hit pitching of Carl Morton.

Johnson hit his sixth homer of the season for the Braves in the second inning of the second game.

Mike Anderson drove in two runs with a sixth-inning homer and Ed Usher drove in three others to carry Philadelphia past Pittsburgh.

DOGGERS 15, Padres 7.

Steve Yeager's two-run single capped a six-run Los Angeles 11th inning and carried the Dodgers to their fifth consecutive victory.

Hill shows 'em—wins Houston golf

HOUSTON (UPI) — Dave Hill knew he had shown the world and then some.

Walking down the 17th fairway after sinking a 30-foot birdie putt on 16 to go two up on the Houston Open Field, Hill said, "It looked like the good Lord wanted me to win because he had stamped all over me before."

Not only did the 15-year-old veteran show the heavens by firing a final round 68 Sunday to win the Open with a 15-under-par 277, he went one up on the tournament sponsors, Houston Golf Association.

Hill explained Saturday after jumping into a share of the lead with Steve Menck that in 1973, he was stuck in Colorado and could not make the Houston Open. But an PGA official, Hill said, would not let him withdraw.

So if he won this year, the money would be incidental.

"They can keep it," he said. "I just want to win. I want to pay them back."

Wheat price fall prompting bakers to lower prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fall of wheat prices by 2.3 per cent since early January has been prompting calls for bakers and supermarkets to lower their prices.

The bakers, back in January, were calling for limited export controls on wheat, predicting soaring prices this spring and then a bare granary before the bumper winter crop came in.

Neither control nor higher prices nor a complete disappearance occurred, although stocks are down to the lowest levels in 22 years.

The bakers' critics — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butts, several congressmen and various wheat-interest organizations — now are taking their turns in the spotlight in telling the bakers to apply their economies to themselves and cut their prices.

However, the latest USDA statistics show that, as usual, "the villain theory" is an oversimplification of reality in seeking to pinpoint the causes of prices.

For example, USDA marketbasket figures for March show the farm value of wheat in a one-pound loaf of white bread fell 11.6 per cent from February at the same time as the retail price fell 4.6 per cent and the midwestern's margin rose 19.5 per cent.

But, compared with three months before, the margin went up 14.1 per cent, the retail price went up 6.4 per cent and the farm value went up 8.9 per cent.

And again, compared with March 1972, the margin is again the lowest percentage increase of the three, with a 2.4 per cent drop at the same time that the wheat value was up 24.8 per cent and the retail price was up 33.9 per cent.

The marketbasket comparison also has just finished the first comprehensive USDA study in a decade of the marketing chain for 19 major food items.

In broad section showed that, for all of 1972, the farm value of the wheat in the pound loaf — which is much less common than the 1½-pound loaf — rose by 45 per cent, or 1.7 cents.

Elevator fire keeps men on 24-hour watch

STOCKLAND — Volunteers in the Stockland Fire Department were still on standby today at the Stockland Grain Elevator, Stockland, after that department and three other area departments fought a fire Sunday night.

Firemen from Stockland, Milford, Sheldon and Wellington-Greer were called to the scene at 7:35 a.m. Sunday to fight the blaze which damaged 5,000 bushels of beans, two bins, their spouts and cupolas.

It is not known how the fire started.

From 50 to 100 bushels of beans were still smoldering today in one of the bins, according to John Fredrickson, manager of the elevator.

He said he is now taking inventory to determine the exact amount of the damage.

Firemen contained the fire to the top of the bins by cutting a hole in the side and shooting water into the hole.

A total of 10 trucks and 66 firemen were at the scene. Fredrickson said most of the firemen left at 2 p.m. Sunday but the Stockland department worked at the scene.

Nixon won't give up more tapes: lawyer

WASHINGTON (AP) — An House Judiciary Committee subpoena to subpoena additional White House tapes, a presidential lawyer says "nothing in contemplation" would cause President Nixon to turn over more Watergate tapes.

J. Fred Buzhardt, counsel to the president, was asked Sunday if Nixon's position is that he would refuse to yield either to a Supreme Court ruling or to a congressional demand for the tapes.

"That's certainly my understanding of the present outlook of the President," Buzhardt replied.

Buzhardt added that he does not feel that the White House ever will be faced with a court decision or a demand from the Senate during an impeachment trial for additional tapes.

The House Judiciary Committee, investigating possible grounds for impeaching Nixon, is expected to release another subpoena this week. The committee resumes consideration of evidence Tuesday.

Buzhardt also charged that a "malicious and vicious" campaign is afoot to poison the public's mind against Nixon by charging that ethnic slurs were deleted from the Watergate transcripts released recently by the White House.

Today, meanwhile, U.S. District Judge John Sirica said a hearing on a possible subpoena for more tapes would be held in his chambers. He gave no reason for the closed meeting but implication was that the prosecutor's office might be calling on grand jury testimony to back up its demands for tapes.

Also today, Sirica takes up what to do with a report from a panel of experts on the 1974 minute gap in one of the tapes Nixon turned over earlier.

A memorandum filed by assistant prosecutor Leon Jaworski on Friday immediately was placed under court seal by Sirica. The judge also said he had instructed all lawyers in the case and their clients not to discuss it.

The panel of experts presented Sirica's report on the 19-minute gap May 4 after nearly six months of study. Lawyers in the case had been given until today to "study the draft and communicate with the panel about it."

The gap is in a recording of a conversation between Nixon and then White House Chief of Staff H. R. Haldeman on June 30, 1972. Testimony in the Watergate cover-up case.

Mitchell broke wiretap law, court decides

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled unanimously today that the Justice Department under former Attorney General John N. Mitchell violated the law in its procedures for obtaining wiretap evidence.

The 9 to 0 decision probably kills narcotics and gambling prosecutions involving hundreds of persons which have been pending in various courts awaiting a ruling on whether the evidence can be used.

The department had argued that at worst it had committed only "harmless error" which had not endangered anyone's privacy.

Justice Byron R. White wrote opinions in two highly complex cases on the department's handling of wiretaps. In one challenged area he held that the department was wrong. In the other the department was upheld by a 5-4 vote.

The decision hinged on an interpretation of the Omnibus Crime Control Act of 1968, which contains very specific provisions for applying to a trial judge for a wiretap order.

The statute requires authorization by the U.S. attorney general himself or a "specially designated" assistant attorney general. Many of Mitchell's authorizations were by his executive assistant, Lou Lendrum.

Justice White said that on what have become known as "Will Wilton" wiretaps — wiretap permissions to U.S. attorneys in the field which former Assistant Attorney General Will Wilton was ordered under law to sign. Instead they were signed by deputies.

The department won on the second issue.

The challenged practices, which were carried on in 1968 and 1972, have been discontinued.

Ash: Oil crisis aided government

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon Administration disclosed today that the oil crisis has been a major financial boon to the government.

Roy L. Ash, director of the Office of Management and Budget, testified before the House Ways and Means Committee that federal receipts from leasing offshore land to oil companies for drilling now are estimated $2.1 billion higher than projected in last February's budget for the current fiscal year, and $3 billion higher for next fiscal year.

Ash appeared before the committee to confer an administration request that the federal debt limit be raised nearly $30 billion — from $477.7 billion to $507.7 billion.

With producers scrambling to find new oil fields, the government is leasing more offshore areas at higher bid prices than anticipated, Ash explained. And receipts from the lease account as reducing net budget expenditures.

Other major changes in expenditure estimates since the budget was published in February, Ash said, include reductions in outlays for health, education and defense, partly offset by increased expenditure for unemployment benefits, interest on the public debt and veterans' compensation.

Testifying with Ash, Paul L. Volcker, under secretary of the Treasury for Monetary Affairs, lowered the Treasury estimate of corporate income tax revenues by $3.3 billion for this fiscal year and $3.5 billion for next fiscal year.

But he raised the estimate for individual income tax revenues by $3 billion, mainly to reflect the impact of inflation in raising tax payments.

Volcker also raised from $1.39 trillion to $1.402 trillion the estimate of gross national product — total output of goods and services — during calendar 1974. This increase mainly reflects inflation.

Volcker and Ash said the budget deficit for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1975, now was estimated at $3.5 billion, down from the February projection of $4.7 billion. They said the deficit estimate for fiscal 1975 had been raised from $6.4 billion to $11.4 billion.

There is only an indirect relationship between budget estimates and the debt ceiling, because the ceiling is based on a different version of the budget.

The legal limit on the debt now is $477.7 billion and the actual debt on April 30 was $472.4 billion. Volcker said the debt would press against the ceiling late this month and again during July, when the actual debt will be about $75 billion higher.

In requesting the peak debt of $499 billion next fiscal year, he requested an extra margin of $6 billion to cover unforeseen developments and possible extra loans by the Treasury to support the housing industry.

Senate battle forecast on busing order issue

WASHINGTON — The Senate is heading into a bitter floor fight over renewed efforts to virtually kill court busing orders as a method of achieving school desegregation.

The first voting showdown on the issue will come Wednesday.

But there may be other tests before the Senate finally disposes of the massive $3 billion education bill serving as the vehicle for the busing battle.

The Senate will resume debate on the standby energy bill when it convenes today but turn to the education measure later in the afternoon and stay on it the rest of the week.

Wednesday the House will debate the bill to compensate Mississippi poultry growers for destruction of contaminated chickens.

Man hospitalized after fight at Manteno area home

A rural Manteno was reported in good condition this morning at St. Mary's Hospital where he was being treated for a head wound received in a fight early Sunday at a Manteno area home.

The man entered the home of Kenneth E. Hall, Manteno, and began hitting furniture there, deputies said. He then began beating Hall's wife Virginia, and Hall intervened. As the man drew back to hit Mrs. Hall, her husband struck him on the head with a liquor bottle, Thompson reported.

The man then got a shotgun and fired three shots at Hall as Hall ran down the road from his home, according to the report. None of the shots hit Hall.

In another incident investigated by sheriff's deputies,

Donald Balthazor, 32, RR 1, Clinton, was charged with disorderly conduct and booked at the county jail at 5 a.m. today. He later posted $25 bail and was released to appear in court May 28.

Patricia Hall, Manteno, said Balthazor followed her car on 157 from the Greater Kankakee Airport to the Bradley court and then north on Ill. 50 to Manteno. She then turned around and headed for Kankakee to report the incident at the sheriff's office, according to the report.

Deputies said Balthazor did not follow her all the way to the sheriff's office, but arrived there later and asked Ms. Hall not to sign a complaint.

Also booked during the weekend at the Kankakee County jail were Margie Hodges, 38, 603 N. Chicago Ave., and a 16-year-old Kankakee girl, both charged with petty theft. Ms. Hodges posted $100 bail and was released pending a court appearance, but the juvenile remained in custody this morning.

The two were accused of taking a dress from the Robert Hall clothing store, Ill. 50 north. The theft was reported by store personnel, and Bourbonnais police stopped the two shortly after.

In other weekend arrests:

James McElroy, 35, 390 W. Walnut St., was booked Sunday on a warrant charging him with violation of probation in a 1973 forgery case.

ICCB hearing set in Beecher

BECHER — An Illinois Community College Board hearing on the Beecher school district's request that the ICCB change its assignment to Beecher at the Beecher High School gymnasium. Interested persons may testify at the hearing.

A citizens' group in Beecher had earlier filed a petition with the ICCB requesting a hearing on Beecher's assignment. The ICCB voted at its December meeting to tentatively assign Beecher to KCC, at the request of the Beecher Board of Education. The ICCB staff and earlier received a letter from the Beecher Board of Education, which would allow a district to vote itself outside of all community college districts.

Some 17 hearings of this type are being held throughout the state in April and May by the ICCB. The ICCB will consider assignment changes as the result of these hearings at its June 21 meeting in Chicago.

Mrs. Gandhi changing policies in India

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, dressed in a yellow sari, rose from her seat in parliament today to defend her handling of the railway strike now in its sixth day.

Across the chamber, more than 50 members of the opposition, including Communists, Socialists, Conservatives, tried to shout her down.

The 56-year-old prime minister angrily outshouted them, and they sat back to listen to a one-hour lecture from the woman who ordered thousands of union leaders to go to jail for a strike.

"To say our policy is anti-labor is a gross insult," she said. "We are for labor, but we are for the country."

The new, revised five-point program for the new year, recognition of retiring directors, a financial report, a discussion of the purpose of the council, and an annual report of the council's activities in the past year.

What many here see as a more pragmatic Indira Gandhi. A year ago, she sponsored a law requiring private companies to pay a month's pay as an annual bonus to employees even if the company is losing money. Now, she is adamantly refusing to pay such bonuses to the 1.7 million workers on the government-run railways.

A year ago, Mrs. Gandhi said she would not let the sale of wheat trade, saying it was a national asset.

After President Nixon cut off economic aid to India during the 1971 India-Pakistan war, Mrs. Gandhi never let the subject of trade with the United States be far from her mind.

Tomcat still lives

If there is anything in this life with nine lives, like the legendary tomcat, it may be something which Illinois claims as a dubious distinction.

This is the practice of electing members of the House of Representatives at Springfield by the cumulative voting method, often called "plumping" or "bulleting" as many as three votes for a candidate.

In some areas the original term "to plump" for a candidate has evolved to "plunk." This, in the view of the system's hardy opponents, may be more descriptive of the electorate's best interests crashing into oblivion.

Giving a state representative three votes enables a citizen, in a typical situation, to mark his or her ballot in one of five ways which, to some people, is pretty confusing. As a matter of fact, complexities of the system bewilder the most sophisticated political scientists.

The practice was set up by the Constitution of 1870 to reduce "danger of sectionalism" under the Civil War. Republicans then controlled northern Illinois and Democrats the southern part. The situation has reversed, to a degree, but sectionalism is still with us. And no other state has seen enough virtue in the practice to adopt it.

Cumulative voting has been defended because it virtually guarantees minority representation to each House district. It has been attacked as being subject to party manipulation because party faithful can elect a hand-picked candidate, discouraging an aspirant who may be stronger and more independent-minded.

Last fall a statewide citizens committee took action toward submitting what it calls the "Legislative Reform Amendment" to Illinois voters in the November election this year. First aim was to obtain required 400,000 signatures on a petition addressed to the secretary of state.

Committee chairman is Robert Bergstrom, president of the Urban League Club of Chicago.

The committee can't meet the legal deadline, meaning that, in a sense, cumulative voting has demonstrated another of its many lives.

However, committee members are quoted as saying their work has been successful to the extent it?

3-Bs aid state fair

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. Daniel Walker's 3-Bs injection of beer, bingo and betting to rejuvenate the Illinois state fair surprised and confounded his critics.

Even among cynics there was grudging acknowledgment that Walker had recognized before others that the public has become receptive to major changes in the tradition-bolted State Fair.

True, as in the past, there was a ripple of criticism from the deeply religious about bringing back beer after a 20-year moratorium. From farm spokesmen there were some misgivings about plans for partitioned betting on the harness races.

BUT THIS WAS to be expected and Walker had no doubt discounted such criticism in advance.

In Springfield, where criticism of the fair and how it is managed has been a universal habit for years, there was quiet acceptance and some notable enthusiasm about the Walker changes.

"I haven't been out there (the fairgrounds) for years, but I'm getting on this year," was a typical comment.

What appears to have impressed the citizenry, whose attendance is vital to the fair's success, was his direct approach to the long-standing problem of how to attract more people to the annual event.

All sorts of experiments have been tried but attendance has steadily declined and the red ink persisted. Several years of headline economy halved the peak annual deficit of $2 million, but left the fair a dull and drab affair.

Illinois is a cross-section of the United States and American tastes are depressed, weary and frustrated by an array of worries including inflation, energy problems and Watergate.

They are in a mood to welcome a little lightness, fun and relaxation. What better recipe than beer, bingo and betting at the State Fair?

Treacherous impeachment road

WASHINGTON — Most readers of Washington telegrams say that the House of Representatives will vote to impeach the President about mid-July, around Bastille Day. The Senate will begin its trial a month later.

Toward the end of September, in this season, conservative Republicans and southern Democrats would join to make up that "one third plus one" necessary to bring in a verdict that the President is guilty.

That prospect pleases many. The President is the most powerful man in the world, and he is being driven from office. Congressmen running in the fall could not be too sure of their votes.

The statewide totals were 1,031,241 for the system, 794,909 against. The proposal to abandon the practice did pass in 76 downstate counties. In Cook County, where the city is dominated by Democrats and suburbs by Republicans, cumulative voting was upheld two to one.

Kankakee County was not one of the 76 "against" counties. Here the vote was 8,108 to 7,493 in favor of existing methods.

Undoubtedly there will be much said for and against cumulative voting and multi-county districts before the next vote.

The committee can't meet the legal deadline, meaning that, in a sense, cumulative voting has demonstrated another of its many lives.

They could prosper in peace

King Features Syndicate JERUSALEM — There doesn't seem to be much "give" on either the Israeli or the Syrian side insofar as the Holy site solution of the Golan Heights boundary is concerned. Henry Kissinger may get his cease-fire before this column can be printed, but that could be only the beginning of a Middle East reprieve of the two-decade Panmunjom standoff between the North and South Koreans, in which nothing has endured save the provocation.

The Israelis are convinced they must keep the strategic heights; they have just settled a new kibbutz, or voluntary farm collective, in the southern Golan, which is an indication that they intend to hang on. The Syrian government, on the other hand, must get something more than the nonstrategic town of Kuneitra from the Israelis if the present regime of President Assad is to survive the vengeance of Syrian extremists.

The visiting outsider, contemplating yet another Israeli armed force between Israel and its neighbors, must shake his head helplessly at what the sides are giving up by giving nothing. For if anything is plain, it is that the peace in the Middle East is a distant prospect.

Harry Truman has claimed that, even in a troubled world, who can say that foreign aid billions really have been wasted?

THERE IS TOURISM, for one thing. The Israelis are still attracting tourists to the Holy City and the new city of Jerusalem. Israel is a tourist's year by 1975, need the visitor's money if they are ever going to prosper. The Israelis are giving up by giving nothing. For if anything is plain, it is that the peace in the Middle East is a distant prospect.

In confusion lies Nixon's one chance

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's best hope of avoiding impeachment and conviction now lies in the fact that there is no agreement in the Congress, the press or even in the legal fraternity about what the grounds for impeachment of a president should be.

White House counsel is arguing that the words "treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors" are "vague" and that there then will be 18 months for doing the job instead of a few months.

Thus, they say, Illinois people are heading for a "genuine and powerful showdown" on cumulative voting.

The committee also seeks to have existing large and rambling House districts replaced by smaller districts with one House representative instead of three, with one person chosen in a "simple, straight-forward" manner without cumulative mathematics.

There are those who suggest that most practices of the past were ended by inclusion in the new Constitution of a provision requiring political parties to allow nomination of at least two candidates for each district.

However, there is no way of forcing two Republicans or two Democrats to seek a place on the ballot. There is no guarantee that two minority party candidates in a district will not continue to find it advantageous to campaign against each other rather than the candidates of the other party.

In all fairness, it should be recalled that the "plumping" system survived voting testing four years ago. That was when the new Illinois charter was approved, and cumulative voting was one of several issues upon which citizens expressed themselves.

The statewide totals were 1,031,241 for the system, 794,909 against. The proposal to abandon the practice did pass in 76 downstate counties. In Cook County, where the city is dominated by Democrats and suburbs by Republicans, cumulative voting was upheld two to one.

Landon, Cotton urge Nixon not to resign

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Impediment should proceed and President Nixon should not resign, two more longtime steadfast Republicans said Sunday.

The President has counseled such resignation, despite the recent clamor for him to step down, that he has publicly said, "I don't need evidence" to impeach the President, "all you need is votes."

If the debate on what is impeachable is left to a controversy over the meaning of half a dozen words in the Constitution, or on the whim of members of the Congress, it could be impossible to reach a decision.

Both sides, of course, quote extensively from English law and the founding fathers in support of their conflicting positions.

Accordingly, there may be no remedy for the members of the House and Senate other than to listen to the conflicting definitions of what is impeachable, study the evidence and have a vote.

Underground paper rises in Russia

MOSCOW (UPI) — An underground newspaper suppressed by political police 18 months ago is back in circulation — a new attempt by dissidents in the Soviet Union to reassert themselves.

The Chronicle of Current Events, once the outside world's chief source of information about Kremlin crack-downs on dissent, has published three new issues, according to news sources.

Physical Sergei Korovov, mathematician Tatiana Verbitskaya and linguist Tatyana Khodorovich gave copies of the typewritten Chronicle by KGB political police during 1972 and 1973.

The last issue of the Chronicle, which has a reputation for accuracy, appeared in October 1973. It contained scores of persons arrested and questioned about the Chronicle by KGB political police during 1972 and 1973.

Kankakee police arrest 7 in weekend incidents

A 55-year-old Kankakee man was arrested Saturday evening and charged with driving while intoxicated and failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident after he was involved in an accident at Court St. and Washington Ave., according to Kankakee police reports.

An accident report, however, was not on file this morning at the police department.

Adrian Miller, 433 S. Schuyler Ave., was booked at the police station on the two charges, police reports said. He was later released after posting $50 bond and his drivers license.

In other city arrests, three persons were arrested Sunday night and charged with disturbing the peace after a fight on the 500 block of N. Washington Ave., police said.

Charged with disturbing the peace were Clara Ann Renshaw, 18, 244 N. Washington Ave.; Steven R. Summers, 18, R.R. 7 Kankakee; and John L. Summers Jr., 23, 601 N. Washington Ave. Both Summers men were released after posting $25 bond and were ordered to appear in court June 12, police said.

Sale of homes planned by HUD

A sale of homes in the Kankakee-Joliet area will be held by the Department of Housing and Urban Development in the coming weeks.

John L. Waser, Chicago area HUD director, announced that the homes had been acquired by HUD because of foreclosed mortgages, and they will be advertised in local newspapers.

Ed Bush, public relations spokesman for HUD in Chicago, said today that the list of homes is being compiled now and that it will be a couple of weeks before it is completed.

Waser's announcement said that 125 out of 180 government-acquired homes had been sold last month in the area.

They may be sold as is, with no warranty, or with a guaranteed mortgage and warranties on the mechanical systems.

The sale prices of the homes in Rockford averaged $14,000. Waser said, well below prices on the open market once they were rehabilitated.

The White House moved May 1 to have the subpoena quashed, saying Nixon has the right to keep his conversations private and had an obligation to protect the constitutional principle of executive privilege.

The committee's subpoena covers conversations ranging from three days after the June 17, 1972, break-in at Democratic party headquarters in the Watergate office building to June 4, 1973, the day Nixon claimed to earlier.

Despite increasing clamor for his resignation, Nixon said over the weekend that he would "never give up."

The President was received with general warmth Saturday night by crowds at Vance Air Force Base and at Oklahoma State University.

To shouts of "Hang in there!" and "We're with you!" Nixon responded: "Believe me, that does your heart good."

Another expression of support came Sunday from Nixon's chief supporter among labor leaders, President Frank P. Fitzgerald of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

"We feel no different than any other individual. He should have his day in court, if he is to have one.... We still support him," Fitzgerald said on NBC's "Meet the Press."

In weekend appearances, Vice President Gerald R. Ford and Julie Nixon Eisenhower reaffirmed Nixon's determination to stay on the job.

The President's daughter declared that her father would fight all the way through a Senate trial, even if "only one senator believed in him."

In discussing the impeachment process, she said: "I think it would be a precedent to set for a president to resign unless there were a vote of criminal action."

exchanges during the past two weeks between the Lebanese army and Israeli troops who try to move along a road on the Lebanese side of the border.

Israeli communists said Israel staged air strikes into southern Lebanon today after the area known as "Fatahland," on the Lebanese border and suffered casualties from Syrian artillery fire on the Golan Heights battlefield.

An Israeli army spokesman said morning exchanges of fire on Mt. Hermon, the southern sector of the Heights and the Israeli frontier, resulted in the direction of Damascus reported in two Israeli outlets. They were the first casualties since Thursday.

A Syrian communiqué said only that Syrian and Israeli forces exchanged tank and armor fire on Mt. Hermon and other sectors of the Golan Heights front for the 63rd consecutive day.

In the south, a U.S. Navy amphibious assault ship to clear North Vietnamese waters dropped anchor in the Mediterranean to help Egypt remove mines from the Suez Canal.

The Israeli command said the pre-dawn strangle of guerrilla bases in Lebanon lasted 30 minutes and all planes returned safely. The command said the Lebanese were using to shell Israeli forces on Mt. Hermon and support of Syrian troops fighting for control of the 2,327-foot peak.

The Suez corridor, which gave Egypt control of the canal for the first time since 1967, was being implemented smoothly. Canal operations to have the canal clear of mines by June with American and British help.

The American navy ship Lachar arrived in Egyptian territorial waters Sunday for the second time, completing a two-year mission. The Lachar is the largest U.S. ship ever to operate in the Suez Canal. The two ships were to return to Norfolk, Va., after completing a tour of duty with the 8th Fleet in the Mediterranean, a U.S. spokesman said.

Arab newspapers in Beirut today quoted Jordanian Prime Minister Zeid Rida as rejecting an Israeli offer for military disengagement along the Jordan River. Rida said the plan called for Israel to withdraw from some West Bank land but to keep key military installations along the river.

He said the plan gave no timetable for eventual withdrawal from all the West Bank, seized by Israel in 1967, and indefinitely would postpone deciding the status of East Jerusalem.

1949 predictions: Rebels propose negotiations with Portugal

Did any come true?

NEW YORK (UPI) — The year was 1949. The average weekly wage was $50 and prices were soaring. Some Americans were dreaming of suburban shopping centers, TV dinners and shorter skirts.

Those dreams were to come true, as were a number of other specific predictions by 300 prominent Americans, written 25 years ago, sealed in the cornerstones of a Manhattan office building and recently re-discovered.

The forecasts included color television, radar eyes, turbine engines, a polio vaccine and rising prosperity.

But many expectations have not yet been realized — world peace, an end to inflation and cure for cancer and the common cold.

The letter writers — among them Jack Benny, J. Edgar Hoover, Ernest Hemingway, Pearl S. Buck, Walt Disney, Helen Keller and 294 more corporate presidents, cabinet officers, authors and other prominent Americans — were asked to express their dreams and forecasts for America during the period of 1949-1974.

"I believe that skirts will be several inches shorter and several degrees simpler in 1974," wrote Dorothy Shaver, head of the Lord and Taylor department store.

"With servants becoming the vanishing American, a woman's idea of easy shopping is to pack her children into a car, drive to a store that has ample parking facilities, make her purchases and dash back in time to meet the 11:17," she wrote.

"I envisage a new kind of community shopping center which includes every kind of store. These will be located in open semi-rural areas which the automobile has brought within a few minutes' reach."

ALGIERS (AP) — Rebel leaders in Portuguese Guinea today proposed the immediate start of negotiations with the new Portuguese regime to settle the conflict in the African territory.

A statement issued here said the negotiations could begin "with or without a ceasefire," but warned the rebels were aiming for "the total liberation of our people."

The statement was issued by the executive committee of the African party for the Independence of Guinea-Bissau and the Cape Verde Islands — PAIGC — after an "extraordinary meeting."

R.S. Reynolds, president, Reynolds Metal Co., "Aluminum metal saved the freedom of the world — in the next five years it will save civilization!"

Jack Benny: "I hope the next five years brings to the world the beginning of an overhauling peace and that each living individual will have his share of happiness."

DISCOVERY On Dec. 4, 1961, the New York Museum of Modern Art, wrote Dorothy Shaver, head of the Lord and Taylor department store, discovered a painting by Matisse had been hanging upside down for 10 days.

"I envisage a new kind of community shopping center which includes every kind of store. These will be located in open semi-rural areas which the automobile has brought within a few minutes' reach."

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK (AP) — Soaring money costs pushed the stock market lower in a relatively slow activity today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 1.36 at 948.48, and declines overpowered advances by about 3 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

First National Bank of Chicago pushed its prime interest rate up this morning to 11 1/4 per cent, while several other banks followed a move begun Friday to an 11 1/2 per cent. Brokers said there appeared to be no sign of a let up in the extraordinary rise in borrowing costs.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was down 37 at 48.83.

Other big board issues drew trading interest. Included NYP, up 3/4 at 11. The company said it planned a tender offer for $60,000 of its own shares at $21.

IBM was off 3 at 211. The Supreme Court set aside a lower court's ruling directing IBM to disclose certain documents sought by the government in its antitrust case against the giant computer, manufacturer, Steels, chemicals, forest products, drugs, and most metals issuer fell back.

The NYSE's noon composite index of 48 listed common stocks stood at 48.83, down 1.36.

Havlicek: 'This is like a rebirth'

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Boston Celtics, a group of second generation traditionalists, burst from the shadows of a long dead dynasty into a wild victory celebration.

Boston had just defeated the Milwaukee Bucks 102-87 Sunday for the National Basketball Association championship.

Claiming the same destiny as the Boston team that captured eight NBA titles in the 1960s, the Celtics smoked cigars and cigarettes, drank and threw champagne, and hugged and patted each other after the surprisingly easy final game triumph.

"This is like a rebirth," said team captain John Havlicek, celebrating his seventh NBA crown with the Celtics and Boston's first title since Bill Russell's last season in 1969.

Havlicek and forward Don Nelson are the only current Celtics who played a major role in the 1969 championship.

Crockett: 'I wanted 9.0 badly'

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — "I wanted it so badly," said slender Ivory Crockett after breaking the world record for the 100-yard dash with a time of 9.0, shaving a 10th of a second off the old mark.

"So many times I've run 9.2s and got nothing for it, nothing," Crockett said Saturday.

This time he got plenty. Crockett became the Roger Bannister of sprinting and now can lay claim to the title of the world's fastest human.

In 1963 Bob Hayes set the 100-yard record at 9.1, and since then several sprinters have tied Hayes' mark, but 9.0 flat was seemingly unreachable—just as the four-minute mile was until Danister clocked 3:59.4 in May 1954.

It doesn't mean anything to be close to the record," the 24-year-old computer marketing representative said. "And there were so many gathered at 9.1 that even the record was getting crowded."

"Come to think of it, I fixed that."

Crockett, a resident of Peoria, Ill., and graduate of Southern Illinois University, set the record while representing the Philadelphia Flyers Club at the Tennessee Black Track Classic at the University of Tennessee.

He won the 1969 and 1970 Amateur Athletic Union 100-yard titles, each with 9.2.

Tennessee track officials had been hoping for a record-breaking performance Saturday by their own stand-out freshman sprinter Reggie Jones, who had clocked 9.1 in trials. He finished second in Crockett with a time of 9.2.

Aeros 'kill' Cougars 3-2

CHICAGO (AP) — "The penalty killers did the job for us," said coach Bill Dineen after his Houston Aeros blew a two-goal lead and then came back on Frank Hughes' tie-breaking goal to defeat the Chicago Cougars 3-2 in the opening game of their World Hockey Association playoff finals.

"When we kept them from scoring in that second period and again stopped their power play in the third period, I think that made the difference," Dineen said Sunday.

The real test came in the second period when Gordie Howe drew a penalty at 6:30 and Paul Popiel followed him into the penalty box at 6:54 for elbowing his brother, Jan Popiel.

This gave the Cougars a two-man advantage for 46 seconds, but they were unable to slice into a 2-0 Houston lead. Larry Hake connected at 8:31 of the first period and less than three minutes later Gordon Labossiere scored on power play for the two-goal lead.

The Cougars managed to tie the contest on goals by Bob Liddington and Don Gordon in the third period, but Hughes' unassisted goal at 15:48 broke the tie and gave the Aeros a 1-0 edge in the best-of-seven series.

"They have a lot of experience and they don't panic," said Chicago player-coach Pat Stapleton. "Hughes didn't make a mistake when he got the puck. I guess that's why he scored 42 goals during the regular season. Really, it boils down to their scoring on the power play and we didn't when we had our chances."

The game drew a capacity crowd of 3,000 at the suburban Randall's shopping center arena which recently became the "home" of the Cougars after they had been displaced from the International Amphitheatre by a Peter Pan production.

"The first championships were all the old Celtic tradition," said Havlicek. "But this is the start of a new tradition."

Havlicek averaged 28.4 points in the 1974 championship series and was voted its Most Valuable Player.

"This is the greatest, there's no doubt about it," said Havlicek, wiping off champagne gleefully poured over him by Coach Tom Heinsohn in the Celtics' cramped, steamy dressing room.

"The younger guys on the team really wanted this one to prove themselves," Havlicek said. "All they hear about in Boston is the old Celtic teams and the old Celtic traditions. Now they have their own tradition."

Flyers take playoff lead

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Terry Crisp compared the frustration of his first three appearances in the Stanley Cup finals and the elation he feels this time around with the Philadelphia Flyers.

The 30-year-old Crisp scored the key goal Sunday in the Flyers' 4-1 victory over the powerful Boston Bruins, to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven National Hockey League championship series. The fourth game is here Tuesday night.

Crisp said the big difference between being in three Stanley Cup finals with the St. Louis Blues as compared with this set against the Bruins "is that I really feel we have an honest chance at the Stanley Cup this time."

"When I was at St. Louis I was just happy to be in the final. We could have given 100 percent and still come up short."

"We would have been happy then just to steal one or two games. That would have been just winning the Stanley Cup. On this team there are 20 fellows not whistling in the dark."

The Blues, of course, got into the Stanley Cup by winning the playoffs in the NHL's expansion division. The Flyers had to knock off the New York Rangers, one of the league's original teams, in the semifinals. They were then division over a group that included another pre-season team, the Chicago Black Hawks.

The 5-foot-10-inch Crisp, from Parry Sound, Ontario, said he was the most surprised guy on the ice when his shot at 15:43 of the second period ripped off Boston goalie Gilles Gilbert's stick into the net to send Philadelphia ahead 2-1.

Earlier, Boston's John Bucyk had muted the wildly cheering crowd of 17,077 with a goal at 1:03 of the opening period. Tom Bladen tied it at 10:27 on a 35-foot power goal off a cross-pass from Bobby Clarke. The Flyers wrapped it up in the third period on goals by Grest Kindrachuk and Ross Lonsberry.

Flyers' Coach Fred Shero said he felt Boston stars Bobby Orr and Phil Esposito were tired, adding:

"And our centermen are laying on them. In past years we tried to keep the puck away from them. We believe now in trying to overwork them, let them get the puck and then lean on them."

Orr was lame but to the point. "The Flyers are working harder than we are. They are hungrier than we are. We can turn this around, but we've got to start skating and start working. On the power play we'd be better to take a 10-yard penalty."

Boston Coach Bud Gaudin ripped his team.

"We were outplayed," he said. "Second effort is required to beat this team. If you don't you're in deep trouble. I've seen us play badly and win, and seen us play well and lose. We played very bad today, no second effort."

The Flyers lost winger Gary Doranheiser, who suffered a separation of the left shoulder. He'll undergo surgery today or Tuesday. The veteran Doranheiser has scored five goals and had six assists in the playoffs this year.

Astros' Watson: Cincy fans maniacs

By The Associated Press

Houston's Bob Watson, bleeding and nearly unconscious, slumped to the artificial turf in Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium. In an intense effort to catch Jerry Rottenmund's fly ball, Watson crashed into the left field wall, then collapsed. Rottenmund continued around the bases for an inside-the-park home run.

Fans in the stands rewarded Watson's superlative effort by showering his motionless body with eggs of beer.

"They threw three beer cups on him," said outfielder Cesar Cedeno, trying to control his sure emotions. His two-run homer had provided the only Houston scoring of the day in 5-4, 4 losses to the Reds.

"It was laying there bleeding and could have been blinded from hitting the wall. I wish I could have climbed up there with a ladder," Cedeno said.

"They're maniacs," said Watson, who required 12 stitches under his right eye after the collision.

Reds Manager Sparky Anderson let his actions speak. He raced to the fallen player and shouted angrily at the young fans. About 12 of them were removed, to the chagrin of the 30,000 spectators.

The 72nd home run of Henry Aaron's record-breaking career and two runs batted in by Dave Johnson carried the Braves to their victory in the opener, backing the three-hit pitching of Carl Morton.

Dave Kingham hit his sixth homer of the season for the Giants in the second inning of the game.

Mike Anderson drove in two runs with a sixth-inning homer and Del Unser drove in three others to carry Philadelphia past Pittsburgh.

Steve Yeager's two-run single capped a six-run Los Angeles 15th inning and carried the Dodgers to their fifth consecutive victory.

Heavy week of track faces city, area teams

Kankakee area track watchers are in for a big week and so, it would seem, is the Bradley-Bourbonnais High School team.

Bunched into the next six days are four major meets—the Kankakee All-City at Bishop McNamara and the Waukegan Conference at Hoopeston both Tuesday, the Kankakee Valley Conference at McNamara on Thursday and the district meets at several sites in which Kankakee area teams will be competing on Saturday.

The Greater Kankakee Community team figured to reap the biggest harvest of the week in Bradley-Bourbonnais, which is favored to repeat as champion in the All-City, which gets underway with preliminaries at 4 p.m. and winds up with the finals at 6.

If the Bradley boys win, it would be their second good showing in four days since they finished in the second in the South Division meet of the South Inter-Conference Association and then in the past Saturday at Oak Forest.

There are several individual events in which most officials can start marking to four districts this week. Bradley down as winners in the Champaign Central, Normal, County, Oak Lawn, already, Count on Harold Siefert to win the mile and the mile and the mile.

800, or if he doesn't run in the latter, figure Greg Kyriacou to take it.

John Shott's a pretty good bet in the 3-mile. Steve Bell should reign in the pole vault and Gene Basse, the only city kid to exceed 8 feet in the high jump (6.3), will be the big favorite in his specialty.

The Bradley boys figure to have the depth, in addition, to pad their margin, with Kankakee Westview getting the closest look at coach Vern Knicker's boys.

WATSEKA will be the area representative trying to reap a championship in the Waukegan Conference. The Warriors will be coming back at it after only three days' rest, having finished second in the Iroquois County last Friday night.

If the Bradley boys win, it would be their second good showing in four days since they finished in the second in the South Division meet of the South Inter-Conference Association and then in the past Saturday at Oak Forest.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I don't know if you believe in spirits, I never did, but something happened that really got me thinking, and I don't know who else to ask about this. When my husband was in Kansas City on a business trip he looked up an old girl friend just for old time's sake, and she told him that I had visited her some years back under very mysterious circumstances. Abby, I have never met this woman in my life. In fact, I have never been to Kansas City. Now here is where the spirits come in. My husband swears that this girl is telling the truth and that somehow my spirit left my body and went to Kansas City to visit Agnes. He says that Agnes described me to a "C" even to the mole I have on my right cheek, so now I don't know what to do. Can you explain this? I am all bewildered and confused.

WONDERING — DEAR WONDERING: I don't believe in spirits. Even though you've never been to Kansas City or met Agnes, perhaps Agnes has seen you as a picture of you, or perhaps she has seen you as a picture of my little brother. Don't worry about it. There is no evidence that spirits exist, much less leave the body and go to Kansas City.

DEAR ABBY: I am 14. My mother remarried two years ago. The problem is that before she remarried, she used to spank me for not doing my homework. As soon as she remarried she started spanking all her spare time with him. She is always sending us to the movies or the park, and she gets us out of the house as much as she can. My mother and my brother don't realize it, but my mother

Plan for strike obtains little trucker support

By United Press International
Spot checks in Pennsylvania confirmed today a statement by Gov. Milton J. Shapp Sunday night minimizing the prospect of another truckers' strike.
The work stoppage was called for by "Overdrive" magazine, the truckers' publication. Spokesmen for independent truckers also expressed doubt that a walkout would take place.
Pennsylvania State Police reported no sign of a trucking slowdown anywhere in the state. Checks of various truck stops indicated that trucks were rolling, although some traveled in convoys as a precaution. A trooper with a citizen's band radio said he overheard no positive allusions to a shutdown during conversations between drivers.

Men plunge over falls; search on

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (UPI) — Two men in a small motorboat plunged over Niagara's Horseshoe Falls as hundreds of weekend tourists and park officials watched helplessly from the banks. They were missing and presumed drowned.
"I was standing there watching and I couldn't do a sweet damn thing about it," said Niagara Ontario Parks Commission Constable Robert Harrison of the tragedy.
"It made me sick," said Wayne Farmer, a Niagara Falls, Ont., man who was fishing when the accident occurred Saturday. "I felt so helpless."
A park policeman said the search for the bodies was a visual one due to the water's currents.
"There are a number of whirlpools that could keep them under the falls or they could be miles away," he said. "It's just a question of waiting for the bodies to surface."
The 16-foot boat with a 40-horsepower motor drifted too close to the edge and got caught in the current. The thundering waters broke the boat apart and scattered pieces of it on both sides of the 200-foot falls. Police said only portions of the boat's hull, a pair of life preservers, a ski and gasoline cans were salvaged.
On Sunday two Americans reported missing were thought to be the victims. Niagara Frontier State Park Police said David Boyd, 29, Donald Walker, 19, both of Niagara Falls, N.Y., were seen on the Niagara River Saturday in a boat matching the description of the one that went over the falls.

RTA remains in legislative 'bullring'

SPRINGFIELD —The Regional Transit Authority (RTA) was still at center stage today as lawmakers returned to the capitol for this week's session.
But Gov. Daniel Walker's $7.88 billion budget proposal was waiting in the wings for what could be a stormy performance.
House Speaker W. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, is expected to try this week to pass his RTA amendments through the House. That legislation, as it stands now, would permit any of the six RTA counties in the Chicago area to "opt out" of the mass transit authority by a vote of the county board.
Last week, however, Blair said he will support a proposal by Rep. Giddy Dyer, R-Hinsdale, which would give voters in each RTA county a choice of staying in or leaving the authority in a November referendum.
Blair said he hopes other changes included in his proposal will convince voters in the RTA area that the authority can work to their benefit. If that happens, he said, they may choose to stay in the RTA. The speaker originally was one of the RTA's chief supporters. He changed his mind, however, when suburban voters, including most of his district, overwhelmingly rejected the authority at its March 19 referendum.
The budget picture also began to emerge into the spotlight with more clarity last week after nearly two months on the back burner.

The Senate Education Committee unanimously approved an amendment to Walker's education budget, raising by $70 million the amount of state aid to be provided public schools this coming year. Walker says the money is not needed.
The public advisory commission, said Walker's welfare budget for the coming fiscal year is about $100 million too low.
Moore said the commission will try to add that amount to the budget.
Walker has maintained for months that his budget cannot be expanded beyond the $7.88 billion he says is available. Last week he called friendly lawmakers into his office and had them pose for state-owned television cameras taking a pledge to support his efforts to hold down spending.

As a result, a bitter fight is expected on education and welfare appropriations as well as some other budget items.
On the Senate floor is a measure to provide $50 million in new money and $17 million in money transferred from unspent accounts to the fund from which welfare checks are drawn.
Gov. Daniel Walker has said his $1.44 billion welfare budget will not be enough to carry the state through June 30.
In the House, legislation is on the floor to provide $12.3 million more for the state's school districts. Walker has said the schools can probably get by without the extra money, but lawmakers from both parties say the state is bound to provide the money.
They say the state led school district budgetmakers to believe they could expect the money when the legislature approved and Walker signed a new school aid distribution plan last year.

The emergency subsidies affect just two of the areas in which Walker underestimated stated needs when he announced his fiscal 1974 budget more than a year ago. At the time, Walker boasted he had undercut his Republican predecessor's budget by $617 million. Meantime, Walker admits that budget savings has all but vanished.
Helmet burn
HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Motorcycle enthusiasts, among them members of groups like the "Hell's Angels," burned a helmet in the state capitol parking lot Sunday to protest a new law requiring them to wear the protective headgear.
The bikers, who came from all over the state, also burned the traffic tickets they got on their way into town for riding without helmets.

3 years later, Greeks don't remember Agnew

ATHENS (UPI) — The waiter at the Athens Hilton turned to the tall, tanned man sipping a drink at the hotel bar.
"There's a phone call for a Mr. Agnew," the waiter said. "You know who he is?"
"Yes," the man replied, putting down his drink. "That's me."
It was a far cry from 1971 when Spiro T. Agnew visited Greece as vice president, receiving a hero's welcome and a key to the city of Athens.
Agnew, son of a Greek barber, virtually was unnoticed Sunday when he returned to his ancestral homeland. There were no parades, no wreaths, none of the ceremonial trappings of his earlier visit.

"I am on business," Agnew told a newsman who approached him at the Hilton bar. Asked to elaborate, he said "private" and abruptly ended the conversation.
"He is on his own," a U.S. embassy spokesman said. "He did not make contact with us and we do not expect him to. He is just like any other visitor."
Agnew resigned as vice president last year, pleading no contest to a charge of income tax evasion in a Maryland kickback scandal.
He checked into a single room at the Athens Hilton, which assigned him a whole floor three years before to accommodate scores of American and Greek security agents.

Agnew appeared to be unnoticed Sunday as he strolled through the lobby and lunched at the hotel restaurant.
He did not say how long he would stay or whether he planned to visit his ancestral village of Gargalianoi in southern Greece. Agnew still has many relatives in Gargalianoi, where his father, Ted Anagnostopoulos, worked as a barber before emigrating to the United States.
His Greek friends and relatives expressed shock on hearing of his resignation but said they were still proud of him.
"He will always be welcome here," Gargalianoi Mayor Dionysios Panaghopoulos said at the time.
